HIS FIGHT FOR LIFE

Circumstantial Evidence May Convict Ben Ali.

THE TRIAL GROWS EXCITING.

A Platoon of Witnesses Testify in New York's "Jack the Ripper" Case.

They Were All Degraded Persons, but Told Their Stories Straight—The Prisoner Displays No Excitement—Inspector Byrnes Will Probably Give His Testimony This Afternoon.

NEW YORK, July 1.—A platoon of witnesses marched into the General Sessions, fired upon Ameer Ben Ali and fell back. They displayed the utmost precision and directness. None of them made any serious blunder. True, they came from the slums, and most of them admitted that they were old jailbirds. Will the jury believe their testimony? Perhaps. If a revolting crime is committed amid the most squalid surroundings, what witnesses can be brought forward other than the sodden creatures who frequent the scene of the crime?

It is too early to do any prophesying yet, but it is hard to believe that an intelligent jury will doom a man to death on the testimony of such degraded persons.

Frenchy Not Excited.

Throughout the long drawn proceedings the prisoner never ceased to watch everything that was going on. He observed each witness' face as earnestly and composedly as a man studies handwriting. He must have understood much of what the witnesses were saying, yet neither fear, nor hate, nor rage moved him as he gazed at the men and women whose words, if believed, will send him to awful death.

Circumstantial Evidence.

The chain of circumstantial evidence had another link rivited in it by Mrs. Sullivan's testimony. She unwittingly but vividly painted the life of poor old Shakespeare. The wretched old woman hadn't eaten anything for two or three days.

The Sullivan woman had only 35 cents, but they went into a saloon and got a glass of beer. Here they ate the free lunch of corned beef and cold slaw, a pickle, bread, and finally, at Alice Sullivan's treat, a cheese sandwich each.

Science finds all these in the blood under Frenchy's finger nails.

The witnesses for the day were: Eddie Fitzgerald, who can't write unless somebody spells for him. He rehearsed the letting of room No. 33 to Frenchy.

Samuel Shine, the bartender, once an operative of a knitting machine, told how Frenchy had slept in the house the night previous to the one on which the murder occurred.

Dr. William R. Jenkins minutely described the wound seen by him at the autopsy on "Old Shakespeare," and declared that her death was by strangulation.

Detective George Alouele told how he discovered the lie of "Frenchy's" circumstantial story about getting blood-stained in Jamaica.

Mary Ann Lopez told how she identified Frenchy in the station house as the man who had bitten her arm in attempting to rob her of a dollar.

David Gilloway, Edward Smith and Theodore Miller swore to having seen a knife in French's hands similar to that held by the assistant district-attorney.

Inspector Byrnes will probably be called to the stand this afternoon and may spring a surprise on the defence.

The Recorder ruled out all evidence regarding the knife found under the murdered woman.

MANAGER HILL IN TROUBLE.

Conflicting Reports About His Failure—An Explanation of the Affair.

BOSTON, July 1.—J. M. Hill, the well known theatrical manager of New York and Boston, has failed. Several attachments have been placed upon his property here. Several enterprises which have not turned out as profitable as was hoped for is said to be the cause of the failure. There are many rumors in regard to the assets, but nothing definite can be learned. Several hazard the opinion that he will not be able to pay more than five cents on the dollar.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The report which came here from Boston that J. M. Hill, the well known theatrical manager, had failed, is said here to be untrue. An explanation of the affair in Boston was, however, given. It seems that Hill, in addition to his theatrical interests, has recently started a restaurant in Boston. This, it is said, did not pay, and a week since he was compelled to raise, by a mortgage of $59,000 on his two New York theatres, money to take an attachment off his Boston restaurant.

His small creditors are now beginning to press him, but he is having no difficulty, it is said, in meeting their demands. His large creditors are not bothering him. In addition to his poor investment in Boston, Mr. Hill is said to have endorsed largely for a friend, who has now gone back on him, and he must meet the notes.

Mr. Hill is at the Hotel Imperial. He sent word down that he was tired, but stated that he would be out of the woods and have all his debts paid by next January.

Two of the Escaped Convicts Captured.

BOSTON, July 1.—Daniel Mullan and James H. Coffey, two of the prisoners who escaped from the Charlestown prison, were captured in the house at 41 Lowell street. They made an attempt at resistance, but were quickly subdued and returned to prison. Two young women were found in their company and they were arrested, charged with aiding the prisoners to escape. Lynch is still at large, and his friends say he will never be taken alive.

CHEERED PRINCE GEORGE.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Prince George, the stalwart son of the King of Greece, reached this city last night. He arrived from San Francisco on his way home from a trip around the world.

While the Prince employs the title of Count Falster, by order of his father, his gallant rescue of the Czar's eldest son from death at the hands of a frenzied Japanese has given the young man so much notoriety that this means that an incognito has not been effective.

His arrival was greeted by a thousand Greek residents of this city. They met him at the depot and cheered themselves hoarse.

As the Prince neared the crowd, which filled every part of the depot, a child ran out with a flag and handed it to him. He took the flag, raised his hat and another shout shook the building.

"Yeo ho, Prinzips Giorgios."

With bared head the Prince walked rapidly through the opening made by the police, his stalwart and youthful form in a light suit standing out in strong contrast with the slight figures of the committeemen, who were all in evening dress. He stepped into the first carriage with Mr. Gregor and was hurriedly driven to the Brevoort House.

Wine was served in the Prince's rooms and he retired early. To-day he is seeing the city.

IRON MILLS SHUT DOWN.

All the Mahoning Operators Refuse to Sign the Scale.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—The conference of the Amalgamated Association and iron manufacturers is being conducted to-day. Four firms have signed the scale. They are Brown & Co. of the Wayne Iron Works, the Anderson Iron Company of Indiana, the American Wire Company of Cleveland and the Whittaker Iron Company at Wheeling. The Pittsburg firms are still objecting to the nine-hour clause.

The scale has been refused by all the mill operators in Mahoning Valley. They shut down indefinitely last night.

The Catasaqua Manufacturing Company at Catasaqua refused to sign and shut down the mill at midnight Over 1,000 men are thrown out of work. This mill has been non-union for 25 years.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—After a long conference the Iron Manufacturers' Committee of the Western District signed the western iron scale of the Amalgamated Association for the year which begins to-morrow.

LOST IN THE MOUNTAINS.

A Searching Party Scouring the Adirondacks for a Railroad Employe.

SARANAC INN, N. Y., July 1.—A man by the name of Samuel Myers, who is employed by the new Adirondack & St. Lawrence Railroad Company, one of whose camps is three miles from Saranac Inn, went away from the camp for a little stroll on last Sunday afternoon about three o'clock and has not been heard from since.

Mr. J. W. Whalen, superintendent of the work, has had 25 to 50 men and several experienced guides searching the woods for Myers, but up to this time no trace has been found of him.

As this is the very heart of the Adirondack wilderness, it is almost an impossibility to find any trace of him.

If the search party do not have any success to-night, the force will be increased to 150 men.

The railroad company are doing all in their power to find Myers.

He is well known and has a brother in Rutland, Vt., who has been notified of his disappearance.

High Living Ruined Him.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 1.—Cæsar Cesana, who is in jail awaiting trial on the charge of embezzlement, has refused to partake of food since he was arrested in New York a week ago. He was formerly an insurance agent in North Adams, but high living ruined him. He declares that he will never enter a court room and refuses to see a doctor. The jail authorities claim not to be anxious about him.

The Larbig Tragedy.

BROOKLYN, July 1.—The latest development in the Larbig tragedy is that Theodore Larbig, who was killed by Darwin J. Mescrole, was heavily insured. It is said that some time time ago Larbig had his life insured for $15,000 in favor of Miss Dovie Forney Comstock, who is now in jail as an accessory to the crime. The woman herself is authority for that statement.

Summoned to Washington.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 1.—Gov. Bulkeley has been summoned to Washington as a witness in the appeal case of Gray vs. the State of Connecticut. Some of Mr. Bulkeley's friends claim that he will testify as Governor, and that this summons is a quasi-recognition of his title to that office by the United States Supreme Court.

Death from Over-Exertion.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 1.—James H. Brilly, aged 15, died last evening from the effects of over-exertion in an athletic contest at Wappingers Falls.

THOUSANDS KILLED

Terrible Scenes of Slaughter Along the African Coast.

SAVAGES RAID THE VILLAGES.

They Hold Sacrifice Feasts and Murder Their Prisoners.

Two Hundred Victims in One Day Killed at Coomassie—The Chiefs Unable to Dispose of Their Captives as Slaves—Revival of the Old Form of Bloodshed—The Death Drum Heard Daily.

LONDON, July 1.—Advices just received from Sierra Leone say that the vigilant suppression of the slave trade along the coast and the consequent inability of the warlike races to dispose of their captives at a profit has caused a revival in the most terrible form of the scenes of slaughter and bloodshed which formerly made every chief town of the interior a Golgotha.

Coomassie, it is said, has again witnessed the killing of as many as 200 victims in one day, and the death drum is heard in the streets even more frequently than before the British Ashantee expedition, which it was hoped such scenes were put to an end forever.

The savage Wangarus recently made a raid into Dagomba, completely devastating the villages, and carrying off over 2,000 captives. They were unable to get rid of the prisoners as slaves, and held a sacrifice feast, which lasted three days, in which every captive perished, not even children being spared.

It is universally admitted in the settlements that the approaching extinction of the slave trade in Western Africa is making warfare more merciless than it used to be.

LOOKING FOR POISON.

McHenry's Life Was Insured for Over Five Million Dollars.

LONDON, July 1.—It appears that the exhumation of McHenry's body, with a view to examination for poison, was done for the reason that McHenry's life was insured for over $5,000,000 in various companies in England and America. The companies, or some of them, suspect suicide by poison, which would void the policies.

It was intended to conceal the fact of the exhumation, at least until after the result of the analysis of the stomach was ascertained, and to keep the secret forever, should no poison be discovered. The analysis will be completed about the end of the week.

The friends of McHenry scout the idea of suicide, and are indignant at the publicity given to the case.

INCREASE IN FAILURES.

This Year Showing Up Badly in Comparison With 1890.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The business failures for the first six months of the present year are reported by R. G. Dun & Co. to number 6,074, as against 5,885 in the same period of 1890.

The increase of 689 failures is unusually large. The extent of the liabilities is also excessive. The amount owed by the parties who have failed in 1891 foots up to $92,000,000, while for the same period in 1890 they were only $65,000,000, indicating an increase in liabilities of $27,000,000.

Notwithstanding the extreme extent of these casualties and other adverse circumstances, the reports from all portions of the country indicate a fairly healthy condition of trade, and excellent prospects in view of the large increase of wealth from growing crops and active industrial enterprises.

Four Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

WHITE HAVEN, Pa., July 1.—A disastrous explosion occurred on the Central Railroad of New Jersey near Nesquehoning Junction, by which four men were instantly killed. Yard engine No. 235 was shifting freight and had just passed out of the yard when the boiler exploded. The locomotive was totally wrecked, the boiler being blown three hundred feet up the mountain side. The names of the killed are: Engineer Thomas Trip, Mauch Chunk; Fireman J. Pope, Linaford; Brakeman Gallagher, Mauch Chunk; Brakeman Smith, Mauch Chunk.

1,000 Men Strike.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 1.—The 1,000 employes at the Pottsville Steel and Iron Company's works struck at midnight because William Atkins, president of the company, refused to sign the Western scale of wages.

Horses Down With the Grip.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 1.—Half the horses in town are down with the grip. Many have already died. A "transportation famine" is threatened.

Dr. Spurgeon is Better.

LONDON, July 1.—The Rev. Dr. Spurgeon is better.

DESPERATE FIGHT.

Over a Thousand Shots Fired by White and Negro Coal Miners.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 1.—The outlook at the Franklin coal mines is still threatening and Col. Haynes has wired here for another company of militia, to report at once, and bring ammunition for a week's service. Porter Robinson, one of the mine bosses, was brought to the city yesterday, charged with killing Tom Morris and E. J. Williams, leaders of Sunday's riot.

The guards say when the train was pulled into Franklin the negro workmen were fired upon by white miners. The negroes went wild and could not be restrained by the guards. Securing their arms they fired volley after volley and only ceased when they white miners dispersed. Over a thousand shots were exchanged.

Barry Knocked Out—Jones.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 1.—At 6 a. m. about 100 sports from Philadelphia and the eastern part of the State gathered around a prize ring pitched in Cambria county in which David Barry, a graduate of the London Pelican Club, and William Jones, colored, of Philadelphia fought for $200 and receipts. Jones lasted three rounds, and was tumbled into a helpless knot with a blow over the heart. Two-ounce gloves were used.

More Earthquake Shocks in Italy.

ROME, July 1.—At Verona last night the inhabitants were thrown into a state of the wildest excitement because of earthquake shocks. Many persons rushed out of their houses and fled to adjoining fields, fearing their dwellings were upon the point of falling. Houses were so shaken that the walls collapsed. In others, chimneys fell through roofs and large cracks appeared in the walls.

Pigeon Shoot for $1,000.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 1.—A big live pigeon shooting match will take place to-morrow for $1,000—twenty-five birds each man. The shooters entered are: Edgar G. Murphy, Dr. Gideon Knapp, Charles Floyd Jones, Walter Murphy, Fred Hoey, Capt. Money, Walter Smith, William Kent, H. Williams, Yale Dolan. All the men are crack shots.

Match Escaped to Buenos Ayres.

BOSTON, July 1.—It has been learned that Clark W. Hatch, who disappeared before papers could be served on him in behalf of the Travelers' Insurance Company after the case of the Mechanics' National Bank of Worcester fell through, proceeded directly to Halifax, from which port he took passage to Buenos Ayres.

Bank Failures to be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Comptroller Lacey has sent a communication to Receiver Yardley, of the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, enclosing a communication to Mayor Stuart, which is the first notification that the Government is going to take action in the affairs of the Keystone and Spring Garden National banks. A rigid examination is to be made by the Government.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

A Large Number of Clerks Fear Dismissal To-Day.

IN A STATE OF EXPECTANCY.

Several Discharges Have Been Made by Commissioner Raum.

The Weather Bureau Transferred To-day —Knights of Labor Opposed by the Federation Before Secretary Foster—Senator Ingalls Makes His Debut as a Lecturer—The President's Vacation.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A great many discharges, new appointments and promotions were made to-day in the various government departments to mark the incoming of a new fiscal year. Employes generally have been in a state of excitement and fear for several weeks, but many of them will not hear of their good or ill fortune until the numerous orders dated July 1 are made public.

Commissioner of Pensions Raum, who has been conducting a quiet investigation of his own since the discovery of his son's action as Assistant Chief Clerk of the Pension Bureau, let fall his axe to-day, and the heads of several clerks fell in his basket.

THE WEATHER BUREAU.

Prof. Harrington Succeeds Gen. Greely as Its Chief To-Day.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The formal transfer of the Weather Bureau from the War Department to the Agricultural Department, under an act of the last Congress, took place to-day. Gen. Greeley relinquishes the duties of chief of the bureau.

The first official act under the new disposition was the the appointment of the new chief, Prof. Mark W. Harrington of Michigan. He has been for the past 12 years professor of astronomy in the University of Michigan and is regarded as an accomplished student of meteorology and climatic problems.

LABOR UNIONS AT WAR.

The Federation Takes a Hand in the Dispute Before Secretary Foster.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Hugh Cavanaugh of Cincinnati, and John Devlin of the executive board of the Knights of Labor, had a conference with Secretary Foster about the re-appointment of seven plate printers recently removed by Col. Meredith, Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Arrangements were progressing for a settlement of all differences when a delegation representing the Federation of Labor, a rival order, called at the Treasury Department and asked for a hearing before any agreement was made with the Knights. The Federation representatives were admitted and at once objected strenuously to any concession being made to the Knights which should put their men ahead of members of the Federation already on the "chance" list of the bureau and awaiting employment.

This new complication of the case made any further agreement impossible, and the Secretary was compelled to leave the question pending until the labor organizations can settle the inside fight among themselves.

T. V. Powderly did not call on Secretary Foster.

INGALLS AS A LECTURER.

The Ex-Senator Makes His Debut as Glen Echo.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—For the first time since he left public life Senator Ingalls appeared in public last evening, making his debut as a lecturer upon the stage of the amphitheatre of the National Chautauqua at Glen Echo, near this city.

His talk was on the "Problems of the Second Century," and he was listened to by a large audience.

He paid his respects to those persons who want money to be as free as the leaves in the forest in the autumn, and who are so anxious to have Congress pay their debts.

He deprecated the state of affairs which made it possible for 30,000 people to control one-half of all the accumulated wealth of the country, but he evidently did not see how this was to be helped. He said that if all the wealth was divided so that each person received his per capita per year in six months some would be riding in palace cars and some in baggage cars; some would be on foot and others would be sitting in the fence corners watching the procession go by.

He said that no legislation in the world could change the distinctions which exist between men, and added that if some people were rich and others were poor the fault lay with the Creator.

Reciprocity With Venezuela.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Department of State has received a telegram from the United States Minister at Caracas, conveying the information that the Congress of Venezuela has responded favorably to the reciprocity provision of the tariff act of 1890 of the Congress of the United States, and has conferred upon the President of Venezuela full authority to enter with the President of the United States upon a commercial arrangement, and put it in operation without further delay.

Betrothed to a Maid of Honor.

BUCHAREST, July 1.—The betrothal of Prince Ferdinand, the youthful ruler of Bulgaria, to Mlle. Helene Bratianano, is causing a sensation. The lady is one of the maids of honor of the Queen of Roumania.

Sudden Death of a District-Attorney.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—Richard Johnston, district-attorney of Allegheny County and a brilliant young lawyer, died suddenly at 6 a. m.

THE MISSOURI FLOODS.

All Danger Is Over but Farm Houses Are Still Surrounded by Water.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 1.—The flood in the Missouri River reached its highest stage at 6 o'clock, when it registered 20 feet and two inches above low water mark. The water is now falling at the rate of an inch an hour, and all apprehension of further danger is set at rest.

Parts of Kansas City, Kan., are still submerged by the back water, but only the houses of squatters in the low lands have been badly damaged. Various industries in the bottoms have been seriously inconvenienced.

Harlem, the village across the river, which was flooded yesterday, is still under water, but no further damage has been done.

A special from Atchison, Kan., says: The house of Pleasant Little of Doniphan Point went into the river with its contents yesterday afternoon. The house was occupied by John McQueen and his family. Little boarded with them. They had vacated the house a few hours before it fell, taking refuge in the mainland. Little escaped with McQueen's family, but has not been seen since, and it is feared that he returned to the house and was lost with it.

Between Atchison and Rushville the Hannibal & St. Jo and Kansas City, St. Jo & Council Bluffs tracks are covered with water in several places. Between Rushville and the river not less than 25 farm houses are surrounded by water and the farmers are out in boats trying to rescue stacks of wheat that are yet above water.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Young Weaver at Lawrence Kills His Sweetheart and Himself.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 1.—A terrible tragedy occurred in Union street at 7 a. m. John Rausch, aged 24, called Maria Burckett, aged 18 years, from the Everett Mills, where she was employed, and after a few words shot her through the heart, killing her instantly. Rausch then shot and killed himself, putting a bullet through his head.

Miss Burckett was Rausch's sweetheart. They have kept company for about two years, but Rausch became impressed with the idea that his affection was not fully reciprocated.

The bodies of both were taken to No. 2 Engine House, where they were viewed by the medical examiners.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

George Francis Train sails for New York from Liverpool on the Majestic to-day.

The Cedar Hill Seminary buildings at Mt. Joy, Pa., were burned early in the morning. Loss, $5,000; insurance small.

Weiner's Brewery and the Laboratory of Weiner's Medicine Company at Ushers, N. Y., were destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss, $20,000.

Queen Victoria has conferred the dignity of the peerage upon Lady Macdonald, widow of Sir John Macdonald, late Premier of Canada.

Secretary Noble has appointed Hon. Oliver P. Hallam of Nashville, Ill., to be Assistant Chief Clerk of the Pension Office, vice Green B. Raum, jr., resigned.

THE DAILY PRESS.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—How to prepare for the 4th—first come to Peck's.

—The grocery stores will be closed all day of Saturday, July 4.

—James O'Beilley, of Pennsylvania, was found lying intoxicated on the street in this city yesterday. Judge Codington this morning fined him $5.

—A man captured by constable Mattox for stealing a ride on a freight train this morning said he had missed a passenger train and had had to jump a freight. He showed a ticket and was permitted to go on.

—James B. Heath, the butcher who got his hand caught on a meat hook, some days ago, as told of in these columns at the time, has just received $20 indemnity from the Fidelity and Casualty accident company through its agent ex-Councilman Wilbur of this city.

—Two more men were captured for trespassing on coal trains this morning. They said they had paid their fare to the head brakeman. Rather than take the trouble to hunt up the brakeman to deny the report the court suspended sentence and ordered the fellows out of town.

—The Baptists have made arrangements to go to Belmar Friday, in case to-morrow should be stormy. But if to-morrow is clear (as it probably will be) two big train loads of people will leave the North avenue station at 8 o'clock and all will have a big day at the shore.

—Manager Pucci, of the Postal Telegraph Company, announce that all messages received at the newly opened branch office, 49 North avenue, will be sent direct from that office with the same promptness, accuracy, and reliability that characterizes the service at the main station on Park avenue.

—Several of the new locomotives received lately by the Central Railroad of New Jersey are in use on the express trains from New York to Asbury Park. The next outlay the Central makes should be for half a dozen or more decent smoking cars which gentlemen can inhabit without a shiver of repugnance.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

—An outdoor picnic will be held by Plainfield Engine Company, No. 2, at Eureka Grove, Evona, Friday afternoon and evening. There will be music by Roger's orchestra, and merriment and fun galore. The committee of arrangements is composed of A. T. Marsh, F. Hand, C. Newman, W. S. Marsh, H. Connett, P. McCourt, N. Meyers, R. Eick and W. Wilson.

—A little Putnam avenue girl who is just learning to read short words takes great interest in the big letters she sees in the advertising columns of THE PRESS. The other evening, after she had kept her mamma busy reading the advertisements to her, she knelt down to say her prayers. "Lord,"—she lisped—"make me pure!"—Then she hesitated and went on, with added fervor, a moment later—"Make me absolutely pure, like baking powder!"

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Sarah G. Dunn, of East Seventh street, will spend July, August and September at Circleville, Orange county, N.Y.

The family of S. P. Dunn, of East Seventh street, leave town this week for a summer among the hills of Passaic, at Newfoundland, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. E. See, with their son, Chester Stout See, left town to-day for Bradley Beach, N. J., where they will remain until Sept. 1.

The Hon James J. Bergen, Speaker of the last Assembly, and the best presiding officer the Legislature of New Jersey ever knew, made a long social call at THE PRESS office, this afternoon.

Miss Eleanor T. Morrison, and master Willie Morrison, of Mountain avenue, have been cruising about Raritan Bay and Staten Island Sound, with a party of New Brunswick friends, in a naptha launch.

F. C. Langhorne registered at the Atalanta hotel, Asbury Park, where his wife and daughters are stopping, a day or two ago. He wrote his name so plainly that the local newspapers publish it in the list of arrivals as F. C. Laughruse.

The "Whatsoever Circle", with the "Christian Endeavorers" of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will hold a lawn party at the residence of Mrs. W. S. Lowry, 124 Madison avenue, to-morrow afternoon and evening. If the weather should be stormy the affair will be held in the chapel of the church.

Senator McPherson, of New Jersey, owns and is now away enjoying one of the finest salmon streams in Canada, the Notechasquan, which is reputed to be alive with gamey fish. The Senator's angling outfit is of irreproachable excellence—in fact, the Senator himself believes it to be the finest in America. It is on a par with his provisions for entertainment in the backwoods, which embrace everything procurable in the way of edible and potable delicacies.

An "Amateur Product" of 2,500 Eggs From 14 Hens.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Can any of your readers' henneries equal or exceed the yield of 2,500 eggs from 14 hens, during the past 12 months? This has been the year's product of an amateur on East Second street. A.

HYMENEAL.

Scribner—Vail.

The wedding of Miss Helen Eliza Vail, daughter of Mahlon Vail of Park avenue, to Charles Walter Scribner, Professor of Mechanical Engineering at the Iowa State Agricultural College, Ames, Iowa, took place in Grace Protestant Episcopal church last evening. It was a very pretty event. The service was a choral one, the full surpliced choir of the church rendering the music. The Rev. E. M. Bodman performed the ceremony, and the bride was given away by her father.

The costume of the bride was of white silk, with Medici collar, tulle vail, and long train. The maids of honor were Miss Agnes Vail, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Lee Myers, both of whom wore handsome costumes of lavender silk, trimmed with chiffon. The bride and the maids of honor carried bouquets of roses and sweet pea blossoms.

Henry S. Scribner, Professor of Greek at the Western University of Pennsylvania, Allegheny, was best man. The ushers were Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, Joseph Lawrence Myers, and Frederick Moore, of Plainfield, Arthur H. Scribner of New York, George Henderson of Philadelphia, and George Herbert Boyle of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Hyde—Emory.

At the home of the bride's parents in Titusville, Pa., yesterday, took place the wedding of Miss Verona Emory, daughter of Senator Emory, to Louis K. Hyde, son of Charles Hyde, the East Front street millionaire banker. The ceremony was attended by the immediate relatives of the groom from this city.

MR. BOWEN'S FOURTH OF JULY.

Senators Hawley and Aldrich and Congressman McKinley Will Celebrate It.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated at Roseland Park, Woodstock, Conn., the home of the father of Henry E. Bowen, of this city, in the same manner as in previous years. The list of speakers contains many distinguished names. Congressman Russell of Connecticut will welcome his constituents and the visitors from abroad. Then Senator Hawley will make an address as President of the day. After prayer and the singing of "America," Postmaster-General Wanamaker will make an address. He will be followed by Major-Gen. O. O. Howard, who will speak on "Independence Day," after which a poem by Maurice Thompson will be read, entitled "An American Boy."

In the afternoon Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island will speak on "The Industrial Future of New England." The Hon. William McKinley, on the topic of "National Strength," will discuss the tariff. Murat Halstead will have the topic, "The Preservation of the People's Inheritance," and David Gregg, D. D., Dr. Cuyler's successor in Brooklyn, and lately pastor of the Park Street church, Boston, will speak on "Loyalty to Americanism."

Married and Sailed for Home.

The marriage took place this morning at 9:15 o'clock, of Miss Hulda Nordberg and Albert H. Enander, and at noon to-day they sailed by the steamer Teutonic for Europe.

The bride is a native of Sweden and her wedding trip is to her former home in Stockholm. For the past five years she has been an inmate of the family of Charles W. McCutchen, of Washington Park. The groom is also a Swede by birth. He is a member of the firm of Tobin, Enander & Co., plumbers, of this city.

The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's father in Dunellen. The Rev. Mr. Martine officiated. After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Enander left for the steamer. They will be gone about two months. Among the guests present from this city were, Geo. Tobin, the senior member of the groom's firm, Wm. Addis, the manager of the business, and Mrs. Addis.

Now Plainfield Has a Hose Wagon as Is a Hose Wagon.

Joseph Moore, foreman of Alert Hose Company, with J. E. Turrill and Charles Fisk, were the committee who went to Newark yesterday to bring to Plainfield the brand-new $500 hose wagon of which THE PRESS has told. They were accompanied by M. A. Higgins and J. Erwin Waters. The wagon reached town some time after nine, and the clanging of its bell awakened early sleepers. Such a fine modern wagon and loud-voiced bell aroused even Westfield from its slumbers, and the entire department of that place turned out, thinking there was a fire.

Vice Grand—Lewis H. Brown.
Recording Secretary—Rudolph Kersting.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

SOON COMES THE CRESCENT'S RUB.

Westfield Has Beaten Somerville, and Is Thirsting for Gore.

Westfield's base-ball team points with pride to its record of ten straight victories, and, having defeated Somerville, is sure it will be an easy matter to give the Plainfield Crescents an humiliating drubbing.

Of the hundred or more Plainfielders who went to Westfield and saw the West Ends beaten there are many who think that the umpire was the most important man on the Westfield team. His calling of strikes was greatly criticized. It was a great game, anyhow, whether the umpire robbed the West Ends or not. It would have made green with envy some of the fellows who could n't find the ball at a recent game where Harkins pitched, to see the Westfield players bang the ball all around the lot. In one inning the Westfielders made five single hits and two two-baggers, and scored six runs. The Somervilles hit the ball too, but the Westfielders managed to pull down eight flies that promised big results. With the umpire's assistance Hammill, the Westfield pitcher, struck out nine men, three of them in succession. Harkins struck out only two. Somerville's hits and runs were scattered. The game was practically errorless. A feature of the constant wrangling of the game was Carbonell's throwing the ball at the umpire's head and missing it. The teams played as follows:

SOMERVILLE.		WESTFIELD.
Harkins	pitcher	Hammill
Kennedy	catcher	McMannus
Roberts	first base	Diven
Farrell	second base	McCabe
Moorhead	short stop	Howe
Heiser	third base	Mullen
Davenport	right field	McLaughlin
Carbonell	centre field	Leves

MR. KYTE IN A QUANDARY.

He Does 'nt Know Whether to Sue the Wind or Abner for a Lot of Misappropriated Macadam.

Last Monday the Hon. Geo. Kyte, of Fanwood, ordered several loads of fine crushed stone deposited upon the south sidewalk of North avenue, in his town. The stone was delivered late in the day, but Tuesday morning when the laborers appeared on the ground ready to spread it along the walk it had in some unaccountable manner, disappeared, and was found on the north side.

It is rumored that a certain resident of Fanwood told Abner P. Downer he could use the stone on his walk, providing he hauled it after his return from New York in the evening, and provided also that he (Downer) would distribute half of it on the walk in front of the residence of the gentleman giving the permission. Both of these gentlemen live upon the north side of the avenue, where the missing stone was found. They claim, however, that owing to the strong south wind which prevailed Monday night, and the stone being so fine, it must have been wafted over on the beeze. Mr. Kyte is in a quandary.

Wheelmen Planning for Coming Events.

At a quarterly meeting of the New Jersey Division, League of American Wheelmen, held at Elizabeth Monday evening, at which Captain Frank L. C. Martin of this city was present, the question of running the State championship races was discussed, and it was decided that they should be run at a race meet to be given under the auspices of the Asbury Park Wheelmen, probably on July 11.

A call was circulated for signatures for a constitutional convention and business meeting of the League to be held at Hartford, Conn., September 7 and 8. The call gives the purposes as follows:

"The convention to consider amendments to the constitution and bylaws in regard (1) to the amateur question, (2) the powers and duties of the several officers and committees of the league, and (3) cycle racing.

"And the business meeting to consider the question of the policy of a union between the league and any other association for any purpose whatever, and in this connection to revise the by-laws and amend them in conformity to the constitution as it may have been changed in the convention."

Treasurer Pennell reported a balance on hand of $223 90, left over the year's expenses of $1,816 11.

Easily made. A cheap and delicious drink for 25 cents can be made from Hires's Root Beer Packages. Five gallons. Be careful that you get the real, genuine Hires's. There are a number of would-be Root Beer packages on the market.

Fourth of July Excursions on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In pursuance of the usual custom, the Pennsylvania Railroad company will sell excursion tickets for the Fourth of July holiday between all stations on its system east of Pittsburg and Erie, at a rate of two cents per mile.

The tickets will be sold on July 3 and 4, and will be valid for return until July 7, 1891, inclusive.

I HAVE had cancers for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Change in the Lorillard Company.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Official announcement is made that the property and business of P. Lorillard & Co., the tobacco manufacturers, has been turned over to a stock company, with a capital of $5,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be preferred stock, entitled to 8 per cent. cumulative dividends and $3,000,000 common stock. The directors for the first year are Pierre Lorillard, Pierre Lorillard, jr., George D. Finlay, Ethan Allen and George F. Crane.

The White Caps in Court.

WEST MEDWAY, Mass., July 1.—John F. Welch, Michael Rheany, John Henry, Peter Gallagher and Charles F. Gormley, the White Caps charged with assaulting Herbert N. Frank and coating him with tar, were in court during the day, but the case was adjourned until July 7, the prosecution not being ready.

World's Fair Commissioners.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—Herbert Welsh of Philadelphia having declined to serve as a member of the World's Fair Commission, Gov. Pattison appointed Col. Wm. Hasson of Oil City in his stead. William H. Barnes of Pittsburg was appointed a member of the same commission, vice Robert Pitcairn, also declined.

The Hudson River Tunnel.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The stockholders of the Hudson River Tunnel Company have decided to issue bonds to the amount of $25,000,000 in denominations of $1,000 for the purpose of retiring outstanding mortgages and for the completion of the work.

Archbishop Tache Dying.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 1.—Archbishop Tache, who for two decades has been the head of the Roman Catholic church in the Canadian Northwest and the foremost Canadian prelate, is lying at the point of death. His recovery is believed to be impossible.

Doane's Crooked Transactions.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 1.—It is now thought that the amount of J. H. J. Doane's marked transactions will amount to $15,000, but the banks decline to give the several amounts held. Doane is believed to have sailed for Europe.

Chinese Smugglers Caught.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A dispatch from Victoria, B. C., says that the Custom House officials have seized the sloop Flora, of Seattle, loaded with Chinamen preparing to be smuggled across the straits. A fine of $400 was imposed.

The President's Trip to Cape May.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The President will leave Washington either Friday or Saturday for Cape May. Unless urgent business calls him to Washington he will remain at Cape May continuously for a month or six weeks.

National Convention of Postal Clerks.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The National Executive Committee of Postoffice Clerks has issued a call for a national convention to be held in Pittsburg, Sept. 7.

STRIKING OFFICIALS FROM HUDSON.

Freeholder Vanderbeck, Boiling With Indignation, Bursts Into Poetry.

The Freeholders of Union county have had a sample of the rapacity of Hudson county politicians during the last few days, as represented by the Board of Freeholders. Applications for licenses to build docks had been made to the Union county board by George P. Wetmore, the Mechanics' Land and Building Company, the Bayonne Improvement Company, Frank H. Lindner, and Solon Humphrey. All the applications except Wetmore's were for privileges on the shores of New York Bay, in Hudson county.

Four meetings of the joint committees of the two boards of Union and Hudson counties were held, but the Hudson county men kept delaying action. It has since been charged that the delay was in order to make the applicants pay high for the privilege. It is rumored that $4,500 was demanded for unanimous action and that this demand was afterward reduced to $3,000.

The Hudson county committee went to Elizabeth, Monday, and, locking themselves up in a room at the Sheridan House, refused to enter the Court House, where the Union county men were awaiting their arrival. They remained in the hotel over four hours and finally drove off, leaving the other committee in the Court House.

Director Hubbard of this city denounces in strong language the action of the Hudson county gang, and Freeholder Vanderbeck, who is a member of the Union county delegation, after speaking in no complimentary terms of the visitors, sat himself down in a corner and, taking a pencil from his pocket, wrote the following lines on the back of a small pamphlet which lay before him:

From Hudson county we heard a howl
About a Commissioner on Docks,
But not having heard from Lord Abbett
They waited down on the stocks.

At last their lackey arrived in Port,
They had to wet up for the fray,
And so by dallying in festive sport,
They kept Union county at bay.

If Union men were not gentlemen bred,
They would have adjourned sine die,
And left the miserable herd
To root hog or die.

A Pleasant Evening With "Temple Builders".

The "Temple Builders", a branch organization of the Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Baptist church, gave a sociable last evening in the Church parlors, at which time Mrs. Lucy E. Bainbridge, of the New York mission, gave a very interesting talk on "Darkest New York."

Following a most enjoyable piano solo by W. E. MacClymont, Mrs. Bainbridge was introduced by David Lenox in a brief and appropriate speech. After Mrs. Bainbridge had finished her interesting discourse, Miss Rocap read a piece entitled the "Whistling Regiment." During the reading at the words "I will lay me down and die", they were whistled by Mr. Bigelow and Mr. MacClymont, instead of being recited. During the piece a quartiete composed of L. H. Bigelow, Jr., first tenor; Samuel McCutchen, second tenor; W. E. MacClymont, first bass and B. T. Barnes, second bass, sang "Annie Laurie."

Refreshments were subsequently served, and thus closed a very delightful time with the young missionaries.

The Glorious Fourth in the Suburbs.

Even New Market puts Plainfield to shame by arranging a fine programme in celebration of the Fourth. There will be athletic sports in the afternoon and fireworks in the evening, under the auspices of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

The programme will be as follows, commencing at 1 o'clock: Reading of the Declaration of Independence, swimming race, tub races, sack race, potato race, obstacle race, running high jump, wheelbarrow race (blindfold), tug-of-war, three legged race, 100-yard running race.

The games will be open to all comers. A handsome prize or medal, which will be on exhibition at ——'s pharmacy to-morrow, will be awarded the winner of each contest.

Judgment for Mr. Lyman.

Charles H. Lyman, the hustling young real estate broker of this city, sued Lew Hetfield in Justice Nash's court, yesterday, for $187.50 commission, being five per cent on a five years lease of the store at 28 West Front street, rented to J. C. Allen at $750 per annum. Borough Attorney Charles A. Reed appeared for the plaintiff, and Councilman Walter L. Hetfield for the defendant, his father. There seemed to be no desire on the part of Mr. Hetfield to deny that a commission was due, but he claimed that it was not due Mr. Lyman. Justice Nash, however, decided that it was, and gave the latter judgment for the full amount. Mr. Hetfield gave notice of appeal to a higher court.

Royally Entertained Afloat and Ashore.

J. Herbert Johnston, of this city, has had as guests on board his yacht "Presto", John R. Moore, Treasurer of the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, and Wm. H. Smidt, a Commissioner of this State. The party left New York Saturday morning and sailed up the Hudson to Nyack, where they were entertained on Sunday by Mrs. Smidt at her beautiful Summer residence. The gentlemen returned Monday morning on the yacht, reaching the city before noon after a delightful and exciting sail down the river.

WILL HORACE VAN NEST BE PARDONED?

He and Others Laboring for Release from State Prison Walls.

Considerable extra work is imposed on the Court of Pardons by the new law authorizing it to grant tickets-of-leave to convicts in the prisons of the State. The big State institution contains close to a thousand prisoners, and fully one-third of them are seeking their release, now that a way of getting out—without breaking out—has been established. The prisoner's application to the court for parole must show, among other things, that somebody in the State will employ the convict as soon as he is set free, and that the convict will obey the rule which requires him to report to the authorities periodically concerning his whereabouts, condition, and behavior.

Almost any prisoner can get somebody to say he will employ him, and every one of them, without exception, will promise to report to the authorities faithfully, and these being among the main essentials to procure freedom every convict imagines his chances for release to be good. While the number who can get out under parole will really always be comparatively few, still there is much complaint over the workings of the law. It was intended for the benefit of minor offenders, but so far murderers principally have profited by the act. The doors of the Trenton prison have been opened to four or five of them.

Some of the cases not yet acted on are really meritorious, notably those of Libbie Garrabrant and William Haddock. For the pardon of Libbie men and women have been working for years. She is a middle-aged woman now. While a girl in her teens she poisoned her husband because of his faithlessness and was sent to the State Prison for life. Since then she has been outside the walls of the prison only once, and then to testify in the impeachment case of ex-keeper Laverty. It is said that she was a pretty girl, and her history contains no record of any crime save the one she is suffering so terribly for.

She is not pretty now. She has the pale cast that grows on every prisoner's face in time, and her hair is streaked with gray. She is kept busy at a machine sewing and mending prisoners' clothes, and every day except Sunday is the same to her. She has been a prisoner close on to a quarter of a century, and in all that time has not broken a prison rule. She was a wild creature when they brought her to prison. Now she is a silent, sad, devout woman. No one knows where she would go if released, but no one doubts that the remainder of her days would be spent blamelessly.

William Haddock, in self-defence, threw a flat-iron at Matt. Dugan, and the man died from his injuries. Haddock got five years for the crime. He was foreman in the State Gazette composing room for twenty years, and will probably go back to his position, if the efforts of his friends to secure his release are successful. Haddock is not yet fifty, but since his trouble has become old and broken. There was never murder in his heart, and he has suffered all that a man of keen sensibility endures in his position. Prison keeper Patterson will recommend the granting of Haddock's petition.

Among the other applicants for pardon is Horace VanNest, the only one of the Plainfield fire-bugs remaining in the prison. He was given five years in November, 1888. His brother, Lewis VanNest, who was sentenced at the same time, was pardoned after serving thirteen months, and one of the fire-bugs, John M. Jackson, died in prison. Horace VanNest still protest his innocence, claiming that the real criminal was Edwin S. Worseley, alias detective Edward J. Murphy, and that "Murphy" as ringleader forced the others to help him. As Horace has a strong petition he hopes for favorable action by the court.

The Elkwood Gets the Overflow.

"The Homestead", at Fanwood, is now so over-crowded with summer boarders that the all-the-year-round residents there cannot be accommodated even with "table board", while their domestics are off on vacation leave. In consequence several of the ladies so situated, with their children, now enjoy their luncheons at The Elkwood, and are so well pleased that it is now the "fad" for the ladies to avoid the heat of the kitchen during the warm term and avail themselves of the hospitalities of Mr. Miller of The Elkwood, or Mr. Miller of The Albion. It is good for the Millers but too bad for Miss Boutcher that her popular house is not larger.

A Disappointed Community.

It was reported, Monday, that Joseph H. Johnson and Miss Anna Myers, both of Dunellen, had been joined in the holy bonds of matrimony Saturday evening. Their friends were much elated over the report, and everyone who possessed an article of music was getting ready to give them a glorious serenade, and in all probabilities reap a bountiful supply of refreshments; but just as their appetites had reached a normal height the report was denied, the news of which fell on the ears of the would-be serenaders like a thousand of brick.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

Delightful in Summer, Charming in Winter.

A number of Plainfield people already have a personal knowledge of that unique and charming corner of the earth, Coronado Beach, Cal., and for that palace of luxuriousness, the Hotel del Coronado, the largest resort hotel in the world, which, though modern and elegant in every detail, has surprisingly moderate rates. Charles Dudley Warner, Louis Agassiz, Charles Nordhoff, Morris Phillips, and other well known writers and editors, have sung the praises of the place in choicest language and with most unstinted fervor, while careful, conservative physicians have gone into ecstacies over the delightful climate of the region. Many of the good things that have been said about the resort have been brought together in company with a series of fine illustrations, in a superbly printed volume which all readers of THE PRESS will find a pleasure to possess and peruse. To those who have been there the book will recall days spent in a most blissful spot—delightful in summer, charming in winter. The beach, the bluffs, the magnificent driveways, the invigorating freshness of the breezes, the delicious temperature of the days and the charming coolness of the nights, the expanse of glass verandas facing the ocean, the beautiful court with its stately palms and blooming verdure, at the centre of the hotel buildings, all unite, in the language of Mrs. Langtry, to give "a feeling of pleasing repose" and to cast over one "a most delightful influence". The hotel dining room is one of the finest in the world. It has an area of ten thousand square feet, its ceiling, thirty-three feet in height, needs not a single pillar to support it. Electric lights, hot and cold sea-water baths, the famous Coronado drinking water, and modern improvements of every kind, are provided. The cuisine is faultless. Many of the sleeping rooms open directly on the beautiful court, besides overlooking the bay and the ocean.

Copies of the exquisite little volume recounting these many charms may be had free of cost on application to F. G. Barry, of Utica, N. Y., who is general eastern agent for the Coronado Beach Company. Mr. Barry is the well-known publisher of the Richfield Springs, Saratoga, and St. Augustine News papers, three highly successful summer journals. The Plainfield public will find it a great pleasure to treat with Mr. Barry concerning contemplated visits to Coronado, for he is one of the most cordial and courteous of men, and into the most ordinary business matter he infuses a geniality and warmth of personal magnetism that sheds happiness all about. Coronado is a great place—a heaven on earth; and Mr. Barry is one of its angels in human guise.

Concerning Coronado, T. Griswold Comstock, of St. Louis, writes: "To see a sunrise and sunset in San Diego, on the heights overlooking Coronado Beach and the beautiful harbor, is one of the loveliest sights I have ever seen in any part of the world. I am personally familiar with the climate of the Riviera, in North Italy, and in my opinion it certainly does not equal that of Southern California. No hotel like the Hotel Del Coronado is to be found in any part of Europe; and a hotel there with anything like the comforts would cost about three times as much as at Coronado. I speak from experience, having quite recently returned from a five months' tour over the Continent."

A Souvenir That Was Really Unique.

Manager Harry Askin has called his souvenir night, "American night". The 50th performance of his great success the "Tar and the Tartar" took place on Monday evening, at Palmer's Theatre, New York, and each patron on that evening was presented with a handsome album of songs as a memento of the occasion, containing the words and music in full of the famous transcription of national airs sung in the last act of the opera. The album is unique in its way, and is illustrated by a new and expensive process. Each song of the now well-known medley is illuminated, and on the opposite page is a characteristic scene of the country represented by the song.

The house was one of the largest ever known in the history of Palmer's Theatre, and fully attested the immense popularity this merry little American comic opera has achieved. The "Tar and Tartar" has almost completed its second month, and Manager Askin is already arranging for his midsummer souvenir performance to mark the half-mile post of its summer run. Digby Bell continues nightly to delight the large audiences, and has established himself as second to none of the famous comedians.

Is the Woodcock Law "Outrageous"?

To-day the season opens for shooting woodcock, and the Elizabeth Journal thereupon says: "It is a great pity, for pot hunters of all kinds will seize their guns, and birds of every description will be killed and served up at restaurants as woodcock. Some of the State papers report that these hunters have not waited for the open season, but have been shooting woodcock and other birds for a week past. It is an outrageous thing that this woodcock law is on the statute book. There ought to be but one open season the whole year round, and that should be in the fall and early winter, at the time when all birds and animals are mature and have some show of taking care of themselves. But at this time of year the conscienceless hunter bags everything that flies, young and old. The legislature would infinitely better devote itself to protecting the birds, which do the State incalculable good, than waste its time upon partisan gerrymanders, robbery, increased taxation and other kindred legislative evils."

The Hebrew of It.

I was in a cross-roads store in South Carolina when a negro came in, a statement of account in his hand, and said:

"Yo' hev got me down yere w'd a pa'r of shoes dat I nebber am got nohow."

"Vhas dot possible, my frendt?" exclaimed the merchant, as he took the paper. "Let me see how dot vhas."

He turned to his book, consulted the date and the item, and then wheeled about to say:

"It vhas all right, my frendt, und I vhas glad you come to see about it. I vhas always ready to do vhas is right by sooch a good customer."

"But I didn't have no shoes," protested the negro.

"Of course not. It vhas a three dollar pair of pantaloons you had, but in making oudt dot statement I used der Hebrew word in place of der English. It vhas all right—all right. Shoes vhas der Hebrew for pantaloons, und you vhas sooch a good customer dot I gif you a paper of pins to take home to your wife."—Toledo Blade.

Descendants of Great Men.

It is a noticeable fact that great men seldom leave direct descendants. Napoleon, Wellington, Washington, all prove the rule. Shakespeare left only two daughters, whose children died without issue. Probably the nearest relative to the great poet now living is one Thomas Hart, a resident of Australia, who is said to be the eighth in descent from Shakespeare's sister Joan. Walter Scott's line ended with the second or third generation. It is also a notable fact that great men rarely leave great descendants, as witness Bismarck and Gladstone. Among other celebrities who left no direct heir was Benjamin Franklin.

The most beautiful woman in New York said that she "ascribed her good health and rosy cheeks to the occasional use of a tablespoonful of pure whiskey before meals. It increased the circulation, sent a warm glow through the system, and gave her a hearty appetite." That is the experience of all who drink pure whiskey moderately. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old.

PANSY CUSHION.

A Pretty Thing Made with a Combination of Velvet and Felt.

Felt and velvet combined promises to be a favorite decoration this winter. The pin-cushion illustrated is of pale blue satin, the pansies are of pale blue felt, a shade darker than the satin; the upper petals are of velvet. A sixteenth of a yard of felt and as much of velvet would furnish pansies for cushion, handkerchief-box and jewel-case. Three patterns are used. One should be cut from velvet, and the other two from felt; a thread of yellow should outline the eye, and a single stitch of bright green in the center gives it a natural appearance. The lines may be put in with black sewing silk, with pen and ink or with the brush. If one is skillful with the latter, a bit of shading in the right place may be used. White pansies with blue markings and fine, narrow, button-hole stitches on the center of the lowest petals, are pretty mixed in with the blue. The stems are narrow strips of olive green felt, and the leaves are of the same material.

PANSY CUSHION.

MAKING A HOME.

How Many Women Rob Themselves of Much Future Enjoyment.

It seems a pity that the young woman who is about to establish a home and has a sum of money to spend for its garnishing can not be persuaded from laying it out all at once. She robs herself of so much future enjoyment. The spick and span sets of furniture which are carelessly ordered from an upholsterer, and carried home and stood around her parlors by his men, will never afford her half the satisfaction she can get in a room for which to-day she buys a chair, and next week, seeing there must be a table to accompany the chair, she starts on a fresh shopping excursion, and finds a table which is exactly what she was looking for; and in another month, discovering the need of a bookcase or a screen, she has again the delight of the hunt, and the gratification of obtaining the prettiest screen and bookcase in the city.

Such a room is a growth, a gathering together of household treasures little by little and piece by piece. Each article, bought only when the need arises, or when something is happily found to just meet the need, will have a family history which makes it an entertaining as well as a valuable possession. Each couch and footstool is an achievement; each rug and curtain represents a triumph. Such a home, built up gradually, with careful planning in each part, with thought and loving consideration in all its details, acquires a meaning far deeper than could be purchased by the longest purse from the most fashionable cabinet-maker.—Harper's Bazar.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

LIMEWATER is good for chilblains.

COOL rain-water and soda will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.

WIPE flatirons on a cloth wet with coal oil and it will prevent them scorching.

THE juice of raw onions applied to the stings of insects will destroy the poison.

PUT bits of camphor gum in trunks or drawers to prevent the mice from doing any injury.

ALUM, dissolved in water and applied to a bedstead with a feather, will exterminate bedbugs.

NOTHING is better than turpentine for the banishment of carpet worms, buffalo moths and insects.

TO BRIGHTEN carpets wipe them with warm water in which has been poured a few drops of ammonia.

TO FRESHEN leather chair-seats, valises, bags, etc., rub them with the well-beaten white of an egg.

TO MAKE paper stick to a wall that has been whitewashed, wash in vinegar or saleratus water.

MOLASSES rubbed on grass stains on white dresses will bring out the stains when the clothing is washed.

IT is not generally known that tin cleaned with newspaper will shine better than when cleaned with flannel.

MILDEW may be removed by soaking the garment in buttermilk and then spreading it on the grass in the sun.

A LITTLE petroleum added to the water with which waxed or polished floors are washed improves their looks.

A SMALL box filled with lime and placed on a shelf in the pantry or closet will absorb dampness and keep the air dry and sweet.

A LITTLE borax put in the water in which scarlet napkins and red bordered towels are to be washed will prevent them from fading.

Nice Way to Serve Meats.

If you want to serve your meats in dainty and aristocratic style, you must use meat glaze. This may be made by placing in a small saucepan some good, strong, clear, brown gravy, and boiling it quickly over a clear fire, until reduced to a very small quantity. Dip a spoon in it, touch it with your thumb and finger, and if it feels very sticky it is ready. When you wish to use it, set the pot containing it in a little warm water, till the glaze becomes liquid; dip a pastry brush into the glaze and use in browning over boiled tongues, breasts of roast fowls, stewed beef, mutton cutlets, or cethreads, etc.

Entirely Too Terse.

It is a very discreet man who never says either too much or too little.

At a business meeting the chairman announced:

"Brother Skinner submits his resignation as a member of this society. What action shall be taken upon it?"

"I move you, sir," said one of the parliamentarians present, "that the resignation be accepted, and that a vote of thanks be tendered to Brother Skinner."—Lowell Citizen.

It Will Answer All Purposes.

Foreman—Madame Sara Bernhardt is to be here next week and I wanted to know if you could get a cut of her picture so that we can give her a big send-off.

Editor—No use of going to so much trouble. You can use that patent medicine cut—the one that says: "Before taking."—Judge.

An Unfair Attack.

Miss Daisey—Won't you take a chair, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones—Thank you. It makes me feel young to sit here and swing my feet.

Young Rival—I should think you'd have to feel young to swing those feet.—Harper's Bazar.

In the Park.

Dudely (referring to rider)—I—see—aw—that our young friend Bobbington still sticks to the saddle.

Miss Snapp—Why, from his way of riding, I should think you'd say that he still continued to bounce out of it!—Texas Siftings.

He Got Tired.

Rudyard—Is the train running on time to-day?

Crusty Officer (who has answered that same question ninety-nine times in the last ten minutes)—No, sir; she's running on the rails.—Light.

Couldn't Wait.

"Mr. Sharpset," inquired an attentive hostess, "how in the world do you manage to eat that hot soup without burning yourself?"

"Madam," was the pathetic reply, "I am burning myself."—Judge.

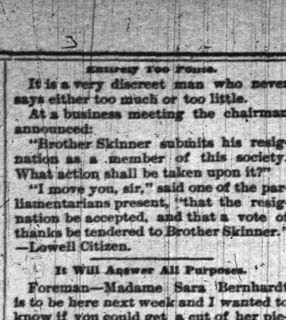
REVISITING THE BATTLEFIELD.



"Found any landmarks?"

"Yes; and I was thinking how you must have expanded since the war. Here's the tree you stood behind during the whole battle, and it covered you well, then."—Life.

German Joke.

A.—The baker, Hugelmeyer, has begun to wear glasses.

B.—He is compelled to wear them.

"Why so?"

"His loaves of bread have got to be so small that he can't do such fine work without magnifying glasses. They are too small to be detected by the naked eye."

Not to Be Fooled.

Proprietor of Menagerie—That's our last importation—a fine Austrian eagle.

Visitor (indignantly)—Do you think I'm a fool. That an Austrian eagle? Why, it's only got one head!—Life.

No Leak There.

Agent—So you are not satisfied with the house. Does it leak?

Tenant—It doesn't look like it. The cellar has been holding water for five weeks.—Jury.

The Sweet Girl Graduate.

Alice—And now that all that money has been spent on your education, what can you do?

Annie—I can get married.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Expert Opinion.

New Owner (proudly showing horse)—Rather high bred, don't you think, eh?

Horse Expert—Y-e-s, rather hybrid, that's a fact.—N. Y. Weekly.

Why He Gave Up Art.

"Why did your friend Bronson tire so quickly of art?"

"He said his palette couldn't supply his palate."—Life.

"WHO ARE YOU WRITING TO, DEAR?"

"I am answering Mrs. Pinkham's letter, that reached us at Cairo. She has told me just what to do, and I am feeling much better; besides, she has given me a list of places where her preparations are sold. I found them here in Alexandria, and have laid in a stock. My mind is easy now, so any time you wish to start, I'm ready!"

American ladies travelling abroad find the Compound invaluable. It sustains the energies in the most trying climate, and is a faithful friend whenever needed. Mrs. Pinkham's foreign correspondence is very large, and increases rapidly. Send stamp for "Guide to Health," a beautiful illustrated book.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women.

It cures the worst forms of Female Complaints, that Bearing-down Feeling, Weak Back, Falling and Displacement of the Womb, Inflammation, Ovarian Troubles, and all Organic Diseases of the Uterus or Womb, and is invaluable to the Change of Life. Dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus at an early stage, and checks any tendency to Cancerous Humor. Subdues Faintness, Excitability, Nervous Prostration, Exhaustion, and strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, etc., and invigorates the whole system. For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex, the Compound has no rival.

All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

FRENCHY IN TEARS

The Alleged Murderer in a Perfect Agony of Terror.

HIS LAWYERS COMFORT HIM.

The Sensational Case May Go to the Jury To-Night.

Only a Few of the Witnesses to be Called for the Defence This Afternoon—The Prisoner to Take the Stand—Conflicting Expert Testimony Introduced—Speculating on the Jury's Verdict.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The fate of Ameer Ben Ali, the alleged murderer of old Shakespeare, will in all probability be in the hands of the jury to-night.

Detective-Sergeant Crowley and Inspector Byrnes testified and produced a number of exhibits, consisting of articles found on Frenchy, together with pieces of his clothing. They were followed by Doctor Formad, who gave expert testimony as to the stains found on Frenchy's clothing and the bed he slept in. Drs. Austin Flint and Cyrus Edson were called and with their testimony the prosecution rested.

The Recorder denied a motion by Lawyer House to acquit the prisoner on the ground of insufficient evidence, and Lawyer Levy opened the case for the defence.

He made an impressive opening as regarded the prisoner's case. He branded the District Attorney's statement that the accused was a surgeon in the French army as untrue, no evidence having been brought in to show it. When Mr. Levy sat down "Frenchy was the centre of an interested circle, among whom was Dr. Paul Gibier, of the Pasteur Institute. Dr. Gibier spoke to him kindly in French, and the poor Arab cried bitterly and seemed to be protesting that there was a conspiracy against him.

Frenchy Breaks Down.

The calm demeanor which Ben Ali had shown at the beginning of the trial and which has done so much to redeem him from the charge of brutality, left him when the court adjourned.

He sat for a while in his chair quietly crying behind his cotton handkerchief. His interpreter and counsel noticed his depression and tried to cheer him up.

Then he broke out into earnest ejaculations in his own outlandish tongue, declaring over and over that he never saw the woman that night; that he was innocent; that he slept that night at the other end of the hall from the room that she was in, and so on.

The guard brought him his luncheon wrapped in a piece of brown paper. He put it quickly down upon the floor with a gesture of disgust. The interpreter urged him to take it. No, Ben Ali could not eat, he said. His heart was sore.

The alleged "ripper" will take the stand this afternoon, and his counsel feel confident that his evidence will have great weight with the jury.

The strongest thing said against "Frenchy's" innocence was Dr. Formad's reply to a juror's question:

"Yes, I certainly would stake my life that the blood on the man's garments and the blood upon the bed in which the old woman died are the same."

Wise experts will this afternoon, it is said, contradict the testimony of Drs. Formad, Flint and Edson.

There is much speculation on the verdict. The general opinion is that the wrangling of specialists over infinitesimal scrapings of dried blood leave a clear enough conviction in the jury's mind to make them absolutely sure of "Frenchy's guilt."

France Interested in Frenchy.

PARIS, July 2.—Interest is felt here in the case of an Algerian on trial in New York as a Jack the Ripper, the man having been honorably discharged from the French army. The Consul in New York has been directed to watch the proceedings and see that the man is protected in his legal rights.

THE FOURTH IN LONDON.

Minister Lincoln Making Preparations for a Fitting Celebration.

LONDON, July 2.—Mr. Lincoln, the American Minister, is making preparations for the celebration of the Fourth of July in a fitting manner at his residence in Cromwell Row.

Six hundred invitations have been issued for the reception. The Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Sutherland, Ladies Churchill and Playfair, Senators Spooner and Vance and Congressman Morse are among the invited guests.

This is expected to be one of the most brilliant observances of the day which have been seen in London for years.

Found Dead in Fairmount Park.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Samson Simon of the firm of Simon Bros. & Co., extensive cloak manufacturers of 624 Market street, was found dead in Fairmount Park early in the morning. When discovered he was sitting with his back against a tree. It is supposed that he was taken sick while listening to the music at Belmont Mansion, and in endeavoring to reach the guard house became exhausted, sat down and died. His death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease. Considerable money and all his jewelry was on the body when found.

A Wife Murderer Sentenced.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Philip Durringer, who was convicted Monday of manslaughter in the second degree in having caused the death of his wife Catherine by beating her, was sentenced to 12 1-2 years in State prison.

Bishop Niles Favors Dr. Brooks.

CONCORD, N. H., July 2.—Bishop Niles of this diocese gives his approval to the election of Dr. Brooks as Bishop of Massachusetts. The standing committee, however, failed to approve by a vote of 5 to 3.

CLOSED THE BANK.

The Asbury Park National Has Been Making Bad Loans.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 2.—The Asbury Park National Bank has been closed upon orders issued by the Comptroller of the Currency.

Bank Examiner Stone made an examination this week and found that the bank had been making bad loans and was doing an unprofitable business.

The bank was organized three years ago with a capital of $100,000. The last report, May 6, showed the individual deposits to be $8,000. The bank figured conspicuously in the Simmons-Pell-Wallack check-kiting transactions last March. The depositors will lose nothing.

DUEL ON A DOORSTEP.

Two Men Within Fifteen Feet of Each Other and Fired Several Shots.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 2.—Dr. G. B. Crowe shot and mortally wounded B. F. Glass, father of F. P. Glass, one of the proprietors of the Montgomery Advertiser, at Brierfield, at 9 a. m.

The difficulty grew out of something Glass had said, and which he would not retract. Crowe went to Glass's house, and Glass told him not to enter.

As Crowe advanced, and Glass fired on him with a Winchester rifle, Crowe answered with a pistol shot. Each man fired several shots. The men were within fifteen feet of each other. Finally Glass fell and Crow walked away. One of the bullets entered Glass's abdomen.

He is and old and much respected citizen. Crowe is only 27 years of age.

JUGIGO IS MAD.

The Murderer a Hopeless Lunatic in Sing Sing Prison.

SING SING, July 2.—Shibuya Jugigo, the convicted and condemned murderer of Mura Commi, a fellow Japanese sailor, is a confirmed lunatic. Since he was brought to the State prison the last time his insanity has steadily developed until now he is entirely out of his mind.

Still, the unhappy man is a great reader of the Japanese version of the New Testament, and the perusal of that book is about his only occupation.

New York Contractors Defeated.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The action of O'Brien and Clark for $733,312 damages against the city for extra work in section 6 of the New York aqueduct has been dismissed by Judge Ingraham of the Supreme Court. He, however, directs a verdict in their favor for $19,000 the amount conceded to be due them by the city. This decision is probably a fatal blow at nearly $5,000,000 suits of a similar character which were to be brought by these and other contractors.

Secretary Blaine's Condition.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 2.—The news sent out that Secretary Blaine had another attack and his family was seriously alarmed was much exaggerated. He is suffering from nervous prostration, and it is hard to get him to take the rest that he needs. He is an indefatigable worker. The Marquis Imperiali, Secretary of the Italian Legation, is at Bar Harbor to-day to consult Mr. Blaine.

Another Philadelphian in Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—A small sensation has been caused over the sudden disappearance of Edward Y. Eltonhead, who, until a few weeks ago, was president of the Fidelity Storage and Warehouse Co., of 1871-73 Market street. He is said to be a defaulter for a large sum of money. The exact amount cannot be stated, but experts are at work on the books.

Iowa Republican Nominations.

CEDAR RAPIDS, July 2.—The Republican State Convention made the following nominations: For Governor, H. C. Wheeler, of Pottawamie; for Lieutenant-Governor, George Van Houten, of Lena; for Supreme Judge, S. M. Weaven, of Hardin; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, O. H. Sabin, of Clinton; for Railroad Commissioner, F. J. Campbell, of Jasper.

Chairman Brice's Circular.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Hon. Calvin S. Brice, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, has issued circulars to the members of the National Committee and to the chairmen of the Democratic State committees wherein he puts great stress upon the importance of thorough organization of the Democracy for the coming campaign, and particularly urges the formation of Democratic clubs in every State and neighborhood.

Copyright Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A proclamation has been issued by the President granting copyright privileges in the United States to citizens and subjects of France, Belgium, Great Britain and Switzerland.

Election Officers Convicted.

JERSEY CITY, July 2.—Thomas Trotter, Joseph Buckridge, Harry Speers and Oscar Friedbourgh, the election officers in the Third Precinct, First District, were convicted on an indictment charging them with frauds in the general election of November, 1889.

PUBLIC DEBT REPORT

Secretary Foster's Figures Under His New System.

THE SURPLUS IS NOW $53,853,808.

No Change in the Interest Bearing Debt of the Government.

The President Will Take His Vacation To-Morrow—New Law in Relation to the Payment of Pensions—Chairman Brice's Circular to the Democrats—Reciprocal Copyright Benefits for Four Countries.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The monthly public debt statement has been issued in an entirely new form. It combines both the Secretary's statement of the public debt and the Treasurer's monthly statement of assets and liabilities, heretofore issued separately.

Comparison with the last monthly statement and the statement issued July 1, 1890, shows an increase in the public debt during the past month of about $5,000,000, and a net reduction during the past fiscal year of $22,000,000.

The surplus in the Treasury to-day in the new form of statement is placed at $53,853,808, or about $5,000,000 less than a month ago, with no change in the interest bearing debt of the government during the past month. The bonded debt to-day is $610,529,120, made up in round numbers of $560,000,000 4s, and $50,500,000 4 1-2 per cent. bonds.

Secretary Foster Explains.

Secretary Foster gave out the following statement explanatory of the changed form of the monthly debt statement and the daily statement of cash in the Treasury, which will hereafter be issued:—

"Heretofore the manner and make-up of the monthly statement required the showing of an increase or decrease in the public debt. Under this form it has happened on several occasions that when large purchases of bonds were made the statement following would show an increase of the public debt, when a reduction had really been effected. This was owing to the fact that the principal and premium paid for bonds reduced the cash on hand beyond the amount of bonds actually redeemed.

"The Secretary has concluded after much thought on the subject to separate the statement of the debt from the statement of the cash in the Treasury. Hereafter the statement of the cash on hand will show the net increase or decrease from month to month and this statement will be a part of the form now adopted.

"In making the net statement of the cash in the Treasury the figures will plainly show the different kinds of money included in the total. Against this total will be stated the cash liabilities. This part of the new form will take the place of the assets and liabilities statement, heretofore issued by the Treasurer.

"In former debt statements the accrued interest and interest due and unpaid have appeared as current liabilities. The items have been eliminated. The Secretary holds that if accrued interest may be charged as a liability against cash, then with equal propriety accrued salaries can be so charged, or in like manner the accrued liability of the construction of public buildings or of the improvement of rivers and harbors.

"The matured debt item is made up of the remnant of the bonds and other forms of indebtness remaining unpaid from the foundation of the government. It is assumed that less than 25 per cent. of these will ever be presented for payment. They are now, as heretofore, carried on the debt statement, but not as liability against cash."

READY FOR CAPE MAY.

The President Will Leave Washington To-Morrow Morning.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The President will leave to-morrow morning for Cape May, N. J., and for the next five or six weeks will transact all public business requiring his attention at that place.

Private Secretary Halford will join him there next week and establish an office at some convenient place near the President's cottage, and will arrange for telegraphic connection with the executive departments at Washington.

Mrs. Dimmick and Mrs. Parker, nieces of Mrs. Harrison, left Washington yesterday for Cape May. The President will be accompanied by Lieut. John S. Parker, U. S. N.

The White House will undergo extensive repairs during the summer, and will not be habitable.

July Pension Payments.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—With this month the new law in relation to the payment of pensions goes into effect. Instead of the Treasury paying out quarterly $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 to the Pension Department, the payments will be made monthly on the 4th of each month. The country is divided into four divisions of six agencies, and each division is paid quarterly, thus taking about $10,000,000 each month. The payments for July will amount between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 ... will be made [illegible]

ARRESTED FOR CONSPIRACY.

A Sensational Suit Over the Disappearance of a Prominent Merchant.

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 2.—A sensational case came up for hearing yesterday. Three months ago James C. Patton, a prominent merchant of Cochranton, this county, mysteriously disappeared, leaving a young wife. Domestic trouble was assigned as the cause of his disappearance.

Mrs. Patton charges the defendants in the case, Dr. Saul M. and Mrs. Jane Patton, mother and brother of her husband, and Squire Adams, an uncle, with having conspired to defraud her out of the property she would inherit.

The defendants are all prominent people. Sinclair Adams was a Democratic candidate for the Assembly last year. The court held the defendants in $300 to answer at the next term.

Typhoid Fever Spreading.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 2.—Typhoid fever at Valley Falls is spreading and the Cumberland Town Council has taken precautionary measures to prevent its further progress. President Currier of the Town Council and Dr. Fisher of the State Board of Health have been appointed a committee to engage nurses, procure disinfectants and to use all means possible to relieve the suffering of the sick and to prevent the spread of the disease.

Hunting for a Brace of Swindlers.

BALLSTON, N. Y., July 2.—A wealthy farmer, named Bothwick, living near Gals place, has been victimized out of $2,000 cash by two strangers, posing as a judge from California and a doctor from New York. They played the three card monte game and suddenly departed. Detectives are on their track. The same men are said to have buncoed a farmer living near Schenectady out of $1,500 by the same game.

Prince George Hears Gilmore.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Prince George visited the Garden Theatre last night, and after the performance was escorted to the Garden. Upon his entrance Gilmore struck up the Greek national anthem, which greatly pleased the Prince. He afterward expressed himself as delighted with his theatre experience in New York.

Result of the Larbig Inquest.

BROOKLYN, July 2.—The inquest on the body of Theodore Larbig, who was shot by Darwin J. Mesorole in the rooms of Mrs. Dovie Comstock, was concluded last night. The jury returned a verdict that Larbig came to his death by a pistol shot fired by Mesorole, and that Mrs. Comstock was accessory to the killing.

His Head Dissected by a Buzz Saw.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 2.—Ernest Voght, 17 years of age, had his head almost cut in twain by a circular saw in the Buffalo Box Factory. He was employed in the saw department, when his head came in contact with the rapidly revolving saw. A gash eight inches was cut in the skull and the brain injured. He will die.

Big Crop of Peaches.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 2.—Mr. Mills, the special agent of the Delaware Railroad Company at Clayton, says: "The estimate of the peach growers show the largest crop on the tree that they ever had."

THEY ARE FIGHTING

Warlike News from Chili Received in Washington.

READY TO ATTACK COQUIMBO.

Balmaceda Has Seven Thousand Troops in the Town.

It Is Reported that the Insurgents Have Eight Thousand Well-Armed Men—An Attack Both by Land and Sea Looked For—The Government Officers Preparing for a Savage Resistance.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—News has just reached here, via Galveston, from Iquique, Chili, of heavy fighting between the insurgent and government forces on the coast between Huasco and Coquimbo and also at sea. No particulars have yet been received here.

Another dispatch says that all the insurgent fleet, with the one exception of the Esmeralda, are in rendezvous at Caldera, 200 miles to the north, the port where the Blanco Encalada was sunk.

Their purpose is, without doubt, to attack Coquimbo at once. It seems that the insurgents have been encouraged by the reports of dissatisfaction among the supporters of Balmaceda.

They hope to be joined by hundreds of deserters as soon as they make a descent upon this place.

If this is so it will make a difference in the coming fight.

It looks as if the insurgents and the Balmacedists would be in conflict by July 3.

There are 7,000 government troops in this town. Much less than one-half of these are regulars. The rest are volunteers. They are not to be much depended on. It is from their ranks that most of the deserters to the other side are gathered.

There is no telling what the strength of the insurgents at Caldera is. It is reported that they have 8,000 troops in all, who are well armed, and that only for lack of ammunition they could put a much larger force in the field.

An attack by both land and sea upon Coquimbo may be looked for.

Balmaceda's officers are making every preparation for a savage resistance. They are trained men and good fighters. The weakness of the Balmaceda army is in its volunteers.

THE KAISER'S VISIT.

His Note to England Has Created Gossip for All London.

LONDON, July 2.—All London is talking of the independence of the Kaiser in refusing to be lodged at according to a cut and dried programme, like a performing bear on exhibition.

The Kaiser has substantially sent word that, if he is to be England's guest, he must have the freedom of a guest, and not have dates set down for him like a travelling actor.

The Emperor will arrive here on July 4, provided he does not take it into his head to run over on the 3d, and he will be welcomed at Sheerness by the pick of England's fleet, now at the home station. He has an imperial retinue of 30 distinguished persons, besides attendants, and in addition to testing the capacity of Windsor Castle, a number of his followers will be billeted on the caravanseries.

It is said that the Kaiser was not at all offended by the objections to his visiting the naval exhibition on Sunday, as he is himself inclined to strict ideas of Sunday observance.

DESERT LAKE GROWING.

It Is Believed the Water Comes Underground from Indian Wells.

YUMA, Ariz., July 2.—The water in the Salton salt mines now covers an area of ten square miles, three to eight feet deep. The men that were sent out to discover the source of the flood arrived with their boat yesterday. They say that the Indian runners had encircled the lake without finding the source of its supply. They are positive in the belief that the lake is fed by subterranean means.

The artesian wells in the basin have ceased to flow and the machinery is being removed from the salt factories at Salton. The excitement is intense.

No Polish Bishops for America.

ROME, July 2.—The Pope has rejected the petition of Poles, resident in the United States, for the appointment of a Polish bishop. It is stated that he has written a letter to Cardinal Gibbons in which he declares that he will never concede the demands made by Herr Cahensly in connection with the matter of German Catholic bishoprics in the United States.

The Mount Tamalapais Fire Spreading.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 2.—The Mount Tamalapais fire is spreading. The outbuildings on A. E. Kent's estate, near William's Gulch have been burned, and it is feared that many of the handsome residences in Ross valley will be destroyed. A number of volunteers from San Francisco an San Rafael are fighting the fire. Three men who were engaged in this work are missing.

Marsh Not There.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A Philadelphia morning paper publishes a special from Atlantic City, N. J., stating that Gideon W. Marsh, ex-President of the Keystone Bank, is hiding in Pleasantville, near Atlantic City, and that his family has been there with him a portion of the time since his flight. A press correspondent at Pleasantville, in a message just received in this city says there is no truth whatever in the statement.

Dean of Harvard College.

BOSTON, July 2.—Prof. Lebaron Russell Briggs has assumed the duties of Dean of Harvard College, succeeding Clement Lawrence Smith, resigned. Prof. Smith has been Dean since 1869.

Principal Philadelphia Cooking School.

Add to one quart of sifted flour a half teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one of Cleveland's baking powder, a half of salt; mix and rub in four ounces of butter. Add sufficient milk to make a dough. Knead and roll out, spread lightly with soft butter, fold in three, roll out again, and cut with a sharp knife into square cakes. Beat the white of one egg, a tablespoonful of sugar and one of milk together, brush over the tops and bake fifteen minutes in a moderately quick oven.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

Cleveland's Baking Powder leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

NAMED BY BULKELEY.

Connecticut's Executive Makes a Large Number of Appointments.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 2.—Gov. Bulkeley, exercising his constitutional power to fill vacancies in the several State offices, and commissioners whose terms expired, has made the following appointments:

Insurance Commissioner—O. R. Ives of Torrington.

School Commissioner—Jeremiah Olney of Thomson.

Bank Commissioner—Charles Griswold of Guilford.

Railroad Commissioner—William O. Seymour of Ridgewood.

Shellfish Commissioners—Charles W. Beardsley, of Milford, and George C. Waldo, of Bridgeport.

Fish Commissioners—William Sidney Downs, of Derby.

State Prison Directors—Francis Wayland of New Haven; R. T. Hewitt, of Wethersfield; Charles A. Elliott, of Clinton, and George Best, of Hartford.

State Board of Charities—Charles S. Canfield, of Bridgeport, and John M. Douglass, of Bridgeport.

Auditors of Accounts—George F. Lincoln, of Hartford, and D. Ward Northrop, of Middletown.

All these are reappointments, except Beardsley, vice Treat, as Shellfish Commissioner; Downs, vice Hudson, as Fish Commissioner; Best, vice Bronson, as State Prison Director; Canfield and Douglass, vice Gallagher and Wessells, as members of the Board of Charities, and Lincoln and Northrop, vice Rogers and Durand, as Auditors. Most of the appointees have been heretofore nominated by Gov. Bulkeley to the Senate, but that body refused to act upon the nominations. The Governor also appointed two County Commissioners for each county—all Republicans.

AIMED AT THE GERMANS.

Foreigners in Provinces of Russia Must Become Naturalized or Leave.

LONDON, July 2.—The correspondent at Odessa says a decree has been issued by the Governors of Podolia, Volhynia and Kieff which announces that all foreigners in those provinces must decide between leaving the country or becoming naturalized. In the event of selecting the latter alternative, they must remain in their present domiciles for an unbroken period of ten years. The decree is designed to force the hands of the vast numbers of Germans who are settled along the Russian side of the Austrian frontier.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Phillipsburg chief of police was in town to-day looking for escaped burglars.

—Alert Hose Company invites the public to inspect its new hose wagon at the hose house July 4.

—The rumor that a slight fire occurred at the home of Dr. Cooley last night is denied by the family.

—The grocers have all agreed to close their store all day Saturday, July 4. Make your purchases to-morrow.

—Edsall's dry goods store will be closed all day Saturday. It will remain open Friday evening until 10 o'clock.

—The store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association will be closed Saturday, but will be kept open until 10 p. m. Thursday and Friday.

—There will be a handicap pool tournament at the Crescent League rooms, to-morrow evening. About 15 competitors have already entered the contest.

—Doane & VanArsdale will not open their store the Fourth, as they expect to do business enough before to last until Monday morning. They will keep open till 10 o'clock Friday evening.

—Drill locomotive 31 jammed a coal car into a box freight car on a side track at Grant avenue yesterday. One end of the coal car was crushed in, and the box of the freight car was lifted off its trucks.

—A special notice in another column signed by the 29 grocers of this city and North Plainfield, announces that their stores will be closed all day of Saturday. Therefore order to-morrow to last until Monday.

—The famous old "one-horn" cannon will be on exhibition in front of No. 2's engine house to-morrow evening. The public is invited to call and see it. The gun will be used in awakening the people the morning of the Fourth.

—Joseph M. Harper, of 75 Park avenue, near Fourth street, offers for sale at reasonable prices a large and well-assorted stock of fireworks, crackers, lanterns and flags, wherewith to celebrate the glorious day of American Independence.

—No paper will be issued from this office Saturday, July 4. Clergymen and church officials wishing their Sunday notices published in to-morrow's issue must have them in the hands of the editor before 11 o'clock a. m. to insure insertion.

—Rainy skies caused a postponement of the Baptists' excursion to Belmar planned for to-day. It was found inadvisable to choose to-morrow instead, so Thursday, July 16, was selected. The committee were in New York to-day making arrangements.

—Lusarde & Co., the well-known dealers in first-class fruits, confectionery, nuts, cigars, etc., have removed from No. 16 North avenue to No. 12 North avenue, where the public will receive the same prompt and courteous treatment as in the past. They still continue their branch store at 31 West Front street.

—They cut some queer starts over in Plainfield, the latest of which is the ghost of a cat. A few days ago an aged and much esteemed family cat was shot to put it out of its misery; but that cat has come back, and because it will not purr, yowl, eat fish or drink milk the family are stricken with remorse and terror, believing that they are haunted by the unjust ghost of the departed pet. This opens a prospect for a reign of terror unspeakable. What if all the cats that have met untimely ends should go into the ghost business!—New Brunswick Home News.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A pleasant party was held at the home of Miss Allie Randolph, West Seventh street, last evening.

Louis G. Newman will officiate at the Trinity Reformed church during the absence of organist Titsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth leave to-day for Asbury Park. They have taken rooms at Hotel Bristol.

The Rev. M. E. Dwight, of Rock View avenue, and family, have gone to Falmouth, Mass., for the summer.

Clinton VanVliet and family, of this city, are at the Pocantico apartments, 1,690 Broadway, New York.

Samuel Moore and L. B. Blackford of North Plainfield are among the committee-men planning for a reunion of surviving members of the Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers, to be held at an early date.

No Fireworks on Outdoor Stands.

Chief Doane has given official notice that the placing of fire crackers, rockets, torpedoes, or other fireworks or inflammable or explosive substances upon any sidewalk, or in front of any store or other building contiguous to any public street in cities has been determined to be dangerous to life and property, and all persons are warned that such danger must not be incurred within the limits of the city of Plainfield. Any person or persons who act in disregard of this notice will be prosecuted.

Easily made. A cheap and delicious drink for 25 cents can be made from Hires's Root Beer Packages. Five gallons. Be careful that you get the real genuine Hires's. There are a number of would-be Root Beer packages on the market.

A PLAINFIELD BROKER FINED.

That They Must Not Run.

J. B. Dumont and 27 Others Taught

They are getting strict on the New York Stock Exchange. Not only are the powers that be drawing the line at innocent merriment, but they are insisting that dignified and not too hurried movements shall mark the conduct of the members when they are on the floor. In the interest of this reform twenty-eight brokers were fined a dollar apiece yesterday. One protested, expressed his own notions freely, and will have to pay $5 for the privilege.

There is a rule of the Exchange that members shall not run about the floor, but shall limit their gait to a walk. For a long time nobody has thought of observing this regulation. In fact, most of the members have managed to forget that such a rule existed—if they ever knew anything about it. Recently, however, the floor committee decided to insist on its enforcement, and notified chairman Mitchell to see that its provisions were carried out.

Notice was given early in the day of the new state of things, but before the close of business the chairman had had occasion to impose fines on twenty-eight of the brokers who were in a hurry and went faster than a walk. Among those who suffered were two Governors of the Exchange, a partner of the President, W. G. Dominick, ex-Councilman J. B. Dumont of Plainfield, F. L. Emmes, O. O. Gelpcke, W. E. Tunis, W. L. Niles, Ernest Groesbeck, Samuel Seligman, and W. M. Patterson.

For a second offense the fine will be $5. If anybody is unlucky enough to be detected in cantering about a third time he may be suspended.

TWO GAMES WITH THE FLUSHINGS.

Something About the Ball Players the Crescents Will Meet on Saturday Morning and Afternoon.

A letter received from the manager of the Phillipsburg base-ball team says that he will be unable to get together a nine strong enough to come to Plainfield Saturday morning. He says the places of Taylor, Holley, Lindy and others have not yet been filled, and he does not want to meet the Crescents with a weak nine.

The Crescents' managers at once scoured the country for another club, but soon found that as next Saturday was the Fourth of July, all the first-class teams had been engaged. They thereupon arranged with the Flushings to play two games here. The visitors will turn out the following very strong nine: Hefler, first base; Delmore, second base; Shannon, short stop; Williams, third base; Ridley, pitcher; O'Rourke, catcher; Keegan, left field; Daily, centre field; Parker, right field.

Of the above, many are well known in Plainfield. O'Rourke was Somerville's catcher and first baseman in two of the last three games of last season, but he left the West Ends to play with the Crescents against them in the wind-up game. He made two two-baggers and a single off Harkins. Williams was Somerville's third baseman for years, and is unexcelled. Shannon and Daily both put up a fine game when they played here before with the Flushings, and the Crescents won by the close score of 4 to 2. Ridley is one of the best semi-professional twirlers in the box to-day.

Fourth of July Athletics.

A committee appointed at a recent meeting of the Bound Brook fire department to arrange for athletic sports to be held the morning of the Fourth have prepared a list of games which promise to afford great amusement. They have decided to have the competitions take place on Main street, so that all may have an opportunity to see them. The aquatic contests will occur on the Raritan river near the bridge.

The entrance fee in the several events has been placed at 50 cents. Entries may be made to W. R. Converse, John R. Gaddis or D. B. Hoffman up to the time of the race. It is hoped the entries will be made as early as possible, as in the event of a large number wishing to enter any one competition the prize may be made to correspond. These sports are not arranged to make money. No price is charged to witness them, though anyone wishing to contribute towards prizes may do so.

The sports will be begun precisely at 9 o'clock, and will continue until completed, which, it is expected, will be about noon.

The prizes offered are not large, as the committee have no money on hand, calculating to make the entrance fees pay for the prizes. The list as made up is as follows:

One-mile bicycle race, for the championship of the town.
Wheelbarrow race, prize $1.
Half-mile run, prize gold badge.
Sack race, prize $1.
100-yards dash, prize gold badge.
Three-legged race, prize $2.
Broad jump, prize $1.
Running jump, prize $1.
Hop, step and jump, prize $1.
Hose race (200 yards) for the championship of Bound Brook.
Boat race, for a purse.
Tub race, prize $2.

—Patriotism solidified in Peck's Fourth of July goods.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning the head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

A CLERGYMAN'S FATAL LEAP.

The Rev. Mr. Howlett, a Former Plainfield Pastor, Crippled for Life.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer of Thursday morning, June 25, the following account is taken of a sad accident to the Rev. Thomas B. Howlett, for many years pastor of the old Second Baptist church of this city, which at one time held meetings in what is now Reform Hall, and which ceased to exist some years after Mr. Howlett resigned the pastorate:

CRUSHED UNDER THE CARS.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO REV. THOS. B. HOWLETT AT BRYN MAWR.

WHILE ATTEMPTING TO BOARD A TRAIN HE SLIPS AND THE WHEELS PASS OVER HIS FOOT, NECESSITATING AMPUTATION.

The Rev. Thomas B. Howlett, one of the oldest and best-known Baptist clergymen in the city, met with a sad accident yesterday morning, which resulted in the loss of his right foot. His condition last evening was favorable, however, and he is likely to recover.

In company with the Rev. J. G. Walker, D. D., pastor of the Mantua Baptist church, Mr. Howlett left his home at 506 North Forty-second street, to attend the dedication of the Newtown Square Baptist church. Dr. Walker had engaged to preach at the morning services and arranged to meet some of the brethren at Berwyn, whence he would be driven to the church. Mr. Howlett was to preach in the evening, and expected to meet friends at Bryn Mawr station.

Both boarded a train, leaving Broad Street Station at 8:45 a. m. and Mr. Howlett followed the programme by leaving the train at Bryn Mawr. He hastily glanced about the station, but to his disappointment saw no one prepared to meet him. After a moment's hesitation, during which the train began to move, he decided to go on to Berwyn with Dr. Walker, who was standing on the front platform of the car next to the rear coach in company with a brakeman. Mr. Howlett called to his friend, announcing his intention, but the latter warned him not to board the train, as the attempt seemed dangerous. The preacher did not heed, however, although he was incumbered by an umbrella and gripsack, and as the end of the car rapidly approached he leaped for the steps. It is supposed that his foot slipped, and before he could recover his hold he was struck by the projecting end of a milk platform, which threw him down with his right leg under the wheels of the rear car. The train was stopped and a physician hastily summoned. After applying a tourniquet to staunch the bleeding, the minister was placed on a train and brought to this city where he was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital.

It was found that the right foot was cleanly severed at the ankle joint, but the tissues above were so badly contused that amputation was necessary at the junction of the middle and lower thirds. Dr. De-Forest Willard performed the operation, from which the patient rallied with remarkable vigor, considering his age, and last evening was reported in a fair way to recovery.

Mr. Howlett retained consciousness and acted with great calmness after the accident, coolly giving directions for his removal. Dr. Walker, who accompanied him, did not return to Newtown square, and will leave for Europe next Saturday on his vacation tour.

The crippled minister is over 50 years of age, and since his retirement from the Bereen Baptist church, last year, has held no regular appointment, but is connected with the First church of West Philadelphia. He is a brother of Edwin J. Howlett, the paper-bag manufacturer, and his family consists of two unmarried daughters.

BARDSLEY GETS FIFTEEN YEARS.

And a Fine Equal to the Amount He Acknowledged Stealing.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—John Bardsley, the defaulting ex-City Treasurer of Philadelphia, was sentenced this morning by Judge Wilson to fifteen years of solitary confinement in the Eastern Penitentiary, and to pay a fine equaling the sum to which he pleaded guilty of misappropriating.

A Base-ball Dispute.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I see in Tuesday's issue of THE PRESS that the Arlingtons have a good deal to say about the Unions' hired pitcher. He never pitched a game of ball before, and does n't profess to be a pitcher. Concerning the "men" who played, there was only one, and he was nothing to the team. He was only put there to fill the base. The Arlingtons had to get a member from the White Cape to help win it. When they want to settle the matter just let them play the Unions themselves, and then they will attend to their own business. The Arlingtons say they won the game fair and square. They won it, but not square, for the three umpires all cheated for the Arlingtons.

A FRIEND.

An Attack Expected from White Miners.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 2.—There are threatening rumors that denote serious trouble between the warring miners at Franklin. There are now 200 negroes at work. The strikers have done nothing yet, but are reported to be making secret preparations for some decisive move. More troops have been ordered to the scene.

World's Fair Envoys.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The special commission to visit the principal cities and manufacturing and art centres of Europe in the interest of the World's Columbian Exposition has been formally organized. It will be styled the "National Commission to Europe." Messrs. Butterworth, Handy and Peck will start from New York July 9, and Messrs. Waller and Eustis will probably follow on a later steamer.

Ex-Teller Ritchie Sentenced.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—George W. Ritchie, who recently pleaded guilty to the larceny of over $3,000 from the Commonwealth National Bank, where he was employed as receiving teller, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Ritchie after his crime fled to Cuba, where he was finally arrested. He has since returned most of the stolen money to the bank.

France and the Dreibund.

LONDON, July 2.—France has declined to sign a renewal of the North Sea Convention to prevent illicit traffic in alcohol among fishermen. This, combined with France's attitude toward the Brussels Convention, is regarded as a retort to England's attitude toward the Dreibund, and is likely to impede a settlement of the Newfoundland question.

The Prisoner's Brother Fainted.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., July 2.—William Cox of Phelps, N. Y., was sentenced to nine years and nine months at Auburn prison for incest. When sentence was pronounced on Cox his brother fainted and had to be carried from the court room.

Died in a Sleeping Car.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 2.—Chas. M. Neumbauer, connected with the Bartholomay Brewing Company of Rochester, was found dead when nearing this station in a berth of a New York Central sleeping car. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

2,000 Miners Strike for Nine Hours.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., July 2.—All of the men in the railroad mines in Belmont, Jefferson, Guernsey and Harrison counties, numbering over 2,000, have struck for nine hours and the Columbus day scale.

Puddlers and Heaters Strike.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 2.—The puddlers and heaters in the rolling mills of James Hooven have struck on account of his refusal to sign the Amalgamated Association scale.

Spring Garden Bank's Assets.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Receiver Fisher of the broken Spring Garden Bank states that he believes the assets of the concern will pay over 50 per cent. of its liabilities.

Gladstone Improving.

LONDON, July 2.—Mr. Gladstone is almost restored to health, and he enjoys walks on the cliffs and banks.

The Welsh Tin-Plate Workers.

LONDON, July 2.—The Welsh tin-plate workers will resume work at half-time on Monday, and will thereby reduce the production 800,000 boxes annually and prevent the reglutting of the American market.

Praise for the New Opera.

LONDON, July 2.—The press this morning praises the new opera, "The Nautch Girl," especially the libretto. Some of the papers, however, criticize the music as lacking originality. The "Times" speaks well of Miss Snyder as "Beebee."

Salisbury and the Irish Land Bill.

LONDON, July 2.—Lord Salisbury has informed the Irish peers that he will oppose any further amendment of the Irish Land bill.

Accommodating.

Irate Guest (to landlord of an Oklahoma hotel)—You informed me that I might order whatever I liked for dinner. I called for ox-tail soup, salmon, chops, potato salad, a bottle of wine, and the like, and the waiter brought me corn bread and bacon. I—"

Landlord (cheerfully)—Oh, that's all right an' regular, stranger. We like to be accommodatin' an' so we let newcomers order what they please an' then give 'em jest the same as the rest git. It's no trouble for the waiters to take their orders, an' it makes the strangers feel kinder good while they're waitin'. —Jury.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

ENGINEER DUNHAM OF PLAINFIELD.

How He Is Lifting a New York City Out of the Mud and Mire.

As has already been told in THE PRESS, the city of Dunkirk, N. Y., has elected to pave the streets with brick, and the city engineer, F. A. Dunham, of this city, well known as the engineer of the excellent highways of Union county, has been visiting those places in the west most noted for their use of brick for paving, with a view to obtaining the best possible results for Dunkirk. Proposals for this work will be advertised next week, and contractors will be on the lookout, as a large sum of money is to be expended. The work will be done under Mr. Dunham's specifications and superintendence. Mr. Dunham has just returned for a period to his work in this city, leaving his Dunkirk affairs temporarily in the hands of one of his capable assistants, Mr. Bauer.

The Dunkirk Evening Observer is jubilant over Mr. Dunham's work. Among other things it says:

"The city engineer, Mr. Dunham, is hard at work getting the specifications for paving Central avenue and other streets in proper condition, to give to contractors who wish to submit proposals for doing the work.

"They are very complete, and there will be no fear as to the durability of brick pavement done under their requirements.

"Mr. Dunham expects to have them ready within a very short time, so that the council can ask for proposals without any delay. There is a strong desire on the part of all our citizens to see this important work under progress, and the engineer is losing no time in getting ready to start it. It will be the commencement of a system of improvement that will rapidly make our streets equal to those of any city in the country, and lift us out of the mud and filth of the past. It will be an important day in the history of our city when the effort which has been made to pave our streets with brick shall be successful in its actual commencement.

"The day is evidently now near at hand, and there will be general rejoicing when the first brick is laid. It cannot come any too soon for the good of our city.

"By invitation from the common council, the property owners met at the council room, for the purpose of giving their views as to what should be the width of the paved portion of the streets. After an examination of the maps, and their explanation by city engineer Dunham, it was unanimously voted to make the width from curb to curb. Every day now adds to the completion of the necessary work for inviting proposals. The specifications are in the hands of the printer, and it is safe to assert that for completeness in every detail, neatness and correctness of language, they are as near perfect as anyone could desire; and the city engineer has shown his ability and familiarity with the work of street construction to the satisfaction of citizens and council. Our citizens have every reason for being perfectly satisfied with the way in which the mayor, the committee on streets, and the city engineer have pushed this important work forward. They have realized the great importance which this work is to be to the city, and have wasted no time in getting it in shape for practical business. It is unnecessary to dwell upon the benefits which these improvements will be to this city. For years we have found it impossible to get out of the horrid mud of our streets during several months in each season, and business of all kinds has greatly suffered therefrom. But a new era, a new departure, has commenced; and the dawn of a new system, in compliance with the will and the majesty of a sovereign people, is particularly bright, and causes the future to be filled with glowing anticipations for the prosperity of our city."

Dr. Coles's Last Hymn.

The last poetic writing of the late Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains, was a hymn, now printed for the first time, which he wrote before going to California, where he died. The hymn is to the venerable doctor's favorite melody, "Home, Sweet Home" Here it is:

We've here no continuing city, no home,
But strangers and pilgrims we seek one to come,
Through sunshine and shadow we're journeying on
To the home of our Father, where Jesus has gone,
Heaven, heaven, sweet, sweet heaven!
What joy to be part of the family of heaven!

Dust mingles with dust and is joined to the clod,
But the home of the spirit is the bosom of God;
Unfolding its wings it flies to His breast
And leaning thereon is forever at rest,
Heaven, heaven, sweet, sweet heaven!
What joy to be part of the family of heaven

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

HO FOR THE TWIN CITIES.

Jersey's Delegation to the Christian Endeavor Convention Planning for a Royal Good Time.

The tenth international convention of the Christian Endeavor Societies of the country will be held at Minneapolis and St. Paul, as already detailed in these columns, July 9, 10, 11 and 12. The event will be a notable one. The delegation from this city will be headed by Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Netherwood. The route will be by special through train of Pullman vestibuled cars over the Lehigh Valley, Grand Trunk, Chicago & Grand Trunk, and Chicago & Northwestern Railways, arriving in Minneapolis, Thursday morning, July 9. The Jersey City section of the train will leave the Pennsylvania railway station, Jersey City, Tuesday, July 7, at 8:22 a. m., stopping to take on delegates as follows: Newark (Market street), 8:35; Perth Amboy, 8:35; Metuchen, 8:50; South Plainfield, 9; Bound Brook, 9:09; Flemington Junction, 9:34; Landsdown, 9:44; Phillipsburg, 10:13, Easton, 10:15; Bethelem, 10:45. The South Jersey and Philadelphia section will leave the Ninth and Green streets station, Philadelphia, at 9 a. m., arriving at Bethelem at 10:45. Connections will be made with the Pennsylvania railway at Newark, Perth Amboy, Metuchen, Phillipsburg and Philadelphia; with the New Jersey Central at Newark, Bound Brook and Phillipsburg; with the Philadelphia and Reading at Bound Brook and Philadelphia; with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western at Hoboken, (Barclay street ferry to New York, and Cortlandt street ferry to Jersey City station), Newark and Phillipsburg; with all the other trunk lines at Jersey City; with South Jersey lines at Philadelphia.

The rate is half fare. One can go from any point along the Lehigh Valley railway to Minneapolis and return for the price of the usual one way fare. The cost is only $28 50 from Jersey City, and $28.25 from Phillipsburg and Philadelphia. Tickets will be good to return as late as August 26, if desired, by depositing them at Minneapolis. A sleeper berth will cost $7 each way. Two persons can occupy a berth together, if desired. Board at the convention will be from $1 from to $1.50 per day in private families; $1.50 to $3 at hotels. Meals en route will be 50 cents each. $50 will cover all necessary expenses.

A delightful trip is arranged in the way of social features and picturesque scenery The New Jersey delegates will go together as a special party, and they will never afterwards go any other way. Christian Endeavor prayer meetings, praise meetings, twilight services, etc., will be held on the train en route, so that the convention will virtually begin Tuesday instead of Thursday. A highly picturesque and attractive route has been chosen, and a person of experience in conducting special parties has been provided by the railway companies to go with the train from start to finish to render such assistance as may be needed.

One section of the train will start from Jersey City, another from Philadelphia, and the two will unite at Bethlehem, Pa., at 10:45 a. m., combining with the Eastern Pennsylvania delegation, and going through to Minneapolis without change of cars.

By noon the party will reach Mauch Chunk, the famous "Switzerland of America"; a quarter of an hour later they will pass the picturesque Glen Onoko, then they will go over mountains and along gorges to Wilkesbarre, nestled among the mountains and overlooking the romantic Wyoming Valley, where dinner will be served. Supper will be had at Hornellsville, N. Y., then the train will go on to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge, and thence across Canada over the Grand Trunk Railway to Port Huron, reaching Chicago Wednesday afternoon by way of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway. Here the Western Pennsylvania delegation will join the Jerseys, making one grand special train over the Chicago and Northwestern Railway to Minneapolis, arriving in time for breakfast Thursday morning, and giving ample time to rest up for the opening of the convention at 4 p. m.

Plans are under way for excursions and pleasure trips to Yellowstone Park, Denver, and other places of resort after the convention closes. Delegates may also stop at Niagara Falls on their return trip, if they desire.

Local Races for the Fourth.

Good racing is promised at the Park avenue driving track for the afternoon of the Fourth. Among the entries will be:

First race—Philip Jenner's "Blanche Warwick", Fosher's "Dynamite", and John Chandler's "John C".

Second race—Mr. Hayes's "Andy", J. W. Johnson's "Marcanier", and M. Quinn's "Kitty Pilot".

Third race—O. T. Waring's "Copeland", Robert Fairbairn's "Shamrock", and John Noble's "Lou White".

A running race also may be run.

—Warren Engine Company, No. 1, of North Plainfield, has purchased the old Alert hose cart.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

THE CHAUTAUQUA OF '91.

Bishop Vincent's Happy Opening of the Eighteenth Session.

The eighteenth annual session of the Chautauqua Assembly was formally opened at Lake Chautauqua, yesterday, in the presence of a large number of cottagers and visitors. The amphitheatre was comfortably filled when Chancellor Vincent called the meeting to order in the afternoon. The Chancellor's address was particularly happy. He said the Chautauqua of 1874 contained the germs of the marvelous development of the seventeen years. While the externals have materially changed, the spirit of Chautauqua remained the same, a spirit of large humanity and of profound reverence. "We believe"—he said—"in progress, and in a future optimistic and not pessimistic for humanity."

President Miller telegraphed from Akron, Ohio, his congratulations, and said that he pressed the button and formally declared the summer meeting opened. Bishop Vincent congratulated the Chautauquans on the brilliant prospects and the rapid and wide increase of the university extension methods, as well as the general educational movement.

Colonel Francis W. Parker, of Quincy, principal of the Cook County Normal School, Illinois, made an address on the power, work and needs of the public schools. Dr. T. L. Flood, Editor of The Chautauquan, spoke of the advanced work that Chautauquans were doing, and said that it was really remarkable how much general information on all subjects was being given.

At 4 o'clock, in the Temple, Professor J. A. Woodburn, of Indiana State University, began a course of lectures on the causes of the American Revolution. After vesper service last night Professor M. L. Williston, of Chicago, gave the first of a unique series of lectures known as "Columbian" lectures, which treat of early American history. Some sixty stereopticon views were used.

The first day closed most auspiciously and the indications are that the influx of visitors this year will be larger than ever before. Students and teachers from Plainfield and all parts of the country are arriving on every train. Fifty thousand dollars has been expended in building and other improvements during the last season, and it will therefore readily be seen that the Chautauqua of '91 is ahead of the Chautauqua of '90. The boarding-house-keepers are nearly all on hand and ready for business, and the arrivals of guests are larger than at the same time last year. The building which attracts the most attention is the new arcade on Summerfield avenue, facing the lake. This handsome and substantial structure has been built at a cost of $10,000 under plans made by E. G. Hall, of Jamestown. It is one of the handsomest buildings on the ground. The new Presbyterian building on Palestine avenue is another tasteful structure, completed this spring at a cost of $4,000, and adds much to the beauty of the grounds. College Hall, on Wythe avenue, is just finished at a cost of $2,500, and the United Presbyterian headquarters, on Vincent avenue, costing $1,200, completes the list of public buildings for the season of '91. North avenue has been built up to a considerable extent the last winter. There are also some twenty more new cottages.

PRAISE FOR PLAINFIELD.

But Oh What a Terrible Scoring of Westfield and Its Umpire!

[From The Somerville Messenger.]

It has been the misfortune of the West End ball team, whenever they have gone out of town, to get the little end of the umpire's decisions, but we never expected to get the deal we did, in a town where we supposed we would be received with open arms and by a gentlemanly set, not only of ball-players but of club members. A year ago, when the Westfield club played with the Crescents, their base-ball organ, The Standard, said they could never treat a visiting club the way the Crescents had treated them. But alas! the Crescent treatment is incomparable to the way in which we were met on last Saturday. We have played in nearly every large city in the State, and we have never, I say positively never, received the deal that the fellow who umpired the game gave us on Saturday.

I say "fellow", because it would be a disgrace to the profession to call him an umpire, in view of the fact that he absolutely knew nothing about the game, and that he showed such utter ignorance of all rules of the game. I am sure a Dago or an Indian could have given better satisfaction, not only to both clubs, but to the crowd as well.

The Plainfield contingent, who went down expecting and wishing to see fair play, were not only surprised but disgusted that any team should receive the treatment which we did. As a physician, who sat upon the grand stand and was wholly a disinterested spectator, said: "That man I do not know what to make of; he is either winning this game for the Westfields willfully, or else he has a defective vision and cannot see straight." We would like to be charitable, but, in view of the fact that the umpire was heard to say to Hammil, their pitcher, "Hammil, whenever they begin to kick, just toss the balls over the plate, and I will call them out," we leave it to fair-minded people to say whether he is a fit person to judge a ball game or not.

The N. J. A. Club found fault with him, and I don't blame them. It is the only way Westfield can win a game from such clubs, and a victory from such a cause contains but very little glory.

At one time when the "Robber" was standing behind the pitcher, Farrell said to him "Mr. Umpire, won't you try and be a little more impartial on balls and strikes?" Mr. "Robber" replied: "You fellows are beaten, and you die hard. Your kicking can't scare me." "Oh, yes"—said Farrell—"I knew we were beaten as soon as I heard you make your first decision. How much extra do you get for today's game?"

We have all heard of the Boodle-Aldermen steal, and how they worked it. Well, this was something of a repetition of that. They wanted the whole hog or none, and they got it. We did not have a show in the whole game, and although they hit Harkins hard, and only one error was made by the West Ends, yet we could have won the game, hands down, had we the chance.

It was a great game and at one or two times heavy batting would have won it, but, as I have often said, we can't play against 10 men and bad luck. It was a batting game in every sense of the word, but had we a square deal we could have won it.

I would like to say, in conclusion, however, that if the Westfield Athletic Club expect to draw decent crowds, or attract strong, respectable teams to their grounds, they certainly must get another man to officiate as umpire, for certainly McGrath is a great failure. As to the crowd of hoodlums who extended along the fence on both sides of the grand stand, I can say that such disgraceful conduct and language on any ball field is disgusting. Noise and personalities do not affect our boys in any way; but with the ladies present, whom, I should judge, represented Westfield's best families, I would gently suggest that the management either put some restrictions upon the rabble or play with teams that decent people would not care to see.

We play the Westfield team at Somerville on July 11, and we hope to be able to teach them a less on not only in ball playing, but also show them what hospitality and good manners consist of.

If I have ever said anything against Plainfield in general, or the people therein, let me now say right here, I know not what I said. They are fair and upright and are deserving of all the credit a Somerville man can give them. They do like to see fair play and, I can tell you, they stood by us Saturday.

If Women, who complain of languor, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, and a weak, weary feeling, would throw "tonics," "bitters" and other patent medicines to the dogs and try before each meal a tablespoonful of Tudor's Rye Whiskey, they would find no need for patent trash. A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. Sold everywhere.

HARRISON'S
"Town and Country"
READY MIXED PAINTS,

Are unsurpassed (if equalled) in the following particulars:
They are painters' paints
They are perfectly pure.
They may be used by an old-time painter, just as he would use White Lead mixed by himself.
They will save money to painters.
They are uniform.
They are as bright as the best tinting colors can make them.
They are permanent.
They are good for many years wear when properly applied.
They will stand unlimited brushing out.
They are cheaper than any similar color mixed by hand.
They will cover on a good surface 600 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
They will cover on a poor surface 300 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
They readily blend and mix with pure, raw Linseed Oil, their spreading capacity is still greater

SHE IS MINE.

There's a sparkle in her eye
That no millionaire can buy—
If they think so let them try—
She's divine.

There's a blush upon her cheek
Like the peach tree's blossom, eke
Like red willows by the creek
Or like wine.

She has roses in her hair;
It was I who put them there,
Really, did I ever dare?
Is she mine?

Or can it all be a dream,
Idle poet's empty theme
Put in words that make it seem Superfine?

No; for see—upon her hand
There's a little golden band,
Filigree work, understand—
Like a vine.

And a perfect solitaire
Pris upon it. The affair
Cost two hundred. I don't care!
She is mine.

—Winthrop Church, in Munsey's Weekly.

MR. BOWSER.

He Averts a Great Danger in His Household.

"Microbes and Bacteria—He Pictures Them for Mrs. B.'s Enlightenment—She Again Treads on Dangerous Ground—The Worm May Turn at Last.

A MICROBE.

WHAT'S the matter and what have you got there?" queried Mrs. Bowser, as he came home the other day half an hour ahead of his usual time, and being loaded down with a heavy purchase of something.

"Don't ask me any questions now!" he replied, as he dropped his hat and squirmed out of his overcoat.

"Is anything wrong—are you sick?" she anxiously demanded.

"Don't say a word—not a word, and don't bother me for ten minutes! I hope I'm in time to avert the danger!"

She turned pale and fell upon the sofa, and he hurriedly broke the string securing the package, seized the three quart bottles which comprised its contents and rushed upstairs, down the back stairs, down into the basement and up again. A strange, disagreeable odor followed him as he hustled around, and by the time he had returned to the sitting room Mrs. Bowser had recovered sufficiently to ask:

"Mr. Bowser, what on earth are you doing, and what in the name of goodness is that stuff?"

"What have I been doing? Saving our lives, Mrs. Bowser—saving the life of every one under this roof!"

"But I—I didn't know our lives were in danger."

"Of course not. If the house was on fire from top to bottom and the firemen pitching our furniture out of the windows, you might possibly realize the fact, but it has never struck you that death silently lurks in every room in this house."

"How you talk, Mr. Bowser. What has been the danger hanging over us?"

"Microbes, Mrs. Bowser!" he whispered, as he sat down and wiped his heated face: "Microbes and bacteria—millions of 'em!"

A BACTERIA.

"It can't be!" she replied.

"Can't it! You've lived in New York two weeks, been out as far as Broadway once, and you think you know all about it! I knew, of course, but having so many other things to see to this one slipped my mind until to-day."

"But what causes that terrible odor?"

"Nothing terrible about it, as I see. On the contrary, I rather like it. It is the odor of disinfectants, Mrs. Bowser—the odor of something which has no doubt saved our lives."

"How?"

"By killing off the microbes and bacteria which would soon have entered our systems and produced terrible illness, if not death."

"Well, I suppose you know best," she said, as she opened a window to let a yard or two of the carbolic smell dodge out.

"Certainly I do, certainly. All husbands do. Mrs. Bowser, let me draw you a picture of a microbe. You can then realize the danger which menaced us."

"DO I KNOW A BENGAL TIGER FROM A WOODCHUCK?"

He drew the insect—to be found at the head of this column—and as she surveyed it in surprise and disgust, he continued:

"Nice thing to have about forty of those birds cantering around through your system, eh?"

"Where do they come from?"

"Sewer gas. By this time to-morrow the house would have been swarming with them and nothing on earth could have saved us from typhoid fever or diphtheria. If the microbe was the only thing to look out for I shouldn't have been so anxious, but there is the bacteria."

"What's that?"

"Here is a picture of him. Comes in the same way, and his mission is to eat out the lungs. It is calculated that two thousand of them will eat out the strongest man's lungs in a month."

"And they were in this house?" she asked.

"Right here, in this house."

"And ready to be absorbed into our systems?"

"Not only ready, but anxious."

"You are sure you don't mean cockroaches? I saw two under the kitchen sink yesterday, and was going to ask you to get some powdered borax."

"Mrs. Bowser!" he began, as he stood up, "are you growing soft in the top of your head? Do I know a Bengal tiger from a woodchuck?"

"I—I suppose so."

"But I don't know a microbe or a bacteria from a cockroach?" he thundered.

"But I never heard you speak of them before, and I——"

"Do you imagine that I or any other husband sits down and tells his wife all he knows!" he shouted. "Because I haven't told you that a jack rabbit's legs have three joints is that any reason why I haven't known it for forty years!"

"But this is medical science, isn't it?" she softly protested.

"And suppose it is! Do you suppose I've gone sloshing around all these years with nothing but a recipe for making soft soap in my head?"

She was silent, and after striding up and down the room a few times she halted before her and continued:

"A wife isn't expected to know these things, of course, but I'll be accounted a pretty husband and father and member of a scientific club if I didn't know all about microbes and bacteria."

"But that picture of a bacteria looks like a lobster," she persisted.

"Lobster! Looks like a lobster, does it? Very well, Mrs. Bowser, this discussion will end right here. It is plain enough that you haven't the necessary knowledge to appreciate it."

"But don't you——"

"Never you mind, Mrs. Bowser! Let it drop right here. Is supper ready?"

The odor was so strong in the dining-room that the butter tasted of it, and after supper the cook called Mrs. Bowser into the kitchen to ask:

"Is it going to be like this all the time?"

"Oh, no. Mr. Bowser had to kill off the microbes and bacteria, you see."

"What's them?"

"I'll have him come out and explain."

"No need of it, ma'am, for my bundle is all made up, and I'm going. A man who'll drag dead cats through his own house would cheat a poor girl out of her wages at the end of a month. Microbes and bacteria, eh? I don't believe it! Let him show them to me up in the zoological gardens!"

When Mrs. Bowser told Mr. Bowser what had occurred he bristled up, got red in the face, and exclaimed:

"I see how it is; couldn't carry your point with me, and so you went out and upset the girl! Mrs. Bowser, you are treading on dangerous ground—very dangerous. A husband may be a worm, but if that worm is stepped on too often he turns!"—M. Quad, in N. Y. World.

STANCH AND TRUE.

Modern Steamships Have No Fear of Storms, However Violent.

It is not when the seas come pounding over the bows that the captain's face lengthens. Even when it is necessary to keep the passengers below, and the spray is carried as high as the foretop, his confidence in his ship is unabated. His spirits do not fall with the barometer, and though the clouds hang low, and the air is filled with stinging moisture flying like sleet from the hissing sea—even when boats are torn out of the davits, and iron bitts and ventilators are snapped from their fastenings like pipestems, he has no misgiving as to the ability of the ship to weather the gale, or the fiercest hurricane that can blow.

Give him an open sea, without haze, or fog, or snow, and neither wind nor wave can alarm him. He knows very well, as all who are experienced in such matters do, that the modern steamers of the great Atlantic lines are so carefully constructed, and of such strength, that the foundering of one of them through stress of weather alone is well-nigh inconceivable.

But when a fog descends, then it is that his face and manner change, and he who has been the most sociable and gayest of men suddenly becomes the most anxious and taciturn. His seat at the head of the table is vacant; look for him and you will not find him, as in fair weather, diverting groups of girls tucked up in steamer chairs on the promenade deck, but pacing the bridge and puffing a cigar which apparently has not been allowed to go out since it was lighted as the big ship backed from her wharf into the North river.

Whenever and wherever it occurs, fog is a source of danger from which neither prudence nor skill can guarantee immunity; and whether the ship is slowed down or going at full speed, there is cause for fear while this gray blindness baffles the eyes. With plenty of searoom the danger is least, and it increases near land, especially where the coast is wild and broken, like that of Ireland and Wales, and where there are many vessels as well as rocks to be passed.—Scribner.

—Little Eddie had never tasted sassafras tea until he went to visit his aunt in the country. Then he liked it so much that he passed his cup back, saying, solemnly: "Thank you for some more satisfy tea."—Boston Courier.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Physicians Couldn't Cure Him.

SIDNEYVILLE, Hamilton Co., O., June, 1890. One bottle of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely, after physicians had tried in unsuccessfully for 3 months to relieve me of nervous debility. W. HUENNEFELD.

Very Much Good.

Angola, Erie Co., N. Y., April, 1890. Being very nervous my arms would twitch whenever I tried to lift anything, my memory was also affected, and bad thoughts troubled my mind so that I didn't know what to do with myself. Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely. JOHN SHEELY.

Perfect Health.

TACONY, PHIL. Co., Pa., Dec., '88. Mr. F. J. Ryan writes under above date: I had a fall about 16 months ago, from which I contracted fits, had such attacks every six weeks, but since I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I have not had any symptoms of them and am in perfect health.

Our treatise for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, also free of charge from us. This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

CURSED THE CHURCH

A Priest's Anathema Creates Great Excitement.

THE OUTCOME OF A SCHISM.

A Tremendous Sensation Created Among Catholics Over the Affair.

When the Clergyman Pronounced the Words a Frightful Scene Followed—Women and Children Shrieked and Many of them Fell Fainting—Some of the Men Tried to Assault the Priest.

MONTREAL, July 3.—Fainting and hysterical women lay prone on the earth, shrieking children, enraged men cursing and swearing in God's sanctuary and threatening a black robed, pale-faced priest who, with uplifted crucifix stood uttering the malediction of Rome on their dead! Such was the extraordinary scene within the chapel at Maskinonge, P. Q., 40 miles from Montreal.

The scene was probably unprecedented in the history of the Catholic Church, it being no less than official cursing of the chapel by Father Savard of the Redemptorists, acting under the orders of Father T. Lafleche, vicar of the parish and nephew of the Bishop of Three Rivers.

The action of the ecclesiastics outlined above was due to a schism in the parish, brought about by the erection of the new parish church. Some months since it was decided to erect a church to give greater accommodation to the population. Bishop Lafleche visited the parish and selected a site on the east side of Maskinonge River.

A short time after, the inhabitants residing on the west side succeeded in inducing the bishop to alter his decision, and two months ago the erection of the church was commenced on the west side.

This gave such offense to the people of the east side that they met and decided to erect a wooden chapel in which to worship. The work was begun, but before the edifice could be completed it was destroyed by a storm, and many of the women thought this an intervention of God.

The chapel was reconstructed, however. Since then 200 men, women and children, including leading citizens have met there for worship. The school master read the prayers and recited the beads and a choir sang hymns, a favorite being "Chretiens qui Combattons." While thus engaged they were surprised to see Father Savard of St. Anne's Church, Montreal, enter, holding in his hand a crucifix. His arrival produced a great sensation. The priest addressed the people, and implored them to renounce their schism and return to the church.

One of the men said, "Bless our chapel, and we will listen to you."

"What! I bless your chapel!" replied the Redemptorist with uplifted crucifix. "I should rather curse it. May the curse of the Almighty fall on it!"

And then, in the official formula, he called down the malediction of God on the chapel.

The scene which followed was frightful and impossible to describe. Women and girls shrieked in turn. Many of them fainted and had to be removed. Some of the men stood stupefied, while others were with difficulty restrained from assaulting the priest.

They asked him if he had cursed them and their children. He said "only the building they met in." This mollified them, and the congregation silently dispersed, many in tears. The affair has created tremendous excitement among all Catholics on the north shore, and threats are made of legal action against Father Savard.

KIDNAPED BY GYPSIES.

The Mother of One, at Pistol's Point, Rescues Two Lads.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 3.—Two villages, one in Vermont and the other just over the line in Washington County, N. Y., were excited yesterday over the kidnaping of a boy at Fort Ann. The mother, suspecting a band of strolling gypsies, followed in pursuit, overhauling them at North Pawlet, just as the band were about to drive away.

The gypsies denied having the lad and were about to drive on when the woman pulled a shotgun from under the mat, and, pointing the weapon at them, repeated her demand. This time it was obeyed. Two boys were pulled out from under a lot of quilts, her boy and a neighbor's son whom she did not know was missing. The gypsies had stolen both at Fort Ann.

To Secure Antiquities for the World's Fair

PUTNAM, Conn., July 3.—Messrs. Thos. A. Painter of Columbia College and Stanley Hayes of Yale, have left for Peru for the purpose of securing photographs, plaster casts, etc., of some ancient monument and other antiquities. They will send these casts and pictures to the Peabody Museum at Harvard, where they will be arranged and set up, and then sent to Chicago for use at the World's Fair. These gentlemen have been sent to Peru at the instance of Maj. William S. Beebe, recently appointed by Harvard College to take charge of the archeological exhibits at the Chicago Exposition.

Many Houses Destroyed by a Cyclone.

BOONE, Ia., July 3.—A cyclone which struck the town of Gray, Audubon County, last evening, demolished a number of houses, injured crops and did other damage. At Halber one man was killed. A heavy hail storm also prevailed throughout Audubon County, lasting 20 minutes, and did much damage to crops and window panes, especially in the vicinity of Great Arcadia and West Side.

Another Fire in the Colliery.

ASHLAND, Pa., July 3.—Fire was discovered again in the Reading Company's Best colliery at noon. The mules and mules were hoisted to the surface. Five hundred men are affected.

The Best Things In Cookery

Are always made with the ROYAL BAKING POWDER. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest rolls, biscuit, cake, etc., and which the most expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other raising agent.

The ROYAL BAKING POWDER, besides rendering the food more palatable and wholesome, is, because of its higher leavening power, the most economical.

The ROYAL makes more and better food than any other baking powder because it is the purest.

BARDSLEY'S SENTENCE.

Solitary Confinement for Fifteen Years and to Pay a Fine of $337,330.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Just a little before noon in the new court house Judge Wilson spoke the following words that sealed John Bardsley's fate for a long time to come:

"The sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned in solitary confinement at labor in the Eastern penitentiary for terms which, in the aggregate, will amount to 15 years, and that you pay fines aggregating the sum of $337,330."

Bardsley received his sentence calmly. Judge Wilson spoke plainly to him, saying their was no palliation for such conduct. He returned to Moyamensing, and it is expected that he will be taken to the Eastern Penitentiary this afternoon, where he will be shaved of his beard and be given a striped suit, and hereafter be known by a number.

Bardsley will be 55 years old next September, and he will be 67 years old when he leaves the penitentiary, for he is entitled to a reduction of 43 months for good behavior.

BULKELEY STRIKES BACK.

He Creates a Sensation in Connecticut Military Circles.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 3.—Something of a sensation has been created in military circles by an order issued by Gov. Bulkeley directing the dismissal of Brig.-Gen. Graham of the militia from the military service of the State for the benefit of the service.

The words "for the benefit of the service" are seldom used, and only in cases where the person whose services are being dispensed with has been guilty of a serious offense, such as dishonesty or drunkenness; hence the sensation.

Gen. Graham was relieved from the command of the militia about a year ago by Gov. Bulkeley, who at that time gave him an honorable discharge. The Senate reinstated him and removed Col. Thomas L. Watson, who was appointed his successor. The latter is again appointed to the position of Brigadier-General by Gov. Bulkeley.

This makes a direct issue between the Governor and the Senate as to their respective authorities.

PRIEST AGAINST BISHOP.

An Action to Recover $6,000 on an Alleged Contract for Salary.

BOSTON, July 3.—The suit of Maurice Fitzgerald, a priest, against Archbishop Williams came up again in the Supreme Court on motion to replace it on the docket from which it had been stricken under the seven year limit.

The action is one to recover $6,000 on an alleged contract for salary for services rendered, and income from the church at Foxboro, of which parish the plaintiff was pastor.

The ground on which the plaintiff seeks to maintain his claim is that the archbishop hired him and placed him in charge of the parish, and had no right to remove him as he did. The answer of the archbishop is that the plaintiff was removed for improper conduct, and that nothing is due him.

Depositors Will be Paid in Full.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 3.—The directors of the Asbury Park National Bank met to-day, and Bank Examiner Stone, who closed the bank yesterday, was present. Nothing definite was done. The depositors will be paid in full, but it will take some time. The loss will fall on the directors. The majority of the stock is held in New York and Pennsylvania. The general opinion is that the affairs of the bank will be closed up.

Claim They Were Blacklisted.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 3.—It is reported that the employes of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, who struck last August and who were reinstated after the collapse of the strike, are being dismissed now. It is believed they were blacklisted, and now that the company has recovered from the effects of the strike it is ridding itself of these men. The railroad official here say that there is no truth in the report.

Newsome's Exploring Expedition.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 3.—The Bowdoin College Labrador exploring expedition sailed this morning for the Straits of Belle Isle. All well.

DREW MAY RETIRE

He Will Probably be Dismissed from the Service.

THE EXAMINATION CONCLUDED.

Secretary Foster's Decision Looked For This Afternoon.

The Accused Officer Has Been a Bank Examiner for Nineteen Years—The Four and a Half Per Cent Bonds Are to be Continued at a Two Per Cent Rate—Cabinet Officers Take an Outing.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—While not officially stated, it is understood that the examination of Bank Examiner Drew of Philadelphia has been concluded, and that the Secretary of the Treasury will give his decision this afternoon.

The examination has been going on for the past ten days under the supervision of Comptroller of the Currency Lacey, Mr. Drew's reports to the Comptroller on the Keystone bank were taken for two years or more back and compared with the condition of the bank at the time the various reports were made.

The result of the investigation is a close secret with Mr. Lacey and Secretary Foster. There is an impression that Mr. Drew's dismissal will ensue, however. This impression is created by the fact that Mr. George Shepard, bank examiner at Pittsburg, and Mr. Betts, bank examiner at Cincinnati, have been ordered to take up the routine work. It is argued that if Mr. Drew's conduct was above criticism he would have been reinstated as soon as the investigation had been made and a decision arrived at. Mr. Drew is an old officer, having filled the position of bank examiner in Philadelphia for the past 19 years.

Will Refund Bonds.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The four and a half per cent. bonds are to be continued at two per cent. and to be redeemable at the pleasure of the government. This was the decision finally reached at the Cabinet meeting.

Persia and the World's Fair.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The report is published that the State Department has been notified of the official acceptance of Persia to participate in the World's Fair. It is intimated unofficially that the Shah of Persia will visit the Exposition.

Cabinet Officers Take an Outing.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Secretaries Foster and Rusk leave to-night to spend the Fourth at Elkins, W. Va.

THEY FAVOR CLEVELAND.

Governor Hill Not the Choice of the Randall Club.

PITTSBURG, July 3.—At a meeting of the Randall Club last night the arrangements for the club's annual fete champetre on July 29 were completed.

A motion was made by a member to invite ex-President Cleveland to be present on that occasion. An amendment was offered to include the name of Gov. Hill of New York. A storm of "Noes" was the response, during which the president, with mock solemnity, ruled the amendment out of order.

When the question was called on the original motion, a solitary "No" indicated the sentiment of Western Pennsylvania Democrats.

Invitations were then voted to Gov. Campbell of Ohio and Gov. Fleming of West Virginia, as well as to many other prominent Democrats.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the meeting of the State League of Democratic Clubs, which meet in Pittsburg in September.

A Fanciful Stroke in the Cars.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., July 3.—Mrs. George Z. Morgan, of New York city, a near relative of J. Pierpont Morgan, received a mortal paralytic stroke on the Berkshire Hills express last night while en route from New York to Lenox, where she was to have been the guest of the Frelinghuysens.

CAPTURED A TOWN

The Chilian Rebels Take Possession of Huasco.

BALMACEDA'S TROOPS RETREAT.

The Insurgents Confident that Their Success is Not Far Off.

The British Consul-General at Valparaiso in Trouble—Two of His Clerks Arrested and Taken to Jail—They Are Charged With Assisting the Rebels—Protest from the British Minister.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Don Pedro Montt, the representative of the Chilian insurgents in this country, has received private advices from Senor Errazuris, the insurgent leader at Iquique.

He says that the insurgent army advanced in force on Huasco, at the mouth of the Huasco river, about 110 miles north of Coquimbo. The town was captured with little or no resistance, Balmaceda's forces retiring on Coquimbo in disorder.

Senor Montt says the news of the capture of Huasco was received with great joy at Iquique, and the insurgents are confident that their full success is not far off.

Valparaiso newspapers give an account of a serious complication in which Her Britannic Majesty's Consul-General at Valparaiso has become involved. According to the statements put out from British sources, the Governor of the province, attended by two officials, presented himself at the British Consulate and requested that two of the consular clerks might be permitted to give testimony before the chief magistrate on a matter that had nothing to do with the Consulate or its business.

Consent being given, the two clerks were hustled into a cab and driven to the public jail, where they were accused of complicity in the escape of the insurgent torpedo boat Guias, and of conveying funds to that vessel in an envelope bearing the Consulate seal.

One of the clerks thus arrested was subsequently released, but his companion, at latest advices, was still in confinement, notwithstanding the protest of the Consul-General, backed up by the British Minister.

ESCAPED LYNCHING.

A Mount Kisco Farmer Got Away Just in Time.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., July 3.—This usually quiet village is in a turmoil. A terrible crime has been committed, and the perpetrator has escaped. He didn't wait for the law. Neither did the citizens.

They organized a lynching party, provided incidentally with tar and feathers as well as a rope. He got away to Connecticut. In this he was assisted by the alleged dereliction of a Justice of the Peace, and feeling runs high in the village against him.

Wright Eckert is a farmer living on the outskirts of the town. He has two children, the youngest a girl of six. He was charged with assaulting her by Officer Edward Kast, and a warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace W. L. Halstead. Eckert admitted his guilt, which was also proved by the testimony of a physician.

When Eckert was arraigned the justice, despite the evidence and the prisoner's confession, allowed him to go, as he "needed a day to decide." Eckert at once left town.

The news of the result of the case spread rapidly among the indignant residents of the village, and a number of them organized a vigilance committee. One barrel of tar and two bags of feathers were procured, besides a good strong rope and a convenient post in the centre of the village, which was selected in case it was needed. The party then started for Eckert's house, which is within a short distance of the railroad station. They broke in the door. Mrs. Eckert begged that they would spare her and spare her children. She denied that her husband was in the house.

It is said that Eckert is in Bridgeport. The citizens are much excited and highly indignant over the action of Justice Halstead.

THE VETERANS MEET.

Twenty-Second Annual Reunion of the Army of the Potomac.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—The 22d annual reunion of the Society of the Army of the Potomac opened here to-day, and the veterans will remain in the city until to-morrow night. The city is elaborately decorated.

The corps reunions were held at Music Hall. In the afternoon there will be a grand excursion on the lake and river, the excursion fleet being escorted by the United States steamer Michigan, the revenue cutters Perry and Fessenden, and the light house steamer Haze.

To-night the general reunion occurs at Music Hall, with an oration by Gen. Henry W. Slocum and a poem by Gen. Morden. The grand military parade takes place to-morrow morning, headed by four companies of regulars from Forts Porter and Niagara, and the marines from the steamer Michigan. The celebration will close to-morrow evening with a banquet.

Railway Federation Officers.

CHICAGO, July 3.—There is much dissatisfaction over the action of the Supreme Council of the Federation of Railway Employes at Terre Haute in expelling the trainmen. Before adjourning the following officers were elected: Grand Master Sargent of the Firemen was reelected President of the Council, and John A. Hall, Secretary of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, was elected Secretary and Treasurer to succeed Sheehan of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, whose order was expelled from the Federation.

Evolution.

In light: first, the tallow dip, then kerosene, then gas, then last and best electricity.

In leavening agents: first, sour milk and soda, then some home-made combination of soda with cream of tartar, then baking powders containing ammonia and alum, then Cleveland's Baking Powder, by far the best of all, and entirely free from alum, ammonia and other adulterants.

The best illuminating agent—Electricity.

The best leavening agent—

ON TOP OF THE EIFFEL TOWER.

Count von Munster Escorts the Ladies of the White House.

PARIS, July 3.—The German Ambassador, Count von Munster, has been very attentive indeed to Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison. Yesterday he invited the ladies to accompany him to the top of the Eiffel tower. Minister Whitelaw Reid, Count Arnot and the members of the German Embassy made up a considerable and distinguished party. They stayed in M. Eiffel's private room at the summit of the tower for some time, admiring the fine view which is had from that altitude of the city of Paris and the country round. The ladies enjoyed this novel experience hugely.

After this the German Ambassador drove Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Harrison and Mr. Reid in his own carriage through the Bois de Boulogne.

In the evening the ladies dined with Consul-General and Mrs. King, Minister Reid also being present.

Suicide Ranch Buried.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 3.—The funeral of John Ranch, whose desperate deed robbed two persons of their lives, occurred at noon. No minister officiated at the funeral, but a friend of the dead man, George Jones, read a simple burial service. A gold watch, chain and charm and a silk handkerchief, presents made to the dead man by Maria Buckel, his sweetheart and victim, and also a portrait of the girl, were buried with the dead man. The remains were interred at Bellette.

News from the Dory Sea Serpent.

BOSTON, July 3.—Capt. Floyd, of the schooner Agnes, has brought a letter to St. John, N. B., from Capt. J. W. Lawler, who is crossing the ocean in his dory, the Sea Serpent, in which he says he is well and in good spirits. The letter is dated "Ninety-five miles off Boston Light, June 24." Capt. Floyd spoke the Sea Serpent that day.

TO SIT IN DEATH'S CHAIR.

Four Murderers to be Electrocuted at Sing Sing Next Week.

SING SING, N. Y., July 3.—Warden Brown of Sing Sing prison will have his hands full next week. In the prison are four men condemned to occupy the death chair during the week beginning at midnight Sunday.

The men are James J. Slocum, Hargis A. Smiler, Joseph Wood and Shibuya Jugiro, the Jap.

Slocum, who murdered his wife, says: "I guess its all up this time, and I'm glad of it; I don't want any more fooling; I'd rather have it over."

Wood, who killed an Italian fellow-laborer on the New York aqueduct, is, as usual, very quiet. He reads, smokes and sits thinking, but rarely says a word.

Smiler, the Salvation Army officer, who killed one of his three wives because she left him on account of ill treatment, talks continually, protesting his innocence and complaining in a whining way of his fate.

Jugiro is low spirited and dazed by the approach of his terrible end.

Warden Brown, when asked to give some information as to the time of execution, said: "I positively refuse to give any information on the subject. I shall carry out the law to its last letter, and I shall give no information to the press other than that the execution took place at a certain hour. There will be no newspaper reporter at the executions. I shall be personally acquainted with every witness, and I have already refused both press notations admittance. The law shall be implicitly obeyed, and no newspaper reports shall come from the inside of my prison walls. The information which the law allows shall be given, and that is all."

THE INLAND SEA.

A Relief that the Water Comes Underground from Salt Lake.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 3.—It is the opinion of Superintendent Dubrow of the Salton Salt Works that the water now invading the Colorado Desert comes underground from Great Salt Lake, Utah. The salt deposit of the desert is like the salt of the Utah lake, and not like ocean salt.

The new body of water has been named Lake Mulvihill, in honor of the man who first launched a boat upon it.

The theory that the water comes from the Colorado river is losing supporters. There is too much of the water; it came after the Colorado rise ceased; it is salt water and contains salt water fish. All this is against the river theory.

A VICTIM OF VESUVIUS.

Fall of a Brazilian Sightseer Into the Running Crater.

ROME, July 3.—Vesuvius has renewed its volcanic activity, and the torrent of lava rushing down the mountain side is rapidly increasing in volume. Two Brazilian tourists ascended the mountain were suddenly enveloped in a dense cloud of smoke which rushed out upon them from the volcanic depths. When the outburst had subsided it was found that one of the gentlemen had become asphyxiated and had fallen into the mouth of the crater. His companion was saved.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—No PRESS to-morrow.

—Fine fixings for the 4th, at Peck's.

—The principal meat markets will close at 10 a. m. to-morrow.

—All the Plainfield drugstores will be closed from 1 to 6 p. m. to-morrow.

—Open until ten to-night; closed all day, the Fourth; is the word from Doane & VanArsdale.

—The "Elkwood" to-night and to-morrow (the Fourth). You know. Don't forget "the proper caper".

—An outdoor picnic is being held by Engine Company No. 2, at Eureka Grove, Evona, this afternoon and evening.

—A fine assortment of first-class fireworks for the Fourth may be found at the store of Joseph M. Harper, No 75 Park avenue, near Fourth street.

—The Netherwood orchestra will be augmented upon the occasion of the glorious Fourth, and an outdoor band concert will be given in the afternoon.

—The rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be open as usual on the Fourth. A praise service will be held in the evening from eight to nine o'clock.

—As a number of the families at Hotel Netherwood have purchased extensive supplies of fireworks for their "own private consumption," the display will be almost as great as in any past year when a general fund was raised for the purpose.

—Alfred A., and Theo. B. Marsh, under the firm name of Marsh Bros., have taken the basement under Col. Moore's office, 55 North avenue, and are fitting it up in substantial style. All interior decorations, and all kinds of painting will receive the promptest and best attention at their hands.

—The committee of the First Baptist excursion are sorry that a postponement was necessary. A delegation of three went to Belmar yesterday and found preparations made to have given all a most enjoyable day, Thursday, July 16, is now the day arranged for, and a good time is promised.

—A number of boys, aged thirteen years and less, stole a keg of beer, Wednesday afternoon, took it to a sequestered spot near Grant avenue and Green brook, and got so intoxicated and sick that the soberest of the lot, a lad named Hickey, telephoned for a physician, who had the boys taken home and attended to.

—The second excursion of the season to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will be that of the M. E. Sunday-school, Friday, July 10. The train will leave Plainfield at 7:45. Tickets will be $1.25. The fare for children under 12 years of age will be 90 cents. It is needless to say that the event will be one of the highest enjoyment.

—Because Westfield is to have a "genuine, old-fashioned, hearty celebration" of the glorious Fourth, and because Plainfield is going to be "ingloriously and ignominiously inactive and apathetic", the Mt. Ararat papers are crowing that Westfield is the "patriotic hub of the county", as well as the "base-ball champion of the State".

—Lizzie Courtney, a colored damsel, had Amazonian Jennie Peterson, likewise of dusky hue, arrested, yesterday, on the charge of assault. Lizzie said Jennie pushed her down and gave her an old-fashioned whipping with the palm of her hand. The court patiently heard a lot of wrangling testimony, fined Jennie $1.50, and told her she must confine her spankings to her own children.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

—Mrs. J. G. Musgrave, of Mercer avenue, will spend the summer months at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Miss S. G. Kenney, of First place, will spend July and August at Pine Brook, Orange county, N. Y.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Myrtle avenue, left yesterday for Mt. Pocono, where she will spend the summer.

William C. Ayers of this city, the veneral agent of the Central New Jersey Land Improvement company, has, on account of poor health, resigned his position and retired from active business.

L. E. Walz, Jr., of the Plainfield Bicycle club, is entered in the 100-yard dash and 220-yard run at Somerville, to-morrow morning, and H. W. Beebe, also of this city, is in the 220 and 440-yard runs.

Chas. E. Boss, principal of the North Plainfield public school, is a member of the committee on resolutions at the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association now in session at Asbury Park.

Architect A. L. C. Marsh, of this city, designer of the Y. M. C. A. building and the residences of Dr. T. S. Davis, John M. Crane, Dr. J. H. Cooley, and many others, has hung out his own shingle at 90 Nassau street, New York.

Some of the Birds Not Home Yet.

The 450-mile pigeon race of the New Jersey Central-section of American Homing Pigeon fanciers, in which were many Plainfield birds and which took place on Saturday last as published exclusively in THE PRESS, will have to be flown over again. The day was a bad one with a strong wind directly in the faces of the birds. In consequence none got home the same day, and so that contest is off.

The start was from Winston, N. C., on Saturday morning. The first Plainfield bird home was S. P. Crain's "Puritan" which arrived about 10:20 o'clock Sunday morning. Captain Dosne had two pigeons home soon after. The birds of Hervey Doane, Stevens and Place are still out.

Will Plainfield's Club Help Them?

The Union County Roadsters are certainly hustlers. They now propose to secure the New Jersey Jockey Club's grounds, and in connection with some of the other prominent bicycle clubs in the State turn it into a model track for bicycle racing. There is no track in the country of that size that is as suitable for fast riding, and if they succeed in putting it in condition there will be many records broken.

WHO'S "IS LEWIS"?

The Old Tactics Being Worked Again.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I note in a recent issue of the news and in the last issue of the Times, an article republish from the Engineering News, with their comments.

This article was evidently written by the same person, or else he copied almost verbatim from the article that appeared several months ago when the crushing-out process was begun on the Water-Works company of Plainfield.

The article is, of course, of no weight or moment, as anyone can read that it is written by Mr. Hering (who charges $2,000 a month for his services) or some other engineer who wants the job suggested in the article.

In 1889, as we all know, the Plainfield Common Council granted a franchise to Charles E. Moore and his associates under the title: The Water-Works Company of Plainfield.

Mr. Moore, who is a thorough business man and far-seeing, arrived at the idea that water-works could be established in Plainfield, and be made to pay good interest on the large capital necessary to construct proper works.

He procured this franchise as above stated, and had the works well under way with a fair prospect of completing them in the time limit of the franchise, when some of our citizens of the Rip Van Winkle order, said to themselves: "Ha! ha! my boy! What are you up to? We guess we will look into this water-works business a little now that we have awoke again. We will go to the old closet that cobwebs have been gathering on for the last twenty years, and see if we have not tucked away there a little key to the situation. Oh, yes: here it is. Now we will see if we cannot utilize this document and catch this boy. We see that the people want water as well as gas and electric lights. What can we do to squelch this little boy? The ball must be started quick for he is getting ahead fast."

Evidently after acquainting themselves with the situation, they saw that Mr. Moore would have to realize on a greater proportion of bonds from investors.

Then the article similar to the one above referred to appeared in the Plainfield organs, and some were copied into the New York press, which of course gave a black eye to the bonds. But the active and energetic Mr. Moore partially overcame that obstacle.

At this time they thought that other stringent methods must be adopted, when behold, one "Israel Lewis" appeared on the scene. This proved to be the last straw that broke the camel's back. Mr. Moore had to surrender, and the Rip VanWinkles, obtained full control of his property and partially completed works.

Who is this volunteer, Mr. Lewis?

Where did he come from?

What interest has he personally in the water question of Plainfield?

Was he merely brought forward as a tool?

Perhaps some who are more familiar with the inside facts could answer the above questions for the enlightment of the readers of the PRESS and the public in general. I was informed about six months ago that a high city official, when asked about this Mr. Lewis, by one of the then Councilmen, said:

"If the Council will allow Mr. Pope to proceed with his water-works, you will not hear anything more from Mr. Lewis."

From the article above referred to one would infer that more Israel Lewises will be forthcoming in case the Council should grant the franchise to Mr. Low.

Fortunately, as I understand it, Mr. Low has not got to go to the public with his bones in order to raise funds to complete the works if he should obtain the franchise; for it is understood from good authority that he has ample means in his control to do what would be required of him in Plainfield and a dozen other cities.

Now it is hoped that the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, who were elected by the people to represent the people, and look after the people's interests, will not waver in their duties and allow the present monopolists to tighten their grasp on the citizens of Plainfield.

A LEGITIMATE CITIZEN.

The Games Arranged for Plainfield's Cricket Club.

St. George's Cricket club of this city will play an all-day match at Paterson, next Monday, against the Paterson Cricket club, and have engaged Mr. Conover of North Plainfield to drive them over in his mammoth stage. A pleasant time is expected en route. It is hoped the St. George's will be the winners of the day, although they have a strong team to compete against.

The Fourth of July festivities at Paterson are to be kept up the following week and this is one of the attractions for the people of that city. There will be no games in this city until August 1, because the Club's new grounds at Giraud and Willow avenues are just being laid out in suitable condition. When finished the grounds will be equal to any in the State.

The first match will be August 1, against the New Jersey Athletic Club. Then August 8, against the Cosmopolitan Cricket club, at Clifton, N. J., August 15, against the Paterson Cricket club, at Plainfield; and an alternate schedule of games throughout the season will be played. These games are free to all, and it is the desire of the management to arouse a more local interest in the sport.

—Everybody with their friends will be found at the "Elkwood" before and after the ball game to-morrow.

Collision of Vestibuled and Freight Trains at Ravenna, Ohio.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

RAVENNA, O., July 3.—Train No. 8, a through vestibule express from Cincinnati to New York on the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroad, was wrecked at this station at 2:20 a. m. to-day.

The list of the dead, injured and missing so far as can be learned is a large one.

The express was telescoped by train 82, a Chicago meat express for New York.

The passenger train, made up of eight cars, had just pulled into the station and the engineer was busy on some necessary repairs when the express was sighted in the rear.

The brakeman of the passenger was sent back to flag the freight, and he ran back some fifteen rods; but the engineer was powerless to stop his heavy train of twenty-four cars, which was advancing rapidly on a down grade, and the heavy consolidated locomotive dashed into the rear of the passenger train.

The coach which was struck was an excursion car containing forty-six passengers, all of whom were glass-workers lately employed at the Richardson glass-works of Findlay, O., en route for their homes in New York State.

The slaughter was terrible, and the rear car was completely demolished.

At the present writing some eighteen bodies have been removed, and the dead, injured and missing number forty.

The car, taking fire from the lamps, was soon in flames, which, communicating with the vestibule sleeper, caused a panic.

ANOTHER JOB MALE WILL.

But It Was Made in England Many Years Ago, and is Considered Unimportant.

The contest over the unsigned will of the late Job Male was continued before Walter Knight in the Chancellor's chambers, Newark, yesterday. Mr. Harrison, one of the executors named in the contested will, who is now an administrator pendingthe result of the litigation, was examined relative to the value of the estate. He estimated that it was worth between $400,000 and $500,000, but ex-Chancellor Runyon drew forth the fact that Mr. Harrison knew very little of real-estate values. He had not put a specific value on any single piece of real estate, nor was he sure that everything had been included in the inventory. He could not tell what portion of the $400,000 or $500,000 was real, nor what was personal property. The unsecured liabilities were inventoried at $36,000, which included about $22,000 in promissory notes. The various pieces of real-estate were mortgaged for some $145,000, according to the books and memoranda that were found after Mr. Male's death.

Incidental to the case, another will was produced in evidence. It was made by Mr. Male during a visit he made to Ex-ter, England, in 1866, and the witnesses were residents of that place. In it the testator devised the sum of $25,000 to his wife, who was then with him, and nominated his wife and one John Armstrong, executors. Mrs. Male died about eight years ago, and Armstrong is long since dead. Counsel on neither side attached any importance to the instrument although it was once a valid document. It was found in Mr. Male's bureau, after his death, by the administrator.

Fourth of July in New Providence.

The patriotic citizens of New Providence will celebrate the glorious Fourth of July in a manner unexcelled in former years. Music by the Madison brass band, orations by prominent citizens, fireworks, and similar attractions will be features of the occasion. The farmer orator, James E. Martine, has consented, at the earnest solicitation of the committee of arrangements, to deliver the oration of the day. Major J. Howard Ackerman, of the committee, and one of the most prominent citizens of New Providence, has been indefatigable in efforts to make the coming celebration one of the grandest in the history of the town, assisted by his able collaborator, Freeholder Bradford Jones. It of course goes without saying that the popular Plainfield townsman, Mr. Martine, will give them an able address.

Came to Plainfield to Escape Death.

Thomas Beatty, of 600 Grand street, New York city, has been hiding in the woods in the southern outskirts of the city, the past few days, crying that people were after him with guns. Captain Grant found him creeping through the tall grass in a field near Sherman and Grant avenues. He said that a gang of men were seeking his blood. He could hear their knives clashing in the air. The captain judged that he was suffering from the effects of a long spree. He locked him up for medical treatment.

A Billiard Match Between Local Amateurs.

A very interesting contest took place Wednesday evening at The Elkwood, between Horatio Dorr and Edward Marshall, noted billiard experts of this city. Mr. Dorr, who is probably unexcelled by any local amateur at round-the-table shots, was n't feeling very well and Mr. Marshall won three out of the four games played of 50 points each. Another match will be arranged very soon.

Don't Worry!

A Boston clergyman has prophesied the world coming to an end in July. Don't let that worry you! As long as time remains the world will be all right, and watches sold at Collier's are guaranteed to keep time.

—A young woman about 25 years of age, residing in Washington Park, fainted in North avenue, Wednesday night, just after alighting from the 10:28 train. She was taken home in a hack.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

A POEM FOR THE FOURTH.

"We Hail the Return of the Day."

[BY THE LATE ABRAHAM COLES, OF SCOTCH PLAINS.]

We hail the return of the day of thy birth,
Fair Columbia!—washed by the waves of two oceans—
Where men from the farthest dominions of Earth
Rear altars to Freedom, and pay their devotions;
Where our fathers in fight, nobly strove for the right,
Struck down their fierce foemen or put them to flight;
Through the long lapse of ages, that so there might be
An asylum for all in the Land of the Free.

Behold from each zone under heaven they come!
And haughtiest nations, that once far outshone thee,
Now paled by thy lustre, lie prostrate and dumb,
And render due homage, and no more disown thee.
All the isles for thee wait, while that early and late,
Not a wind ever blows but wafts hither rich freight,
And the swift sailing ships, that bring over the sea
The oppressed of all lands to the Land of the Free.

As entranced I look down the long vista of years,
And behold thine existence to ages extended—
What a scene, O my country, of wonder appears!
How kindling the prospect, surpassing and splendid!
Each lone mountain and glen, and waste wilderness then,
I see covered with cities, and swarming with men,
And miraculous Art working marvels for thee
To lift higher thy greatness, thou Land of the Free.

From our borders expel all oppression and wrong,
Oh Thou, who didst plant us and make us a nation!
In the strength of Thy arm make us evermore strong;
On our gates inscribe Praise, on our walls write Salvation;
May Thyself be our light, from Thy heavenly height
Ever flashing new splendors and chasing our night—
That united and happy we ever may be
To the end of all time, still the land of the Free!

TEE KAY'S CROWD FOR JUSTICE.

Westfield's Conscienceless Umpire Still Being Roasted by Somerville's Papers.

(From The Unionist-Gazette.)

Until last Saturday the good folks who lived within the pale of civilization—that is not within the limits of Westfield—wondered greatly at the uninterrupted string of base-ball victories of the Westfield club; but now these same good folks have had their eyes opened in a rather unpleasant manner. The sum and substance of the whole matter is simply this: If last Saturday's exhibition at Westfield is a fair sample of the way the Westfield victories have been won, it will be practically impossible for them to lose on their own grounds as long as a man (?) gifted with the euphonious name of McGrath, umpires. This cry of wretched umpiring is certainly getting hackneyed, but nevertheless every one of the hundred odd West End supporters, who accompanied the team, is unanimous in declaring that the umpire's work in this game was the most shameful exhibition ever given. No wonder that an official, high in standing in the N. J. A. C., telegraphed to Manager Mack on the day of the game, "Understand McGrath will umpire. He robbed us, will rob you. Protest him."

It would be useless to point out specific instances of this McGrath's work. Suffice it to say that every decision that was close, approximately close, or not at all close, went to Westfield. In fact, matters were so bad that two of the Westfield players characterized this man's work as "highway robbery."

Tee Kay Keller, of Plainfield, led an enormous crowd of Crescent men in cheering on our boys. Al. Mack headed the Somerville contingent, and between them they made enough noise to drown out the coarse remarks addressed to the visiting team by the Westfield heelers. The game was lost by the West Ends and won by McGrath, but when the two teams meet again, which will be in Somerville, July 11, our boys will show Westfield how to win a game without the aid of an umpire.

Worried Over Bowling Matters.

The Union Leagues of Westfield again played their old antagonists, the Crescents of Plainfield, on the Crescents' alleys, Wednesday evening, June 24, and again tied them on the games played. The Westfield Leader is impelled, under these circumstances, to rise to the occasion, and to remark something as follows:

"See here, men and brethern, you can beat these Crescents; you know you can. Whence then all this dodging, first on one side of the line, and then on the other? People will be after saying soon, as some of the Somerville gentlemen said on Saturday in reference to the ball game, that the games were all settled before they are played; and that you know, will never do when it comes to a struggle of any sort between Plainfield and Westfield. In the language of the immortal Wellington, 'up, guards, and at them!' and let the Waterloo (for the Crescents, of course) immediately follow."

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

NETHERWOOD HEIGHTS PARK.

An Ideal Home in New Jersey's Most Charming Suburb.

Not one of the hundreds who have visited Netherwood Heights Park since THE PRESS first brought it to the attention of the public, but has been greatly surprised and intensely delighted. Its charming natural scenery, beautifully terraced and crowned with sturdy oaks and elms, has a most entrancing effect, and the broad and sweeping driveways so artistically laid out by Andrew J. Gavett, winding around the rising banks and skirting the deep ravines, combine in an enchanting picturesqueness that cannot be excelled anywhere.

All this, however, must be seen to be realized; and when you have seen it once you will go again and again. It has become one of the "sights" of Plainfield, and every day one may meet most of the private carriages of the city driving through the Park. The roads though new are remarkably fine, as the owner, C. V. Sidell of New York, placed no limit of expenditure upon the contractors who had charge of the work. The good judgment of his liberality is already proved. The real estate dealers who have the property in hand, say that every day they receive inquiries as to prices of lots in the Park, and prospective buyers who visit it are more than satisfied in every way.

Charles C. McBride, editor of the Elizabeth Journal, when on his way home from this city on his bicycle the other day, visited the Park and its surrounding neighborhood. This is the way he spoke of it editorially in his paper, the next day.

In the vicinity of Hotel Netherwood, not far from the county roads, property is being bought up, built upon and improved at a grand rate. Roads of macadam are being made, electric lights put up along the streets, water is being supplied to the houses and all modern conveniences are supplied. From the elevations in that locality the spires in Elizabeth are visible, and the whole of the Statue of Liberty and part of the pedestal are visible. And this is but one of many places that will be built up in Union county.

All the beautiful plots in the Park are being sold subject to certain restrictions that will maintain the high character of the spot as a charming place of residence forever. The erection of only houses of a first-class character will be permitted. The intended electric railway will probably come within 300 yards of the main entrances.

A MAD DOG BIT HIM.

But for Lack of Funds He Cannot Secure Pasteur Treatment.

The story told exclusively in THE PRESS a short time ago of the mischief done by a mad dog which attacked everything coming in his way in Washington Valley, has found a sequel in the attack of one of the dogs that was bitten, on its owner's son, a young man 21 years of age.

Andrew Collens lives on a small farm back of Glenside Park, on the road leading to Westfield. Among the members of his family is a son, George, a young man of 21 years, who helps to work the farm. The Collenses were apprised of the fact that a mad dog had gone through near where they live by finding one of their dogs nearly chewed to pieces, from the effects of which the dog died. They were not aware that the other two dogs which they owned had been bitten, until one of them, a large black one, ran into the house and sprang at George, biting him in the face. The dog then ran out of the house into the yard, where he was afterwards shot.

As soon as the family could, they took George into New York city, for treatment at the Pasteur hospital. The physician in charge is said to have demanded $100 down, and $4 a week for four weeks before he would take the case. Mr. Collens being in poor circumstances could not raise the money, so he returned home. The wounds made by the dog's teeth bled quite freely at the time, but now have almost healed up. George says he feels no pain whatever, and treats the matter as of no account.

George Collens is reported to be a thoroughly sober and industrious young man. It is hoped that some way may be found to secure treatment for him.

To-morrow's Game of "New Jersey's Champions".

(From The Westfield Leader.)

On July 4, the Westfields will face the Keystones of Philadelphia—in two great inter-State games between New Jersey and Pennsylvania. In the Keystones—which is the crack semi-professional team of Pennsylvania—the Westfields will find an able rival; and the results will be watched with great interest. The games are to come off at 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. and are scheduled to come into the programme of the day's sport without conflicting with any of the other interesting amusements. There will be ample accommodations at Drake Park for all hands, and hundreds will take advantage of these holiday games to see the champions of their State in combat with the Pennsylvania cracks.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

THE GAME AS WESTFIELD SAW IT.

The Umpire Was Not a Robber, and Westfield's Players Are the People.

(From The Mt. Arvord Leader.)

One of the largest crowds that has ever congregated at Drake Park was seen there on the lovely afternoon of last Saturday, and the crowd was more than repaid by one of the finest games of baseball ever seen in the State of New Jersey. People on horse-back, people on all manner of wheels, people in all kinds of vehicles, and people on foot, came from Plainfield, Somerville, Summit, the Oranges, Scotch Plains, Cranford, Roselle, and from every town in Union county, to see the great struggle. And it was a great struggle, too. Not until the ninth inning and the last man of the West Ends was put out could anyone tell the result, and when the game was finally won by Westfield what a shout of victory went up! It was so great a howl that people in Cranford and Fanwood heard it! Many times before snow flies will that same victorious cry be heard in New Jersey. Westfield has a tight grip on the championship of the State, and she means to maintain that grip.

There was a lot of kicking—foolish kicking, Saturday, at the decisions of Umpire McGrath. The Somerville and Plainfield papers may say what they please, but here are facts which show that it was Westfield's game:

Base hits.....	Westfield, 12; West Ends, 9.
Errors.....	Westfield, 2; West Ends, 2.

These facts show that Westfield put up as good a fielding game as did their rivals, and the Westfields did the heavier batting. It is a foolish, childish thing to do, to kick against this record, but who can blame Somerville for kicking when little Westfield downs their pet club?

Plainfield Helping Russian Exiles.

An interesting talk on prison life in Russia was given by M. Lippenoff before the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school last Sabbath. Mr. Lippenoff is a young Russian who has been in America about four years. He is preparing himself by a course of study for religious work among his people. He was converted at a meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association in Philadelphia. He is an exceptionally bright young man, of frank, open countenance, and most pleasing manner, and is thoroughly consecrated to the service of his Master. He employs his vacation time in earning funds to enable him to prosecute his studies. He is canvassing for "Weights and Things", a beautiful volume by the Rev. Dr. Deems, the well-known pastor of the church of the Strangers, New York. It seems very evident that any favors shown to Mr. Lippenoff will be worthily bestowed, and Plainfield people will be assisting a worthy cause in helping him. The Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, have contributed to him $10 from the profits of their recent festival. Mr. Lippenoff is in disfavor with the Russian Government because of the aid he has given to George Kennan in exposing the Russian prison and Siberian exile horrors. Yet he has the courage of his faith, and will go back to Russia to do missionary work and to uplift his fallen fellow-countrymen.

He will give a free lecture next Thursday evening in the Crescent Avenue chapel.

Base-Ball Notes.

The games to-morrow will be called at 10:30 a. m., and 3:45 p. m. The admission to the grounds has been reduced to 15 cents.

Hammill will pitch one game and Taylor will pitch the other.

Tom O'Rourke, catcher of the "Flushings," says that his club will win both games from the Crescents.

It is understood that Jones and Bonner will each catch a game to-morrow.

Holley on first base and Corey at short, will be the changes in the Crescents team. There is much interest felt as to how the new men will begin. They are both good ones but may be a little nervous at the start.

When the Flushings were here last year, Gregg held them down to two hits in the first game and three in the second. But Gregg was pitching a great game in those days, and Shannon, O'Rourke and Williams this year are hitting everybody.

There are still one or two players in the Crescent team who are rather indifferent in their support of anybody but their own chums. If they show any disposition to-morrow to disapprove of the changes, bounce them at once.

Plainfield Against Roselle.

The Bicycle Club base-ball team had a game scheduled with Somerville for the morning of the Fourth, but the game has been cancelled on account of the athletic games to be given in that town at that time under the auspices of the West End Athletic Club. The Bi. boys are greatly disappointed at not being able to play Somerville on the home grounds, but they have arranged to play the Roselle team which insures a good game. Game called at 10:30 a. m., at the grounds on Park avenue.

The Victor Wins.

The five-mile bicycle road race at Westfield, the other day, was won by Mr. Willis, and he rode a "Victor."

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Stock Brokers May Run Again.

The New York Stock Exchange rule forbidding members to go faster than a walk on the floor of the Exchange has been practically suspended, and hereafter the chairman will not fine those who run unless he has reason to believe that they are trying to create disorder. The fining of twenty-eight members Wednesday, including ex-Councilman J. B. Dumont of this city, was not a popular matter, and the governors decided yesterday in favor of a more lenient policy. The fines were not rescinded, however.

The First Excursion.

The Crescent Avenue Sunday-schools will make their annual excursion to the popular summer resorts, Asbury Park and Long Branch, on Wednesday, July 8. The train will leave Plainfield and Grant avenue stations at 8 o'clock sharp, running in two sections. Returning it will leave Asbury Park at 5:30 p. m. Tickets, $1.25; half tickets, 90 cents.

—There will be a full-dress dance at The Netherwood, to-morrow night, to which all friends of the guests will be welcomed.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Brief notices will be inserted under this head free of expense, but must be delivered at the office not later than eleven o'clock on Saturday morning to insure publication.

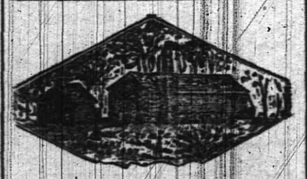
In the Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, services will be held as follows: Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m., by the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck. Sabbath-school at 2:30. In the evening a National service will be held and the pastor's subject will be "Piety and Patriotism." All are welcome.

At the Church of Our Saviour, Netherwood, the Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector, will conduct services, Sunday, as follows: Celebration of Holy Communion, 7:30 a. m.; Sunday-school, 9:30; litany and second celebration, 11; evening prayer, 4:30 p. m. Two free stages leave the railway station on North avenue, every Sunday morning at 10:30, for the church. The route of one is up Broadway, the route of the other up Putnam avenue. The stages return to Plainfield at the conclusion of the services.

The First Church of Christ will meet Sunday at Vanderbeck's hall. The Lord's Supper will be administered at 10:30 a. m., and the Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 p. m. At 4:15 o'clock the church will hold an open air meeting in Berry's Grove on Grove street, near the bridge. Evening service will be held at 7:45, theme will be selected. The Young People's Christian League will meet Wednesday evening. Friday evening a prayer meeting will be held. All are welcome to these meetings.



If you require Whiskey for Family or Medicinal use buy the best. A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey is not made by any "peculiar," "secret" or fairy process. It is made in the good old way in which all pure whiskey is distilled. It is sold only in bottles bearing the label and trade mark of A. R. Tudor, thereby insuring to the purchaser a whiskey absolutely free from any adulteration, and ten years old.

ALEX. WILLETT,

(Coward's Block), 7 PARK AVE., PLAINFIELD, N. J.

He Was No Whistler.

A certain Detroit employer hates a man who whistles at his work, and always asks on that point. The other day an applicant called on him.

"So you want a job?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir," was the polite reply.

"Well, the first thing I want to know is, do you whistle at your work?"

"I never have, sir, before."

"Ah. What kind of work have you been doing?"

"Glass blowing, sir."

The employer took his case under advisement.—Detroit Free Press.

Had Read About It.

The conversation heard at concerts is sometimes even more interesting than the music. The Washington Post prints this fragment:

The trombone player was fitting a mouthpiece to his instrument with a good deal of care, and a young woman was heard to ask: "Mamma, what can that man be doing?"

"I don't know, my dear," answered the mother, as she leveled her glass upon the musician in question, "unless he is winding his horn. You often read of players doing that, you know."

It Touches His Heart.

"Well, this is the third time within a month you have been before me for being a drunkard and a vagabond. I suppose I must keep fining you as I have done before," said the police justice.

"S'pose so, your honor, but it's very creditable to your honor's dis-dis-cernment and good breedin' to be able to tell a refined man like me when you see him."

The police justice let him off that time.—Detroit Free Press.

Trouble Again.

"You dress that dog of yours too loudly," observed the exchange editor, scowling at the animal.

"You mean, I suppose," answered the financial editor, fiercely, "that he ought not to have that brass band round his neck."

"No, I don't," rejoined the exchange editor, waving his shears defiantly. "I mean that I can hear his pants."—Chicago Tribune.

A Stranger's Ignorance.

Family Discipline.

Col. Fizzletop was under the painful necessity of administering a severe castigation to his son Johnny. After he had completed his labors, he said sternly to the suffering victim:

"Now tell me why I punished you?"

"That's it," sobbed Johnny; "you nearly pound the life out of me, and now you don't even know why you did it."—Texas Siftings.

No Reduction.

Mr. Bookkeep—I have now been, Mr. Duste, in your employ exactly three years. I have worked industriously and have taken a lively interest in my work. My salary now is—

Mr. Duste—Have no fear, Mr. Bookkeep; if you continue in the same path your salary will not be reduced.—Jewelers' Circular.

A Good Scheme.

"Snip is a smart fellow. Do you know what he did?"

"No."

"Why when he wanted to redecorate his tailor shop he covered the walls with the unpaid bills of customers. They settled mighty quick."—Munsey's Weekly.

It Would Be Idolatry.

"It wouldn't do for Bronson to love his neighbor as himself."

"Why not?"

"He would bow down to him and worship him—which would be contrary to the Commandments."—Jury.

Magna Cum Laude.

She—You were in his class, were you? I hear he passed his examination with great honor. Was it oral or written?

He—Well, to be exact, it was copied.—Munsey's Weekly.

Mr. Lakeside (of Chicago)—Have you ever been in the west, Miss Gotham?

Miss Gotham—N—o, Mr. Lakeside, I forget to say I never have, but (brightening) I know how to play poker.—Good News.

An Appeal to Feeling.

What She Said.

Mr. Wiggles (just in from the "road")—That's a deuced pretty girl you have in the kitchen. Call her in and say something to her.

Mrs. Wiggles (with rapidly-formed resolution)—Mollie, come in here a moment. Your month is up to-morrow. As I am going to get a new cook, I will give you two weeks' wages, and you can go at once.—Puck.

A Good Excuse.

He—I shall never go to Vandergrift's again—never.

She—Why, what reason have you for being so bitter against them?

He—Reason enough. They actually insulted me in their own house.

She—But, Jack, that's impossible. They live in a rented house.—Munsey's Weekly.

THEIR DAY OF DOOM

Great Excitement Around the Prison at Sing Sing.

THE MURDERERS CALLED EARLY

Precautions Taken That the Details of the Execution Will Not Be Made Public.

Terrible Suspense of the Last Night—The Men Had Fears of Torture—Wood and Slocum Buoyed Up by Religion—Armed Guards Surround the Prison to Keep Off the Newspaper Men.

SING SING, N. Y., July 6.—All of the preparations for the execution of the four murderers, under sentence of death here, are complete, and although no intimation has been given by Warden Brown of the time when the execution will take place it is the general opinion that the men will be executed to-day.

At 6 o'clock last evening the death watch was set around the prison walls. A regular patrol was established along the side that runs in front of the prison and along the sides of the prison about ten yards from the walls. The guards placed on this duty were uniformed and armed with repeating rifles, with instructions to shoot any one who approached the prison within the line without authority.

A guard was placed at the end of the long trestle that runs over the lime kilns just south of the prison. From the etop a full view of the windows of the execution room could be had, and, although they were covered with canvas, the warden was afraid that some view of the interior might be obtained from the trestle, or that some one watching the windows could obtain an idea by the raising or lowering of the lights within when the execution was about to occur. The lime company which leases the property from the State has sublet it for this occasion to a New York evening paper whose reporters were to be stationed on the trestle, but a guard with loaded rifle stands at the end of the trestle, and the little group of reporters stand watching him and waiting.

The Death Chamber.

There are two rooms in the death chamber, the easterly one of which hides the secret of the executioner. There was some talk of the final lever being turned by a convict, but it is said on pretty good authority that Electrician Davis, if he does not actually turn the lever, will be hidden in the little wooden closet just behind the chair in which it is set up. The other switch and the keyboard in which all the lamps and instruments and the electric signals to the dynamo room and the death lever, will be in the hands of Captain Hibbard, a sturdy old timer with nerves of steel, who has experimented with the instrument until he knows it throughly, and who has almost come to love it from long familiarity.

The Men Aroused Early.

At 6 o'clock an attendant of the prison informed the reporters that the men were awakened, and contrary to the expectation of those who have been nearest them, not one showed any sign of weakening as the fatal hour draws near.

Two—Wood and Slocum—were upheld by the consolations of the Catholic Church as furnished them by Fathers Crenden and Lynch and the Sisters of Charity.

Smiler, who claims to have accepted the truth of the Protestant faith, ceased his weeping and wailing. Prison Chaplain Edgerton believes that he will make no cowardly scene at the final moment.

THE MEN AND THEIR CRIMES.

Slocum and Smiler, Wife slayers; Wood and Jugiro Killed Comrades.

NEW YORK, July 6.—James J. Slocum is an ex-base ball player. He lived at No. 7 Cherry street. On the last night of December, 1889, he killed his wife with an axe. He was tried, convicted and in March of last year was sentenced to death by Judge Martine. He was to be executed in the week beginning May 5, 1890. John R. Heinzelman, who defended him, had never been admitted to the bar, and a stay was secured on the ground of illegal defense.

Harris A. Smiler was formerly a Salvation Army officer, and had no less than three wives. When one of them, Maggie Drainey, refused to live with him, because of his brutality, he shot her. This was April 13, 1889, at No. 284 Seventh avenue. The week originally set for his execution began April 4, 1890, but his lawyer, Ambrose H. Purdy, appealed and several stays were granted.

Joseph Wood, the condemned negro, was a laborer on the new Croton aqueduct. In May, 1888, he killed an Italian named Carlo Ruffi, a fellow workman, in a payday row. In March, 1890, Recorder Smyth sentenced him to be executed in the week beginning May 12 of last year. Robert J. Haire was his lawyer. He carried the case to the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court, but with no success. The grounds on which the appeals were based were that no colored men were on the jury.

Shibuya Jugiro, better known as "the Jap," because of his nationality, got into a row in a James street sailors' boarding house. He stabbed Mara Canni, one of the combatants. In December last he was sentenced to die in the week beginning Feb. 3. Lawyer Heinzelman, who also had charge of his case, took an appeal, and the conviction was affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

The case was then taken to the United States Supreme Court, which also affirmed the original decision. Roger M. Sherman endeavored to secure a new trial on account of Heinzelman's connection with the case, but without success.

Died a Miser's Death.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 6.—Prof. Hermann Kottinger, at one time a famous violinist and an erudite educator on the Pacific coast, died in a mean little shanty at No. 44 Colfax street. Although worth hundreds of thousands of dollars and with $2,000 in gold coin hidden in the bed clothes beneath him, he would not spend a cent for medicine and for a week had absolutely starved.

PANIC AT A FUNERAL.

Sad Scenes at Corning While Burying the Railroad Victims.

CORNING, N. Y., July 6.—Twelve unrecognizable victims of the wreck at Ravenna were buried together here yesterday. The funeral took place from Harvard Academy, where the bodies have been since they arrived here. The building has been visited by upward of 5,000 people, and the sight there was most mournful. Yesterday afternoon the streets in the neighborhood of the academy were jammed with people, and the building was also filled.

Suddenly, amid the sobbing of relatives of the dead, a noise was heard. It was only the raising of a window, but some one cried out that the floor was giving way, and a panic ensued. Windows were smashed, and the people jumped through them. Then some one yelled "Fire," and the excitement increased.

It was some time before quiet was restored. Fortunately no one was injured, and the building was cleared of all save the relatives of the dead.

Dean Colgan, of the Roman Catholic Church, conducted the services, and remarks were made by Rev. John H. Bacon, of the Presbyterian Church. During the progress of the funeral every bell in the city was tolled, and the whole ceremony was sad. Nearly 100 carriages were in the procession, besides a crowd of thousands. An enormous grave had been prepared for the bodies in the Catholic Cemetery.

One more body has been identified as that of Fred Huff. Six who were recognized will be buried this afternoon.

CRUSHED BY AN ELEPHANT.

Frightful Accident at a Pleasure Resort Near Denver.

DENVER, Col., July 6.—Yesterday afternoon an immense crowd gathered at Manhattan Beach, a resort near here, to witness a balloon ascension by a lady. There is a menagerie at the beach, and it had been advertised that children would be given a ride on the back of an elephant.

The elephant had made two trips, and was just returning to the animal house with eight children on his back when the balloon started up. The animal became frightened at the balloon and began trumpeting and running about, making desperate efforts to unseat the children. They all fell off and all escaped uninjured but one, a little boy named Johnny Eaton, the son of a railroad man, who was caught under the elephant's feet and crushed out of all semblance to humanity.

The keeper of the elephant then stuck a pitchfork into the animal's trunk and was thrown high in the air by the enraged brute. He, however, was not seriously hurt. By this time several other attendants had arrived and managed to secure the elephant with chains. The parents of the child killed are nearly frantic with grief.

THE PROHIBITION MEETING.

A Large Crowd Present at Port Richmond To-day.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The crowds who have come to the meetings of the Prohibition Party Camp Meeting Association at Port Richmond, Staten Island, are much larger than had been anticipated, and in consequence their hotel is overcrowded, and many guests have been sent to the tents and boarding houses.

To-morrow the work of organizing the school of reform methods will begin. Mrs. Lathrop is among the speakers. She will, it is understood, advance some very radical views on the way of carrying on the work, especially in New York city, where she thinks it is time to carry the fight into the enemy's camp.

Tried to Kill Her Child.

PITTSBURG, July 6.—Mrs. Mary Mimmet, of the South Side, while laboring under an attack of religious insanity, attempted to kill her eight-months-old babe by hitting it on the head with a hatchet. The baby's cries attracted the attention of a woman who lives in the same house and who prevented her from finishing her deadly work. Mrs. Mimmer says her child was a second Christ and it was her duty to kill it. The baby cannot live. Mrs. Mimmer was placed under arrest.

Fire in an Electric Light Station.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 6.—Fire in the electric light station at Narragansett Pier last night caused a damage of $10,000. This will be increased to $50,000 if it is found that the armatures have been ruined by water.

Arrested for Murder.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 6.—Sedonia Alling was arrested here for the murder of Mary Jones, who died at the hospital from injuries received in a row with Mrs. Alling at the latter's house on June 27.

THREE WERE KILLED

Fatal Accident to Woodstock College Scholastics.

STRUCK DOWN BY LIGHTNING.

The Deaths Occurred in the Dormitory of an Old Villa.

During a Terrible Storm They Were Gathered About One of the Beds—When the Bolt Came They Were Hurled in Different Directions—Several of the Students Rendered Unconscious.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 6.—During a terrific thunderstorm at St. Inigoes villa, in St. Mary's county, this State, lightning killed the following students of Woodstock College:

Holden, William.
Lamb, John B.
Walters, James.

The deaths occurred in an old villa which is occupied every summer by professors and students from Woodstock College.

The house is on a bluff overlooking the Potomac and St. Mary's rivers and forms a beautiful summer retreat.

Just one week previous to the catastrophe nearly 100 students and professors went to St. Inigoes for the annual holiday, taking with them baseball outfits, fishing tackle and hammocks to enjoy the holiday. While the thunder storm was prevailing the students retired to their rooms.

A number of them, including those who were killed, went to the dormitory on the top floor. There it was discovered that the roof had begun to leak, and the water was dropping on some of the beds. In moving the beds to a dryer place a number of students became grouped in the centre of the room around one of the cots. They were discussing the best place to put it when the fatal stroke of lightning came, preceded by a terrible crash of thunder.

The group about the cot were hurled in different directions. Besides the three who were killed the others were injured and rendered unconscious. The exact condition of the injured could not be learned last night on account of the remote situation of the scene of the occurrences and a lack of telegraphic communication.

One of the injured is Mr. Railley, whose home is at Leonardtown. He was thrown down stairs by the force of the shock, and at first it was thought he had been killed.

The building itself was damaged by the stroke, the roof being torn in places and the walls cracked and twisted.

WEST VIRGINIA'S HORROR.

Fifteen Lives Were Lost and Fifty Persons Injured.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 6.—Hundreds of people drove to the scene of Saturday's wreck and saw the spot where fifteen lives were crushed out and a half hundred bodies maimed and disfigured by the Kanawha and Michigan train going through a thirty foot trestle.

Nothing that has ever occurred has cast such deep gloom over this city or sent such deep sorrow to so many homes. In the churches yesterday mention was made of the horrible catastrophe and prayers were offered for the wounded and bereaved.

No more deaths have yet occurred, but half a dozen of those injured are in a critical condition and not expected to live. They are: Mrs. R. S. Truslow, of Charlestown; J. D. Jones, president of the Order of United American Mechanics in this city; William Ford, Mrs. Wall, and D. Breed, of Elk City, which is just across the river from here, and James Blankwood, from Athens, Ohio. The Order of United American Mechanics and hundreds of other sorrowing friends followed the remains of Walter Welcher and his wife to the grave. The other funerals have not yet occurred, but will be held to-morrow. The body of T. N. Wilson was sent to Gallipolies, General Manager J. M. Ferris, of the Toledo & Ohio Central, will be here to-night from Toledo to investigate the wreck. There will be some large damage suits against the road.

Handsome Gift to Kenyon College.

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Kenyon College has received a magnificent gift from Bishop and Mrs. Gregory T. Bedell, who are now living in New York, being the Bishop's beautiful Gambier County estate known as "Kokosing," worth many thousands of dollars. The mansion is of stone and is situated on a hill just west of the village in the midst of a fine grove. The scenery around it is said to be the finest in Central Ohio. The gift includes the furniture, paintings, carpets and all the live stock on the place. It will be held in trust by the college and will probably be the home of Kenyon's new president.

Divorced from an Octogenarian.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—Alice M. Barrett, 33 years old, has secured an absolute divorce and $7,000 from Joshua Barrett, her 83-year-old farmer husband.

RETURN OF THE ITATA.

The Chilian Transport Anchored Again at San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6.—The Chilian transport Itata and the United States steamer Charleston arrived in port yesterday. The Itata came into the harbor without delay and anchored in her former position, near the wharf, while the Charleston remained outside and anchored opposite the Hotel Coronado, about a mile from the shore.

The Itata was at once boarded by revenue officers, who found her in charge of several of the Charleston's officers. She also had on board her former sailing master, Captain Maunzen, and most of his former Chilian crew, but was commanded by a Chilian military officer named Tepede. An attorney to represent the insurgents was also on board, as well as three passengers from Chili, and Captain Coston, of the Marine Corps, from the United States steamer Baltimore, who has been ordered home on sick leave. Silva Palma, commander of the Esmeralda, who was on board the Itata when the vessel was here before, was not brought back.

Shortly after the vessel's arrival, Lieut. Churchill came ashore and telegraphed his report to the Navy Department at Washington.

Capt. Maunzen says he is confident that they have not violated the neutrality laws in any way; at least they had no intention of doing so, the "Opposition," as the Congressional party is called in Chili, being very anxious to keep on friendly terms with this government. He also says, and this is corroborated by the naval officers, that the Congressional party now has much the best of the contest, and that if they can secure arms, ammunition and provisions its early success is assured.

HOWARD JOHNSON'S DEATH.

An Inquest May Lead to Sensational Developments.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., July 6.—When the inquest on the body of Howard L. Johnson is held this afternoon by Coroner Devoe of Bergen county there may be sensational developments. Johnson died on June 28, the death certificate at first putting the cause of death as suicide, but subsequently, at the request of Lawrence J. Johnson, brother of the dead man, being changed to read death by bullet wounds. There was no inquest and the body was buried after a perfunctory examination by a physician.

Constable Ferguson has been investigating the talk of Johnson's brother-in-law, Barker, who was on a spree the night of the shooting with a servant of the family, and who in a saloon mumbled something about the shooting.

Johnson was once a type founder in Philadelphia and said to be worth $500,000. He embarked in business in Cincinnati, lost money and then started a tobacco business at No. 119 Maiden lane, New York, where he sank all but $6,000. He is said to have been under the influence of his wife, formerly a Miss Barker of Cincinnati.

OFF FOR PROVIDENCE.

The Gridiron Club Leave Washington This Morning for Rhode Island.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The members of the Gridiron Club left here this morning by special train via the Pennsylvania Railroad en route to Providence, R. I., where they will be the guests of Hon. Jesse Metcalf and Mr. R. S. Howland, of the Providence Journal, at Squantum, Narragansett Bay, to-morrow.

The invitation to the club to spend a day at the famous clam bake club house is of three years' standing. The hosts have invited a large number of prominent gentlemen from different sections of the country to meet the Washingtonians at the festive board to-morrow afternoon.

The club will leave New York on the Providence Steamboat Line this afternoon and will return by the same route.

When the Governors Meet.

FENWICK, Conn., July 6.—Among the guests expected at Fenwick Hall this season is Governor Hill of New York State. On nearly any day during the hot period Governor Bukeley, of this State, who owns a handsome cottage not a stone's throw from the hotel, can be found enjoying the cooling breezes that sweep across the spacious verandas, or chatting with friends in the reading room. Connecticut people are wondering what the outcome will be, provided the two chief magistrates meet and the topic of requisition turns up.

England's Commissioner in this Country.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Sir George Baden Powell, the English Behring Sea Commissioner appointed to arbitrate the sealing question, arrived yesterday on the Etruria. His stay in this city was very brief as he took the train last evening for Montreal. H will spend a few days at Ottawa in consultation with Premier Abbott and Mr. Tupper. At its conclusion he will leave for Vancouver, where he will be joined by the commissioner on behalf of Canada, Dr. Dawson, and the course will then be direct for Behring Sea.

The Seaside Assembly Opened.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 6.—The eighth annual session of the Seaside Assembly opened yesterday in its auditorium at Avon-by-the-Sea. There was a large attendance. Rev. John Peters, of Atlantic City, delivered the opening address on the subject "Christ in Song." Rev. Dr. Simpson W. Horner, of La Crosse Wis., also made an address. The musical programme was under the direction of Prof. Warden William, of Alfred University, N. Y.

Fitting Up the Galveston.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—Capt. Shepard, Chief of the Revenue Marine Department, has decided to give the most approved type of ordnance to the new revenue marine vessel, the Galveston. The Galveston's cruising ground will be from New Orleans to the mouth of the Rio Grande. Galveston will be the headquarters of the vessel.

WATCHED BY POLICE

The Young Kaiser Guarded by Hordes of Detectives.

FEAR ANARCHISTIC ATTACKS.

Germany's Ruler is the Popular Lion of the Hour in England.

The Liberals Anxious About Mr. Gladstone—His Son's Death May Hasten the Great Leader's Death—Spurgeon Has a Relapse—Eighteen Swiss Soldiers Drowned—The Carlow Election.

LONDON, July 6.—The police are to-day taking extraordinary precautions for the security of the Kaiser. Several of the best detectives in Scotland Yard went to Windsor last evening, and are watching there for any signs of Anarchist plotting.

Though efforts are made to conceal the fact as much as possible there is no doubt that every foreigner in London known to have been identified with Anarchy or Socialism abroad is closely watched and followed by police officers on special detail.

The Berlin detectives who are here to look out for the Kaiser have given the London police valuable points as to the identity of refugees heretofore unsuspected of any connection with political plottings abroad, and who had been supposed to be ordinary foreigners pursuing their trades peacefully, and who had come to England in order to improve their circumstances.

A Nihilist, who was suspected at the time of being implicated in the murder of the late Czar of Russia, and who had been missing ever since that time, was recognized by a Berlin officer as an employe in the shop of a fashionable West End tailor. The man had formerly been a resident of Berlin and was under surveillance while there. He now passes, with his slight foreign accent, for a Frenchman. Whether he is still engaged in Nihilist plottings is not known.

There is, however, but little apprehension that harm is meditated against the Kaiser by anyone. What is most feared is insult, and this the police are determined to prevent. In the present temper of the people, however, it would be dangerous for anyone to insult the Kaiser, as the multitude is enthusiastic for him, and would, it is believed, take speedy vengeance on anyone doing anything openly to offend the nation's guest. As for the fear that a bomb will be an Anarchist demonstration when the Kaiser is received at the Guildhall, it is not shared by the authorities, as the police arrangements are perfect, and the procession will be through streets in which the middle class of people generally congregate.

GLADSTONE'S BEREAVEMENT.

The Liberal Leader Prostrated Over the Death of His Son.

LONDON, July 6.—The deepest regret is felt at the death of W. H. Gladstone, eldest son of the Grand Old Man, from an operation for tumor. The patient died in the house of his father-in-law, Lord Blantyre, in Berkeley square.

His mother, Henry and Herbert Gladstone and Miss Gladstone were with him when he died. His father was at Lowestoft, the guest of Mr. Colman, the mustard manufacturer. The news of his son's death was communicated to him early in the morning. He received it quietly and at once took a train for London. He looked very worn upon his arrival, and it is feared the benefit he had received will be wholly destroyed by the sad event.

MILITARY CHANGES.

The Three Great Divisions of the United Abolished.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Secretary Proctor has signed an order abolishing the three great military divisions of the United States. These were the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Missouri, commanded respectively by Gens. Howard, Ruger and Miles.

The Division of the Atlantic included the Department of the East, the Division of the Pacific included the Department of California and the Department of Columbia, and the Division of the Missouri included the Department of the Platte and the Department of Dakota.

By this order the departments remain intact. The purpose is to make the department commanders report directly to Major-General Schofield, commanding the army, and the Secretary of War, instead of, as heretofore, reporting to their division commanders.

This policy was tested a year or two ago, when the departments of Texas, Arizona and Missouri were detached from the divisions within which they had been included.

One of the features of the order is the assignment of Gen. Kautz to command the Department of Columbia, which he earnestly desired to command, as it was there that his first military service was rendered and where he wishes to retire next year.

Maj.-Gen. Oliver O. Howard is assigned to the command of the Department of the East, headquarters at Governor's Island, New York harbor; Maj.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Department of the Missouri; Brig.-Gen. John R. Brooks, Department of the Platte; Brig.-Gen. Wesley Merritt, Department of Dakota; Brig.-Gen. D. S. Stanley, Department of Texas; Brig.-Gen. Thomas H. Ruger, Department of California.

Probably Fatal Explosion of a Lamp.

ERIE, Pa., July 6.—Mrs. Margaret McCarthy lies dying as a result of a lamp explosion. The victim, who is 65 years old, dropped a lighted lamp.

Dr. Spurgeon's Case Critical.

LONDON, July 6.—The case of the Rev. Dr. Spurgeon grows more critical. There is a sudden increase of kidney congestion, nausea, drowsiness and prostration.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN DEAD.

He Was Stricken with Heart Failure at His Club in Bangor.

BANGOR, Me., July 6.—The deepest grief is felt on all sides for the loss of Bangor's foremost citizen, ex-Vice-President Hannibal Hamlin, who was stricken with heart failure about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, while at the Tarrantine Club, and died three hours later.

He was engaged in a game of Pedro with three of his intimate friends, when one of them, Philo Strickland, noticed that Mr. Hamlin appeared unwell, and asked him if such were not the case. Mr. Hamlin replied that he was feeling very badly and leaned forward on the table. He was removed to a lounge and asked to be bolstered up. In a short time he became unconscious. Drs. Mason, Robinson and Phillips were called, and everything was done to restore the stricken man. He recovered consciousness at intervals. Five minutes before he died the physicians and attendants thought he was a little improved. He remarked to the physicians:

"I am very warm."

The physicians replied that they were trying to make him comfortable.

"But you are making me very uncomfortable," answered Mr. Hamlin, and five minutes later he expired.

Mr. Hamlin's wife, his son, General Charles Hamlin, and wife, and their son were present when he died. Mr. Hamlin's death is talked of everywhere, and the greatest sympathy is expressed by everybody in the city, where he was loved by all. His health of late has fallen somewhat, but he has been about as usual.

The remains were removed from the club rooms to his late residence on Fifth street. No definite arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

Sketch of the Dead Statesman's Career.

Hannibal Hamlin was born in Paris, Me., August 27, 1809, and after completing his education was admitted to the bar in 1833. Three years later the rising young lawyer was elected to the Maine Legislature, of which he was Speaker for three years. Not content with this honor, he ran for Congress on the Democratic ticket and was elected in 1843, re-elected in 1844, and four years after was chosen to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate. In 1851 he was elected for a full term of six years. During the latter period he experienced a change of heart politically, withdrew from his party and became a Republican. At the expiration of his term he was elected by the Republicans of the State Governor of Maine, but he resigned his office on being again elected Senator.

In 1860, when Lincoln was elected President, Mr. Hamlin was chosen as Vice-President of the United States, and in 1865 he was appointed Collector of the Port of Boston. He soon resigned this position, however, and again went to the Senate, where he remained until 1881. In this last year he was appointed Minister to Spain. After a year's service the now aged statesman concluded that he had had enough of politics. He thereupon resigned his position and retired to his home in Maine, where he had been living quietly since.

The home life of the venerable statesman was simplicity in the extreme, and his one enjoyment was superintending his little farm. He took a great interest in clubs and was a prominent member of many, but most of his evenings were spent at home. Mrs. Hamlin, who was known as the greatest favorite in Washington society when Mr. Hamlin was Vice-President, was perfectly devoted to her aged husband, and is greatly loved and respected. He was an inveterate smoker, but seldom drank. He decided, he said, to abstain from intoxicants when he first went to Washington, because if he behaved himself his constituents might see fit to return him.

A BOGUS HUSBAND.

A Partially Blind Woman Claims to be the Victim of a Conspiracy.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 6.—Briefs will be submitted to Judge Bartlett in the Supreme Court Tuesday in one of the strangest cases that has recently come to light.

Esther Kushneer, of 38 Essex street, asks that the divorce obtained by her husband, Abraham Kushneer, be set aside for the reason that the decree was obtained by conspiracy and fraud.

Her story is a remarkable one. Through her lawyer, C. S. Mashir, she says that seven years ago she married Kushneer, and he went to live with Isaac H. Sugarman, a real estate dealer and restaurant and boarding house keeper at 128 East Broadway. She was sent to 71 Christie street to board until rooms were taken.

After her child was born, she says, her husband left her, and with the Sugarmans endeavored to induce her to consent to a divorce. She refused.

Soon afterwards, she alleges, the Sugarmans informed her that her husband had gone to Australia. One day after this a stranger appeared on the scene who resembled her husband, and after living with her 10 weeks said his name was Ryan. The woman was deceived because she was partially blind. The real husband then appeared on the scene and secured a divorce.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—For New England and Eastern New York: Fair; stationary temperature; westerly winds.

For New Jersey: Generally fair; slowly rising temperature; westerly winds.

Eighteen Men Drowned.

LONDON, July 6.—While troops were practising on the construction of a pontoon bridge on the river Aar, near Soleure, in Switzerland, the pontoon capsized and eighteen men were drowned.

Specie Exports.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The exports of specie from the port of New York for the past week amounted to $2,909,005, of which $2,822,700 was gold, and $16,305 silver. The imports of specie amounted to $34,967, of which $32,625 was gold, and $2,342 was silver.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Louis Sprigg has been made a special borough marshal.

—The borough has accepted as a public street the Sandford avenue extension into North Plainfield.

—During Charles Brown's visit to Northfield his Bible class of young men at the First Baptist church has been conducted by W. E. MacClymont.

—A bright little dog residing on Franklin place took a big lighted fire-cracker in his mouth, Saturday, and started to walk away with it. Interment private.

—One patriotic church sexton Clark Mundy of Trinity—helped to usher in the glorious Fourth by ringing the great church bell vigorously at daybreak.

—A fine sail up the Hudson on the steamer "Myndert Starin" is one of the attractions of the coming excursion to Newburgh as announced in another column.

—The crowd at the North avenue railway station Saturday morning saw a dog struck by a passing train and thrown under the wheels and out again without being injured at all.

—The comatose paper alludes to the "ways that are dark and tricks that are mean." The "journalist" ought to get a copy of Bret Harte and read up. His quotations are rusty.

—A woman fainted on the winding stairway near the top of the stand-pipe at Netherwood, Saturday. Her male companion caught her in time to prevent a terrible fall down that giddy height.

—The Ramabai Circle will hold its annual meeting Thursday afternoon, July 9, at 4:30 o'clock, in the Unitarian rooms, 4 Second place. The members and friends of the circle are hereby urged to attend.

—A very neatly arranged and well executed trick was that planned and carried out by the borough boys who rang the Holy Cross church bell. During the week they connected the clapper with a private rope of their own.

—A vicious dog belonging to William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, attacked Alfred J. Everett, an employe of I. D. TenEyck, Saturday morning, and bit him so severely that a physician was required to dress the wounds.

—A hole as big as a hat was burned in a roof on Cottage place, Saturday. A bucket of water put out the blaze. This was the only fire of the Fourth reported. But the firemen were all ready-equipped, alert for the call, for 36 hours.

—The Somerset street dream book says that Saturday was the "one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence." It isn't often that paper gets news a year ahead of everyone else, but it scored a beat this time, sure.

—A horse attached to a wagon of R. W. Rice & Co. was left standing, untied, on Park avenue, near the railway bridge, this morning, and took fright at a passing train and ran away. It was caught on Front street. No damage was done.

—The Rev. Edward Ransford, assistant rector of Christ Episcopal church at Elizabeth, and an editor of the Elizabeth Herald, was arrested yesterday charged with immoral practices. His accusers are young boys. He has been deposed from the ministry.

—Pioneer Council, No. 58, Jr. O. U. A. M., presented an American flag to the South Bound Brook public school, Saturday. The delegates from Plainfield present at the exercises were Gilbert S. Martin, C. C. Davis, R. Connolly and James Connolly.

—A crowd of North Plainfielders camped out on Rene Allen's farm at Gillette, along the Passaic river, Saturday, and had a gorgeous clam-bake. They were entertained with music by a Greek who manufactures musical instruments out of the red clay on the farm.

—Warren engine house and the borough lock-up are now lighted by electricity. The new light isn't much brighter than the old gas light, but it is an improvement, because it does n't flicker. A new opposition lighting company seems to be needed, to give the people the worth of their money.

—The eighth annual excursion of the Plainfield Reform Club will be to Black River Falls Park. It will take place on Wednesday, July 22. Tickets at $1 for adults; children under 12, 75 cents. The train will leave at 9 a. m. There should be a large delegation to visit this new and attractive resort.

—George A. Moore's white pony "Bull", that has pulled one of its owner's market wagons about the streets of Plainfield for the past dozen years, is dead. The horse was well-known also in Elizabeth, Newark, Perth Amboy and other places where he had been driven. His pure white mane and tail were especially noticeable. He was found dead in his stall yesterday morning, but the cause is unknown.

—The borough acted the admirable part of forethought and wisdom by making every preparation to fight fire at a moment's notice, during the Fourth. The cost was $53, which all the councilmen but Mr. Sebring thought none too much for the amount of precaution taken. Mr. Sebring alone deemed it a useless and needless expense, and said so at Friday evening's borough council meeting. Foreman Fairchild's plans were similar to those of chief engineer Doane on this side of the brook, and of course they were excellent.

VICTIMS OF OLD "ONE-HORN".

Two Firemen Hurt by a Cannon's Premature Discharge.

Howard H. Wilson, of 18 West Fourth street, and Patrick McCourt, of 26 West Front street, were maimed for life by the premature discharge of the famous old "one-horn" cannon Saturday afternoon. The two men and a number of fellow-members of Plainfield Engine Company No. 2 had been dragging the cannon about the streets and firing it ever since daybreak. They finally made a halt in front of Alert Hose Company's house, and prepared to salute the "dandy" company. They had just three rounds of powder left, and as they wished to fire five salutes they divided the powder into five lots. This diminution of the charge lessened the subsequent explosion and doubtless saved McCourt and Wilson from terrible injury. One salute was fired, and the gun was swabbed out. Then a second charge was inserted, and Wilson and McCourt began to ram it home. They rammed so hard that Harry Hartpence, who stood at the breech, could n't keep his hand on the touchhole, or vent, and the same violent pressure of air that forced his hand away caused the intense heat that fired the powder. The premature explosion terribly burned McCourt's and Wilson's hands, searing the flesh, and tearing portions of the fingers away. They were taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital. Wilson lost two joints of one finger, and portions of others, and McCourt lost two or three joints. The surgeons hope to save the rest of the hands.

The heavy oaken ramrod, with its ball of iron, went whizzing out of the gun up Madison avenue. It struck a telephone pole and was shattered. One of its fragments hit Kitty Feller, a daughter of George Feller, and bruised her wrist. She was more frightened than hurt.

The old cannon that did this mischief has a famous history. It did service for the Hessians at the battle of Springfield, and has for many years been a bone of contention among the rival fire companies of Plainfield, Somerville, Bound Brook, Scotch Plains, and Westfield. The Plainfield firemen originally got it from an old battlefield. It had lost one of the horns by which it had been attached to its carriage, and was consequently known as "the old one-horn gun, New Jersey's pet cannon." It was repeatedly stolen and smuggled about from town to town, being buried in the ground, sunk in streams and wells, stored away in cellars, and hidden in the mountains. It made its latest disappearance several years ago, when Plainfield Engine Company No. 2 got it again and hid it from their covetous rivals.

BURST IN HIS FACE.

The Flower-pot Hung Fire, and Young Dumont Was Badly Burned.

Jack Dumont, eldest son of ex-Councilman John B. Dumont of East Seventh street, was badly burned the evening of the Fourth. The Dumonts' coachman, Lon Townley, had been keeping a careful vigil over the children all day long, and had prevented them from getting into trouble with their fireworks. When bedtime came Jack touched off his last piece—a large "flower-pot". It hung fire, and he thought it was out, so he went to pick it up. Just as he bent over it it flashed up in his face. His hair was singed and his forehead was seared and blackened. As he could see before his head was bound up in oil and bandages it is not thought that his eyes were affected.

A great deal of powder was blown into young Dumont's face. To pick this all out so that he will not be disfigured will be a difficult matter.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

James E. Greensmith and wife, of Grant avenue, are at Taunton, Mass.

Howard B. Spencer and Will L. Spencer, of New York, spent Sunday in Plainfield.

The Rev. Joshua Kimber, of New York, conducted the services at Holy Cross church yesterday.

The Messrs. Raymond, of Central avenue, arrived home after their European trip, yesterday morning.

H. W. Beebe, of the Plainfield Bicycle club, won the 440-yard run at Somerville, Saturday. The time was 1 min. 13 sec.

Charles Powlison, of Grandview avenue, is at home for a summer vacation. He sails for Europe, July 11, on the Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sofield, of Perth Amboy, spent the Fourth of July at the home of their son, T. A. Sofield, 68 West Second street.

Postmaster Thos. H. Whitely and wife, of Roberts, Pa., have returned home after a pleasant Fourth of July spent with their uncle, F. M. Whitely, of the borough.

Mrs. James A. Spencer and Miss Eveline Jones of New York, and Miss Henrietta Driggs, of Asbury Park, were the guests of Alfred Bonnell, of Manning avenue, yesterday.

As the old fire bell was ringing in the "Glorious Fourth", Saturday morning, Mrs. Frank B. Fine presented her husband, the driver of Alert's $500 hose wagon, with a little girl.

The Netherwood dance, Saturday night, was one of the most brilliant affairs in the history of the hotel. The details and arrangements were entirely under the personal direction of Mrs. Frank E. Miller, which was the sole reason of the evening's success.

MR. AND MRS. FLETCHER HURT.

And Her Sister, Miss Lizzie Laing, of This City, Cut and Bruised.

A runaway accident at Long Branch, Saturday afternoon, resulted in serious injury to George M. Fletcher and his wife, the daughter of Mrs. Sarah A. Laing of West Fourth street, this city. They were staying at the West End Hotel, in Asbury Park. The afternoon of the Fourth of July they drove to Long Branch with Miss Lizzie Laing, Mrs Fletcher's sister, and Mr. Week, who also were guests of the West End Hotel.

Near the great iron pier the team became frightened at some fireworks. The horses ran on the sidewalk, and the carriage was overturned. The four occupants were hurled out. Mr. Fletcher had two ribs broken and his head cut. His wife received a bad cut on the head. Miss Laing and Mr. Weeks were cut and bruised.

The accident occurred near the Monmouth Memorial Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher and Miss Laing were taken there at once, and are there still. The young women are doing well, but it is not yet known how serious Mr. Fletcher's injuries may be.

WRECKED THE TALLY-HO.

Much Mischief Wrought by a Sky Rocket Carelessly Fired.

The Four-in-hand Club of Fanwood, a merry party of young people, were passing William Gibbe's place, Saturday night, returning from a drive, when a sky rocket was sent up from the roadway directly in front of the horses. Of course a runaway resulted. The horses took to the sidewalk, ran against a tree, and piled the coach and its passengers up in a heap. Most of the people escaped injury, but all of them were badly shaken up. The shock was so great on Mrs. Carter that she is still in a precarious condition. One of the horses had an eye torn out. The four-in-hand members are very indignant against the parties who were setting off the fireworks and who caused the accident. These parties saw the smash-up,—the aggrieved ones say—yet made no attempt whatever to render assistance or to offer condolence.

SUCCESS ALREADY ASSURED.

Three Philharmonic Concerts for Plainfield Next Season.

Mr. Newman reports that the subscriptions to the New York Philharmonic concerts proposed for Plainfield have flowed in so generously that he has been warranted in completing the arrangements.

Mlle. DeVere has been engaged to sing at the first concert of the club, Dec. 23. Miss May Lyle Smith and Signor Campanini will appear at the second concert, Jan. 28, and Miss Marion Weed, with Richard Hoffman, will appear at the last concert, Feb. 25.

Three-fourths of the seats in the Casino have already been subscribed for, and those intending to avail themselves of these admirable concerts will therefore appreciate the necessity of sending in their applications before it is too late.

GOOD-BYE TO JANE AWHILE.

The Rampant Amazonian Gets a Heavy Sentence.

Jane Roughtenhausen was grossly intoxicated yesterday, and the air around her dwelling was hideous with her yells and curses. When the police went to arrest her she was clad in nothing but an abbreviated night gown. The officers waited an hour and a half for her to dress. Every five minutes she'd call her husband in to help her, and as soon as he stuck his head in the doorway she 'd jab him in the eye with her fist. She fell down so much on her way to the police station and her bulk of 200 odd pounds was so unwieldy that finally she was bundled into a wagon by eight stalwart pairs of arms, and taken as freight. This morning Judge Codington told her he was tired of having her brought up so much before him. He sentenced her to pay a fine of $15 and to go to jail for 30 days.

IT WAS HIS SABBATH.

Because He Respected It, He and His Wife Got Hammered.

Because Louis Zitren of South Second street would n't open his store Saturday and sell him some tobacco, Daniel Niles of Stebbins place broke into it through the back way and assaulted with his fists and with stones both Zitren and his wife. The two were badly bruised, and will have Niles arrested. The reason Zitren would n't open Saturday was because he is a Hebrew and it was his Sabbath.

CRUSHED UNDER WAGON WHEELS.

Little Victor Downer Badly Injured by a Milkman's Carelessness.

Milkman Carter, of Fanwood, husband of the woman who was injured in the tally-ho accident, ran over Abner P. Downer's youngest son Victor, Saturday, with a heavy wagon. The boy was badly injured, and his condition is critical. Dr Westcott is attending both him and Mrs. Carter. The accident to the lad is said to have been due wholly to carelessness.

A Victim of the Pistol.

Walter Voorhees, a son of Hiram K. Voorhees, of 40 Duer street, had a thumb shattered by the premature explosion of a cartridge in a pistol he was handling, Saturday.

OBITUARY.

Richard Pollion.

Richard Pollion, the well-known ship builder, and father of Mrs. E. C. Pease of Park place, North Plainfield, died Saturday evening at his home, 36 East Thirty-eighth street, New York city. Mr. Pollion suffered from an attack of grip three months ago, which developed into pneumonia. Though very ill for a time, he rallied, and his friends believed that he had recovered from the disease. Friday, however, he was again stricken down.

Mr. Pollion was a son of Richard Pollion, who established a ship-building business in New York, the family being of Huguenot extraction. The two sons, Cornelius and Richard, followed in the steps of their father, and for many years have built merchant vessels, steamships, and yachts under the firm name of C. & R. Pollion.

The subject of this sketch was born in New York city in 1817. After receiving a good education he went into his father's yards and thoroughly learned the trade. For fifty years he built ships. His brother Cornelius died ten years ago this month, but the business was kept up by Richard. During the war the gunboat Winona was built by the firm, as well as several other war vessels. The Pollions also built the first two war ships for the Japanese Government, the Kurada and the Capron. Within the last twenty years the firm has paid especial attention to the construction of yachts, and among others turned out the Sappho and Coronet. The latter was built with especial view to a voyage around the world. Many steamships were also built in the Pollion yards. Attention was never given, however, to the construction of iron steamships.

Mr. Pollion was a member of the board of trustees of the West Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Mr. Paxton is pastor. He was a member of the Huguenot Society, the Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, and a director of the Brooklyn Ferry Company. He was also a member of the old Volunteer Fire Department, having run, with his brother Cornelius, with old Southwick Engine No. 38. He leaves a wife and six children, Richard H. and James O. Pollion of New York city, Mrs E. C. Pease, Mrs. J. S. Shiner of Ridgewood, N. J.; Mrs. Charles O. Lyon of New York city, and Miss Mary A. Pollion.

The funeral services will be held to-morrow at 4 p. m. from the family residence.

A STREET RAILWAY SURE.

If Plainfield Can't Have an Electric Road She'll Get Horse Cars, and Down Will Come the Electric Light Price.

The Plainfield Street Railway Co., is patiently awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court as to the right of Common Councils to grant corporations the privilege of erecting poles in public streets.

A decision is expected every day, but meanwhile the Plainfield company is stayed from proceeding in the construction of its road.

The rails are all ready for shipment and a gang of 200 men engaged. As soon as the decision is made known, work will be commenced at once.

If the decision is in favor of the city's right to give permission to erect poles, Plainfield will have an electric railway.

If against the city's right, then Plainfield will have horse cars.

The latter system will be cheaper for the company but not so ornamental or satisfactory to the city.

The people will understand, however, that it will be the fault of the rule-or-ruin bosses.

If the Supreme Court says the Council has no power to grant the right of erecting poles to carry an electric trolley wire, it also says the Council has no power to grant the right of erecting poles to carry an electric light wire.

Consequently if the decision is against the Council, Plainfield will not only go without an electric railway but the electric light poles must come down.

But out of it all will come one cause for rejoicing by the people—Plainfield will have the street railway it has suffered without so many years. Horse cars will be better than nothing.

THE PRESS has many reasons for this assurance. One is that on Saturday last President Nevins refused $20,000 for the Plainfield Street Railway company's franchise. He said: "I'm going to build the street railway in that city myself. I would n't sell the franchise for $40,000. I said I was going to build the road when I asked for the franchise, and Tom Nevins never broke his word yet."

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

ONE GAME EACH AGAIN.

The Crescent League's Players and Their Friends, the Flushings, Divide the Baseball Honors of the Day.

The least said about Saturday morning's game as played by the Crescent League's team, the better for their reputation. Taylor was in the box, but, as usual, got no support. Errors by Hammill, Gregg and Lee were inexcusable and costly. Bonner had a finger hurt early in the game, and Jones took his place behind the bat. The score:

The afternoon game had a number of circus features, and the spectator laughed more than they cheered. The opposing players passed jokes back and forth, the umpire, acting as a sort of middle-man. The clown of the afternoon was the visitors' pitcher, who said some highly good natured things. The one thing that was n't funny for the Flushings was the way their left-fielder fumbled the ball and helped to lose the game. "He'll never play for us again"—they said. The Crescents' battery came in for considerable praise for their clean and steady work. The score:

Jumped on the Policeman.

Jacob Kriney of Evona had a hard time of it Saturday. He was the only constable on duty at the picnic at Eureka Grove, and though Mr. Kriney is a brave and popular old fireman and constable, some of the fellows in the crowd whose heads were muddled with liquor took advantage of the chance to "lay an officer out" and pummeled the constable considerably. He pluckily stood his ground and finally succeeded in driving the disturbers away. They will be arrested.

The Flag Graced the Pulpit.

"Piety and Patriotism" was the subject of an address by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at the Trinity Reformed church last evening. His text was from the 20th chapter of St. Luke's gospel, the 25th verse. He spoke with much earnestness, and a large and appreciative audience listened with pleasure and profit to a most able sermon. Over the pulpit and at each side of the organ the national flag was tastefully draped, causing a very pretty and patriotic effect.

SNUBBING STONE-MAN SMALLEY.

Because of Alleged Impertinence He Loses a Borough Job.

A. L. Smalley is not to be permitted to furnish any more crushed stone for the borough of North Plainfield, this year. The borough council settled that matter Friday night. Some weeks before, they had accepted Mr. Smalley's bid because it was the lowest presented. In the proposition as accepted he had offered to furnish the stone "at the council's pleasure". That pleasure was that teamster Samuel Moore should do the carting. But when Mr. Moore was sent to the crusher for stone Mr. Smalley would n't let him have any. In reporting the matter to the council Mr. Buckle of the street committee said that he would n't sully his tongue with a repetition of the vile things Mr. Smalley had said to Mr. Moore and about him. The one essential fact was that Mr. Smalley had absolutely refused to let Mr. Moore cart any stone from his crusher—and all because of a personal grudge. Then when the committee had remonstrated, Mr. Smalley had attempted to dictate to them what they should do. The committee were not treated respectfully,—Mr. Buckle concluded—and Mr. Smalley was not entitled to any more consideration at the hands of the council. Mr. Hummer spoke of Mr. Smalley's action as "unwarranted assumption". Mr. Hegeman spoke of Mr. Smalley as "this-sh-individual", and was highly indignant that he should attempt to dictate who the Council should employ. It was—he considered—a most remarkable piece of impertinence. It was simply an act of justice to take the borough patronage away from Mr. Smalley altogether.

By resolution the acceptance of Mr. Smalley's bid was revoked, and a bid from Jasper H. Wilson, agreeing to furnish stone at the same price that Mr. Smalley had been furnishing it for, was accepted. Mr. Smalley sent in a new bid, a trifle lower than the old. Mr. Sering, who voted against the resolution deposing Mr. Smalley, said that he felt as though he'd like to express his feelings in the matter, and held that the new and lower bid of Mr. Smalley ought to be accepted. Mr. Hegeman said that the new bid was not made with any honest intention. It was only put in for a purpose. It was meant to circumvent the council. It ought to be considered as not received. Mr. Buckle said that the committee had been grossly insulted by Mr Smalley, and he'd rather pay the difference out of his own pocket than have Mr Smalley furnish the stone. Mr. Wilson was praised for his courtesy in furnishing all the stone needed for immediate use when Mr. Smalley first showed his obstinacy and shut off the supply. As Mr. Wilson's price had been reduced to Mr. Smalley's figure and as the quality of his stone is considered very excellent and satisfactory, his crusher is to be exclusively patronized by the borough for the rest of the year. Mr. Sebring sighed when he found that no one voted with him in Mr. Smalley's favor.

NEW BRIDGES FOR PLAINFIELD.

Broadway, Park, and Prospect Avenues Granted Improvements by the County.

The county legislators have had occasion to meet so often during the past few weeks, that when the regular session came around Thursday afternoon they had little to do beyond the consideration of a batch of bills and some routine transactions.

Several committees reported. The committee appointed on the matter of the bridge on Prospect avenue, this city, reported that the water-way was too small, and recommended that a new iron beam bridge be constructed at a cost not to exceed $2,800. The recommendation was adopted.

The committee on the petition for a bridge at Eastman avenue, Cranford, over the Rahway river, stated that a bridge would open a large and desirable territory and prove a great benefit. They recommended that a low truss iron bridge be built, at a cost not to exceed $3,000. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Vanderbeek offered a resolution authorizing the Plainfield bridge committee to rebuild the superstructures of the Park avenue and Broadway bridges, at a cost not to exceed $1,000 each. The resolution was adopted.

Among the bills read were those sent in by the papers publishing the county collector's report, each for $185 10. The former boards paid $100 to each paper. This year the new law authorizes the papers publishing the laws to print the collector's report, and fixes the compensation at legal rates. The auditing committee refused to pass on the bills, and the board referred them to the legal committee and county attorney.

It is is very probable—comments the Elizabeth Journal—that the claims will have to be paid. Judge Magie, in Somerset county, decided that legal rates could be charged. The publishers will, however, be obliged to wait until the August meeting before the claims can be approved.

PLAINFIELD IN THE LEAD.

She Has the Largest Delegation of All at the Camping-out College.

HEADQUARTERS PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.,
MOODY'S BIBLE SCHOOL,
NORTHFIELD, Mass., June 30, 1891.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As Plainfield is so largely represented in the world's Bible conference for young men now being held at this beautiful place, the home of Messrs. Moody and Sankey, we have thought it might be of interest to your readers to hear something from the conference.

We arrived here last Saturday, June 27, at about 10 a. m., having come by way of the Norwich line of steamers and the New London railway. Our party, including those who are quartered in the buildings, numbers about 20, 16 of whom occupy four tents.

Our first day was spent in selecting our camping ground, and it was an interesting sight to witness the different delegations going back and forth, to and fro from the headquarters, carrying cots, bedding, washstands, etc.

At about 5 p. m. we had all our tents in order, and President Murray might have been seen sitting in front of his tent, with the delegates grouped about him, discussing the treat in store for us.

There is no discounting the beauties of this place, for it would certainly be hard to find a more lovely location.

Three States centre at Northfield—Vermont, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, while the beautiful Connecticut river wends its course through the valley, formed by the mountain ranges, with which this region abounds.

It is a picturesque sight to witness the many tents scattered upon the hills.

There are now about 500 young men here, delegations being present from all parts of the world.

Among the prominent colleges represented may be mentioned, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell, Amherst, Wesleyan, Carlisle Indian School, and Richmond. Yale sends about 45 delegates, while the Old Dominion (Virginia) has fully fifty men on the ground.

There are also delegations from the University of Edinburgh, from England, Sweden, Armenia, Ireland, Japan, China and Alaska. The Y. M. C. A's are well represented, especially the New York and New Jersey Associations, but Plainfield has the largest representation of any individual association, and we have been complimented on the fact.

We have a banner with the lettering "Y. M. C. A., Plainfield, N. J.", suspended between our tents, which has attracted much attention. We are situated on a high hill, which commands one of the finest views at Northfield.

The sixth annual world's students' conference opened Saturday evening with an address in Stone Hall by Mr. Moody on "The Conviction of Sin." The spacious rooms were crowded. Mr. Moody never spoke with greater power, and the conference opened with a feeling that a great blessing would come to all those in attendance.

Sunday we had the pleasure of listening to a powerful sermon by the Rev. John Smith, of Edinburgh, in the congregational church, from Genesis XVIII: 17-33, "Abraham's Intercession." Immediately afterwards a recess of ten minutes was taken and then Prof. R. E. Thompson of the University of Pennsylvania, preached from Matthew x: 2-4, "The Calling of the Disciples." Since then Prof. Wm. R. Harper of Yale, now President-elect of the new University in Chicago, has delivered several lectures. Prof. Harper is one of the foremost Bible students of the country. His lectures are very popular and exceedingly instructive. His analysis of the books of Jonah and Nahum were very fine. But the greatest treat of all came to-day when Dr. D. W. Munhall lectured on the "Bible." He spoke two hours, and when he closed the students broke out in hearty applause. Never has Northfield seen the like, and the inspiration imparted to those that listened to his eloquent plea for the Bible will be lasting.

A special feature has been the singing under the leadership of Prof. D. B. Towner, and the solos of Miss Fox of Brooklyn.

A portion of the work at Northfield very interesting to us, is the Bible Normal Training class, conducted by Mr. Messer, General Secretary of Chicago Y. M. C. A. This same method of Bible study has been introduced in two of our Plainfield churches.

Mr. Speer, of Princeton fame, also conducts a Bible class on the inductive plan, which is largely attended. Altogether there are twelve Bible classes of ten persons each.

I must not forget to mention the Athletics under the direction of the celebrated A. A. Stagg of Yale, and we have an abundance of base and foot-ball, tennis, etc., etc.

The bathing facilities are excellent, and between two and three hundred enjoy these privileges each day.

Altogether, in closing, I know of no place, offering to young men such privileges as Northfield, and I feel sure that the delegation will return to Plainfield greatly improved in health, and above all taking with them a great spiritual blessing, as the result of their two weeks' sojourn with the great evangelist.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Surry, Little Falls, N. Y.

TEE KAY SAID "ROBBER!"

Somerville People Still Growling About that Game.

[From The Hackettstown Democrat.]

At Drake Park, Westfield, June 27, the West Ends met the enemy and came away theirs. Drake Park, Rippleyville, is almost out of civilization. It is called a park, but why no one knows. It was once an open lot, situated in an arid desert waste, without a semblance of a tree or shrub to even give any one the idea that it was the intention to ever have a park. The management have fenced in about 6 acres of the ground and laid out a diamond, where some of the would-be athletes could cavort around and try to dispel the ennui of the villagers.

The crowd that gathered to see the game between the West Ends and the Westfield Athletic Club was a great one indeed, those coming from Somerville and Plainfield filling up the grand stand, while the few followers and supporters which the Westfield's seemed to have were seated on the ground along the fence line each side of the stand. Whether the price was too high for them to occupy the grand stand is a question, but to our mind the very appearance of the people representing the Westfields is sufficient evidence that the necessary quarter was lacking. Then again it seemed to be a red letter day, as all the farmers for miles around drove in, coming in all sorts of conveyances, and filling up the space where bleachers could be built.

The umpire (in name only) was Mr. McGrath, of Summit, and to say that he knew the game would be an untruth. You will all say "It's the same old story: could n't win, and so you blame it to the umpire!" or, as the president of the Crescent League says: "Since the organization of the West End Club they have lost only four games. The other have been either stolen from them or won easily." Perhaps some of the good people of our town will say the same thing. Although we are hard losers, we never kick unless we get a bad deal, and we certainly did get that June 27. The umpire was, as Al Mack said, in every sense a robber, and when Al was told to keep still by an ex-Crescent, Cornwall by name, Tom Keller said: "Yes, Al, keep still; let me call him a robber!"—and he did.

How the Good Women Celebrated.

The rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union were open as usual Independence Day, and were cool and inviting to all who chose to avail themselves of the hospitalities extended. Flags and patriotic drapings decorated the walls, and the fragrance of wild roses and nasturtiums filled the air. The ladies in attendance had a cordial greeting for all, and coffee, cake and lemonade were served. Bouquets tied with the white ribbon were distributed. In the evening a praise service was held.

—Two or three young women in this city raised $12 for the Tribune fresh-air fund last week and concealed their identity by signing merely "Plainfield" in sending it in.

Thrown from a Train.

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—A special from Youngstown says: "William Coe and Charles Adgate, while on a passenger train leaving here at midnight, quarreled over a girl, and Adgate threw Coe off the coach. He fell on the rails, and both feet were amputated and his skull was fractured. Coe was removed to the hospital. He will die. Officers are hunting for Adgate, who resides in Warren."

Shot and Killed by a Policeman.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—Charles Ringola, colored, was shot and killed in the morning by Officer M. T. Carney while resisting arrest. Ringola had been arrested for disorderly conduct, but broke away from the officer and attacked him with a knife. The officer then fired the fatal shot.

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. Tudor Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. Tudor. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. Tudor Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

RIB-TICKLING TALES.

The Newest and Best Stories Told by Great Men.

Good Yarns Contributed by President Harrison, Vice President Morton, Grover Cleveland, Governor Hill and General Porter.

(COPYRIGHT, 1891.)

The most novel symposium ever printed is the following collection of good stories told by famous Americans, stories that lose much in being read, instead of being heard, but rib-ticklers nevertheless. The gentlemen who tell these stories, and convulse their hearers, have many other stories that they tell first, and in case they do not cause the hilarity expected, the speaker's reputation as a wit is staked on the stories annexed. Each story, as told, is the best in the gentleman's repertoire, as the saucy soubrette would put it, and they never fail to bring forth showers of laughter.

HARRISON TELLS A HOG STORY.

President Harrison very seldom indulges in a joke or story, unless he knows his hearers well. One day, he surprised his hearers by telling the following story to illustrate a point:

There was a man who had a way of taking his own advice and doing things to get even. He was a hog-dealer and one season he drove a large number of hogs to Indianapolis, a distance of one hundred miles from his home, although he was told he could get nearly as much for them at a town nearer. Arriving at Indianapolis, he found that the price of hogs had gone down. He kept them in the city nearly a month, and finally was offered a higher price than he could get nearer home. He wanted a high price, and declared he would drive the hogs back home, which he did at a considerable cost. Then he sold them at home at a price very much less than that offered in the city. One of his friends asked him why he had acted so unwisely.

"I wanted to get even with them city hog-buyers," he replied.

"But did you get even?"

"Well, they didn't get my hogs."

"What, pray, did you get out of the transaction?"

"Get! Why, bless your thick-skulled head, I got the society of the hogs back home!"

VICE PRESIDENT MORTON'S BULL STORY.

Vice President Morton now and then perpetrates a joke or story by way of illustration upon his listeners. He knows it well by heart before he begins.

Not far from where I live in the country there is a farmer noted for his fine, large cattle. Durhams and Alderneys roam over his extensive lands, and people come from a long distance to view his stock. But visitors have to be careful about walking around alone in the clover fields on account of the number of ferocious bulls owned by the farmer. A certain major general, who was very proud of his title, visited a neighbor of the farmer, and one day he strolled out and began to cut across the clover fields in order to save a little distance. Before he knew what was up, a big bull, bellowing and shaking his head, began to chase him. The general was a swift runner and he made good time in front of the pursuing animal. But the animal was swift, too, and every time the general would get near a fence the bull was too close for him to even attempt to climb over. At last the general made a line for a gate near the farmer's house and reaching it in time shut off the bull from further pursuit. The farmer, it seems, was there and had witnessed the chase.

"Sir—sir, did you see your bull chasing me?"

"Y-e-s," said the farmer, suppressing a smile.

"Is that all you have to say? Do you know whom that bull was chasing?"

"You, I guess."

"Do you know who I am, sir? I am Gen. Blank."

"Well, why didn't you tell the bull that?" curtly retorted the farmer.

WANAMAKER'S REBUKE.

Postmaster-General John Wanamaker is given to illustrating his conversation with pointed stories. Once he rebuked some of his Sunday-school boys for laughing at a deaf boy's mistake in answering misunderstood questions, and related this story:

Now, little boys, it is not right to laugh or make sport of affliction. I knew of a deaf man once who was disposed to be paralmonious. He was fond of society and a confirmed bachelor. He gave a banquet to some young ladies and young gentlemen, the elite of the city. For convenience, I will call the bachelor Brown. When the banquet was nearly over one of the boldest of the young men arose to toast Mr. Brown. The latter stood up, all smiles, but he could not hear a word that was spoken.

He only knew it was about him that the toast was being said. The young scapegoat said:

"Here is to you, you old miser, Brown. You are no better than a tramp and it is suspected that you make your money dishonestly. My wish is that you may get your just deserts yet and land in the penitentiary."

The deaf Mr. Brown smiled, raised his glass to his lips, and said: "The same to you."

A GOOD ONE BY CLEVELAND.

When Grover Cleveland was governor he was fond of telling humorous stories to illustrate a point. It is said he got off a good thing on a certain ex-assemblyman who dropped in to see him about the time the newspapers were exposing the job in the contract for putting in a new ceiling in the Albany capitol. It appears that all during the days of Boss Tweed this ex-assemblyman was in the lower house and fought against jobbery and against the "boss." Mr. Cleveland was listening to the comments of the ex-assemblyman about the substitution of a papier mache ceiling for an oaken one, when all at once, with a smile on his face, he interrupted his visitor thusly:

"What is the difference between the assembly now and when you were a member?"

"We were ruled by a democratic boss and now by a republican boss," ventured the ex-member.

"Oh, no. When you were a member the fraud was on the floor; now it is in the ceiling," said Mr. Cleveland.

GOV. HILL'S STORY OF TWO ENGLISHMEN.

Gov. Hill is a good story-teller. Two Englishmen who had been bosom friends came to America. They met with poor success, drifted apart, and finally one took a position as waiter in a cheap restaurant. He hadn't been there long before his friend appeared, at the dinner. The meeting was not over-joyful.

"Why, old man, you down to a waiter, eh? Gracious, how you have fallen! And in a Bowery restaurant, too!"

"Yes," replied the waiter, turning on his friend, sarcastically, "but I don't eat here, thank God!"

SENATOR INGALLS AND THE DRUNKEN MAN.

Senator Ingalls is prolific with apt anecdotes and stories.

A man considerably intoxicated got into a street car and hung on to a strap. There was enough room for him to sit down, but one gentleman had spread himself so as to occupy two seats. The man holding the strap said to him:

"Say,—(hic)—my fren'—(hic)—wish you—(hic)—would move."

"You are drunk," answered the party on the seat, who refused to make room.

"I know it—(hic)—" was the reply, "but—(hic)—I'll get over it. You're—(hic)—a hog, sir—(hic)—and'll never—(hic)—get over it."

A TRAMP STORY BY GEN. PORTER.

Gen. Horace Porter is a noted after-dinner speaker, and has a fund of anecdotes and humorous incidents. Here is one of his stories:

"Lady to Boston Tramp—And now you want something to eat?

"Boston Tramp—Yes, lady, you are religiously correct in your surmise.

"Lady—Did you saw that wood?

"Boston Tramp—O, don't say that, lady, but put it in this way: 'Did you see that wood?'"

Gen. Porter tells a good story about his going to Europe for the first time.

"As soon as I landed in Ireland I attempted to look for traces of some of my ancestors who came from the extreme north of Ireland. Meeting an intelligent-looking Irishman I informed him of my mission, saying that my ancestors emigrated from about that spot a hundred years ago, and I was there trying to look them up. He answered: 'Ye say your ancestors migrated from our town to Amerikky about a hundred years ago? Thin why are yez looking for thim here?'"

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

PRISONERS KILLED

Penitentiary Walls Blown Down by a Cyclone.

BATON ROUGE ALMOST WRECKED

The Governor's Mansion Demolished and Many Buildings Unroofed.

A Big List of Dead and Injured—The Scene Was One of Great Horror—Citizens Went to the Work of Rescue While a Violent Rain Was Falling—A Steamer Blown to Pieces.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 7.—At 6:30 a. m., a terrific rain and wind storm struck this city and in a few minutes almost wrecked half the place.

The cyclone passed over the lower portion of the city, unroofing houses, tearing up immense trees and carrying missiles along in the air for many blocks.

The Governor's mansion was demolished. Also the large brick yard and factory with a wing of the three-story brick building in the penitentiary, known as the hospital and commissary, with a pants factory on the upper floor was blown down and totally destroyed.

Forty persons were at work in the factory and of these six were killed and 29 were wounded and horribly crushed.

On the second floor was the hospital where 26 persons were under medical treatment. Four of these were killed and 14 seriously wounded.

Citizens to the Rescue.

The alarm bells were rung and the fire department responded and with citizens went to the work of rescue.

The scene was one of great horror. A violent rain was falling, but the men worked hard and soon had the dead and injured out of the debris.

The names of the killed are: Isaac McClelland, J. N. Wagoner, Fred Gage, James Van Netter, John Gibson, Nathan Channey, Henry Celestine, Ed. Bucker, William Willow and Beauregard Hardee.

The wounded number 36, of which six will probably not live and seven others are in a very critical condition.

The main building and the women's department of the institution were unroofed and the walls badly cracked. The damage done to the building is about $30,000.

Ex-Judge Ford, convicted for complicity in the murder of Captain Murphy, worked gallantly at rescuing the killed and wounded. He is clerk of the commissary department. The prisoners all acted in a praiseworthy manner and gave the guards no trouble.

The roof of a handsome residence, belonging to Mr. Marsh, was carried away and other damage done to the place.

The boulevard is one mass of trees that have been torn up by the wind, and the street is filled with pieces of house tops and other timbers of almost every description.

The steamboat Smoky City was blown to pieces, there being nothing left of her but the hull. Several of the crew were injured.

RUMORS ABOUT MR. BLAIR.

Rejected the Second Time by the Chinese Government—His Salary.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Assistant Secretary of State Wharton said it was not true that ex-Senator Blair was drawing his salary as Minister to China at the rate of $12,000 a year.

The rumor is circulated in diplomatic circles that Mr. Blair has again been turned down by the Chinese Government. The reply of the Chinese Premier to the request of the President that Mr. Blair be received by the Chinese Government reached Washington a few days ago.

It is stated that it contained a polite, but none the less firm refusal to accept Mr. Blair as our diplomatic representative.

PRINCE GEORGE DELAYED.

He is Returning to New York on the Disabled Steamship Servia.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The steamship Elder, which has just arrived in port, reports that the Servia, which sailed last Saturday, is disabled and is returning to this city. An accident occurred to her machinery and she is being towed in by the steamer Chester.

When the Servia sailed on Saturday she had on board a great number of passengers, including Prince George and many well-known Chicago people.

The World's Fair Commission.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Ex-Representative Butterworth, Mr. M. F. Handy and other members of the World's Fair Commission, who are going to Europe as promoters, are in the city. Mr. Handy and Mr. Butterworth were at the Treasury Department for a while making final arrangements for their departure. The members of the commission will hold a meeting in New York to-morrow and a few days later will sail for Europe. They will visit the principal capitals and will try to get back in time for the board meeting in Chicago on Nov. 10.

Arrested When Leaving Prison.

BALTIMORE, July 7.—Charles Mason, who has served four years and two months in the penitentiary for forgery, was discharged at noon, his term of sentence having expired. He was at once rearrested by order of Marshal Frey and given in charge of officers from Lynn, Mass., where he will be taken and tried for an offense committed 11 years ago.

A Brutal Keeper Arrested.

LINCOLN, Mass., July 17.—Officer Head, of the reformatory, has been arrested for hitting Frank Pierce, aged 14, with the butt end of a revolver. Head fired three shots, but, not hitting the boys, he pursued them, and, overtaking Pierce, assaulted him with his revolver.

DANGEROUS RIOT.

Indianapolis the Scene of a Fight Between White Cadets and Negro Toughs.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 7.—A dangerous riot occurred on Kentucky avenue at 1 p. m. between a party of Southern cadets of Macon, Ga., and several negro toughs, and for a time it looked as if the most serious consequences would be the result.

The Southern boys were passing down the thoroughfare, when they were guyed by a negro bootblack. The boys took it good naturedly for a time, but finally got angry and advanced on the negro, who was surrounded by a crowd of other negroes who were encouraging him in his insults.

The bootblack threw his box at one of the whites, striking him a stinging blow upon the head. The crowd then advanced upon the negroes, who broke and ran into a negro saloon near by, the whites following. As the latter entered they were confronted by some 20 or more negroes, and a perfect volley of spittoons, brickbats and stones were hurled at them. The whites grabbed what missiles they could and returned the volley, knocking half a dozen of the negroes down. Freeman, of the whites, and Martin Lynch, a negro, closed in upon each other with billiard cues. Edwards came to Freeman's assistance, and Lynch was soon stretched upon the floor, bleeding from a dozen ugly wounds in the head. Another negro rushed upon Freeman with a razor and gave him a gash in the left cheek extending from the mouth to the back of the jaw.

When the fight was at its hottest, the police entered and arrested the combatants, both white and colored, and restored order. The Southerners were taken to the office of the police surgeon, where their wounds were dressed. Williams and Freeman are both seriously hurt, but it is not believed that either is fatally injured.

Great excitement exists, and the Macon boys have been reinforced by their whole company, who are now on the spot. The police are in charge, however, and it is not believed that further trouble will result.

HALLINGER WILL HANG.

The Murderer's Lawyer Will Withdraw His Appeal to the Supreme Court.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 7.—Lawyer Charles J. Peshall, who succeeded in saving Edward W. Hallinger, the wife murderer, from the gallows on the eve of his execution at the Hudson County jail, Jersey City, June 30, does not intend, apparently, to prolong the fight for the negro's life.

He says that he is satisfied that Hallinger must eventually hang, and that he intends to withdraw the appeal to the United States Supreme Court, which will leave Judge Knapp of Hudson County free to resentence Hallinger.

DARING BURGLARS ESCAPE.

They Make a Desperate Attempt to Rob a Railroad Station.

READING, Pa., July 7.—Isaac Koch, a switchman at the Mount Penn Gravity Railroad station, was attacked by four men shortly after 1 a. m., shot at and clubbed into submission. They bound him and forced an entrance to the station. His assailants then began an attack on the safe, which was supposed to contain $2,000.

Meanwhile Koch yelled for assistance. His cries were heard, and the arrival of some neighbors caused the burglars to beat a hasty retreat.

They had failed to force the safe and left a full outfit of burglars' tools behind them. All escaped. Koch is quite seriously injured.

HER NECK DISLOCATED.

Probably Another Murder Mystery at Camden, N. J.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 7.—The body of a beautiful young woman, well dressed, was found in the grass along the river shore at the head of Eighth street at 2 p. m.

Her neck was dislocated and one leg is apparently fractured. It appears to be a case of murder. Money and jewelry were found on the body, and it will probably be identified by a peculiar hook and eye ring on one finger.

The body had apparently been in the water only a short time.

Teachers in Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 7.—The 43th annual convention of the New York State Teachers' Association began here last evening with about 800 delegates present. Hon. T. F. Hamilton, of Saratoga, delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by the president of the association, James M. Milne, of Oneonta. Hon. Stewart L. Woodford, of Brooklyn, then delivered the annual educational address on "Education and Citizenship."

Ex-Vice-President Hamlin's Funeral.

BANGOR, Me., July 7.—The remains of ex-Vice-President Hamlin will lie in State in the Unitarian Church until to-morrow, when the funeral will be held. The bereaved family have received many expressions of sympathy.

DISPLAY OF ROYALTY

The Princess Louise Married to Prince Aribert.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT WINDSOR

Queen Victoria Received With Wild Applause by the Spectators.

Mounted Guards of Honor Along the Route to the Chapel—Germany's Imperial Couple Witness the Ceremony. Description of the Wedding Dress—England's Queen Attired in Simple Black.

LONDON, July 7.—The wedding of Princess Louise was one of the most magnificent spectacles ever witnessed in Windsor. Multitudes from London and other places packed the town from early morning.

St. George's Chapel was crowded with the wedding guests, their brilliant attire presenting a scene of splendor unequaled since the marriage of the late Prince Leopold in 1882.

Guards of honor were mounted at the castle and at the chapel, and the route down Castle Hill was lined with guards.

First in the procession came the representatives of the princely house of Anhalt-Dessau. Then came 12 carriages containing the Kaiser, the Kaiserin, the Prince and Princess of Wales, with the Princesses Victoria and Maud, the Duke and Duchesses of Connaught and Edinburgh, Prince Henry and Princess Beatrice of Battenberg, and Louise, Duchess of Fife.

The third body in the procession was the Prince Aribert, the bridegroom, and his attendants. Then came Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, who was received with the wildest applause, acclamation following acclamation.

The bride, accompanied by her father, Prince Christian, and the young Prince Christian, her brother, followed the Queen.

All the carriages had outriders in scarlet liveries. Blasts upon trumpets heralded the royal arrival at the chapel.

There the guests were received by the royal chamberlain, who ushered all of them to their places. The dais in front of the altar was covered with a magnificent blue carpet, on which rested the seats of velvet and gold for the members of the royal and imperial families. The seats of other guests were overhung with banners of Knights of the Garter, but no other decorations, excepting a marvellously beautiful selection of flowers from the royal conservatory.

The Prince of Wales escorted the German Empress into the chapel. The Empress wore a sea-green moire antique. They were preceded by the Emperor escorting the Princess of Wales, whose bodice sparkled with German orders.

Queen Victoria was attired in simple black, with a coronet of diamonds.

The bridegroom came next, with his two brothers, Prince Frederic and Prince Edward. They were led to the altar by the royal chamberlain, and were soon followed by the bride, her father and brother.

The bridal dress was of white, bordered by orange blossoms, the skirt draped with honiton lace and the girdle with white flowers.

The bridesmaids wore white silver ostrich plumes in their hair; their skirts were of white satin, with silver girdles, and they carried bouquets of Marshal Niel roses.

The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated.

MR. BLAINE'S CONDITION.

His Physicians Say His Improvement is as Rapid as Could Be Expected.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 7.—Secretary Blaine was out driving twice during the day, once in the morning and once in the afternoon, the drive on the latter occasion being extended some distance into the country. Emmons Blaine says his father has improved wonderfully since he saw him last, 10 days ago.

It may be stated upon the highest authority that the Secretary has neither Bright's disease, diabetes or any other kidney complaint.

Mr. Blaine's physician, Dr. Taylor, of Philadelphia, said last night that he found his patient better than he had before seen him. He says that his improvement is as uniform and rapid as could be expected, and the conditions are favorable to his ultimate recovery. Mr. Blaine, he says, eats abundantly of everything and takes exercise in all kinds of weather.

Last Day of the Singing Festival.

NEWARK, N. J., July 7.—This afternoon the Saengerfest will come to an end. It has been decided to hold the next grand fest in New York city.

Bank Stocks Dropped.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—At a meeting of the Clearing House association both the Keystone and Spring Garden National banks were dropped from membership.

Death of Judge Wilson.

PITTSBURG, July 7.—Hon. Theophilus S. Wilson, presiding judge of Clarion County, and a distinguished lawyer, died at Indiana, Pa., at midnight.

Lawyer Hains Made a Final Effort to Save Wood—Excitement in the Prison in the Morning—The Doomed Men Arise Early and Eat a Good Breakfast—The Final Test of the Dynamo Made This Morning—The Men Show but Little Nervousness While Waiting to be Seated in the Chair.

SING SING, July 7.—James J. Slocum, Joseph Wood, Harris A. Smiler and Schihick Jugigo were killed by electricity, in conformity with the legal decree, in the execution chamber at the State's prison this morning, in expiation of the crimes they had committed.

Slocum was the first of the condemned murderers to be put to death. He was electrocuted at 4:43.

The second victim was Smiler, Wood the third and Jugigo the last.

At to-day's executions the executioner was in a small closet with an open top, through which he could hear anything said to him by the warden or any of his assistants, and the electricians were in the execution chamber itself.

The Witnesses.

The following is a correct list of those who witnessed the awful scene: Dr. Carlos F. McDonald, chairman of the State Commission in Lunacy; Prof. I. E. Landy, of Columbia College; Dr. A. D. Rockwell, the expert; Dr. A. D. Rockwell, the expert; Dr. A. Buffalo; Dr. Franklin Townsend, Albany; Dr. Southwick, the Buffalo dentist, who first agitated and has persistently advocated electrical execution; Dr. C. E. Daniels, who superintended the autopsy on SMILER.

Kemmler's body; Deputy Attorney-General Hogan, of Albany; Dr. Hiram Barber, physician to Sing Sing prison; E. F. Davis, electrical expert; Charles S. Durston, of Auburn; Father John B. Credon, Father Hogan, Father Lynch, Rev. Mr. Law; Chaplain W. B. Edgerton, Pardon Clerk Brown, of Albany, and Warden Brown.

The Situation at 3 a. m.

SING SING, N. Y., July 7.—The four doomed men in the big State prison momentarily expect to be led to the electric chair.

There may be just a thread of a chance for Wood, because of the desperate efforts of his lawyer. But for the three others, Jugiro, Slocum and Smiler, there seems now to be no future, except that beyond the quicklime grave.

The executions—unless something unforeseen prevents—will probably begin at 5 a. m.

WOOD.

How They Spent the Night.

Last night was passed by the condemned men much as other nights have passed for months. The early evening was whiled away in conversation with the two night members of the death watch. No allusion was made to the approaching execution.

Delicacies for Breakfast.

After each man had washed himself in a bucket of cold spring water, breakfast was ordered. Warden Brown sent word to the prisoners that they were at liberty to order any dish they might want for breakfast.

"I wish I could have some cool watermelon" said Wood, probably with the instinct born in his colored heart.

"I should like some lobster," said Jugigo, who does not eat meat, but is extravagantly fond of fish of all sorts.

Smiler and Slocum said that they were utterly indifferent as to what they had

So the prisoners were served with beefsteak, coffee, milk, lobster, boiled eggs and toast and coffee. All the men ate heartily and seemed to enjoy their meal.

Prayers in the Cells.

Fathers Credon and Lynch repaired to the cells of the condemned men shortly after daybreak and immediately commenced offering religious consolation. Wood and Slocum were devout in their prayers. When the priest spoke to Slocum a deep drawn sigh escaped his lips

SLOCUM.

He shook the priest's hand warmly and asked if his last day had come. Father Credon counseled him to keep up his courage and be ready to go to his death manfully.

Smiler, the religious enthusiast, the Salvation Army man, believes he will go to heaven when he dies. All his prayers are that he may be saved. While the priests were with Wood and Slocum, the Rev. S. W. Edgerton, the prison chaplain, attended to Smiler. The chaplain asked Smiler if he was feeling as happy as he did when he spent much time in singing and reading the Bible.

He said yes.

The Order of the Killing.

Up to a day or two ago the warden had the order of execution arranged as follows: Jugiro, Wood, Smiler, Slocum. But when Jugiro had shown a disposition to be ugly the order was Slocum, Smiler, Wood and Jugiro. Had there been a stay in the case of Wood another change had been necessary. But Wood, Smiler, and Slocum, as expected went to the chair, as a reverend gentleman expressed during the evening, "Like contented men to a good breakfast."

Testing the Dynamos.

A final test of the dynamos and death dealing apparatus was made this morning by Electrician Davis and Capt. Hilbert, who reported to the warden that all was in readiness.

The warden danced around in a lively manner and amused himself by nursing the secret of the hour of the execution. Even Head Keeper Connaughton, who never in his 18 years of experience saw such nonsense compressed into one day, was not permitted to share the tremendous secret. It was a great case of monopoly.

The Brutal Jap.

The brutal animal instincts that led Jugiro to murder Miss Comml was awakened, and he swore that he would never go to the chair, but would kill himself. When trying to place him in a barber's chair to shave him this morning he fought so that it had to be given up. It is thought that he will try to kill the guards who take him out. He thinks he is to be placed in the chair and torn to pieces. He has been brooding over the pictures in a magazine for a week, and wherever a chair appears he has turned a leaf down.

Fruit Pinwheels.

BY MARIA PARLOA.

Mix together and rub through a sieve one pint of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of Cleveland's baking powder. Into this mixture rub two generous tablespoonfuls of butter. Wet with a scant half-pint of milk. Sprinkle the board with flour, and, putting the dough upon it, roll down to a large square about half an inch thick. Spread a heaping tablespoonful of soft butter on this and then spread with a cupful of sugar and a cupful of currants. Grate a little nutmeg over all, and roll up like a jelly roll—not pinwheel style. Cut in slices about three-quarters of an inch thick and lay in well buttered pans. Do not let the slices touch each other. Bake in a very quick oven for about twelve minutes. These are nice for luncheon or tea.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

With Cleveland's Baking Powder cake keeps fresh; breads are fine grained; biscuit light and flaky. Try a can. Cleveland's.

MORE RAVENNA VICTIMS.

Conductor Boynton Reports a Dozen Unknown Who Were Lost.

ALLIANCE, O., July 7.—Excitement was caused at Ravenna in the morning by the announcement that Conductor Boynton's ticket report shows that there are 12 people in last Friday's wreck who have not yet been accounted for.

A Rich Widower's Offer.

BURLINGHAM, Conn., July 7.—Undertaker Joseph H. Cotwell, a rich widower, makes a second attempt to find a wife, announcing that he will marry the girl who will go up with him in a balloon, the ascension to take place Aug. 13. He made the same offer a year ago, but it was not accepted.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—THE PRESS to-day contains 62 distinct items of local news.

—C. F. Fulmer and others, of this city, have been granted patents on lathe chuck and planer.

—Arlington avenue is at last to be macadamized. The ordinance providing for the work was adopted on final passage last night.

—The rough stone-block pavement in front of No. 2's engine house on West Front street is to be replaced with smooth and walkable flagging.

—A bicycle ridden by a young man of LaGrande avenue was knocked over and wrecked by a horse last night, and the young man was considerably cut and bruised.

—It costs money to assault a policeman. One of the fellows who assaulted constable Kriney at the Fourth of July picnic at Evona was captured yesterday and was to-day fined $35.

—Some of Plainfield's young Napoleons of finance have been raising spending money by coaxing valuable dogs out of their owners' yards, capturing them, and restoring them on receipt of reward.

—In THE PRESS of yesterday there were 55 different items of local happenings, all fresh and bright. In the news there were only 33, some of which were very, very dull, and many of which were stolen from THE PRESS of last week.

—Brooklyn is to have superior rapid transit by the trolley system. The State board of railway commissioners have granted consent to use the trolley through the streets, after a long and bitter fight by a handful of obstructionists.

—The firemen are getting ready to bid their old bell good-bye. They grew very fond of it during its long and useful service, and it was with some regret that they rang it for the last time July Fourth. It will soon be sold and taken away.

—The Sanford Lady Orchestra has been engaged to give evening concerts beginning Monday of next week, at The Elkwood. They are all said to be talented vocalists and performers on the piano, harp, violin, cornet, flute, cello, banjo, mandolin and guitar.

—A thoughtful Plainfield man who has many young people in his family was very liberal in his supply of torpedoes for the Fourth, and under his direction the children threw them so judiciously that now he has a fine gravel walk where formerly was a foot-way of hard earth.

—Those who have never before read the routine proceedings of the Common Council will read them to-day in THE PRESS. The business of last evening's meeting has been cut up into fifteen distinct items and told in a manner in these columns that will attract and interest everybody.

—The increasing business of Mme. Gettl, at 65 Park avenue, has compelled her to lease a more extensive establishment. She will move Aug. 1 to 105 East Front street, where with more room she will be able to enlarge her staff of dressmakers, and complete promptly her patrons' orders.

—The committee on transportation who effected the arrangements for the steamer Myndert Starin for the excursion to be given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor societies, July 14, wish it understood that the contract is signed for that boat, and that the steamer is to be under full control of the committee for that day. No stop will be made between Jersey City and Newburgh.

—Perfect weather favored the observance of the Fourth. The storm of Friday night cleared the air, and the sun smiled from a clear sky on shining streets, while a steady breeze from the south west made life delightfully pleasant. It was just the day for people to be out-doors without discomfort, and evidences of enjoyment were abundant all day long. The houses were adorned with flags and bunting, and much powder was burned, from midnight of the 3d to midnight of the Fourth.

Plainfield Looking for Bargains in Safes.

The valuable books, maps and papers which the city assessor and street department possess are no longer to be in danger of burning up. An outlay of about $150 is to be made for a safe for the assessor, and one of about $180 for the street department. The safes will be bought as soon as the council has dickered a little longer with the manufacturers and has cut them down to their lowest selling figure.

There's Good Stuff in the Reed.

At the Somerville athletic games, last Saturday morning, Dr. Louis T. Reed, brother of North Plainfield's borough attorney and the Crescent League's President, won three medals, and H. B. Reed, another brother, who is reading law in Attorney Reed's office in this city, won the high-kicking prize with a reach of eight feet and one inch.

New Hose for the Dandy Fire Company.

The new $500 hose wagon of the Alerts is to be provided with 800 feet of new hose. So much of the hose is old and untrustworthy that the new hose is greatly needed. The cost will be about $646, from which it will be seen that the hose worn by the city is almost as expensive as that worn by some Plainfield people.

THE SIGNING OF JOB MALE'S WILL.

Mrs. Fenno Gives a Different Version of the Death-bed Scene.

In the Job Male will case, yesterday morning, before Walter Knight, Mrs. Fenno, of Crescent avenue, a niece of the dead man, occupied the witness box on the part of the contestants. She gave a somewhat different version of the scene in the death chamber, when Mr. Male sought to dictate the contents of his will. To all his questions—she said—Counselor Marsh was prompted by some one present, and it was only once, or twice that the testator volunteered a direction. She testified that her uncle had previously told her that he had done all he intended to do for the benefit of the public library, and that it must get along without his assistance. She also said that she came to Plainfield to live there at her uncle's request, and that he promised her a house to live in as long as she saw fit to remain there.

In regard to the signing of the will, Mrs. Fenno gave a very different version. It was in evidence that the lawyer read the will to the testator and that he assented to its contents; that the pen was put into his hand, and that, assisted by Counselor Marsh, the signature was made. Mrs. Fenno said, however, that at the conclusion of the making of the memorandum, the lawyer asked if that was all, and Mr. Male nodded his head, assenting. The lawyer then called for the pen and ink and wrote it out. When he returned to the bedside and asked Mr. Male if that was his will, the latter made no sign and said nothing. "He was unconscious"—said the witness. Then he was raised in the bed and the pen was put in his hand, but still he was unconscious. After the lawyer had made the signature, the witnesses were told that they could not sign themselves. Mrs. Fenno also testified that she heard Counselor Marsh ask Job Male, Jr., while re-writing the memorandum, "Why did you mislead me?" and the latter answered, "I was confused."

The testimony yesterday tended to show that Mr. Male, in dictating the will, was so weak that he merely acted on the suggestions made to him by his nephew through the lawyer. Mrs. Fenno some time ago signed a paper certifying that its contents was a correct record of the transactions in the sick chamber, when Mr. Male died, but yesterday she declared that she was confused and did not comprehend the meaning of the contents.

NOT GETTING ALONG AT ALL.

Lacking Job Male's Help, the Public Library Is Losing Patronage.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Fenno in the Job Male will case, yesterday, the dead ex-mayor had made up his mind not to give any more money to the public library. "They'll have to get along without my help!"—she says he said. But according to the statement of some of the library people the library is n't getting along at all satisfactorily. A. C. Baldwin, one of the officials, reports that there is a great need of more money. The lack of funds is so great—he says—that the institution can't be kept up to the times. The library is retrograding, not progressing. The directors can't begin to buy the new books the library ought to have, and because of the failure to keep the shelves stocked up to date the patronage is falling off to a somewhat alarming extent. The people have read and know all about the old books, and because they can't get the latest publications they stay away and stop drawing books. A few judicious subscriptions—Mr. Baldwin thinks—would help matters appreciably.

The Best Time Was by Kitty Pilot.

The people who went to the Plainfield driving track Saturday had a very pleasant time. The races, which were very interesting, were as follows:

First race: First heat—Philip Jenner's "Blanche Warwick" first; time 2:38; John Chandler's "John C" second; Fisher's "Dynamite" third. Second heat—"Blanche Warwick" first; time 2:45; "Dynamite" second; "John C" third.

Second race: First heat—M. Quinn's "Kitty Pilot" first; time 2:46½; J. W. Johnson's "Marcanier" second; Mr. Hayes's "Andy" third. Second heat—"Kitty Pilot" first; time 2:42½; "Marcanier" second; "Andy" third.

A fine exhibition of speeding was given by O. T. Waring's "Copeland" and Robert Fairbairn's "Shamrock". Even better racing is expected for next Saturday.

The Neighbors Had the Dogs.

Constables Mifflett and Mattox, who went to Elizabeth yesterday, as exclusively told in THE PRESS, with warrants to search the property of two different parties for the two setter dogs stolen from Wilson Fisk of Netherwood twenty-seven months ago, saw the dogs they were looking for; but as they had been transferred to the property of neighbors and as they had no warrant to extend their search to those yards they were obliged to come away without them. A lawsuit for the possession of the animals will undoubtedly result.

To Keep the Policemen Cool.

The Plainfield police are to discard their winter clothing, and will in a few days blossom out in nice new summer suits. The common council last night granted them $140 for the light-weight garments.

If your dealer says he does not keep Hires's Root Beer in stock, go to the next one who does. There is no valid reason because he hasn't the genuine to accept an imitation. Would you take counterfeit money? The dealers business is profit.

THE SIGNATURES ARE WORTHLESS.

So the License that He Longs for Fails to Materialize.

James O'Neill has been foiled again in his endeavor to secure a license to open a saloon on South Second street. Early in the year his application was returned because some of the twelve signatures were not legal. Then he got on his mettle and determined to overwhelm the council with autographs. So he got twenty-one signatures, sent in a new application, and sat down content. But the license that he longed for did n't come. The license committee made a careful investigation, and, after rejecting all those signatures which were illegal either through the signers not being freeholders or through their having signed other applications this year, they found the number of legitimate signatures sifted down from 21 to 8. So last night the application was again returned to Mr. O'Neill.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

James Allen Sangston is spending three weeks at Greensboro, Md.

Mrs. G. H. Burgess of Plainfield is a recent arrival at Hotel Columbia, Asbury Park.

The Misses Mabel and Elsie Smith are spending a vacation at Oyster Bay and Glen Cove.

Ramsey Blair, of East Second street, will leave town to-morrow for a month at Ocean Grove.

F. H. Martin and family, of East Fifth street, have gone to Sullivan, N. Y., for the summer.

Mrs. J. Petrie and family, of East Sixth street, are visiting friends at Elizabeth for three weeks.

Charles Stites of New York visited Elijah Stites of Chatham street, North Plainfield, Sunday.

A ten-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rogers, at their home, 59 Madison avenue, this morning.

Councilman Daniel S. Roberts is so ill that he was unable to attend the meeting of the common council last night.

The Rev. Robert Lowry, of this city, conducted services morning and evening at the Bergen Point Baptist church, Sunday.

Mrs. William B. Ostrom of East Ninth street leaves to-morrow for a two months' visit at the home of her son, Walter Freeman, at Detroit.

Richard R. Davis, formerly of this city, but now of New York, was in town among friends Sunday. He is an old member of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company.

Samuel Gibson, a member of the First Church of Christ of this city, and a well-known character, is said to have died yesterday at a farm near Plainfield where he has been living for some time past.

Among the latest arrivals at Asbury Park are James Bowman and wife and John H. Bowman, from Plainfield, at the Brunswick, and E. Josephine Compton, Mary D., and H. C. Compton, also of this city, at the Magnolia.

Miss Florence V. Hurlburt, daughter of J. B. Hurlburt of Emily street, is spending the week at Riverside Park, and will spend the remainder of the summer in the Adirondacks, in the vicinity of the Thousand Islands, and at other resorts.

Mrs. George Fletcher and her sister, Miss Laing, of this city, who were so cut and bruised by being thrown out of a carriage at Long Branch, Saturday, are both better to-day. Mr. Fletcher is still in a serious condition at the Monmouth Memorial Hospital.

Lieut. Seymour Marsh, of Putnam avenue, Henry C. Drake, of North avenue, Captain Isaac Insley, of Woodbridge, and Lieut. Applegate of Old Bridge, an executive committee of the 28th Reg't N. J. Vols., met in Plainfield to-day to arrange for a reunion of the regiment's survivors in this city in August.

J. Aug. Hinchman, the well-known summer resort correspondent of the New York World and Home Journal, the Richfield News, Saratoga News, St. Augustine News, Thousand-Island News and the Plainfield PRESS, is a guest at The Netherwood, where he has his hands full every evening chaperoning the young married women and the broods of maidens in dark corners.

Senator Evan Williams, of Nevada, has presented to Dr. Charles Bullman, of this city, a massive berry spoon with carved handle and gold bowl, made from pure Comstock bullion just as it came from the mines. The gift is a souvenir of a recent visit of inspection made by Dr. Bullman, with a party of investors, to the lands and waters of the Inyo Canal company in California.

The Misses Lillian and Mary Fritts and Messrs. Andrew Fritts and John Crawford, having returned from their extensive bicycle trip through central and northern New Jersey, are now planning a trip to the Delaware Water Gap and Port Jervis, and so on back home through northern New Jersey, a trip in all of 250 miles. This they expect to undertake during the latter part of the month.

—It's pretty thin, but just what you want for summer; the line of goods Peck carries is a full one.

She Asked Police Protection.

TROY, N. Y., July 7.—Josephine Kelly, 15 years old, of 478 Broadway, Brooklyn, asked police protection here, saying a young man named Dick Smith abducted her, brought her here, and left her in a disreputable house, from which she escaped.

THE STOVE EXPLODED.

And Mrs. Addis Nearly Lost Her Life and Mr. Addis His House.

The explosion of a kerosene stove at the home of William Addis, Orange street, yesterday, caused nearly a loss of life as well as great destruction to property. Mrs. Addis had turned down the wicks of the stove and was about to blow out the flame when the explosion occurred. The blazing oil was scattered in all directions, and in an instant Mrs. Addis's garments and the interior of the room were ablaze. William Addis, jr., was at hand, and saved his mother's life by smothering with his coat the flames that enveloped her. Her clothes were ruined, and the carpet and some of the furniture were destroyed before the fire was all extinguished.

SKIPPED TO AVOID ARREST.

Dan Would n't Wait for the Outcome of His Cowardly Assault.

The constables can't find Daniel Niles, and it is said that he has skipped the town to avoid arrest. Massachusetts is given as his present abiding-place. As was told exclusively in THE PRESS of yesterday, Niles smashed into Louis Zitren's store and assaulted Zitren and his wife because they refused to open the place and sell him tobacco on Saturday, their Hebrew Sabbath. Both Mr. and Mrs. Zitren were considerably battered, but the woman's injuries are the most severe and painful. Niles struck her on the elbow with a big stone, and the arm is terribly bruised and swollen.

From the Special Correspondent of THE PRESS, at Netherwood.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS.—This well-known and favorite summer resort, under the excellent management of its owner, Frank E. Miller, has attained a reputation for excellence in all its departments that places it among the leading summer resorts of the country. Its nearness to New York by rail over the New Jersey Central's fine roadway through a charming country abounding in lovely scenery, and its surroundings unexcelled in picturesque Jersey, make fair Netherwood the Arcadia for summer tourists. A large number of guests are sojourning here from New York, Brooklyn and other cities, and each day augments the number.

Never in the annals of the Hotel Netherwood was there a more enjoyable and delightful evening than that of the "Glorious Fourth". The day of days was exceptionally bright and lovely—in fact, an October day with its cool, crispy air. Day fireworks furnished by the guests of the hotel for their children, was the event of the morning and crowned with success. The full-dress hop in the evening, given in the parlors of the hotel and enjoyed by more than three hundred, was an event that will be remembered by the participants as one of the most enjoyable ever recorded at Netherwood. To describe the magnificent costumes worn by the fair women is far beyond the power of your correspondent; suffice it to say that they were bewilderingly lovely, dreams of beauty, and a joy forever.

Professor Greenop's Philharmonic sextette rendered the music for the occasion, and received hearty commendation, well deserved by that excellent orchestra. At 10:30 supper was tendered by proprietor Miller to his guests and their friends, and the vast assemblage marched to the brilliantly lighted dining-room under the inspiriting notes of the grand march "Elysienne"; a bounteous spread awaited them and was heartily enjoyed. Dancing was subsequently resumed until "the witching hour of midnight," when the sweet strains of "Home, Sweet Home" announced that the fete was concluded.

Warm praise was due and accorded to Messrs. Spencer, Williams, Balch and Brewster, under whose excellent management nothing occurred to mar the joyous event, but all went "merry as marriage bells". To Mrs. Frank E. Miller belongs the credit of the exquisite taste displayed in the issuing of the invitations and programmes, also the charming apartments set aside for the reception of the ladies. Plainfield was largely represented, including a delegation from mine host Miller's Hotel Albion. J. A. H.

A Plainfield Counselor Saves Drowning Women.

Counselor John H. Jackson of this city, saw eighteen women narrowly escape losing their lives by drowning at Boynton Beach, Thursday. They were among 600 members in an excursion to the beach. They stood on a stairway leading to a float, when the stairs gave way, precipitating them into the water. All were saved by the bystanders, among the most active rescuers being Mr. Jackson, but six of the party fainted and remained unconscious for an hour.

An Invitation that Makes Them Smile.

The committee in charge of the proposed emancipation day celebration in this city have invited the common councilmen to be their guests and participate in the festivities. They assure the city fathers that they will entertain them as royally as their high position as councilmen in the community demands. At this the councilmen smile.

Street Lamp Smashers to be Arrested.

The wanton breaking of street lamps by mischievous boys is causing trouble for the electric light company. Complaint will be made to the police, and the arrest and punishment of all culprits detected will follow.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

NO ONE TOO POOR.

Dr. Gibier Never Refuses Treatment to a Patient.

Dr. Paul Gibier, of the Pasteur Institute, New York city, denies that he refused to allow a patient into his hospital unless $100 were paid in advance. The patient was George Collens, the son of a farmer near this city, who was bitten on the nose by a mad dog, as told exclusively in THE PRESS of last Friday.

Farmer Collens took the young man to Dr. Gibier, but returned home next day, saying that he was unable to pay the price demanded by the exponent of Dr. Pasteur's theories.

Dr. Gibier said: "The boy's wound was a very dangerous one, as the dog was undoubtedly mad. I gave Collens one treatment free of charge and told him to call on me twice a day for two weeks and to pay me what he could afford. I never saw the boy after his first visit. Nobody who is too poor to pay for it is refused treatment by me."

Collens is at home, where he is being treated by a local physician. It has been proposed that a subscription fund be started to raise money for George's removal to the Institute. Dr. Gibier says that although he will treat him for nothing he would be glad if the Plainfield people would raise the money to pay for the treatment, as he has so many to inoculate who can pay nothing that he sometimes finds it hard to keep things going.

The Hon. James Martine was Orator of the Day.

The patriotic citizens of New Providence celebrated the Fourth of July in a most enthusiastic manner Saturday, and outdid all the past efforts of that patriotic town. The day was ushered in by the ringing of the church bells. At 10 o'clock a parade under the command of Major J. Howard Ackerman was formed, and marched through the town. The fire department of Summit participated in the procession. The Madison cornet band enlivened the line of march with patriotic airs. At 12 o'clock the populace assembled in the Methodist church to further celebrate the nation's natal day. Major Ackerman was made chairman.

The Declaration of Independence was read with fine effect by Prof. Cole, of Short Hills. The pastor of the Presbyterian church followed in a few well chosen and able remarks. After all this James E. Martine, of this city, delivered the oration. A chorus of well-trained voices sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and other patriotic selections. The entire audience were then invited to partake of a bountiful repast that had been provided by the ladies of the town. Too much cannot be said of the dinner, nor of the kind attention that was bestowed by the ladies upon those whose good fortune it was to be present.

At night a brilliant display of fireworks on the town green terminated the day. The success of the affair is largely due to the enterprise of Maj. J. Howard Ackerman, Hon. Bradford Jones, Morris Wilcox and the ladies.

Let them Challenge the Chathams.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I see in the Thursday night issue of your paper that a friend of the Unions claims that their hired pitcher never pitched in a game before. That is simply a falsehood. If the Unions think that they are the champions of Plainfield, let them challenge the Chathams of North Plainfield, and let them play with their right pitcher in the box. I do n't think that they then would have a very easy time in winning the game. If the Unions' pitcher never pitched in a game before, then the Young Arlingtons' pitcher, who is not yet 14 years old, never pitched in a game himself before. The Unions had to pick up a man from the Potter Press Works, who was struck out as soon as he went to the bat. So let the ball roll on!

ANOTHER FRIEND.

To Connect North Plainfield and Netherwood Heights.

THE PRESS has good news for the people of the borough. The project to widen and extend Peace street, and thereby to make Broadway a continuous thoroughfare from Netherwood Heights to North Plainfield Heights, is nearly ready for final action. The matter has been steadily progressing, the past few weeks, and the city council will take decisive action very soon—probably at the next meeting. The action will of course be in favor of the extension.

Bills Come in Faster Than Money.

The meeting of the Common Council last night was devoted to routine business. All of the members were present except councilman Roberts. Bills to the amount of $6,000 were ordered paid. As the treasury had only $4,000 in it, the difference will be borrowed on the discounting of a note. In some respects the city is no better off than a great many working-men. Its bills come in faster than its income, and it has to keep drawing its wages in advance.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

FILLING UP THE TRENCHES.

The Water Supply Company Promises Not to Spoil the Streets.

Everyone who has eyes to see and feet to stumble is aware of the fact that the water supply company has been having its own sweet way with the city streets. All parts of the city have been invaded. Pipes have been distributed and are being laid everywhere. But the work of filling up the trenches after the laying of the pipes does not suit. The matter has caused so much dissatisfaction that corporation counsel Craig A. Marsh has written a letter to the company directing their attention to the fact that the earth is not being packed down hard enough and that the streets are by no means being restored to their former condition. He recommends the use of a heavier roller.

Frank Bergen, president of the company, has replied that the company will at once proceed to remove all cause of annoyance and complaint, and will do its whole duty in the matter. Mr. Bergen points out that the lack of rain prevents better packing of the earth, which will not settle perfectly when so dry. He thinks that if the people are patient they will find every cause for grievance disappear and the streets put by the company in as good a condition as ever.

THAT OBSTINATE OLD CLOCK.

Because the Town Time-piece Won't Run Down, Mr. Johnson Can't Get Paid for Winding It Up.

That town clock in the Methodist church belfry is causing trouble again. Not very long ago the common council paid $70 for having it put in running order, and hired Wm. E. Johnson, sexton of the M. E. church, to attend to it. For a time the clock ran all right; then it stopped again, and though Mr. Johnson spent a great deal of time and some money in trying to keep it going he was unsuccessful. He was promised pay for keeping it wound up, and he has fulfilled his part of the contract. It is of course no fault of his that the clock refuses to run down again. So he has put in a bill for his services, and the council shows no sign of paying it. Mr. Johnson is highly indignant, and made a speech before the council last night urging his claim. The clock repairer who got the last $70 now asks $35 more before he will start the old wreck going again.

WHO PAYS FOR THE SPARKING?

Insurance and Railway Companies at War Over Plainfield Fires.

The loss on the recent Sunday fires in this city caused by sparks from a Jersey Central railway locomotive has been paid by the insurance companies, and they in turn will now seek to recover from the railway company. The insurance people claim gross negligence on the part of the railway people, in the alleged removal of the spark-arrester from the locomotive smokestack. A bitter fight in the courts may be the result.

When the barns of the late Nicholas Glaser were burned at Netherwood, from the same cause, locomotive sparks, he compelled the railway company to pay his loss.

STATE PRISON NOT YET.

Jennie Wiley and Samuel Beckman Secure a Stay of Sentence.

Jennie Wiley, formerly of this city, and Samuel L. Beckman, her negro paramour, who are under sentence of ten years' imprisonment for the killing of Pearl Beckman, are still in the Union county jail. A writ to stay the execution of the sentence by the court has been secured from the Supreme Court by lawyers Graff and Lindsley, and all the proceedings in the late trial will be reviewed and argued before the Supreme Court next November. The three judges of the Court of Common Pleas have signed the writ. After the argument, decision granting a new trial will probably not be given until next February. In the meantime the prisoners will remain in jail at the county's expense.

A North Plainfield Club-house to be Built.

The building of a swell club-house in North Plainfield, of which THE PRESS has often spoken, is to begin soon. Charles H. Smith is the architect. It will be built by the Washington Park Improvement company, which was incorporated, as told in these columns, June 22, with a capital of $60,000, by C. W. McCutchen, C. A. Reed, W. W. Howland, W. J. Roome and F. Milliken. The site is just across the Washington avenue bridge, to the left on the Roome homestead property.

A Big Thing that Costs the City Nothing.

The work of grading and paving North avenue near the Netherwood station, which will be one of the greatest of recent improvements in that section, has already cost $1,600. The sum of $2,000, however, has been promised by the Jersey Central railway and land and improvement companies, whose property will be greatly benefited by the change, and the council hope to have this contribution increased to $2,500. So the cost to the city itself will be a minimum.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Summer Boarders May Sleep Now.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 7.—The Board of Commissioners last night passed an ordinance suppressing all newsboys from selling newspapers on the streets until after 7 o'clock in the morning. The resolution was passed on the complaint of a summer visitor who said that he could not sleep in the morning on account of the noise made by the newsboys. The boys will wear large placards labelled: "Am deaf and dumb, by order of the commissioners. Please buy my papers."

Picked Up at Sea in a Dory.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 7.—The steamer City of Columbia, arrived at Yarmouth, picked up a dory containing Barney Glynn and Cornelius Ford, belonging to the Provincetown, Mass., schooner Willis A. Jewell. They had strayed away from their vessel in a fog and had been thirty-six hours in the boat when rescued. The United States Consul forwarded them to their home.

The President's Guests.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 7.—Attorney-General Miller arrived last evening as the guest of the President. Postmaster-General Wanamaker also arrived at the cottage. Mrs. Harrison, Russell Harrison, Lieut. and Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Dimmick were out on the inlet sailing and fishing during the day. Charles Emory Smith had an informal chat with the President.

Carpet Mill Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Fire last evening destroyed the large five story carpet mill of E. R. Priestly, 1810 Lawrence street, involving a loss of about $100,000. Furbish & Co., who had machinery stored in the building, will lose at least $50,000. Mr. Priestly has an insurance of about $40,000 on building and contents.

An Unknown Man's Body Found.

RONDOUT, N. Y., July 7.—The body of an unknown man was found in the Hudson off Ulster Landing. It is believed he was the person who was seen by passengers to jump from the steamer Dean Richmond last Thursday. From papers found on his person he is supposed to be Rudolph Fix, of Skaneateles, N. Y.

THIS IS WHY.

WHY WOMEN TALK ABOUT IT.

Ontario Center, N. Y.
May 7, 1890.
P. E. C. Medicine Co., Rochester, N. Y.:

For seven or eight years my wife has been troubled with some kind of kidney trouble. She tried many different remedies but all in vain. She continued to grow worse. Last fall I induced her to try the P. E. C. Remedy, and before using one bottle she began to improve, and now, after using six bottles, she is entirely cured. I have recommended it to many and it has benefitted in every case heard from.

HARRISON'S

"Town and Country"

READY MIXED PAINTS,

Are unsurpassed (if equalled) in the following particulars:

They are painters' paints
They are perfectly pure.
They may be used by an old-line painter, just as he would use White Lead mixed by himself.
They will save money to painters.
They are uniform.
They are as bright as the best tinting colors can make them.
They are permanent.
They are good for many years wear when properly applied.
They will stand unlimited brushing out.
They are cheaper than any similar color mixed by hand.
They will cover on a good surface 400 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
They will cover on a poor surface 800 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
When tinted mixed out with pure, raw Linseed Oil, their spreading capacity is still greater.

THE LITTLE LASS IN PINK.

A peerless pearl of beauty,
A jewel of romance!
Who would not ride in tourney
To gain her winsome glance?
What would not be a minstrel,
The golden rhymes to link,
And sing her praise in merry lays—
The little lass in pink?

So tiny are her gloveletts,
So dainty are her shoon,
I trow the pixies wrought them
Beneath the midnight moon;
And o'er the silks stitches
They sang, with many a wink,
We twine a twist that none resist
The little lass in pink."

She hath a witching dimple:
Now was it not a sin
That when the fairies crowned her
They put that dimple in!
The heartaches it hath given
It grieves my soul to think:
She hath no care how lovers fare—
The little lass in pink.

Her smile is like a dewdrop
That glistens in the morn.
Her brows—no eye hath seen it:
She never looks in scorn.
Her footsteps fall like rose leaves
Beside the fountain's brink.
The gallants sigh as she goes by—
The little lass in pink.

After the revel's over,
When stars grow dim above,
And slumber's drowsy fingers
Have kissed the eyes we love,
Ho! gallant cavaliers,
Your parting beakers clink:
"May time tread light and never blight
The little lass in pink!"
—Samuel Minturn Peck, in Harper's Bazar.

MRS. HERRICK'S BABY.

Its Advent Causes a Genuine Sensation in Carterville.

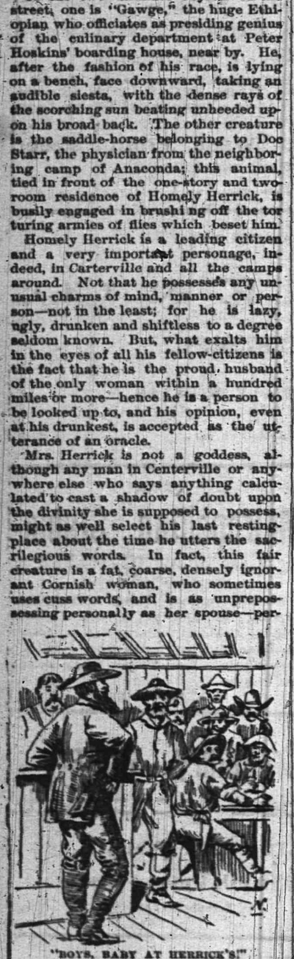
[Written for This Paper.]

'TIS a hot, dusty summer day, and along the whole straggling length of the one street of the little mining camp but two living creatures are visible. From the open windows of the Mermaid and White Elephant saloons comes a hum of lazy voices whose owners are doubtless playing freeze-out for the drinks; aside from this, the motley cluster of log houses and "A" tents partakes largely of the silence popularly attributed to a cemetery.

Of the two animate objects on the street, one is "Gawge," the huge Ethiopian who officiates as presiding genius of the culinary department at Peter Hoskins' boarding house, near by. He, after the fashion of his race, is lying on a bench, face downward, taking an audible siesta, with the dense rays of the scorching sun beating unheeded upon his broad back. The other creature is the saddle-horse belonging to Doc Starr, the physician from the neighboring camp of Anaconda; this animal, tied in front of the one-story and two-room residence of Homely Herrick, is busily engaged in brushing off the torturing armies of flies which beset him.

Homely Herrick is a leading citizen and a very important personage, indeed, in Carterville and all the camps around. Not that he possesses any unusual charms of mind, manner or person—not in the least; for he is lazy, ugly, drunken and shiftless to a degree seldom known. But, what exalts him in the eyes of all his fellow-citizens is the fact that he is the proud husband of the only woman within a hundred miles or more—hence he is a person to be looked up to, and his opinion, even at his drunkest, is accepted as the utterance of an oracle.

Mrs. Herrick is not a goddess, although any man in Centerville or anywhere else who says anything calculated to cast a shadow of doubt upon the divinity she is supposed to possess, might as well select his last resting-place about the time he utters the sacrilegious words. In fact, this fair creature is a fat, coarse, densely ignorant Cornish woman, who sometimes uses cuss words, and is as unprepossessing personally as her spouse—perhaps more so. She also has a very depressing effect on the scales in Centerville, inasmuch as she tips the beam to the tune of something like twenty-two stone.



"BOYS, BABY AT HERRICK'S!"

But she is a woman, and, as the sole representative of her sex in this wild little camp, is gazed upon by the four hundred men of Carterville with feelings akin to worship; and the lucky man who is so fortunate as to receive the lady's gracious permission to carry her bundles home from the store is for days thereafter the object of vividly-green jealousy on the part of his companions.

A figure emerges from the front door of the Herrick mansion. It is Doc Starr, who hastily mounts his horse and gallops wildly up the street, followed by a swirling cloud of white dust.

"Gawge," snoozing on the bench, awakens from his slumber and gazes at the coming horseman in blinking surprise, for Doc Starr is usually merciful unto his beast, and this unwonted haste on his part, on such a hot day, astonished the colored gentleman.

The physician draws rein at the Mermaid, throws his reins over a post, and rushes into the barroom, where he brings all the miners to their feet by yelling, in a manner entirely at variance with professional ethics: "Boys! Baby at Herrick's!"

There is a wild rush, and the bar and the card-tables are deserted, the bartender coming with the rest, and they almost crush the bearer of the wonderful news in their eagerness to get near him.

"Sho!" "Do tell!" "Great Scott!" "By gosh!" "Why in Texas don't you give Doc a chance?" "Boy, or girl?" (This last hesitatingly.)

"Girl!" yells Doc, proudly, "born last night. Come on, boys—let's liquor up." But in the wild shout which follows his announcement the invitation passes unheeded.

Then there is a brief consultation with the physician. Yes, Mrs. Herrick is sitting up, and is well enough to receive visitors, he thinks. The news spread like wildfire, and in less time than it takes to tell it, there is an excited mob of men—almost three hundred of them—in the street, whither they have flocked from saloons, stores and boarding houses.

Doc Starr, Pete Hoskins and Heavy Fairbank, the rotund proprietor of the Mermaid, are appointed an interviewing committee to apprise the happy parents of the intentions of the mob and are hurrying down the street toward the Herrick abode. They return soon with the desired permission, and the eager but now quiet procession moves rapidly along, headed by the committee and Clip-ear Tomkins, the gentleman who runs the White Elephant.

The doors of the Herrick home are opened wide, the one for the worshippers to enter by and the other for an exit. The procession halts and the four gentlemen lending it enter to take their look at the little, red, ugly, blinking thing which Mrs. Herrick proudly holds in her arms.

Doc Starr has seen it before, and may see it any time, so he does not linger; Hoskins and Fairbank, being bachelors, merely look curiously at the little creature and pass on, feeling queer. But Tomkins is said to have a wife and family somewhere back in the "states," and a hungry, heart-starved feeling wells up in his breast and two big tears start from the keen eyes that have not known them for years. Tomkins looks long and wistfully—then the crowd outside tells him to hurry. He stoops hastily over the babe, kisses it bashfully, and, with something like a sob, grabs a handful of coin and nuggets from his pocket, throws it into the lap of the astonished Mrs. Herrick and says: "Git somethin' fer th' kid," and rushes out.

And so all the rest of the afternoon the wondering, curious throng goes in and out of the little room, each one leaving a remembrance behind him, until Mrs. Herrick's lap overflows, and then a vacant chair and a wooden table are strewn with little sacks of gold dust and littered with nuggets and coin. It is more money than the poor couple ever dreamed of having all at once, and Mrs. Herrick sits in stupefied amazement and her wondering spouse hastens down street to spend part of his suddenly-acquired fortune for whisky.

And the miners come in, four at a time, to see and be conquered—old men, young men, ignorant miners and men whose faces, if shaven, would betoken their owners gentlemen by birth and education. Married men, some of them whose throats feel choky and stifled as they look upon this tiny creature and think of their own little ones at home, far away, and they leave the house lingeringly and sneak off by themselves to have a good, lonesome, comfortable think. Young men, some of them hardly more than boys, also come in and see this baby with strange feelings in their hearts, and go away ashamed of themselves, somehow, though they know not why. As they join their friends afterward they endeavor to assume an air of cheerful nonchalance they are far from feeling.

There is no procession, back up the street. The men who marched together down to Herrick's awhile ago go away alone, or in quiet groups which soon separate. Somehow nobody feels sociable, and Heavy Fairbank and Clip-ear Tomkins as they sit before their respective places of business in the evening, think a great deal, but do not notice how dull trade is.

The little red baby, in the midst of plenty where poverty has reigned before, squalls and howls and makes night hideous just as other babies do, never knowing how many hearts she has softened nor how many sweet and tender recollections she has caused to wake in the rugged breasts of the throng of hardy, reckless, careless men who gathered this day to do her honor.

And Mr. and Mrs. Homely Herrick have issued "P. P. C.'s"—verbal—to their many friends. They are going back to the "states" and Carterville mourns.

MR. QUAY'S DENIAL

The Pennsylvania Senator Replies to Several Charges.

NOT OPPOSED TO BALLOT REFORM

He Says He Did Not Attempt to Prevent the Passage of the Bill.

He Refutes the Statement that He Ever Had Anything to Do With Bardsley—The ex-Treasurer Thrust Forward by the Business Men—Meeting of the Senator's Supporters Called.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—The Inquirer to-day publishes an interview with Senator Quay, in the course of which he characterizes the address recently issued by the Independents as false so far as it relates to him, and denies the truth of all the charges made in that document.

Regarding the charge that he interfered with the passage of the Ballot Reform and Sectional School bills, he says that on the contrary he favored these bills and had he been interfering in legislation he should have supported them.

The attempt to connect him in any way with the Bardsley affair he regards as ridiculous. Bardsley, he says, was not nominated by the politicians, but was thrust forward as a representative of the business men.

In speaking of the coming campaign, he gives it as his opinion that the Democrats will attempt to nationalize the State election, and that they will try to drag the Bardsley business into politics and make an issue of it.

Quay Calls a Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Senator Quay is at Brigantine Beach. He has summoned a number of his lieutenants in this city to meet him there the latter part of this week. They will leave here to-day.

MANY PEOPLE HOMELESS.

Great Distress at Baton Rouge on Account of the Cyclone.

BATON ROUGE, LA., July 8.—The rain that came with the cyclone is still pouring down. There is in the whole country no gloomier city to-day than is Baton Rouge.

A pathway 200 yards wide, diagonally across the town, is littered with the wrecks of houses, etc., that were blown down. Many people are homeless, but are being cared for by the more fortunate neighbors.

John Fahey, of St. Landry, died at an early hour, making the 11th victim. He had been horribly mangled. Two more of the injured convicts will probably die before sundown, and four others are in a critical condition. Dewitt, a convict, who is an ex-army surgeon, is doing noble work, not having left the wounded since the accident. The best of order prevails among the convicts.

Experts to Examine Banks.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Assistant Secretary Nettleton has appointed Taylor Faunse and Lawrence E. Brown of Philadelphia special agents of the Treasury Department to investigate the affairs of the Keystone and Spring Garden National banks of Philadelphia. They were nominated by the mayor of Philadelphia as expert accountants, in accordance with a suggestion by the Treasury Department. They will report to Assistant Secretary Nettleton for instructions.

National Convention of Baptist Societies.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The first national convention of the Young People's Societies of the different Baptist churches in the country, was called to order by the Rev. Dr. Perrine, at the Second Baptist Church, in the morning, over 1,000 delegates being present. The object of the convention is to form a permanent organization of the young people in the Baptist Church throughout the entire country for the purpose of strengthening the church work.

The President's Crabbing Trip.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 8.—The President and Mrs. Harrison and their guests went to Sewell's Point by train, where they embarked on the yacht Clover and started on a sailing and crabbing expedition. There was a brisk breeze which made the spray fly quite lively. Both the President and Attorney-General Miller were very successful in catching crabs, and a basketful was secured and sent to the cottage for dinner. The President proved to be a good sailor.

Springer and the Speakership.

CHICAGO, July 8.—At a private dinner given at the Chicago Club to Congressman Springer and directors of the World's Fair, it was decided that the influence of the World's Fair people should be thrown for Springer as candidate for Speaker of the 52d Congress.

Mangled in a Clay Crusher.

AKRON, O., July 8.—Foreman William Berg, and his helper, James Quinn, were caught in a huge clay crusher at Ewart's tile works, last evening, and were horribly mangled, Quinn died within a few moments and Berg cannot possibly recovery.

$10,000 for Jackson and Slavin.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The California Athletic Club has decided to offer a purse of $10,000 for a finish fight between Peter Jackson and Frank Slavin. The offer has been telegraphed to Slavin, and an early reply is looked for.

Watterson Supports Carlisle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 8.—Henry Watterson, in an editorial in his paper, advocates the nomination of Carlisle for President.

The Government Baking Powder Tests.

The latest investigations by the United States and Canadian Governments show the Royal Baking Powder a cream of tartar powder superior to all others in leavening strength.

Statements by other manufacturers to the contrary have been declared by the official authorities falsifications of the official reports.

THE DISABLED SERVIA.

Towed Back to New York and Prince George Takes Another Steamer.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The Cunard steamer Servia, which was disabled on Saturday night arrived here last night, having been towed into port by the steamship Chester assisted by several tugs.

The accident happened when the steamer was about 210 miles east of Sandy Hook and consisted in the breaking of the crank pin, which totally disabled the engines. The sea was calm at the time and little uneasiness was felt among the passengers.

Nearly 12 hours after the accident occurred the steamer Chester was sighted and her captain, at the request of the commander of the Servia, consented to tow the disabled vessel to New York. Upon the arrival of the vessel in the harbor last night those of the passengers as wished to come ashore did so in a steamboat sent out to the steamer by the Cunard agents. Among those who did not land was Prince George of Greece. This morning he was transferred to the Inman liner City of New York, on which he will sail for England.

BANGOR IN MOURNING.

Ex-Vice-President Hamlin to be Buried This Afternoon.

BANGOR, Me., July 8.—The body of ex-Vice-President Hamlin was taken from his residence this morning at 10 o'clock, and, under an escort from B. H. Beal Post, G. A. R., was conveyed to the Unitarian Church. The Grand Army men will have charge until 2 o'clock.

The services will commence at 3:30, and will be conducted by the Rev. S. G. Beach, pastor of the Unitarian Church, after which the body will be escorted to the cemetery by the G. A. R., Maine Commandery of the Loyal Legion, and members of the Tarratine Club and Penobscot Bar Association. The decorations at the church are of an elaborate character. Nearly every business block in the city is draped in mourning, and large photographs of the dead statesman are displayed in the windows.

Opposed to Secrecy.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—The details of the quadruple electrocution at Sing Sing were eagerly absorbed. The most intense dissatisfaction with the entire secret proceedings is expressed everywhere. If the same condition exists in other places there is much reason to believe that secret electrocutions will be soon abolished, or a determined effort made to compel the publication of a verified report of all the proceedings.

Died Suddenly While Driving.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—George S. Harris, senior member of the firm of George S. Harris & Sons, Philadelphia, the largest lithographic and printing establishment in this country, died suddenly last evening while out driving with his wife at Chelsea. Heart failure was the cause, induced by the excitement of trying to curb an unruly horse.

The Hat Trimmings Duty Suit.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Counsel for Myer & Dickinson have filed in the U. S. Circuit Court the reasons on which are based a motion for a new trial in the last hat trimmings duty suit. The principal reasons assigned are that the court erred in ruling out certain evidence and that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

Tramp Thieves Arrested.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 8.—The police authorities have arrested a gang of 15 tramps who have committed a large number of robberies in Lancaster, Lebanon and Berks Counties. The tramps secreted their plunder in the Lebanon Hills, and it was subsequently sold in Philadelphia. The officers succeeded in recovering considerable plunder.

Public Reception to Mr. Cleveland.

BOSTON, July 8.—A public reception to Mr. Cleveland is being planned by the Democrats. A meeting was held yesterday for the purpose of arranging for the reception at an early date, and a circular will be sent out by Mr. Josiah Quincy to prominent Democrats asking their co-operation.

Will Pay 100 Cents on the Dollar.

BOSTON, July 8.—At a joint meeting of the creditors of Alley Brothers & Plaut, leather dealers, the direct liabilities were shown to be $448,000, and assets $1,114,697. The assignees said the firm would be able to pay 100 cents on the dollar and have something left.

Knights of Labor General Assembly.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY

Death Came Painlessly to the Four Murderers.

NO SCENES OF EXCITEMENT.

All the Witnesses Agree that the Executions Were a Success.

Warden Brown Says that Killing by Electricity Was Cause to Stay—He Says the Men Died Bravely—To be Buried To-day—Father Hogan Says the Deaths Were Not Harrowed.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The facts as to the manner in which the four condemned murderers were put to death at Sing Sing are differently stated by different witnesses.

As all present at the electrocution were ordered to maintain secrecy, it is hard to obtain exact details of the killing.

It is asserted by some that there were severe muscular contractions after the current was stopped, and the second shock was given.

By others it is denied that a second shock was administered.

One of the latter witnesses admits the severe muscular contractions after the current was turned off, and another witness asserts that one of the victim's legs were burned.

All agree, however, that death was painless, and that electrocution, as a means of capital punishment, is proven to be a success.

THERE WAS NO BURNING.

Dr. Southwick Says that Death Came Instantly and Was Painless.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 8.—Dr. Southwick, of this city, one of the witnesses of the electrocutions at Sing Sing, and who is known as the father of the electrocution law, said to a reporter:

"Death resulted instantly in each case after the current was applied, and was painless. There was only one contact.

"It will be remembered that Kemmler was shocked twice and that he was alive six minutes after the first shock, his flesh being burned in a horrible manner. I do not believe it is a violation of our pledge to secrecy to say that the electrodes were applied in the same way as in Kemmler's case, except that at the head the electrode was nearer the base of the brain than the top of the head."

"Were the men burned?"

"There was not a mark on their bodies."

WARDEN BROWN TALKS.

He Says All the Men Went to Their Death Bravely.

SING SING, N. Y., July 8.—It is very quiet here to-day. All the witnesses have gone. Talking with a newspaper friend Warden Brown said:

"I swear to you, before God, that each of these executions was a success so far as inflicting death on a condemned man is concerned. They all died instantly and painlessly.

"They were no groans, no froth at the lips, no burning of flesh, nothing that was at all horrible. If you had happened to look in at the fatal moment you would have thought that the men had dropped to sleep. Every witness remarked this. Every one congratulated me upon the perfection with which everything worked, and expressed themselves as satisfied that the new method of execution was far more humane in its painlessness and certainty than the old.

"This story of a horrible scene is no more truthful than the story that the Japanese made trouble when his time came. When called he walked out of his cell like a man and sat down deliberately in the chair and put his hands on the arms just as all the other men did. We expected trouble with him, but did not have a particle.

"I tell you on my honor as a man that there was not a hitch in any of the arrangements and that the men were humanely put to death. There was not the slightest indication that they suffered either to the unscientific eye or to the doctors who watched them closely to detect the faintest sign of agony.

"If any fanatic on the subject of electrocution had been present he would have been pleased with everything.

"The result of the executions in my mind ends all controversy as to the two methods—electricity or the rope.

"I have tried hard to carry out the law exactly in letter and spirit. I have been criticised very severely for doing so. It was necessary when the death week began on Sunday night to send the reporters outside of the prison and keep them some distance away. Up to that time I had had them to dinner with me and had made what must have been an unpleasant assignment as pleasant as possible. I would like to have had a jury of newspaper men, but what could I do?"

TRANSFER OF THE ITATA.

The Civil Authorities Will Take Charge of the Chilian Vessel.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A telegram was received at the Department of Justice during the day from United States Marshal Gard, at San Diego, Cal., asking instructions as to his course in regard to the seized Chilian steamer Itata.

The acting Attorney-General telegraphed United States Attorney-General Cole at San Diego to libel the vessel at once and turn here over to the United States Marshal by due process of law.

By special arrangement with the Navy Department the vessel will be transferred to the custody of the civil authorities immediately.

United States Marshall Gard states that when the Chilian steamer Itata ran away from San Diego two months ago she had on board four sixty-pound guns, one Gatling and one Howitzer. She also had sixty new and 200 old rifles. The Marshall says he has abundance of testimony to prove this.

THE QUAKER CITY MUDDLE.

City Officials to Probe Still Further Into the Bardsley Stealings.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—There was a long and important conference at the City Hall over the Bardsley investigation between the members of the Councils Committees and the city officials.

The discussion, which was held in the mayor's office with closed doors, resulted in determining to continue the inquisition, and the committee will meet in open session again next Friday.

While all those present at the conference were very reticent, it was admitted that the principal topic discussed was as to the advisability of making public the statement said to have been made by John Bardsley, and which is now in the hands of Mr. McKean of the Ledger.

Grand Contingent of Odd Fellows.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 8.—The opening of the grand cantonment I. O. O. F., postponed from yesterday on account of rain, took place this morning at 9 a. m. Among the prominent men here are Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Michigan; Commander Jacob Hess and Fred Gibbs, of New York; Judge Jacob Stern and Mayor Bishop, of Buffalo, and Mayor Drennan, of Kingston, Ont.

The Big Balloon Struck by Lightning.

CHICAGO, July 8.—During the night the recently imported captive balloon at the World's Fair grounds was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. The French aeronauts Famin and Goddard were both seriously injured. The balloon was owned by Ex-Sheriff Matson, E. S. Craggen and other citizens. The loss is estimated at $25,000, partly insured.

Murder and Suicide.

ANNONA, Ill., July 8.—Early in the morning John R. Dowd, of this city, chopped his wife in the head with a hatchet. He then stuck a knife into his own heart, dying within a few minutes. Mrs. Dowd is still alive, but with small hopes of recovery. Dowd was in the habit of drinking, at which times he was very quarrelsome.

Lynched a Negro.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8.—Fifty mounted men, fully armed, broke into the jail at Blackshear, Ga., last night, and took therefrom Roland Brown, a negro, who raped Mrs. O. Berry last Friday, took him to a spot one mile from town, tied him to a pine tree sapling and riddled his body with bullets.

RUMORS FROM CHILI

A Report that the Rebels Will March on Santiago.

WELL PREPARED FOR AN ATTACK

They Are Amply Provided With Rifles and Field Guns.

Lavish Display of Wealth at a Banquet to the Kaiser—Over $5,000,000 Worth of Royal Plate on the Tables—Parnell's Candidate Probably Defeated at Carlow—Chloroform Killed Gladstone.

PARIS, July 8.—Agents of the Chilian Congress party say that advices from Chili warrant the confidence that the Congress troops will occupy Santiago within a month.

They resume the campaign amply provided with rifles and field guns.

It is probable that the plans of the Congress generals is to land between Valparaiso and La Serena, crush the main body of Balmacedists, rouse the people and make a combined movement on Santiago.

GREAT DISPLAY OF PLATE.

Over $5,000,000 Worth Seen at the Banquet to the Kaiser.

LONDON, July 8.—There was a magnificent state banquet in honor of the Kaiser and Kaiserin in St. George's Hall, Windsor, last evening. All the members of the English and German royal families in England were present, including the Queen, the Kaiser and Kaiserin, Prince of Wales and the various Princes, excepting, of course, the young children.

The leading Ambassadors were also present, including Count Hatzfeldt, the German, and the Russian Ambassador the Duke and Duchess of Portland, Lord Salisbury and Lord Kimberley.

The guests sat at a table 150 feet long, whereon were displayed gold candelabras, and the royal plate valued at $5,000,000.

Chloroform Killed Gladstone.

LONDON, July 8.—The death of W. H. Gladstone, son of the Grand Old Man, was caused by the chloroform that was administered, and was not the result of the operation. On Thursday last he was put under chloroform, but as it was found to be dangerous to attempt to remove the tumor, the operation was abandoned. He, however, never recovered consciousness, but being too weak to withstand the action of the chloroform he died of heart failure.

SCHOONER WRECKED.

The Captain, His Wife and Child Drowned in the Cabin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 8.—A telephone message received from Port Washington says: A wreck of a two-masted schooner was discovered at 10 a. m. about five miles north of here.

A tug went out and took three sailors, comprising the crew, off in safety. Capt. Johnson, his wife and child were drowned.

The schooner was the Silver Cloud, of Milwaukee. The crew kept at the pumps as long as possible. About 2 o'clock in the morning they gave it up, and Capt. Johnson went to the cabin to rouse his wife and child. While below a heavy sea struck the schooner and capsized her. At noon the wreck was beached about two miles north of here.

War News from Behring Sea.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 8.—Advices just received from Behring Sea state that there has been a good deal of bad blood of late between Canadian and American schooners there. One serious fight took place between the American schooner Lewis and the Canadian schooner Maggie Mack. The captain of the former was thrown overboard, and Capt. Webster, of the Maggie Mack, was so badly hurt as to be laid up several days.

Canada's Largest Vessel.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 8.—The ship Canada, the largest vessel ever built in Canada, will be launched at Kingsport during the afternoon. She is 175 feet long over all, 45 foot beam, 27 feet depth of hold, 2,400 tons net, and her cost was $100,000. She was built and is owned by C. R. Burgess, of Westville and Kingsport, and by Boston and New York parties. She is chartered to load deals from St. John for Liverpool.

800 Iron Workers on Strike.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 8.—The employes of the Pottsville Iron & Steel Company, 800 in number, have gone on strike owing to the refusal of the president to sign the Amalgamated scale. It is not likely that the trouble will be soon over, as both sides are standing firm.

Pleased Over a Prohibitive Tariff.

LONDON, July 8.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the famine in Russia is so serious that the Grand-Danin thanks the German Chancellor for instituting a prohibitive tariff which stops the exportation of grain from Russia.

Died Suddenly of Apoplexy.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 8.—John Greiner, of the wholesale grocery firm of Miller & Greiner, the largest establishment of its kind in Western New York, died suddenly last night of apoplexy while preparing for a business trip to New York.

Large Print Works Burned.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The large four-story building of the Empire Print Works, at Jane street and 12th avenue, was burned last night, together with the stock, machinery, etc. The loss is estimated at $300,000. The building and business was owned by Worthen & Aldrich.

London's Imports Were Immense.

LONDON, July 8.—The British Board of Trade returns for June show that imports increased 5,950,000 pounds, and that exports decreased 100,000 pounds as compared with those of June last year.

Vesuvius is Waking.

NAPLES, July 8.—The eruption of Vesuvius is increasing. A strong earthquake shock was felt last evening at Frosolone, Province Campobasso.

The Polling at Carlow.

DUBLIN, July 8.—The polling at Carlow was without incident. The Parnellites have little hope as to the result.

The Iroquois Ordered to Samoa.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—As trouble is likely to arise in Samoa between the followers of King Malietoa and King Mataafa, the Navy Department has ordered the Iroquois, now stationed at Honolulu, to proceed at once to Apia. The Charleston will probably be stationed at Honolulu in the Iroquois' place.

William O. Duncan, the 17-year-old clerk in the employ of Levenshon & Co.' diamond brokers of New York, pleaded guilty to the indictment charging him with the larceny of $30,000 worth of diamonds, $26,000 of which has been recovered by his employers. Duncan comes of a good family in Poplar Bluff, Mo. He was remanded for sentence.

G. M. Lowrey, arrested in Oakland, Cal., charged with defrauding the New York Life Insurance Company to the extent of $3,000 while local agent at San Antonio, Tex., arrived at the latter place Thursday, being brought on a requisition. It is now believed the amount of his stealings will reach $20,000.

The theory that the water which has invaded the Colorado desert comes from the Colorado River is losing supporters. It is the opinion of Superintendent Dubrow of the Salton Salt Works that the water comes from the Great Salt Lake in Utah, and this opinion is backed by the fact that the water came after the Colorado had ceased to rise, and also that the water is salt and contains salt water fish.

Weather Indications.

—The case of young Thomas Dowd, accused of fighting in a boulevard saloon, will be tried Saturday. He pleaded not guilty to-day.

—A married man of this city was fined $30 by Judge Codington, this morning, for using indecent language to two young ladies on Second street last Saturday.

—The Young Alerts defeated the Westfield Juniors at base-ball yesterday by the score of 13 to 1. A return game will be played Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

—The Jersey Central Directors have declared a dividend for the last quarter of 1½ per cent. This is an increase of ½ per cent. over the usual quarterly dividend.

—Before Justice Nash, yesterday, Jackson & Codington obtained judgment for $80 against lawyer John VanNess, for legal services rendered. An appeal will be taken.

—The Methodists' excursion, Friday, to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, promises to be liberally patronized. It will be the first of the season—if it do not rain that day.

—There will be special music at the First Baptist church on Sunday evening next. Mr. Fitzhugh has prepared appropriate anthems and will conduct the choir on that occasion.

—Saturday next is the day now fixed for the excursion of the Crescent Avenue Sunday-schools to Asbury Park. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 a. m., and Asbury Park at 5:30 p. m.

—The Ramabai Circle will hold its annual meeting Thursday afternoon, July 9, at 4:30 o'clock, in the Unitarian rooms, 4 Second place. The members and friends of the circle are hereby urged to attend.

—There is published in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST this week a new ordinance of Fanwood township prohibiting bicyclists from riding on the sidewalks of the township. Penalties are provided for all violations.

—The Jersey Blues were defeated at base-ball Monday, by the Fourth Ward Athletics, by the score of 4 to 6. The batteries were: Jersey Blues—Lawler and Lyons; Fourth Ward Athletics—O. D. Kane and Fred Willibald.

—Street Commissioner Meeker is getting a great deal of praise—and he deserves every bit of it—for the excellent work he has been doing in perfecting North avenue at Netherwood and Cemetery avenue leading to Hillside.

—John Brown, of South Second street, who has been locked up at Elizabeth several days, awaiting the action of the grand jury on the charge of wife-beating, was released by Justice Nash yesterday, a bond having been given for his appearance when wanted.

—The date of the reunion of the 28th N. J. Vols., of which THE PRESS gave exclusive information yesterday, has been fixed at August 27. Winfield Scott Post will entertain the old soldiers during their stay in this city that day. The committee on entertainment will be Henry C. Drake, Wm. Hand, and Israel Compton.

—As to meeting a bicycle, a cycler gives this advice to pedestrians: "The thing to do is to pay no attention to the bicycle—to pass right on and the wheelman will see that no one is hurt. When a bicycle attempts to pass, it is specially desirable to have people walk on and not pay any attention. If they do this, no one will be hurt."

—A lecture on "Russia and the Russians" will be delivered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged. Mr. Lippenhoft, the speaker, is a member of the Student Volunteer Movement, and is educating himself with a view to future mission work for his own people.

—Jack Dumont in whose face a "mine" exploded last Saturday night, is getting along as well as can be expected and is bearing up as brave as a man. He is in an extremely nervous state of course, but is otherwise comfortable. His eyes were opened yesterday and there was every assurance that the sight is not permanently injured.

—A wheel of the tender of locomotive 164, drawing the 10:04 train from Plainfield this morning, broke as it was nearing Elizabeth. There was a delay of twenty-five minutes until the arrival of the express from Philadelphia, drawn by locomotive 146 in charge of Michael Moynihan, which took the cars of the disabled train on to New York.

—The latest fad with the State Board of Education is to have practical agriculture added to the public school curriculum. A PILGRIM'S PROTEST.

He Has Some Sharp Things to Say About the Freight-house Matter.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Does the Jersey Central railway company intend to remove those freight-sheds and tracks and standing cars this summer? There is much popular disgust that respectful attention does not appear to have been given to the numerously-signed petitions sent early this year to its present managers with a lively hope that they would be pleased to remove these nuisances before now. It has been rumored that private suggestions were made to members of the "Parlor Circle Combine" (which is supposed to own Plainfield socially, politically, and otherwise), that if the adjoining Rushmore property be bought and donated to the railway company their lordships will make the desired improvements. The value or cost of this plum they modestly ask for is said to be $30,000. This looks amazingly like a proposition that the people of Plainfield shall pay cash for all they get, and be grateful. If made seriously, it is both absurd and mean. It is not at all essential that the Rushmore property be included, nor that the property to Park avenue be bought and given to this modest corporation. They own ample space between for a handsome passenger station or pavilion with a neat park, and wide approaches for carriages, electric railway cars and pedestrians. If the Jersey Central people wants to own the Rushmore property they may do so no doubt, at reasonable cost after removing the freight tracks, either by purchase, or exchange for undeveloped property owned by its land and improvement company. We shall not mourn if those old freight sheds are taken down to ————, and used to ornament that choice spot—which some of the railway officials are supposed to be booming. This community of 16,000 people furnishes an amount of freight which justifies a demand for a first-class, convenient, modern freight depot, situated on the business side of the railway, away from our passenger stations; so that express wagons and trucks will not obstruct pedestrians nor carriages, while going to and from the trains, as they now do seriously. The time comes when patience ceases to be a virtue, and many are becoming convinced that the thing Plainfield and North Plainfield needs most is another railway outlet, insuring cordial and prompt co-operation in things essential to promote our welfare, and securing cheaper freight, cheaper coal and cheaper passenger rates to New York city and elsewhere. It is becoming a conviction that we shall continue to suffer more and more, until released from the railway monopoly which thus disregards reasonably requests. PILGRIM.

Frank Spencer, son of Lieut. L. C. Spencer of Washingtonville, and nephew of collector H. Newton Spencer of the borough, died at New York yesterday, in the twenty-eighth year of his age. Funeral services will be held in New York Friday morning, and interment will be made in this city Friday afternoon.

Chauncey B. Ripley, LL. D., of Westfield, has been taking a prominent part in literature lately. His commencement oration before one of the big colleges was published in full and widely circulated. The Violet, New York University's magnificent annual, was dedicated to the honored doctor, and the frontispiece was a fine steel engraving giving his portrait. A sketch of Dr. Ripley's career also adorned the book. And now the University Forum comes out with a biographical sketch of Prof. John Norton Pomeroy, LL. D., late Dean of the Law Faculty of the New York University, written by the famous Westfielder.

WHY THEY ARE NOT RELEASED.

Paroled Convicts still in the State Prison to Stay.

The New Jersey board of pardons met June 16 and paroled eight State prisoners, among whom were Daniel O'Connell sent for murder, from Morris county, in January, 1887, to serve a sentence of fifteen years. Of the eight, two only have been released. These were John Lang, sentenced from Essex county to seven years, for breaking, whose term expires in October next, and John Kehler, sentenced from the same county, to seven years, for assault and battery, whose term expires in November next. The others are detained, and will, in all probability, serve out their terms.

Prison keeper Patterson was interviewed concerning the matter.

"The rules of parole adopted by the Board of Pardons"—he said—"require me to certify that a prisoner to be paroled is a good prisoner and a proper person to be set at liberty. The original law was one that we drew up last winter. It was drawn after the Ohio law, which is a very good one, and provided for the release of men convicted of the lesser grades of crime serving their first term in this State. It made no provision for the release of murderers or those convicted of arson, highway robbery, or the more heinous offenses. I took the bill to Governor Abbett, and he pronounced it a good one, and suggested that Senator Werts introduce it. He did so, and it went to third reading. One day I was in the Senate chamber and Senator Werts called me over to him saying: 'Here is a substitute for your bill; take it and read it.' I went into the lobby and read it carefully, and returned it, telling him that I was opposed to the substitute, but it went through and became a law.

"Under this law the rules of the Court of Pardons, with respect to paroles, were drawn up. I understood that my certificate as to a prisoner's fitness to be released was to precede the action of the Court of Pardons, but on the 16th of June the court paroled eight prisoners, and subsequently sent the papers to me to be subscribed. I simply refused to sign them, with the exception of the cases of Lang and Kehler, whose terms had about expired, for the reason that I do not think men convicted of their crimes are fit persons to be let loose upon the community. For instance, there was Daniel O'Connell, who committed a murder in Morristown. Another was a Camden man named Quinn, who is serving ten years for an assault and battery with intent to commit rape. These rules place the whole of the responsibility for releasing these prisoners upon me, and I am going to act very cautiously. I will not certify that any prisoner who has committed a heinous offense or who has come here for a second term is a proper person to be set at liberty in my judgment he is not. There is no use to release old crooks and burglars who come here time after time.

"My idea is to parole men who are serving terms for the lesser crimes, who are penitent and who would probably embrace the opportunity to reform and become upright citizens."

An Evening With Howell Division.

A public installation and reception was held in the rooms of Howell Division, corner of Front street and Park avenue, last evening, when the following new officers were invested with their respective ranks:

Worthy Patriarch—Sister A. Angleman.
Worthy Assistant Patriarch—Brother S. B. Scribner.
Recording Secretary—Brother Thomas Osment.
Assistant Recording Secretary—Sister A. Scribner.
Financial Secretary—Sister S. A. Mattox.
Treasurer—Sister G. Rittenhouse.
Chaplain—Sister A. Corwin.
Conductor—Sister K. Johnson.
Assistant Conductor—Sister H. Ayres.
Inside Sentinel—Brother H. B. Mattox.
Outside Sentinel—Brother Jas. H. Johnson.

After the ceremonies of installation a varied and pleasing programme was furnished. There were remarks by Sisters A. Angleman and A. Corwin, District Deputy W. B. Ayres, Past Grand Worthy Patriarch A. G. VanAken and Brothers James H. Huntington and James H. Johnson. There was music by Miss Emma Angleman and C. Rittenhouse, and a song, "The Unfinished Prayer," by Sister S. A. Mattox. Miss Try Mattox, Sister A. V. Scribner and Brothers W. B. Mattox and S. B. Scribner, gave some entertaining recitations. Refreshments were served at the close of the programme.

Whew, how hot! Never mind, a glass of Root Beer made with Knapp's Root Beer Extract will cool you off.

And Yet They Call Themselves "Newspapers."

There are one or two of the New York papers that never get a Plainfield news item correct except when it is copied from THE PRESS. There was no PRESS issued Saturday and Sunday to give the facts as they were, so the New York papers had it that "Maurice Dumont's" face was "frightfully torn" by the explosion of "an enormous fire cracker which held a pound of powder."

THE PRESS told the true story Monday—how there was n't any fire cracker in it, and that nothing had happened to Maurice Dumont at all. The dead beat, however, stole the New York papers' foolitem and published it as its own.

Shot Himself Because she Would n't Marry Him.

David Laflanmo, familiarly known as "Davis", bartender at Mrs. Illsley's tavern at Bound Brook, shot himself at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. County Physician Donahue, of New Brunswick, was notified. Four shots were fired. Laflanmo died at 6:35. He had worked for Mrs. Illsley nearly two years, and had continually urged her to marry him. She refused, and he threatened to commit suicide several times.

The manshas often attempted suicide. In Canada once he jumped in a river to drown himself, and when he was living in this city and worked at Ponds, he tried to hang himself with a clothes line.

The Fletchers Are Better.

Mr. Geo. M. Fletcher, who was so severely injured in a runaway accident at Long Branch, Saturday, will be taken home from the Memorial Hospital as soon as he can be moved. His wife, formerly Miss Ella Laing of this city, went back to the West End Hotel at Asbury Park yesterday to obtain some baggage, and returned to Long Branch. Mr. Fletcher was resting more comfortably, but cannot be moved for some time. Mrs. Fletcher has recovered from the shock and is nearly well.

Westfield's Musician in a Bad Fix.

The New York World says that Conductor C. Mortimer Wiske, of Williamsburg, the deposed leader of the St. Cecilia and Amphion musical societies, is threatened with a suit to recover $900 worth of music. He has also been "posted" for arrears at the Hanover Club. Mr. Wiske's indebtedness to the organization amounts to $15. He is living at Westfield at present.

A Reading Room for Railway Men.

The Jersey Central people have decided on a new disposition of the old Eighth street station at Bayonne. It will be torn down and rebuilt at the Centreville round-house and be used as a reading room by the railroad employes. Work on the new stone station at Bergen Point will be begun in a few days.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with the details of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

THE PASTOR HAD A GUN.

And When Jealous Young Men Assailed Him He Put Them to Flight.

The trouble which the Rev. Arthur Cushing Dill, ex-pastor of the Presbyterian church at Stirling, in the mountains just back of North Plainfield, has been having with a number of those who used to be members of his flock, has reached the climax.

The young men are charged with "molesting a citizen on the highway", and the complainant is the Rev. Dr. Dill.

It is alleged by Mr. Dill that he returned to his home on the hillside last Saturday night and was confronted at the gate by five young men, who presented revolvers and ordered him to halt. Mr. Dill was armed, and he promptly drew his revolver.

"I have you covered"—he said to the young men.—"Molest me any further and I shall shoot."

He then opened the gate, and, keeping the young men covered with his revolver, walked backward to the front door of his house. He had recognized several of his would-be assailants, and as he opened the front door one of them called out and said a conference was desired. He told them to go away or he would shoot. As they fled they made use of a volley of oaths and called him vile names. In conclusion one of them exclaimed:

"We will give you ten days to get out of this place."

Yesterday a Morristown constable was in the village looking for Frank Moffett, a son of Justice Moffett, and Will Moffett, the Justice's nephew. Will Moffett lives at Basking Ridge. The constable left word at the homes of both the youths that he had a warrant for their arrest and that if they desired things to go smoothly it would be advisable for them to appear before the local Justice at Morristown to-morrow.

The young men's conduct was more than the clergyman could stand. Monday he went to Morristown and entered complaints against the young men whom he had recognized. He did not go before Justice Moffett because that official is a member of the Stirling Presbyterian church and two of the offenders are relatives of the Justice. It is claimed that the Moffett boys have been instrumental in bringing about most of the slanders against Mr. Dill.

A few weeks ago printed notices appeared on all available points in the village. One even found its way upon the front of the railroad station. The notices stated that $500 reward would be paid for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons, male or female, who painted red, white and blue the horse belonging to Mr. Arthur Cushing Dill. They were signed "Marry Me".

The notices caused considerable indignation, and were torn down wherever found.

Another attempt was made to throw scandal on the clergyman, from the fact that he resided with Miss Catherine Boyle, and that the latter had made him a free gift of her home and publicly declared that she had provided for him in her will.

Miss Boyle is a woman bent with years, and her aged sister lives with her. She announced her gift to Mr. Dill two weeks ago, when a reception was held at her home by his friends. Resolutions were adopted by those who attended the reception, stating that the pastor had endeared himself to the people in the past six months more than ever before by his heroic Christian life; and that they desired to put on record their testimony to his unswerving fidelity, loyalty to Christ, and to "the faith once delivered to the Saints," fearless courage, purity of thought and life, gentlemanly courtesy to all under all circumstances, and his generous loving kindness. A great work and great good—they said—had been done in the past two years.

The reception evidently gave offense to Mr. Dill's enemies, and when they heard that he attended the picnic of the Stirling base-ball club last Saturday night they lay in wait for him on his return.

The trouble, which appears to have come to a head by the clergyman's vigorous action against his enemies, has waged with more or less bitterness for about a year and a half.

The village is situated on the line of the Morris and Essex railway, and stands in the midst of beautiful hills. A large portion of the people work in the silk mill, just opposite the station, and they live in houses owned by the mill proprietors. The other portion of the community is devoted to farming. In religion they are Presbyterians and Roman Catholics, and the two denominations live in friendship and peace.

A reporter made a trip through the village and saw some of the church people. The general verdict appeared to be that Mr. Dill was a man of integrity, and that his enemies are jealous of him because the girls like him so much.

Mr. Dill was unwilling to give a complete statement of the troubles in Stirling.

"No;"—he replied to a question—"I have no trouble with the people here. With a few exceptions they are all my warmest friends. I do not desire to speak of my enemies as they have of me. I will say, however, that the difficulties referred to date back about a year and a half, to the time when Mr. Toffey, who was then an elder of my church, became opposed to me. We had doubled the membership of the church and it became self-sustaining. Mr. Toffey desired to bond the school and he succeeded, and the congregation could hardly pay the interest on the bonds. I opposed the bonding. The trouble went before the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, and Mr. Toffey finally had to resign. Another elder who opposed me was Mr. Cooper, who was arrested in the act of attempting an impropriety with a girl in the church. He is now in the insane asylum. I have endeavored to do my full duty, and have never harmed a man, woman, child or animal in my life. The charges against me were prompted by malice."

Mr. Dill's resignation—which was called for because of the charges that he was too familiar with the girls and read love stories instead of sermons from the pulpit—went into effect July 1.

A CHILDREN'S DONKEY PARTY.

From the Special Correspondent of THE PRESS, at Netherwood.

Among the many pleasing events occurring at this charming resort, I specially note the subscription donkey party given to the children last Thursday evening in the grand salon of the hotel. The affair was under the guidance of Mrs. Geo. W. Crossman, Mrs. H. D. Brewster, and Mrs. F. L. Froment, whose excellent management made success a foregone conclusion. At 8 o'clock promptly the guests and the children assembled in the grand salon. It was a brilliant gathering. The lovely children were grouped together awaiting the happy event, each sweet face wreathed with happiness and pleasure. The following were the participants: The Misses Georgia Crossman, Lulu Froment, Grace Brewster, Jenny Hancey, Gladys Balch, and Amy Laidlaw; the Masters Eugene Froment, LeRoy Brewster, Weston Williams, Herman S. Crossman, Victor Froment, Frank K. Schoonmaker, Cyril Dos Passos, Andrew E. Colson, and Malcolm W. Laidlaw. The prizes for the occasion were purchased by Mrs. Geo. W. Crossman, and received the warm commendation of all present. Victor Froment won the first prize, and darling baby Balch the booby prize. It was so arranged that each participant received a half-pound package of Huyler's delicious candy. The happy event closed with the juvenile lanciers, and was pronounced a grand success.

J. A. H.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

$530 from a Fair.

The members of the Emerald Benevolent Association wish to return through THE PRESS their sincere thanks to their many friends for co-operating with them and making their recent fair, held in T. A. B. Hall, a financial success. The amount realized, after paying all expenses, was $530.

Made Believe Drown Himself.

Considerable excitement was caused Sunday noon over the reported suicide of an employe of the Scott Printing Machine Works. The man had had a quarrel with his wife, and to frighten her he ran out of the house towards the brook and threw in a log that made a heavy splash as though he had jumped into the water. The wife and family and their neighbors were much alarmed, and searched for the body. Presently the man came forth from his place of hiding and relieved the people of their fright.

Not Niles, But Reynolds.

It transpires that the fellow who assaulted Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zitren because they would n't sell tobacco to him on their Sabbath, is a man named Reynolds. The name first given to the police was Daniel Niles, but that was a mistake. Mr. Niles is a Potter Press Works employe, and a highly esteemed citizen. Reynolds, the real culprit, has gone to Worcester, Mass., to escape arrest and punishment.

Two Challenges.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Unions of Grant avenue would like to play the Chathams, July 18. If the Arlingtons will play the Unions July 25, the Unions will give them 5 runs as a starter.

CAPTAIN.

Tragic Scene at a Funeral.

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa., July 8.—A tragic scene was witnessed in the Spring Garden Cemetery, near this borough. Thomas Spindler of Chicago was attending the funeral of his cousin, Mrs. Emma S. Muledore, whose remains were brought from Philadelphia, and while standing at the grave he suddenly threw up his arms and fell over. He was caught by his brother and assisted to a carriage, but died before he could be taken to his home. He was 27 years of age and unmarried.

Water Still Rising in the Desert Lake.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The latest reports received from Salton Lake state that the water has risen two inches but that the salt works are still running and the measurements yesterday show only 23 inches in the deepest part. Nothing has been heard of the men sent out from Ogilby and great uneasiness is felt for their safety. A party will start to-morrow in search of them.

A Leper in an Irish Town.

LONDON, July 8.—Some consternation has been caused at Lisburn, a flourishing town in the north of Ireland, having intimate connections at Belfast, by the discovery of a leper among the paupers of the town.

Ex-Congressman Parker Dies Suddenly.

SUNBURY, Pa., July 8.—Hon. John B. Packer died suddenly of heart disease in this city in the morning. In 1868 Mr. Packer was elected to Congress and was re-elected in 1870, 1872 and 1874, declining a unanimous renomination in 1876. His wife is a neice of Hon. Simon Cameron.

Valuable Horses Die of Distemper.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., July 8.—In New Marlboro, 11 miles east of here, a distemper has broken out among the horses on H. K. Bloodgood's farm and a number of horses are sick. Two valuable horses have died lately, namely, Lady Emma and Lady Tyrone, valued at $10,000.

To Save Time in Congress.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Congressman-elect McGann, Frank Lawlor's successor, has invented an electrical contrivance to save time in registering votes in Congress. There is a wire from each desk to the clerk's desk and the votes can be taken.

No Yellow Fever.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 8.—There is no truth in the rumor that yellow fever has made its appearance here. Mayor Colson is preparing an authoritative denial.

Lawyer Haire Broken-Hearted.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Lawyer Haire is feeling very sore over the execution of Wood at Sing Sing. He says: "My heart is broke. It seems to me that Warden Brown was unnecessarily in a hurry to execute Wood. He had all the week to do it in according to law; and the best interest of law and humanity would have been served by allowing me the full time in which to secure a stay. There is a possibility that I might have secured it. I am almost positive that a new trial would have secured an acquittal."

Father Hogan Talks.

SING SING, N. Y., July 8.—Father Hogan, who was a witness at the executions, said that he looked carefully at the bodies and not one was burned or in the least way marred. "Not a hair in their heads was singed," he said. The first man was killed with 1,600 volts, the second with 1,400, and the volts that killed the others varied between 1,400 and 1,600.

Burying the Bodies.

SING SING, N. Y., July 8.—It is expected that the friendless Jap, the forsaken Wood and Slocum will be buried this evening in the little cemetery on the hill behind the female prison. The body of Smiler will probably be given to his wife to-day.

Gov. Hill Contest.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Gov. Hill said to a group of reporters at the Hoffman House last night: "The system of electrical execution has come to stay."

Two Sick Boys.

Little Dick—Mamma, I'm awful sick. Mayn't I stay home from school?

Mamma—Certainly. Lie down on the sofa.

Little Dick (by the window half an hour later)—Mamma, may I go out and play hopscotch with Billy Bunce? He isn't at school to-day.

Mamma—You are sick.

Little Dick—So is Billy.—Good News.

The Shad Weakness.

They had shad for breakfast yesterday morning and the small boy of the family was allowed to have a trial of it. After a minute or two he stopped.

"What's the matter?" asked his father. "Don't you like it?"

"Yes, sir," sending up his plate; "but gimme a piece 'tain't got so many splinters in it."—Washington Star.

His View of It.

Mary's intended (to her little brother, whom he meets for the first time)—I see you have your sister's hair.

Little Brother—Oh, no, sir; she has mine. When mamma had my long curls cut off last summer, sister Mary had them made into a switch, and she has been wearing them ever since.—Jury.

One of the Drawbacks.

She—Did you enjoy your life at college?

He—Not altogether

She—Why not?

He—One of my professors used to have a habit of making jokes and we were all of us afraid of being suspended if we didn't laugh.—Somerville Journal.

NO EVIL INTENTIONS.

Mrs. Purple—Look out, there, for the dog!

Sydney Phillips—Don't be alarmed, madam, I wouldn't step on him for the world.—Puck.

His Choice.

Proud Father (showing off his boy before company)—My son, which would you rather be, Shakespeare or Edison?

Little Son (after meditation)—I'd rather be Edison.

"Yes? Why?"

"'Cause he ain't dead."—Good News.

Wardrobe for Two.

Wife—I can't go with you. The girl has gone out.

Husband—We can lock up. You are not obliged to stay at home because the girl goes out.

Wife—N—o, but she's borrowed all my street clothes.—Good News.

Reversed Arms.

"I am very old," said the veteran, "and I have seen many a fight."

"Did you bear arms in eighteen hundred and twelve?" asked the boy.

"No, my boy," returned the old man; "it was just the other way. Arms bore me."—Judge.

A Choice Seat.

Theater Goer (looking over diagram)—I will take this seat.

Box Bookkeeper—One of the pillars is directly in front of that seat, sir.

Theater-Goer—So I observed. I prefer a pillar to a high hat.—N. Y. Weekly.

Eyes, Male and Female.

Miss Nochick—So you have been married a year! Has your husband found out about your dyed hair, false teeth or glass eye yet?

Mrs. Wedlate—No, indeed; he's been too busy concealing the same defects in himself.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Rudeness of Mankind.

Penelope—Men are so rude.

Jack—What's anybody been saying or doing to you now?

Penelope—A man gave me his seat on the car to-day and never thanked me for taking it.—Life.

At the Public School.

"Ah, my little boy," said the condescending gentleman, "and what might your age be?"

"It might be goin' on forty," returned the polite little boy, "but it ain't."—Harper's Bazar.

Didn't Keep Him Alive.

"I don't think much of that life insurance company."

"Why not?"

"Why, they insured Wilkins against death and he didn't live a year."—Munsey's Weekly.

Necessary Precaution.

The Other Girl—Why, what has become of your engagement ring?

The Fiancee—Oh, I gave it back to him until his mother goes away.—Munsey's Weekly.

The most beautiful woman in New York said that she "ascribed her good health and rosy cheeks to the occasional use of a tablespoonful of pure whiskey before meals. It increased the circulation, sent a warm glow through the system, and gave her a hearty appetite." That is the experience of all who drink pure whiskey moderately. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old.

HARRISON'S "Town and Country" READY MIXED PAINTS,
Are unsurpassed (if equalled) in the following particulars:
They are painters' paints
They are perfectly pure.
They may be used by an old-line painter, just as he would use White Lead mixed by himself.
They will save money to painters.
They are uniform.
They are as bright as the best tinting colors can make them.
They are permanent.
They are good for many years wear when properly applied.
They will stand unlimited brushing out.
They are cheaper than any similar color mixed by hand.
They will cover on a good surface 400 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
They will cover on a poor surface 800 square feet, two coats, per gallon.
When freely thinned out with pure, raw Linseed Oil, their spreading capacity is still greater

THE TRUNDLE-BED VALLEY.

I know a little valley, in among the mountains hid,
A trundle-bed for Natur's babes with grass green coverlid,
All buttoned down with tulips, an' all trimmed with dandelion,
A crib for Natur's child, like me, to toddle to and lie on.

I love to watch the coverlid sewed with the lily's stem
An' the trout brook is its bindin' that curves way around its hem.
W'en the burden is too heavy for my heart an' hand an' head,
I just choke down my tired sobs an' seek my trundle-bed.

Four big mountains are its bed-posts, an' down through its awning high
The sun shines like a bread-pin in the bureau of the sky,
An' it shines so warm an' friendly where my coverlid is spread
That I don't need any candle w'en I seek my trundle-bed.

Mother Natur' loves her children, so the good ol' soul has spread
Tiger-lily-tangled bed-quilts over my big trundle-bed;
An' to give her fretful youngster no excuse for being cross,
She has stuffed a lazy piller with the softest kind of moss.

So, we'n I'm torn an' tired, do my weary foot-steps tread
Up the pussy-willer valley to my little trundle-bed;
Mother Natur' bends her face down, and she seems to love me so
That I rise and toddle bravely all the way I have to go!

—S. W. Foss, in Yankee Blade.

A NOVEL DEFENSE.

How a Frightened Girl Saved the China Bank.

YES, it was a rather a novel defense, and the strangest part of it is, that she never thought of using it as such.

Alice Weston lived in an old fashioned country house, built some five or six miles distant from any other habitation. Her father and mother, being old-fashioned, too, always retired to bed at nine o'clock; her brother and his wife did the same, and generally she was the last waking thing about the place.

On this particular night Alice was sitting before the halfburned embers of the parlor fire, after all the rest had retired, leisurely combing her long, black hair, and dreaming, as maidens will, of anything and everything.

The room was in a sort of lurid darkness, illuminated now and again by transient flashes of light from a bank of unburned coal at the very back of the grate, which now and again sent up spears of white flame to play upon the warm, red window curtains, and the dark tablecloth, and the crimson wall paper.

Everything glowed red in the room save one small white mound in the corner beside a wide sofa, and Alice knew that to be Baby Weston's little cradle, where he generally spent his days kicking or vocally employed while his mother pursued her usual household avocations.

Baby Weston was now, of course, sleeping upstairs, and the cradle was empty.

When Alice had dreamed to her heart's content, and was preparing to leave the room, it suddenly occurred to her to gather up the glowing heap of coals into the shovel and carry them up to her own bedroom stove, as the night was chilly.

She proceeded to do so, and raised the sulphurous pyramid in her hand.

As she elevated the shovel a light flame burst all over the top of the pile, and for an instant the whole room was illuminated by it.

In that instant Alice, looking by chance toward the cradle, thought she saw a second white object in the corner. She lowered the shovel so that the fumes might escape up the chimney, and looked more carefully.

Assuredly there was something white beside the cradle—something surely not there a few minutes ago!

Alice's heart, which was as timid as that of a hare, began to beat very fast. What could it be? Had they forgotten to take the baby up to bed, and had he fallen out of the cradle?

All at once she saw, or thought she saw, the cradle move.

Scarcely waiting to reason, only conscious of a horrified conviction that Master Baby had been overlooked, and had consequently overturned by way of revenge, Alice, shovel in hand, went over to the corner, and stooped to examine the mysterious white object.

She found a man's face. His eyes staring up in mute terror, his countenance ghastly and bloodless, the rough black hair which garnished cheek, chin and lips fairly bristling—this agreeable image glared up at the fiery avalanche about to be thrown upon him, and at the wrathful woman with the long, flowing hair, and opened his mouth in a frantic but dumb appeal for mercy.

As for Alice, she was as far from thinking of aggressive measures as is the mouse beneath the paw of its devourer.

If she could have run away she would thankfully have done so, but her limbs seemed petrified.

Here was some terrible robber in the house, with intent to steal the contents of her father's wallet (it was well known that he had sold a pair of fat oxen the previous day, and that he would put his money in a china savings bank on the parlor mantel), and the intruder had crawled under the sofa until the family should have retired, and fallen asleep, and, doubtless, the noise she had made in putting the coals on the shovel had awakened him.

Of course he would arise and make an end of her, and then carry off the spoil, and her afflicted, bereft and beggared relatives would find in the morning a bleeding piece of clay.

"For Heaven's sake, let me off," gasped the monster, breaking in upon her sad reverie, "and I'll never try the like again."

With the blue flames flickering upon her white, set face, and the red cinders dropping unheeded, the paissant avenger moved back, and the man crawled out from his hiding-place and gathered himself up.

When Alice saw the size of him (he was at least six feet) she would have got into a nutshell had it been within the bounds of possibility; but she could only gaze up at him, her eyes wide and awful, the shovel unconsciously clutched in her hand.

"Show me the way out, ma'am," muttered the robber, "and on my Bible oath I'll not lay hand on the value of a pin's point."

Urged to flight by the impetus of great fear, the panic-stricken captor moved among the dusky furniture as if her legs worked by galvanism, and the panic-stricken captive slouched close beside her, his eyes bulging at every sound, the drops of perspiration streaming from his forehead.

Also the sulphurous smoke, which now plentifully wafted backward in his nostrils from that shovel, caused such an insupportable tickling therein that it required much caution to avoid loud and fatal sneezing.

Through the long, draughty hall where the boards creaked appallingly beneath their tread, these two timid ones passed, and reached the locked front door, and while Alice gazed up the bedroom stairs in a silent agony of longing, the rascal clutched the key, in a spasm of thankfulness.

"SHOW ME THE WAY OUT, MA'AM."

"By golly! you're a good 'un!" muttered he, wrenching round the lock, "an' I'll never come after the old chap's chany bank as long's you're here, so help me Bob!"

With one terrified, backward glance at the dread vision of wrath and its fiery weapon, he tore out at the door, and clattered down the frozen road, leaving Alice staring after him like a person in a trance.

Of course, she recovered herself in time to alarm the household and have the rascal caught?

Not she. She carried the shovel of cinders back to the parlor, put them in the grate, and sank down on the hearth-rug in a swoon, while the cold winter wind blew in at the open hall door, and a dozen thieves might have plundered the house twice over.

But at last her brother, roused by the repeated slamming of doors and the whistle of the icy air through his own keyhole, came down to reconnoiter, found affairs as described, and filled with amazement made all fast.

Never was there so timorous a guardian, never a house so effectually guarded, and yet she never dreamed of defense.—Annie Ashmore, in N. Y. Weekly.

It Depends on the Child.

A man down east has invented a washing-machine, the motive power of which is a swing in which a child is placed. The child swings to and fro, and the motion causes the machine to run, with the result that the family washing is done up in good shape. As long as the child does not know that it is doing any work it would seem that this would be a good scheme; but those who are familiar with the nature of children will readily see that as soon as the child finds out that the swing is connected with a washing-machine, it will suddenly take a strong dislike to the amusement of swinging and get out of it by some excuse or another.—Peck's Sun.

Rapid Transit.

"This car goes in two minutes," said the conductor.

"This car never goes anywhere in two minutes," remarked a self-assertive young lady.

"It's slow and sure," said a corner passenger.

"Sure of not getting there," retorted the young woman, who had the last word.—Detroit Free Press.

No Prohibitory Law There.

"I don't want to go to Heaven," said Jamesey; "it's too full of Chinese."

"Chinese?"

"Yes. It's inhabited by celestials entirely."—Munsey's Weekly.

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

SMILER WAS BURNED

The Murderer's Body on View in New York.

TO BE BURIED THIS AFTERNOON.

The Upper Part of the Face Disfigured Almost Beyond Recognition.

The Eyes Either Burned Out or Removed. Under the Right Eye There Was a Deep Scar that Looked Like the Mark of a Hot Iron—The Bridge of the Nose Burned Away.

NEW YORK, July 9.—In an imitation rosewood coffin in Undertaker Frederick Hulberg's establishment, No. 265 West 125th street, lies the body of Harris A. Smiler, the murderer electrocuted in Sing Sing prison last Tuesday morning. It was brought from Sing Sing last evening, and shortly afterward Mrs. Smiler, accompanied by her sister-in-law, called at the undertaker's and looked upon the remains.

The body was not as mutilated as might be expected, while the face showed evidences of the work of the deadly current. The cheek bones bore bright scars about an inch and a half to two inches in length, the edges turning up and forming a ridge. The bridge of the nose was gone, while discolorations on the temples showed where the straps had passed. There was also a burn on the chin about the size of a dime. The head was shaved. The body was dressed in the same suit in which Smiler went to the fatal chair. The eyelids were closed, and the eyes appeared to have been removed.

Mrs. Smiler stated that the funeral would take place this afternoon from the undertaking rooms and that the interment would be at Woodlawn.

Dr. McDonald's Official Report.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 9.—Dr. Charles F. McDonald, the official physician of the four electrocutions in Sing Sing prison, informs the press that it will be quite a few days before the autopsy is ready. The law provides for its filing with the County Clerk ten days after the execution. Warden Brown will therefore file it with the County Clerk of Westchester county. The complete list of witnesses will be filed at the same time.

No Secret Executions.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Assemblyman Stein, who introduced in the last session of the Legislature a bill to repeal the law for electrical executions, said to-day that he would reintroduce the bill next session and use his best endeavors to have it pass both the House and Senate. The bill passed the House last session, but did not reach a vote in the Senate on account of the deadlock.

Buried in Quicklime.

SING SING, N. Y., July 9.—With no ceremony, religious or otherwise, the unclaimed bodies of the three electrocuted murderers, Slocum, Wood and Jugiro, were buried in the prison cemetery. Nine convicts lowered the coffins, one after another, into the graves, and the graves quickly filled up. The bodies were buried in quicklime.

MRS. THOMPSON INSANE.

A Western Court So Declares the Famous Connecticut Philanthropist.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 9.—Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, the noted philanthropist, of Stamford, Conn., was adjudged insane in the Probate Court. The inquisition into the mental condition of Mrs. Thompson was a more than ordinarily interesting proceeding, both on account of the prominence of the lady and the facts brought to light in the course of the trial.

Mrs. Thompson is well known all over the United States. She has probably given away to charitable societies more than any other woman in America. She will be remembered as the friend of abolition during the late war.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's Successful Mission.

PARIS, July 9.—Madame Carnot, wife of President Carnot, granted a private audience to Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago, and this evening, by special invitation, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will occupy President Carnot's box at the opera. The French newspapers refer at length to Mrs. Palmer's Ladies' World's Fair Committee, which was recently organized here. It is Mrs. Palmer's intention to promote the formation of a similar committee in London, where Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein has promised her aid.

Stole the Countess' Jewels.

LONDON, July 9.—A clerk named Edward Wilkinson is under arrest who confesses to having, with two accomplices, stolen the Countess of Dudley's jewels at Euston Station four years ago. In his confession Wilkinson says that while one of his accomplices attracted the attention of the servants of the Countess, the other stole the parcels, which were subsequently sold in Amsterdam, Wilkinson receiving $10,000 as his share of the proceeds. Since the robbery one of the prisoner's partners in the theft has died. Wilkinson was remanded.

A Life Sentence Commuted.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 9.—James C. King, a well-known metropolitan lawyer, sentenced for life in 1874 from New York for murdering the man who broke up his home, has been released from Auburn prison, on a special commutation granted by Governor Hill.

Labor Leaders Make a Test Case.

BOSTON, July 9.—Henry Abrahams, Secretary of the Central Labor Union, was in the Municipal Court fined $1 and costs on the charge of unlawfully delivering an oration on Franklin Park, July 4. The case was appealed to the Superior Court.

MIDDLE STATES REGATTA.

The Officers Decide to Have All the Contests Take Place on Saturday.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The officers in charge of the rowing regatta for the championship of the Middle States at Newark, N. J., have decided to have all the events, including trial heats, on Saturday.

The programme had been to have the trial heats on Friday and the final heats on Saturday, but the officers believe that by starting promptly at 9 a. m. on Saturday and running off an event at each succeeding half hour they can complete the programme before dark.

Capt. Van Roden, of the Atalantas, has been obliged to resign as judge of the course, and J. E. Murphy, of the Institute Club, of Newark, has been appointed in his stead.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP TO-DAY.

He Goes to the Blue Fishing Grounds on the Cutter Hamilton.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Capt. H. T. Blake, of the revenue cutter Hamilton, received positive sailing orders from the Secretary of the Treasury to-day and left Philadelphia at an early hour in the morning for Cape May Point, where the cutter will take aboard the President and party to go on a fishing excursion.

The President has heard so many stories of the wonderful sport afforded by the blue fish in the deep sea fishermen's paradise of Anglesea that he has been anxious to try his luck, and will leave this afternoon for that place. The grounds where the President will probably fish lie about eight or ten miles to sea off Five-Mile Beach.

FIRST GIRL AT YALE.

Irene Colt Will Study With Fifteen Hundred Bachelors.

NORWICH, Conn., July 9.—The only certificate of admission which Yale University has ever granted to a woman has just been received by Miss Irene W. Colt, of this city, the daughter of Gen. J. B. Colt, formerly Congressman from this district.

Prof. J. D. Seymour, of Yale, notified Miss Colt, saying that she had passed the examination satisfactorily and would be admitted. The young woman will be the object of much attention among the 1,500 Yale bachelors.

AN INDIAN EXECUTION.

A Seminole Quickly Put to Death for a Brutal Murder.

TAHLEQUHA, I. T., July 9.—Unrest, a full-blooded Seminole, was executed yesterday on the council grounds of the Seminole reservation at Wiheka. A month ago Unrest quarreled with another Indian, and chopped him to pieces with a hoe.

He was tried and convicted by the council, and at noon he was led to a low, flat rock and a bandage tied over his eyes. He was not otherwise bound and was as unconcerned as the traditional brave in warpaint. Two Indians, chosen by lot, each sent a bullet into his heart. There was a painful upraising of the shoulders, and Unrest was still.

His executioners ran quickly to him and laid him upon the ground. He died in two minutes. The body was buried on the edge of the council ground.

PROBABLY A DUEL.

Herbert Bismarck May Challenge Count Von Munster.

BERLIN, July 9.—It is reported in diplomatic circles that unless Count von Munster, the German Ambassador at Paris, denies the story circulated by M. de Blowitz to the effect that the late Emperor William was desirous of getting rid of Prince Bismarck, and that the ex-Chancellor's advancement of Count Herbert Bismarck, his son, was a glaring instance of nepotism in politics, he, Count Bismarck, will challenge the German Ambassador to give him satisfaction on the field of honor.

To Study the Bible.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 9.—The 15th international Bible conference met at the Queen's Royal Hotel at Niagara, on Lake Ontario, to-day. There are already 300 delegates present from Canada, the United States and England. Prominent Bible students will conduct the studies. The sessions will last eight days and are held in a pavilion overlooking the lake, the Niagara River and old Fort Niagara on the opposite shore. The Bible is studied from a purely theological standpoint.

World's Fair Commissioners Sail Away.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Four of the members of the World's Fair Foreign Commission, Moses P. Handy, A. G. Bullock, ex-Congressman Benjamin Butterworth and Frederick W. Peck of Chicago, accompanied by John Butler, special Treasury agent, boarded the steamer Columbia last night, en route for Europe. Judge Lindsay of Kentucky will not be able to sail until July 16.

Vesuvius is Booming.

NAPLES, July 9.—The flow of lava from Mount Vesuvius has increased. The lava has now reached the rear of the observatory.

NICOLAY HIT HARD

Colonel McClure Still Sticks to His Story.

HE REPEATS IT THIS MORNING.

President Lincoln Wanted Andrew Johnson Nominated.

There Was No Prejudice Against Mr. Hamlin—The War President's Private Secretary Merely a Routine Clerk—His Removal Was Sought by Friends of the Administration—An Interesting Dispute.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—The Times this morning publishes the following editorial written by Col. McClure:

"The ignorance exhibited by John G. Nicolay in his public telegram to the widow of ex-Vice-President Hamlin, is equalled only by his arrogance in assuming to speak for Abraham Lincoln in matters about which Nicolay was never consulted, and of which he had no more knowledge than any other routine clerk about the White House. I do not regret that Mr. Nicolay has rushed into a dispute that must lead to the clear establishment of the exact truth as to the defeat of Hamlin in 1864. It will surely greatly impair, if not destroy, Nicolay's hitherto generally accepted claim to accuracy as the biographer of Lincoln, but he can complain of none but himself.

"I saw Abraham Lincoln at all hours of the day and night during his Presidential service, and he himself abundantly testified to the trust that existed between us. Having had the direction of his battle in the pivotal State of the Union, he doubtless accorded me more credit than I merited, as the only success in politics and war is success; and the fact that I never sought nor desired honors or profit from his administration and never embarrassed him with exactions of any kind, made our relations the most grateful memories of my life.

"In all the many grave political emergencies arising from the new and often appalling duties imposed by internecine war, I was one of those called to the inner councils of Abraham Lincoln. He distrusted his own judgment in politics, and was ever careful to gather the best counsels from all the varied shades of opinion and interest to guide him in his conclusions; and there were not only scores of confidential conferences in the White House of which John G. Nicolay never heard, but no man ever met or heard of John G. Nicolay in such councils. He was a good mechanical, routine clerk; he was utterly inefficient as the secretary of the President; his removal was earnestly pressed upon Lincoln on more than one occasion because of his utter want of tact and fitness to his trust, and only the proverbial kindness of Lincoln saved him from dismissal. He saw and knew President Lincoln; the man Abraham Lincoln he never saw and never knew; and his assumption that he was the trusted repository of Lincoln's confidential convictions and efforts would have been regarded as grotesque a quarter of a century ago, when Lincoln and his close surroundings were well understood.

Johnson's Nomination Desired.

"I now repeat that in obedience to a telegraphic request from Abraham Lincoln I visited him at the White House the day before the Baltimore convention of 1864. At that interview Mr. Lincoln earnestly explained why the nomination of a well known Southern man like Andrew Johnson, who had been Congressman, Governor and Senator by favor of his State, would not only nationalize the Republican party and the government, but would greatly lessen the grave danger of the recognition of the Confederacy by England and France.

"He believed that the election to the Vice Presidency of a representative statesman from an insurgent State that had been restored to the Union would disarm the enemies of the Republic abroad and remove the load of secessionism from the government that seemed to greatly hinder peace. No intimation, no trace of prejudice against Mr. Hamlin was exhibited, and well I knew that no such consideration could have influenced Mr. Lincoln in such an emergency."

BIG COLLIERY FIRE.

Three Men Fatally Injured by an Explosion of Gas.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 9.—John Dorsey and John Pickmonti were fatally and Christopher Shoffstall seriously injured by an explosion of gas at the Green Ridge Colliery.

The inner workings were ignited by the explosion and assistance has been summoned to aid in controlling the flames. The mine is one of the largest in the anthracite region.

Treasurer Nebecker May Resign.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., July 9.—There is a strong probability that United States Treasurer Nebecker will resign. At least this is intimated by his brother-in-law, F. M. Dice of this city.

EDUCATION OF THE BODY.

An Interesting Paper Read Before the American Institute of Instruction.

BETHLEHEM, N.H., July 9.—The morning's session of the American Institute of Instruction opened with devotional exercises, conducted by the Rev. W. N. Ackley, of Narragansett Pier, R. I.

A paper on Esthetic Physical Culture was read by C. Wesley Emerson, M. D. LL.D., President of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Mass. The paper was quite lengthy and was listened to with considerable interest. Among other things he said:

There were three guiding ideals in the education of the body. The prevailing ideal was that the exercise for physical culture should resemble, as far as possible, the movements of manual labor. Some advocated physical culture from a military standpoint.

The speaker viewed physical culture from a standpoint not antagonistic of these, but from an entirely different standpoint. He held that the education of the body by the same principles as the mind was educated, was the surest way to develope the highest degree of health, strength, suppleness, power, endurance and beauty. This was psycho-physical culture, and that was the system he advocated.

REVELATIONS EXPECTED.

Philadelphia's Investigating Committee to Meet To-morrow.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—An important meeting of the council's investigating committee is booked for to-morrow. Managing Editor McKean and City Editor McWade, of the Ledger, have been notified to appear and give testimony in regard to the suppressed Bardsley confession statement.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker and Effingham B. Morris, president of the Girard Life Insurance Annuity and Trust Company, have also been notified to appear. H. H. Yard, who is now under arrest for conspiring with Bardsley to loan public money, has been ordered to give testimony on the same day in relation to the city's deposits in the Keystone Bank and other matters incident to Bardsley's misappropriation of State and city funds.

Threaten to Drive Out the Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 9.—The Sultan is in a fair way to lose all Arabia. The Wahabees, who had been dormant for a number of years, have joined the insurgents, and threaten to drive the Turks into the sea. The Wahabees are fanatical fighters, and neither ask nor give quarter. They have a long score of wrongs to avenge upon the Turks, and could find no better opportunity than the present.

Progress of the Big Leary Raft.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—The tugs Ocean King and E. F. Luckenbach, having in tow the big Leary raft of logs, arrived in Dutch Harbor during the morning. The wind and sea were so high that it was thought best to make a harbor until the weather became calmer.

Death of a Well Known Actress.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Dora Shaw, at one time a well known actress and leading lady, died at the Forrest Home last night. She had been an inmate of the Home since 1886.

REBELS VICTORIOUS

They Report Another Fight With Balmaceda's Troops.

DENIAL FROM THE OTHER SIDE.

It is Claimed that the Insurgents Are Short of Men and Guns.

An Overwhelming Majority in Favor of the McCarthyites' Man at Carlow—Parnell Says He Will Fight On—His Reason for the Defeat—The Queen Wants to Revise the Kaiser's Speech.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A cablegram from Iquique, signed by Federico Errazuriz, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the insurgents, was received by the representatives of the Chilian Congressional party here late last night.

It states that the army of Balmaceda, while advancing from Coquimbo to the Valley of Huasco, was met by the insurgent army at a point four leagues south of Vallenar.

An engagement, the dispatch goes on to say, took place.

After a fierce fight the Balmacedists were driven back. The triumph of the insurgents was complete.

INSURGENTS BADLY OFF.

They Are Said to be Desperate and Short of Men.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The following information from Callao, has just been received by the commission house of Stevens & Co., in this city,

"Passengers arriving from Iquique and Valparaiso state that the situation of the Chilian insurgents is desperate. They are without money, and their vessels are in bad condition and without ammunition.

"The army, which comprises from 3,000 to 4,000 'solos,' do not receive their pay. The insurgents have been able to obtain only 800 rifles, in bad order, bought at Panama. Most of the inhabitants of Iquique, Pisagua and Antofagasta have emigrated to Southern Chili or to Peru.

PARNELL BADLY BEATEN.

His Candidate in Carlow Defeated by the McCarthyites.

DUBLIN, July 9.—Both factions of the Irish National party were surprised over the result of the polling in Carlow for a successor in Parliament to the late Patrick O'Gorman Mahon.

It was a sweeping victory for the McCarthyites; their candidate, Mr. Hammond, receiving 3,755 votes as against 1,539 cast for Mr. J. Kettle, the candidate of the Parnellites.

In the preceding election O'Gorman Mahon (Nationalist) was elected without opposition.

Parnell declares that he will continue the struggle and that the McCarthyites will be disappointed if they expect that he will take himself out of the way. Parnell attributes the result to the ignorance of the voters and the influence of the priests.

NO HOPE FOR SPURGEON.

Professional Jealousy Has Caused a Row Among His Doctors.

LONDON, July 9.—What is sorrowfully feared to be the deathbed of Charles Haddon Spurgeon is unhappily the occasion of an incident of professional jealousy exactly similar to that which was witnessed at Lord Beaconsfield's deathbed.

Dr. George Hugh Kidd, the famous Irish surgeon, practioner and writer, who attended Lord Beaconsfield, is also in attendance on Mr. Spurgeon. He is a man of very broad views, and is an advocate of homeopathy as well as of the orthodox system of treatment. Consequently Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's physician, who was summoned in consultation, has declined to attend, just as Sir William Jenner declined to give his services to Lord Beaconsfield for the same reason.

Mr. Spurgeon has often rallied from severe attacks, but never before has his vitality sunk so low as it is now. In his delirium he fancies that he is in the south of France, and calls upon those about him to take him home.

This morning there was no signs of improvement, and Mr. Spurgeon is suffering extreme prostration.

THE KAISER'S DOINGS.

He Must Submit His Guildhall Speech to the Queen.

LONDON, July 9.—It is reported that the Queen has stipulated that the Emperor William of Germany shall write out the speech which he is to make at Guildhall to-morrow in reply to the address of welcome which will be made there on behalf of the corporation, and submit it to Her Majesty for approval.

The Kaiser wants to meet Mr. Gladstone personally, and an attempt will be made to bring them together, if Mr. Gladstone's health and engagements permit.

It is said on good authority that the Prince of Wales actually had a baccarat party at Windsor on Monday night, the Kaiser being an interested onlooker.

Mr. and Mrs. Parnell's Reception.

LONDON, July 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Parnell propose shortly to give a series of wedding receptions. Owing to the distinguished social position of Mrs. Parnell's family in England, the receptions are not likely to be a failure, so far as English attendance is concerned.

Bardsley in the Eastern Penitentiary.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—John Bardsley, ex-City Treasurer of Philadelphia, was brought to the Eastern Penitentiary last evening and began his 15 years' sentence. The transfer of the prisoner was made so quietly that but few knew anything about it at the time.

ORIGINAL. No. 10.

Virginia Corn Bread.

BY MRS. F. L. GILLETTE,

Author White House Cook Book.

Two teaspoonfuls Cleveland's Superior baking powder; two cupfuls white corn meal; one cupful flour; one teaspoonful salt; one tablespoonful sugar; two tablespoonfuls melted butter; three eggs; two and a half cupfuls milk.

Sift together all the dry ingredients, rub in the butter; then add beaten eggs and milk. Mix well and pour into round, buttered pans. Bake from thirty to forty minutes.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

"Owing to the purity, strength, effectiveness and constancy of composition of Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, I have adopted the same for use in my home."

HE SHOT HIS WIFE.

A Loaded Revolver Among a Lot of New Ones in a Dealer's Store.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Mrs. James Judd, 44 years of age, was accidentally shot and perhaps fatally wounded by her husband, John R. Judd, a dealer in sporting goods at 1264 Broadway.

Mr. Judd was putting up a box of revolvers for a customer at the Catskills, and as he packed each revolver in a box he snapped the trigger mechanically. Mrs. Judd was standing close by her husband while he was engaged in packing the revolvers in the box.

Mr. Judd had snapped the triggers of two of them and put them in the box and taken the third one from the shelf, and as he snapped it there was a loud report. Mrs. Judd exclaiming, "I am shot," and fell to the floor.

Physicians were summoned who said that Mrs. Judd's condition was critical, and her ante-mortem statement was taken by a coroner. She told the coroner that the shooting was accidental and exonerated her husband from all blame. Mr. Judd was arrested and admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000.

Mr. Judd cannot account for the bullet being in the pistol, excepting on the theory that it was an old one which had been put in with the new ones by mistake.

KILLED BY A BICYCLIST.

An Aged Clergyman Knocked Down While Crossing the Street.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Rev. Dr. William A. Schubert, a retired Episcopalian Minister, 80 years of age, was accidentally killed during the evening by a little boy, named James Gaut.

The old gentleman, who was quite feeble, was crossing the street near his home and the boy was riding by on a bicycle. Just as he neared Dr. Schubert the bicycle struck a stone and the boy was thrown with great force against Dr. Schubert, who fell heavily to the asphalt pavement.

He was carried to his home and died shortly afterward.

The boy was placed under arrest.

Dr. Schubert came here from New Jersey a few years ago and was widely known as a student and a writer. He was engaged on a religious book at the time of his death.

GRIP'S AWFUL WORK.

Death, Insanity and Starvation on the Labrador Coast.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9.—The grip epidemic is having terrible results on the Labrador coast. At River Pigscocis, Point Aux Esquimaux, Plaster Cove and Melgan dozens of people have died, dozens are dying, many have gone insane, and, to make matters worse, provisions have run short.

Bishop Bosse is down with the disease, his prelate is dead, and a number of nuns are also among the dead.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Dutch Cabinet has resigned.

Brainard T. Arnold, hotel keeper in Broadway, New York, has made an assignment without preferences.

Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, has written a letter defining his position on the silver question.

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell celebrated his golden wedding at his home in Groton, Mass.

The naval militia of Massachusetts continued their drills on board the ships of the squadron of evolution in Boston harbor.

It was given out in Paterson, N. J., last night that Gov. Abbett had appointed Alfred A. Van Hoevenberg to be judge to succeed the late John T. Watson.

General Booth, the Salvation Army leader, proposes during his tour of the world to buy land in the western part of the United States to found a social colony.

Prof. Mendenall, of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and Prof. Atwater, of the Agricultural Department, have been appointed as the American Behring Sea Commissioners.

Gov. Hill has signed the extradition papers of Walter S. Berry, the young English swindler of alleged noble lineage, and he will be sent back to Georgia, to be tried for forgery.

A Convent Destroyed by Fire.

MONTREAL, July 9.—A dispatch from St. Hilaire, Que., says that the Convent of La Providence, commonly known as that of the Sisters Gadroit, situated on the Richelieu River, below Beloeil, was completely destroyed by fire during the morning.

—Hoagland's express is ready to transfer your baggage to the station when you go on your summer vacation.

—Saturday is to bring a happy time at the beach for the Crescent Avenue Sunday-schools excursionists who were disappointed by rain yesterday.

—Everybody is hoping that to-morrow will be a charming day, for if the weather be pleasant the Methodists and their friends will have a merry time at the seashore

—A lecture on "Russia and the Russians" will be delivered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, this evening at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged. Mr. Lippenhoff, the speaker, is a member of the student volunteer movement, and is educating himself with a view to future mission work for his own people.

—The Central Times says: "We do not think that the farmer is hardly fitted to discharge the duties of the Presidential office." By this queer and muddled-up expression it probably means "We do not think he is quite fitted" or "We think he is hardly [not quite] fitted". But the Times has a great habit lately of not making itself at all clear and not saying what it means or meaning what it says.

HE WAS CAUGHT WITH THE JIMMY.

Yet He Thinks His Prosecution is Officer Marsh's Spitework.

James Masterson, formerly of Elizabeth, but now a resident of Newark, was arrested several days ago at Plainfield by special officer W. R. Mattox of the Jersey Central company, who detected him stealing a ride on a passing freight train.

When arrested there was found in his possession a burglar's jimmy, but at the time nothing was said in regard to this, and on complaint of officer J. M.C. Marsh Masterson was committed to jail for ten days on the charge of stealing a ride.

Masterson's time in jail having expired Tuesday morning, detective McGrail went to the jail and, as Masterson walked forth, rearrested him on a warrant obtained Monday by special officer Marsh, charging him with having burglars' tools in his possession.

He was at once taken to police headquarters and locked up. Lawyer T. M. Kelly was retained as counsel by Masterson's friends, and will do his utmost to get his client out of his unpleasant position.

Yesterday Masterson was arraigned on the charge. He did not deny having had the jimmy in his possession, but said that he had found it lying beside the railway track and had picked it up, not thinking for a moment that it would bring him into trouble.

He demanded to know why officer Marsh had not preferred the charge against him when he was taken before the justice at Plainfield, and said that in his opinion it was all spitework on the part of the officer.

Justice Hetfield said that he was unable to say what motives had prompted the officer to act as he had in the matter; that was something that he had nothing to do with. Masterson was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The Bound Brook Suicide.

The funeral of David Edmund Davis, alias David Laflamno, who killed himself at Bound Brook, for unrequited love, because Mrs. Illsley would n't marry him, will take place to-morrow. Mrs. Illsley is quoted as saying that the reason she would n't become his bride was because he had such a temper. She used to tell him also that she was too old for him, and that if she became his wife he'd soon get tired of her and run off with a younger woman.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

ELOPED WITH HER PASTOR.

MRS. TAPPEN DESERTS ONE GEORGE WASHINGTON FOR ANOTHER.

Because He Was a Clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Comer Easily Gained the Sturdy Farmer's Confidence, and When One of His Two Wives Came from England to Hunt Him Up He Took Unsuspicious Tappen's Consort and Skipped.

A big sensation has been caused in the quiet southern outskirts of this city, over the reported elopement of the Rev. George Washington Comer, a local preacher, with Mrs. George Washington Tappen, the buxom wife of a sturdy Park avenue farmer.

Tappen's place is situated near Campbell's club-house, just beyond the line of Union county, in Middlesex. Comer, who occupies pulpits at Stelton, Metuchen, Amboy, New Brunswick, South Plainfield, and other places, on call, boarded with the Tappens a year or more. Tappen had great respect for "the cloth", and placed the fullest confidence in the clergyman.

Of late, however, considerable gossip has been afloat concerning the relations of the Rev. Comer and the farmer's wife, who is an attractive blonde of thirty-five summers.

Mrs. Tappen always spoke of Mr. Comer as "my dear pastor", and delighted in his preaching; and when, Sunday evening, the woman and the clergyman drove away in a buggy, Mr. Tappen supposed that Comer was going to preach somewhere and that Mrs. Tappen was going to hear the sermon.

A rustic youth who saw the pair in the buggy says that they were very affectionate to each other, and that instead of driving towards a church they took a shady lane leading to an unfrequented spot.

Late in the evening, it is alleged, the clergyman and his companion boarded a Lehigh Valley train at Oak Tree, and since that time the two have effectually disappeared.

Next day truckman Yose, of this city, began to cart the furniture away from Tappen's house. He seemed to be acting under previous orders from Mrs. Tappen. The goods were brought to this city and stored. When Tappen tried to find out where they were he failed. Yose is quoted as saying that Mrs. Tappen had assured him that the goods were hers. Tappen claims that his money paid for them, and that they were his property. A fight for the possession of the goods is therefore pending.

It has transpired since the alleged elopement that Comer is perhaps a bigamist. A woman who acts as housekeeper on a farm adjoining that of the Tappens has produced what purports to be a mutual agreement for a separation between herself and Comer. In this document the clergyman is said to have acknowledged that he had married the woman under false pretenses and that he already had a wife and three children in England when his second wedding took place.

His original wife reached this country, searching for her recreant spouse, a week or two ago. Comer, it is said, learned that she was on his track, and promptly prepared to flee with his paramour.

Several years ago, not long after their marriage, Tappen fell heir to $9,000, which he spent in buying and stocking his farm. He deeded the whole thing over to his wife, and, it is alleged, she immediately left his bed and board. Later she brought suit against him for divorce, on the ground of non-support. Judge Cowenhoven, of New Brunswick, found that Mrs. Tappen instead of Mr. Tappen was the deserting party, and dismissed the suit with some sharp remarks to the wife

All of the parties concerned in the affair are very respectably connected. Comer is related to some of the leading families of Bound Brook, and Tappen is one of the old original New Jersey Tappens, whose ancestral record is locally a famous one.

Tappen seems to be making no effort to find his faithless consort. "Since she has gone"—he says—"let her stay away."

Why Brooklyn People Come to Plainfield.

There is quoted below from the Brooklyn Eagle of last Sunday, a paragraph of much weight considering the source and in view of the fact that it is against the interests of that city and in favor of such New Jersey towns as lie along the Central railroad. The Eagle says:

"The easier access to the city is made, the more people we shall have residing here. As the matter now stands, Brooklyn ought to get many who are making their homes in New Jersey. These people will not go uptown in New York for several reasons. One is the rents are too high, although hundreds, if not thousands, of flats, apartments, and tenements are vacant; another, the rapid transit facilities in New York are not sufficient at present to handle many more people, even were they anxious to make their homes in Harlem. With upper New York practically closed and Brooklyn becoming inaccessible on account of the life and death struggle to cross the bridge during rush hours, what is the result? Merely this: The overflow population goes to Jersey. Especially on the line of the Jersey Central are there dozens of towns settled almost entirely by former residents of Brooklyn, or by people who would gladly live in Brooklyn were they given an opportunity to get here."

MUCH ADO ABOUT NAUGHT.

The Hon. George Kyte Creates a Tempest in a Water Pipe and Mrs R. P. Moore Arrested.

The timely appearance the other day of a prominent citizen of Fanwood, averted what might have caused considerable annoyance to one of his fellow townsmen. It all happened as follows, and resulted as told below.

For some months past one of the mains of Fanwood's water supply, through which pipe R. P. Moore is the only consummer, has leaked. The main extends below Mr. Moore's residence on South avenue to Martine avenue, where there is a fire hydrant, and it was supposed that some mischievous person opened it. The Hon. Geo. Kyte, the Central New Jersey Land Improvement company's Superintendent, upon discovering that fact, shut off the main and requested Mr. Moore to notify him, or his assistant, whenever he needed water to fill the tank in his house, assuring him it would be attended to. Mr. Kyte afterward left the wrench to turn on the valve of the main, convenient for Mr. Moore's use, in the company's stable near the station.

Monday last, Mr. Moore upon his return from New York with another gentleman, went to the stable and calling down the assistant who rooms above, asked for the wrench. He was then informed that strict orders had been received to give it to no one. Mr. Moore then requested the assistant to take the wrench and open the valve himself, as Mr. Moore could get water in no other way and was entirely without it. The man replied, "Mr. Kyte will be up on the next train." The gentlemen thereupon decided to await Mr. Kyte's arrival, which they did for two trains. As no Mr. Kyte appeared they again went to the assistant and Mr. Moore again urged the importance of having water. The man replied that Mr. Kyte had the key to the closet where the wrench was, but he supposed he could spring the door open. This he did and handed Mr. Moore the coveted wrench.

Mr. Moore then turned on the water and went out to dine with a friend on Quality Hill. After dinner, while on the lawn with the ladies, Mr. Kyte came up the Hill and excitedly called to Mr. Moore, threatening him with arrest and stating that his man told him that he (Mr. Moore) had broken into the Company's building and stolen a wrench. Mr. Moore endeavored to explain but without avail—Mr. Kyte insisting that he would secure a warrant that night, although nearly eight o'clock. Mr. Moore was in a quandary. Just then the gentleman who was with him in the afternoon and a witness to the facts mentioned, opportunely appeared on the scene and agreed to accompany him to Plainfield. Arriving here at 8:08 they hurried to Justice Nash's office where they found that a complaint charging R. P. Moore with breaking and entering the stable, was being drawn up, and it was subsequently sworn to by Mr. Kyte's assistant. Mr. Moore told the Justice he had been threatened with arrest so appeared to prevent it. He demanded an immediate examination, which, of course, was granted.

After hearing the evidence of Mr. Kyte's assistant, and also that of Mr. Moore and the other Fanwood gentleman, Judge Nash remarked that the evidence was conflicting but the preponderance was on the side of the defendant, whom he promptly permitted to depart. It is gratifying to learn that all the parties concerned returned to Fanwood on the same train at 9:28, after Mr. Kyte had in more or less forcible language, complimented Mr. Moore's friend in the presence of the court, for his promptness in assisting everybody out of a seeming misunderstanding.

Two Burglars Who Are Known.

Chief of Police Grant and his men are on a still hunt for two burglars who broke into Coriell's market, 41 West Front street, during the early morning of July 4. They entered through a window opening into the lane that runs along the side of the building.

About two o'clock in the morning, a neighbor heard one say to the other, "Come along. You've got enough". The neighbor, however, did not suspect anything wrong. Mr. Coriell had left a purse full of money in the shop for his men to purchase such farm truck as is brought to the city before he gets up. The burglars got it all.

Mr. Coriell is pretty certain that he knows who the guilty ones are, but on account of their family connections he dislikes to apprehend them.

To Face The Ridgewoods Again.

On Saturday afternoon on the Crescent League's base-ball grounds, the home team will meet the Ridgewoods who defeated the Plainfielders on the afternoon of Decoration Day.

The visitors will bring their strongest players as it will be the deciding game of three. The Crescents have won one game by the score of 11 to 2, and the Ridgewoods have won one by the score of 12 to 4.

A RAILWAY PANIC AVOIDED.

Manager Hegeman of Plainfield Causes a Lively Time, and an Almost Utter Demoralization of Rates, in Freight Traffic Matters.

Benjamin A. Hegeman, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, traffic manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway, precipitated a crisis in trunk line affairs, a few days ago, by issuing a new freight schedule at greatly reduced prices. A meeting of the Trunk Line Association was promptly held, and the Lackawanna was taken sharply to task for issuing the reduced-rates tariff sheet without permission. Ever since the decision of Commissioner Goddard awarding a differential to the West Shore the Lackawanna people have been hot. A demand had been previously made by Mr. Hegeman for a differential for the Lackawanna, on the ground that the Lackawanna was entitled to as much consideration as the West Shore. It is understood a decision adverse to the Lackawanna was given by Commissioner Goddard, and this was supposed to be the animus of the action by that road.

The new rate was practically a violation of the Trunk line agreement. There was also danger that the Lackawanna's action would arouse agression on the part of the Canadian Pacific, and if that road should openly seize the differential rate which it believes it is entitled to there would be extreme difficulty for the conservative lines to prevent open demeralization. All this would be a nice thing for the public, but a serious thing for the roads.

At the association meeting Mr. Hegeman found himself in a very warm atmosphere. He explained that he made the reduced freight rates to St. Paul and Minneapolis because the association paid no attention to the Lackawanna's request for a differential the same as that granted to the West Shore road.

Representatives of other roads hastened to inform Mr. Hegeman that his application for a differential had not been considered by the joint committee because it had not been reached in due course of business. It was, therefore, a highly improper act on his part to anticipate the action of the joint committee.

Mr. Hegeman listened patiently to this kind of talk and finally agreed to withdraw the reduced tariff and wait for the committee to take action on the Lackawanna's application for a differential.

MR. TAYLOR CAPTURES A THIEF.

The Fellow Offered Property Stolen from One Hotel in Payment of Board at Another.

Those acquainted with Nell Taylor, of Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, know that it is a hard matter to get him on the wrong track. This fact proved itself Tuesday morning. The night before a stranger, registering as N. K. Engells of New York city, asked for a room, and one was assigned to him. The following morning, after breakfast, he disappeared, leaving his bill unpaid.

When the news reached Mr. Taylor, he gave orders to have his best horse hitched to a road wagon, and started in pursuit of the stranger. When near Plainfield he met the man and demanded the money, but was told that he had no money and was on his way to Plainfield to get some, and would return and pay. This looked like a trick, to Mr. Taylor, and he refused to allow the man to depart without security to the amount of his bill. The man, seeing that he must do something, said that he had in his possession a set of pool balls which he had purchased in Trenton the day before. Mr. Taylor induced him to go to Dunellen, where he might make arrangements for the purchase, and thereby settle the bill. On reaching Dunellen, he had the man arrested and held on suspicion while he took a train to Somerville to inquire of his friends if they had been relieved of any property. While in Somerville he learned that Chris VanArsdale's hotel had been robbed on Sunday night, and that a set of pool balls and silver spoons had been taken. Mr. VanArsdale was informed of the arrest, and with a constable accompanied Mr. Taylor to Dunellen, where he identified all of the stolen goods as his.

The thief was lodged in the jail at Somerville, and everybody congratulated Mr. Taylor on his success as a detective.

Trying to Do Something for Their Daughters.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, is attending the summer school of methods of the State Woman's Christian Temperance Union at Ocean Grove. The women are discussing "Postal Savings Banks", "Physical Culture", and "What shall We Do for Our Daughters?" Yesterday Mrs. Tomlinson read a paper on the importance of "parlor work."

Tried to Bite Its Mistress.

A pet dog owned by Mrs. George V. Tunison, of 141 Duer street, was shot, yesterday, because it was supposed to be mad. It was bitten some time ago by another dog, and in turn bit a dog and a cow. Yesterday it attacked Mrs. Tunison, and tore a piece out of her apron in trying to bite her.

Did the Times Want a Man Struck?

Speaking of the "one-horn" cannon accident, the Central Times says: "The ram-rod, that was driven with terrific force down the street, struck a telephone pole instead of a human being. It is no credit to our police department that the obstacle was inanimate instead of animate." The Times evidently considers that it would have been a credit to the police had a man or woman been hit. But perhaps the Times is again saying what it does n't mean, and perhaps it intended to say that "it was no fault of the police that the obstacle was not animate".

WASHINGTON ROCK.

Some Local Revolutionary Memories, and an Appeal to the Plainfield Monument Association.

It was on May 28, 1777,—says a Fourth of July contributor to the Bound Brook Chronicle—that General Washington and his Continental Army of about 40 skeleton regiments pitched their tents upon the sloping sod of the lofty hills just back of Middlebrook, and along the plains around New Market, while the British were at Amboy.

Washington, as he began to make strong his fortifications and survey the surrounding country, was much impressed by a big black rock which showed itself from the mountain top. Its giant structure and lofty appearance seemed to have charms for him, and he longed to climb its lofty heights. Through the assistance of a famous guide he succeeded in satisfying his ambition. The name of the guide is said to have been Fitz Randolph, who at that time lived at the foot of the mountain in an old hut.

From the top of this rock, Washington gazed down upon his poorly clad warriors and upon Howe's brilliantly equipped troops in the hazy distance. He was so enraptured with the possibilities of his new position that he made his headquarters near this spot, and frequently took telescopic observations from the stone. This gave him a powerful advantage over the British, as, with the aid of a powerful glass, he was enabled to follow every movement of the enemy, in their efforts to draw the Americans from their stronghold. The view from the rock was doubtless the keystone to his arch of success in New Jersey, as every possible device know was practiced by the British to entrap the Americans, but all signally failed.

A description of this hallowed and sequestered spot, for which we are indebted to another writer, is as follows: "At an elevation of about 400 feet on the southerly edge of Watchung Mountain, about a mile back of Dunellen, is an immense trap boulder called Washington's Rock. It is about 25 feet in height and from 30 to 40 feet in circumference. The bold projection, which nature has given it from the summit of eminence, renders a fine position for taking an extensive view of the country below. One's vision is fairly astounded by the superb panorama which gives a sweeping view across the plain to the highlands of Navesink, Staten Island, New York Harbor, with the Statue of Liberty, Brooklyn Bridge, and other prominent points, while in the foreground and middle distance are the tree-embowered towns and villages of the level land, which stretches out at the spectator's feet like a map for a circuit of some fifty miles."

In the summer of 1777 the American army was stationed at various places on the plains below at New Market, Middlebrook, etc. After the retreat of Sir William Howe from New Brunswick, and upon his changing his movements and marching from Amboy to where Plainfield now stands, Washington retreated to the heights in the face of the enemy. The advance guard of Lord Howe's army fell in with Lord Sterling's division. A skirmish ensued and upon the approach of the column under Cornwallis, Sterling was obliged to retreat to Westfield. Howe pursued him to Westfield and the next day returned to Amboy. Washington was at this time on the rock inspecting the actions of the British on the plains below, a circumstance to which it owes its name. At various times he resorted to this place to ascertain the movements of the enemy. These circumstances have given the rock a colored character to the people of the present day, which, in connection with the beautiful prospect it affords, has made it a place for pleasure parties.

There once stood upon the grounds adjacent to the rock a large hotel called the "Rock House", and during the summer months it was crowded with guests, but a number of years ago it burned down.

On the 25th day of January, 1867, the Washington Monument and Historical Association of Plainfield was formed. It numbered among its members the leading citizens of the place, its object being to secure proprietorship to the rock, and to rear on adjacent grounds a monument to Washington's memory. The corner-stone was laid with imposing ceremonies by the Grand Masonic Lodge of New Jersey, July 4 of the same year. People gathered from miles around, cannon boomed, bands played, and patriotism ran riot. Nothing but the foundation and the corner-stone were ever laid. Year after year, on the Fourth of July, those same patriotic people would gather at this spot; the eagle screamed, the cannon boomed and the bands played, just the same as in '67, but no monument was reared.

At stated intervals meetings were held by the Association but each member had a different idea. Some could not agree on the kind of stone and others on the design. Finally one member after another became discouraged with the prospects of building a monument and dropped out. The last meeting was held a dozen years ago.

A thief, filled with the desire to grasp the wealth that might lay hidden beneath the foundation, made his way to the rock a few years ago, drilled a hole in the corner-stone, filled it with powder, and touched it off. The stone was split and a copper box in which coin and other contemporary articles had been deposited lay revealed. He took the money and then threw away the box with its other contents. It was afterwards found and given to Judge Nathan Harper the President of the Association for safe keeping. He took it home for the night, intending to deposit it in a vault on the following morning. His house burned down that night and the box and its contents were destroyed.

During all these years that the Association has been trying to build a monument the Rock has been visited by thousands of people and the top is completely covered with the initials of patriotic tourists, while the front is coated with numerous coats of whitewash. It has been customary by the different owners upon whom the Rock and adjacent property has developed to give it a coat of whitewash once a year to make it more conspicuous from the valley below. Last year the Rock was indebted to ex-Postmaster Wallace Vail, of Plainfield, one of the original members of the Association, for its new white coat; but this year all seems to be forgotten as no one has appeared up to the present time to give it the usual coat of white. It is at present owned by J. O. Carpenter, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A word to the monument Association. As the old Revolutionary relics are becoming more scarce year by year and and property changing hands no time should be lost at least in trying to secure the proprietorship of this wonderful spot. The State might assist in erecting the monument if the grounds were presented to the public. Let the eagle scream and the cannon boom once more, and perhaps the old patriotic spirit might revive with renewed energy.

CRITIQUE COMMENTS.

He Has a Bit to Say About the Library and the Bicyclists.

In connection with the appeal in Tuesday's PRESS for subscriptions to the public library, so-called, it occurs to me that it is not improbable that there may be some people over in North Plainfield who would willingly and liberally contribute to the support of the concern if the ban were removed which makes it cost a North Plainfielder a half a dollar to read a "public" book. When the library was being concocted and money was needed, the people in the borough were struck just as hard as the people in the city, and when the affair was finally opened with a valuable loan exhibition the people over the brook did more than their share to make it a success, and increased the book fund a lot by their little $1 a head admissions. Their reward has been to be taxed every time they care to take more than a casual squint at a book which they have helped to buy. It is not a square deal altogether, and they know it. I don't say that I am a North Plainfielder, but I know a good many far from poor people who live in the borough and who, I am sure, would be glad to help the library if they or their neighbors had a ghost of a show of being benefited by their generosity.

Last night's PRESS quotes a cyclist who says the thing for a person to do is "to pay no attention to the bicycle—to pass right on and the wheelman will see that no one is hurt. When a bicycle attempts to pass, it is specially desirable to have people walk on and not pay any attention. If they do this, no one will be hurt." Which is all right enough on paper, but I should hate to have to try it on a Plainfield wheelman, just the same. Of course, every one knows that a man who does not sport a "safety" in these days is of no account anyhow and has no rights or lefts that a man with a "safety" is bound to regard, but it does seem to me that someone ought to limit in a measure the scope of the bicyclists' license. More than once I have tried to do just as the quotation above directs, and the only reason I am now alive is that I went back on the directions in the nick of time. Once on Park avenue a member of the P. Bi. C. who was coming along at a moderate speed, in his sweetly pretty suit of grey, met my modest person at a crossing and ordered me, not too politely, to get out of his way. I was trying to do something in the line of the directions your cyclist laid down last night, and so I went straight ahead. Did he attempt to "see that no one was hurt"? Not much! He ran deliberately into my poor self and, had I not promptly grabbed his front wheel and handle-bar and turned him off into the gutter, I must certainly have perished. And then he said some things that were not nice and which we will not think of now. I suppose your cyclist correspondent knows his business and means well, but I cannot help believing that I know something about managing myself and you can put almost any money on it that I will never dare to "pass right on and not pay any attention". The insurance I carry is not heavy enough to tempt me. CRITIQUE.

Grocers Planning to Collect Their Bills.

George W. Rockfellow, of this city, presided at the eighth annual meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association of New Jersey, at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park, yesterday, and read an interesting semi-annual report as president, in which he recommended the appointment of secretaries in all local auxiliaries to facilitate the work of the State body. The Hudson county society was admitted to membership. The legislative committee was directed to prepare a bill to be called the "Wife Property bill", by which property may be held for necessaries furnished a household by the grocers. The committee was also directed to prepare a bill making the standard capacity of peach baskets sixteen quarts. Action was taken, in accordance with Mr. Rockfellow's suggestions, towards bringing delinquent debtors to terms.

CLOSE WORK IN THE SECOND.

Plainfield Makes a Good Showing at Cricket Against Paterson.

The St. George's Cricket club, of this city, played against the Paterson Cricket club, at Eastside park, in the latter city, last Monday. There were 1,800 spectators present and all were deeply interested in the contest. Considering the relative age and experience of the two clubs, the Plainfield representatives made a remarkably good showing. The Paterson club have not lost a game this season. They spoke very highly of the Plainfield players, and entertained them bountifully at the Park hotel after the game. The score was as follows:

'TWAS TWENTY-TWO, OF COURSE.

A Charming Birthday Party, at Which Four Candles Told the Age, and Where "Columbia's" Beauty Was Borrowed from the Hostess.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Harry P. Robinson, of Fanwood, gave a birthday tea to a select number of guests, at her charming summer retreat, "The Sickle", on Quality Hill.

Those present, including the hostess and Mr. Robinson, were: Mrs. Robinson, sr., Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Faulkner, of Brooklyn; Miss Hall, of Connecticut, and from Fanwood Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Gardner, Col. and Mrs. C. K. Moore, and the "Mascots", Miss Madeliene Robinson and James Moore, 2d.

The flowers were selected and arranged with exquisite taste, the centre-piece being composed of red and white pinks surrounding a star of forget-me-nots, while before each cover was placed a bank of red and white roses and in the centre of each a trio of blue nasturtiums. The birthday cake, however, was the principal feature of the celebration, and was certainly a work of art as well as delicacy. The base was in the shape of the pedestal supporting the Statue of Liberty, projecting from the sides of which were the candles, supposed to represent the age of the hostess. But they numbered only four. Above the candles, and resting upon the pedestal, was a figure of "Uncle Sam", bearing upon his head a balloon. From the side of its car gracefully leaned "Columbia", whose features were an exact reproduction of those of Mrs. Robinson.

The guests were instructed to ascertain the hostess's age from the number of candles suspended, with the understanding that all four should be used in the combination of figures, and the one first announcing it correctly would be presented with the chief souvenir, the balloon and its fair freight. Col. Moore was the first. Of course only two combinations were possible—31 and 22—and it was impossible to make the great mistake of choosing the larger figure. So the merit of Mr. Moore's achievement was really in his quickness of utterance.

The cake was cut at exactly the hour of the commencement of our nation's birthday, and it would be superfluous to add the expressions of the party at the adjournment of the tea.

Mr. Tuzo Says:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As the accoiant in your issue of the 6th inst., concerning the accident to the four-in-hand club, of Fanwood, has caused great uneasiness among various friends of the members, I beg you to give the following statement of facts a prominent place in your paper.

Mr. Gibbs was firing a Roman candle directly across the road as the four-in-hand approached. The sparks frightening the leaders they swerved sharply across the road, the pole struck a small three about four inches in diameter, and both pole and tree were broken. This was the only damage done, and the ladies remained quietly seated until the extent of the damage was ascertained.

L. E. TUZO.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Susan Peck is spending a few weeks in the Catskills.

Mrs. H. Apgar and daughter are visiting friends at New Germantown.

R. J. Swackhamer and family spent the Fourth at Springtown.

C. D. Bolce and family spent the Fourth at Bergen Point.

F. Gise and wife held a family picnic at Washington Rock. The day was perfect, and one to be remembered by all. On their way home they drove over to New Market.

Wm. Walters took possession of his property (formerly owned by John Levers), July 1. A surprise party was given to his son Herbert, Friday evening by the young people of the borough.

Sunday afternoon the W. C. T. U. held a prayer meeting in the park, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kinsie.

The morning of the Fourth the Dunellen base-ball club defeated the married men by the score of 15 to 5. It was an interesting game. The boys were treated to ice-cream by the married men, afterwards.

The afternoon and evening of the Fourth the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church held a lawn festival. There were fireworks in the evening. If there had been music, no doubt the ladies would have been better paid for their trouble.

At the Christian Endeavor excursion up the Hudson, next Tuesday, there will be music by Bartow of Bound Brook.

The Christian Endeavor societies of the Presbyterian church will hold their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the church this evening at 8 o'clock sharp. All the members are requested to be present, as important business will be brought before the society.

An Auspicious Beginning.

The first concert, as announced by the "New Market and Dunellen Vocal Union", was given in the First Presbyterian church at Dunellen, Tuesday evening. It was a delightful treat—the programme as published exclusively in THE PRESS being a particularly bright one, and of such uniform excellence as to leave the critic with nothing to do but to award due praise to all who took part.

The singing of the choruses showed not only careful practice on the part of the vocal union, but good judgment and taste in the interpretation, on the part of the leader, A. S. Roe. Especially was this noticeable in the rendering of "Those Evening Bells", the "Vesper Hymn" and a "Song of the Sea"—all of which were smoothly and artistically given. The female quartette—Miss Haynes, Mrs. Roe, Miss Livermore, and Miss Titsworth—gave a delightful rendition of "The Rustic Dance", singing it with a spirit and dash that was captivating. Miss Belton sang, "Must We Then Meet as Strangers", in a manner acceptable to all, as was evinced by the encore accorded her.

W. C. Kinsey was heard with much pleasure in his selection entitled "Rosary." Miss Haynes sang "In Old Madrid" with pleasing effect and was consequently encored. She has a clear, rich, flexible soprano voice, that properly cultivated to bring out its fulness, would place her among the leading American soloists of the day. The quartettes, both male and mixed, were happy in their selections, and received flattering marks of appreciation from the audience.

One of the delights of the evening was a piano duet by the accompanist of the evening, Miss Nelson, assisted by Miss Day. The selection was given with charming effect and spirited manner, marked with delicate shading, and delightful movement. Altogether the occasion was one of musical interest, and all felt something more than personal gratification in being present. They felt sincere goodwill, and good wishes for the highest success of "The Vocal Union", and the union's efficient leader, Mr. Roe.

SALTING A GHOST.

Novel Way of Disposing of a Bogus Spook.

JOHN P. HARTWELL, a well-known South sider, who is engaged as agent for the Rockwell & Stannifford Steam Packing Company, of New York, during the day, in an evil hour was persuaded by a friend to give up his comfortable quarters on Wabash avenue and move into a new flat building on West Monroe street. His family consists of his wife and three children. His wife's sister, an unmarried lady, also resides with them.

"It was the last place in the world," said Mr. Hartwell, in conversation with the writer, "where one would expect to encounter spooks or ghosts. In the first place the building was brand new, and according to tradition no respectable spook ever attaches himself to a place that has not a record of at least twenty years behind it. We had the middle flat. Both under us and above us the apartments were occupied by respectable people.

"The only possible fault to be found was that overhead a young gentleman habitually played the Boulanger March at all hours, sometimes far into the night. He appeared to be pleased with the tune and he was what is known in the musical world as a key-thumper. Otherwise all our neighbors were entirely unobjectionable.

"The very first day we moved in, however, the fun—if you like to call it that, though it wasn't—began.

"Trouble commenced in the dining room at nine o'clock that evening. It was very late, owing to moving, before we sat down to supper. I had been hauling around furniture and putting down carpets all day long and was as hungry as a hawk; so were we all. We had not yet completed arrangements with the gas company and the room was but dimly lighted by one lamp. The whole place had a chilly, uncomfortable air about it. I was just about to help the children when from the wall, apparently just over my head, there issued forth the most horrible, uncanny sound which ever assailed mortal ears. It was like the wail of some lost spirit, rising higher and higher, until from a degree of ear-spitting intensity it died away to an unearthly whisper.

"'What on earth's that?' exclaimed my wife, as her knife and fork fell rattling on her plate from her nerveless fingers. Little Edie broke out howling, and Jack jumped up as if struck by lightning and rushed into a dark closet. The infernal noise even woke the baby in the cradle, who howled dismally. My wife's sister turned pale as a sheet.

"I must confess I was somewhat rattled myself. However, with a good deal of coaxing and pooh-poohing, I got them all back to the table, and we finished the meal. I can't say we enjoyed it. We were not again disturbed that night, and by the morning the 'spook noise,' as we dubbed it, had become rather the subject of jest than otherwise.

"I was kept late down town that evening. On my return to the flat I found Mrs. Hartwell crying and the children terror-stricken. They had had supper at six, and at that meal had been again disturbed by the ghostly sounds. Little Edie had been so badly frighted that she had been nearly thrown into convulsions. My wife threw her arms around my neck and sobbed bitterly.

"'Oh, John, for goodness' sake take me out of this horrible place.'

"'Pooh, pooh, my dear,' I said, trying to soothe her. 'Look at the cost and trouble of moving. Besides, I've taken the flat for a year —'

"'Again that unearthly sound issued from the dining-room. I was pretty well frightened myself this time, but my rage as I looked upon the shrinking forms of my wife and her sister and heard the screams of my children overcame my timidity. I rushed into the dining-room. The ghastly wail, blood-curdling in its intensity, was dying away in hollow cadences. I searched everywhere for some hole or cranny from which the noise might have proceeded, and, finding none, lit a lantern and went down into the basement, searching the coal-bin and every place, in fact, likely to conceal a practical joker. The most careful searching, however, failed utterly to throw any light on the subject.

"Two days went by and we heard nothing further. On the third evening, however, my wife was suffering from nervous headache. Overhead the young gentleman with the red hair was playing that everlasting 'Boulanger March.' People who live in flats have no right to play the piano until nearly midnight. At the risk of making bad blood between the two families, I went upstairs, stated that my wife was sick and politely requested the proprietor of the flat to ask his son to desist. He was quite rude about it, and said that his son was studying music, and had a perfect right to play day or night. Finally the fellow almost shut the door in my face, and I went downstairs swearing to myself like a pirate. As I lay in bed that night, I couldn't sleep thinking that the red-haired musician might be at the bottom of the spook business.

"In the morning I got up early, went down town, hired a detective, and brought him back just in time to be able to point out my red-haired friend as he was getting on a street car.

"'You follow that fellow,' I said. 'I believe he's at the bottom of all this tomfoolery.' I had got so I laughed at the spook theory myself; but Mrs. Hartwell, her sister and the children still lived in terror, lest a repetition of the hideous sounds should occur. I felt quite exhilarated when I saw my detective jump on the car with the red-headed musician, in order to follow him down town. He came into my office at four o'clock in the afternoon, and I saw success written unmistakably on his every feature.

"'That's the fellow who's playing ghost,' he said. 'He works for a big insurance company. I have found out he's bragging to his fellow clerks of the nice scare he's given you all. He seems to think it a splendid joke. He's invited two friends of his up to-night to see the fun, as he calls it. The spooks will wail again this evening, you may bet your boots. Are you very busy?'

"'Not particularly.'

"'Well then, we'll go right up to your flat at once, and fix this fellow up a nice, warm reception.'

"Arrived at my flat, the first thing the detective did was to ask to be shown the dining-room, and then to request the loan of a carving-knife. I watched him as he went around thumping on the walls, with looks of sheer amazement.

"'What on earth are you looking for?'

"'I am looking for a speaking tube. Ah, here it is. See the handle of the knife has gone clear through the paper.'

"The break in the paper was directly over my head. It was just the very spot from which the spook sounds had issued.

"'But where does the tube lead to?' I inquired.

"'Never mind that,' replied the detective. 'When the spook begins to wail the red-headed fellow will be at the other end. Maybe it leads upstairs—may be down stairs. What time is it?'

THE SPOOK BALTED.

"'Half-past five.'

"'We have no time to lose. Let me have some salt.'

"Then the detective took out his pistol, and drawing a bullet from one of the cartridges carefully reloaded it with salt. This done, we went to the front window, and waited the arrival of the red-headed musician. Peeping cautiously from behind the curtain we saw the fellow creep into the basement, having first directed his friends to the stairway, up which we could hear them slowly creeping.

"'Give me a stick,' whispered the detective. 'Those fellows are waiting outside your door to listen to the fun. Now you go into the dining-room. The moment the spook begins just you place this pistol to the mouth of the speaking tube and pull the trigger.'

"'But it will kill him!'

"'No, it won't. It will only salt him—and he's fresh enough in all conscience.'

"I did as directed. Hurrying into the dining room I took my station at the table. In the passage the detective stood, stick in hand, with his fingers on the door-knob. Suddenly from the tube came the same weird, awful cry, intensified by the removal of the paper—if anything. As a spook cry it was a glorious success. I almost hated to spoil it.

"The next moment, however, I placed the muzzle of the pistol within the tube and pulled the trigger.

"I had no need to put my ear to the tube to listen for the result. While the smoke was yet curling around the opening there came from below a succession of the most unearthly howls, while cuss-words innumerable rent the air of the dining-room.

"At the same moment the detective sprang out upon the landing and found the red-haired musician's friends on their knees at the keyhole.

"Whack! whack! whack! came the heavy stick on the shoulders of the unfortunates. 'I'll teach you to frighten women and children.' The eavesdroppers, two great, hulking fellows, fled howling downstairs, where they ran full tilt into the red-haired musician. The latter was not much injured; but no doubt he got well salted, for when next I saw him he had his face tied up in a handkerchief. Of course he has threatened suit; but I told him two could play at that game. I don't believe spooks have any rights, anyhow, which a court of law is bound to respect."—Chicago Journal.

The Test.

"Is Mr. Pulliam original?"

"Sometimes Pulliam says very original things."

"But how do you know when they are original and when they are not?"

"I know they are original when I hear everybody going around disclaiming them."—Life.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

Work Has Begun on the New Two Per Cent. Bonds.

THEY WILL BE READY JULY 23.

A Report that a Revolutionary Movement is Being Organized Here.

It is Called a Treasure Hunt—Two Hundred Men Shipped With Arms—Minister Douglass May Not Return to Hayti—The Reported Resignation of United States Treasurer Nebecker Denied.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has begun the work of preparing the new bonds bearing two per cent. interest, which are to be issued in continuance of the 4 1-2 per cent. loan, and it is intended that the first installment of them shall be ready for delivery on Thursday, July 23.

The few applications already received are being recorded, and the first lots of 4 1-2 per cent. bonds for continuance will be passed through the Secretary's office on Saturday of this week. The owners of the bonds may therefore expect to receive in a very few days their checks in prepayment of the interest to Sept. 2, 1891, while the delivery of the new bonds will follow promptly upon their receipt from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The force employed on the work in the Department has been carefully organized, and it is thought there will be no delay in settling the cases as they are presented, but from the manner in which the national banks are responding it is evident that there is plenty of work ahead in the loan division.

ARE THEY FILIBUSTERS?

Government Officials Informed About a Mysterious Expedition.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—A letter has been received by a prominent government official here which appears to give color to the report that a revolutionary movement is being formed in one of our neighboring republics. The writer says that a man calling himself Capt. Annett has been engaged in Norfolk, Va., in shipping men for a treasure hunt in Mexican waters.

The captain said he wanted only 75 men, but the writer is informed that he has shipped over 200. Moreover, he has learned that the vessel which is to carry the party is now secretly engaged in taking aboard a large quantity of arms and ammunition at a port on Long Island Sound.

The writer says he does not want to get himself in trouble, and above all does not want to fight, and although he has signed to go on the expedition, he will withdraw if there is any illegal act in contemplation.

Officials here are not disposed to attach much importance to the communication, as they believe that a filibustering expedition would be conducted with more caution than appears to be shown in this case. They are also puzzled to guess the destination of the party if it should be of warlike intent, but the chances are even that it is meant to aid a revolution either in Hayti or Mexico.

DOUGLASS WILL RESIGN.

The Minister to Hayti Calls at the State Department.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Minister Douglass, who recently returned from Hayti, was at the State Department during the day but refused to discuss Haytian affairs. His business, he said, was with Mr. Foster, but declined to state what it was beyond the fact that it was very important.

Minister Douglass would say nothing about his return to Hayti, but it is stated here on excellent authority that he will resign his position as Minister to that country.

LATEST ABOUT MR. BLAINE.

He Takes a Walk but His Step Was Slow and Feeble.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 10.—After the rain and damp weather, a fine sunshiny day is much appreciated, and all Bar Harbor is taking advantage of the marked change to drive about town and along the beach. Secretary Blaine walked from his house to Clefstone, his son Emmons' new abode, at 9 a. m.

His step was slow and feeble, not quick and springy as it formerly was. He had on a thick cheviot overcoat, although the day was very warm. He wore a light, broad-brimmed felt hat. Mrs. Blaine accompanied him.

Mrs. Emmons Blaine has arranged her home in a very artistic fashion. She has it filled with antique furniture and old paintings.

Nebecker Not to Resign.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The report that United States Treasurer Nebecker was about to resign his office appears to be incorrect. Mr. Nebecker is not in Washington, having gone to Indiana last week. He will return probably on Saturday. His son said to-day: "My father has no intention of resigning, as far as I know, the office of United States Treasurer."

The White House Ladies.

PARIS, July 10.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison start for Vienna on Monday, and thence go to Berlin, being the guests of the American Ministers in those cities, Col. Fred Grant and Mr. William Walter Phelps or his secretary. The ladies will then return to London by way of Paris, and will take ship for home on Aug. 12.

Thinks Her Husband Has Eloped.

A BLOOD-CURDLING TALE.

Strange Story of a Young Boy Picked Up by the Police.

PITTSBURG, July 10.—Charlie Snowden, a bright little chap of eight summers, fell into the hands of the police about midnight, and told a blood-curdling tale in such a convincing way that he has been turned over to the Humane Society for safe keeping until the proper authorities can be heard from.

Charlie says his father is a professional thief, holding forth at Wheeling, and because he wanted to train his son as a burglar the boy fled to Pittsburg. The lad declares that his father, whose name is George Snowden, is the leader of a gang. It was their practice to use the lad to crawl through windows and coal holes of the houses they wanted to burglarize.

If he refused they threatened to kill him. Recently when the gang supposed Charlie to be asleep they one night planned a desperate burglary near Wheeling. The next day the boy heard that the old man they robbed was killed in the encounter.

Charlie wanted to tell the Wheeling police, but was afraid, so he done the next best thing and ran away. Inspector McAleese is confident the boy is not telling a fairy tale and he has taken the case in hand.

HE WHIPPED JEM SMITH.

Ted Pritchard Wins the Title of Champion and $10,000.

LONDON, July 10.—That remarkably unfortunate fighter, Jem Smith, has again met with a setback, and he is now valued at his true worth. He was made a chopping block of by Ted Pritchard, the latter winning in four rounds, although he gave away about 25 pounds in weight.

The battle was for the championship of England and $10,000, the old rules of the London ring governing, the hands of the man being uncovered, and wrestling being permitted. Smith weighed 185 pounds and was in perfect condition, and Pritchard, who was within the middleweight limit, looked as hard as nails.

From the start Pritchard had the best of the battle, and at the end of the fourth round the championship of England had been decided in his favor. It was a bloody and fierce fight, but the little man outgeneraled and outfought his powerful opponent. The latter was badly punished, but Pritchard was only slightly bruised and was fresh and strong at the finish.

YARD WILL NOT APPEAR.

He Cannot be Compelled to Go Before the Investigating Committee To-day.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—The order of Common Pleas Court No. 1 directing H. H. Yard to appear before the council's investigating committee this afternoon was served on Yard, but he will not appear before the committee.

Yard's counsel appealed from the order of Common Pleas Court No. 1, and the Supreme Court issued a writ of certiorari to bring up the records of the lower court. This means a stay of proceedings until the Supreme Court has passed upon the ruling of the lower court, and practically means that Mr. Yard will not be compelled to appear before the committee until next October.

No Scheme to Corner Wheat.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 10.—The Alliance men here profess to know nothing about the scheme to corner the wheat market. Many temporary schemes have been discussed by which the farmers would get the benefit of the advance in wheat until the Sub-Treasury plan could be tested. At the office of the "Alliance Advocate" it was stated that no such circular had been received there, and Senator Peffer declared that he knew of no such Alliance plan.

Examiner Drew Must Resign.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—Bank Examiner Drew has not yet handed in his resignation as requested by the Comptroller of the Currency. It is said that he has since written a letter to the Comptroller asking that he be allowed to continue in the service. Word was received here from Washington that the Comptroller had informed Mr. Drew that the Department insists on his resignation.

Reception to Ex-President Cleveland.

SANDWICH, Mass., July 10.—An enthusiastic meeting of citizens, irrespective of party, was held last night to make arrangements for a reception to be tendered ex-President Cleveland by the people of Barnstable County, at Sandwich, July 23. All the State officials and other prominent persons are to be invited.

A Drug Clerk's Mistake.

ROSEMONT, N. Y., July 10.—The mistake of a drug clerk at Downs nearly cost Mrs. Augustus Redmund her life yesterday. The woman sent for some valerian to relieve her of heart trouble, and the drug clerk sent her belladonna instead, of which she took a large dose. After much labor the physicians managed to save her life.

Minister Smith May Resign.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—It is understood that Charles Emory Smith while at Cape May intimated to the President that he might fill his place when convenient.

ALL SEE THE KAISER

The Guildhall Reception To-Day a Magnificent Sight.

TOUCHING ADDRESS OF WELCOME

The Royal Guests Carefully Guarded by Militia and Volunteers.

Queen Victoria Attends the Marlborough House Garden Party—A Frenchman Creates a Sensation at Albert Hall—He Was Suspected of Hissing and Roughly Handled—Forced to Cheer the Kaiser.

LONDON, July 10.—The reception of the Kaiser at the Guildhall to-day was one of the most magnificent events in the history of London. Those present included all the distinguished members of the Kaiser's retinue.

The line of procession gave a grand opportunity for everybody to see the young German sovereign. Their Majesties the Kaiser and Kaiserin went to the city from Buckingham Palace by way of the Strand, Fleet street, Ludgate Hill and Cheapside. The route was guarded by militia and volunteers, but there was no more restraint of the people than necessary to provide order.

At the Guildhall the Recorder of London read an address of welcome, in which touching allusion was made to the Kaiser's father, the late Emperor Frederick, and the Empress mother, both of whom were presented with an address by the city of London on the occasion of their marriage. The Kaiser replied briefly.

At the Marlborough House Garden party last night, given in honor of the Kaiser, Queen Victoria wore a black dress, with white tabiier, a white lace shawl and a white bonnet trimmed with small feathers. As soon as Her Majesty arrived the assemblage opened out, forming an avenue through which she walked toward the Prince and Princess of Wales, who advanced to meet her. The Kaiser, who assisted her to alight from her carriage, accompanied her to a seat. After refreshments the imperial and royal personages strolled through the grounds.

SEIZED THE FRENCHMAN.

Made to Take Off His Cap and Hurrah for the Kaiser.

LONDON, July 10.—This city seems carried away with the Kaiser. During the progress to the hall last night, while the crowd was breaking out in enthusiastic plaudits, some one thought they heard a hiss from a foreign looking individual in a peaked cap and blouse.

The fellow, who had the appearance of a French workingman, was seized by stalwart arms, and would have been badly knocked about but for the interference of a policeman in citizens' clothes who was in the crowd. As it was, he was made to take off his cap and try to hurrah, but as he could not get his tongue around the word he was let off on crying "Vive l'Empereur."

The crowd was not violent, but evidently determined not to permit any insult to the Kaiser.

The mounted troops from Aldershot arrived at Wimbledon last night and went into camp, to remain until after Saturday's review.

Buckingham Palace was surrounded all day by people anxious to see the Kaiser.

HORRIBLE FEASTING.

A Human Monster Arrested for Cannibalism in Brazil.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A newspaper has just reached this city from the State of Chihuahua, Santa Rosalio, South America, which contains a startling story of cannibalism in Brazil.

According to the article the horrible feasting occurred at Salinas, in the State of Minas Brazil, where the human monster, a man named Clemente Vieira, was caught in the very act of eating a portion of the remains of one of his victims.

The editor of the paper, Cida De Leopoldine, visited Vieira in jail and asked the prisoner if it was true that he had nourished himself on human flesh. "Yes, sir," answered the prisoner. "For some time I and my friends, Basilo, Leandro and others, have eaten human flesh, in fact, we have lived on it."

The story goes on to relate the killing and eating of several persons, and finally, when the victims became scarce, Vieira and Basilio killed their companions and devoured them. Vieira later on killed Basilio, but had only eaten a part of his body when he was arrested. The rest of Basilio's remains was found packed away in a barrel, prepared with pepper and salt.

An Old Missionary Dead.

HAMPTON, Conn., July 10.—The death is announced in India of the Rev. Mr. Bissell, secretary of the Marratha Mission in that country. He was 70 years old, and had labored as a missionary in India for 40 years. He leaves four sons, all of whom are clergymen. One of his sons, who lives here, will take his father's place in India.

ELECTROCUTION GOSSIP.

Dr Southwick Says Smiler's Face Was Not Burned in Several Places.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 10.—Dr. A. P. Southwick, one of the witnesses at the electrocution in Sing Sing prison, says that the stories about Smiler's face being burned in several places were downright lies.

"There were some blisters," he says, "caused by the heating of the salt water in the sponges, but before this water became hot the man was dead."

Dr. Southwick says Slocum and Wood were praying when they died. The others said nothing. Slocum was saying "Lord have mercy on my soul" when he received the shock. He had just said the word "my" and started to say "soul." The sibilant sound of the "s" was made, but the word "soul" was never uttered. That was a satisfactory test that death was instantaneous.

Dr. Southwick said that some changes might be made that would better the method of execution, but none that could bring quicker or more painless death. His idea is to let the man have his head free; let him be a man while living and be able to look around. The doctor has a couple of electrodes in view, and is now having them tested.

The Kaiser Will Not Come Here.

LONDON, July 10.—The news agencies have got hold of a curious bit of gossip and set it afloat. An officer of the steamship Fuerst Bismarck, in which the Kaiser and Kaiserin voyaged to Heligoland, states that the latter, conceiving a new idea, asked the Kaiser: "Would you be willing to go to the United States in the Fuerst Bismarck?" The Kaiser replied, "Do you really think we should get?" Of course it is not at all likely that the German Emperor would ever think of taking such a long journey.

H. Victor Newcomb Declared Insane.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A sheriff's jury, before Commissioner D. Austin Flint, declared H. Victor Newcomb insane. A number of experts testified as to Mr. Newcomb's delusions. His case is declared hopeless. Mr. Newcome is rich, owning a lot of realty in this city and Louisville. The income on his personal property alone is $12,000. Mr. Newcomb is at an asylum at Falkirk, Orange County, and has been there since June 9, last.

They Want Harvest Hands.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 10.—General Passenger Agent Whitney of the Great Northern road has just received an extended report from all of the company's agents in the Red River Valley and No. 1 hard wheat raising districts. The reports are general that the yield will be far ahead of any previous years. A shortage of harvest hands is reported throughout the entire locality.

Pedlars' Wages to be Increased.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 10.—The wages of the puddlers at the Central Iron Works and Chesapeake Nail Works of Bailey & Co., and the Lochiel plant of the Harrisburg Rolling Mill Company will be increased from $3.75 to $4 a ton after the 16th inst.

American Athletes Win New Honors.

LONDON, July 10.—The Manhattan athletes of New York won new honors at Tufnell Park. Remington won the 220 yards handicap from the scratch in very fast time. Queckberner gave six exhibition throws of the hammer, the two best 131 feet 10 1-2, and 122 feet 7 5-8, beating the best English record, by Barry, of 120 feet, and receiving the gold medal. Dodman finished third in the mile handicap.

Four Killed by Lightning.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—A special from Clifton, Bosque County, Texas, says that the house of S. F. Anderson, 15 miles west of that place, was struck by lightning last night and Anderson's wife and three daughters, all that were in the house at the time, were killed. The building was burned to the ground.

An Italian Steamer Stranded.

LONDON, July 10.—The German steamship Cleopatra, which recently struck a sunken rock in the Straits of Magellan, has been stranded to prevent her from sinking. The passengers and crew of the Cleopatra were saved. The steamer is fast going to pieces.

To Erect a Tin Plate Factory.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., July 10.—The United States Iron and Tin Plate Company at Kennuler Station is arranging for the erection of a mammoth tin plate factory at that place and will engage extensively in the manufacture of tin plate.

Landy Won the Pool Championship.

NASHUA, N. H., July 10.—Charles Landy of Boston defeated M. F. Doyle of this city, last night, for the 15-ball pool championship of New England and a $500 purse.

A BIG CONVENTION.

Probably the Largest Religious Union Ever Held Here.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 10.—The tenth annual international convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was called to order in the big exposition hall in this city last evening.

This convention is the largest convention ever held by the Christian Endeavor societies, and is probably the largest religious convention ever held.

The convention hall seats 12,000 people and the acoustic properties are simply perfect. The auditorium had been handsomely decorated for the occasion, flags and bunting abounding everywhere. Most noticeable of all was the Christian Endeavor motto, "For Christ and the Church," which hung directly over the stage. In front of the speakers' stand was hung the Stars and Stripes, and beside it the British flag, greeting the delegates from the United States and Canada.

Like the Crusade of Old.

Rev. H. W. Gleason, of Minneapolis, was chosen secretary, and after prayer by the Rev. Dr. Wasser, of Kansas City, Frank B. Daniels, chairman of the local committee of '91, stepped forward to say the first word of welcome. He referred to the continent-wide sweep of the Endeavor movement and to the rear guard of a million here represented by thousands. In glowing words he likened the Endeavor movement to the Crusade of old. "They fought for an empty tomb," he cried. "We fight for a Saviour's honor." He bade them "Welcome to this building, to our loved cities, to our homes and to our hearts."

The President Acts on Pardon Cases.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 10.—The President has denied application for pardon of Oscar J. Harvey, sentenced to the Albany penitentiary in 1887 for 12 years for forgery. William T. Chapman was granted remission of forfeiture recognizances. William G. Taliaferro's petition to be released from surety in six cases was endorsed by the President: "This man was professional bondsman and must pay the penalty as he has enjoyed the emoluments of a nefarious business."

Calls It Parnell's Death Blow.

DUBLIN, July 10.—The anti-Parnellites are still rejoicing over the Carlow victory. The National Press (McCarthyite) says: "The Carlow man dealt the death blow to the faction of Parnell from which there is no longer any peril. It is merely a temporary nuisance. The insolence of the self-constituted dictator has been rebuked."

Young Lamberton Free.

BUFFALO, July 10.—The case of young C. F. Lamberton of Oil City, who married a wife in Lockport last week and passed bogus checks for his hotel bills, was, by request of the complainant, dismissed in the police court here. Mrs. Lamberton and her friends made good the amount of the bogus checks.

State Prisons for Election Officers.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 10.—Judge Lippincott sentenced Harvey Speare, Thos. Trotter, Joseph K. Breckridge and Oscar Freiburg to eighteen months in State prison for ballot box stuffing in the general election of 1889. Bail was fixed at $2,500 each pending an appeal.

Drowned While Fishing.

SIMCOE, Ont., July 10.—John W. Ryerson, a prominent politician and leading lawyer of this county, and Abel Bunker, a traveling salesman, of Toronto, were fishing off Long Point, when their yacht was capsized and both men were drowned.

Marsh Skipping Around Lively.

MILAN, Tenn., July 10.—A man supposed to be Gideon W. Marsh, the ex-president of the Keystone Bank of Philadelphia, is in hiding in the woods near here. Rumor has it that he has a valise filled with money.

Democratic State Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—At a meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee, held here, it was decided to hold the next State convention at Harrisburg on Thursday, Sept. 8.

THE McLURE-NICOLAY DISPUTE.

Colonel Cook Takes a Hand in the Great Controversy.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The clubs are greatly interested in the McClure-Nicolay discussion about President Lincoln's choice of a Vice-President. Col. John Hay, who, with Mr. Nicolay, edited the biography of Lincoln, has just returned from Europe, but he refuses to express an opinion regarding the controversy.

The dispute, however, has been enlivened by the following statement made by Colonel Cook of Chicago, the man who nominated Lincoln in 1864:

"Mr. Nicolay's statement that Mr. Lincoln was in favor of Hannibal Hamlin is correct. The dispatch which is published this morning was sent to me in reply to an inquiry to Mr. Lincoln in regard to the matter. It read: 'Wish not to interfere about V. P., cannot interfere about platform. Convention must judge for itself.'

"I went to see Mr. Lincoln personally. There are always men who say that Presidential candidates prefer this man or that and they do it without the slightest authority. It was so in this campaign. It was current that Andrew Johnson was Mr. Lincoln's choice and it was my business to find out whether he was or not. We were beyond all measure for Mr. Lincoln, first, last and for all time. If he desired Mr. Johnson he could have been our choice too, but he did not.

"And the dispatch indicates Mr. Lincoln was particularly anxious not to make known his preference on the question of his associate on the ticket. But that he had a preference positively know. After my interview with him I was as positive that Hannibal Hamlin was his favorite as I am that I am alive to-day. Although he had not told me directly, he had given me data to understand.

"The fact is further proven by the action of the entire Illinois delegation, which was a unit for Mr. Hamlin, and, as I stated before, we were at his service in the matter."

A MOTHER'S TALE.

She Sends a Detective from England to Find Her Wayward Daughter.

BOSTON, July 10.—A young man accompanied by a detective from Scotland Yard called at Police Headquarters and asked for assistance in searching for Maud Eastbrook, an English girl, who ran away from her home in Leeds and had been heard from in this city. The young man is the girl's older brother.

Miss Eastbrook is 21 years of age and was the daughter of Thos. F. Eastbrook, a wealthy manufacturer of cutlery at Leeds, now dead. While studying music in Vienna she formed a liaison with Arthur Van Wart, a married attache of the English legation. The pair left Bordeaux for America in 1889, but on the voyage in a fit of remorse, Van Wart committed suicide by jumping overboard.

On arriving in this country the young woman attempted to earn a living by teaching music in a small New Jersey town. She there fell in with a commercial traveller, a married man of Portland, Me., who deserted her in Boston, leaving her penniless.

It is stated that she entered upon a dissolute life. She wrote to her father for aid, but he disowned her. Her mother, however, sent her money, and is now endeavoring to reclaim the daughter, whose whereabouts at present are unknown.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Portuguese Cortes have been prorogued to Nov. 11.

Peter White, the Jersey City saloonkeeper who attempted to kill Capt. McWilliams, the tugboat owner, in April, was sentenced to two years in prison.

The London "Chronicle's" Dublin correspondent says that owing to the partial failure of the Monsoon, ten million people are threatened with famine in Madras.

Elihu Chapin, a local preacher, was convicted in North Haven, Conn., of stealing a gold watch from Mrs. Isabel Stoors, with whom he had been living.

An explosion of malt occurred during the morning in Everard's brewery, New York. Three men were badly injured and taken to the Harlem Hospital.

Mitchell Brothers planing mill, yard and eight dwellings, together with 18,000,000 feet of lumber, at Jennings, Mich., were burned during the night. The loss is placed at $200,000.

W. J. Elliott, the defendant, took the stand yesterday and testified in the Elliott murder trial at Columbus, Ohio. Interest in the trial reached a crisis, and the court room was packed.

Postmaster Harlow, of Williamsburg, Mass., has been arrested on a warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Hasket upon a complaint of one of the post office inspectors, whose post is in Boston, charging embezzlement of public money to the extent of $1,100 or more.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—For New England and Eastern New York: Fair till Saturday; warmer; northerly winds.

For New Jersey: Fair till Saturday night; warmer; variable winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Crescent avenue excursion to-morrow.

—Boehm has a change of advertisement in to-day's PRESS

—An endless procession of buyers pass in at Peck's doors.

—Peck's push gives him the pull on popular patronage.

—The electric light poles in the borough are being painted green.

—Sixteen cars were required to take the Methodist excursionists to Asbury Park to-day.

—The Tea and Coffee Growers' Association publish a list of prices of what they are offering, in to-day's PRESS.

—Remnants of many things, in a variety of attractive bargains, are advertised for special sale at H. A. Pope's.

—The engines of the Plainfield Water Supply Company are to be started on Monday, and water is to be pumped into the stand-pipe.

—Those of our readers requiring the services of a first-class veterinary surgeon should call on L. S. Pocock, No. 39 North avenue.

—A. F. Irvine, a New York city missionary in charge of lodging-house work, will address the people at Hope chapel Sunday evening.

—The body of Sam Gibson was brought to Plainfield this morning from the Netherwood farm where he died a day or two ago, and will be interred in this city.

—The report of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture shows that it pays best to raise cucumbers, as they return $280 per acre. Sweet potatoes come next at $122.

—The turn-table at Roselle, where the yard of the Central Railroad Company is situated, was broken Wednesday night, and all yesterday the engines had to run on the Newark branch road without being able to turn around.

—The local branch of the Ramabai Association reports that the executive committee of the association has cabled twelve thousand dollars to Pundita Ramabai, at Poona, with which to pay for her college building. Twenty-eight widows are now within its walls, and the school is an assured success.

—The "Young Cuban Giants" have defeated the "Centrals", a club twice as big as they are, at base-ball by the score of 24 to 20. The batteries were: "Young Giants"—Nelson and VanLiew; "Centrals"—Randolph and Scudder. The former play a fine game and are ready to meet any team whose members are under sixteen years of age.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Butler, of East Front street, has returned from Europe.

Miss Clementine Yates is at the summer school of methods, Asbury Park.

J. F. MacDonald has been attending the grocers' convention at Asbury Park. He was registered at the West End Hotel.

Station agent Pennington, at Westfield, who was so popular among commuters, has resigned after years of service. His successor is a Mr. Wenzel.

The hosts of friends of Otto Arens will be glad to hear that he is improving greatly, every day, at Reichenhall, amid the mountains of Bavaria.

Bishop John H. Vincent, formerly of this city, was to address the Christian Endeavor convention at Minneapolis this week, but his voice gave out, and he has returned to Chicago.

A. M. Powell of East Sixth street will present a paper on "Constitutional Prohibition, State and National", before the tenth national temperance convention at Saratoga Springs, July 15.

Charles A. Reed, Howard L. Emerson, Charles Lyman, Charles C. Burnet, and Randolph M. Stelle, leave to-day for Forked River, down Barnegat way, where they will fish and fish as long as their money holds out.

The Rev. Asa Reed Dilts will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., next Sunday, and the Rev. Chas. H. Dodd of that church will occupy the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist church in this city. This will be at the morning service. There will be no service in the evening.

The New York Recorder says of a well-known Plainfield ex-councilman: "Insurance agent John M. Whiton since he has been old enough to hold a fishing rod has never been so happy as when he sits watching the cork on his line. Two years ago, however, he suddenly gave up fishing. His friends say that on his last trip he spent three hours landing a gamey roll of tar paper."

The Utility of Parlor Work.

The W. C. T. U. "parlor work," of which Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson of this city spoke before the School of Methods at Ocean Grove, Wednesday, is founded on the presumption that a great many ladies of kindly sympathies and extensive social influence are restrained from attending public meetings, or lending a helping hand in their particular environment; but they will crowd the "parlor meeting", listen to evangelistic appeals, and in time become trained talkers and consecrated workers. It is a wise arrangement to compass the best good of what are termed the upper classes in society.

THE PASTOR'S ELOPEMENT.

Further Details of the Episode at the Tappen Farm.

The Rev. George Washington Comer and Mrs. George Washington Tappen, who are accused by farmer Tappen of this city with having eloped together, as told in these columns yesterday, are now said to be at Amwell, Hunterdon county, where Comer has been put in charge of a Methodist church. Comer preached his first sermon at that place in April, and a day or two later he is said to have sent to Mrs. Tappen the following letter:

AMWELL, N. J., April 20, 1891.

DEAR PET:—I cannot tell you how lonesome I feel. I don't like it here for a cent, but suppose I must stay here a year, anyhow, as I was sent here by the Conference. I preached my first Sunday sermon yesterday. I am going to start a Sunday-school next Sunday. I shall be at the home of Mr. Breece at Metuchen some time during the afternoon of Monday, April 27, 1891, as I am back by the 20 of May to preach. It will be all right. I have been very sick since I left you. Never did I feel so unfit to stand in the pulpit as I did on that Sunday. The people here want me to bring my wife and live in the parsonage, but I have told them that I cannot do that. Oh, how happy we could be here or anywhere else, together. This separation from you seems more than I can bear. Pray for me, dearest, and don't forget to be at Frank's on Sunday. It would kill me to come so near to you and not see you. Now, my dear, don't work too hard and kill yourself. Remember that I want you soon. With much love from your loving friend.

REV. G. W. COMER.

Then followed three lines of stars, each one of which represented a kiss, and below was written "and many more if I was with you, and you know it."

After his wife left him, Mr. Tappen found this letter in one of the rooms. He read it over and over again, and then he went and told all the neighbors about it. He milked the cows himself that night, and had to borrow a pail from one of the neighbors, because all the furniture, kitchen utensils, and other household goods, had been taken away. Then he went out in the fields and wandered about aimlessly, sometimes looking at the stars, sometimes crying. When he became weary of it all, he returned to the house, where he went to sleep on the kitchen floor, with a horse blanket for a covering, since there was no bed.

Early yesterday a man went to the farm-house with a truck, and said that Mrs. Tappen had sent him to fetch her cows and all the hay that was in the barn. In an instant Mr. Tappen was in arms. He said:

"Get out, now, quick, or I'll lick you. She can have the furniture if she wants it, but she does n't get the cows."

The man went away.

Both Mr. Tappen and Mrs. Comer are quoted as saying: "Since they're gone, let 'em stay away. We don't want 'em back, and that's the end of it."

Mr. Tappen has begun proceedings to have the deed of transfer by which his property was made over to Mrs. Tappen nullified.

When Comer first came to this locality, four years ago, he found employment with one of the farmers. Soon afterwards he succeeded in winning the affections of the adopted daughter of William Bailey, to whom he was married, and who now holds the agreement for a separation of which THE PRESS spoke yesterday, and in which Comer confessed to having a wife and family in England. He went to work on the Bailey place. One child was born to them. Comer was then about twenty-three years old. When a series of special services were held in different houses two years ago he became converted and began to speak and take a leading part in the meetings. He talked fluently. During the last two winters he went to the Pennington Seminary with the idea of fitting himself for the ministry. In the meantime he conducted special services from house to house.

Presiding Elder Bruce, of Elizabeth, became greatly interested in his work, and when the young preacher took a band of twenty converts to the Metuchen Methodist church to be put on probation as the result of his last winter's labors the Elder advised that he be given a regular charge, which resulted in his being sent to Amwell.

Lawsuit Over an Accident.

Misstatements having gone forth concerning the threatened lawsuit over a recent accident in this city, THE PRESS is requested to record the facts, which are as follows. Some weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor, with a young man named Sheline, were seated on the front stoop of the Taylors' house, which is owned by Wm. Stine, when the stoop gave way, and the parties fell down a cellar-way underneath and were painfully hurt. Sheline had his skull fractured. The Taylors claim that Stine refused to pay the doctors' or medicine bills, and as they claim that the stoop was rotten and dangerous through the neglect of Mr. Stine they will, they threaten, sue him for the recovery of a sum equivalent to what the accident cost them. The statement of others that the Misses Taylor were on the steps when they fell is pronounced untrue.

Paralyzed by a Fall.

Mary Wagner, who for many years has served as companion to Mrs. Whitenack of Dunellen, fell from a cherry tree, Tuesday, and her side has been totally paralyzed ever since. She was picking cherries, and the limb broke. Her age is about fifty.

WHO WILL WIN IT?

A Very Close and Exciting Contest at Pool Now Progressing in the Crescent League.

The handicap-pool tournament at the Crescent League rooms, for two hand some prizes, is now well started, and the interest grows rapidly. Every evening crowds of members and invited guests gather around the tables and enjoy the excitement of the contests and admire the many fine shots.

The result up to last evening is given below. Each game is of 50 continuous points, and each player gives the number of points he is handicapped less the number of points his opponent gives. For instance, when a player who "gives 15" plays against one who "gives 10", the former gives the latter 5 points to his credit on that game. The record so far is:

To Teach Farming in the Schools.

It is the intention of the State Board of Education to make important changes in the country schools, so that the sons of farmers shall be educated in such studies that will be useful on the farm. The State Board of Agriculture took the matter up some time ago, and as a result of their several conferences the following resolutions were adopted and were presented to the Board of Education at its recent meeting:

WHEREAS, It is the opinion of the State Board of Agriculture that the lack of facilities for the proper education of the farmers' children is the chief difficulty in the solution of the problem of profitable agriculture; and

WHEREAS, The curriculum now established in our public schools does not demand a knowledge of the principles of agriculture on the part of the teacher, thereby making it impossible for the pupil to secure training in those branches of knowledge so essential to his life-work; therefore be it

Resolved, That this Board, through the executive committee, does hereby request that the Board of Education and the Superintendent of Public Schools in this State do introduce into the curriculum of the Normal School such studies of science as shall enable the teacher to give instruction in the elementary principles of agriculture, and that certificates to teachers in the rural districts be granted only upon their passing careful examinations upon the above subject, and that the teaching of the same be enforced by the trustees of said district school.

The Board of Education have appointed a committee to meet with the executive committee of the Board of Agriculture and to present a plan for the changes in the studies. The scope of the scheme is quite large, and will entail some important and needed changes.

Franklin Dye, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, in an interview says "that there are three things that the public schools must do to be of value to the children of the farmers. We must give them an education that will get the young in love with land and home; second, teach them how to make agriculture profitable, and thirdly, to make farm life intellectually and morally on a level with the best possible life elsewhere. It is the hope of those interested in this plan to live to see every school house in the country set in a plot of land for comparative horticulture; and to have the farmer understand that a child is studying best when he studies things, not books. Besides applied and experimental horticulture, I should take at the outset geology, botany, zoology and drawing, and let grammar, most of geography and most of arithmetic go further up in the course. Geology deals with things at home; geography with things mostly remote. Geology explains the soils, the rocks, the water courses, the minerals. Physics deals with the forces on the farm. Biology explains animals, plants, insects, flowers; all that lives on the farm and about it."

To Save Him from Hydrophobia.

A charitable woman whose sympathies were deeply aroused over the case of George Collens, the young Fellville farmer who was bitten on the nose two weeks ago, and about whose admission to the Pasteur Institute there was a misunderstanding which resulted in his returning home to be treated by a local physician, called at the office of THE PRESS to-day for directions how to reach the Collens farm. She said she intended to have the sufferers taken to the Institute, given the Pasteur treatment, and saved from the horrible death of hydrophobia. She trusted that the funds to pay for the treatment would be forthcoming afterwards, and hoped that those who could afford subscriptions for the purpose would be generous with them. She was directed how to reach the farm, and drove there in a hack.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

Gen. Fay Dying of Dropsy.

J. Augustus Fay, formerly Assistant Adjutant General of New Jersey and for ten years Prosecutor of the Pleas for Union county, is seriously ill with dropsy, at Elizabeth, and the physicians say that he will not recover. An operation was performed on him Tuesday, and six gallons of water were removed from his flesh.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Fugitive Marsh's Bail Bond.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—District-Attorney Reed filed in the United States Court the government's statement of claim on the $20,000 bail bond given by Gideon W. Marsh, the fugitive bank president. William H. Wanamaker and John F. Jones are the sureties.

Miss Cousins Out of Office.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Judge Blodgett decided the Phebe Cousins case this morning by rendering a sweeping decision against the ex-secretary of the Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair. The court held that Miss Cousins is out of office and out for good and can't get back.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

A Plainfielder on Sumper Christianity.

J. D. Spicer of this city writes to The Sabbath Recorder as follows:

The summer vacation season is upon us, and the annual scattering of our forces has begun in real earnest. In this age of hurry and rush in nearly all lines of business, on the plea of much needed rest and recuperation, this growing custom of fleeing to the mountains or the sea-shore during the hot months, seems justifiable and proper. That the religious interest in our churches is seriously dampened by this practice, some honestly believe, while others are just as firmly of the opinion that in the end it gives added strength and renewed zeal. Whatever its effect upon our spiritual condition, depends very largely upon what, as individuals, we choose to make it. If those who remain at home can be brought to feel the weight of added responsibility in carrying on the work of the church, and thus bring into play new activities and unused or neglected talents, then these changes will not be without their practical benefits. Whether those who absent themselves from the home church and influences are the gainers or losers must also depend upon their own choice. Touching this question a recent editorial in the New York Tribune is so pointed that the following lines taken from it seem very timely:

"If religion means anything at all, it means a life-long profession, a constant warfare against the powers of evil, a daily example of godly life. And no church-member can lawfully leave it behind him in the deserted city church of which he is a member. It is not simply optional with him to put himself in relation with the local church of the place where he is temporarily sojourning, it is his bounden duty to do so. But going to church is not all of religion, either in city or in country. Religion is life, and it finds its only adequate expression in conduct. The Ohristian of the city church has a golden opportunity to prove this in the summer vacation, not perhaps in any great striking way, but in the little matter of courtesy and consideration for others. But alas! he does not always make full use of the opportunity. Life at the average summer resort could be made much more beautiful and tolerable by the infusion into it of the brotherly kindness which Christianity teaches. And instead of taking any part in the petty jealousies and bickerings of watering place life, as they so often do, the city church members should be the leaders in a movement to make real the principles they so ardently profess the rest of the year."

A Plumbing Bill Ordered Paid.

Arthur M. Griffen was the plaintiff, and Chas. T. Kissam was the defendant, in a suit before Justice Nash and a jury yesterday. The claim was for plumbing done by Mr. Griffen in Mr. Kissam's house, and the dispute arose because of the difficulties into which James Hardy, the contractor, plunged himself and his customers. Hardy had the contract originally but failed to fulfil it, and Griffen took it off his hands. The evidence showed that Mr. Kissam had already made two payments—one of $150, and one of $116—on the bill. He insisted that he had never ordered Griffen to do the work, and had refused to pay anything more than he had paid, which he considered a big enough price. Judgment for the balance, $133.34, with interest amounting to $11.91, was given. An appeal will be taken. The jurors were: Frank M. Bacon, Nathan J. Laing, Noah W. Pike, Chas. Lyman, Frank P. Huff, Bernard Gray, John Johnson, Carl Peterson, J. L. Bilyeu, C. Jones, J. E. Mosher, Frank M. Dunham.

Counsellor W. K. McClure appeared for the plaintiff, and Wm. Stillman for the defendant.

A Lesson from Plainfield's "One Horn".

The Elizabeth Journal arises to inquire: "What is there about an old cannon that makes it so extremely popular on Fourth of July? New cannon are very much safer, much more easily managed, and much more satisfactory. But the old cannon are almost always resurrected, and the usual results are premature discharges, limbs lost, lives taken, or other casualties that are not so great. The last Fourth of July furnished an instance in Plainfield, whereby an old 'one horn' cannon, two firemen were maimed for life by a premature explosion. This city, too, has had its experiences. There may be something patriotic in letting an old cannon roar to-day as it roared against the British in 1776, but the sentiment does not compensate for the loss of life and limb. It is about time that the old cannon was relegated to peaceful and noiseless occupancy of a snug corner in the arsenal, there to remain for all time."

Out of the Mouth of Babes.

A very funny incident—says the Somerville Democrat—occurred at Westfield (when our boys played there), which was crowded out last week. It is too good to keep. It seems there were two little boys, seated on the grand stand, who had bet a bag of peanuts on the result of the game, the boy from Plainfield [a little son of Tee Kay] betting on the West End, and the Westfield boy backing his own team. When the game was finished the Plainfield lad said: "Well, I suppose I have lost the peanuts." "Yes," said the Westfielder, "but you need not pay them. I don't like to take them when they was n't won fairly." So it is plain to be seen that even the children could discover that the umpire was stealing the game from us.

Come, let's have a drink! Certainly, if it's Root Beer made with Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

No Matinees This Month.

The DeWolf Hopper Opera Company entered upon its ninth week of "Wang" at the Broadway Theatre, New York city, Monday evening. The opera, or burletta, as its authors term it, has certainly scored a prodigious success. The size of the audiences has been phenomenal for a summer season, and if the present average is kept up the run of "Wang" will be the most profitable in the history of comic opera, at this theatre. The beauty of the production is a source of constant delight, and stands the test of several visits. The catchy music has become very popular, and is now constantly advertised by the chronic whistlers in the community. The topical songs are never allowed to grow stale, as the verses are changed frequently in accord with current events, and their effectiveness is best shown by the many encores demanded of them nightly.

Another reason why the audiences are so large in this warm weather is undoubtedly found in the cool and comfortable rattan chairs that have been placed in the auditorium, and, coupled with the perfect ventilation, they combine to make the Broadway one of the most delightful places of amusement in the metropolis. "Wang" will run all summer, and the only tribute that his royal highness will pay to the warm weather will be the discontinuance of the Saturday matinees during this month of July.

Here's Where Syracuse Crows Over Plainfield.

Although pretty little Flora Kanmengiesser is two and a half years old, her mother does not know her until she looks at her hands. If there is a ring there, it's Flora; if not, it's Clara, who is Flora's twin sister, and just an exact duplicate of her in every way.

Mrs. Kanmengiesser, the mother, used to be Miss Emma Studer of this city. She was educated in Plainfield's public schools. Her home is in Syracuse, but she is now visiting her father, George Studer, of Arlington avenue. She went out to make a call on some old friends in Plainfield, the other day, and during her absence grandpa undertook to keep watch of the twins and see that they did n't get all mixed up. He says they kept him looking both ways at once and he was cross-eyed and dizzy for hours afterwards.

When Mrs. Kanmengiesser lived in Plainfield, one child, a boy, was born to her. Syracuse gets the credit of the twins.

The Marshal Shot at Him Fourteen Times.

In THE PRESS exclusively of yesterday, was told the story of how Mrs. George V. Tunison's pet dog attacked his mistress, tore a piece out of her apron and tried to bite her flesh. The dog was shot—but that's the most interesting part of the incident.

Borough Marshal Thomas Predominant Rutledge was sent for as executioner. The dog was chained in a coop. The brave Marshal shot at him fourteen times; and a neighbor, name Adams, shot twice, one ball going clean through the coop. The Marshal shot until he shot the chain in two, and the dog ran away. The next morning, however, after suffering all night with a wound in his leg, the dog came back home to have the execution completed. A Mr. Wilkinson was then called in, and the dog was put out of his misery.

The Rev. Mr. Dill Arrested, But Happy.

The Rev. Arthur Cushing Dill, of Stirling, has been arrested on the charge of perjury. The complainants, Wm. E. Moffett and Frank Moffett, say that the clergyman wrongfully accused them of attacking him on the street. Dill gave bail in $500.

Mr. Dill's term as pastor expired the last Sunday in June. On that occasion he preached a farewell sermon, and it is said that since he has arisen in church and sung a solo.

Mr. Dill is not going to leave Stirling. Since he was deposed he has been holding temperance meetings and having a quiet time all to himself. The old lady with whom he has been boarding, as has already been stated in these columns, is going to make him her heir, and he is as calm and happy (as he stated himself in his parting sermon) as a honey-bee in a clover-field.

A Year on the Jersey Central.

The annual report of the Central Railroad Company, just issued, shows that the length of main line from Jersey City to Phillipsburg is seventy-two miles; the total mileage of branches, 156; capital stock paid in, $18,629,200; bonded debt, $43,088,413; cost of road and equipments, $24,300,485. During 1890 four dividends of one and one-half per cent. each on par value of capital stock were paid. The receipts for the year were $7,643,126: from passengers, $2,141,677; from freight, $5,277,672; other sources, $223,776; expended in all ways, $4,636,653. There were 319 accidents on the road, and one-sixth of them were fatal.

A Plainfield Woman at Its Head.

The executive committee of the New Jersey Women's Christian Temperance Union met in Ocean Grove, yesterday, and accepted the proposed plans for the new building to be erected on the State Fair Grounds. The structure will be used by the White Ribbon Army chiefly. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson of this city, Mrs. E. A. Mickle of Middletown, Mrs. J. Demarest of Gloucester, and Mrs. E. C. Greenman of Boonton were appointed members of the building committee.

—All the local banks will close at 1 p. m. to-morrow, when the new Saturday half-holiday will be inaugurated.

The Open Sesame Explained.

Neopline—I say, Cholly, why does a fellah have to wear a necktie that he ties himself, don't you know? Why cawn't a fellah wear a ready-made necktie, don't you know?

Magalluster Junior—Cawn't you see, me boy, how it is? It's the social test, don't you know.

"Any fellah can afford to buy any sort of a necktie, cawn't he?"

"Ah, yes; but mere sordid wealth doesn't count in society, me boy. It's bwains, culture, wefinement, don't you know."

"What has that to do with the necktie?"

"Cawn't you see? Society, me boy, admits only those who have bwains enough to tie their own necktie, don't you know."—N. Y. Weekly.

A Reckless Parent.

"She said she would be a sister to me."

"How odd!"

"Very. But—I took it in good part."

"Yes?"

"Yes. Asked her father to pay my tailor's bill."

"How very odd!"

"Not at all. Explained that I was his son by refusal of marriage."

"And he—"

"Made a scene."

"Some men are reckless of all sense of obligation."—Light.

A Hint to the Wealthy.

"My health is getting worse and worse; I've tried every climate and none of them afford me any relief," said a rich New York invalid to a friend.

"I'll tell you what to do: move to Sing Sing and board at the penitentiary. There is no record of a millionaire ever having died within its walls."—Texas Siftings.

The Usual Thing.

Tailor—We expect to be a little hard up, sir, and may I ask when you will pay for this suit?

Travers—Oh, in about six months.

Tailor (to bookkeeper)—Make a memorandum to bring suit against Mr. Travers in six months.—Clothier and Furnisher.

A New Business Wrinkle.

Druggist—The manufacturers of this beef tea sell it at the actual cost of production.

Purchaser—I should think they would fail.

Druggist—Not much; they make all the imitations themselves.—Munsey's Weekly.

The Explanation of a Mystery.

Mr. Newwed—Why is it that a woman's watch never keeps good time?

Mrs. Newwed—I guess it's because if a good time's to be had the woman don't give the watch a chance.—Jewelers' Weekly.

JARDIN SWEARS IT IS TRUE.

Boarding-house Turkey (philanthropically inclined)—Tell her to turn me over, young feller. I'm better done on the other side.—Judge.

Not Experienced.

Patient—Doctor, your medicine did me no good.

Young Physician—Yes, it did. You had la grippe, and that was the remedy to give for la grippe.

Patient—But it didn't do any good.

Young Physician—Yes, it did too. How should you know anything about it? Have you ever had a diploma from a medical school?—Pharmaceutical Era.

Inferential.

He—Dearest, this is our engagement ring. It has "Mizpah" in it—that is: "God be with you till we meet again."

She—I suppose that's a delicate way of saying that whenever you're around you want to have me all to yourself. Oh, you jealous creature!—Life.

Decidedly Philosophical.

Miss F. (whose parents refuse to recognize her fiance)—If you had a daughter, Mr. Hardy, who ran away from home and married a young man, what would you do to the young man?

Mr. Hardy.—Write him a letter of condolence.—Life.

They Do Not Speak Now.

Edith (who was at Mrs. Dinsmore's party the night before)—I met Charley in the hallway last night, and he kissed me.

Maud (who was also at the party)—Yes, he told me so. He said he mistook you for me in the dark.—Boston Herald.

A Little Bit of Surprising.

Miss De Platte—Jobb, Lott & Co. have some remarkable bargains at their French prints counter.

Old Lady—Land sakes! Have these titled foreigners got to offering themselves on bargain counters? — Good News.

A Catchy Head.

"I have often wondered, Schemely, why you christened your daughter 'Mirth.'"

"I wanted to make sure of her getting married. Mirth is catching, you know."—Light.

The Star of the Combination.

Visitor (in Dime Museum, 1895)—I see nothing freakliike about you.

Freak—I'm the only man who did not go crazy about souvenir spoons.—Jewelers' Circular.

What They Wanted.

"Now, boys," said the Sunday-school superintendent, "what shall I tell you about this morning?"

"De sluggin' match 'tween David 'n' Goolier!" cried the infant class.—Judge.

A New Use.

Mrs. Cribbler—What has become of all your Cleopatra jewelry—the asps, snakes, serpents and things?

Mrs. Bibbler—Hush! Don't let my husband hear you. I have hidden them away.

"Haven't you worn them at all?"

"I wore them once, and the moment my husband saw them he rushed off to a doctor. The next morning he took the pledge. I shan't wear them again unless he backslides."—N. Y. Weekly.

An Unreliable Man.

"Look out for him," said Hostetter McGinnis, referring to a prominent Texas gentleman, "he is a hypocrite, and will play you a bad trick some day, just like he did me."

"What did he do to you?"

"What did he do? I borrowed ten dollars of him, and the double-eyed scoundrel tried to make me pay it back. Look out for him, I tell you; you can't rely on him."—Texas Siftings.

Reasonable.

"What's your favorite style of summer girl — spirituelle or massive?" asked Hicks.

"Depends on locality," said Chappie. "When we walk and drive I rather like the massive girl; but for rowing, and mounting climbing resorts, give me the light and airy girl every time."—Jury.

A Mean Plot.

"How did you ever get Henderson to propose?"

"Why, I declined to go to the opera with him one night because I was going with his friend Martin, and then I got papa to write to Henderson and ask if Martin was a man of means. Henderson came around that night."—Jury.

The Duke as an Art Critic.

D'Auber (throwing down the New Review)—What does the duke of Marlborough know about painting?

V. Schepe—Well, you must confess that his grace sold his pictures, which is more than we can do with ours.—Puck.

Medical Intelligence.

Doctor—There, get that prescription filled, and take a tablespoonful three times a day before meals.

Pauper Patient—But, doctor, I don't get but one meal in two days.—Texas Siftings.

A Grand Success.

She in Satin—Are you glad that you got married?

She in Silk—Of course I am. Why, I got three hundred and forty-seven presents.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Early Riser.

Mistress—Can you get up early?

New Girl—Early, mum? Sure I get up so early I don't have to fix the fires for the night until the nixt morning.—Good News.

Triumph of Art Over Nature.

"What a terrific thunderstorm we had the other evening!"

"I didn't know anything about it until it was all over. I was at the Wagner concert."—Puck.

A Sad Case.

Mrs. Murphy.—An' sure, Mrs. O'Brien, did your poor man die aisy, rest his soul?

Mrs. O'Brien—Indade not, Mrs. Murphy. It nearly kilt poor Pat to die.—Munsey's Weekly.

Very Large.

"Solomon's temple was thirty-six feet broad."

"No wonder he was wise. What a tremendous head he must have had."—Jury.

Sisterly.

Priscilla—Jack tried to kiss me last night, and do you know I believe he had been drinking.

Angelina—He must have been.—Jury.

All the Difference.

Totling—It's the same old European war cloud, isn't it?

Dimling—Yes; with the silver lining a trifle the worse for wear.—Judge.

A Mean Insinuation.

Mrs. Cumso—The giraffe has a tongue seventeen inches long.

Cumso—That is, the female giraffe has, you mean.—Jury.

Not a Protracted Call.

Mrs. Bunting—Lou, do you think you made a good impression on Mr. Scadds?

Lou—I'm afraid not, mamma. He left at ten o'clock.—Epoch.

Consistent Throughout.

He—She is, par excellence, a woman of fashion.

She—Yes; she doesn't even wear the same complexion twice.—Judge.

Fine Frocks and Hats That Are Offered to View.

At a Coaching Breakfast—The Fashions of Boucher and Watteau—Gay Gowns at the Races—Costumes for the Summer Ballroom.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

The smell of clover is warm in the air and there is a sound of the droning bees. The wild roses show pink under the cliffs of the Palisades, the waves roll in white and green on the beach, and if one must talk of things to wear it should at least be of parasols. There is a world of splendor displayed in the huge blossoms whenever and wherever women come out into the sunshine. They bloom bigger and brighter than ever parasols did before them, and they flaunt themselves with the same masses of lace, the same deep ruffles and the same striking picturesqueness of color one finds in the summer hats and gowns.

At a coaching breakfast just out of town on Wednesday the parasols were a study. There was one in a pale brownish cream chiffon that was composed of one deep full flounce, with a mass of crinkled shirring at the top and a huge bow of gauze ribbon of the same shade flecked with scarlet and having long sash-like ends that fluttered and swung.

With a frock of pale gray and lavender went a parasol in the same colorings. The full soft flounce of silvery chiffon was exquisitely painted with great clusters of wisteria blossoms. A dress of white cloth with embroidery in green and white sheltered itself under a parasol of white chiffon thickly strewn with daisies set in green leaves. A white cashmere frock with deep, pointed waist fringe of white silk threads went in like manner with a sunshade of alternate rows of white lace and fringe.

Upon the hats great clumps of pink and white laurel were set or loosely tied bunches of the early summer asters. Straggling sprays of blue succory trimmed rough-looking straw shapes, while others were covered with yellow St. Johnswort or wild carrot blossoms. Two or three hats of white crinoline were trimmed altogether with green leaves; one bore an oak wreath, another some fronds of the delicate maidenhair fern. A slim blonde stood up very straight and happy under a dainty black crinoline bonnet with a wreath plaited of glossy green laurel leaves; white satin strings tied it beneath her chin and she had two canes for self congratulation; the satin was cut on the cross and measured just an inch and a half in width according to the latest fashion, and it was only twelve hours or thereabouts since the announcement of her engagement to one of the catches of the season.

One is inclined to smile with more or less content at the news of the incoming of the Watteau and Boucher fashions in June, when the old-fashioned pinks are in blossom. One stem lies across my paper while I write, and on it are two pointed, gray-green buds and three of the flowers that used to border mother's garden under the peach trees. My pinks split down at the side in the good old way in which they always split, and the petals have still their irregular crimson circle. Just what they have to do I'm sure I can't say with Watteau and Boucher, but while I lift them and smell them it seems very natural to think of women panniered in flowery fabrics with powdered hair and coquettish patches making eternal picnic on the greensward. Again I lift them and shake together their long-legged, fringed petals, and almost I hear the tippety tip of buckled shoes and the minuet's stately measure. The shop windows are bright with rose-garlanded fabrics and wherever one walks the women who walk with one are sprinkled with flowers and ruched with lace from head to heel. Clearly we are journeying towards the empire of the sacque train, and pity 'tis we cannot to-day reach our destination, for if the rose petals fall and the sweet peas fade and my pinks go out of blossom, how can we ever, though we put on the panniers, bring back the spirit of Fragonard's fair ladies or revive, in this bustling life of ours, those artificially graceful days?

Yellow shot with crimson is a summer color we love, and we incline almost equally to gray with sky blue, navy blue with scarlet, and white or mauve with pale green. A young girl at a summer luncheon wore a pretty frock the other day of pale leaf green crepe de Chine figured with white meadow flowers. The trim round waist of the bodice had a yoke run with narrow white ribbons, giving an effect, as shown in the illustration, much like drawwork. A border of the same ribbon finished the skirt at the bottom and made the dainty cuffs, while the collar and girdle were of green velvet of a deeper shade than the body of the gown.

There is more doing in evening frocks than for many weeks past, because now begins the dance music in the summer ballrooms. Silk crepons are the stuffs the scissors are having their will with, and silk muslins flowered and scattered with velvet designs outlined with pearls or crystal beads. Ruchings of sweet pea blossoms or wild roses are placed about the hems of pale blue or pale pink nets or tulles, and long blossom garlands are carried about the hips and about the bust, or are fastened as epaulets upon the shoulders and trail lightly down over the arms.

A most elaborate evening frock finished on Thursday to go into a most elaborate trousseau is a low necked princess gown of a pale creamy brown faille with elbow sleeves and a short train. The back of this frock is shown in the illustration, outlined with pale yellow ostrich tips, and showing the extreme height of sleeves on the shoulders, and the succession of ripples in which they subside to the elbows. The gown opens at the side and is edged diagonally with the feathers from the waist line to the feet. It is a most effective costume for a blonde.

There have been some very smart frocks at the races. I remember two or three particularly at the suburban. There was a prevalence of soft, creamy wool fabrics, with a sprinkling of indistinct flowers and a garniture of bright silk braid on the corsage. One black silk frock had baskets of roses and immense bouquets on its front breadth, and there was a very pretty green challie frock with a figuring of wild grasses. A second black silk frock shimmered with steel cabochons, and all about the hem were garlands of flowers in steel, as if hammered into shape or finely inlaid. A shot silk of green and blue, figured with moss rosebuds, was worn with a chemisette of black lace over black satin. This, by the way, will be, the story goes, an extremely popular summer style.

A pale pink delaine figured in black was worn by a handsome brunette who drove her own trap and drove it with understanding. With it she wore a hat with brim of black crinoline straw whose crown was composed wholly of pink roses.

A cornflower blue challie was worth a word of description. It had a plain skirt with deep flounce sewn right about it, this flounce being edged with lace at top and bottom. The bodice was cut with a Swiss belt edged with lace and with lace-trimmed braces over the shoulders. Under this was adjusted a blouse of fine, white muslin with double frills of lace down the front and full sleeves with lace cuffs turned back upon the arms. The flat hat with quaintly curved brim of white chip had a huge mass of long-stalked daisies falling from the back to front over the open crown which was draped with cornflower blue chiffon.

A black lace costume perhaps indicated nothing in particular but black lace popularity. Its shoulder epaulets were fan-shaped and the narrow black velvet ribbons which started from the sides and tied across the bosom, holding the fullness in front, are pictured in the illustration. The fine Chantilly was of most delicate pattern and was used again for the bonnet, which, like the one previously mentioned, tied with white cross-cut satin strings. The transparent parasol which offered little shelter to the tall, creamy-skinned woman beneath it, repeated for the third time the beautiful design of the lace, with its deep flounce and its shirred gauze top made over thin bunting cloth.

There was a hat of white fancy crinoline trimmed with a ruche of fine white lace, caught down with gold pins. On the brim in front lay yellow roses. There were several smart hats of black straw with fancy brims and smartly arranged with white chiffon and white wings. There is no need to say there was bonnet after bonnet in the fashionable mixture of black and gold.

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

A DESPERATE FEUD

Bloody Battle Between Four Pennsylvania Families.

ALL THE COMBATANTS WOUNDED

After Exchanging Several Shots Knives and Clubs Were Used.

One Man's Throat Slashed from Ear to Ear — All the Parties Arrested and to be Arraigned This Evening—It is Feared that Bloodshed Will Result When They Meet in Court.

EDINBORO, Pa., July 11.—Edinboro, the seat of the Edinboro State Normal School, was the scene of great excitement last night. News has just been received of a bloody battle between the Sweet and Cobb families on one side and the Andersons and McGahans on the other.

A few months ago Frank Anderson was arrested at the instance of Charles F. Sweet and tried for larceny, but the prosecution failed. Since then an open warfare has prevailed between the Sweets and the Andersons, and many of Sweet's sheep and cattle have been stolen and maimed.

Warrants were sworn out, and Erie officers started to arrest the Andersons. Meanwhile Frank Sweet and Charles W. Cobb moved across the Anderson domain last night, and the Andersons—Frank, Delos and Rosell—and Ransom McGahan, another neighbor, opened fire. The fire was returned and the contest was carried on at long range for some time. The Andersons charged the enemy, and Frank Anderson fell, shot through the heart. After the ammunition was expended, fists, knives and clubs were brought into requisition.

When the Erie officers reached the battlefield they found Cobb with his throat slashed from ear to ear, but not deep enough to reach the jugular. All the parties were injured, but Frank Anderson was the only one whose recovery is in doubt.

All the parties to the feud are under arrest, and will be arraigned to-night in Edinboro. It is feared that bloodshed will result from the meeting in Edinboro, as friends are ranging on either side. All the parties engaged are from good families.

THE STATE BALL.

The Grandest Sight Ever Witnessed in Buckingham Palace.

LONDON, July 11.—The State ball at Buckingham Palace last evening excelled in splendor anything of the kind that the palace has ever witnessed. The ball was given strictly in honor of the Kaiser.

All the leading nobility of the kingdom were invited, excepting those who, from Queen Victoria's view, are under a cloud, for the invitations were submitted to and carefully revised by the Queen.

The palace was guarded by the Household troops in their striking uniforms, while the peers with their decorations, the leading officers of the army and navy now in England, and the diplomatic corps in their picturesque costumes presented a spectacle of brilliancy that some say has not been equalled since the coronation of Queen Victoria.

It was whispered that the Queen herself meant it to be the last great act of her reign in the way of official and social entertainment to a foreign sovereign, and that she had made a labor of pride as well as love to do this great, and perhaps final honor, to her powerful grandson. No expense appears to have been spared on the ball room and its approaches, and the mass of flowers and decorations was at once bewildering and entrancing. The palace, whose existence is coeval with the reign of the Queen, has never before contained such a distinguished gathering.

The Royal Quadrille.

The State ball at Buckingham Palace opened with a quadrille, in which only the imperial and royal personages took part. The Princess of Wales wore a gold-colored dress trimmed with gold spangled tulle, and a tiara of diamonds, with pearls and diamonds as ornaments. Black gowns resplendent with diamonds were much worn, the younger ladies favoring white or pale blue.

Found Dead in Her Room.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 11.—Mrs. Mary H. Nutter, a colored woman, employed as a domestic in the Warwick Cottage on South Mississippi avenue, was found dead in her room during the morning. The gas was turned on and the windows and doors were shut. Death resulted from asphyxiation. It is supposed to be purely accidental, as the woman came a few days ago from a small village named Nanticoke, Maryland, where gas is unknown.

His Store Attached for Damages.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 11.—The Globe Grocery Company's store, owned by Alderman John E. Rider, was attached last evening pending a suit for $20,000 damages instituted against Rider by T. J. Hennessey for injuries sustained by the latter's daughter on July 4 through Mr. Rider's careless handling of fireworks. The child was badly burned about the head and neck and will lose the sight of both her eyes.

Eighteen Men Were Killed.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The steamer Cyril, just arrived here from Mandas, Brazil, confirms the report of an insurrection at that place. Eighteen men were killed during the revolt. A fire was raging in the town when the steamer left Mandas. What proportions it assumed the Cyril's officers could not say.

Drowned While Bathing.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 11.—Charles Veilsbaker, aged 27, employed as cook at the Oakland Beach Hotel, was drowned last evening while in bathing. Deceased leaves a wife in New York city.

WHY ROYAL Baking Powder is Best

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation,

"the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the Purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

SOCIETY LEADERS ARRESTED.

Charged With Stealing Goods from the Government.

NORFOLK, Va., July 11.—A big sensation was created at the navy yard by the arrest of paymaster's clerk Van Vranken of the general store house, and E. W. Coster, a clerical employe of the same establishment, on the charge of stealing composition metal and other goods from the Government valued at $10,000.

The arrests were caused by the discovery in the store of a box of goods marked "Commandant of the Naval Station at Port Royal, S. C." for which there were no orders. Coster was arrested and later in the day arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Akiss at Norfolk, Va. Vranken was also placed under arrest and taken aboard the U. S. receiving ship Franklin to await court martial. They were both bonded to appear next Tuesday.

Both men are leaders in high society in this section.

TRIAL FOR MURDER NEXT.

Fitzsimmons Guilty of Robbery—The Clarks Held as Accessories.

PITTSBURG, July 11.—Ambrose Fitzsimmons, the murderer of Detective Gilkinson, was convicted of robbing Schmidt's jewelry store in Homestead on Jan. 1 last. Mr. and Mrs. Clark, in whose house the goods were found, were convicted as accessories.

Miss Cora Wyatt, the niece of the Clarks, who was also arrested, was acquitted.

The trial of Fitzsimmons for murder will begin next Monday.

The Clarks were well to do and had always borne a good reputation. Quite a social sensation was created at Homestead at the time of their arrest.

SHE WANTS $50,000.

A Pretty Young Actress Suing for Defamation of Character.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Miss Mabel Sterling, the pretty young actress, who was requested to give up her rooms and leave the Manhattan Beach Hotel, has begun suit through her attorneys, Howe & Hummel, against Simeon Leland, the clerk of the hotel, for defamation of character. The damages are set at $50,000.

The point Miss Sterling makes is that the clerk held her up to ridicule before a large number of men, injuring her good name and fame and further causing his cruel utterances to be published in the city of New York and extensively circulated throughout the United States of America and the world.

In conclusion, Miss Sterling says that in consequence of these "false, malicious and defamatory actions of defendants," she has "suffered great pain and anguish of mind, and was made sick and sore and sustained damages to the sum of $30,000 and costs."

A YOUTHFUL HIGHWAYMAN.

Sentenced to a Long Term in Prison—Tries to Escape.

NEW YORK, July 11.—John McElroy, a youthful and desperate highwayman, who robbed aged Mrs. Lowenstein on Eighth avenue on March 25, was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

He made an attempt to escape while on the way to prison, but could not get off the shackles.

Powderly Attacks Foster.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—General Master Workman Powderly has written an open letter to Secretary of the Treasury Foster of about five columns in length in regard to the discharge of the seven Knights of Labor from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The first column is devoted almost entirely to personal vituperation of the Secretary, in which he is referred to as "an artificer in political trickery," "a statesman who did not feel too small to squeeze through the narrow crevice of deception and treachery," and speaks of the "demagogue appeals to race prejudice which emanate from you."

Gov. Hill Going to Newport.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 11.—The steam yacht Fra Diavolo touched at this place to land Governor Hill and party of New York. Judge Parker of the Court of Appeals and State Comptroller Wemple are with the party. The party went to Nantucket and will rejoin the yacht, when they will go to Newport.

WANAMAKER TALKS

He Denies All the Charges Made by Bardsley.

PROBING THE BANK SCANDAL.

The Convict Ex-Treasurer's Statement Read as Evidence.

Several Charges Against the Postmaster-General, All of Which Are Pronounced Lies—Says He Did Not Force a Settlement With the Bank—Editors McClure and Singerly Brought Into the Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—The Bardsley Investigation Committee held another session, at which Postmaster-General Wanamaker attended, and testified concerning his transaction with the Keystone Bank, and the statement made by ex-City Treasurer John Bardsley to Editor McWade of the Ledger, was for the first time made public.

It proved to be an interview between McWade and Bardsley on two different occasions at the prison. In it Bardsley again went over the story of the Keystone Bank and stoutly maintained that he put the $930,000 in the bank, but did not know what became of it any more than he believed that President Marsh got it. Bardsley said that Bank Examiner Drew had been a heavy borrower from the Keystone Bank and was completely under Lucas and Marsh's thumb.

In regard to John Wanamaker, Bardsley said that Marsh told him that he knowingly held over-issued shares of bank stock and demanded $100,000 for them, and upset the plans for reorganizing the bank.

Bardsley then said that he advised Marsh to engage counsel and make a demand on Wanamaker for the over-issued shares, as he was guilty of a crime in holding them.

Marsh retained Mayer Sulzberger and John G. Johnson as his counsel, and they made a demand on Wanamaker, which he refused.

Wanamaker's proposition was that the Lucas estate should pay him $50,000, Marsh $25,000 and the bank $25,000.

The lawyers then notified Mr. Wanamaker that if the fraudulent shares were not delivered to them at a specified date they would resort to legal means to get them.

The shares were then turned over without delay. Wanamaker made a threat that he would see Comptroller Lacey in Washington and have the bank closed before they expected it.

In March, 1890, said Bardsley, Marsh came to me and said that Wanamaker wanted $200,000 at once. Marsh told him that he didn't have that amount on hand, and Wanamaker told him where he could get it. Two days later Marsh came to me, saying that Wanamaker was persistent and must have the money. I loaned it to him and Wanamaker got it.

Editors in the Mess.

Bardsley also talked a great deal about his connection in the part with several prominent Philadelphians, and blamed them for the stand they had taken against him. He is accredited by Mr. McWade with having spoken of Col. McClure, of the Times, and William Singerly, of the Record, in the following terms:

"When I was a candidate for city treasurer I called on Col. McClure and told him everything in connection with my past life and said that if he would say so I would withdraw. He said: 'Go ahead. The Times will be for you.' But he weakened afterwards. You remember the scheme to get the gas works from the city. Well, McClure was in that. McClure was to get a big block of the stock for his advocacy in his paper and was not to pay a cent for it. McClure was also in a number of other schemes."

The remainder of the statement was simply a long story of Bardsley's troubles given in his own words with numerous comments, all of which contained no new facts.

Yard Refused to Appear.

H. H. Yard, who was then called did not respond, and a communication was received from his counsel stating that his case had been appealed to the Supreme Court.

The committee voted to instruct the city solicitor to take measures to compel Yard to obey the order of the lower court and appear before the committee.

Mr. Wanamaker's Testimony.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker, who had entered the room while Bardsley's statement was being read, stepped forward and requested that he be allowed to testify.

"I have," said he, "been anxious to appear ever since the question was raised regarding the stock of which I previously testified."

Bardsley Story Pronounced False.

He was asked to give an account of what transpired between he and Marsh at Washington, and did so, stating that he had asked him to assist the bank and he declined, saying that matters must take their course. Mr. Wanamaker said that the balance of his account in the Keystone Bank at the time of the run was $10,000 and when it closed it was much larger. As to the story told by Bardsley to McWade that he had threatened to close the bank unless he was paid for the over-issued stock, and that Lawyers Sulzberger and Johnson had forced him to return it, Mr. Wanamaker said it was absolutely false.

Bardsley's statement that Marsh obtained from him $200,000 for Wanamaker in March, 1890, he said, was absolutely untrue and without the slightest foundation, and he invited the committee to inspect his books.

In closing his testimony, Mr. Wanamaker read letters from Comptroller Lacey and Assistant Secretary Nettleton, to show that he had never influenced or delayed the appointment for an instant of a receiver for the Keystone Bank.

GEN. McCLELLAN IN BRONZE.

An Equestrian Statue of "Little Mac" to be Erected in Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—In an obscure building near the War Department there is now being modeled a colossal equestrian statue of Maj.-Gen. McClellan, which will, when finished in bronze, be erected upon a pedestal at the northwest corner of the city Hall in Philadelphia, and opposite to the Pennsylvania Railroad station.

This statue, when cast, will cost $30,000, and is being made for the McClellan Memorial Association of Philadelphia. The horse will be 21 feet long, including head and tail, and the body will be 8 feet, 9 inches in length. The work is being done by Mr. H. J. Elliott, the new chief modeler of the architect's office of the Treasury.

Test it Yourself.

Test it for Purity. Cleveland's Baking Powder is perfectly pure. The same claim is made for powders adulterated with ammonia and alum, but you can settle the question yourself. "Boil a teaspoonful of the baking powder in a teaspoonful of water; if adulterated the smell of ammonia can be detected in the steam."

Test it for Strength. Cleveland's Baking Powder is the strongest. It is the most effective and economical. Try it. A teaspoonful of Cleveland's will do more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of other powders.

Test it by Results. Food made with Cleveland's keeps moist and fresh for days, but if made with others soon dries out and becomes "husky." Cleveland's leavens evenly, making fine grained, delicately fibred breads and cakes, results produced by no other leavening agent.

Cleveland's Baking Powder Stands all Tests.

A RADICAL CHANGE

The Postoffice Department to be Reorganized.

SURPRISE FOR OLD EMPLOYES.

The Appointment Division to be Taken from the First Assistant.

He Will Now Become Acting Postmaster-General—Changes in the Offices of the Second and Third Assistants—Another Report that Secretary Noble Will Resign to Take a Circuit Court Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Postoffice Department is about to have a cyclonic reorganization. In the first place, and most unexpected, the appointment division will be taken from the office of the First Assistant Postmaster-General and delivered over bodily to the Fourth Assistant, whose office was created by law, to take effect July 1.

From the creation of the office of First Assistant Postmaster-General until the present the First Assistant has had charge of all appointments of postmasters. There are now upward of 63,000 fourth-class postoffices, giving employment to upward of 150,000 persons, exclusive of the star route employes who serve those offices with mail.

The oldest employes of the department are surprised over the severance of the appointment division from its moorings in the First Assistant Postmaster-General's office. It is a radical move to make, they say.

The First Assistant Postmaster-General must cease to be the headsman. He must be acting Postmaster-General a great deal of the time. He must be able to receive the overflow of the daily throngs of visitors to the Postmaster-General, and must have authority to attend to his business. In order to do this he must be freed from the drudgery and toil of examining fourth-class postoffice cases for appointment, changes of site, allowances for rent, fuel, light and clerk hire. He must be freed from the annoyances of the free delivery system, which, as it grows in extent, grows in trouble rather than in grace.

The First Assistant Postmaster-General will thoroughly understand the policy of the administration and the methods of the Postmaster-General, and then he will go ahead without detailed instructions.

The chief clerk of the department will report to the First Assistant upon all matters of departmental business, instead of, as heretofore, taking up the time of the Postmaster-General with petty details.

Other changes will occur in the offices of the Second and Third Assistants Postmaster-General, which, taken as a whole, will make an almost entirely new department of that executive branch of the government.

WILL HE LEAVE THE CABINET?

Another Report that Secretary Noble Will Resign.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A letter just received by a prominent Republican here from an ex-Congressman from California contains the following:

"Secretary Noble will retire from his department and accept a United States Circuit judgship. No doubt the latter position would be more agreeable to him, but I am selfish enough to hope that he will yet be prevailed upon to remain where he is, for he is the only man who has had the courage to fight the California land frauds."

BLAINE IS IMPROVING.

His Family Say There is No Truth in Recent Reports.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 11.—Mrs. Blaine says the report that Secretary Blaine is sinking and that the doctors have no hope is utterly false and without any foundation whatever.

Emmons Blaine says that his father is steadily improving, as every one who sees him riding and walking about the streets of Bar Harbor knows, and there is every apparent prospect that he will be a well man by the end of the summer.

A Mother's Awful Mistake.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 11.—A boy and girl, twins, aged 6 weeks, children of Henry Koehel, a farmer of this county, were found dead last evening from an overdose of laudanum given them by their mother for colic.

GLASSBLOWERS TO MEET.

They May Leave the Knights of Labor and Join the Federation.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—The General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor are very solicitous about the meeting of National Trade Assembly No. 143, K. of L., comprising the glass-bottle blowers of the United States and Canada, which meet in St. Louis on Monday.

It is said that demands for certain changes in the existing scale of affairs will be made that will create a revolution in the trade.

The "American Manufacturer" says there is a disposition to shorten hours and to do away with the old rule making but a half day Saturday. The tank furnaces are to shut down at 5 p. m. on Saturday instead at midnight as at present.

California will submit a proposition to limit all glass blowers to $30 per week.

The admission of other foreign glass blowers into the association will be another subject to be discussed.

The bottle workers and window men are at variance on this matter. The latter encourage foreigners to join their union.

The Western bottle men propose to advance the item on wine bottle schedule from $1.58 to $1.70 per gross.

The bottle workers will endeavor to sever their connection with the Knights of Labor and join the American Federation of Labor combination with the American flintglass workers.

The Wage Committee has been invested with full power by the Western Flint Manufacturers Association to act in the conference with the Wage Committee of the American Flint Glass Workers.

THE ITATA'S CARGO.

Fifteen Thousand Stand of Arms Were Transferred to the Esmeralda.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 11.—Second Officer Taylor of the Itata has made a statement which, if true, clears up the mystery of the disappearance of the greater part of the arms and ammunition which the Itata took away from San Diego, but did not have on board when she was turned over to the United States at Iquique.

Taylor, it is claimed, while drinking in a saloon, bragged of the shrewd trick Capt. Menzies played on the Americans, and said the transfer of 15,000 out of 20,000 stand of arms was made from the Itata to the Esmeralda far out from the coast of Mexico. The place was settled upon beforehand, but the Itata cruised about the ground for several days before the Esmeralda showed up. When the Chilian cruiser appeared, the transhipment was made by means of the Itata's whaleboats.

Besides the arms the bulk of the ammunition was transferred and the Itata then shaped her course for Chili which kept her clear of the usual course of vessels.

It is probable that Marshal Gard has an inkling of these facts on which he will press suit for violation of the neutrality laws.

Bit Through Both Wrists.

Edward McCann, of West Third street near Liberty, was bitten in both wrists, at Bound Brook, yesterday, by a cur supposed to be mad. The dog had attacked a number of other dogs, and was being led along behind a wagon out of town to be shot. McCann, who is a tinsmith, was on his way to work on a job in Bound Brook. He was crossing the track when he met the dog. He stooped to pat him on the head and the dog seized McCann's right wrist between his teeth. As McCann grabbed the dog by the neck to pull him off, the animal turned and bit through the left wrist. Dr. Compton cauterized the wounds, and the dog was shot.

THE FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Netherwood Ladies Give a Charming Progressive Euchre Party.

HOTEL NETHERWOOD, July 11.—The initial subscription progressive euchre party was given last evening, in the grand parlor of the hotel. At 9 o'clock sharp the call bell sounded, and sixty subscribers entered the parlor and seated themselves at the tables provided for the occasion. The beautiful prizes were on exhibition previous to the game.

To Mrs. Williams belongs the credit for the exquisite taste displayed in their selection. It was a brilliant assemblage and thoroughly enjoyable. Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Crossman, Mrs. Balch and Mrs. Schafer, suggested the affair, and under their excellent management it was brought to a most successful conclusion. The following were the winners:

Mrs. Scott, Royal Worcester salad bowl; Mrs. Eaton, cut-glass pitcher; Mrs. Jordan, silver-bon-bon spoon; Mrs. Whitney, photo case; Mr. Benary, umbrella; Mr. Williams, cut-glass decanter and wine glasses; Harry Martin, dressing case; Frank E. Miller, consolation prize, decorated china cuspidore. The event closed at 11. A vote of thanks was tendered to the fair managersses, after which the participants adjourned to a light luncheon, provided by proprietor Miller, in Parlor B.

PLAINFIELD'S DEATH RATE.

It Is Still a Small Percentage, as Compared With That of the State.

The annual report of the State Board of Health, on vital statistics, just issued, shows that during the year ending June 30, 1890, there were 15,564 marriages, 30,103 births and 28,530 deaths in the State. The greatest number of marriages were in Camden county, and the most births and deaths were in Hudson county, although in the matter of births Union county lacked only a few hundred of being in the lead. Union county was third in the number of marriages, though less than half the number of happy couples that were married in Camden county were joined in wedlock in Union county. But Union is n't a Gretna Green.

The death rates in the various counties are given as follows: Atlantic, 17.67; Bergen, 15.25; Burlington, 14.61; Camden, 21.60; Cape May, 15.47; Cumberland, 16.06; Essex, 23.89; Gloucester, 16.20; Hudson, 25.72; Hunterdon, 15.78; Mercer, 18.06; Middlesex, 15.68; Monmouth, 15.86; Morris, 15.33; Ocean, 14.97; Passaic, 20.04; Salem, 15.27; Somerset, 15.58; Sussex, 10.48; Union, 17.56; Warren, 14.40. The average in the State was 19.80.

In cities of over 5,000 population the death rates were: Atlantic City, 20.01; Bordentown, 18.43; Burlington, 18.30; Camden, 23.15; Gloucester, 18.89; Bridgeton, 17.70; Millville, 19.48; Newark, 27.26; Orange, 24.50; Bayonne, 20.37; Harrison, 27.67; Hoboken, 25.62; Jersey City, 25.96; Union, 22.42; Trenton, 17.35; New Brunswick, 17.71; Perth Amboy, 17.41; Long Branch, 14.66; Morristown, 19.91; Passaic, 16.81; Paterson, 21.87; Salem, 17.60; Elizabeth, 19.30; Plainfield, 16.89; Rahway, 19.32; Phillipsburg, 14.96.

The total death rate from consumption for the State, as compared with the total deaths, is 12.96 per cent. The number was 1,903 males and 1,766 females.

Of the 28,530 deaths in the State, 10,583 occurred from chief preventable diseases, or 37.09 per cent. From the more common causes there were 3,804 from acute lung diseases, 2,032 from brain and nervous diseases of children, 1,945 from diseases of heart and circulation, and 2,308 from adult brain and spinal diseases.

The reports from the local Boards of Health in Union county were to the effect that the general health was better than in the previous year.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

THE OLD "ONE-HORN" IN WAR-TIME.

Interesting Reminiscences of the Revolutionary Day When New Jersey Farmers Captured the Famous Gun from the Hessians.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In the account of the sad accident recently caused by the premature explosion of that old relic, the "one-horn" cannon, which I find in some of the papers, an attempt is made to give a history of the cannon which is not correct, and for the benefit of those who are the sons and daughters of Revolutionary sires, and who clip from papers for their scrap-book all interesting articles historic, I write the following, which I believe to be correct.

Westfield township comprised Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Cranford, and Westfield proper, and was first named as the "fields west of Elizabeth borough" in 1673.

Early in the morning of June 6, 1780, when the surrounding county back of Elizabethtown was aroused for the cause of its county's liberty from British tyranny, its wives and daughters of the hardy yeoman were in peril and its property in danger of being pillaged and burned. It was known that the British troops had landed, and word was sent to the signal posts, as Gen. Washington was near Dunellen Rock (now called Washington Rock) with some 300 regulars. The British troops, under command of Major-General Knyphausen, advancing from Elizabethtown, were composed of about five thousand infantry, a large body of cavalry, and fifteen pieces of artillery, of which this identical old horn cannon was one. They marched rapidly, one column on the main road towards Springfield, another towards the old Westfield road, passing through Roselle and Cranford. The citizens of these hamlets were called out by the peals of an old church bell, and it being a clear morning, this could be heard at a distance as well as the discharging of minute guns. A letter relates "that as the Hessians landed from Staten Island on Wednesday, the 3d, and made their appearance, they threw up a couple of breastworks. Urgent appeals were made for men to defend their homes against these disciplined troops. Gen. Washington was made aware of the distressed condition of the inhabitants, and sent word asking the help of every man all were summoned to defend his country. The families of the Meekers, Cranes, Marshs, Earls, Kembells, Jeffrys, Davises, Piersons, Coreyalls, Kytes, Conants, Millers, Forces, Bakers, Hetfields, Ogdens, Rosses, Elmers, Corrys, Barnets, Langes, Mannings, Ludlums, Denmans, Forsters, Wilcoxes, Balleys, Edwardses, Hunts, Swains, Bownes, Jenningses, Dunns, Frosts, Spinnages, Highs, Yeomanses, Terrys, Woodruffs, Craigs, Fatitutes, Hindses, Robinsons, Haineses, Runyons, Valls, Cartiers, Terrels, Downers, Stitesses, Bryants, Mooneys, Frazees, Williamses, Scudders, Dunhams, Ackens, Blackoys, Titsworths, Headleys, Daytons, Balls, Rynos, and a few others, gathered together, with Captain Elzakim Little in command, around their country's flag, resolved to throw off the oppressing yoke of Great Britain and protect their families and firesides. Soon news reached them that Springfield was in ruins. The citizens of that village struggled bravely, but, overpowered by superior numbers, were obliged to retreat, and the enemy fired the town and destroyed it. A detachment of the enemy with the old horn cannon visited the farm then occupied by the father of Deacon Henry Baker. The officer in command asked for a drink of cider, and promised protection to the family if the wants of himself and his men were supplied. Finding themselves unmolested, they became boisterous and insulting. Capt. Little and a few picked men hid themselves in the bushes close to the house to watch, and, if necessary, to render the family assistance, and when one of the men approached Mrs. Baker and forced her at the point of the bayonet to the wall of one of the rooms of the old homestead [still standing], the Captain fired and seriously wounded this Hessian officer.

Being driven from this place, the Hessians approached the Presbyterian church, intent on seizing the old church bell [which was made from contributions of old family silver]. Their advance was contested foot by foot, but the citizens were finally compelled to retreat, and the enemy captured the bell. In retaliation for this, Capt. Asariah Clark and William Miller captured the old horn cannon, and during the struggle for its capture one of its arms or horns was broken off, after which it was called "the one-horn cannon, the old cannon that was exchanged for the old church bell." In the conflict the enemy captured William and Asariah Clark, two brothers, and Noah Miller. They were taken to New York and confined for some time in what was called the old sugar house prison. During their confinement they heard a bell ring which from its peculiar tone they recognized as the Westfield bell, and on their release they captured it and brought it back to its original position. During its absence the residents were notified of the approach of danger, and important events were duly celebrated by the thunder of this old one-horn cannon. It is the same one that gave such loud appeals on the village green during the troubles between North and South, when the inhabitants of Westfield were aroused in 1863. It was never in the war of 1812, and I regret that it has been removed from its rightful home, Westfield, where it has been held sacred, and it is no honor to that fire company in Plainfield who hold it in possession. It belongs to the descendants of Major William Clark, who can honestly claim it.

Major William Clark [before mentioned] I can remember, in his old age, telling of the events happening during our struggle with Great Britan. He was an imposing-looking man, standing over six feet in height, and to have seen him as with care over his shoulder he recounted the events of the past, and told of the pluck of the fathers of that day, was a thing not easily forgotten. He died at his old homestead where he had resided for nearly a century. The inscription on his tombstone reads:

Sacred to the Memory
of William Clark, Esq.,
who died Sept. 22, 1802,
Aged 87 years, 3 months, and 11 days.
Companions here we lie,
Entombed beneath this stone,
Till Christ shall bid us rise,
And to the Judgment come.

Young men of Westfield, the old relic is honestly yours, and we regret that it is not in your possession. Perhaps now it will magnamiously be returned to its proper home. C. A. LEVERIDGE.

He's a Bachelor and a "Little Giant".

The Rev. C. H. Dodd, who preaches at the Park Avenue Baptist church, to-morrow morning, has quite a reputation as a free and independent thinker among the Baptist brethren. Called to the wealthy Baptist church in Mt. Vernon, New York, a year ago, he found among his congregation two Doctors of Divinity, former pastors of the church, to whom the new ideas he brought were not always acceptable. Some of the older members sided with the old pastors, but the younger portion backed the young minister successfully, and what promised to be an exciting episode in the Baptist church of Mt. Vernon, has ended in "The Little Giant"—as they call him—coming out with colors nailed to the mast-head, feeling well-nigh invincible. He is a graduate of Hamilton—now Colby—University, and a bachelor.

Fire at Dunellen.

Locomotive sparks set fire to the barn of Matthew Ageney, at Dunellen, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the building and its contents were destroyed. A horse was so badly burned that it had to be killed. A wagon also was destroyed.

Burglars in the Borough.

Burglars broke into the store of R. W. Rice & Co. through a rear window last night and got $3 and some cents out of the cash box.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

The President's Big Catch.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 11.—President Harrison and party, comprising the guests of the summer White House, were out to the fishing banks to-day on the revenue cutter Hamilton. Five hundred handsome black bass were trophies of their skill. The President caught 46, Mrs. Harrison 37, and Master Ben McKee landed 6 and started the engine of the cutter.

Corbin Out of Jersey Central.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Austin Corbin admits the truth of the report telegraphed from Philadelphia that he had resigned as a director of the New Jersey Central Railroad. He says that he has closed out all his holdings in that company, and that it would therefore be improper for him to continue in the board. The resignation will be acted upon at the August meeting.

This list will be furnished subscribers at the rate of $5 a year in advance. The list will be furnished collectors of customs and postmasters at offices receiving foreign mail.

Discharged for Lack of Evidence.

MALDEN, Mass., July 11.—Dr. Nathan N. French, charged with criminal malpractice upon Isabella Huntley, and Hannah Sutherland, an alleged accessory thereto, were discharged, owing to insufficient evidence. Several weeks ago the Huntley girl disappeared, and the police have since been unable to find any trace of her.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!
Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as
The Royal Tooth Powder,
for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.
To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

AN ANSWER TO THEIR CRY.

What Plainfield People Are Doing to Save India's Helpless Children from Poverty, Cruelty, Wrong, Degradation and Shame.

The fourth annual meeting of the Ramabai Circle was held in the Unitarian rooms Friday afternoon. An unusually large number of members and friends attended. At the request of the president, Mrs. S. J. Taylor, the chair was occupied by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

In opening the meeting the chairman stated the reason for changing the date of the anniversary from autumn to the present time. It was done, he said, at the request of the parent Association, which had changed the time of its annual meeting from November to March 11, the date on which Pundita Ramabai's school in India was opened.

The secretary's report stated that the membership of the Circle was sixty-six, ten of whom had joined as life members. Some of those enrolled, the report added, had not understood that the one-dollar pledges, made at the founding of the Circle in 1887, were intended to bind the contributor to give that sum, annually, for ten years,—a period sufficiently long in the judgment of Ramabai to enable her school to become self-supporting. On account of this misunderstanding, the original list of members had been reduced to the number reported. Those joining the Circle now, or hereafter, pledge their support during the remainder of the decade that ends in 1897.

The report embodied a sketch of Ramabai's work for the past year, gleaned from her own report to the Ramabai Association and from the report of the executive committee of the Association. Among other things Ramabai says: "This second year of the existence of the Sharada Sadane [the name given to her school] has been very interesting to us in a great many ways. One of the great events which has taken place is the transference of our school from Bombay to Poona. I am glad to say that we have twenty-six child widows in the school, of whom twenty-four live in this house and two attend the school as day scholars. We have also thirteen non-widow girls, of whom ten live in Sharada Sadana, and three attend the school daily. I wish some of you could come here and hear the young widows' sad stories as told by them in their own words. It is impossible for me to reproduce the sad word-picture of them drawn by themselves. But they are one and all happy now, and looking forward to the day when they will be well-educated and able to help their sister widows by establishing more homes and schools like the Sharada Sadana. All the girls are taught to respect manual labor, wash their own garments, wash their dishes, make their beds, and do every other work for themselves. Housekeeping, good manners, cultivation of habits of cleanliness and tidiness, and helpfulness to each other, are parts of their training."

The secretary gave several very interesting extracts from the report of the executive committee, made at the annual meeting of the parent Association, held in Boston, March 11, 1891. One paragraph should be literally quoted, as it deals with a mean and widely circulated rumor that Pundita Ramabai was squandering the funds raised for her school, which in fact she has not had the control of a penny of them. Respecting this matter, the committee says: "This Association was formed at Ramabai's request to be her strength and her protection both here and in India. It was her wish that it should have entire control of the funds given to her cause. She put into the treasury those she had herself collected here. Notwithstanding this, notwithstanding the well-known fact that not a dollar of the funds is sent to India without the vote of the executive committee and the approval of the trustees, Ramabai has not wholly escaped unjust criticism and cruel misrepresentation. What great work ever proceeded without them?"

Continuing, the committee congratulates all the Circles on their great success in retaining and increasing an active interest in Ramabai and her work. The results, it says, are abundantly seen in the satisfactory reports of the treasurer and corresponding secretary. These show that there are fifty-seven Circles in the country which contributed about $6,000 last year. This makes the total contributions from the founding of the Circles to March last, $46,008.65. Of this sum $17,418.35 have been expended, leaving a balance of $28,590.20 credited largely to the building and scholarship funds.

Ramabai's cause, says the report, "is an answer to the cry of millions of India's helpless children to be saved from poverty, cruelty, and wrong, from lives of degradation and shame. When this humanitarian and Christian work, inaugurated by this one self-consecrated woman, is accomplished, a wider good than the elevation of one people will have been done in the binding together of nations in sympathy and co-operation."

A discussion followed the secretary's report upon the necessity of extending the influence of the local Circle. It was also urged that all dues now payable be collected at once, and the president was delegated by the meeting to secure this result.

During the progress of the meeting remarks were made by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the Rev. Hobart Clark, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Tweedy, and others. That the interest in Ramabai's work is growing in this place was evinced by what was said as well as by the larger attendance, in contrast with previous meetings, and by the additions made to the membership of the Circle.

MISSED THE BAPTIST FUNDS.

Professional Burglars Work Westfield in Broad Daylight and Take Only Money, Solid Silver and Jewelry, but Overlook the Sunday-School Treasurer's Cash Box.

While most of the inhabitants of Westfield were away up the Sound, yesterday, enjoying the excursion of the Methodist, Congregational and Episcopal Sunday-schools, a pair of professional burglars entered the residences of Edward N. Brown, on Elmer street, and John W. Nelson, on Spring street.

It was all done between noon and two o'clock. Somebody who was awake in town, saw two strange men around about that time. The Brown house was entered by prying up the dining room window which was reached by standing on the cellar door beneath. Two dozen silver spoons, family heir-looms, were taken from the dining room, but the plated ware was not touched. The burglars roamed through every room in the house, turned every bed upside down, and broke open Mr. Brown's desk and scattered its papers all over. Two diamond pins left sticking in a cushion, were overlooked, and Mr. Brown's cash box containing the funds of the Baptist Sunday-school of which he is the treasurer, also escaped although the burglars had a number of times walked around where it stood on the floor under the corner of a bed.

The entrance to Mr. Nelson's house was effected, as the marks show, with the same jimmy. A front window concealed from the street by a vine covered trellis, was pried open. A gold watch presented to Mrs. Nelson at a fair of the colored Baptist church, was taken together with $157 in bills and gold. This sum represented Mr. Nelson's hard-earned savings for months. Neither his wife nor mother knew he had it, as he was carefully laying it away, month after month, so as to be prepared for sickness or misfortune.

There are no traces by which to secure the burglars.

Mrs. Shepard Renews Her Patronage.

The quarterly meeting of the Scotch Plains Public Library Association was held at Excelsior Hall, in the library rooms, Thursday evening. Although the weather was stormy there was a respectable attendance. The library was shown to be in a prosperous condition financially, having nearly $600 in the treasury. Several donations were acknowledged, among them one of $100 from Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, a constant friend of the library. Mrs. Shepard has also renewed her subscriptions to the numerous magazines which appear upon the reading room tables. The attendance for six months has been 2,193, the number of books drawn is 591. There are 129 persons holding cards entitling them to draw books. The average attendance is at present about 20. Miss Meard for the house committee reported that a meeting of ladies had been recently held, and steps taken for holding a fair in the month of October for the benefit of the library. That much interest is being taken in the project, as new books are being called for, and it is felt that the number of volumes for circulation should be materially increased. About one-half of the books upon the shelves are books of reference, etc., which under the rules must be read at the library rooms and cannot be borrowed.

Dunellen Dots.

[From The Bound Brook Chronicle.]

In the Middlesex courts at New Brunswick, Thursday, Michael Lee, a tramp, pleaded not guilty to the charge of assaulting Mr. Winges of Dunellen, and his trial was set down for July 24.

Will Dunham has given up his position as brakeman with the Central and is now firing for Fred. Wilcox on engine No. 200, which does the shifting for Dunellen and Plainfield. It has been Mr. Dunham's desire for a long time to be a fireman and eventually rise to engineer. His father, Jerry Dunham, has been an engineer on the road many years.

The railway company has the gates at the Washington avenue crossing in working order, and a man is stationed there to flag trains. Now all of the crossings are guarded except South avenue, which is not used as much as the others. The Washington avenue crossing should have had the gates before this, as it is one of the most dangerous in town, and those who have to cross it daily were relieved when the gates were put up.

Somerville Expects a Brilliant Game.

[From The Harlingtown Democrat.]

Saturday, July 18, we play the Crescents in Plainfield, and it will be a game for blood in every sense of the word. They have been working Taylor, their "phenom pitcher", nearly every day, and it is said he is developing wonderfully and getting rid of the long-drawn-out delivery that allowed the base runner such a chance to steal. Then again he has a man behind him who can hold him—Bonner. A great game is surely to be played. We want a big crowd to go with us to show the Plainfielders "who the people really are", and as on that day there will be no game in Somerville, next Saturday's game ought to bring out a great crowd.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

Sunday-school, 9:30 morning prayer, litany and sermon 11; evening prayer, 4:30 p. m. Two free stages leave the railway station on North avenue, every Sunday morning at 10:30, for the church. The route of one is up Broadway, the route of the other up Putnam avenue. The stages return to Plainfield at the conclusion of the services.

The First Church of Christ will meet Sunday at Vanderbeck's hall. The Lord's Supper will be administered at 10:30 a. m., and the Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 p. m. At 4:15 o'clock the church will hold an open air meeting in Berry's Grove on Grove street, near the bridge. Evening service will be held at 7:45, theme will be selected. The Young People's Christian League will meet Wednesday evening. Friday evening a prayer meeting will be held. All are welcome to these meetings.

Capsized the Boat and Drowned.

SYLVAN BEACH, N. Y., July 11.—Frederika Sholts, a nurse in the employ of E. Fred Ralph of Utica, lost her life during the day by drowning in Oneida Lake. She and George Ralph, aged 12, went sailing. On returning to shore about 2 o'clock, a sea began running at which Miss Sholts became frightened, and seeing a large wave coming, leaped from her seat in such a manner as to upset the boat. Both the boy and the woman clung to the capsized craft, but the latter lost her hold and sank out of sight.

The Late Hannibal Hamlin's Will.

BANGOR, Me., July 11.—The will of the late Hon. Hannibal Hamlin has been filed for probate. The document is short and characteristic of Mr. Hamlin and makes no public bequest. A movement is on foot to erect a monument to ex-Vice-President Hamlin by popular subscription.

Shot Himself Three Times.

TRENTON, N. J., July 11.—William F. Mahan, of Newark, came here to effect a reconciliation with his wife, who had separated from him. Upon her refusal to return to him, he shot himself three times in the breast. He failed to inflict mortal wounds, however, and will recover.

Carnival on Wheels.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 11.—There was a monster carnival on wheels here, in which every business house in Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, was represented on floats. The caravan was the most unique ever seen on the coast.

40,000 Persons Without Food.

LONDON, July 11.—The sufferings of the people from famine in the Volga region of Rusia are becoming intense. The provincial assembly of Kazan reports 40,000 people without food.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Gov. Gray's Denial.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11.—Gov. Gray denies the New York dispatch which says that Scott Bay was authorized by him to visit Gov. Hill and find out his intentions regarding the Presidency. He says that he is not a candidate for Vice-President, and intimates that he will run for the first place and will not take the second.

Contract for 40,000 Tons of Iron.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—A dispatch from Birmingham, Ala., says the largest iron contract ever made there was signed yesterday between the Debardeiben Coal and Iron Company and representatives of several Northern and Western concerns. The contract calls for the delivery of 40,000 tons of iron at $10 a ton. The best bid by a Pennsylvania Company was far in excess of this bid.

An Umbrella Thrust Caused His Death.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A waiter in a Third avenue restaurant, named Wm. Hobbs, died early in the morning in Bellevue hospital from a thrust in the eye with an umbrella inflicted upon him by an unknown assailant on Wednesday night at Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue. The police are looking for the assailant.

University Extension.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 11.—The third day's session of the Convocation of the University of the State of New York was devoted to that most interesting subject: "University extension." Professor H. B. Adams of the Johns Hopkins University opened the session with general remarks in favor of university extension.

The No-Interest Company Not Wanted.

BOSTON, July 11.—The Commissioner of Foreign Mortgage Corporations has ordered the United States No-Interest Building Company, chartered in New Hampshire July 6, to cease conducting business in this State, as their so doing is a violation of the law.

Rioting but No Revolution.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Dispatches from Guatemala say the reports of a revolution there are exaggerated. There has been rioting at Quezeltenango, but this was merely the result of election excitement. Troops have been sent to that point to preserve order.

Parnell's Supporters to Desert.

LONDON, July 11.—Several Parnellites have made overtures to join the McCarthyites on the condition that assurances be given that they shall retain their seats at the general election.

Resigned as Minister of State.

PARIS, July 11.—Baron Akerhielm has resigned as Minister of State of Sweden and is succeeded by Baron Postrom.

Dillon and O'Brien in Excellent Health.

DUBLIN, July 11.—Alderman Dillon, who visited the gentlemen in prison, reports that he found Mr. John Dillon and Mr. William O'Brien in excellent health. They will be released July 30.

BURNSIDE'S MUD MARCH

Hon. Amos J. Cummings Relates a New Story of the War.

How a New Jersey Regiment Got the Laugh On a Company of Vermonters —The Jerseymen Feasted On Dressed Dog.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

VERY old soldier of the Army of the Potomac remembers Burnside's mud march. It began on January 22, 1863. This was forty days after his defeat at Fredericksburg. In an effort to retrieve it, he followed the example of Charles XII. and opened a winter campaign. He tried to strike the Rappahannock some miles above Fredericksburg, cross the river on pontoons and reach Lee's rear. It began to rain on the evening of the 22d, and it rained incessantly for three days. The pontoons never reached the river. They were stuck in seas of mud. Nearly every man in the army was wet to the waist for days in efforts to drag them to dry ground. The confederates on the other side of the Rappahannock quickly divined the situation. They stuck up immense placards on the bank of the river, bearing such inscriptions as "Burnside's Army Stuck in the Mud," "Burnside is not McClellan," and other pat sayings. When the sun began to shine and the pontoons were dragged from the sloughs, the army went back to its old camp. Everybody was disheartened. The peninsula veterans, who were staunch McClellan men, shook their heads mournfully, saying: "I told you how it would be." The discontent rose to such a pitch that there was a spirit of mutiny in some of the regiments. Hundreds of desertions occurred every day, and the army had no confidence in its commander until Joe Hooker succeeded Burnside.

I was sergeant in Company C of the Twenty-sixth New Jersey volunteers at this time. The New Jersey regiment was part of the Second brigade. This brigade had won a brilliant reputation on the Peninsula and at Antietam. It was known in the army of the Potomac as the Vermont brigade.

It was composed, with the exception of the Jersey regiment, of Vermont troops. They were tall, ungainly Yankees. They drawled their words and gave them a peculiar nasal twang. Their feet were so big that the Johnnies compared them to old-fashioned griddles. A Mississippian once told me they were so big that whenever he killed a Vermont Yankee he had to go up and shove him over before he would tumble. I saw some captured North Carolinians sent in from the front at the first battle of Fredericksburg. In stature, gait and accent they resembled the Vermonters. I believe that if they had worn the federal uniform the Vermonters themselves would have taken them for brothers.

We went into camp after the mud march near White Oak church. About two weeks afterward Bill Young, a big Scotchman in our regiment, confiscated a sheep owned by some farmer in the vicinity. He had found a little copse in an out-of-the-way nook, where he butchered the sheep, hung the carcass to the limb of a tree by its hind legs, and dressed it. He had hardly finished the work when he was frightened by a file of men who were approaching the spot. After hastily concealing the carcass he sneaked back to camp. Two hours later he returned to the corpse. The mutton seemed to be all right. It did not appear to have been disturbed. He avoided collision with the camp guard and managed to get it to his shelter tent after dark. Then he cut it up and distributed it among his friends in the ranks and the commissioned officers.

Twenty-four hours afterward a Vermont regiment, then commanded by Louis A. Grant, now assistant secretary of war (and by the way, Redfield Proctor was a captain in the same regiment), passed through our camp on picket detail. As they struck Company C's street, through which they marched down the hill, they all began to bark like dogs. The Jerseymen rushed from their tents and wondered what the barking meant. The Vermonters kept up the canine demonstration for half a mile, yelling with delight.

Commissioned officers who had partaken of the mutton were the first to solve the riddle. Some of the cold meat was left. After the Vermont demonstration it did not taste like mutton. It was a little rank, one said, and tasted more like coon meat that hadn't been parboiled. Many who had received the gift were sick at the stomach.

It turned out that some bright Vermonter had seen Young at work on the sheep. He rang in his comrades and frightened the Scotchman back to camp. Then they stole the carcass and put in its place the dressed body of an old Newfoundland dog that had been following a Wisconsin brigade.

When the Vermonters returned from picket duty and began to cross our camp the barking was resumed. This time the Jerseymen were ready for them. From seven hundred throats came the cry: "Head-cheese, head-cheese, you damned Yankees!"

This cry gave a pallor to the Vermont faces. Their stomachs were turned. While they were on picket duty some Germans in the Jersey regiment had gathered all of the cold roast dog in camp, turned it into head-cheese, and peddled it on the Vermont picket reserve. Head-cheese was a delicacy rarely seen in the army. It had gone like hot-cakes. Everybody bought it. Possibly even Secretary Proctor and Gen. Louis A. Grant bought their share of it. At all events there was no more barking, and no more buying of head-cheese on the picket line.

AMOS J. CUMMINGS.

AMONG THE LIONS.

An Extract from the Memoirs of a Noted Tamer.

A lion tamer's power lies not only in his courage and self-possession, but in his understanding of the temper of the animals. It is perilous for anyone but the tamer himself to attempt any liberties with them, however indifferent and well disposed they may seem. M. Bidel, the noted lion tamer, relates in his memoirs a terrible adventure. He was sitting at the entrance of the menagerie with Madame Bidel, and the entertainment was about to begin, when he heard a piercing cry. This was followed by furious roaring and cries of "Help! help!" by many voices. He rushed in. All eyes were turned toward one of the cages.

It was appalling. Venturelli, a poor fellow in my employ, had been lifted from the ground, and was suspended outside the cage, in the claws of four lions, one of whom was eating his arm!

One glimpse of that horrible sight, and I ran, reflecting in a second that to go around the cages and get in by the ordinary entrance would involve a fatal delay, and deciding on the desperate expedient of raising the grating on the side toward the spectators, and so crawling into the cage.

How I did it, how it happened that I was not caught and mangled, I do not know. But suddenly I was on my feet, in the midst of that savage feast, with neither stick nor whip, and only my fists for weapons. I struck and I commanded. The lions fell back and let fall their prey. I hurried out of the cage, and was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

I thought poor Venturelli was dead. But he was taken to the hospital, his wounds were dressed and he recovered. Then I asked him how it happened: He said: "When I passed those gentlemen," he always spoke courteously of the lions, "I wished to caress them. Three were asleep, and one was awake; that one misunderstood my attention. He waked his comrades, seized me and but for you I should certainly have made a meal for them."

The heroic lion-tamer goes on to relate that the king, being informed of his act, decorated him publicly, and the people feted him and loaded him with honors. On this occasion, he says, though he was not used to being afraid, he was so agitated that his limbs shook; he was faint and could hardly see. He soon recovered himself, however, and his pleasure in this public recognition of his bravery was marred only by a regret that his father was not there to enjoy it.—Youth's Companion.

Lost in a Woman's Pocket.

It is seldom that a woman loses anything in the pocket of her own dress, but such a thing actually happened to a very clear-headed and methodical young woman whose residence is in Baltimore, but whose comings and goings encompass nearly every civilized quarter of the globe. Some time ago Mrs. C. missed her pocketbook, containing a considerable sum of money. A careful search through her own cozy establishment failed to disclose its whereabouts. The household servants were all well known and trustworthy, and there were no circumstances that even suggested theft. The loss was discovered soon after a visit to this city, and advertisements were sprinkled plentifully among the newspapers. The missing pocketbook persistently continued to be missing in spite of all efforts to discover it. After awhile the circumstance of its loss was forgotten. A newly-planned trip necessitated the overhauling of the young woman's wardrobe, and by the merest accident the lost article was found reposing in the pocket of a handsome traveling dress. "Why, it seems to me that I felt in that pocket when I was searching," exclaimed its owner, looking at her husband with a why-didn't-you-tell-me expression upon her face. "Yes, dear," said he sympathetically, "I know that I felt for it."—N. Y. Times.

Nothing Small About Her.

A stout and very red-faced woman of middle age, liberally besprinkled with diamonds, alighted from an oppressively-new victoria the other day in front of a swell jeweler's shop on Broadway. She stared a long time at a collection of odd spoons in the window, and then sailed in and up to the nearest clerk.

"What kind of spoons are thim?" she demanded, sticking a pudgy forefinger at the articles in question.

"Those are souvenir spoons, madam," politely replied the clerk.

"Indade," said madam, drawing in her breath. "Well, you may just do me up a dozen of thim. Our new Frinch cook makes lovely suveneer."—N. Y. Times.

Gone Before.

"A foregone conclusion!" sighed the dog, as he dug a hole in the ground and buried the tail his cruel master had cut off.—Chicago Tribune.

A SCENE OF HORROR

Terrible Death of Passengers on a Colorado Railroad.

BOILED IN A STREAM OF STEAM.

Of Seventy-five Persons in the Coach Only Three Escaped Uninjured.

Most of the Dead Were Women—The Victims' Cries of Agony Were Heartrending—How the Accident Happened—Caused by an Engineer's Daring—A Wife's Piteous Appeal to Live.

ASPEN, Col., July 13.—A horrible catastrophe occurred at Aspen Junction on the Colorado Midland Road at midnight, that has filled many once happy homes in this beautiful valley with desolation and death.

A collision occurred between a Midland locomotive and the hind coach of the Saturday night excursion train running between Aspen and Glenwood Springs. The coach load of people returning from the Springs, where a few pleasant hours had been spent, were suddenly plunged into all the horrors of a frightful railroad accident, which resulted in killing two persons outright, inflicting fatal injuries upon five more and severely scalding and burning six others.

Engineer Switzer of the excursion train had run his train up to the water tank at the Junction for water. When backing down to get on the main track, a light engine shot out from the coal chutes, which are located in such a way as to conceal the engine tracks from view of the tracks leading to the water tank. The engineer on the light engine thinking he could get out before the excursion train took the main track, made the attempt, but struck the rear coach of the excursion train at the switch.

The force of the collision tore the check valve from the engine and poured scalding steam and water into the wrecked coach load of passengers. Then ensued a scene of terror impossible to describe. The passengers were at the mercy of the roaring, screeching monster at their side. Through the broken valve torrents of scalding steam and water poured out upon the helpless victims.

Of the 25 passengers in the car three colored men, who were in the forward compartment, were the only ones uninjured. Conductor Miller, with the train crew and the uninjured passengers, immediately began the work of rescue. A two-year-old daughter of Mr. Frank Ellis, of Aspen, was taken out dead. Miss Annie Phelan, of Cardiff, died 10 minutes after being rescued. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis, Thomas O'Donnell, Miss Mary O'Donnell and James Leech, all of Aspen; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rogers, of Woody; Mrs. J. C. Baldwin, and Mrs. W. L. Willoughby, of Glenwood, were fearfully burned and scalded.

The injured and dead were placed in the baggage car and brought to this city, where all the physicians in the city were in attendance and every possible aid was given to the injured. The victims' cries of agony were heartrending, and their scalded faces and arms and bodies a sight to bring tears of pity.

In spite of all efforts to save their lives, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Willoughby died within two hours of the wreck, Mrs. Rogers died at 5 o'clock this morning and her husband at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Willoughby were the most frightfully burned. The latter begged piteously to be kept alive until her husband could reach her. Of those still living, Miss Mary O'Donnell will die.

RIOT IN CHICAGO.

Strikers Driven Across the Rush Street Bridge by the Police.

CHICAGO, July 13.—An onslaught was made on non-union longshoremen as they left the Western Transit docks and turned toward Rush street bridge. A great throng of strikers and their sympathizers followed on the heels of the procession until after the bridge was crossed, when the attack was made, notwithstanding the heavy police escort.

Many of the new men were hit before the police could drive back the assaulting column. Four of the strikers were arrested and taken to the patrol box by two policemen.

Double Tragedy.

JOLIET, Ill., July 13.—A double tragedy occurred here last evening at 6 o'clock. Gust Swedeberg, who has been drunk since the Fourth of July, went into Mrs. Hedberg's house, where he boarded, took down a shot gun and deliberately shot Mrs. Hedberg in the head, killing her. He then put the muzzle of the piece to his mouth and fired the other barrel, taking the entire top of his head off.

A "Speak Easy" Raid.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 13.—An extensive raid was made by the police last night on "speak easies" or unlicensed liquor saloons. Fifteen places were raided and nearly a hundred men and women who were in the places were arrested. The central station was crowded to overflowing, many of the inmates being well-known people.

Insurgents Tackle the Turks.

LONDON, July 13.—Constantinople advices state that the latest news from Yemen is very discouraging. The insurgents have proved successful at all points, and control all intercourse between the coast and the interior. The British garrison at Aden is to be strengthened, to be ready for any demonstration in that quarter.

Superintendent Barney Drowned.

FORT TICONDEROGA, N. Y., July 13.—Pliny W. Barney, general superintendent of the Lake George & Champlain transportation Company, with headquarters at Burlington, was drowned here during the day.

MASS MEETING OF FARMERS

The Exercises Presided Over by President Polk.

FRANKLINVILLE, N. Y., July 13.—The State Farmers' Alliance had a mass meeting in Lime Lake Grove, upward of 1,500 people being present. The prominent State Alliance men present were President Arnold, of Arcade; S. H. Vetmer, of East Aurora; Charles Moore, of Canistota; Frank E. Hulett, State lecturer. The speakers of the day were National President L. L. Polk, of North Carolina; Ralph Beaumont, of Washington, and E. F. Dibble.

The exercises were presided over by President Arnold. Polk spoke for an hour and a half, setting forth the oppressed condition of the farming class and calling for action. He pictured the prosperity of the cities and towns in contrast to the country, declaring the unfavorable comparison was not due to the laziness or extravagance of the farming class, and declared that no class of men work so hard and get so little for their labor as does the farmer.

The statement was made that 100 farmers could be found at the plow in the Alliance States who can better cope with the economic questions of the day than the average men of Congress. The depression in agricultural matters was due to overproduction, the cause of which is under consideration. The government, once the palladium of the people, had been transformed into a machine for manufacturing papers and millionaires.

MINE CAVE-IN.

The Village of Larkeville in Danger by a Midnight Crash.

WILKESBARRE, July 13.—A disastrous cave-in occurred at midnight at the old slope of the Kingston Coal Company near Larksville, five miles from this city, and the inhabitants of that village, which is directly over the mine, were in great fear of their lives and their property.

The cave was caused by the snapping of the old timbers in the slope directly under the fan house. The surface sank so suddenly that the upward rush of air lifted the roof off the fan house.

For hundreds of feet in all directions the surface is covered with seams and cracks, some of them a foot wide and extending down into the workings. A number of houses in the vicinity are damaged.

A dozen men were at work in the mines at the time, but they escaped through a second opening. This company has been particularly unfortunate. On May 5 their two large breakers were destroyed by fire.

HOTEL BURNED.

The Guests Escape in Their Night Clothes Early This Morning.

DULUTH, Minn., July 13.—The Hotel St. Louis, the second principal hotel in Duluth, was discovered to be on fire early this morning.

The guests escaped as far as known, many in their night clothes. It is impossible to estimate the value of the four stories destroyed, but it will not fall short of $130,000.

Rev. Sam Small at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 13.—An audience of 5,000 filled every part of the Asbury Park Auditorium last evening to hear the Rev. Sam W. Small, the noted evangelist and ex-president of Utah University. Dr. Small's address was a bitter arraignment of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, or "Robert le Diable," as he called him, and his school of infidelity and agnosticism. In the opening of his address Dr. Small alluded to the great amount of space given in the daily press for promulgating Mr. Ingersoll's doctrines, or no attention would be paid to his religious teachings. He said the Bible would not be overthrown although Colonel Ingersoll does not believe in it. Dr. Small was constantly interrupted by applause.

The Cahensley Letter.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 13.—Cardinal Gibbons has received from the Pope the letter regarding the Cahensley Memorial, to which reference was made in a recent cable from Rome. The letter says that the fears created in America by the Memorial are groundless, and that the Holy Father has no disposition to accede to any proposition that might disturb the harmony of the American church. No innovation regarding the established method for the appointment of bishops will be tolerated.

The Hackney Horse Society Incorporated

NEW YORK, July 13.—The American Hackney Horse Society has been incorporated. Among the incorporators are Pierre Lorillard, Jr., Seward Webb, John B. Dutcher of Fawling, N. Y.; John A. Logan, Jr., of Youngstown, Ohio; Henry Fairfax of Aldie, Va.; J. B. Perkins of Cleveland, Ohio, and Frederick C. Pillsbury of Minneapolis.

Ground to Pieces.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 13.—Robert H. Davis, night watchman of the Rockland Paper Mill, fell into the cogs of a revolving waterwheel and was literally ground to pieces. His head and arms were torn off, and portions of his body were found hanging to the wheels.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Forty-one Persons Buried Under an Avalanche.

NINE HOUSES WERE DESTROYED

The Occupants Carried Along at a Fearful Velocity.

A Woman Dashed to Death Hundreds of Feet Below Her Residence—Most of the Dead Were Indians—The Slide Just Missed a Canning Building Where Hundreds Were Employed.

NANAIMO, B. C., July 13.—One white woman and forty Indians were buried under a landslide on the banks of the Skena River, at the North Pacific Cannery.

At 6 a. m. those residing near the cannery heard a great rushing noise in the direction of the high, steep mountain at the back of the cannery. In a moment an avalanche of rocks, earth and trees were upon the doomed settlement, carrying everything before it into the slough by the cannery. The occupants of the houses had time to get outside the buildings, but before they could escape from the advancing torrent of debris they were caught and carried along at a fearful velocity. In all nine houses with their occupants were destroyed, including the mess house and residence of the foreman of the cannery.

In the mess room was the young Swedish wife of the foreman. She was carried along in the deadly current and dashed to death hundreds of feet below. Indians claim that among those destroyed were about 40 Indians of the Port Simpson, Sitka Metalakatlah and Kaitmat tribes.

Two days after the slide 13 bodies of the Indians had been recovered. The body of the foreman's wife has not been recovered as yet, but there is not the slightest hope for any living thing within the range of the terrible slide of bowlders, trees and earth.

The slide just missed the cannery building about two feet. Had the slide struck the cannery or occurred half an hour earlier the death roll would have reached to the hundreds. It had been raining in torrents for the previous four days, and it is thought that the accumulation of water in the ravines on the mountain side broke away, carrying death and destruction before it. The Indians are greatly excited over the disaster, and are mourning bitterly for their dead.

THE RANNEGAN MURDER.

Young Raines to be Put on Trial for His Life.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—A great deal of interest is manifested here in the case of young Thornton Raines, whose trial for the killing of Edward Rannegan in self defense begins at Hampton, Va., next Wednesday morning. Mr. Raines will be defended by Colonel Shillington of this city, Hon. John Goodes, ex-member of Congress from the Norfolk district, Colonel Troo and Mr. Wheeler of Hampton.

Several members of his family left here to-day. Some of young Rannegan's friends have employed the professional services of Mr. Lipscombe, an eminent lawyer here, to assist in the prosecution.

A boatman on the river says that both Raines and Rannegan had pistols on John Paul Jones' yacht, which the young men used on this eventful trip. Raines sticks to his first assertion that he acted solely in self defense, and the negro witness to the affair re-affirms that he saw Hannegan raise his oar to strike Raines before the shot was fired.

Many Teachers in Toronto.

TORONTO, ONT., July 13.—Teachers from all parts of the Dominion and the United States are crowding into the city. They are here to attend the international convention of teachers. The executive officers state that they never knew of so many arrivals during the first week of the annual gathering, and from this fact predict that Toronto will have the biggest crowd yet. The arrivals so far are mostly from the Southern and Southwestern States, Missouri contributing 400.

A New Diplomatic Puzzle.

LONDON, July 13.—The action of the Porte in limiting the privileges of the Greek Christians at Bethlehem has caused an appeal both to Russia and Greece. Since the recent riot several more fights have taken place between the Greeks and the Catholics for the control of the sacred grotto, and it is said that worshippers go armed with stout clubs for the purpose of fighting their way in and out.

Filed a Libel Against the State.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 13.—The United States Attorney has filed a libel against the arms and ammunition on the Bear at San Diego. The writ is made returnable August 3. This is done on instructions from Washington.

THE ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

A Movement to Extend the Society All Over the World.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 13.—Rev. A. A. Fulton, of Canton, China, arose in the Christian Endeavor Convention and announced a new "scheme," or, as he called it, a "Christian Endeavor Scheme," which was for each member of the society in the house to give five cents each to send Father Endeavor Clark around the world to extend the society all over the world, to make it inter-continental instead of international in its scope. He asked for those who were willing to contribute to this movement to rise. There were over 12,000 delegates in the hall and not one remained in his seat. This guaranteed $600, the remainder to be raised outside.

Miss Margaret Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon, India, then spoke of the work in the missionary field, and asked for 16,000 missionaries from the Society of Christian Endeavor and to be supported by them. There being 16,000 societies now in existence, with 1,000,000 members, gives an average of 600 members to each society. She pleaded for each society to send out and support one missionary.

This brought the convention to the children's or Junior Endeavorers hour on the programme. The central sections of the main hall were then cleared, and 900 children marched in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," taking the places vacated for them. Mrs. Alice May Scudder, of Jersey City, the originator of the Junior Endeavor movement, delivered an address on "The Child at Work." She said that as children were full of life and energy they must be put to work.

TEN MILLION TONS.

High Tides Work Great Havoc on the Mersey River.

LONDON, July 13.—The high tides which have prevailed in the Mersey for the last twenty-four hours so weakened a temporary dam built part of the way across that stream that to-day the entire structure, comprised of 10,000,000 tons of timber and masonry, gave way before the extraordinary pressure. The dam was 250 feet wide, and the immense quantity of debris was swept down the river, completely blocking the Throsbire Union Canal and choking up a section of the Eastern Ship Canal.

The latter waterway will be entirely swamped by the next high stage of water unless a new barrier is immediately erected. Thousands of workmen have been put to work constructing a new dam and removing the wreckage of the old one.

SHOT HIS BROTHER.

A Man Receives Five Bullets on Account of a Family Quarrel.

BUTLER, Pa., July 13.—Adam Mininger fired five bullets into the body of his brother, John Mininger, in Jefferson Township last night, fatally wounding him. Four of the shots took effect in his head, and the other entered his breast above the heart. He cannot recover.

Bad blood has existed between the two brothers for some time. Last night John drove to Adam's barn to feed his horse. Adam refused him permission to do so. John then insulted Adam's wife and advanced toward his brother in a threatening manner, when Adam fired with the above result.

Murdered a Child for Spite.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 13.—Cynthia Adkin was arrested at Barboursville for the murder of a daughter of James Creamins. For some time the alleged murderess has had a grudge against the family. The child was found murdered by its mother, who had returned from an errand, having left the little one asleep. Its body was discovered in an open grate covered with ashes and bleeding terribly. The child's neck had been broken by a blow, and the little one was thrown into the ashes to stop the blood. The murderess is unmarried, about 30 years old, and of excellent family.

An Opium Capture.

CHICAGO, July 13.—An opium capture was effected last night to which the police and United States officials attach a great deal of importance. Deputy United States Inspector Captain Crowley has for months had suspicion that opium was being smuggled into the city and sold to the Chinese laundries. He has kept a watch on certain individuals, and last night called upon the police to arrest at No. 99 South Canal street a man who gives the name of John Reynolds.

Mrs. Davis Leaves New York.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis has just left the city after a pleasant sojourn of several weeks. She leaves without giving any decision as to the disposition of the remains of her late husband. It is reported that she has asked for a year before giving the delegations from Richmond, Va., and Jackson, Miss., an answer.

Shot Several Times.

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 13.—Ben Markey, of this city, shot himself yesterday with suicidal intent and will die. He tied the stock of a shotgun to the bed post and then placed a string around the trigger in such a manner that when he pulled on it the gun was discharged, sending the entire load of shot into his left side.

The Kaiser Delighted.

LONDON, July 13.—The Telegraph says that the Kaiser, in the course of an audience at Buckingham Palace, expressed himself thus in regard to his visit. "Tell everybody that I am most delighted with my welcome. It has been a reception such as might have been expected only in Germany."

Famine Among the Insurgents.

LONDON, July 13.—Official advices from Santiago de Chili state famine prevails among insurgents at Tarapaca and Autofagasta. The hardship and privation to which they are subjected has destroyed all discipline among the insurgent troops which have degenerated into the condition of a mob.

DILLON FOR LEADER

O'Connor Says He is the Man to Succeed Parnell.

JUSTIN M'CARTHY IS SICK.

He Must Retire from the Leadership of the Irish Party.

Parnell Will Fight On—The Tory Voters His Only Supporters—The Factions May Unite Under Dillon—Sexton Refuses to Accept the Leadership and Healy's Name is Not Mentioned.

LONDON, July 13.—Mr. T. P. O'Connor's paper contains a significant article on the Irish situation, written, doubtless, by the editor.

The writer says: "Mr. Parnell will fight on, although the battle is hopeless. He is a proud, masterful man, who will never be content with any but the foremost position; and the process of beating him down will be slow, but sure."

The article further says:

"No intelligent observer can have the least doubt that he desired to wreak vengeance on the two classes, the Liberals who made his leadership impossible and on the Irish people who refused to follow him.

"It is no longer a question of getting the leadership of a united people or a united party. That, he knows, is admitted to be impossible. He did at the beginning of the struggle calculate to maintain his power, and to drive out of public life all who opposed him. Some of the shrewdest members of the Irish party were of opinion that Mr. Parnell would sweep the country before him, but the calculation was wrong. Mr. Parnell now has nothing behind him except the full Tory vote and the party of folly and violence."

Mr. O'Connor announces that Mr. Justin McCarthy is sick and must retire from the leadership of the party, which means "his party is sick of him."

The article then goes on to declare: "Mr. Sexton is the natural leader and the ablest man of the Irish party, who, if he would accept it, would have the loyal support of the party." But Mr. O'Connor announces that Mr. Sexton declared last week definitely that he will not accept the leadership, and therefore the party turns to Mr. Dillon, who is probably the only other man it would unite upon.

The article concludes with the following words: "The circumstances which stood in the way of his acceptance when it was offered during the Boulogne negotiations no longer exist. It is no longer in the power of Mr. Parnell to make the leadership of any other man impossible, and if Mr. Dillon were elected he would find behind him a practically united nation. Even some of the factions which still adhere to the cause of dissension would be induced to stand aside and to allow the avenue to remain broad and open along which the Irish race is advancing rapidly, steadily and visibly to the attainments of its rights."

HE SAVED HIS COMPANY.

A Daring Ride to Render Financial Assistance.

JEFFERSON, Texas, July 13.—George H. Howell of Atchison, Kas., hearing of the financial disaster which threatened the Jefferson Lumber Company of this city in which he is interested, chartered a special engine over the Memphis route to Hoxie, Ark.

The closest figuring would land him at Jefferson at 2 o'clock.

He interviewed the engineer and crossed the firemen's palms with gold. Two minutes after reaching Hoxie he pulled out of town.

The time of the journey was shortened by three hours, and before noon his arrival with the necessary collaterals had quieted the creditors and prevented the collapse of the firm whose business interests exceed $2,000,000.

Healy's Foul Attacks.

LONDON, July 13.—Owing to the foul attacks of Timothy Healy upon Mrs. Parnell, a reaction is setting in in favor of the Irish leader both in England and Ireland, and Mr. Parnell has received a number of letters, to the effect that while not agreeing with him in politics, they are not in sympathy with Healy's disgusting abuse of his wife. The triumph of the Roman Hierarchy over Parnell is causing a good deal of a stir among the Nonconformists, who are the sinew of the Liberal party in England and more opposed to Catholic domination in politics that the Church of England itself. A leading Radical remarked in the lobby that if the Church of Rome taught people to oppose Parnell politically on account of a marriage which the law of the land recognized as legal, but which was opposed to Church law, then Protestants had just as much right to introduce religion into politics. The Tories are doing all they can to stir up this feeling, and apparently with success.

Minister Douglass Will Not Return.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—It is said to be definitely settled that Minister Douglass will not return to Hayti. Having brought back with him a reciprocity treaty with Hayti, he is said to be satisfied with his mission and ready to resign. It will probably be a long while after he retires before another Minister is appointed.

Mrs. Lincoln's Nurse Dead at 110.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Mrs. Josie Armstrong died here at the age of 110 years. Mrs. Armstrong is said to be the colored woman who nursed Abraham Lincoln's wife, and it is alleged her son played with "Little Abe" before the latter had the art of splitting rails.

The Allen Getting Better.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The condition of The Allen is improving, and Dr. Dunlin, his attending physician, has great hopes of his ultimate recovery.

A TALK WITH BLAINE.

He Laughs at Those Silly Rumors Regarding His Health.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 13.—Mr. Blaine returned from a long drive at noon, and as he passed the lodge at Stanwood and started to walk up the gravel path he was met by a reporter.

As the Secretary of State approached the writer was enabled to get a good view of him and note his physical condition. He walked firmly and without effort, and seemed in no way changed from the condition he was in when he arrived home from his European trip three years ago.

He stood erect, spoke without effort, and his eyes were bright with the glow of returning health. His face was round and full, and there was nothing about him to betoken the invalid. As he stood there conversing the correspondent thought that his recovery from so serious an illness so quickly was astonishing, and only demonstrated the wonderful vital powers that he possesses.

"I am convalescing, as you see," said Mr. Blaine, "and have just returned from a very delightful drive."

"I had feared to find a very sick man, Mr. Blaine."

"What a bother these correspondents are making over me," said the Secretary, and his eyes twinkled with amusement.

"But I pay no attention whatever to them. There is not a word of truth in any of those reports and reputed interviews. I have gained every day since I came to Bar Harbor, and, as you see, my vacation is doing me a world of good. I have taken no medicine since I came here, and the bracing air and the rest I am enjoying afford me all the tonics I need."

After a brief conversation Mr. Blaine said: "I take my rides daily and enjoy them."

ALLIANCE LOANS.

A Committee to Deal Directly With Eastern Money Lenders.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 13.—President McGrath of the State Farmers' Alliance has announced the appointment of a committee to take charge of the placing of loans for members of the Alliance. It will be the duty of the committee to deal directly with Eastern money-lenders, thus saving the borrower the agents' commissions. Men having mortgages coming due which they are unable to meet will be assisted in securing extensions when they are deemed worthy of it, and if necessary to prevent them losing their homes. They will be provided with additional collateral to secure the desired extension. Mr. McGrath says that the committee will be of benefit not only to the borrower but to the lender, and that it will establish between them a better understanding. He insists that the rank and file of the Alliance are men who intend to pay their honest debts, and that they must not be held responsible for the doctrine of repudiation so industriously preached by a certain class.

The committee will devote its entire time to an examination of the mortgage indebtedness of every farmer in the State and will not recommend any extension of time or placing of new mortgages on anything but first-class securities. By this plan they expect to improve the credit of the State and save the land company which operates through them from loss.

DOM PEDRO'S ALLOWANCE.

A Movement in Brazil to Renew His Pension.

PARIS, July 13.—A Rio Janeiro despatch says that there is a growing public desire to renew the allowance to Dom Pedro, the ex-Emperor, on the same terms and for the same amount as when he abdicated the throne. This allowance has been withheld on the ground that Dom Pedro has not abandoned his claim to the throne and was still at work in a quiet way trying to renew his power in Brazil.

For some time past it has been evident that Dom Pedro had altogether surrendered any idea of the restoration of monarchy in Brazil. Therefore the movement to renew his pension is rapidly gaining strength.

THE GREAT DISPUTE.

Ex-Gov. Blair Takes a Hand in the McClure-Nicolay Controversy.

JACKSON, Mich., July 13.—Ex-Governor Blair, speaking relative to the dispute between Editor McClure and Col. Nicolay as to whether President Lincoln opposed the nomination of Hannibal Hamlin for Vice-President in 1864, said:

"I was a delegate to that convention and was chairman of that committe organized to investigate the report that Mr. Lincoln wanted Andy Johnson nominated instead of Mr. Hamlin. I distinctly remember that the committee was unanimous that Mr. Lincoln had taken no paart either for Mr. Hamlin or against his nomination."

Fight with Circus Men.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 13.—A dispatch from Shoals to the News says that after the performance of Sells' circus Friday night in that city a fight occurred between the circus employes and local toughs, in which revolvers and clubs were freely used. James Richey of Shoals was struck on the head with a stake. His skull was crushed and he died a few hours afterwards. Several of the circus employes were injured. The circus train left Shoals for Washington and no arrests were made.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—For New England, Eastern New York and New Jersey: Fair, slightly warmer; southerly winds.

For Western New York: Fair; slightly warmer; southwesterly winds.

Killed in a Land Claim Dispute.

BILLINGS, Mont., July 13.—J. R. Dilworth, president of the Dilworth Cattle Company, was shot and instantly killed at his ranch, 100 miles southwest of here, yesterday by a young Frenchman named Bemar in a dispute over a land claim. Bemar surrendered himself. Dilworth came here from Leavenworth, Kan., seven years ago.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—"Air cutters" have been devised for locomotives to lessen the resistance of trains.

—A number of Plainfield wheelmen had a fine run to New Brunswick Saturday afternoon.

—There will be a grand promenade concert at Hotel Netherwood, Thursday eve. ning, the 30th inst.

—McLaughlin was too slow for the Crescents, last year—this year he's too fast for the West Ends.

—Locomotive 41, drawing the 8:31 train from this city, this morning, broke down, and locomotive 30 was substituted.

—Herbert B. Chamberlain, night operator at the central telephone station, is a victim of ivy poisoning, and is laid off duty.

—The social committee of the Newburgh excursion to-morrow will meet at 9:30, at the rear part of the boat, on the lower deck.

—L. S. Pocock, veterinary surgeon, has removed from Stelle's livery, Sixth street, to No. 39 North avenue, opposite the railway station.

—The excursion of the Crescent Avenue Sunday-schools, Saturday, is said to be the largest that ever left Plainfield. Over 1,200 went.

—A committee of the County Board of Assessors will meet in this city to-morrow to look over the valuations of the different townships and cities.

—John R. Clark, of Somerset and Front streets, is very ill, and has been removed to the hospital. This afternoon he was reported to be improving.

—To night at 8 o'clock the Young People's Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold their regular prayer meeting. Visitors are always welcomed.

—Johnson is a player Westfield's baseball team ought to get rid of. He was no better than so much dead wood at Saturday's game against Somerville.

—It is claimed that Webster Henry, a Lehigh Valley passenger engineer, recently made the run from South Plainfield to Easton, a distance of 51 miles, in 50 minutes.

—It is whispered that the Jersey Central railway is considering the advisability of building a railroad from Flemington to Quakertown in order to catch the peach trade.

—It is now charged that Daniel Niles was implicated in the assault of Louis Zitron, who would not open his store on Saturday, his Jewish Sabbath. The police are looking for Niles, but say he has skipped.

—All who are arranging to go away this vacation season, are invited in Edsall's new advertisement to call at his establishment, where a complete assortment of articles for outing purposes may be found.

—"Why did n't I come here first?" was what the lady said who saw Peck's stock of white goods and embroideries after she had purchased elsewhere. Peck does n't know why she did n't come, but he knows that the next time she wants goods in his line she will come to Peck's.

—One can never realize what sport there is in crabbing until he has tried it. At Mr. Buhler's place, opposite the station at Belmar, where everybody is going on the Baptists' excursion, Thursday, one can obtain crab nets and fishing tackle, when they hire a boat, without extra charge. Shark river is a beautiful sheet of water extending far back in the country, and affording many picturesque views, and there are many other attractions.

—Those who go on the Christian Endeavor excursion to-morrow should avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting Washington headquarters at Newburgh. Good music has been secured by the committee to accompany the excursion. The number of tickets has been limited so as to make the trip a pleasure to those who go. The contract for the "Myndert Starin" for the excursion is in the possession of the committee and may, if desired, be seen at the office of M. M. Dunham. It gives the committee full control of the boat, and also prohibits the sale of any liquors. A luncheon counter will be on the boat, and four blocks from the landing there are restaurant, bakery, and good hotels.

HE PLUNGED OVER THE CLIFF.

One of Mr. Nevins's Italians Jumps to Escape the Friends of the Man He Had Injured.

Thomas Nevins, President of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, owns a big quarry on the Orange Mountain, near Eagle Rock. A fracas occurred there the other day which threatened to turn into a riot. A parcel of Italian workmen employed by Mr. Nevins were the cause of the disturbance and the chief actors in it.

Mike Lazerino, an Italian, quarrelled with another named Antonio Finil. Lazerino struck Finil in the eye with a shovel, almost gouging it out. The wounded man, his head drenched in blood, was taken to the hospital. He is in a very dangerous condition.

As soon as Finil's friends heard of the row they started after Lazerino. When he saw the crowd of enraged Italians after him he turned and fled up the mountain.

The others followed until they approached the edge of Eagle Rock. From there is a sheer descent. When the Italians saw Lazerino making for the rock they gave a howl of triumph. They thought they had their man cornered, but they had n't For a moment the fugitive stood at bay. Then he threw his arms over his head and made a clean jump over the edge of the cliff.

The pursuers followed to the edge of the rock, expecting to see Lazerino's mangled body below. To their great surprise he got up and limped away. Then they all chased down the road again to intercept Lazerino on the mountain-side, believing that he could not get away from them.

It probably would have gone hard with him had not the police, who had been notified of the riot, intercepted his pursuers and arrested the whole gang. Lazerino was also arrested, and is now in jail awaiting an examination. Finil will probably recover, but will be disfigured for life. The other Italians are held as witnesses.

TWO WOMEN ASSAILED.

Samuel Johnston Breaks Into Their Bed Room at Midnight.

Harriet Richardson and a female friend who was visiting her at her home on Race street were startled shortly after one o'clock Sunday morning by hearing a noise at their window. A moment later a man's hand smashed the glass and pulled back the fastening. Then the sash was raised, and the man glided into the room.

He at once attacked the women, with the evident purpose of criminal assault, but they screamed and fought so viciously that he was compelled to beat a retreat, only to fall into the hands of borough marshal Thomas Rutledge, who was making a round of the streets.

The man was colored, and gave his name as Sam Johnston. This morning he had a hearing and was sent to Somerville to await the action of the grand jury.

A Summer Evening Song Service.

A delightful song and praise service was given at the First Baptist church, last evening. The choir was composed of seventeen voices, and did fine work. The soloists were Mrs. Collier, Mr. Barnes, Mr. Will Runyon, and Mr. Bigelow. The opening and closing selections on the organ were by Mr. McClymont, and Mr. Fitz-Hugh rendered the anthems—"Give Ear, O Lord", "I am Alpha and Omega", "Oh, Pray for the Peace", and "King All Glorious". The choir will now take a rest till Sept. 1.

Junk Thieves Captured.

James Hickey, Michael Barry, James Donovan and John Mullen, all boys, have been arrested for stealing lead from the water-works contractors along the line of mains being laid. Charles Francisco has also been arrested for receiving the stolen goods. He bought them of the boys and stored them in the junk shop of his step-father, Richard Corriell, where Justice Nash found the property. All the parties have been bound over to await the action of the grand jury.

Death of Mrs. Pound.

Rebecca, widow of David Laing Pound, died at her home on Central avenue this morning in the sixty-seventh year of her age. She leaves three sons, Walter, Henry and Samuel, and a daughter, Mrs. Louis Dunn.

Dead at 87 Years.

John C. Hoff, aged 87, died at his home on East Second street, yesterday, of paralysis. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

—The Westfield base-ball team will play the Cuban Giants next Saturday.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c, and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

CRESCENTS WIN THE RUBBER.

The Third Game Against the Ridgewoods a Most Exciting Contest.

Heavy stick-work by the Crescent League team, Saturday, won the third game against the Ridgewoods. Each club had a victory to its credit, and both wanted the bigger score in Saturday's game. The Ridgewoods put in the field the strongest nine that ever wore its uniform, but the Crescents were short two men—Corey and Gregg being both on the sick list.

Everybody on the Crescents banged the ball. Even substitute Demarest, after twice striking out, made a fine hit in the eighth inning and brought in an earned run. The Ridgewoods got but two hits in the whole game—one in the second, and one in the ninth. Hammill pitched an almost perfect game and Jones's catching could not have been excelled.

Bonner's work in the field was the feature of the game. The grand stand went wild over his phenomenal catches, and it is said that he was presented with a watch after the game. The score:

PARTICULAR MENTION.

George Taylor, of Philadelphia, visited Plainfield friends yesterday.

Herbert Case, of East Second street, spent Sunday in Philadelphia, visiting friends.

Chief Astfalk, of the Elizabeth fire department, was in Plainfield last evening, the guest of Chief Doane.

The Rev. Theodore I. Holcombe, of New York, conducted the services at Holy Cross church, yesterday.

C. J. Fisk and family, of West Seventh street, are registered at the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., for the summer.

J. H. Simonton, cashier of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company, was the guest over Sunday of ex-Councilman S. P. T. Wilbur.

James Lancey, of Putnam avenue, Secretary of the Newark Steel Company, is in Bermuda. He will spend his vacation at South West Harbor, Me.

Caleb Dickinson, Will Cadmus and Harry Brokaw went to Mt. Tabor, Morris county, and back, a distance of 70 miles, on their wheels, yesterday.

J. Howard Leggett and Miss Carrie Fisher and two sisters, of this city, were among those who registered at the Norman House, Ocean Grove, last week.

At a meeting of the Mercury Wheelman Club of Elizabeth, last Thursday evening, W. E. Clum of this city was elected chairman, and G. H. Rockfellow of this city, treasurer.

J. Frank Hubbard, of Plainfield, director of the Union county board of freeholders, enjoys the distinction of having spent twenty-four years in the board. There is only one freeholder in New Jersey who beats this term of office-holding. That man lives in Bergen county.

Recent arrivals at the seashore include the following from this city: Asbury Park—Mr. and Mrs. W. H Larrabee, at the Portland House; Mr. and Mrs. Snedicker, at the Curlew; George H. Burgess, at the Columbia. Ocean Grove—Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Packer and daughter, Lulu, at the National.

The marriage of Miss Mamie C. Furman, of Englewood, to Wm. H. Warnock, formerly of this city, is announced to take place at the home of the bride, on Dean street, next Sunday afternoon, at half-past five. No invitations have been issued, on account of a recent bereavement in the groom's family.

At Chautauqua Lake, yesterday afternoon, the Society of Christian Ethics held a meeting in the Temple which was addressed by the Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, of this city, president of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle; at 5 p. m. was the C. L. S. C. vespers service, a most beautiful evening service of praise and song; and at 8 was held the regular song service, at which the big chorus under Professor Gleason rendered some beautiful anthems, and Mrs. Jennie Sall Wade, of Brooklyn, was soloist.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Hopeless Hunt for Stolen Diamonds.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Central Station detectives are engaged in what seems to be a hopeless hunt for over $1,200 worth of diamonds that were stolen last Tuesday evening from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Porter, Jr., of Philadelphia. The robbery has been kept very quiet, and was not given out until to-day. Mr. Porter claims that the jewels, which were in a small satchel, were taken while he was registering at the Palmer House.

The Man-of-War Chicago All Right.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The United States man-of-war Chicago arrived last evening from Norfolk, Va., and anchored in the North River off West Twenty-seventh street. The Chicago had been some time at Norfolk having her engines repaired. She is all right now and will participate in the coming naval instruction exercises.

Says He Will Pay Up.

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., July 13.—The treasurer of this county is $30,000 short in his accounts. At first he said his predecessor had not turned that amount over to him, but on the showing of receipts he said he could not account for the shortage, but would make it good, as he is able to do so.

Thirty-one Horses Perished.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—The large brick livery stable belonging to Samuel Lughey, on Harvey street, Germantown, was burned early in the morning. Thirty-one horses perished in the flames and other property was destroyed, making the loss amount to $34,000, one-third of which is covered by insurance.

Russia's Coming Harvest.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 13.—Reports received from official sources on the prospects of the coming harvest are such as to dissipate all hopes of the exportation of grain from Russia. The purchase of corn from foreign countries for Russian consumption is now regarded as inevitable.

The Clevelands at Edgartown.

EDGARTOWN, Mass., July 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Dr. Ward, of New York, are guests of E. C. Benedict, on board his steam yacht Oneida, in this harbor. The Oneida will leave to-morrow for Buzzard's Bay. This afternoon the party will try their luck at blue fishing.

Cannon Defeats All Comers.

BERLIN, July 13.—At the wrestling tournament which took place here yesterday, Cannon, the American wrestler, was the victor against all comers. He was subsequently elected a member of the Atlas Verein and presented with a gold medal.

The Royal Grandsons.

When the two sons of the prince of Wales were visiting South America, at a ball in Rio, Prince George was having a right good time, dancing with any of the pretty girls who took his fancy, irrespective of their social position, and neglecting the bigwigs. His elder brother remonstrated with him.

"You go and sit down and whistle God save your grandmother and let me alone," said Prince George, and went on enjoying himself after his own fashion.—Life.

The Mighty Hunter Abroad.

City Sportsman—Boy, is there a hotel near here?

Mountain Boy—Never heard o' one.

"What is that curling smoke by the edge of the forest?"

"That's a hunter's camp."

"Good. I can go there and get a game supper."

"Guess not. Them's city sportsmen. They never have nothin' but canned corned beef an' crackers."—Good News.

Nicely Put.

"What ever became of that tall, handsome valet of yours, Lord Noodleby?" asked Miss Hobbs.

"Oh, I had to discharge him. Strangers would mix us up, ye know, and take him for Lord Noodleby, and me for the valet," returned the peer.

"Oh, dear me!" said Ethel. "And doesn't that prove the truth of the old saying: 'Never judge by appearances?'"—Harper's Bazar.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!
Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as
The Royal Tooth Powder,
for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.
To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

A PLAINFIELDER WON IT.

Young McLaughlin Not Good Enough to Play on the Crescents, Yet Able to Defeat the West Ends.

The exciting game of base-ball which a handful of Plainfielders and a howling mob of Westfielders and Somervillians saw at Harkinstown, Saturday afternoon, was won for Westfield by McLaughlin, that active young player from North Plainfield, whom the Crescents' management cut off from their old team to make room for a "better" man.

The game was a batting contest from the start. The strike-outs were few—only 4 for Harkins and 3 for Hammill. Somerville got a lead of one run in the first inning by a base on balls, an error, and two cleverly stolen bases by Farrell. In the second inning Somerville had two more runs given to her through a base on balls and an error, and earned a run for herself through Heiser's and Davenport's hits. Then Westfield earned two runs by a single hit by Diven and a home-run hit over the fence by McLaughlin. For the next three innings not a run was made, though every player was on the alert to do his sharpest work. But in the sixth, amid intense excitement, McLaughlin repeated his performance of the second inning, batted the ball over the fence in exactly the same spot where he sent it before, trotted around the bases with Diven ahead of him, and tied the score. The struggle for the mastery then became, if possible, even more determined than before. The seventh inning gained not a point for either side, and the people were breathless in their absorbing interest. In the eighth Moorehead gave pent-up Somerville a chance to cheer by banging the ball over the fence and scoring, but the West Ends got no further. In the closing half of the ninth Davenport fumbled over a fly that Diven knocked to right field, and Diven reached second in safety. Then McLaughlin made a clean hit, reached first, and stole second while Harkins stood dreaming in the box with the ball ready to throw. A hit by Mullen brought both the runners in, and the game was won with no man out. The score:

SAYS SHE DIDN'T ELOPE.

Mrs. Tappen Protests Her Innocence in the Rev. Comer Matter.

Mrs. George W. Tappen, the Plainfield woman who was accused by her husband last week of eloping with the Rev. George W. Comer, has been seen at New Brunswick, where she was consulting her counsel, ex-Judge C. T. Cowenhoven. Mrs. Tappen denied her guilt in the strongest terms, and asserted that she knew nothing of the whereabouts of Comer. She stated that the reason she left home was because of bad treatment from her husband, who for a long time, she said, had refused to work. Since her application for a divorce, years ago, she added, he had been very ugly to her, and had frequently made false charges against her character. She is now living, she says, with J. C. Breese at Metuchen. This is the place which was mentioned in the letter discovered from Comer to Mrs. Tappen as a possible meeting-place for the amorous clergyman and his "dearest pet".

Mrs. Tappen is now trying to get the hay and grain out of Tappen's barns. Judge Cowenhoven is said to have advised her to use force if necessary, but Justice C. W. Ford, to whom she applied for the necessary legal papers, counseled more peaceable methods, and constable George Reed refused to break open the barn to get the hay unless she gave a bond indemnifying him against civil or criminal action on the part of Tappen.

Tappen is still striving to cancel the deed by which he made all his property hers.

It is said that by a former wife Mr. Tappen had a daughter who eloped, thus starting a series of sensations which have constantly kept the family more or less notoriously before the public.

PIG-PEN PARK, MT. ARARAT.

Westfield Aristocrats Startled at the Advent of Razor-back Hogs.

A common, every-day sort of pig-sty is striking terror into the aristocratic breast of Westfield, the pretty little town four miles from here which is variously known as Mt. Ararat and Ripleyville.

As is well known by the many Plainfielders who have driven through the thoroughfares of the town, Clark avenue in this rural "Sweet Westfield, loveliest village of the plain," is the fashionable drive and walk for the wealthiest of the burghers, and if the truth must come out, citizens who walk around the village in their bare, unlaundered feet are not welcomed, should they venture to show themselves in that locality at the hour when Westfield's upper ten assemble on the promenade—a pine board sidewalk.

The section is very exclusive, a sort of Tuxedo in miniature

Fine residences of wealthy New York lawyers and business men line each side of the avenue, separated from each other by sweet-smelling hedges and clover land or smooth, green lawns, shaded during the heat of the day by wide-spreading maples and elms.

Oriental hammocks, with luxurious silken cushions, sway lazily back and forth at the soft urging of the summer breezes and of tiny dangling feet attached to trim figures, coolly clad in soft laces and clinging white drapery.

The notes of the robin and the whip-poor-will coming across the meadows complete the charms of this elysium.

And into this paradise is coming the demon pig-pen!

Here, when the toil for daily bread in the big city is ended, the soul and mind wearied, merchant or lawyer comes home to rest beneath his own vine and fig tree. The vine is palpable, but the fig crop promises to turn out poorly just at present. The village grocery, however, offers extra bargains in the fig line.

Almost at the entrance to Clark avenue stands the homestead of the Clark family, of which L. V. Clark is the head. The mansion sets back from the driveway, its turrets and minarets peeping through the thick foliage.

Mr. Clark owns almost all of the land within view, with the exception of one plot of ground on the opposite corner. It is this corner that has made the trouble for Westfield's aristocratic circles.

Mr. Clark came to the village twenty-six years ago. He worked hard to improve his property. The Clark homestead stood where it stands to-day, but Clark avenue was not.

Directly in front of the Clark house was a lane, or cowpath, hedged in on both sides by crumbling stone walls. When L. V. Clark took hold he leveled the lawns, built sidewalks, graded and widened the old lane, and, in place of the stone fence, he planted shade trees on both sides, which to-day with their spreading foliage meeting above the driveway give grateful shade to those passing beneath in carriages or on foot.

These improvements cost money. The inhabitants of the village were delighted at the public spirit and energy of Mr. Clark. They applauded him, slapped him on the back, called him their foremost citizen, told him that he was a credit to the town and—kept their own pockets tightly shut.

Mr. Clark at last got tired of buying, improving and grading the highways and byways for others to use. He saw all around him beautiful cottages and homes. The vacant corner opposite the Clark home was a plot of ground, say 400 feet wide and half as deep. Mr. Clark had had his eye on this corner for years, and part of his scheme for beautifying the section was to lay out this piece for a park. This was the touch needed to complete this small Tuxedo.

Mr. Clark, not feeling like buying more land, held off, thinking that perhaps his neighbors would step into the breach and do their share, but the property went begging for a purchaser from year to year.

One morning a stranger was seen tearing down the board fence inclosing this corner. The alarm spread quickly among the exclusives, and a delegation marched over to interview the supposed vandal.

"What are you doing here?"

"Gentlemen,"—said the trespasser—"I am Justice of the Peace Hart and I am going to use these boards to build a big pig-pen. I have bought this corner. This land is mine. This fence is mine, and you will please to keep off the grass."

Back marched the delegation, stunned at the prospective substitution of a pig-pen for a park.

The new owner did n't say much, but began to "improve" his property immediately. In the first place he dug big holes in the sacred soil and then heaped up a foundation of bricks. The exclusive neighbors, with a sigh of resigned relief, thought he was going to build exclusive hoggeries, in keeping with the surroundings.

By and by a common, shanty-like building arose from the foundation and stood on the choicest spot of the choicest corner in that choice section.

Pressed as to his reasons for erecting so common a structure on such a fine property, Mr. Hart intimated that it was no one's business but his own. In a confidential moment he is alleged to have told one person that his intention was to organize an Association for Improving the breed of South Carolina Razor-Backs, similar in character to the several associations for improving the breed of horses, upon which the Jersey law rests so harshly at present. There was nothing in the statutes, he said, to prohibit hog-racing, while everybody knows that the North Carolina breed swine has all the speed and much of the gameness of the thoroughbred.

Mr. Hart's new neighbors say that this razor-back race-track tale is only Mr. Hart's joke, and that the Justice's real intention is to so weary Clark avenue with his pig-pens that the residents along the street will buy the corner lot from him at a good price.

Justice Hart, when told of this, smiled wisely and kept right on sawing boards to build his pig-pen bigger.

The neighbors as yet, pending the arrival of the pigs, maintain a stiff upper lip. They have appealed to Mr. Clark, but he says he is out of the public-improvement-at-private-expense business, and intimates that if his neighbors had been a little more public-spirited in the past Justice Hart would never have had a chance to build a pig-pen where a park ought to be.

On another part of the corner lot Mr. Hart has put up some cheap wooden buildings which he leases for a bowling alley, billiard room and other purposes which the neighbors find objectionable.

DUNELLEN LOOMING UP.

Progress and Prosperity in Plainfield's Pretty Suburb.

Arrangements are nearly completed for lighting the streets of Dunellen with the incandescent electric light. The electric plant is situated at Sebring's mills, about two miles west of Dunellen. The poles, wires and reflectors are in place, and within a few days the streets, which at times hitherto have been too dark for either comfort or safety, will be attractive and pleasant for either foot passenger or rider.

Another evidence of the progressive spirit of the place is found in the report of the post-office accomodations. One year ago this month the issuing and paying of money orders and postal notes commenced. The total amount of business done during the first year in this line was $2,800.16.

Last March the system of free delivery of mail matter was established. Six letter boxes were put up in convenient places in the borough. During the month of June, 1,640 letters were delivered, 226 postal cards, 1,496 pieces of second, third and fourth class matter, 195 local letters collected, 827 letters for the mail, 59 local postal cards, 117 cards for the mail, and 56 packages of second, third and fourth class mail matter. The total number of pieces handled in June was 4,616; in May, 4,613; in April, 4,353. Total for the first quarter, 13,582. In June there were 257 pieces of registered mail.

The Dunellen public school is now in a most excellent condition. T. H. Roberts, the new principal, gave the very best satisfaction during his service of the past three months, coming in, as he did, to fill a vacancy. He has been engaged for the coming year, and the other teachers are to be Mrs. Mary F. Coriell, Miss Imogene Smith, Miss Fanny Smith, Miss Minnie Swackhamer, and Miss Mary Titsworth.

The closing exercises, which took place in the Methodist church the evening of June 18, were very creditable to teachers and scholars.

Certain recalcitrant citizens, who mutinied one year ago over the school management, must have been greatly relieved by that single (not to say singular) effort, for they have not been heard from since. At the annual school meeting, last March, a vote of thanks was extended to the board of trustees, without a dissenting voice, for their "successful and satisfactory management of our school affairs".

The Frog's Fate.

"Do you know, John," said Mrs. Peterlee, musingly, "that I always thought frogs were soft, clammy sort of creatures."

"So they are, dear."

"Well, you may think so. You probably know as little about them as I did. I know now that they must be built on the tortoise plan."

"What—hard all over—pshaw!"

"Well, here's an account of a train being wrecked by striking a frog, and if a frog is as soft as you seem to think, I'd like you to explain that little circumstance."

No Doubt of It.

A colored clergyman, holding forth in Kansas City, recently commenced his discourse thusly:

"My dear friends, I want to talk to you about the infinite power of the Almighty. He created the mighty ocean—and He created a pebble. He created the solar system—and He created a blade of grass. He created the world—and He created a grain of sand. My friends, He created me! and He created a daisy."—Texas Siftings.

No Tickets Taken at the Door.

One of our very swellest young men made a call on a young lady at her home in a suburban town recently. The girl who opened the door was green—very. Our exquisite proffered his card.

"I wish to see Miss L——," he said.

The girl caught him by the coat-sleeve and dragged him in with a jerk.

"Go right in!" she exclaimed. "We don't need no tickets. Go right in!"—Boston Record.

An Insulted Man.

"Gus De Smith is very mad at you. He says you insulted him at the railroad depot the other day," remarked Hostetter McGinnis to Gilhooly.

He Took.

"Do you ever take anything?" asked a Texas candidate, leading a prominent citizen into a saloon.

An Ordinance.

For the Repairing and Permanent Improvement of Arlington avenue.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows,

Section 1. That the roadbed of Arlington avenue from Fifth street to Ninth street be forthwith repaired and spread with broken stone for the width of sixteen feet; that is to say, for the width of eight feet on either side of the center line of said Arlington avenue, and at least six inches deep, as now in public use at the general expense of the city, to be paid for after first applying the direct contribution of property owners, out of the money raised for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbed of the streets at the general expense," approved May 13, 1864.

Adopted by the Common Council July 6, 1891.
Approved by the Mayor July 7, 1891.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Attest: J. B. COWARD, City Clerk.

FEASTING AT VASSAR.

How the Girls Made Merry Under Difficulties.

In the Old "Bootjack Days"—The "Corridor Police"—"Oysters a la Hairpin" and "Apples a la Robe de Chambre"—A Serious Word

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

I am much puzzled to understand why any editor should wish me to write an article about midnight feasts at Vassar. In fact, it is rather disenchanting, just as one leaves college for good, with her mind full of great ideas about work in the big, serious world, to be questioned about schoolgirl pranks, which she would almost wish forgotten in her new dignity of bachelorhood. Now, a little essay on "The Higher Education of Women," or "The Influence of College Bred Women on Affairs" would seem to me much better worth while, if I were an editor.

However, if I can't be serious I will be reminiscent, which is the next best thing, and remind you that the best of the good times are all over at Vassar, since the corridor teachers—the police—were done away with. For the last year the students have done pretty much as they liked, and, of course, they have behaved better than ever before, as there was no reason to do otherwise. When the school was first founded, in the old bootjack days, the rules were very strict.

You don't know what the bootjack days were? Why, they say that Mr. Vassar was so ignorant of the requirements of young women that he included a bootjack in the furniture of each room in fitting up the college. I don't know whether this is really true or not, but I think it must be, for I have seen several of the bootjacks, which are valued very highly as decorations.

As I was saying, in the old days the rules were strict and the police were lynx-eyed. Even as late as my coming, in 1887, the spy system was kept up, and of course we had great sport in eluding our watchers. Whenever any girl got a box of good things from home, she at once planned a "spread." Spreads were of two kinds. One was decorous, respectable and dull, under the protection and with the approval of the police. The other kind was secret, mysterious, and much more alluring without their knowledge. An invitation might be in the form of a card with a rude drawing on the one side and a menu on the other, or a little note like this:

A MIDNIGHT BANQUET.

Miss —— requests the pleasure of your company for —— evening.

To which the invariable answer was:

Miss —— accepts with pleasure Miss ——'s invitation for —— evening, 189—.

The goodies were usually concealed behind books in the bookcases, or elsewhere about the room. Extra supplies were brought up from the store in the building surreptitiously, one at a time, a jar of olives to-day, a bag of sweet-crackers to-morrow, until all had been secured.

When the evening came, endless vigilance was exercised by the visitors in reaching the room, and then cloaks were hung over transoms and keyholes to hide light, and voices were subdued to whispers.

Oysters were a favorite dish. One of my invitations was on a card, at the top of which was sketched an oyster shell. The invitation said "to eat these." There were two favorite ways of cooking oysters. One was to straighten out a hairpin and thrust it through the mollusk and fry it by the gas jet, the other was to make a stew. This was much more difficult, as it involved a sauce-pan, milk, spoons and plates. One girl kept a saucepan for a long time by having it made with a handle to fold over inside. Then, after using it, she would wrap it up in paper and put it in the bonnet rack in her trunk. It was a tiny one, about the right size and shape. The plates could be used well enough during the day to put under the flower plant pots instead of the usual brown saucers, which could easily get broken. That gave them an excuse for being.

The store in the building was established for the legitimate purchases of the faculty and students. The latter bought usually candy, crackers, olives, chowchow, pickles, oysters or fruit. Here is another bill of fare which will show the prevailing taste pretty well:

Menu.
Chicken Salad,
Pickled Oysters,
Olives, Pickles,
Sandwiches, Biscuits,
Cakes, Grapes,
Ice Cream,
Coffee.

This last was a "permitted" feast, else the pungent smell of the coffee would probably have betrayed it. Occasionally there was fun at the permitted feasts also. I remember one when some of the faculty were invited. We had fried oysters which were cooked downstairs and brought up. The bedrooms, as you know, open upon the students' sitting-rooms. The party were in the sitting-room and we were using some of the bedrooms as a serving pantry, when all the oysters were smiled on the floor. We slammed the door shut and held a whispered consultation, finally deciding that the floor was pretty clean and that it was too bad to disappoint our guests; so we picked up the oysters and carried them in, rather cool but still very palatable.

There is one girl in my class whose mother made the most exquisite ketchup. Whenever she got a bottle from home we used to stir around for sweet crackers and things to go with it. At one of these feasts, the ketchup girl's chum ate not wisely but too well. Next day the doctor called, saw what was the matter at once and prescribed. Just as she turned to go, the doctor looked up and saw the cloak over the transom, where it had been put to hide the light. She turned from the telltale sight to cast an awful look backward at the student; but she never told.

All these feasts ought to attest the domestic instincts of the educated woman. Did you know that the students have a kitchen now? They have; entirely owing to Miss Goodsell, the lady principal, who has fitted up at her own expense a big kitchen with gas stoves and sinks and all sorts of conveniences which the students are free to use to play housekeeper in. The recent abolition of the corridor police system, together with the kitchen and the liberty of purchasing at the college store—a liberty that was only extended first to the professors, then to the seniors and finally to all classes—have taken much of the romance out of the evening spreads, but have enabled them to be much more elaborate and appetizing. Olives speared out of a jar with a hat pin and eaten with one eye on the door, and oyster stew cooked over a gas jet, are not luxurious provender, after all.

One of the early menus was "apples a la robe de chambre, home-spun taffy and cider." Later ones are much more elaborate and sometimes include soups, entrees and—don't laugh, please—two kinds of ice cream. A taste for ice cream is much less objectionable than a taste for such hard drinks as were found in the boys' club rooms at Harvard.

Here is a newer bill of fare:

Oysters on the half shell.
Boned Turkey.
Chicken croquettes.
French bread.
Olives, jelly.
Pistachio cream.
Banana cream.
Orange ice.
Cake.
Coffee.

And now that I have been virtuously and obediently frivolous so long I am sure I shall be allowed to be disobediently serious for a paragraph.

Life at Vassar isn't all high jinks. The good times may be best remembered, but they are but a comparatively small feature of a girl's life in college. A few hours a week would cover the playtime of the most giddy. We did not at college, like some of the young men, drink whisky, or steal gates, or shoot pistols at policemen, or club baseball umpires. We did not dress flashily or frown on those of us who were poor and struggling. We did not haze the freshmen in any way that could prove offensive. The breath of scandal never touched the school. Many of the students attended prayer meetings under no compulsion but their own wish, and all were decorous in their behavior in public and private. We tried to help each other, to be honorable and studious. Without harming our health—indeed, with actual benefit to it—we probably maintained a better average in all our studies than any men's college in the country could show. This has been conspicuously proved by one famous comparison with Harvard. Please remember all these things when you read this, and believe that our innocent jollity was only the piquant sauce of a serious life and worthy purpose.

MARY X. Y.

Shrewd Mrs. Jones.

Jones started out fishing and landed, as usual, in the market.

"Now," said he to the dealer, "I'll stand here and you throw me the fish, so that I can say truly that I caught them; see?" and he chuckled softly.

He got home and his wife admired his catch to his heart's content. At breakfast he smacked his lips as he loosened some of the flaky flesh and said:

"Now, I hope there will be no more fun made of my exploits as a fisherman."

"Indeed," said his wife, "I am sure you are the most remarkable fisherman in the country. You are the first man I ever heard of who could go fishing in fresh water and catch sea fish."—Washington Post.

"SORRY, BUT SHALL HAVE TO LET YOU GO."

Thousands of delicate young ladies are employed in fashionable Dry Goods, Millinery, and other stores, where through the long day they are constantly on their feet. Among this class, some of the worst cases of female diseases occur. There is no rest, and, when their ill-health becomes apparent, they are at once discharged. To such, the aid and sympathy of Mrs. Pinkham are always available.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the system.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

STEAMED TO DEATH

Another Victim of the Colorado Railroad Accident Dies.

INJURED FROM INHALING STEAM

It Is Now Reported That None of the Wounded Can Survive.

Brutal Murder in Dedham, Mass.—A Man Kills His Wife With an Axe and Then Attempts to Kill Himself—He Was Supposed to be Insane When He Committed the Deed.

ASPEN, Col., July 14.—Frank Ellis, the eighth victim of the Midland disaster at Aspen Junction, died this morning. Leonard and wife cannot live, and Thomas and Mary O'Donnell are now considered at the point of death. Miss O'Donnell has not a particle of skin on her hips. Mr. O'Donnell's principal injuries are from inhaling scalding steam, he not being so badly burned about the face as the others. It is now reported that none of the injured can survive.

A party of Midland officials have just reached here from the scene of the accident, having gone there from Colorado Springs. Their report of the affair differs materially from that first given out. It is as follows:

A freight train was standing on a side track alongside the main track ready to be pulled out by Engineer Shepard with the engine which was coming out of the round house. The switchman had thrown the switch for the light engine when he noticed the excursion train backing down from the tank. He immediately signalled both trains to stop, which they did. He then signalled the light engine to back up, and the brakeman on the rear end of the passenger, which had been backing up, also took the signal. The result was a "cornering" of the engine and coach at the switch, the window of the compartment coach taking off the check valve.

The light engine immediately stopped, and the opening in the boiler made by the loss of the valve, being directly opposite an open window in the compartment of the coach which contained all the passengers except the three colored men, belched forth its death dealing vapor. All the other windows and doors of the car were closed, hence the compartment took on the nature of a steam chest. The pressure of the steam in the close compartment was so great that when a door was finally knocked open from without the pressure of the liberated steam threw the rescuer violently on his back. The nature of the accident is such that it is a wonder that any of the occupants of the ill-fated coach are living.

BRUTALLY MURDERED.

The Crime Committed by a Man Who Is Supposed to be Insane.

DEDHAM, Mass., July 14.—A brutal wife murder occurred in East Dedham yesterday, the victim being Mrs. Belle Nagle, aged 34, who was struck down from behind by an axe in the hands of her husband, George Nagle.

Nagle made an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself by pounding his head with the weapon which had just before been used with such deadly effect upon his wife, but he only succeeded in inflicting four or five bad cuts.

Nagle is in custody, and claims that he did not know what he was doing at the time of the murder, as he had no cause to murder his wife, they not even having had a quarrel. He has been drinking hard of late, and this, it is thought, caused him to commit the murder. It is stated, however, that there is a taint of insanity in his family, and the crime may have been perpetrated during a sudden fit of madness.

The Suggestions Accepted.

BOSTON, July 14.—The State Board of Lunacy and Charity to-day voted to accept the suggestions made by Secretary Foster relative to the supervision of immigration in this State. The suggestions provide that an employee of the Board of Lunacy and Charity be appointed as commissioners of immigration at the ports of Massachusetts, to serve without pay. The subordinates at present employed by the board in the inspection of alien passengers will be appointed by Secretary Foster.

Honors for Entertaining the Kaiser.

is made that the Right Hon. Joseph Savory, Lord Mayor of London, will shortly be knighted by the Queen in recognition of his gorgeous entertainment of the German Emperor at the Guildhall. It is also stated that Mr. Augustus Harris, the manager of Covent Garden Theater, will also be elevated to the dignity of knighthood, he having been lucky enough to number the Kaiser and party among the occupants of his boxes, instead of some other equally able, but less fortunate impresario.

An Edict of Starvation.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 14.—Advices from St. George's Bay, New Foundland, state that Admiral Walker's proclamation closing sixty British lobster factories along the coast is practically an edict of starvation to hundreds of people, and unless the people of Canada organize a relief fund great destitution, if not actual starvation, must ensue, as the residents of the coast are entirely dependent upon the lobster fisheries.

Woman and Boy Drowned.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—A small boat containing William Carpenter, wife and son, was run down opposite Camden by a ferryboat, causing the death of the woman and boy.

Dead and Aged 101 Years.

PROVIDENCE, July 14.—Mrs. Gray, of Pelham street, Newport, is dead, aged 101 years.

DOES NOT RECOGNIZE HIM

The "Black Republic" to Break Off Intercourse With This Country.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Atlas line mail steamship Athos, from Port Limon, has arrived here. Late in June the Athos touched at Hayti, and, according to her officers, it was learned that Fred Douglass, United States Minister to Hayti, had left his post at Port au Prince because the Haytian Government did not care to recognize a representative of the United States, and that it was rather the desire of the "Black Republic" to break off all intercourse with this country. The Haytian Government, it was said, fears the United States, and in order to avoid interference of any kind from this government would sacrifice official intercourse with it.

There had been no report of revolutions when the Athos touched at Hayti, and no news of that country was received on the return trip, when she put into Kingston, Jamaica, except that Legitime was still there and that he was growing in favor. The Haytians prefer him to Hippolyte, and only await his word to institute another revolt.

BROKE HIS NECK.

One of the Hanlon Brothers Falls from a Horizontal Bar.

CLINTON, Ia., July 14.—During the afternoon performance of Adam Forepaugh's show the crane broke upon which William Hanlon, of Hanlon brothers, gymnasts, was performing. He fell to the ground, missing the net and striking on his head broke his neck, dying instantly. He was 41 years old, born in London, and has for 24 years been associated with the Hanlon-Volters.

Last summer he had a similar accident at the Academy of Music, New York, falling from the dome and breaking two parquette chairs. His work was upon the horizontal bar in the centre. Robert and James Hanlon doing the flytrapeze.

Choked by the Duke.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Michelina Ferriere, who has been employed as maid by the Duchess d'Auxey, procured a summons for the appearance of the Duke d'Auxey in the police court to-morrow to answer a charge of assault. The girl says the Duke choked her so hard that the imprints of his fingers were left on her neck. The Duchess was seen at her hotel to-day in regard to the matter, and she said the girl's charges were untrue. Her husband, she said, had discharged the girl for insolence. When he informed her of her dismissal she sprang at him like a tigress and scratched his face. The Duke, according to the Duchess, used no more force than was necessary to keep the woman from injuring him more.

Will Appeal to Congress.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 14.—Secretary L. B. Proctor, of the New York State Bar Association, says that the action of Lawyer Haire in appealing the electrocution cases to the United States Supreme Court for what seemed to be purposes of delay only would be called to the attention of the executive committee of the association, which meets here in a few days. He added that the committee's action has already been outlined in the shape of a memorial asking Congress to take such steps as will restrict appeals in such cases.

General Grubb Coming Home.

TRENTON, N. J., July 14.—Word has been received here that General E. Burd Grubb, United States Minister to Spain, will start for home about the middle of August. It is the opinion of his friends that he is coming home to take an active part in the fall campaign in this State, and with the intention of looking over the field. If the signs are propitious he will again accept the Gubernatorial nomination in 1892.

Declined by the President.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 14.—A delegation from Atlantic City was here and invited the President to visit that resort. He courteously and firmly declined, saying that he was here for rest, and there was none in accepting the many invitations daily received from all over the country. Mayor Hoffman and General Hastings, of Pennsylvania, were the spokesmen of the committee.

Would Not Divulge His Name.

NEWARK, N. J., July 14.—Lena Burrows, the girl who was taken to the German Hospital several days ago suffering from the effects of a criminal operation, died during the morning. The girl steadfastly refused to divulge her betrayer's name. Midwife Eckert and Clairvoyant Dewak are held without bail on the charge of contributing to the girl's death.

Stole Prince George's Watch.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 14.—Last night some one entered Prince George's cabin on the Thrush and stole a hunting case watch. Detectives have been put on the case.

An Invitation to Harvard.

LONDON, July 14.—The Oxford University club extends an invitation to the Harvards to participate in a rowing contest on the Thames in September.

OHIO'S DEMOCRACY

Cleveland is the Mecca of the Party This Week.

CAMPBELL SEEMS CONFIDENT.

He Claims to Have Two-Thirds of the Delegates With Him.

Chairman Norton of the State Central Committee Says the Governor Will be Renominated on the First Ballot—Some of the Cleveland Delegates Are Bitter Anti-Campbell Men.

CLEVELAND, July 14.—Cleveland will be the Mecca of the Ohio Democracy this week, and to-night the city contains many of the party leaders and workers. The interest in the proceedings will not be confined to Ohio, but the eyes of the Democracy of the nation will be turned toward the Buckeye State. The outcome of the convention, which promises to be largely attended, is difficult to forecast, but it is generally believed that wise counsel will prevail, and while the proceedings most likely will be enlivened by some stirring scenes, it has been decreed that the contest is to end in the convention hall.

The sentiment prevails that Governor Campbell will be nominated on the first ballot. Campbell himself seems confident. He claims to have two-thirds of the delegates with him.

If he is not nominated on the first ballot the impression in general that he will not receive the nomination at all. The Cincinnati delegation is solid for Neal and the Cleveland delegation is solid for Kline on the first ballot, and if his case proves hopeless, will probably seek a dark horse. Neither Campbell or Neal are particular favorites here.

Mr. Norton said: "Gov. Campbell's renomination on the first ballot is already assured. He will get between 500 and 580 votes, and I can conceive of no manner of means by which he could be defeated. I have noticed that what opposition prevails throughout the State to the renomination of the Governor does not exist because of any ill feeling towards him, but because of an apprehension among Democrats that he is not as strong a candidate as is Mr. Neal or some other Democrats."

Some of the Cleveland delegates are bitter anti-Campbell men. Mr. August Zehring, a delegate, says that he thinks it is unpatriotic on the part of Mr. Campbell to insist upon being a candidate, when he must know that the majority of Democrats of Ohio feel that he cannot be elected, Congressman Tom L. Johnson is also opposed to Mr. Campbell. He thinks that his position upon the tariff is not clear and definite.

SAYS THEY ARE LIES.

Secretary Blaine Denies that He is a Sick Man.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 14.—Secretary Blaine said to a United Press correspondent this morning:

"I am as well as usual to-day. The sensational reports about my health sent to the press all over the country are lies. I am not a sick man. They have magnified a slight illness into something very serious. I am taking no medicine whatever. I go out every day and often twice a day. I have a good appetite, eat whatever I desire, rise at 8 o'clock and retire at 10 or 11. In short, live in my usual manner. There is nothing more to say."

Mr. Blaine took a long ride this morning in an open carriage and does not seem to be in the least fatigued. That Mr. Blaine is mentally unsound, as reported, is absurd.

Mr. Emmons Blaine said: "We no longer consider my father a sick man. He is constantly improving."

A Strike Collapses.

CHICAGO, July 14.—The longshoremen's strike collapsed to-day, and the docks are crowded with men seeking employment. The strike had continued for about three weeks. Committees from the strikers called on the agents of the different lines and asked for a conference, to which reply was made that there was no need of a conference, and if the men were going back to work they had better be in a hurry about it, as full gangs were coming from Wisconsin. Then the rush began for places. The line agents feel greatly relieved at the end of the trouble.

Seized for Smuggling Chinese.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 14.—The collector of customs at Victoria informs the department of the seizure near that point of the sloop Flora, of Seattle, Wash., for neglecting to report inward bound. She is a smuggler with a load of 19 Chinese intended for the United States.

Ten Eyck's Challenge Accepted.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 14.—George H. Hosmer announced to-day that he accepted the challenge of Ten Eyck to row for $500 a side. If a suitable purse can be raised the race will be rowed here.

BOSTON'S SUICIDE.

No Answer Received from Mrs. Clifford's Alleged Home.

BOSTON, July 14.—The death at the Victoria Hotel of Mrs. J. Clifford of Charleston, S. C., is believed to have been a case of suicide, because the keyholes and window crevices of the room were stopped up with towels and newspapers and two gas fixtures were left open.

The deceased is described as being a beautiful blonde with a prepossessing manner.

She registered on Wednesday afternoon and paid the hotel charges in advance. Her meals were served in her room.

On Thursday and Friday she sent out for the New York newspapers and a bellboy states that after eagerly regarding them she cast them aside and wept hysterically.

It is thought that she did not register her real name and address. Despatches sent to Charleston about her have not been answered.

Mr. Powderly Declines.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 14.—General Master Workman Powderly has declined the World's Fair Commissionership. Mr. Powderly says he has not the time necessary for a proper discharge of the duties of the World's Fair Commissioner, that he intends to seek an election to the Constitutional convention this fall in the interest of ballot reform, and that as the head of a great labor organization, he must be independent of all entangling political alliances to the end that he may be free to criticize the acts of public officials.

Narrow Escape for Valuable Paintings.

BERLIN, July 1.—A despatch from Dessau, capital of the Duchy of Anhalt, announces the destruction by fire this morning of the famous Oranger, wherein an exhibition of paintings was temporarily placed. Fortunately the firemen were able, by prompt and energetic action, to save most of the pictures, many of which were works of the first order. The castle of the Duke of Anhalt, which adjoins the Oranger, and which was built in 1470, narrowly escaped destruction.

A Poughkeepsie Woman Missing.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 14.—Nora Sullivan, a well known young lady of this city, has been missing since July 4, when she started for New York on the steamer Mary Powell for a few days' outing. Her friends are greatly alarmed at her continued long absence and have notified the police of New York to investigate the case.

A Grasshopper Plague Threatened.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 14.—Startling reports from Eastern Colorado and Western Kansas about the reported grasshopper invasion were received here yesterday. The grasshoppers cover an area of 400 square miles where the Santa Fe road crosses the Colorado line. They are young and not able to fly, but they are hopping eastward at the rate of two miles per day, and much damage is anticipated. In the region infested by the hoppers the few fields of corn, wheat and sorghum have been swept clean.

CARNOT FRIGHTENED

The President of the French Republic Shot At.

A PISTOL IN A LUNATIC'S HAND.

He Cried, "I'll Prove There Are More Bastiles to be Demolished."

The Man Promptly Arrested by the Police—The Officers Had Great Difficulty in Protecting Him from the People—Gladstone on Home Rule—Mr. Spurgeon Much Worse.

PARIS, July 14.—President Carnot was present at the ceremonies of the official opening of a new thoroughfare, the Avenue de la Republique, where he received an enthusiastic welcome.

Suddenly a man, wild-eyed and making insane gestures, forced his way the crowd, rushed up to the carriage in which the President had driven up and fired a pistol at him.

As he did so the man shouted: "I'll prove that there are more bastiles to be demolished."

President Carnot was undoubtedly alarmed at what appeared to be a direct attempt upon his life, but on finding himself unhurt he regained his entire presence of mind.

The man was promptly arrested by the police, and such was the anger of the crowd present that the officers had the greatest difficulty in protecting their prisoner from becoming the victim of popular fury. It required a strong force of police to escort him in safety to the nearest police station.

Upon arrival there an examination soon disclosed the fact that the prisoner was a mad man and that he had just been released from a lunatic asylum.

Gladstone on Home Rule.

LONDON, July 14.—In a letter which Mr. Gladstone has written to a prominent Liberal, the aged statesman writes very hopefully of the near triumph of home rule in Ireland, and the final rejection of Parnell by the Irish, which he declares promises well for the future of the country under its own legislature. Referring to his recent severe illness, Mr. Gladstone declares that he now feels no trace of the weakness which was one of the results of his attack of the influenza, and he believes his strength is fully equal to the demands of the coming electoral campaign.

Spurgeon Growing Worse.

LONDON, July 14.—The condition of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon is hourly growing worse. The Bishop of Ripon called today and made inquiries concerning him, and Mr. Dwight L. Moody and Rev. Dr. Wayland cabled from Massachusetts their love, sympathy and prayers. A special prayer meeting of two hours' duration was held in the Tabernacle to beseech the Almighty for his recovery.

WATCHED BY DETECTIVES.

Beer Bottlers Arrested at Asbury Park for Violating the Law.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 14.—Wm. Griffin, Jr., a beer bottler, has been arrested for violating the liquor law in selling liquor within the mile limit. This is the second arrest this week. Founder Bradley says he will stop the sale of liquor in the town if he has to follow up the peddlers personally.

The bottlers have been in the habit of sending wagons here loaded with beer. The drivers solicit orders and then leave the beer at the houses. The law specifies that no beer shall be sold within one mile of the gates of Ocean Grove. Parties who want beer must mail their orders and bottlers can then deliver their goods. Mr. Bradley has detectives following every beer wagon that arrives in town.

The Watch Trust a Failure.

BOSTON, July 14.—A meeting of the New England division of the National Association of Jobbers of American Watches was held, at which it was voted that each firm go back to its original contract with the manufacturers as it was previous to four years ago. This is substantially a dissolution of the New England division of the association. The National Association, which was formed four years ago, was a trust to control the price of watches. The trust had recently become weakened by the withdrawal of the Elgin Watch Company, and this was the direct cause of the action of the New England division.

Disapprove the Method.

NEW YORK, July 14.—At a meeting of the Lunacy Law Reform League and Anti-Kidnapping Union's central committee the case of H. Victor Newcomb, the millionaire broker recently committed as insane, was considered. Resolutions strongly disapproving the methods of commitment, whereof Newcomb's case is a sample, and declaring that the accused party in such cases should have an opportunity for self defense, were adopted.

A New Mill in Operation.

NAZARETH, Pa., July 24.—The new mill erected here by S. Freiberger, of Philadelphia, for the manufacture of laces and braids, was put in operation. Twelve looms, capable of producing 84,000 yards per day, were started, which number will be increased as occasion arises. The new industry gives employment to a large number of hands, and will be quite a boom to the town.

Stationary Engineers' Convention.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 14.—The supreme council of the American Order of Stationary Engineers is holding a meeting here and will remain in session until Thursday. There are delegates present representing nearly every State in the Union. The council held a public meeting last night and Lieut.-Gov. Jones was one of the speakers.

Make two cakes, one with Cleveland's baking powder, the second with any other. Note the difference.

The Cleveland cake is fine grained, keeps its natural flavor and moisture; "the other" is coarse grained, as if the sugar was too coarse, soon dries out and becomes husky.

Cleveland's leavens light because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

THE SMILER INQUEST.

Attorney-General Tabor Says it is Entirely Without Reason.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 14.—Attorney-General Tabor was asked what he thought of Coroner Levy's assertion that he would subject the body of Smiler the murderer, to an autopsy and hold an inquest upon it and compel the witnesses to the electrocution to tell all they knew and saw. He said:

"Coroner Levy can do no such thing. He has no more right to touch the body than he has to go into a cemetery in this city and drag out the remains of people buried 50 years ago. The office of coroner is limited by statute, and he can only examine in cases a complaint is made and he deems it suspicious.

"In this case, under the laws of the State, the man has been executed, and physicians appointed under the law have certified as to the cause of death. It does not matter, even if the man was roasted to death, as long as the warden complied with the law. The death certificate, with the result of the autopsy, is filed in New York County, and the coroner has nothing to do in the case. No complaint has been made, and the coroner is acting entirely without reason. I don't think he will push the matter."

Warden Brown Not Alarmed.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Warden Brown of Sing Sing says he is not alarmed over the threatened inquest on the body of the murderer Smiler by Coroner Levy. The warden says the coroner has no right to exhume the body. He further states that neither he or his witnesses at the execution last week will obey any summons from the coroner to attend an inquest on Smiler's body until the Attorney-General directs them to do so.

Fitzsimmons Confident.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 14.—When shown the Beloit despatch, in which parson Davies expressed the belief that Jim Hall would win the fight July 29, Bob Fitzsimmons said: "I expressed my confidence by placing $6,000 on myself yesterday, and if Parson Davies is so cock sure of Hall I'll bet him another $6,000 I win. Yes, I'll bet him $6,000 to $5,000.

Decided to Close Up Business.

PITTSBURG, July 14.—The Boatman's Fire and Marine Insurance Company, of this city, organized in 1865, has decided to close up its affairs and go out of business. The stock has not paid a dividend in five years.

Militia in Camp by the Sea.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 14.—Camp Leon Abbett was formally opened by a salute fired by a detachment detailed for that purpose, and at the same time the State colors and the camp burgee were unfurled.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Henry Brill, aged 18 years, of Southington, Conn., was killed by a fall from his bicycle yesterday.

William Bismarck, second son of Prince Bismarck, has resigned the Presidency of the regency of Hanover, and will retire to Varzin.

The Emperor of Germany has presented a splendid Dresden clock to Lord Salisbury, as a mark of his appreciation of the Premier's hospitality at Hatfield House.

Chief Engineer Conway, of the Jersey City Fire Department, was severely injured yesterday morning by being thrown from his gig and striking on his head in the street. He was taken to his home.

William Breney, 18 years of age, of Elizabeth, N. J., jumped off an east bound train as it passed through Elizabethport last evening, landing in front of a west bound express, which struck and instantly killed him.

The Spencer Iron Works, of Scranton, Pa., which have been closed for several days, owing to a strike, were started up during the morning with a force of non-union men. None of the strikers, who number about fifty, will be taken back.

Over Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 14.—The body of a man about 50 years of age was seen to go over the falls on the American side. A thorough search was made for the body in the lower river shortly after it had been seen to go over the falls, but no trace of it could be found. Whether it was an accident or a deliberate suicide is rather hard to determine, as there is no one missing from here so far as can be learned. The matter is being investigated.

THREE CHOICE CONCERTS.

Their Like in Plainfield Will Have Been Seen Never Before.

The executive committee of The Melopoia to-day announce that they have arranged for three concerts for the season of 1891-92, to be given under the direction of William R. Chapman. The concerts will take place at the Casino of the Union County Country Club, the first on December 1, 1891, the second on February 23, 1892, and the third on May 10, 1892.

Associate members desiring to continue their membership are required to make their intention known to the secretary before July 22.

The annual dues of an associate member will be twenty-five dollars, entitling him to four tickets of admission to each entertainment.

No tickets will be sold to the general public.

The Melopoia is confident that this season's concerts will be the most perfect ever given in Plainfield. The society will profit greatly by last year's experience, and will strive to avoid what few errors then were made. A governing committee has been appointed to take charge of the details of the work, such as selecting music and artists. There will be more money at command than hitherto, and the soloists who will be engaged will be even more famous than last year. Indeed, everything will be the richest and most choice that can be procured, and the audiences will be more than enraptured by the actuality which is already so glowingly anticipated.

The following are the officials and patrons of the Melopoia for the coming season:

Alice McCrea Bitten by a Mad Dog.

A mad dog created a scare in the village of Piuckamin, Sunday, just as the children were returning from Sunday-school. The children fled in terror and all escaped excepting Alice McCrea, the 10-year-old daughter of Donald McCrea, who was bitten badly on the left arm.

A crowd of men and boys killed the brute. Several cattle were also bitten and three or four dogs. All of them were shot. The village doctor cauterized the child's wounds. He also opened the dog's stomach to satisfy himself that it was a genuine case of hydrophobia.

The presence of nails, bits of leather and strings was taken as conclusive evidence that the dog was mad.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Councilman D. S. Roberts has gone to Mt. Pocono to recuperate.

Postmaster E. R. Pope and wife spent Sunday at the Gramercy House, Asbury Park.

B. O. Bowers and family have returned from Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada.

Edwin Huntsman, or Providence, R. I., is visiting his brother, R. F. R. Huntsman, of Bay street.

The Misses Fritts and brother and Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Green and daughter left town yesterday on their bicycle trip to Delaware Water Gap and Port Jervis.

Mrs. George W. Crossman, of 8 East Eightieth street, New York, is at The Netherwood. The first of August Mrs. Crossman will go to Arverne-by-the-Sea, where she will remain during that month.

Among the Plainfield excursionists who registered at Asbury Park last Saturday, were: At the Coleman House—Mrs. Chas. E. and Miss C. A. Raymond, J. E. Murray, Miss Crane, Miss Murray, Miss A. M. Murray, W. F. Murray, W. D. Murray, Miss J. B. Erickson, Miss Joe Drake, J. H. Hallock, E. G. Raymond, J. K. Myers and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Baynon. Grand Central—Wm. M. Runyon and wife, T. Daniel, Genevieve, Leslie M., and Edwin M. Daniel, jr., Mrs. Albert and Albert D. Beers, Miss Rose, Miss Hettie Rose.

A Country Club for Cranford.

Several sport-loving gentlemen of Cranford have combined to form a country club, and thirty-two names are already enrolled. The membership of at least fifty, it is said, is assured. A handsome residence in the heart of the town will be the club's headquarters.

—Thomas Duffy, a tramp, was sent to jail for 10 days, by Judge Codington, this morning, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Fifteen Thousand Delegates.

In the city of Minneapolis are gathered fifteen thousand people, mostly young men, who represent an organization of only a few years standing. Some of them are from Union county, all of them represent Christian communities, and all of them are delegates from little societies whose object is to endeavor to do good. It is claimed that never has a convention been held at which were so many delegates; that neither politics nor religion has heretofore called together such a number of earnest workers, young and old.

The Young People's Society Christian Endeavor is only about ten years old. It started in a little church and small congregation, and was then, in its infancy, what it is now, in its superb youth, simply an endeavor. It has now 16,274 societies and over a million members. Its growth has been phenomenal, and yet it has very little to offer its members excepting very mild honors, while it calls on them for sacrifices of time, of money and of work. It is to be credited with the extreme moderation of its claims. It is hopeful of good results, without a doubt, for no society could exist without hope, but it simply ends its purpose with honest, earnest endeavor, and leaves results to Him who overrules all endeavor, and brings it to full fruition or to naught. It is a society that differs from the Young Men's Christian Association in that its branch societies are in the churches, not outside of them. Each little society endeavors to help its church, and engages those in the church in these Christian endeavors. It is growing with unprecedented rapidity because it gives the young people something to do, and awakens their interest in the work. It is already a great power for good, and the wishes of all who believe in earnest, honest, Christian endeavors will be that the great convention at Minneapolis may inspire all who attend it and that the societies may flourish and succeed more than ever before.

HE WAS N'T DEAD YET.

But He Wanted His Will Recorded, Or He'd Know the Reason Why.

Elmore D. Moffett, of this city, was considerably astonished, a day or two ago, by an incident which took place in the Union county clerk's office, where he is an assistant. The man who did the astonishing was a Westfielder who entered with a tinge of sadness in his eye and an official looking document in his fist. He said, solemnly:

"I want this will recorded."

"All right"—responded Mr. Moffett.—"When did the man die?"

"Die! Why I ain't dead that I know of."

"Oh! this is your will: is it?"

"Certainly it's my will."

"But you can't have it recorded until after you are dead."

"I can't, eh! That's a nice condition of things. This is my will, and I'd like to know why I can't have it recorded so that there can be no monkeying with it when I'm not here to defend it."

"It can't be did sir,"—said Mr. Moffett regretfully.—"You will have to climb the golden stairs before the law will let you swear to your own will."

"It don't seem to me that I'll care much about it then"—said the Westfielder, dubiously, and he walked off to wait for his funeral.

GABLE HOME AGAIN.

But 'Twas Only a Flying Midnight Visit to See His Wife.

John B. Gable, who fled from town some weeks ago in company with Mrs. Wm. B. Avery, made another flying visit to Plainfield and to the home of his deserted wife on Cottage place, at midnight Sunday. He was in town only about three hours, and left on a train long before daylight.

It is understood that Gable told his wife that he had left the Avery woman forever, and henceforth was going to lead an honorable life. Some tools that he had in the house he took away, saying that he was going to settle down to work. He had been ill—he said—and in a New York hospital.

When Mrs. Gable reproached him for his past conduct he is said to have flourished a pistol and told her that if she opened her head any more about his doing he'd "fix" her. Mrs. Gable followed him part of the way to the railway station and bade him good-bye. A few days before, she met him on the street in Newark and passed him by as if he had been a stranger.

The racing at the Park avenue driving track Saturday resulted as follows:

First race—First heat: J. H. Fosher's "Dynamite" first, in 2:43½. Philip Jenner's "Blanche Warwick" second. M. Quinn's "Kitty Pilot" third. Second heat: "Dynamite" first, 2:41½. "Kitty Pilot" second. "Blanche Warwick" third.

Second race—First heat: Woodbrook Farm "Marcanier" first, in 2:38½. A. D. Thompson's brown mare second. Second heat: "Marcanier" first, in 2:30. A. D. Thompson's brown mare second.

Two of the Woodbrook Farm colts gave a fine trotting exhibition.

Death of Aquilla Jones.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 14.—The venerable Aquilla Jones, who died here Saturday, aged 80, had been Treasurer of Indiana and was Postmaster of Indianapolis during President Cleveland's administration. He cast his first vote for Andrew Jackson and was an intimate friend of John C. Calhoun, Henry Clay and Daniel Webster.

RAILROAD CRIMES OF A YEAR.

Three Hundred and Seventeen Persons Killed and 1,297 Injured by Jersey Central and Other State Lines.

The State of New Jersey requires all railway companies to get a detailed account of all accidents. The result for the past year has just been announced as follows:

On the 2,000 lines of railway within the State, 1,604 accidents were reported, of which 317 were fatal. The car coupler reaped a harvest of thumbs, fingers, arms and feet. These cases numbered 375 in all. Most of these mishaps were slight, but once in a while the railway surgeons had to saw off an arm or a leg.

Two hundred and ninety-two persons were struck while walking the track. Of these, 129 were killed or died after the accident. One hundred and thirteen persons were struck by passing trains while foolishly stepping in front of them. Of these, 49 were killed and 64 survived their injuries. Forty-six persons were killed in attempting to get on or off of moving trains, while 139 were seriously injured.

To separate the accidents according to the various railroads, it is found that the Central Railroad of New Jersey had 38 killed and 297 injured. The Morris and Essex Railroad, 35 killed and 96 injured. There were 62 accidents on the West Shore Railroad in New Jersey, a large proportion of which were fatal. The Paterson, Newark and New York road had only 8 accidents, one of which resulted in death. The Paterson and Ramapo road had 23 accidents, 16 of which were fatal.

The West Jersey Railroad, from Camden to Cape May, had 41 accidents, of which 15 were fatal. The Paterson and Hudson had 41 killed and 42 injured. The Newark, Susquehanna and Western had 9 injured and 9 killed. The New York and Long Branch, 7 killed and 28 injured. The Bergen County Railroad, 9 injured and 1 killed. The Belvidere and Delaware Railroad, 7 injured and 1 killed.

Of the cases on the Jersey Central the coupler killed 2 and injured 98, and 12 of the injuries were serious enough to compel amputation. Of the 38 struck while walking on the Central's tracks, 19 of them were killed. There were 70 accidents happened to that number of people who jumped on and off moving trains, and 6 of them were killed. There were 12 who were injured by stepping in front of the trains, and 7 were killed in this manner.

Imitation goods are gotten up for the ignorant and gullible. The persons able to read and write are not so easily fooled. They will insist that Hires's Root Beer is handed them, and nothing else "just as good." The best imitation is no good, and you know it.

Senate Sub-Committee on Finance.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The sub-committee of the United States Senate Committee on Finance met to-day. Nothing of great importance was done. The Senators are awaiting the arrival of Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, who will probably arrive to-day. No meeting will be held until his arrival. The first session of the committee will probably be held to-morrow.

McAuliffe Challenged by Gibbons.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Austin Gibbons, of Paterson, N. J., who so easily defeated Jim Verrall, the English lightweight champion, recently, to-day issued a challenge to fight Jack McAuliffe for the lightweight championship of America, $2,000 a side and a purse.

A Strike Threatened.

LEBANON, Pa., July 14.—At a meeting of Morgan Lodge No. 103, A. A. of I. & S. W., it was decided that unless the schedule was signed to-morrow all the men employed in the factory of the nut and bolt works would be called out.

A Circus Seized.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., July 14.—The sheriff of this county has seized the property of Frank A. Robbins' menagerie and circus. The property is to be sold on the 21st inst. to satisfy a number of judgments.

Prohibition Editor Arrested.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 14.—Editor Tallie Morgan, of The People, the State prohibitionists' organ, was arrested to-day charged with libeling Charles E. Steel, of Minersville, the State Secretary of the Good Templars. Morgan had published a statement to the effect that Steel, upon his recent return from Scotland, had been banquetted by saloon keepers.

A Schooner Ashore.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., July 14.—The schooner yacht Tidal Wave, of New York, is ashore at Pasque Island. She is lying among the rocks in a bad position and full of water. The vessel went aground during the thick weather this morning.

Paper Box Trust Formed.

AMSONIA, Conn., July 14.—The purchase of the Cornell & Shelton Paper Box Works, of Shelton, completes the formation of the paper box syndicate of which Benton & Co. and Munson & Co., of New Haven, are a part.

Business Educators' Convention.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 14.—The Business Educators' Association of America meets here to-morrow and will continue in session ten days. Several hundred business college professors will be in attendance.

Railway Stables Burned.

ALTOONA, Pa., July 13.—The stables of the Altoona City Passenger Railway Company were destroyed by fire this evening. All of the horses were rescued but a number of cars were lost. Loss, $5,000.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

THE PASTOR'S PAINTED PONY.

It Is Charged that His Own Friends Did the Mischief, to Arouse Sympathy in His Favor—Wholesale Arrest Threatened, If He Do Not Leave Town.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.

STIRLING, N. J., July 14.—This usually quiet village is getting to be a notorious little town, and the cause of it all is the pastor of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. Mr. Dill.

When he first came to Stirling everybody liked him. A great many said that he had queer ways, but they thought that he would get over them as he got acquainted. Instead of getting over them, however, he has grown worse, and is now believed to be insane by the majority of the best families in the neighborhood, and as they would not support him any longer he had to get out of the church. To have revenge, he stays around and is making all the trouble he can.

Some two or three weeks ago, some unknown persons painted his horse red, white and blue, which was a very mean trick if anyone did it to get even with the pastor; but the thing has been worked upon by a detective, and through his aid it was found that some of Dill's own friends did it, in order that he would gain pity from the better class of people, who are opposed to him.

What the detective says is as follows: "I have been working upon this case for some time and have found that things look very much as if some of Mr. Dill's party did the painting. My reasons are that in the first place the paint that was used was taken from the kitchen of the house at which Mr. Dill is boarding, and another thing is that there was not enough paint on the horse to harm a colt, let alone a horse; and how was it that the gentleman of the house where Mr. Dill boards knew just where to go to find the horse, which was taken about a mile from the house into a thick woods, where at this time of the year no one has anything to call them there? When Mr. Compton started out to look for the horse he was not over an hour finding him, so I have been told."

This statement has been verified by a number of others who know the facts about the alleged assault.

One day last week Mr. Dill issued warrants for the arrest of Frank Moffett and William Moffett, the former of Stirling and the latter of Basking Ridge, for stopping him on the highway, as was told in a recent issue of THE PRESS. The very next day he repented of his act and tried to stop the arrests, but the boys were too much for him and went and gave themselves up and turned around and had him arrested for perjury, and ex-Sheriff Coe, of Morristown, drove over and took Mr. Dill to Morristown, where he spent the night, one of his old acquaintances, a Mrs. King, going his bail.

The Moffett boys are not going to let the thing drop where it is, but are going to push the thing for all it is worth, as he has used their names in connection with a number of things, such as painting his horse and stealing the church bell, and says they are at the bottom of all the trouble. They have engaged Senator Werts as their counsel, and have a number of the best men of the community with them as witnesses to vindicate themselves on all charges. In less than two weeks—it is threatened—there will be not less than five warrants out for Mr. Dill's arrest unless he leaves the place. The charges will be for slander on different persons in the town.

His only followers now are laughed at as a class of people that if anyone who was well dressed and could talk glibly should tell them the moon was made of green cheese would believe it. They are not the brightest and best people in town, and are not such as are gifted with an over-supply of intellect. He has so worked up an old lady by the name of Boyle, living on the hill above Stirling, so that she has given her property to him; and it is stated by a number that he is going to marry her.

It is reported about that the Presbytery have threatened that unless he does differently they will strip him of his ministerial authority, as for the last five years, wherever he has preached, he has made just such trouble as this. His previous place was at Mt. Freedom where, it is alleged, the people had almost to drum him out of the place.

The new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Labelle, came last Sunday, and is very much liked by every one who heard him preach. He will move out to Stirling in a short time. He is about 50 years of age, and is a noble-looking gentleman, and from all appearances is well adapted to his calling.

Two Plainfield Infants Lost.

The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of Plainfield, were put out by the storm on Wednesday, but on Saturday they came down strong, filling over twenty cars. Joseph B. Coward, a prominent official, with his wife, were among the number. They left on the return home at 6 p. m., having enjoyed the trip to the shore. Two children, belonging to the excursion, tarried too long, and the train was gone when they reached the station. Their tears were copious and their sobs pitiful until they heard that they would be sent home by another train.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, its allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

WE'D GROW LIKE A WESTERN CITY.

Here's a Man Who Has Seen Its Benefits and Would Pay to Have an Electric Railway Pass His Property.

To the Editor of The Yonkers Statesman:

Being an old resident and present property holder in beautiful Yonkers is my excuse for troubling you with this communication. I have been reading with great interest the various articles you have printed in reference to electric propulsion on the streets of Yonkers—and as I have been daily using an electric line for many months here in Spokane, and having ridden on electric roads in Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Tacoma, I am in a position to form some opinion upon this question.

We have here a double-track electric line, trolley system (though to use the word trolley is unnecessary, as we have no feasible electric system of propulsion without the trolley) of five miles to a suburban property, which has been in operation nearly two years. This road has given the most complete satisfaction in every respect. It is not noisy, except so far as any car in motion would make noise—but no extra noise due to being propelled by electricity. Indeed, the cars make less noise than horse-cars, as being heavier, they do not rattle, and the no inconsiderable noise that horses make being absent.

Another great advantage is that the heaviest snow storm does not retard the cars. The two winters the electric cars have been running here have been noted for severe snow storms. On one occasion we had two feet of snow on the level—which, of course, stopped the horse cars completely for several days, while the electric cars never lost a trip, but gave safe, comfortable rides in nicely-heated coaches, and the passengers were spared the pain of seeing poor horses in the cold and snow trying to pull loaded cars, and make one feel half-ashamed to ride.

We are now putting in some twenty-five miles of electric roads, of which some ten miles have been just completed. I took a ride yesterday on the new road, and propulsion by electricity is a poem. Sitting in an open car, on a pleasant day, moving almost noiselessly, smoothly and swiftly through our crowded business thoroughfares out into the suburbs.

Thousands use the electric cars simply for the ride, and more particularly Sundays and holidays. It is the poor man's carriage, and the rich man's, too.

The only possible objection to electric propulsion is the over-head wire, and that is really only a sentimental one, as it is out of the way in case of fire—not like telegraph, telephone and electric light wires being over the sidewalks and requiring heavy, cumbersome poles. And as to horses being frightened, they quickly become educated to electric cars, and that is but a temporary objection. I own property on Riverdale avenue, Yonkers, and would be willing, if it were necessary, to subscribe to a bonus to have electric cars on that avenue, if on as good a system as we have here in Spokane, because the great increase of value of my property would amply pay me.

With a perfect system of electric cars in Yonkers, I believe with its system of sewerage, its pure water, great beauty, and nearness to New York, that Yonkers would have a growth like some of our Western cities, and double its population in a few years.

Now no one can afford to live in the outskirts of Yonkers without keeping a carriage, and there is a very large proportion of best citizens who cannot afford and do not want to be bothered with horses—and horse cars, the Yonkers people too well know, are of little use. It is for the city to take great care to protect its rights, by giving a very strict franchise, and taking nothing for granted.

One word more. We have here five and a half miles of cable railroad, which was built at an expense of some $100,000, which is now to be replaced by electricity, and I am informed that at St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., after spending a million on a cable plant, most of it is to be replaced by electricity. Most truly yours,

P. S. BYRNE, M. D.

The Knife Just Missed Her Heart.

Mrs. Hess, who lives near Union Village, started to go out to the garden to get some vegetables for Sunday's dinner, and was descending the steps of the house when she slipped on a cabbage leaf that had been carelessly left on the steps, and was thrown headlong to the ground. A sharp butcher knife that she held in her hand pierced her left breast, causing an ugly wound. The point of the knife struck one of the ribs, thus causing the knife to glance sideways. The wounded woman was helped into the house, and Dr. Westcott was summoned. He said but for the providential glancing of the knife the point must have pierced her heart. He dressed the wound and made the patient as comfortable as possible, and gave hopes of her speedy recovery.

Cyclers Admit Women.

The Cranford Cycling Club has extended its limit of membership so as to admit women to all the privileges of the club. Next Saturday the club will make a run to Rahway, via Westfield; on July 21 a moonlight run will be made, and on July 25 the club will run to Milburn.

DUNELLEN'S FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Interesting Reminiscences Aroused by a Faded Yellow Envelope.

[From The Bound Brook Chronicle.]

On an old faded yellow envelope, which has been carefully preserved in Joseph Maier's safe for a number of years, is inscribed "For the Dunellen Fire Department, $4.86, July 2nd, 1878." Mr. Maier was interviewed and related the following story regarding its origin, which may be of interest to our readers:

In the summer of '78 a number of citizens assembled at Sam VanArsdale's blacksmith shop and organized what they afterwards called the Dunellen Fire Department. At this meeting Sim Pope, now deceased, [brother of E. B. Pope, of this city,] was elected President, Sam VanArsdale Vice President, James Pope Secretary and Joseph Maier Treasurer.

The sum of $4.86 was realized at this meeting, which was handed to the Treasurer to place in the Plainfield Savings Bank. Mr. Maier not having occasion to go to town for a few days, placed the money in an envelope and put it in his safe. Two days afterward the bank failed, and at the next meeting it was proposed that the Treasurer hold all money until such time as when needed. No more was collected at any subsequent meeting, so this old envelope contains the original amount subscribed. On the Fourth of July following the fire company rigged up a ladder truck by taking the large wheels of two carts and placing thereon all the ladders that could be found in the place at that time. Below the ladders were strung a line of pails of various colors. The truck thus rigged was trimmed with the stars and stripes. During the day citizens, preceded by horsemen and a drum corps and followed by the fire company pulling their elaborate truck, paraded through the entire town. After this the apparatus was stored in the blacksmith shop. This truck was not taken into service during fires, as the wheels were all owned by individuals who needed them for working purposes, so when not in use for parading the truck was part of someone's farm wagon or perhaps doing good service in another line.

The first factor that placed the idea of organizing a fire department in the hands of these pioneer Dunelleners was the great fire which occurred on July 25th, 1875, when the entire business portion of the town was burned. On the site where now stands the row of beautiful brick stores, opposite the depot, there stood four frame stores. Chas. S. Pope, now deceased, occupied the one where E. Runyon's store now is and had the post office there. This was the largest general store in the place. The other three were occupied by Isaac H. Dunn, flour and feed, James Phillips, boots and shoes, and P. W. Brakeley, drugs. These stores were entirely burned down, and very little in them was saved. During the two years following several smaller fires occurred, in fact so frequently that it led to the organization of a fire company in the town, which was afterwards allowed to disband for lack of interest and support by the citizens.

Dunellen has been very fortunate in the past, regarding the few fires which she has had, but this does not say that she will always enjoy the same blessing. The houses are being built closer together year by year, and should a fire break out in a building centrally located, and fanned by such a breeze as we had on the Fourth, it would sweep away block after block.

Bound Brook still contains many marks of the great fire she had a few years ago. One can see here and there the foundation of some building which met its fate in this great fire. But they are a people who are up and doing. They now have not only a well organized department, but one equipped with a first-class truck and two hose carts. Dunellen must follow this example, if she wishes to protect herself. A fire comes like a thief in the night at a most unexpected hour, and in the words of the old saying "a stitch in time" might save the whole town.

THE CHRONICLER stands in a position where it can help Dunellen in securing the necessary information and perhaps funds for this purpose, as it is read by every Dunellener, and can through its columns place the facts and advantages of such an organization before all, who if in turn will do their part in interesting others as well as themselves, there is no doubt but that this town can be protected as well as any other. In view of this fact, we invite any who are interested to communicate with us on the subject, and in the near future a CHRONICLER will call upon representative citizens and give them an opportunity to express their views.

Rescued by a Plainfield Bred Woman.

The steamboat Volunteer, owned by Messrs. Kanouse & Moller, of Dover, was disabled last Saturday off Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, by the breaking of some part of its engine, and left at the mercy of the waves, which at the time were very rough. Mrs. H. P. Frothingham, formerly Miss Bedloe of this city, happened to be out in the vicinity at the time in her pretty little launch, the "Crescent", with Mrs. McLewee, her guest, and notwithstanding the risk in the rough waters, went to the aid of the disabled Volunteer. After the exercise of considerable skill in navigation to prevent collision the ladies succeded in making fast to the helpless boat and towed her gallantly to Schafer's dock, two and a half-miles distant.

KNOWS A GOOD THING.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Advertises Exclusively in Newspapers.

It has required many years of experience to convince advertisers that the newspaper is the only medium through which an adequate and certain return for their money is assured. The acquisition of this knowledge has cost the advertisers of the country hundreds of thousands of dollars. The lessons of experience were expensive, but as it was the only school in which they could be learned, the cost is not to be deplored. Shrewd advertisers now realize that through the newspapers alone can they reach the people.

There is little doubt that the recent example of the Pennsylvania Railway company in resolving to abandon all forms of advertising except through newspapers of known value will be followed by other advertisers. The Pennsylvania Railway company experimented for several years to ascertain the best medium for reaching the public. The newspaper advertisement was found to reach more people for a less expenditure of money than any other medium, and hence it will hereafter be exclusively used.

The result of the experiments of this great railway company are worthy the attention of all advertisers. The fact that after a full and fair test of posters, hangers, calendars, cards and sign boards as advertising mediums the company discovered that they produced smaller returns and were more expensive than newspaper advertising, should be appreciated by the most obtuse user of "printers' ink." The Pennsylvania knows a real good thing.—Exchange.

How Bonner Became a Millionaire.

Mr. Robert Bonner inserted, in the year 1855 and later, many full pages in the New York dailies, repeating short advertisements making a column or more, each separate advertisement beginning with a two line letter. This made the page look attractive, and no one could open the paper without being impressed by The Ledger's announcements. This had never before been done, and it made quite a sensation. The Ledger and what Mr. Bonner was doing was talked about everywhere. Some contended it was a foolish waste of money—that the repetition was unnecessary. Such persons were asked if they would have talked about it, and had their curiosity aroused sufficiently to induce them to buy The Ledger, if there had only been one advertisement instead of a hundred in the same paper? Certainly this kind of advertising aroused universal desire to see The Ledger. I remember one page that was set in squares like a checker board, every alternate square being a blank space. This was at the time a great curiosity.

The result of this advertising, the extraordinary merit of the paper, and the enterprise of Mr. Bonner in securing such a great array of talent in writing for it, brought the circulation of The Ledger at one time up to 350,000 copies, which was 100,000 copies more than any other paper had then reached.—S. M. Pettengill's Reminiscences.

The Blind Don't Read.

Very large type is not necessary in advertising—blind folks don't read newspapers. Quitting advertising in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low. Either plan will prevent good times from ever coming.

MY LITTLE SON.

I have a son, a little son, with happy, loving eyes
The color of the soft, brown dusk, drawn over starry skies;
A mouth that's meant for kisses, and a nature meant for love—
The sweetest thing God ever sent from His fair home above.

And, oh! that I might always keep my baby just like this!
Not grown too big for rocking, or too tall for mother's kiss—
A little, merry, toddling boy, with very broken speech,
And silent wonder for the things that lie beyond his reach.

But, little son, I know full well that some fine day you'll be
A man—perhaps a father, and grown far away from me.
But mothers' hearts are prison cells, and we do not forget,
And so, perhaps, in future years I'll have my baby yet.

—Edith Vernon Mann, in Ladies' Home Journal.

A MODERN PIRATE.

An Amusing Adventure with a London Bus Driver.

THE beauty about the following recital is that it is strictly true, although, doubtless, you wouldn't believe it.

I do not intend to mention any of the localities in London where the action of the piece took place, because I am not at all sure whether my conduct in the affair may not have placed me within reach of the law, and as I am at present about the only newspaper man in London who has not been in jail, I want to remain unique.

I may say in explanation to those who do not know London that there are two great bus companies in the metropolis—the London Road Car Co., which is the newest, and the London General Omnibus Co., which is the oldest. Besides these regular vehicles there are a number of private buses. Now, as there appears to be no law regulating 'bus fares, the private bus seems to be able to charge what it likes—and it does.

Fares in London are a well known quantity and the man who takes a bus doesn't look very closely at the outside of it except to see where it is going. These private buses, which are generally known as pirates, fix themselves up in such a way as to deceive the eye even of a man who is looking for them. For instance: Where the London General Omnibus Company has the sign "London General Omnibus Company," the pirate bus, which runs to the post office, will have in exactly the same space the words "London General"—and then in small letters—"Post office," which the same is calculated to deceive the very elect.

By mistake I got on to one of these pirate buses the other day, and until I came near the street at which I intended to get off I did not recognize the fact. The bus was crowded full, both inside and out, and I took the last seat that was vacant on top. Just before coming to my street the conductor mounted the top of the bus for fares. I tendered him a penny, which was the correct fare.

"Twopence, please," said the conductor.

"I got on at Whatyoucallit circus," I said.

"I know you did," was the answer; "the fare is twopence."

"Nonsense," I answered, "the fare is a penny from Whatyoucallit circus down to Blank street."

"Yes, perhaps that is so," replied the conductor blandly, "but this is a private bus and the fare is twopence."

"Then I won't pay it," I said. At the words "private bus," every man on top of the omnibus looked up and saw that he was in for it.

"You will have to pay it," answered the conductor, "or I'll summon you."

At this point the man who sat beside me shoved a penny into my hand and whispered: "For Heaven's sake, pay him, but go up this side street and make him follow you. He'll follow you and call a policeman, then after a little parley you can pay him."

"TWOPENCE, PLEASE," SAID THE CONDUCTOR.

I didn't take the penny, but I twigged what was up and so I said: "All right, I'll try and lead him off the course."

With that I pushed my way past the conductor, walked down the steps and jumped off. He promptly stopped the bus, followed down the steps and came after me. I walked up a side street, while he cast his eye up and down for a policeman.

"Look here," he said, "you have to pay that penny or give me your name and address."

"I will do neither one nor the other," I answered.

With that he ran across the street to where a policeman was standing, and then both of them came towards me. I stopped. We were now out of sight of the bus, for the street took a turn after it left the main thoroughfare.

"What's the trouble?" said the policeman.

"The trouble is this," I answered. "I got on at Whatyoucallit circus, and the fare is a penny down to Blank street. I have only come half the distance and he wants to charge double fare."

"It is a private bus," said the conductor.

"Or a pirate."

"Pirate or not," cried the conductor, "my fare's tuppence, and I want his name and address."

"Well," said the policeman, blandly, "I think you had better pay it. You see, there was a case only the other week before the magistrate about that, and the man had to pay his fare and the costs, too."

"Of course he had," said the conductor. "It'll cost him £1."

"Oh, very well," I answered, "if that is the policeman's decision, then it is all right. I have paid you one penny already, now here is another, and I ask the policeman to see that it is paid. To show that it isn't to save a penny I have made all this fuss, here is a sixpence for the officer's trouble, which means three halfs of bitter."

"Thank you," said the policeman, and the conductor muttering that all he wanted was his proper fare and that he was bound to have it, started back on a trot for his bus while I followed him.

When we reached the main thoroughfare the maddest man in London was the driver of the private bus.

"Where 'ave you been," he cried, with withering sarcasm, "been up at 'Ampstead? Been out in the country? Where's your bloomin' fares now, I would like to know?"

Where were they, indeed? The conductor was struck dumb with amazement. The bus was empty inside and out. The law required the driver to stick right to his post and he daren't leave it. The policeman on the beat had been in earnest confab with us over the penny and the driver had seen

"I THINK YOU HAD BETTER PAY IT."

his fares scattered to the four winds of London, mounting on other buses and disappearing in the crowd while he was utterly helpless.

"Why didn't you stop 'em!" asked the conductor weakly.

"Why didn't I stop 'em! Why didn't I stop you! Where 'ave you been, I'd like to know—squabbling over a penny? Where 'ave you been? Been 'aving a bath?"

This cutting sarcasm was too much for the conductor and he sadly mounted the steps of the private while the driver lashed his horses in rage and moved on empty down the street.—Luke Sharp, in Detroit Free Press.

DEAD LETTERS.

How They Are Handled and Finally Disposed of.

Letters that are misdirected or only partially addressed are turned over to a lady operator who has acquired skill by long practice, and is familiar with the name of every city, town, village and hamlet in the civilized world, knows all the streets and apparently the contents of all the directories published in this country and in Europe.

She knows that William Jones lives on a certain street in San Francisco as well as the carrier does that delivers the mail in William's district, and if one of William's friends addressed a letter to him at that street and number, and inadvertently writes Chicago or Los Angeles instead of San Francisco, she knows the letter belongs to William and she changes the address without opening the letter and sends it along.

If a thick-headed correspondent addresses a letter to James Smith, White Knoll, Tex., the lady to whom this letter finally comes knows at a glance that there is no White Knoll, Tex., and that the writer meant it for James Smith, White Mound, Tex. Sometimes a letter comes along with John T. Brown on it and nothing more, except the postmark of some little town way down in southern California.

Experience has taught the woman that nine chances to one the letter is for some other town in the same section of the country, and as a John T. Brown lives at a certain number on a certain street in San Francisco, the letter is sent to him.—Philadelphia Times.

Every Man to His Trade.

An eminent merchant attributes many of the failures of men who have always stood high in business circles, and have been regarded as heretofore successful, to the fact that success in one line of business led them to consider themselves infallible and invincible, and to believe they could succeed as well in untried fields, as in the business which had brought them fortune. Ambitions to be considered great financiers frequently leads wealthy merchants into speculations, which soon dissipate fortunes accumulated by years of devotion to a business which they were perfect masters of. Every man to his trade is a good motto, and if all would adopt it, there would be fewer failures, of men foolish enough to risk fortunes made in a business of which they knew everything, in business of which they knew nothing.—The Home.

—It Did, Indeed.—Her Father—"Mr. Sissy, I told you you must not call here. There, sir, there is the front door." Sissy (with dignity)—"Very well, sir, I go; but this lets me out."—Dude's Chronicle.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Would rather be without bread

Ramier's Rasmussen, Marquette, Mich., Nov. 7, 1888.

The Rev. J. Rawdiel of above place writes: I have suffered a great deal of nervousness; I feel now a person without coming; I take a dose of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and feel relieved. I think a great deal of it and would rather be without bread than without the Tonic.

Cured entirely after 12 years!

Tonawanda, Erie Co., N. Y., Febr. 1888.

My daughter had fits from Eight since 12 years, sometimes 3 to 4 attacks within 24 hours without any warning; during these spells her thumbs would be crumped toward the palm of her hands, her mouth be drawn sideways, her neck would swell up, and her face assumed a bluish color, this would last from 20 to 25 minutes after that she slept, was drowsy for about 9 hours.—We tried many remedies without any improvement, but 6 bottles of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured her at last; we therefore recommend this remedy to all sufferers.

JOHN EDIN.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

THE FIGHT IN OHIO

Great Excitement Over To-Day's Convention.

GOV. CAMPBELL HAS THE VOTES.

He Says He Will be Renominated on the First Ballot.

His Enemies Pack the Convention Hall—Stormy Scenes Before the Delegates Were Called to Order—Allan G. Thurman Selected for Temporary Chairman—Trouble Over the Silver Plank.

CLEVELAND, July 15.—If the political situation at noon is to be taken as a forecast of the Democratic convention, to-day is likely to break up in a bloody row.

Since 9 a. m. bad tempered discussions, disputes and quarrels have been of momentary occurrence. The anti-Campbellites are not as numerous in numbers as their opponents, but they are gaining and hard to down, and they have staked thousands of dollars that come what may to-day, they will slaughter Campbell in November next.

Ike Hill, of Licking County, ex-sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives at Washington, has alone taken a score of these offerings, and if Governor Campbell heads the poll at the election, Hill, in common with scores of others, will be richer by thousands of dollars.

An Exciting Scene.

Prior to the opening of the convention an exciting scene occurred at the Weddell Hotel. At intervals during the morning delegates visited the rooms of the general reception committee in search of information as to the hour that the convention would open, and to secure the necessary tickets and badges. In almost every instance they were asked as to their preferences, and the Campbellites were denied all facilities. When this was reported to State Chairman Norton he proceeded to the local headquarters and read the riot act in language that was anything but minced.

If, he said, there was any repetition of the objectionable actions, he would revoke the authority of the committee to issue tickets, and place the State Committee in full control of every seat in Music Hall. This had the intended effect.

Cheers for Campbell.

While deploring the bad feeling that has been manifested, Governor Campbell, in the bridal chamber of the Hollenden, is taking things calmly and with apparent contentment of mind. He threw down the gauntlet to his opponents upon entering the hotel this morning. While the majority of the crowd cheered until they were hoarse, the Hamilton and Cuyahoga County men, who occupied a big section of the rotunda, were conspicuous by their silence. Mounting a chair in response to calls for a speech, Governor Campbell pointed his index finger to the opposition corner and said, with emphasis: "I will make my speech this afternoon."

Afterwards in conversation he said that not only would he be nominated on the first ballot, but that he could afford to give a hundred votes of his reserve strength to his opponents in order that they might be able to make a respectable showing. As to the future after the convention, he was perfectly willing to let that take care of itself.

The Committee on Resolutions met in secret session in the mayor's office this morning. The silver plank is the only bone of contention now.

THURMAN IS CHAIRMAN.

The Friends of Gov. Campbell Organize the Convention.

CLEVELAND, July 15.—The Democratic State Convention was called to order shortly before noon.

Music Hall seats 5,000, but there are 6,000 persons present.

There is much disorder and great difficulty in perfecting an organization.

Allan G. Thurman Jr., has been selected for temporary chairman. He is Campbell's choice.

It will be late this afternoon before nominations are made.

RATS FEED ON A CORPSE.

Shocking Story Reported from a Hospital for the Feeble Minded.

WABASH, Ind., July 15.—The management of the hospital for feeble minded at Logansport, evidently needs looking into. Sunday night Mrs. Hannah Ewing of this city received notice from Superintendent Rogers of that institution that her son, Ira, an inmate for years, was dead. Fisher Ferry went to Logansport at once to bring the remains home. When he was admitted to the so-called dead room, Monday morning—a cellar under one of the buildings with only one window—he says the remains were on a cot and the rats had feasted on the flesh all night, eating away both eyes and all the lower part of the face. The Superintendent and attendants tell different stories about the use of this room.

Strike in a Custom House.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The laborers at the public stores struck because Collector Erhardt dismissed twelve laborers who refused to work after 5 p. m. A committee from the malcontents called on the Collector, who told them to return to work at once or be dismissed. He said, however, he would consider the complaint. The men went back to work.

Swindler Koch Caught.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Swindler Eugene Koch has been captured in Harlem. He forged checks by the wholesale and counts scores of victims. He had a letter from Cardinal Gibbons, and tried to victimize the Astors.

Two Men Drowned.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 15.—Henry Kurtz and John Moore, while swimming in the Erie Canal last night, were drowned.

GAVE HER JEWELS.

A Society Belle Creates a Sensation at Round Lake.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 15.—A peculiar scene was witnessed in the Tabernacle at Round Lake at the Christian Alliance Convention.

When the appeal was made for contributions to aid in sending missionaries to China and Africa, Miss Louise Shepard, a former dashing belle, who for several years was a habitue of Saratoga, walked forward and gave her diamonds and $250.

Then followed a great rush of men, women and children and the table was soon piled up with gold jewels and money. Two of the Alliance offered themselves as missionaries to the countries named.

PRISONERS PAROLLED.

Executive Clemency Extended to Convicts in New Jersey.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 15.—William Hall of Newark, who embezzled funds while employed in the comptroller's office, has been pardoned. He was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment, and had but a short time to serve. He will be employed as a clerk in the State prison at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Charles Acher, who killed Jacob T. Ash at Princeton, three years ago, has been parolled at the solicitation of President McCosh and the faculty of Princeton College.

William Haddock, a Trenton printer, who killed Matthew Dugan, is also parolled.

THE PRESIDENT'S CALLERS.

Banker D. O. Mills and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at the Cape May Cottage.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 15.—The President passed a busy morning with his secretary.

Banker D. O. Mills and daughter, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the Minister to France, made a call on the President and Mrs. Harrison. Mr. Mills said his visit had no political significance.

It is understood he is the bearer of important dispatches from Minister Reid on a question appertaining to the export of American food to France.

HORSEWHIPPED AN ARTIST.

Five Hundred Men and Women Witness the Affair.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 15.—G. H. Walter, who is known as "Trot Bird," horsewhipped last night in the rink Harry Erminie, a sketch artist, who made sketches of Walter for the purpose of selling them.

Walter used a black snake whip, and and Erminie, it is said, received a severe thrashing before anyone could interfere. Five hundred women and children witnessed the affair.

The Niagara Falls Suicide.

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., July 15.—There is but little doubt that the body of the man seen to go over Niagara Falls yesterday was that of E. W. Sherman, of this place. He had mailed a postal order to his daughter, consisting of all his money, from Niagara Falls on that day, and as he had attempted suicide twice before, his family entertain but little doubt but that he has succeeded.

Knights Going to Europe.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Inman steamship City of Berlin, which is to leave for Liverpool this afternoon, will take away 210 Knights Templar from all parts of the United States, who are to go Europe for six weeks. A majority of the party come from Albany. They arrived here by steamboat early to-day and were met at the pier by Cappa's 7th Regiment Band.

Wanamaker Will Not Resign.

WASHINGTON, July 15. — Postmaster-General Wanamaker said last night in regard to the report sent from here that he was to resign in the fall, that his official relations were pleasant; that business affairs did not require his presence, and that he had not the slightest intention of resigning. The despatch, he said, was simply the wanderings of an insane man.

Sutler's Remains Not Yet Exhumed.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Coroner Levy has forwarded a letter to Attorney-General Tabor, in which he says that the press of the country has, since the execution of Harris A. Smiler, charged that the killing was not according to law. He says he will not hold the inquest until he hears from Mr. Tabor.

Boot and Shoe Manufacturers Assign.

BOSTON, July 15.—Lang & Son, boot and shoe manufacturers of Braintree, have made an assignment. The liabilities will not exceed $80,000. No estimate of the assets can yet be given.

A Naptha Tank Struck by Lightning.

OIL CITY, Pa., July 15.—A tank containing 3,000 barrels of naptha, belonging to the Union Refinery, was struck by lightning last night. The tank and contents were totally destroyed.

FOUR THROATS CUT

A Woman and Her Three Grandchildren Butchered.

THE WORK OF BRUTAL ROBBERS

They Became Demons When Refused Money Concealed in the House.

Seventeen Gashes Inflicted on the Old Lady's Neck—The Children Carried Out One by One and Killed—Their Bodies Piled Together—No Clue to the Murderer—Officers are Scouring the Country.

FORT WORTH, July 15.—At 1 a. m. two men went to the house of George Newberry, two miles west of Joshua, Johnson County, and demanded admittance. Mr. Newberry being absent, his aged mother supposed that it was he returned home, and opened the door.

The men forced their way into the house and demanded $500 that they supposed had been received by Mr. Newberry several days ago. Mrs. Newberry said there was no money about the house, whereupon they dragged her out into the yard, tied her to the gate post and cut her throat.

One of the men then returned to the house where three children were sleeping. The eldest, a child of seven, was asked where her papa's money was. The child's answer was that she would tell her father on him. The fiend then took her into the yard and cut her throat.

Then he went back to the house and got the second little girl, aged five, carried her into the yard and cut her throat with the same knife.

Returning into the house he got the baby boy, two years old, carried him into the yard and killed him in the same manner. The man piled the bodies together, washed the knife and left it lying on the table.

Mrs. Newberry's neck shows 17 gashes, but she was still living when found and gave an account of the affair. She cannot recover, however.

Several hours later neighbors discovered the bodies and the alarm was given. There is no clue to the murderers, but the whole country is on the alert, and if they are captured no court will ever be put to the trouble of trying them.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Man Driven from A Boarding House Murders the Mistress and Kills Himself.

GARDINER, Me., July 15.—A French Canadian laborer named Thomas Vachon, aged about 26, from St. Raymond, Quebec, shot and fatally wounded Mrs. Nora Laudry, about midnight, and then committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Vachon formerly boarded with the Laudry's, but being sick and short of money he was turned out of the house.

As soon as can be learned Vachon went to the house with the intention of killing both Laudry, who was out of town, and his wife.

He entered by breaking in at the rear door, and, going straight to the Laudry's room, tried the door. On Mrs. Laudry refusing to admit him he burst in the door.

Mrs. Laudry and her two children escaped from the room. He chased them into another room shooting her in the back of the head two or three times, then, supposing her dead, he shot himself.

During the surgeon's examination Mrs. Laudry was conscious, and gave a full statement of the affair.

There is no chance of the woman's recovery. She is considered a respectable hard-working woman.

HUSBAND AND WIFE KILLED.

Policeman Ryerson, Who Did the Shooting, to be Arraigned To-Day.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 15.—Mrs. William Brennan, of No. 23 Grey street, Jersey City Heights, who, while helping her husband and his nephew to murder Policeman Ryerson yesterday morning, was shot by the policeman before he sent a bullet through her husband's heart, died in the City Hospital last evening.

Policeman Ryerson surrendered himself after the shooting and is now under arrest. He will be arraigned in the First Police Court to-day. County Physician Converse has ordered inquests on the bodies of Brennan and his wife.

Opposed to Minister Egan.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The delegation now here representing the Chilian insurgents say that Minister Egan will be ejected from Chili as soon as the Government of Balmaceda is overthrown. They declare that Egan is playing into the hands of Balmaceda to antagonize the English, who are sympathizing with the revolutionists. They also charge Minister Egan with causing the arrest of the Itata in notifying the Chilian Minister in Washington of her errand.

SHOT HIS FATHER.

A Winchester Rifle Discharged by a Four-Year-Old Boy.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 15.—Herbert McGinnis, the four-year-old son of John McGinnis, accidently shot his father in the head with a Winchester rifle, Mr. McGinnis dying two hours later.

The rifle was lying on the floor in a room above the kitchen, while Mr. McGinnis was seated by the kitchen stove. Herbert got out of bed, picked up the gun and discharged it. The ball passed through the floor and ceiling and lodged in Mr. McGinnis' brain. He uttered a few words and fell over unconscious, dying two hours afterward. He leaves a widow and two children.

English Interest in the World's Fair.

LONDON, July 15.—In referring to the appointment of the Council of the Society of Arts as the British Commission to the Chicago Fair, the Daily News says: "The greatest interest is manifest throughout England in the Exhibition. It will be a good thing for the commerce of both countries. If the English exhibitors prove that England's industries can hold their own, it may bring home to the Americans what they sacrifice to protection and open their eyes to the fact that the McKinley bill is not worth what it costs."

Big Running Race To-morrow.

NEW YORK, July 15.—A match has been arranged between Michael Dwyer's great horse Longstreet and Ed Corrigan's Riley for $2,500 a side and a purse of $5,000 to be given by the Brighton Beach Racing Association. The distance will be two miles. The race will take place to-morrow.

National Temperance Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 15.—The National Temperance Convention met here to-day in tenth session. Papers will be read by Terence V. Powderly, Mary A. Livermore, Mrs. Nellie H. Bradley, Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, Frances Willard and others. The sessions last through Thursday.

Striking Cigarmakers Win.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Oppenheimer & Fisher, A. Wolf & Co., and a large number of smaller cigar manufacturers, have agreed to pay the advance, $1, asked for by the men. The strike, which lasted ten weeks, is thus practically settled, though three firms still hold out.

Congregationalists in the United States.

LONDON, July 15.—In speaking before the International Congregational Council, President Northrop of Minneapolis gave a glowing description of the position occupied by the Congregationalists in the United States, and sketched the growth of the Church since early Plymouth times. He claimed for Congregationalism the adhesion of the best men and women in the United States, and the representation of the best thought and intelligence.

A TERRIFIC SHOCK

Explosion of a Big Gasometer in Rochester, N. Y.

MANY BUILDINGS TREMBLE.

The Tank Was Hurled in Fragments in Different Directions.

The Watchman Believed to Have Been Killed—There is a Mystery as to the Cause of the Explosion—Two Men Blown to Death in Brooklyn While Unloading a Vessel.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 15.—At exactly midnight last night a sharp concussion resembling an earthquake was felt all over the city. The morning newspaper buildings trembled so as to startle all the employes.

At almost the same moment a general alarm was rung in from the west side of the city. Later it was learned that the gasometer of the Rochester Gas Light Company, situated on Litchfield street, had exploded.

The gasometer was 100 feet in diameter and 40 feet high, with a capacity of 800,000 cubic feet. The tank was hurled in fragments in several different directions. One piece struck a canal boat named the F. C. Lauer and Son, of this city, injuring the captain so badly that it is reported at the city hospital that he will die.

The watchman of the gas works is supposed to have been killed, as he has not been seen since the explosion.

The company had been preparing to clean the tank and yesterday it lacked three inches of being full of water with all the vent holes in the top open, consequently there is a mystery as to the cause of the explosion.

Glass was broken all over the west side of the city.

BLOWN TO DEATH.

A Box of Dynamite Cartridges Explode While Unloading a Vessel.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 15.—While unloading a box of dynamite cartridges from the tramp steamship R. C. Booth, at noon in this city, the cartridges exploded, killing two men and wounding two others. One of the men was blown to pieces and fragments of his body were found strewn at some distance from the scene of the accident. The pieces were gathered and placed in a bag.

The two men killed were William Regan and Cornelius Hayes. The injured are William Williams and Ivan Eversin, the first mate and machinist.

Hayes was lowering one of the boxes of dynamite that was a part of the vessel's cargo to the dock when the box struck a projection and the explosion followed.

A large hole was blown in the starboard side of the ship. The vessel gradually filled and sank at her dock.

Captain Saville of the Booth was arrested for carrying dynamite without having it properly marked. He says he did not know the box contained dynamite.

NO CHANCE FOR BIDWELL.

The Noted American Forger's Case Called Up in the House of Commons.

LONDON, July 15.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Allison (Liberal) brought up the case of the noted American forger, Austin Bidwell, who in 1873 was sentenced to imprisonment for life for forgeries committed in England, whereby he obtained upward of $500,000.

Mr. Allison delivered an eloquent speech in behalf of the forger, in the course of which he asked Home Secretary Matthews to take into consideration the fact that Bidwell, who was 25 years of age when he was convicted, had been imprisoned for eighteen years, which he (Allison) submitted was ample punishment for the crimes of which the man had been convicted. Moreover, he said, Bidwell's prison record had been uniformly good, and this fact should also be considered in his favor.

Mr. Matthews said he had a number of times given careful consideration to memorials in favor of Bidwell, but his sense of public duty forbade him to advise the Crown to release him.

Decorated by President Carnot.

PARIS, July 15.—President Carnot, in commemoration of the fall of the Bastile, decorated three Americans—Mr. Van Bergen, Dr. Naechtel and Mr. Schweitzer, a delegate from the New York Benevolent Society. The first two were appointed officers of the Legion of Honor, and Mr. Schweitzer was appointed a Knight of the Legion of Honor.

Courtesies to Minister Snowden.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A London Snowden, United States Minister to Greece, Roumania and Servia, is expected to arrive in this country on the next trip of the City of Paris, and the Collector of Customs of New York has been instructed to extend to him the usual courtesies and facilitate the passage of his baggage and effects.

A Warning Against Corners.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—The Governor of Nijni-Novgorod has warned the Committee of Exchange that speculators forming corners to raise the price of grain or otherwise trading on the growing necessities of the people will be punished and expelled from his jurisdiction.

The Keystone Bank Stockholders.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Comptroller Lacey says his assessment on the stockholders of the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia would have the effect of determining who own stock, as in disputed cases the matter would be taken to a Court for decision.

Secretary Windom's Estate.

WINONA, Minn., July 15.—The inventory of the estate of the late Secretary Windom places his value at $190,700.98.

MONTREAL'S BIG BLAZE.

An Avenue of Fire in a Big Lumber District.

MONTREAL, July 15.—Fire destroyed the entire block bounded by Papineau road, Shaw, St. Catharine and Kent streets, which largely consisted of lumber yards and manufacturing concerns. When the firemen of the immediate neighborhood reached the corner they could not but look with dismay upon the fearful task before them. The wind, as if by magic, sprang upon and drove the fire further into the large piles of lumber and as one after the other they ignited, it became evident that more help was needed. All the reserves were called out, but to no purpose.

A row of houses stood on Shaw street. One after another they all succumbed. Looking at the scene from Delorimier avenue, it can best be described as an avenue of fire, such as has been seldom witnessed in Montreal.

Volumes of fire belched forth until it seemed that the brigade were helpless. When the wind suddenly changed new fears were added to those which already existed in regard to the safety of scores of dwelling houses just east of the conflagration.

The fire continued to spread and was licking up everything in its path when the wind suddenly changed and drove the flames back over the section already destroyed. The firemen then succeeded in getting it under control.

The total loss is estimated at $100,000. J. Brosseau, lumber dealer, loses $30,000, with no insurance.

ELECTRICAL EXECUTIONS.

New York's Plan May be Adopted by the Connecticut Legislature.

HARTFORD, July 15.—One of the matters which may engage the attention of the present Connecticut Legislature is the question of the substitution of electricity for hanging in the infliction of the death penalty. The report of the recent electrical executions at Sing Sing has aroused interest in the subject here.

The Hon. F. S. Stevens, one of the Representatives of Bridgeport, will probably introduce the bill. He would be very careful, however, to expunge the clause regarding secrecy, which he regards as un-American and unconstitutional besides.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The last of the St. Louis bucket shops has been closed.

The Standard Oil Company is trying to get land in Holland on which to erect storage tanks for oil.

The convention of the National Editorial Association is in session at St. Paul, there being about 800 editors present.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The next excursion to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park will be that of Trinity Reformed church and Sabbath-school, Wednesday, July 29.

—The members—whoever they are—of the "State Publishers' Union"—whatever that is—are to have a summer meeting at Avon-by-the-Sea, Friday.

—Borough Marshal Rutledge arrested truckman Krewson this morning on the charge of carting without a license. He refused Krewson's offer to pay the fee, and locked him up to await trial.

—Joseph M. Harper is advertising new games and toys suitable to while away the long summer days. Among them are the latest crazes, "Lambs in the pit" and "Jumping frog" which he will show to all callers.

—Mary Anna Castor, age 23, died at the home of her mother, Sarah Green, 169 East Sixth street, yesterday. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the house, and at 3 at the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

—The Supreme Dictator and grand officers of the State, will visit Wetumpka Lodge, Knights of Honor, Thursday evening of next week. Visitors from other lodges will be present, and the committee of arrangements have made special efforts to give all a royal good time.

—The Young Stars defeated the Young Moonlights in a ten-innings game of baseball, this morning, by the score of 1 to 0. The feature of the game was the running catch made by David Larnon. The battery for the stars was Winn and Fleming; for the Moonlights, Lines and McCann.

—The old complaint against Thomas Dowd, for intoxication and foul language, was dismissed by Judge Codington this morning, on motion of corporation counsel Marsh, and under two new complaints, on the same charges promptly issued, Dowd was held under $400 bail for trial next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

—The German Reformed Sunday-school's picnic will be held to-morrow afternoon if clear in Hyde's grove, Mountain avenue. In case of rain, it will be postponed to the next day, and if it should rain on both days it will be postponed to Thursday of next week. A stage will be at the church for the children at 1:30 p. m., and will return for the accommodation of the older people at different times until 3 o'clock. Refreshments can be had on the ground.

—A rare old day at the beach will be enjoyed by the Baptist excursionists to Belmar to-morrow. The train will leave the North avenue station at 8 a. m. Luncheon baskets will be taken care of by a committee on board the train. The excursionists will find superior advantages for enjoying the excellent boating, bathing and fishing of Shark River and old ocean, and will have a chance to run down to Sea Girt and witness the glories of Governor's Day at the State camp.

Plainfield Wins a Picnic Game of Ball.

The Grace church choir boys, chaperoned by Mrs. Wm. A. Freeman, enjoyed a day at Boynton Beach yesterday, and unexpectedly met the choir boys of Tarrytown and had a fine game of ball. The Tarrytown team was defeated by the score of 10 to 6. The Freeman brothers were the Plainfield battery, and the other players were: E. Brown, first base; H. Morse, second base; C. Morgan, third base; C. Rice, shortstop; C. Davis, right field; W. Langdon, centre field; J. Bartindale, left field. O. B. Smith was umpire.

Mrs. Wm. A. Freeman, who had charge of the party, with other ladies of Grace church saw that the boys enjoyed their dinner and supper at the Beach. A very pleasant day was spent. The Tarrytown boys against whom the game of ball was played were from Christ church.

The Campbells are brother and sister—both fine singers—from Brooklyn.

Young Bloods in a Fight.

A reporter of THE PRESS was present at a disgraceful fight that took place shortly after midnight this morning on the proposed site of the soldiers' monument, opposite the Crescent Avenue church. The participants who pounded one another, and the seconds and referee, are all young members of the best society in the city. Charley —— and Frank —— were the principals. For the sake of their relatives, a complete list of the names of those who took part, or were present, is withheld.

Imitation goods are gotten up for the ignorant and gullible. The persons able to read and write are not so easily fooled. They will insist that Hires's Root Beer is handed them, and nothing else "just as good." The best imitation is no good, and you know it.

THE WORKS WOULDN'T WORK.

The Water Supply Company Fails Where Contractor Moore Succeeded.

Yesterday was to have been a great day in the history of the Plainfield Water Supply company. Its five-million gallon pumping engines were to be started and its five-hundred-thousand gallon standpipe was to be filled. A number of the company's particular friends, including a representative of THE PRESS, were invited to be present.

Ex-Congressman John Kean, jr., with Frank Bergen, the company's president, were at the works in the morning to personally superintend the preliminaries. Together with assistant engineer L. L. Tribus they climbed to the top of the stand-pipe to look the thing over. While there they were caught in the shower which arose suddenly, and drenched to the skin. Mr. Kean thought he had water enough for one day and went back to Elizabeth on the 1:03 train, leaving Mr. Bergen, who is staying at The Netherwood, to entertain those invited to the exhibition.

About four o'clock the guests commenced to drop in at the pumping station, expecting to see the large Worthington engines running smoothly and the water gradually rising in the stand-pipe. But the pumps were motionless.

A line on the stand-pipe indicated that there was about nine feet of water then in it. Mr. Davis, who set the pumps, was asked by THE PRESS representative why they were not running. He replied that the Worthington people made pumps to draw water and not air, and the water in the stand-pipe was all he had been able to raise from the wells. One year ago last May, as the files of THE PRESS show, Col. C. K. Moore raised the water from ten of the wells in fifteen minutes, and under the personal observation of Rudolph Hering maintained a constant flow for seven consecutive days of over 3,000,000 gallons per day, without lowering the source below ground. In his test Mr. Moore used two small centrifugal pumps. Had they been of greater capacity more water would, undoubtedly, have been raised.

Upon an inspection of the Water Supply Company's plant yesterday by an hydraulic engineer, the pumps were pronounced as being perfectly set and connections well made. So far as the pumps were concerned no fault could be found. But when a faucet was opened in the engine room no water appeared, in the face of the fact of there being nine feet of water in the stand-pipe. It was a mystery to those present why the water did not flow back to the pumps as there is no check valve between the two points. The Hydraulic Tube Well Construction company was hastily sought to solve the mystery. Their agent upon his arrival, immediately said: "Too much air can't get a vacuum." He was then engaged by Mr. Bergen's chief engineer to bring out what men were necessary and find the leak. This, it is said, will take at least three weeks. In last evening's news appeared an article stating that engineer Davis gave the capacity of the stand-pipe as 5,000,000 gallons. The facts are, engineer Davis never said anything of the sort. The actual capacity of the stand-pipe is 514,049 gallons and the weight of that volume of water is 2,142 net tons.

Mr. Kean's guests, prominent among whom was the Hon. Foster Voorhees, were greatly disappointed at the failure of yesterday's test.

Only Soft Drinks Sold at the Christian Endeavor Bar.

The Christian Endeavor excursion to Newburgh yesterday was one of the most delightful trips ever taken from Plainfield. About 550 persons boarded the special train, beside 250 excursionists from Dunellen, so there was ample accommodation on the train, which consisted of fifteen cars, and on the steamer "Myndert Starin" during the sail up and down the Hudson.

At Newburgh, which point was reached at 2:00 p. m., many of the party visited Washington's headquarters, dozens of young people strolled along the bluff and enjoyed the view across the river, and quite a number remained on the boat during the hour and a half allowed to those ashore.

Returning the party reached Jersey City at 8:30, arriving at Plainfield at 10 o'clock, a tired but happy crowd. Nothing occurred on the trip to mar the pleasantness of the journey. During the sail up the river an attempt was made, on the part of the attaches of the boat, it is asserted, to dispense something stronger than soda water and sarsaparilla to outsiders at the bar, but on complaint to the committee of arrangements this business was promptly stopped and the bar entirely closed. So many begged to be allowed to purchase soda water, however, that on the home trip the committee allowed a stand to be erected outside the bar, where the wants of the young folks were satisfied.

Altogether the excursion was a complete success. The Warren Union Mission Christian Endeavor Society and the society connected with Trinity Reformed church were well represented. Dunellen, New Market, Bound Brook, and other points along the road sent a large number of Endeavorers whom the social committee found no difficulty in introducing. A string band of five pieces made merry music on the way and during the afternoon the singers on board enjoyed a concert in the cabin. Next year's excursion will no doubt prove equally as pleasant.

"Drink, pretty creature, drink"! Drink Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract. Five minutes makes it.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

P. L. Conde of this city is registered at the Surf House, Asbury Park.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut made a flying visit to his home in this city last evening.

At the Coleman House, Asbury Park, are registered Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harder of this city.

Mrs. C. C. Clyde and daughters, and Miss Marguerite Burnett, of this city, are recent arrivals at the Ocean House, Ocean Grove.

George T. Rogers, of 99 Rockview avenue, will leave town to-morrow for a two-weeks' visit to Chatham, Barnstable county, Mass.

The Misses Clyde and Miss Marguerite Burnet, two pretty ladies from Plainfield, are favorites at the Ocean House.—Asbury Park Daily Spress.

Master Jack Dumont's all right. His many friends and admirers will be glad to hear that he's got his eyes open again, and their sight is not injured.

The Misses Day of Orange, were the guests of the Misses Shreve of Grove street, last evening. A pleasant party was present and a delightful evening was spent.

Dr. T. S. Davis and family leave New York to-night for Boston and a short trip to the White Mountains, after which they will spend a month at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. George F. Meschutt, of 110 East Front street, with her daughter Nellie will leave town Friday for a period of rustication at Sparta, among the hills of Sussex county.

A Dover paper devotes over a column on its first page to a description of Arbor Vitæ Lodge, the elegant country residence of T. O. Bullock, whose wife was Miss Sutton of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harder, fashionable society people of Plainfield, will be welcomed by the social set at the Coleman. They are but recent arrivals.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

Robert G. Smith, of 111 Broadway, left for Maine to-day. He will rough it along the coast, preparatory to resuming his studies in the fall. He has successfully passed the examinations for Harvard, and will enter the Junior class.

Mrs. J. P. Homan, Miss Nettie Homan, George Homan, Miss Mamie Bradshaw, Miss Belle Bradshaw, of this city, and their friend Samuel Clark of New York, registered at the Grand Central Hotel, Asbury Park, to-day, for a two-weeks' outing.

The Fanwood Club will entertain a company of their friends at the Clubhouse, Saturday, from two until ten p. m. There will be bowling, lawn tennis, croquet, dancing and other amusements. Supper will be served from five to eight. In case of rain, indoor amusements will prevail.

John I. Holly, of this city, and Lieut. Oliver D. Bridgman, of The Netherwood, are members of a detachment from Troop A, First Dragoons, National Guard, New York's noted company of amateur cavalrymen, who will leave for Washington to-night, as the guests of Cavalry Troop A, National Guard of the District of Columbia.

The pretty dining room of the Hotel Columbia, Asbury Park, presented a gay appearance Monday afternoon. The children of the hotel were enjoying a very pleasant and highly successful dinner party, which had been provided for their amusement by several of the guests, with the able co-operation of Host W. H. Jones. For an hour the room rang with childish laughter and resounded with shouts of pleasure. Among the favored ones were little Miss Yerkes and Master George Yerkes, children of J. B. Yerkes, and grandchildren of the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of this city. Games and other amusements pleasantly occupied the balance of the day.

A Queen Victoria Born in Jersey Hills.

Patriotism for their own country and compliment to the British Isles have been happily blended by Mr. and Mrs. Jeptha A. Wagener, of South Stirling, in the naming of their offspring. The eldest boy is named George Washington; the next child is Prince Albert; then comes Edward Everett and then Martha Washington. The next to the youngest was christened Mary Althea, after the mother, and the latest arrival, which came on the Fourth of July just past, will be known as Queen Victoria.

Water-works for Cranford.

A franchise to construct a system of water-works in the village of Cranford was granted to eleven residents of the town in 1870 by the Legislature, but up to the present nothing has been done towards constructing a plant. Now, however, a majority of the original incorporators have signed a call for a meeting of the company to be held July 15, at Cranford Hall, where books will be opened for subscriptions to the capital stock. As soon as the preliminaries are concluded, work will be begun.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

Think They Saw Ghosts.

Two well-known Plainfielders, walking along the Park avenue highway just beyond the city limits, a night or two ago, were astonished at the sudden appearance of two ghostly white forms in the roadway before them. The mysterious objects gesticulated wildly, waved their arms, groaned, and vanished into thin air as suddenly as they had come. The two men were almost paralyzed with the uncanny horror of the thing, and now carefully avoid that neighborhood after dark.

Bright Glass Trade Prospects.

MALAGA, N. J., July 15.—The prospects for the glass trade for next "fire" were never brighter. All over South Jersey furnaces are being put in preparation for next fall's blast. Factories that have not been in blast for several years will resume operations.

An Old Farmer Hangs Himself.

BATAVIA, N. Y., July 15.—Daniel Norton, a prominent resident of the town of Alabama, and one of the wealthiest citizens in Genesee County, committed suicide early in the morning by hanging. He was 72 years old.

Two Pennsylvanians Murdered.

WILKESBARRE, July 15.—Dispatches received here state that Edward Williams and Thomas Morris, former residents of this place, have been murdered at Franklin, Wash. Tramps broke into the house, murdered the men and stole $1,900 which the victims had recently received for a claim.

Opposed to Statehood.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 15.—Strong resolutions against Statehood were adopted by the Liberal county convention. The Liberals are wary of the Mormons and distrust their professions of change of heart. Fully 200 delegates were in attendance.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The big Leary raft has been towed into Flushing Bay. The raft experienced some rough weather, but came through ship-shape.

An Unfortunate Shot.

Mrs. Rocks (to visitor)—Yes, Mizzus Bitters, my husband allus was a great feller for fun. He's out thar now seein' how close he can shoot to a Chinyman's ear and not hit him. He—what's the matter, Hank? (as her husband enters.) Did you make a mistake an' kill the heathen?

Hank Rocks (gloomily)—Worse than that! Never come nowhurs near the Chinyman, but killed Col. Alkali's forty-dollar mule too dead to talk about.—Mizzsey's Weekly.

Played on the Rules.

"Those firemen must be a frivolous set," said Mr. Spillkins, who was reading a paper.

"Why so?"

"I read in the paper that after a fire was under control the firemen played all night on the ruins. Why didn't they go home and go to bed like sensible men, instead of romping about like children?"—Texas Siftings.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Irate Individual—What did you mean by telling Smith that I had been in jail?

Calm Individual—I did not tell Smith you had been in jail. I simply said you ought to be in jail.

Irate Individual (calming down)—I beg your pardon. I must have misunderstood him.—Texas Siftings.

Time Would Settle It.

Fussy (to his wife)—I'm sure, Maria, those shoes are too tight for you.

Mrs. Fussy—Why, no; they're quite easy.

Fussy—Ah, just wait a week or so and you'll "acknowledge the corn."—Judge.

He Railed at Fate.

Cholmondeley—Too bad that I haven't got a rich uncle.

Montmorency—Yaas, that's what we all think.

"But then I know that I was intended for a nephew."—Light.

He Was Not a Purchaser.

Colonel Lotts (of Boomville)—Five years ago, sir, you could have bought the site of this thriving city for a mere song.

Visitor—I couldn't. I can't sing.—Harper's Bazar.

His Opinion.

Visitor—Well, Johnny, I suppose your father thinks the twins are something wonderful?

Johnny—Yes, but (in a confidential whisper) I could lick 'em both together.—Judge.

Not Frozen Out, But Burst.

Maud (to her wooer)—Well, I hope papa didn't give you a cold reception.

Bertie—No; he gave me a "roasting," but it amounted all to the same thing. Good-by, dear.—Judge.

Wanted Modern Improvements.

Sinclair—Uncle Tom says that if I marry you he will set us up in a nice little cottage.

Eva—No, I guess not; no Uncle Tom's Cabin for me.—Puck.

The Elephant Walks Around.

"Did you enjoy the circus, Johnny?"

"Very much. I had a ride on a big leather animal with a snake on his nose."—Puck.

Jealous.

"Brhins is still cursing the census."

"Why?"

"It embruced his wife."—Jury.

WAR-TIME SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS.

A Breezy Southern Sketch Which Will Interest Plainfield People.

To the people of this city, who are so familiar with the present-day methods of the religious sect known as the Seventh-day Baptist, which flourishes here to such an extent, the following sketch of the far-different, novel, and somewhat picturesque Seventh-day worship which obtained among the hills of Tennessee, in war-time, will be of considerable interest. The story is that of a Union soldier from the North, who has escaped from a Confederate prison in company with a loyal Southerner, and who, with his companion, Bell, is on his way to the Union lines. The extract is from one of a series of similar entertaining sketches in the New York Times:

"Old Man Sleigh", as every one called our friend, Sim's father, was the patriarch of the settlement. He lived in a large double cabin, and preached in the little church on Saturdays, for he was a Seventh-day Baptist, with a great deal of contempt for education and a firm belief in the power of personal inspiration. He heard our story, and when Mr. Bowman offered to take us to his house Old Man Sleigh clasped his hands and closed his eyes in the attitude of prayer, and said, with an accent that no combination of letters could reproduce:

"Bill Bowman—ah—these yar strangers—ah—hez come har from my son—ah—and the Lor' gave, and the Lor' he took-ith away—ah—so shall they tarry under my roof—ah—so long ez they need the Samaritan's help—ah."

Old Man Sleigh was evidently shaky in his Scriptural quotations, but there could be no mistaking the warmth of his welcome and the kindness of his heart. His family consisted of his wife, two daughters of over twenty, and a boy of seventeen, who was an idiot who had no kin, but whom the old man "wuz a keerin' foh foh the good Lor's sake".

The two cabins were connected by a floored covered way, which was also the sitting room when the weather permitted. One cabin had in it the usual two high-poster beds and the trundle beds beneath them. The other had a huge fireplace at one end, a table covered with oil-cloth, a dresser with the usual heavy bluestone-ware, and straps to hold the tin spoons along the edge of the shelving. The chairs were homemade and comfortable, and the chickens scratching about the door and the sow with her litter of black "roasters" under the main apartment all told of unusual prosperity.

Mrs. Sleigh and her daughters dipped, and they swore and used expressions that would not be thought polite in a camp of rough soldiers, yet it seemed so natural to them that the vulgarity was forgotten in their entire unconsciousness of harm. Mr. Bowman remained to dinner, for which a number of chickens had been killed, and the meal was preceded by a very long blessing and a drink of new corn whiskey, all taking it as freely and easily as if it were milk, except the idiot boy. Old Man Sleigh explaining the forced abstinance of the latter by saying: "I don't think no one should partake of them blessin's ez he ain't got the brains to preciate"—which was certainly a novel kind of temperance argument.

As the sun was sinking out of sight behind the Blue Ridge, men and women, the latter barefoot, though many of them carried shoes in their hands, came in from the hills and gathered about the little log church. On my expressing surprise, for this was Friday, Mother Sleigh explained that the folks "was a coming down to meetin'". She firmly believed that all those who were not Seventh-day Baptists were hurrying along the broad road to eternal ruin. She said in effect: "We uns' Sabbath begins at sundown to-night and lasts till sundown to-morrer. That's 'cordin' to the Scriptures. Them that works the seventh day and lies off Sunday is pore ignorant critters, and hit's mos' surprisin' to me that the Good Lor' ain't done lost patience with 'em long since. Damn all sich, say I."

The clapboards were taken down from the glassless windows just as the golden glare of the sun vanished from the higher crests of the Blue Ridge, and the people flocked into the meeting house, the women first putting on their shoes. Old man Sleigh carried in a bucket of water covered with a sheet, which he laid very solemnly on a little raised platform at the other end. A few tin saucers filled with lard were lighted and fastened to the walls for illumination. On rough benches the men and women sat facing each other, all with their eyes fixed on their clasped hands. I should add that the outer walls of the little meeting house were lined with long rifles, from which hung powder horns and bullet pouches.

In front of the building a huge fire had been built, and about this the children gathered, all silent and unnaturally solemn looking. There was a weirdness about the situation that impressed me greatly, and Bell, to whom this was no novelty, looked as if he were meditating a speech or a prayer that would make a hit. I shall not attempt to reproduce the long prayer of old man Sleigh. As his fervor increased, so did the number of "ahs" which he shouted like a man short of breath. Stirred by his zeal the men shouted "Glory!" "Amen!" "Hallelujah!" "Lor' bless Old Man Sleigh!" and "Fetch we uns with Thy sperrit, Lor'!" while the women groaned and swayed their bodies till the wonder was how those at the end of the benches kept from falling.

After the prayer two young men passed around corn bread and water, of which all partook sparingly. Then the men took off their shoes, and old man Sleigh with the bucket passed down the line, going through the motions of washing their feet and drying them on the towel. After this ceremony was over the men kissed each other and the women did the same. This was followed by a silence that was becoming positively painful when, to my great surprise, Bell rose and walked back to the little platform, where the old man embraced him. To this day I cannot tell whether it was religious zeal or the desire to make a good impression on our mountain friends that prompted Bell's conduct, but I am willing to give him the benefit of the doubt.

He began so quietly and hesitated so long and so often that I feared he had made a mistake, but gradually he warmed up, and he began to sway his body and to introduce "Ahs". Although his quotations were never exact, they were always appropriate. At length his eyes began to blaze and he developed an eloquence that stirred even me, and caused a continuous torrent of approving exclamations from his audience. After a time he took up the war and, with intense fervor, called out:

"I thank the good Lor', ah, that me and all them ax is of my kin is Democrats ah, but oh Lor' ah, in Thy infinite marcy ah, damn forever and forever, amen, ah, them that went after the false gods of secession ah, and brought on this de-stroyin' wah."

This seemed to me like the recklessness of a madman, but to my great relief the approving exclamations increased in vehemence, and the men and women began clapping their hands in concert. My friend had the sympathies of his audience.

After Bell had exhausted himself, others spoke in the same vein, and all worked themselves up to a great pitch of excitement. It was midnight before the meeting was over, and we returned to the preacher's house. The old man and his daughters were loud in their praises of what they called Bell's "spiritual gifts", and they hoped he would be moved to talk again on the morrow. We all slept in the same room, my companion and myself having one of the large beds to ourselves and the Misses Sleigh occupying one trundle bed and the idiot boy the other. As we prepared for bed in the dark all the proprieties were preserved, and with commendable modesty the young ladies stole out before we were awake next morning.

The following day, Saturday, still more mountaineers came down, and the services of the night before, including another sermon from my very remarkable companion, were repeated. There was no cooking done till after sunset, then the character of the people seemed to change. The men shouted like boys released from restraint and swore as if profanity were a positive comfort. The women sang and bandied coarse jokes with each other, and the younger and prettier ones—like their sisters the world over—showed a decided disposition to flirt.

She Remembers the Poor Newspaper Man.

The Dover Index says that it received on Monday with the compliments of Mrs. H. P. Frothingham, of Crescent Lodge, Lake Hopatcong, the finest pair of Oswego bass that probably ever came to Dover—one weighing six pounds when it was caught and the other over five pounds. They were from a catch of 27 bass made last Saturday by Mayor H. P. Frothingham, included in which were four fish ranging in weight from five to six pounds, and aggregating for the four the superb total of 22 pounds, or an average of 5½ pounds each. They were indeed beauties, and being placed on exhibition at the Hotel Breslin awakened a great deal of admiration. The genial Mayor of Mt. Arlington is fully maintaining this season his reputation as an expert angler, and the evidence of his skill is not an idle report, as his catches are constantly to be seen. Mrs. Frothingham was Miss Julia Bedloe of this city.

A Birdless Land a Lifeless One.

The teaching of children in the public schools to distinguish useful from pernicious insects, and between valuable and destructive birds would be of great service to the farmers of New Jersey and of great advantage to the children. Not a man, woman or child in a hundred knows to-day which insects are useful and which destructive. And very few know that nearly every bird is of more advantage than disadvantage. The children ought especially to be taught to protect the birds, for a birdless land is a land in which no human beings can live. In the economy of nature the birds are infinitely more important to mankind than is even surmised by a tenth of the people. If knowledge of their usefulness were promoted there would be no wearing of poor dead birds on hats or dresses.

What the Jersey Farmer Must Do.

The Macedonian cry with which the agriculturists recently burdened the air, with the expectation that the Legislature would come to their aid and begin an agrarian millennium by the passage of laws, at the time called forth from the State newspapers an admonition which was not calculated to soothe the feelings of the distraught grangers. The idea of making "farming pay" by the easy expedient of passing laws, and the expectation in the agriculturist breast that the multiplication of statutes upon the records of the State of New Jersey would make old Mother Earth yield up bigger crops and raise the price of farm products, to say nothing of regulating the markets of country, was a trifle too much, and the editorial fraternity, with a frankness that seems to have excited some of the grangers to protest, advised the farmers to abandon speculation on questions of finances, traffic and social-economic problems, and pitch in and till their ground, bringing to their work the most improved machinery and the greatest intelligence, and then they would have no need to petition for legislative relief.

The State Board of Agriculture, responsive to the needs and wants of the farmer, devoted a deal of its time last year to a study of the conditions of which the State grangers complained. The eighteenth annual report, which the board has just issued, bears ample evidence of the time bestowed upon the matters which the agriculturists have so long discussed. It is an agreeable fact that the members of this body, after exhausting the question, concur largely in the views held by the newspapers. There seems to be little the matter with the land of New Jersey. The soil is well adapted to diversified agriculture, and its farms are so favorably located that everything is to the advantage of the cultivator. The main trouble seems to be with the farmer himself.

It may as well be conceded—remarks the Newark Evening News—and conceded at once—that the Legislature can and should bring the railroad and other transportation companies to book as soon as it can be shown that the people of this State are the victims of excessive freight charges. The State is gridironed with rails and seamed with canals. The public, which has given away the rights of transportation, should be treated fairly. It will be seen that the Jersey farmer, with the two greatest cities of the country on either side of him, with the great shipping centres two hours' time from his granaries, with exceptional facilities to ship his products to the markets, enjoys advantages which the husbandmen of no other State can claim. What other conditions, then, beside the possible discrimination in freight charges, conspire to render the status of the Jersey farmer a matter of solicitude? The report of the State board shows the trouble. Too much labor is unintelligently exerted upon too large farms. That's the meat of the report of the State board. Fewer acres more intelligently cultivated, says the Commissioners, with a more perfect system of marketing, and the condition of the Jersey farmer would change for the better. Especially when his attention is paid to the cultivation of fruits, vegetables and dairy products for the 5,000,000 people at his door does the Jersey farmer reap the rewards which are his due.

Now that the steam engine brings the most distant farms of the West into quick communication with the markets of the country, the Western granger is an active competitor with the husbandman of the East. New ideas are in vogue, more scientific methods are employed, and better machinery used in farm work than ever before. The Jersey farmer, feeling secure in the knowledge of the great markets at his door, has plodded along in the old rut, and that has been and is his trouble.

New Jersey's Public Schools.

A census bulletin on education, prepared by a special agent, gives the preliminary showing of public school enrollment from the records of these States not shown in previous bulletins: Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey and Tennessee. Private and parochial school enrollment, still subject to revision, has never before been so fully presented. The combined bulletins for the whole country show an apparent enrollment in public school for 1890 of 9,951,608, and for 1890 a public school enrollment of 12,592,721, an apparent gain of enrollment in public schools of 26.24 per cent. The gain of population, meantime, was 23.86 per cent. New Jersey and Idaho have an apparent gain of school enrollment slightly less than the gain in population. In New Jersey the per cent. of gain in population from 1880 to 1890 is 27.74, while the per cent. of gain in the public school enrollment is 14.05.

Great Race for Plainfield Wheelmen.

At a regular meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle club, held Monday night, a committee was appointed to arrange for a grand road-race, open to all Plainfielders, over the county road, to take place early in September.

Three medals will be given. Particulars will be announced in these columns later.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

Advertise Your Specialties.

Good advertising consists in the selection of a few strong, quick selling specialties, to stand as the representatives of your stock in price, quality and pattern. Just as you select one smart, active man from every 160,000 of the people, and send him to congress as your representative, so choose a good thing to represent the store, and talk about that article. Put your whole energy and force into a strong argument why that should be in every reader's hands; try to talk as though that article was your entire stock. You will find it will draw more people to your store than the mere mention of a thousand articles. If you have sufficient space, two or three leaders can be put out at once, but seldom more than that in an ordinary advertisement. Each day take a new article and treat it in like manner, and you will soon find that your leaders will be town talk.

If you are a grocer, it won't be necessary to say that you keep all kinds of groceries, and itemize them. If you are an ordinary dealer, the public know that without telling. But should you have a new brand of pickles that is especially desirable, confine your advertisement to pickles for the day.

No tradesman need lack for a specialty. If it is a good article it will pay to push, and if it sells, the staples will sell with it.

Let specialties sell staples always, and try to take rank among your competitors as the one who is the quickest to recognize a good thing and the first to sell it.—Grand Rapids Telegram.

Strike a Popular Chord.

A striking advertisement will run the gamut of popular attention and get into the air like a popular song. Advertisements have become as familiar as household words, and remained advertisements long after they had disappeared from newspaper columns and from advertising bill boards. Who will ever forget the mystic "S. T. 1866 X?" It can no longer be seen in print, nor upon billboards, but the name of the compound it advertised comes to mind with the legend, and the advertisement is as bright as it was twenty-five years ago. "You press the button. We do the rest." It is hardly necessary to state what these words advertise. They have been so widely read and are so taking and so suggestive of ability that everybody knows what they refer to.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Not Quackery but Humanity.

The Chicago Tribune, in commenting on Dr. Brinkerhoff's case, says pertinently and forcibly: "The purpose of an advertisement is to bring those who want something in contact with those who have that something to dispose of. The physician's advertisement would answer the same purpose. The patient wants to be healed. The advertisement would acquaint him with the doctor who could heal him, and who had the skill to deal with his special case. This is not puffery or quackery. On the other hand, it looks very much like humanity."

Balsam and Boaz Were Wise.

Advertising is an ancient and honorable institution, and was practiced longer ago than a great many people imagine. Get your Bible, turn to Numbers xxiv, 14, and you will see that Balaam believed in advertising, and said to Balak: "Behold, I go unto my people; come, therefore, and I will advertise." Turn again to Ruth iv, 4, and you will find that Boaz, in connection with a real estate transaction in which he was interested, expressed himself as a judicious advertiser.

They Are Thoroughly Read.

The advertiser gets more for his money now than formerly, because the greater attractions of the newspapers increase the number of newspaper readers, and besides the newspapers are read more thoroughly now than ever before. The advertising columns are an interesting feature of well conducted newspapers, and are read about as generally as the news columns.—Savannah News.

The Local Paper's the Thing.

That the local press is by far the best means of advertising the advantages of a town or city is a recognized fact. The real estate men of Texas held a convention a short time ago, and among other things done they agreed that the very best way for towns to advertise themselves was through the medium of the local press.—Lexington (Va.) Gazette.

How to Make It Pay.

If you would advertise to influence others you should prepare such an advertisement as you think would influence you. Have it set in a sort of type that is easily read. Place it in the best paper available, and advertising will always pay.—Yonkers Statesman.

Exceptions Prove the Rule.

The argument against advertising that it does not always pay is as senseless as the argument against eating food because some fools have made themselves sick eating some kinds of it.—American Advertiser Reporter.

The Best Is the Cheapest.

Never do poor advertising; never let any one else do poor advertising for you. Poor work never pays. Use the best material that can be had, and have no half way work about it.—Printers' Ink.

Word It for Business.

When you expect an advertisement to create business, word it for business. An advertisement has no life in itself—it depends for its efficiency upon the vigor with which you endow it.—"When."

A Bureau of Information.

In large and ever growing communities wants of one kind or another are perennial, and advertising columns are a bureau of information never to be closed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

You can educate yourself to be a critic in the matter of advertising. Study the art.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Tramp—I drink, sir, because the weather is cold. I want to get warm, and you know it is a well ascertained scientific fact that one swallow does not make a summer.—Good News.

Couldn't Help Herself.

Watts—So she refused you, did she?

Dumley—Yes; said she wouldn't even be a sister to me. That made me mad, and now she's got to be one to me.

Watts—How is that?

Dumley—I proposed to her sister and was accepted.—Boston Herald.

A Straight Tip.

"Is your sister in the house, Miss Dorothy?"

"Yes, she is; and if you're coming often you'd better hurry up and propose, 'cause I've noticed with all the others when it goes on so long it never comes to anything."—Life.

A Sweeping Statement.

"Kin I git a job on the street-cleaning gang?" asked a weary wanderer of the city official.

"Sorry for you," said that individual, "but we're full up. We've got all the ladies of the 400 on our force."—Light.

Mitigating Circumstances.

Harold Harrington—Did I not see you talking with Downtown yesterday? Don't you know he is in twade?

Cholly Cholmondeley—Ya'as. But it don't agwee with him. He has failed three times.—Jewelers' Circular.

Historical Information.

"Who are these Orleanists who are always kicking up a fuss in France?"

"I suppose they are descended from the children of the Maid of Orleans," replied Gilhooly, who is well up in history.—Texas Siftings.

A Robe by Any Other Name.

"I'm going up to Hightones to buy a night-shirt."

"Better not. They call them robes de nuit up there and add two dollars to the price."—Light.

THE RAJAH'S TREASURE.

An Interesting Story of a Soldier's Gratitude.

(Written for This Paper.)

THE shades of evening had fallen over the turbulent and swiftly-running waters of the river Hooghly, an offshoot of the mighty and sacred Ganges, but the hush and quiet which in most places follow the close of day were here wanting, for the bark of jackals in the jungles which lined the banks, the shrill shrieks of nocturnal birds as they winged their flight over the muddy stream, added to the hum of human voices which were wafted from the City of Palaces, combined to produce a series of sounds that grated harshly upon the ear of a stranger.

A myriad of lights shone from the native boats, as they darted hither and thither between the shipping and the shore.

On one noble ship, the quarter-deck and rails were brilliantly illuminated by scores of gayly colored lanterns, while beneath the "after" awning two long tables groaned beneath the weight of the most luxurious and delicate viands of the east.

As the steward of the vessel, assisted by several native caterers, completed the arrangements for the banquet the captain emerged from his cabin and walked toward the gangway. He was just in time to greet a party of ladies and gentlemen whose boat he had heard tough the side.

It was a motley procession that poured over the rail.

There was the European merchant in conventional evening dress, accompanied by wife and daughters arrayed in the richest attire.

Then came the Hindoo banker, stately in his magnificent robes and turban, glittering with costly gems. Next followed the Mohammedan, perhaps a little less gaudily dressed than his predecessor, yet presenting a fine appearance, while the Parsee in his long, conical, bishop-shaped hat, flowing cloak of figured satin, and wide silken trousers, came next to the feast to do honor to the American captain.

Each guest was followed by his own servant, whose duty it was to wait on his master, and him alone. To a novice the arrangement at table would have seemed very strange, but in this land of caste it excited no comment. Each sect took their allotted places at the festal board, while before the group of Hindoos were laid utensils that had never been touched, save by people of their own kind, and the contents of the various dishes were wholly of the vegetable kingdom and had not been defiled by contact with the hand of either Musselman or Christian.

"There is one matter that puzzles me, captain," observed a fine-looking European gentleman, who was seated at the left hand of the host, "and that is why you, an American, should have named this floating palace of yours 'The Rajah's Treasure!' It certainly sounds oriental, and is very pleasing to our ears."

"It is, indeed, oriental," was the reply, "and the reason for the ship bearing this name is because my possession of her is due to an oriental; that is, primarily."

"It may not be fitting for me to relate the narrative at this time," began the captain, apologetically, "for it might call some unpleasant memories to many of my respected guests, as it touches upon the dark days of India which you all so well remember."

"The Capt. Sahib need have no fear of wounding the feelings of his servants," remarked one of the Hindoos present.

"Then I will tell you," went on the captain, "for it is an interesting story. I was a poor orphan lad in my own country, and was forced to turn to the sea as a means of livelihood. Slowly, very slowly, I crawled up the ladder of my chosen profession until I reached the position of chief officer, and in such capacity I have visited these shores many times.

"It was on one voyage when I had become almost discouraged and begun to feel that I was destined to live and die a mate that something most singular happened to me. On leaving Boston with a cargo of rice for this port the captain informed me that we had among our men a man whom he had allowed to work his passage to Calcutta, remarking at the same time: 'He is one, I think, who has seen better days, and I wish you would make things as easy for him as the discipline of the ship will allow.'"

"Captain, I pray you," broke in a military-looking gentleman who was seated on the speaker's right hand, "do not continue."

"But, colonel, our friends are anxious for the story," was the reply, which, however, was heard only by a few present. Then aloud: "At the first opportunity, when well out to sea, I had a long talk with the man who had taken this means to reach his home in the east. That he was a true gentleman I saw at a glance, and was much interested in that part of his history which he saw fit to reveal to me.

"I shielded him from the hardships of a sailor's life as much as lay in my power, for I felt grieved to find a man fitted to fill an exalted position brought to such a strait and that too by circumstances over which he had no control. The seamen, however, did not take kindly to their more delicate shipmate, and I am afraid that many times during the passage, unknown to me, they succeeded in making his life miserable.

"One night when about a week's sail from the mouth of the river Hooghly, I was startled by the cry of 'man overboard!' and hurrying to the rail of the vessel, I looked over the side, and saw the form of some poor unfortunate being swept past.

"'Hard down your helm! Back your main topsail! Lower away the boat,' I called quickly, and then sprang to the rescue of the man whom I thought I recognized in that one hasty glance to be my protege.

"A few strokes and I had reached him, and found that I had not been mistaken. But imagine my surprise when I heard him call in a cheery voice: 'Do not mind me, Mr. Boleyn. I am a good swimmer—but look out for that villain who tried to murder me, he is somewhere near'—and with that the brave fellow struck out boldly for the vessel which had now 'rounded to.' I was horrified for an instant as the meaning of his words flashed into my mind, but seeing a human head come to the surface close at hand I was recalled to the situation and reaching forth, grasped the miscreant by the hair, and with a vigorous movement threw him upon his back, keeping him afloat, at arm's length, as best I could.

"In a few moments, though it seemed hours, the boat reached us, we were picked up, and imagine my joy at seeing seated upon a thwart, our 'deck passenger.' When we reached the vessel, the captain was at the gangway to welcome us on board, and you will not be surprised that the first order I issued was to put the would-be assassin in double irons.

"After that, until we reached port, the man whom I had sprung overboard to save, lived with us aft in the cabin. Upon arriving at Calcutta, the singular character whom we had brought from America approached the skipper, and said: 'Captain, I wish you would let Mr. Boleyn, the chief mate, take a two weeks' run with me into the country, and I will give you my word that he shall return to you with full pay for his time, and the money for my passage, for now that I am in India, I am by no means a pauper.'

"The captain at first demurred, but at length gave his consent, and we at once started for the hilly region. I will not tell you the exact locality for which we were bound, but suffice it to know that it was not far from the famous city of Lucknow.

"When well upon the road, my friend revealed to me a most wonderful tale—a story that would rival any told in the Arabian Nights. My companion had been a captain in a company of foot during the Sepoy rebellion and it had been his good fortune to rescue from the hands of his justly-incensed soldiers the persons of the wife and infant son of a most powerful rajah. Although the husband was in the field, with many followers, against the British, the captain secreted his gentle captive and her charge and kept them in seclusion until the storm of war was passed—for he feared their fate if allowed to fall into the possession of his own countrymen.

"ALLOW ME TO PRESENT TO YOU MY FRIEND AND BENEFACTOR."

"When, however, the native prince laid down his arms, took the oath of allegiance to the English crown and through the magnanimity of the governor general was reinstated in his own province, my companion then hastened to deliver up to the great potentate his loved ones, whom the rajah had mourned as dead.

"When the chief heard the story of his consort, how she had been cared for and protected by the noble foreigner, his gratitude and generosity knew no bounds and he lavished fabulous wealth upon the preserver of his child and heir.

"A very small portion of the treasure allotted to the soldier he took at that time and resigning his position in the army proceeded to America, where, unfortunately, he entered into speculation, and lost all. Not wishing to send to his Hindoo benefactor, he preferred to work his way to India and call in person for the balance of the wealth which the native prince had conferred upon him, and which had been set aside awaiting the captain's order—and it was to obtain this that we were making the journey.

"When I saw the royal reception awarded my companion by the rajah's household my heart sank within me for shame at the remembrance of how illy he had been treated by the low-minded seamen on board our vessel.

"The amount of money which my European companion received I do not know, but this I am aware of; it must have been enormous, for he forced upon me the princely sum of twenty-five thousand pounds. It was with a portion of that with which I purchased the vessel, and now, ladies and gentlemen, allow me to present to you my friend and benefactor, Col. Robert Fraser, whom you all know (addressing the man on his right), and tell me if I have done wrong in naming my ship as I did."

After an instant's profound silence loud calls were heard for the colonel, who, rising to his feet, remarked with emotion:

"Kind friends, did you know what this gentleman did for me when he thought I was but a poor outcast on the world you would consider I was only a small part of a man had I not bestowed upon him some portion of the rajah's treasure."

MARLTON DOWNING.

"SORRY, BUT SHALL HAVE TO LET YOU GO."

Thousands of delicate young ladies are employed in fashionable Dry Goods, Millinery, and other stores, where through the long day they are constantly on their feet. Among this class, some of the worst cases of female diseases occur. There is no rest, and, when their ill-health becomes apparent, they are at once discharged. To such, the aid and sympathy of Mrs. Pinkham are always available.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the system.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

TROUBLE EXPECTED

Deputies Guarding Carnegie's Mills at Duquesne, Pa.

THE STRIKERS MAKING THREATS

They Are Determined Not to Let the Non-Union Men Work.

Convict Miners Warned Off by Tennessee Workmen—A Big Fight Expected at Briceville—The Governor Called on for Military Protection—Four Thousand Railway Employes in France Strike.

PITTSBURG, July 16.—Sheriff McCleary has 28 deputies on guard at Carnegie's steel rail mill at Duquesne, this county, in anticipation of an outbreak, when an attempt will be made to resume operations.

The 700 employes struck on July 1 because the firm would not sign the scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel workers. The firm has now secured 150 non-union men and will try to start up in defiance of the union.

The expectation is that there will be violence, as the strikers are determined not to let the new men work.

CONVICTS WARNED OFF.

Tennessee Miners Will Not Allow Prisoners to Go to Work.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 16.—There is liable to be a big fight at Briceville, a small mountain mining town near here, at almost any time.

For some time past the Tennessee Coal Company has been having trouble with the men in their mines at Briceville. Finally it was concluded that convict miners should be employed, and yesterday about 40 convict carpenters were taken there under guard.

Last night about midnight 250 or 300 miners from the neighboring mines went to the place where the convicts were camped and informed the guards that the convicts must be taken away.

The guards were few in number, and the convicts were accordingly marched from Briceville to Coal Creek on the Knoxville & Ohio road, where they were put on a car and brought to Knoxville and placed in jail for safety.

In the meantime the officers of the Tennessee company have called on the State for protection, and the Governor is expected in Knoxville by 6 o'clock tonight with three companies of State guards.

Victory For Custom House Strikers.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Collector Erhard has acceded to the demands of the men who went on a strike at the Appraisers stores two days ago. He ordered the doors of that establishment to be hereafter closed promptly at 5 p. m. No goods are to be received nor handled after that hour. The Collector also directed that the twelve men discharged by Deputy-Collector Burr, be reinstated. The men have returned to work.

Big Railroad Strike in Paris.

PARIS, July 16.—Four thousand railway employes met and decided to immediately organize a strike on the great railway lines entering Paris.

BURNED TO A CRISP.

Terrible Tragedy in a Double Tenement in Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 16.—There was another fire horror in this city during the morning which has left 16 families homeless and caused the death of two children, besides injuries to several other persons.

The scenes of all tenement fires were repeated in this one. Panic-stricken tenants, roughly and suddenly awakened, fled to windows for escape.

Flames met them, and in the unequal fight the fire won. It forced the tenants back and chased them out of the rear windows and down fire escapes. When it was all over two children were left dead. One was burned to a crisp, the other had been suffocated. One was the infant of the janitor of the building John Bishop, it was burned to a crisp and the fireman had difficulty in moving the corpse. The other was a little girl of John McCarthy, a tenant of the flats.

The first building was almost a mass of flames before the inmates were aroused. A policeman succeeded in entering the building, shouting the danger to the sleeping tenants.

Out of the hallways there dashed in irregular intervals white robbed mothers with children in arms and half dressed men, some grimy and some with scorched hair, which proved how close had been the call with them. The dreadful scenes of folks dropping out of windows and from off fire escapes were spared those in front, for no human being could have looked out of a front window and lived.

The firemen worked nobly, and soon had ladders up in addition to the fire-escapes. As fast as possible the firemen scaled the ladders, coming down each trip with some overcome woman or child in their arms.

The awful tragedy is supposed to have been caused by a firebug. Detectives are after him now.

An Attack on Senator Carlisle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. July 16.—Considerable excitement has been caused throughout the State over the assertion made by Zach Phelps that Senator Carlisle opposed the new constitution because it would work against the Kentucky Lottery Company whose attorney he is. Phelps also says the Lottery Company gave Mrs. Carlisle the Carlisle residence in Covington. The fight over the acceptance or rejection of the new constitution is getting hot.

BIG LUMBER FAILURE.

The Howell Company's Liabilities Estimated at $1,250,000.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Howell Lumber Company, with headquarters in this city and interests throughout the country, has failed. The main end of the business, located at Iron and 35th streets, was closed by the First National Bank of this city, which holds a $200,000 mortgage on the property of the firm.

The failure of the company is attributed to the Western branches of the business, which, aside from making poor investments in timber, have been a constant drain upon the Chicago house for more than a year past.

Roughly approximated the liabilities of the company are stated to be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. Of this amount about one-half consists of paper that is held by persons who are unknown to Mr. Howell, while the balance represents the liabilities the firm incurred in the ordinary transaction of business. The assets, also roughly approximated, may reach $2,000,000, according to a statement given out by Mr. Howell's attorney.

The failure is regarded as the heaviest blow the lumber trade of the country has experienced in a good many years.

THE ANARCHIST'S WIDOW.

Nina Van Zandt to Wed an Italian Grocery Clerk To-night.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Nina Van Zandt, who married August Spies, the condemned Anarchist, by proxy, will to-night marry Stefano Salvador Malato, an ex-journalist from Italy, who is now a grocery clerk.

Vice-President Bryan, of the World's Fair, says that Nina called on him the other day with her betrothed and wanted Bryan to secure an appointment as European Commissioner for Malato. She pleaded eloquently, and argued that Malato would be able to do wonderful things for the Fair in his native country.

Nina told Mr. Bryan that she had been an unwilling martyr to the cause of anarchy, and only went through those romantic little love scenes with Spies to elicit sympathy for him. She had been brought to do this by the repeated prayers and entreaties of the attorneys for the defence.

Nina said that she is going to start for Europe with Malato immediately after the wedding to-night. Malato is poverty stricken, but Nina's millionaire aunt, who cast her off after the Spies affair, has opened her heart again, and her shekels will pay the honeymoon expenses.

BATTLE WITH A BULL.

Farmer Shattuck's Terrible Struggle With a Maddened Beast.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 16.—Walter Shattuck, a farmer living near the village of Liverpool, had a terrible encounter with a mad bull yesterday afternoon and now lies at the point of death.

The bull got out of the pasture and Mr. Shattuck took a club to drive him back. The bull went along for a few rods and then turned on Mr. Shattuck, knocking him down.

The animal jumped on the prostrate man and tried to gore him. Mr. Shattuck caught the bull by the ring in his nose with one hand and with the other grasped the animal's tongue.

Mr. Shattuck's wife and daughter saw the fight from the house and hurried to the rescue. When they reached Mr. Shattuck he sent his daughter to the barn for a fork, and when she returned instructed her to run the tines of the fork through the ring and pinion the bull's head to the ground. She did this and released her father.

Mr. Shattuck's clothes were torn to shreds, and he was dreadfully cut and bruised.

Stabbed by a Negro.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 16.—Charles Good, a negro, stabbed and fatally wounded William H. Larkin at the latter's home, a companion with whom he was walking passed Good on the road. Larkin's companion shouted "Nigger." This so enraged Good that he sprang upon Larkin and inflicted what is thought to be a mortal wound. Good has thus far eluded the police.

Warden Brown Files His Death Reports.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Warden Brown, of Sing Sing prison, has filed his certificates of death in the cases of Murderers Slocum, Smiler, Wood and Justice, with County Clerk Giegerich. The certificates are mere formal announcements that the sentence of law has been executed. Attached to them are the death warrants and the signatures of the witnesses to the execution.

The Rev. Downs' Case in Court.

BOSTON, July 17.—The Downs case, in which the seven gentlemen of that name seeks to recover $30,000 damages from the members of the Bowdoin Church, was brought up in the Superior Court, the defendants in the suit moving that Mr. Downs be ordered by the court to furnish an endorser for the costs of the proceedings of the court. The motion was denied.

The Leiip Outlaw.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Tom Richardson, the Leiip outlaw, is still free and shows himself when he pleases.

Another Call to be Made on National Banks.

REDUCING GOVERNMENT FUNDS.

The Action Will Cause the Abolition of Several Depositories.

A Stir in the Treasury Department—Clerks Drawing Pay for Work Not Performed—Secretary Foster Issues an Order to Check the Abuse—The Mail Subsidy Steamship Routes.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Preparations are making at the Treasury Department to issue a call on National Bank depositories for the return of a further instalment of government funds now in their possession.

These funds now amount to about $19,000,000, and Secretary Foster has indicated on several occasions recently his purpose of reducing it to $15,000,000, which amount he is said to regard as sufficient for the needs of the public service.

The details of the plan of reduction have not been arranged. Its execution will, however, it is understood, involve the abolition of a number of depositories.

For Ocean Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker has issued the advertisement for mail subsidy steamship routes.

PAID FOR DOING NOTHING.

Secretary Foster Discovers Startling Facts in the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Secretary of the Treasury is just at present examining the leave of absence list of the Treasury Department. His investigation is bringing forth some rather startling facts in regard to the abuses of the system. Each clerk in the department is allowed 30 days' leave of absence every year, and in addition to this the government is very lenient in regard to "sick leaves." By custom an arrangement can be made by which the employe can obtain from the chief clerk of his division an extension of sick leave by providing a competent substitute.

In his examination of the existing list Secretary Foster has learned that some of his high-priced officials have been absent month after month attending to their private business and have had substitutes doing their work for them at half pay. It is said that one chief of division, who holds a most lucrative position, has during the three years he has been in office, been at his post so rarely that he does not know a clerk in his office.

During all this time this chief has paid some substitute a portion of his salary, though it goes without saying, of course, that some other unhappy clerk has been compelled to do all the responsible work for which the absent chief of the division was drawing his full pay. A number of similar cases have been discovered, though none so outrageous as this.

Secretary Foster has accordingly issued an order to all absentees to report to him at once the nature of their illness and present place of abode, attested by proper medical certificates, and it is likely before the next pay day the present sick leave list will be very much curtailed, and some clerks will have an opportunity of doing the work for which they are drawing salaries.

REPORT FROM EXPERTS.

They Fix the Amount Stolen by Ex-Treasurer Bardsley.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The experts appointed to investigate the accounts of John Bardsley, late City Treasurer, have made a detailed report to the Mayor, in which they say they have endeavored to discover the total amount of money received each year, and place the grand total of money misappropriated at $778,-935.20.

The Landry Tragedy.

GARDINER, Me., July 16.—Mrs. Nora Landry, the victim of Monday night's tragedy, is dead. There is considerable speculation as to what was the real cause of the crime, but the alleged criminal intimacy between the suicide and his victim seems to offer the most plausible theory, although strongly condemned by the dead woman's friends.

Guiteau's Body Cannot be Disturbed.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Murderer Guiteau's remains will not be exhumed. Coroner Levy has received the following opinion on the subject from Attorney-General Tabor of Albany: "I have fully considered the matter referred to in your letter and am decidedly of the opinion that you have no authority whatever to make the investigation contemplated."

Chief Justice Fuller for President.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Daily News says: "Back of the negotiations now going on to unite the local Democracy of Chicago is a well-formulated plan to present the name of Chief Justice Fuller for the Presidency when the opportune moment arrives."

BURNED IN EFFIGY.

New Jersey Citizens Excited Over a Doctor's Suit for Divorce.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., July 16.—The indignation of the citizens of Pemberton over the suit of Dr. W. L. Woodruff against his wife for divorce found expression in a mass meeting.

Speeches were made denouncing the doctor for the neglect of his wife and for his alleged intimacy with a strange woman residing in Jobstown. It was said that the doctor had trumped up indecent charges against his wife to support his bill.

Financial aid was pledged Mrs. Woodruff to defend the divorce suit, and the State Attorney was requested to prosecute Woodruff.

The doctor has been warned by White Caps and burned in effigy. He has sued the mayor of the town for $10,000 in consequence.

MR. BLAINE'S CONDITION.

The Secretary Says He Will Return to Washington September 24.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 16.—There is no change in Mr. Blaine's condition. His family feels certain of his speedy recovery.

Mr. Blaine has set Sept. 24 as the date of his return to Washington for resumption of his duties.

Delaware Has First Choice.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 16.—Delaware has been accorded the honor of first choice of sites for the erection of her State building at the World's Fair. This complimentary distinction comes as a recognition of her early patriotic expressions of independence, which took a practical form in the little Diamond State, it being the first State in the Union to adopt the Federal Constitution.

Republican State Convention.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 16.—Gen. John N. Knapp, chairman of the Republican State Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of the committee to be held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, Thursday, July 30, at 11 a. m., to designate the time and place of the next Republican State convention.

Supreme Council of Steam Engineers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 16.—The supreme council of the American Order of Steam Engineers adopted a mode of insurance giving $3,000 for death or total disability. Sessions hereafter will be biennial instead of annual, and the next session will be at Chicago during the World's Fair.

Another Victim of the Aspen Wreck.

SALISBURY'S SPEECH

England's Premier Has No Fear for the Future.

A BLOW AT IRISH HOME RULE.

He Says the Agitation is Now Backed by a Clerical Conspiracy.

The Abolition of the Illiterate Votes Might Be Necessary—Unable to Say When the Next General Election Would Take Place—Earl Spencer Talks About the Liberal Party and Home Rule.

LONDON, July 16.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at the United Club, last night, said he believed that the danger of church disestablishment had been considerably removed. If there was to be electoral reform the Conservatives had no dread of it.

The demand for one man one vote he regarded as sufficiently unreasonable, but the question of women voting demanded careful consideration, and the abolition of illiterate voters might be necessary.

He declared that the question of Irish home rule had found no lodgment in England. The agitation had been supported in the past by American gold and was now backed by clerical a conspiracy.

He was unable to say when the next general election would take place. He only knew that the septennial act would operate until August, 1892.

He would not deal with political meteorology beyond saying that he had no fear for the future.

The Liberals and Home Rule.

LONDON, July 16.—Earl Spencer, speaking at Royston last evening, said that the policy of the Liberal party in favor of home rule was stronger than ever. The cry of the Conservatives that home rule is dead was false. On the contrary, it was a living principal, as popular in the English constituencies now as it was before disaster overtook the Parnellites, and it would be the first proposal introduced in the next Liberal Parliament.

TWO BATTLES IN CHILI.

The Insurgents Win One and Balmaceda Successful in the Other.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Private advices have been received of two important battles recently fought in Chili.

In the first conflict, near Huasco, Balmaceda's forces were driven back after attacking the Congressional troops and took refuge beyond Coquimbo.

The Congressionals followed them, and the battle began again on Saturday morning.

Balmaceda's troops had been reinforced, and after a desperate struggle of hours' duration the Congressionals' line was broken and they hurriedly retreated.

The second battle, going the other way, might have ended the Chilian war.

CAMPBELL RENOMINATED.

He Controls the Ohio Convention by a Vote of Three to One.

CLEVELAND, O., July 16.—As predicted by Governor Cambell he was renominated on the first ballot, his enemies only being able to muster 192 votes out of a total of 900.

The ticket nominated is as follows: For Governor, James E. Campbell; Lieut.-Governor, W. V. Marquis; Auditor of State, T. E. Peckinpaugh; Attorney-General, John P. Bailey; State Treasurer, C. F. Ackerman; Judge of the Supreme Court, Gustavus H. Wald; Commissioner of Common Schools, Charles V. Miller; Member of the Board of Public Works, John C. McNamara; Member of the Food and Dairy Commission, H. S. Trumbo.

Text of the Resolutions.

The resolutions adopted endorse "the honest and economic administration of Governor Campbell and commends the Sixty-ninth General Assembly for its business qualifications, economy, reform, and especially for having provided for a secret ballot. The act of the Legislature regulating the compensation of county officers by providing a fixed salary is also commended. The issue tendered by the Republican party on the subject of the tariff is accepted in the belief that the verdict of the people will be against McKinley's teachings. A graded income tax is favored. The demonetization of silver in 1873 by the party then in power is denounced as an iniquitous alteration of the money standard in favor of creditors and against debtors, taxpayers and producers, and which, by shutting off one of the sources of supply of primary money, operates continually to increase the value of gold, depress prices, hamper industry and discourage enterprise. The reinstatement of the constitutional standard of both gold and silver, and its equal right of each to free and unlimited coinage is demanded. The Republican Billion Dollar Congress is denounced and the people are congratulated on the defeat of the Force bill. Closer commercial relations with Canada and liberal and just pensions to deserving and disabled soldiers and sailors is favored. The Russian Government's treatment of the Hebrews is condemned."

Salaries of Italian Ministers Reduced.

ROME, July 16.—The government has reduced the salaries of the Italian Ambassadors at London, Paris, Vienna, Berlin, St. Petersburg and Constantinople 15,000 francs each and lessened the expenses of its representatives at seven other capitals 5,000 francs each. The annual saving to the government by this action will aggregate 200,000 francs.

Severe Electrical Storm.

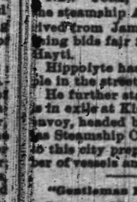
LEWISTON, Me., July 16.—A severe electrical storm raged in this vicinity last evening. At Jay four sets of farm buildings were struck by lightning and burned. R. E. Bryant, owner of one of the sets, was in the loft of his barn and was burned to death.

ORIGINAL No. 46.
Breakfast Fruit Cake
BY MARION HARLAND.

2 quart of flour, 2 cups of milk, 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, 1 tablespoonful of lard, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 quart of strawberries, huckleberries, blackberries or raspberries, 1 cup of sugar, 2 teaspoonfuls of Cleveland's baking powder.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together, chop in the shortening, stir in the milk with a wooden spoon. The dough should be just stiff enough to handle. Roll into two sheets, line a baking pan with one, put in the berries, strew with sugar, lay on the other sheet and bake. Cut into squares, split and eat hot with sugar and butter.

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.



The leavening power of Cleveland's Baking Powder comes from cream of tartar with soda, nothing else; that is why Cleveland's is perfectly wholesome, leavens most, and leavens best.

NAVAJOS ON THE WARPATH.

A Band of Prospectors Attacked and Their Bodies Horribly Mutilated.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Reports have been received here from Navajo Springs, Ariz., that the Navajo Indians are preparing for the warpath and that United States Marshal Brown has telegraphed for Fort Whipple for assistance.

One outrage, the news of which has just reached here, occurred in the Navajo valley, on one of the tributaries of the Rio de Chellie, about sixty miles from Fort Defiance. Only mutilated bodies, around which were scattered prospectors' tools told the tale.

The bodies were cut and hacked to a degree that rendered them unrecognizable.

Reports from other points surrounding indicate that the Indians are in a state of frenzy and at any moment may leave the reservation on a raid, although so far as reported they have not overstepped to any great degree the confines of their allotted land.

Another dispatch says that Sheriff Francis arrived at Navajo Springs late last night, having with him the Navajo chief, who was leading the band in their raid on the cattlemen. The sheriff states he has grave fears for the safety of his posse, who are surrounded by the Indians thirty miles from here.

He has asked all citizens to organize immediately, and to start at once to their assistance.

All the horses and firearms in the neighborhood have been secured by Company C, who will go to the scene as citizens, together with thirty more volunteers, within an hour.

The Sheriff secured the Chief while he was quietly riding on his pony a short distance from his band.

HAYTI IS UNEASY.

Legitime Coming Here for Vessels and Monitors of War.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The purser of the steamship Alene, which has just arrived from Jamaica, states that everything bids fair for a general uprising in Hayti.

Hippolyte has been slaughtering people in the streets right and left.

He further stated that Legitime, who is in exile at Kingston, has delegated an envoy, headed by an ex-officer of the Atlas Steamship Company, who will come to this city prepared to purchase a number of vessels and war material.

"Gentleman Pat" Killed on the Roft.

SALEM, Mass., July 16. — Patrick Sweeney, known to the local police as "Gentleman Pat," because of his extreme nicety in dress and the fact that he never worked, was struck and killed by a train on the Essex Branch Railroad here during the afternoon. Sweeney was of the same roving, jovial type as Irving's famous "Rip." For upward of twenty years he lived inside prison walls, with but brief intervals outside, his only failing being too strong a love for liquor and jail life and its companionship seemed to have a strange fascination for him.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mrs. Mary Collins died last night at Newburyport, Mass., at the age of 101 years.

Two students have been arrested in Sofia for the murder of M. Baltcheff. They have confessed.

The works of the Roberts' Machine Company at Collegeville, Pa., were damaged $8,000 by fire during the night.

The Law and Order League of Asbury Park, N. J., decided to keep up the fight begun by James A. Bradley against the beer bottlers.

Mrs. Dr. S. S. Holloway of Springfield, O., has fallen heir to $1,000,000 left by her uncle, Sir James Baxendale, an English Knight.

John McDonald's unoccupied hotel at Bath, N. Y., was burned to the ground, and two women and two men, names unknown, are suspected of causing the fire.

The six-year-old daughter of Scott Evans, a farmer of Providence township, near Lancaster, Pa., was killed by being kicked by a horse, which she had struck while her father was leading it to water.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad report for the month of June shows an increase in earnings for that month over the same month last year of $55,196 and a decrease in expenses of $93,633.

Collector Hutchinson of the Hartford, Conn., Internal Revenue District has discovered a shortage of $1,000 in the accounts of Fred C. Wilcox, a division deputy. Wilcox explains that he has merely neglected to balance his accounts and turn over the Government funds.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Oh, for fire hydrants!

—A fraternal visit is expected to-night from Junior Past State Councilor Hill, and several members of Enterprise Council, No. 6, of Trenton, N. J., to Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city.

—The Potter Press works had to shut down this morning. A tube in the big boiler blew out, and in consequence there was no steam to run the tools. The men will probably be able to go to work again to-morrow.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. E. J. Waring and family of Myrtle avenue, are at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Charles W. Kellogg and wife of Brooklyn, are the guests of E. H. Holmes, East Front street.

Foreman Buckman of the Central Times has gone to Pennsylvania for a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Belle Pennington, of Newark, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. George Lewis, North Plainfield.

Mrs. Joseph A. Blatz of North Plainfield, is visiting at the summer residence of her brother, the Hon. John Ulrich, at Belmar.

At the afternoon tea to be given on Saturday by the Hillside Tennis club, Mrs. Mumford M. Truman will receive, assisted by Miss Simpson, Miss Allen and Miss Lawrence.

Bishop Vincent made the address of welcome at the thirteenth annual convention of the Business Educators' Association at Chautauqua, yesterday. The meeting will last for ten days.

Captain Leyh and Lieutenant Booth of the Salvation Army detatchment on duty here, will say farewell at the meeting of to-morrow evening as they are ordered to march to Jersey City and there take command of "Station No. 2."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Murray and W. D. Murray are going to Wyalusing, Pa., to spend a part of their vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Murray, sr., will only stay a week, but Mr. and Mrs. Roger Murray will remain longer, and be joined by Councilman and Mrs. Townsend Bushmore in a few days.

Miss Frankie Phillips, the well-known music teacher, gave her class a reception at the home of Alvah Gray, Dunellen, last Friday evening. The entertainment consisted of some choice music, progressive games, dancing, etc., after which refreshments were served by Compton. The manner in which the musical selections were rendered, reflected great credit on the teacher.

The Rev. Dr. Lewis has taken a cottage on Webb avenue, Ocean Grove, for the summer, where he will be able to prosecute his extended literary work in quiet, beyond interruption from countless callers. The entire family will be at home there until October probably. Arrangements have been made for the supply of Dr. Lewis's pulpit here, until that time.

Died on Her Sixteenth Birthday Anniversary.

Seventh-day Baptists of this city will grieve to learn of the death of Miss Susie Davis, a charming young girl, just budding into sweetest womanhood, and only daughter of the Rev. D. H., and Sarah G. Davis, who recently came to this city to visit William H. Rogers, of Central avenue, and other relatives and friends, while resting from their long and arduous missionary labors in China, where they have charge of the Seventh-day headquarters at Shanghai. The death of Miss Susie occurred at the home of her grandfather, David C. Gardiner, near Nile, N. Y., on July 4, her sixteenth birthday anniversary.

Susie was born in Verona, N. Y., July 4, 1875. A little more than six months ago she received baptism at the hands of her father at the same time that several of the Chinese girls from the school were baptized.

The return of this family to this country at this time was in part that Susie might have the advantage of school life and training amid the full enjoyment of a Christian civilization and under advanced Christian influences, with a view to a more efficient and useful life among the poor of China, for whom she had already come to possess a yearning love. But, after being in this country scarcely six weeks, and just after she went from the Western Association and the Commencement exercises at Alfred to the home of her grandfather, for needed rest, she took to her bed and fell into a rapid decline. The parents, who had gone into the Northwestern Association to labor awhile among the churches there in the interests of missions, were summoned; but before they reached the father's house the precious life had departed.

The funeral was attended in the church at Nile, July 8, conducted by the Rev. Dr. L. A. Platts, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Williams, of Alfred, and the remains were laid to rest in the family grounds, in the beautiful Mount Hope Cemetery, near the village of Friendship.

Imitation goods are gotten up for the ignorant and gullible. The persons able to read and write are not so easily fooled. They will insist that Hires's Root Beer is handed them, and nothing else "just as good." The best imitation is no good, and you know it.

THE CHIEF HELD UP THE TRAINS

And Though the Steamers Had to Pump Their Water Most a Mile, the Fire Never Gained an Inch.

Last night an incendiary set fire to the barn in the rear of the property on West Front street just beyond Plainfield avenue, formerly occupied by ex-Councilman Clark. In it was stored a quantity of furniture from the old house that has been torn down to make room for the cutting of a street through the property and the erection thereon of a number of smaller dwellings. There was also a lot of mahogany doors and some frames and window sashes, etc. Everything but a few door and window casings was saved by the prompt arrival of the firemen and their untiring efforts. After they got water the fire did not gain an inch.

Box 43 was pulled about 9:15 o'clock. Somebody pulled at the same time a box near by, but so perfect is the system there was no interference. As soon as one box is pulled all the others are "thrown out" until that box finishes its work. No. 2 steamer was out so quick that she arrived ahead of Chief Doane who jumped into a carriage at Park and North avenues and started for the fire before the alarm had repeated itself the third time. No. 1 steamer was also very quickly on the spot.

The incendiary had started the fire in the cow shed of the barn where 300 bundles of straw were stored. The barn was entirely consumed, but as soon as hose could be stretched to water, the flames were under control and adjacent sheds were saved. The loss was $600.

No. 2 was compelled to take water through 1,600 feet of hose from the brook near the Harberger homestead. No. 1 got her water from the well at the Potter Press Works on the other side of the railroad. The hose was stretched across the tracks and Chief Doane held up all trains for about an hour.

Alert's new hose-wagon worked to perfection, except when the driver tried to follow the direction of 317 smart Alecks who knew just how the vehicle ought to be handled. Some of these same meddlers caught it in the neck later in the evening. They got in the way of the firemen with their persons and their advice, and were stepped on or knocked down.

A CHASE AFTER CHASE'S CLERK.

Wallace Williams Indorsed a Money Order to His Sorrow.

Post-Office Inspector Beavers arrested in New York, yesterday, Wallace Williams on a charge of forging the indorsement to a money order for $10.62 on Nov. 10 last. The prisoner was brought before United States Commissioner Shields, where he was confronted by the complainant, R. F. M. Chase, of "Edgewood", North Plainfield.

Chase said that in October last he was the treasurer of the New York Soap Company. Williams was bookkeeper. The Company failed. Chase then opened an office in the Broadway Bank building and employed Williams as a clerk, allowing him to open his letters and transact the office business. Williams, in addition to forging Chase's name to the money order already mentioned, also forged a check which he cashed at his bank.

The post-office inspectors have been trying to find Williams for several months. They learned that he was in the habit of receiving a remittance from abroad at Drexel, Morgan & Co's office every six months. They watched for him there, but failed to see him. Then they discovered that he was boarding at No. 328 West Twenty-fifth street, New York. The proprietor, however, told them that Williams simply took his meals at the house and boarded on Eighth avenue. Beavers failed to find the place, and returning saw a man who answered Williams's description. He arrested him.

Williams said he would have an interesting story to tell when the proper time arrived. He was held in $3,000 bail for the Grand Jury and was sent to Ludlow street Jail. The New York papers wired their correspondents in this city, last night, for Mr. Chase's story of the matter, but did not succeed in getting an interview.

A Pleasant Day at Boynton Beach.

A stage load of popular young men with their wives and sweethearts of this city and the borough spent yesterday in a very pleasant manner at Boynton Beach, in fishing, boating, bathing and other amusements. They were entertained in a royal way by the proprietor, Mr. Boynton. They returned home late last night, after having had a "big day."

A New Bridge for Sandford Avenue.

At a joint meeting of committees from the Somerset and Union county boards of freeholders, yesterday, it was decided to build a new iron truss bridge over Green brook at Sandford avenue. The span will be about 48 feet. Bids will be received for the construction of the work.

The Sanity of John R. Clark.

John Clark, who was taken from his little shop at Front and Somerset streets to Muhlenberg Hospital, a few days ago, is no better. An examination concerning his sanity will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and he will probably be sent to an asylum.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

SATURDAY'S BATTLE ARRAY.

Here Are the Men Who Will Meet in Combat on the Crescents Grounds.

Hammill and Jones! Harkins and Kennedy! They'll be the batteries for Saturday's game on the Crescent League's base-ball grounds. It will be the second of the series of six games arranged between the West Ends of Somerville and the Crescents of this city. The former won the first by the score of 11 to 2—the Crescents getting only three hits off Harkins. Next Saturday the record will be different.

The Crescent League's nine will be the same as that which last Saturday won so fine a game against the Ridgewoods. Gregg has been released and Keelar is signed as extra man. The batting order and positions of both nines will be as follows:

CRESCENT LEAGUES.	WEST END ATHLETICS.
Jones, catcher,	Carbonell, centre field,
Lufbery, second base,	Farrell, second base,
McIndoe, first base,	Moorehead, short stop,
Bonner, left field,	Harkins, pitcher,
Holly, centre field,	Kennedy, catcher,
Lee, third base,	Roberts, first base,
Hammill, pitcher,	Lladly, left field,
Corry, short stop,	Heiser, third base,
Taylor, right field.	Davenport, right field.

A Double Dose of Defeat for Dunellen.

The Young Plainfields, of this city, played the Stars, of Dunellen, two games of ball, yesterday, at the latter place. The Young Plainfields won both games. The morning game was for blood from start to finish, and it was not won until the last man was out. It was a fine exhibition of ball playing on the part of the Young Plainfields, who did themselves credit in holding down the heavy hitters of the Stars. The Young Plainfields ran bases well, hit well and played well. The morning game was an errorless one excepting some wild throws on the part of the Stars. The score in the morning game was as follows:

Young Plainfields	0	1	1	1	2	0	1	0	1—7
Stars	1	0	0	1	0	2	0	0	2—6

The batteries in the morning were Craig, Holland and Thiers for the Stars; Mattis and Sutphen for the Young Plainfields.

The game in the afternoon was not started until 2:30, and only six innings were played. The Stars could not do anything with Mattis's pitching. He struck out four men, two of whom were the Stars' heaviest batters. On the other hand the Young Plainfields batted the Stars' pitcher all over the diamond. The batting of M. Sutphen, Mattis and Craig were the features of the afternoon game. The score was:

Young Plainfields	0	2	2	3	1	0			8
Stars	1	0	0	0	1	0			2

The batteries were Craig, Sutphen and H. Stephens, for the Stars; Mattis and Sutphen for the Young Plainfields.

—Plainfielders visiting Ocean Grove will find the Edge Moor House, at 34 Seaview avenue, a convenient, attractive, and satisfactory hotel to patronize. It is only two blocks from the beach, and faces the lake. Its rates are reasonable; its equipment and service excellent.

Gen. Clarkson Home Again.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Gen. James S. Clarkson, vice-chairman of the National Republican Committee, was among the passengers from Europe on the steamship City of Paris. Gen Clarkson returns home after 10 weeks in England and France, most of which time was spent in London and Paris.

Another Newspaper Venture.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of the Chicago Times to E. H. Green, son of the famous and rich Hetty Green, and a trio of prominent newspaper men. The new paper is to be called the Times-World, and it is said Joseph Pulitzer is to have a share in the new enterprise.

Son Killed and Father Shocked.

ERIE, Pa., July 16.—During the storm yesterday a thunderbolt struck the residence of G. S. Kelly at Union City. Mr. Kelly and his son William, aged 20 years, were standing on the veranda. The young man was killed outright and the father was so badly shocked he will die.

Two Sisters Drowned.

PITTSTON, Pa., July 16.—A sad drowning accident occurred here last night. Kate and Mary McGowan, sisters, were out sailing on the Susquehanna River when their boat upset, and they were thrown into the water and drowned.

Will Carnegie Leave America?

GLASGOW, July 16.—The Weekly Citizen of this city says that Mr. Andrew Carnegie of New York has been inspecting the saleable estates at Farraline, Boyers and Invergloy, and that it is believed to be Mr. Carnegie's intention to settle down as a Highland laird.

Reciprocity in the North.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The Provincial Legislature of Prince Edward Island has adopted a resolution favoring more strictly reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

Reason Knocked Endways.

Mr. Borem (buying a railway ticket)—What became of the ticket-seller who used to be at this window?

Ticket Agent—He's in a lunatic asylum.

"You don't say so. What drove him crazy?"

"A shock."

"Shock, eh?"

"Yes. One day a man came to his window, bought a ticket, paid for it, and walked off without stopping to ask a string of foolish questions."—Good News.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Gantz, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation, and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant. And I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Jos. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

PRETTY EXPERIMENT.

One That Any Intelligent Boy or Girl May Easily Make.

Bore through the cork of a wide-mouthed bottle a hole of such size as to allow the insertion of the neck of a glass funnel, and make an air-tight joint with paraffine wax or a bit of common paraffine candle melted down. There must be no air holes between funnel and cork or between cork and bottle. Half fill the bottle with water and drop into it two of the powders, a blue and a white one (bicarbonate of soda and tartaric acid), sold by druggists for the production of the familiar Seidlitz draught.

The liquid forthwith effervesces, by reason of the liberation of the carbonic acid gas, and this gas struggles to escape as fast as it is generated through the opening in the funnel. But if you place in the funnel one or two balls of elder pith or cork, the gas can escape only intermittently, one or other of the balls falling, by force of gravitation, into the lower part of the funnel and stopping the passages until the pressure of the carbonic acid gas in the bottle below becomes so strong as to lift it out of the way.

Whenever this happens some of the gas escapes, the pressure diminishes and one of the balls falls again into the opening. The effect continues as long as the gas continues to be liberated, and if you have painted the balls in different colors, their dance, as they rise and fall in the funnel, has a very pretty effect.

By gumming one of your little balls to the center of a cigarette paper, cut out and colored to represent the wings of a butterfly, you may give the experiment quite an artistic character.

HIBERNATING FISHES.

Remarkable Cases Observed by Thoroughly Reliable Persons.

We have heard of toads which have been imprisoned in solid rock for centuries, and which were found alive when their abiding-place was cleft open. This reminds me of things I have observed about certain fishes in winter which I think will be interesting to young folks. A large number of fishes, some of them living in deep ponds, brooks or out in silent nooks of the sea, will remain for four, five or even six months in the same position without eating or so much as moving fin or tail.

In the government fish hatchery, under the management of Mr. Wilmott, superintendent of pisciculture for the Dominion of Canada, at Newcastle, Ont., I had much opportunity to study certain fishes in winter, for they could be clearly seen through the glass sides of the tanks. In one tank, about a third of the way up from the bottom, were half a dozen German carp, all facing the direction from which the water flowed. I noticed their positions about Christmas, saw them again in January, twice in February and two or three times in March, and in all that time not one of them had changed its position or moved a fin or tail. Mr. Wilmott told me that this was quite usual among these fishes. He permitted me to raise the cover of the tank and poke a couple of them with my stick; each one made a slow, lazy movement, and relapsed into stillness. Just above the carp, in the same tank, was an eel about three feet long.

When I first saw it in December it was curved like a perfect S, and all through the winter it preserved that shape without, so far as Mr. Wilmott knew, once moving. This, I may add, is how numerous kinds of fishes spend the winter. So long as they remain perfectly still there is no waste of animal tissue, and they do not need food. Put a frog into a tank at the beginning of winter, then place a small piece of wood in the tank; the frog will get upon the wood, with his eyes looking straight up, and never so much as move until the weather begins to get warm in the spring; he will then begin to jump about and look for something to eat.

But the strangest case of hibernation that I know has been related to me by Dr. Ferguson, the pathologist of New York hospital. In one of the small tanks belonging to the hospital museum a carp of a particular description had been placed. One very cold night the water where the fish was kept was frozen through, and the fish embedded in it. The care-taker took the ice from the vessel and placed it on top of an ash barrel where rubbish was put away. The cylinder of ice remained where it was put for a couple of months, till the hot spring sun one day melted it down to the place where the fish was frozen. Some attache of the hospital then was surprised to notice a fish wiggling in a piece of ice. The carp had survived his imprisonment, passed the period of hibernation and resumed his old activity.—Harper's Young People.

The Use of a Periwig.

A "periwig" is described by an old authority as "a long curled wig with a pole-lock in the center, behind." We should call this "pole-lock" a pigtail. It hung over the back of the wearer's coat, and was tied at the end by a bright ribbon.—Harper's Young People.

Setting Himself Right.

"Mamie," said papa, "won't you have a little piece of this chicken?"

"No, thank you," said Mamie.

"What! no chicken?"

"Oh yes. I'll have chicken, but I don't want any little piece."—Harper's Young People.

THEY'LL YELL BUT NOT KICK.

What Our Friend the Enemy Has to Say About Next Saturday's Ball Game.

[From The Harkinstown Messenger.]

Next Saturday the West Ends play the second game of the series with the Crescents, on their grounds, and it will not be a walkover on either side. It is my opinion—and I am sure it is a correct one—that the two teams are now pretty evenly matched, as the Crescent management have gotten rid of their deadwood; besides Holly and Cory of Ponds, they have secured Andy Ridly to play in the field, and with Taylor in the box, rid of his Carmencita movement, and Bonner to hold him—which he can do in the truest sense of the work—they are very strong. Taylor and Bonner have been playing together nearly every day for a month now, and are doing fine battery work. Their infield is a stone wall and their outfield is just as good. That they can hit Harkins' I am not sure; but if Taylor shows the speed he did in the first game, and Bonner can hold him, base hits by the West Enders will be as scarce as hailstones in July or firecrackers at Christmastime. That they mean to give us a square deal I can positively assure you, and that there will be no kicking by our players is the decree that has gone forth. So, all of you who go (and we hope there will be a large number), howl, yell, make all the noise you can, but don't kick and don't hiss.

The Crescent League members are good fellows every one of them; and if Berriman roasts us, and the team plays dirty ball, believe with me that it is not because they were told to do so, but because they cannot help it. Let everyone who can possibly get away go to Plainfield next Saturday. We want you all to go and "root" for us—the more the merrier—and you know that many a game has been won because the rooters have put new life into our players by their hearty, steadfast cheering.

Al Mack will lead the cheering, and I can only say, keep together, and when Al gives the signal yell like fiends, and we are sure winners. The grounds are on Somerset street, about three blocks from Front, and the game will be called at 3:45 p. m.

Fraternal Courtesies.

[From The Mc Laughlinville Leader.]

A most enjoyable visit was made on Monday evening by members of Fireside Council Royal Arcanum, to their brethren of the same order in Plainfield. The trip was made by stage so as to allow the return to be made when convenient; and it need not be said with the spirits on board (not liquid ones be it understood) that this was no small part of the very pleasant experience. The cornet solos by Prof. C. H. Day, the banjo playing by A. A. Smith, the unison and part singing by all, of every conceivable sort of music "from grave to gay, from lively to severe", must have astonished the natives along the route, even if it did not arouse their sense of gratitude and their feelings of high appreciation.

Certainly the arrival and departure, in Plainfield, were witnessed by an interested, not to say a demonstrative, crowd; and the reception by the brethren in their well-arranged hall was of the genuine Royal Arcanum kind. After an hour or two spent in delightful entertainment by the various members of the Council in which the visitors bore a much appreciated part, all hands adjourned to a restaurant for rest and refreshment. Here "the feast of reason and flow of soul" were continued, till the lateness of the hour admonished the Westfielders that other things were to be taken into consideration than the fleeting pleasures of the present.

An Endowment Fund Instead of an Anniversary.

Mrs. N. E. Kimball, President of the Children's Home, has requested THE PRESS to publish the following appeal:

To the Friends of the Home:—In view of the fact that the fifteenth anniversary of our work for the children will come next year, it was, decided at the annual meeting to make this an off year, and hold no public anniversary. It has been suggested by a friend outside our Board that we should mark the year by an effort to raise our present endowment fund of $3,000 to $5,000. The friend who makes the suggestion offers to give $500 if the ladies of the Board will collect the other $1,500 by May 1, 1892. Any friend of the Home willing to aid in this work can send their gifts marked "Endowment" to Miss Ella Serrell, Treasurer, or Mrs. Horace Kimball, President.

Of course this must not cripple our regular contributions for the support of the Home. This is an extra gift to mark our crystal anniversary.

For the Association,
N. E. KIMBALL,

Even the Babes of Plainfield Are Becoming Bicyclists.

One of the novel uses a bicycle has been put to may be observed almost any day, in this city, in the passage of bicyclists along the streets with little children strapped on the machine in front of them. The eyes of the little ones are usually wide open with wonderment, and in great glee they wave their tiny arms and crow and prattle with delight.

This is beyond question the latest mode of transporting babies, and it attracts no little attention. Among the first to introduce the novelty have been L. W. Serrell, Jr., Wm. H. Rogers, and John J. Kenney.

SOLVED BY A PLAINFIELDER.

Editor Hodges Conquers Forever the Lightning-rod Problem.

N. D. C. Hodges, publisher and editor of Science, and a resident of Franklin place, this city, has made some very curious and interesting observations on the effects of lightning, which he proposes to utilize for his own benefit, as well as for that of the public. Happening to interest himself in the study of lightning-conductors, he was impressed, like most others who have examined the subject, with the uncertainty of their effect. It would seem, on the ordinary theory as advanced by Franklin, that an iron rod, with the point in the air, and the lower end attached to a good earth connection, would conduct atmospheric electricity harmlessly into the ground, but the fact remains that it does not always do so. We know much more about electricity now than we did ten years ago, and Mr. Hodges happened one day to take up a book by Silvanus P. Thompson, in which a theory was given to explain the enormously high potential shown in the lightning discharge. The theory was that so long as the electricity of the cloud was distributed over the particles of a mass of fine mist it would remain at a given tension, that tension depending on the capacity of the particles and other circumstances; but when the mist-particles began to coalesce into rain-drops, their surface being reduced, while their bulk remained the same, there would be a decrease in the electrical capacity of the water in its new form, and, the charge remaining the same, an increase in the potential. This observation suggested to Mr. Hodges the idea that, if the theory were well founded, the converse ought to be true; that if the lightning discharge were received on some large body, which should then be broken up into fine particles of vapor, these, having larger electrical capacity than the solid from which they were formed, would act to reduce the potential of the charge which they carried, and the effect of the lightning would be mitigated.

In reading the published accounts of the effects of lightning, he found much to confirm this new idea. There were many instances where, for example, lightning striking the bells in the upper part of a church tower had run down the wire connecting them with the clock movement in the lower portion, and in each case, while the lightning had shattered the tower above the bells and below the pendulum of the clock, or other termination of the wire, the portion of the building between the two ends of the wire was unharmed, although the wire itself was dissipated into vapor by the discharge. A still more curious case, of a similar kind, was described in the books, which still further confirmed his theory. A palace in France was struck by lightning, and was visited the next day by a Fellow of the Royal Society. The principal rooms, in which a considerable company was assembled at the time of the storm, were heavily gilded, and the furniture was also gilded, and was set in contact with a gilded strip on the walls. The gilding in the rooms had disappeared. It was dissipated by the lightning, but no one in the rooms was injured, nor was any damage done except the removal of the gilding. In the lower part of the house, where there was no gilding, there was a good deal of destruction. Acting on these suggestions, Mr. Hodges has patented a lightning-rod, which has already been spoken of in the columns of THE PRESS, consisting of a thin strip of copper, to be attached to the house in such a way that the discharge will follow it from the roof to the ground, but of such feeble dimensions that it will be dissipated into vapor, the destruction of this absorbing the energy of the lightning, so as to save everything else about it. It is obvious that a lightning-rod of this sort must be renewed as fast as it is destroyed, and, after the house had been struck once, and its protector dissipated, it would be a rather uncomfortable task to put up a new one while the storm still raged; but this difficulty might, perhaps, be obviated by having two or three strips on the house. If the most exposed of these should be destroyed, the others would still remain, and would probably give ample protection until the return of fair weather gave an opportunity for restoring the full number. As Mr. Hodges's conductors, ready to put up, only cost five dollars apiece, the experiment would not be a very costly one. In a discussion on the subject at a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in New York, the interesting suggestion was made by Chas. Steinmetz that the reduction of the capacity of the conductor would materially alter the character of the discharge, even if it were not dissipated. If a condenser, or an electrified cloud, is discharged by means of a conductor of large capacity, and, in consequence, of low resistance, the discharge takes place by oscillations, following each other with immense rapidity. As the capacity of the conductor is reduced, the resistance increases and the rapidity of the oscillations diminishes, until, by further reducing the size of the conductor, the resistance may be brought to such a point that there will be no oscillation, but the electricity will traverse the rod only once, moving steadily down to the ground. It would seem that the resistance to the small conductor would incline the current to leave it and jump to a better one; but Mr. Steinmetz said that, on the contrary, the free and rapid oscillation of the discharge in a large conductor produced violent induced currents, which not only caused dangerous secondary discharges, but obstructed the main current, disposing it to jump from the conductor to metal masses of greater condensing capacity. It is well known that much destruction is caused by disturbances which seem to occur simultaneously with the passage of the main current of lightning, but at various distances around it, and these are frequently attributed to "secondary discharges," or "return strokes"; but remarks the American Architect—Mr. Steinmetz's explanation is new to us, and if, as he thinks, a small conductor of considerable resistance carries away the discharge more quietly and safely than a larger one of low resistance, the science of protection from lightning owes a considerable debt to him, as well as to Mr. Hodges, for these observations.

Been Reading the Dream Book Again.

The Elizabeth Journal says:

"Those who have gone to Plainfield, from this vicinity, in the cars, on bicycles, or by other conveyances, cannot have failed to notice, a short distance this side of that city, the stand-pipe which has been erected by the Plainfield Water Supply Company, for the purpose of supplying the 'Mountain City', as Plainfield is sometimes called, with pure and wholesome water. Mr. Bergen is president of the company, and ex-Congressman Kean is one of the principal owners.

"The fires in the boilers were started for the first time Saturday, and Monday some water was pumped into the stand-pipe.

"When the stand-pipe is full the water will weigh 2,146 tons. That quantity of water, allowing 20 gallons per day for use, would supply one person with water for seventy years. The stand-pipe has a capacity of 5,000,000 gallons, allowing four gallons per day per capita. That amount of water would supply a city of 125,000 population, besides allowing enough for flushing sewers and fire purposes. 'The pressure will throw a stream of water ninety feet high from a one-inch-and-a quarter nozzle.'

Those who have read the correct figures in THE PRESS will smile at the Journal's alleged statistics and will correctly surmise that the Journal could not have been so grossly misled except by the Somerset dream book. A stand-pipe that contains 5,000,000 gallons [!] is not the greatest of the many wonders and blunders in the article. The marvel is how any one could conceive for a moment that four gallons a day is all each Plainfielder wants. Do Plainfield people never bathe, or wash dishes, or wash garments, or sprinkle lawns and gardens? Four gallons a day apiece!—what a thirsty, unclean city this would become! And 5,000,000 gallons! The wretched lack of common-sense exhibited by the generator of such a yarn is pitiful; but that and the lack of mathematical knowledge and ability are about what might be expected from such a source as the Somerset street dream book.

Outside of Plainfield Such Beauty is Rare.

[Adapted from the Elizabeth Journal.]

The lovely Langtry must be running short of new and sensational methods of advertising. Tuesday it was reported that her new and wealthy Scotch admirer knocked her down and kicked in her face, because she was taking dinner with still another admirer; and the Atlantic cable brought the dire intelligence that her beauty was destroyed forever by the brutal kick. Yesterday the serviceable cable brought the pacific news that Mrs. Langtry was not kicked, and that her beauty and complexion are as dazzling and as perfect as ever. This last is really good news; for beauty is a scarce article, outside of the city of Plainfield, and ought to be taken great care of.

Prospective Purchaser—What a thoughtful looking parrot! Polly want a cracker?

The Parrot (late of Boston)—I am aware, my dear madam, that there exists an almost universal but erroneous belief that all parrots manifest a predilection for crackers. This hypothesis would be amusing were it not for the intimation it affords of the pathetic paucity of dietetic knowledge upon the part of the masses. May I awsk if you are aware that there is more nutriment and inspiration in a single plate of beans than in three score and ten crackers? A thorough appreciation of Browning will never follow a regimen of crackers. But what is the matter, may I awsk? You manifest considerable perturbaion.—Life.

An Important Meeting.

Mr. De Cash—Very sorry, my dear, but I cannot accompany you to-day. I must attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Happy-Go-Lucky national bank.

Mrs. De Cash—What have you to do with that institution?

"I am one of the board of directors."

"You never attended a meeting of the board before, and I don't see why you should break up my programme for that to-day."

WILLIAM WANAMAKER'S WAY.

He Thinks the People Cannot Be Humbugged.

Mr. William H. Wanamaker, a member of the Philadelphia firm of Wanamaker & Brown, on a brief business trip to Louisville, where the firm has a flourishing branch establishment, has been giving his views on the general subject of advertising in the Louisville Commercial. His opinion and experience will be read with interest. He says: "There are no people anywhere that can be humbugged or deceived more than once. Your customer, while he may not know the intrinsic merit of what you offer, can form a pretty fair idea of quality, and once you mislead him his confidence in you is gone forever, and besides that he will influence a portion of his circle of friends against you.

"If there is any one thing I would offer as a maxim to advertisers it is this, 'The truth pays.' Some years we have spent over a quarter of a million dollars in advertising, and you can readily see that we have given the subject very much practical trial, and have studied it theoretically as a science. In all these years we have watched the returns carefully from every standpoint we have taken, and are now prepared to give our unqualified opinion that more and better returns are given to us through the newspapers than all the other means ever tried.

"We advertise every day in the year," said Mr. W., "except Sunday. There is always some trade doing, even in the dullest season, and we strive to divert the floating or transient trade to our place. Again, when business ordinarily is dull, people who see our invitations in the newspapers are more apt to read them, for the reason that they have more time to read, and there are fewer advertisements then. Many merchants who have been in business for a certain number of years will say, 'Oh, we are so well known it is no use for us to advertise.' There never was a greater mistake. We would as soon think of canceling our insurance policies as our advertising contracts. We spend more money with newspapers each year that goes by; there are more people who want goods, and new trade is always coming to the surface.

"Advertising that is well done is cumulative in its character. It is like the compounding of interest. An advertisement inserted in a daily paper one day will, in all probability, make a good return to the merchant who has the goods the people want at the right prices. Each successive advertisement that he puts in gains an impetus and influence from the original one, and so it counts up until the name of the firm gets what is equivalent to the 'good will' of a successful business, besides deriving the direct profit from immediate sales caused by the advertising.

"To advertise well a merchant should give as much care to his newspaper space as he does to any other department of the business. As a general thing a merchant can well afford to spend in newspaper advertising from one-third to one-fifth the amount of all his other total expenses. If a man in business talks as earnestly through his newspaper when he is addressing one or two hundred thousand people simultaneously as when he is talking to one customer, he cannot fail to make a success of newspaper advertising."

Methods of Advertising.

An organization known as the "Business Writers' Association" met in Cincinnati and canvassed the merits of the different mediums afforded for gaining publicity. It was the unanimous opinion of those present that the newspapers gave the retailers the best and most direct returns, and that well established trade journals and magazines were of worth for the wholesalers and manufacturers of wearing apparel, toilet and proprietary articles. Snap publications were condemned.—Albany Press.

Dullness Begets Dullness.

Do you tell us, O candidate for the custom of the community, that you can't afford to advertise because your business is dull? Listen! it is dull because you don't advertise, and you don't advertise because it is dull, so the vacant circle is complete. We tell you if you are doing ill to advertise that you may do well, and if you are doing well advertise that you may do better.—Prentice.

An Undertaker's Ad.

Catchy phrases are the rage of the day with "advertising writers." It began with "We press the button," and you know the rest. But it has reached a climax. Out in Candelaria, Nev., an undertaker has put out a sign: "You kick the bucket. We do the rest."—Printers' Ink.

Surprise an Element of Wit.

An advertisement to be good should have originality. Surprise is an element of wit. The unexpected attracts attention and makes an impression. The impression created by the advertisement should be a favorable one, however, or harm rather than good is accomplished.—Printers' Ink.

Better Than Drummers.

One of the great powers in advertising is that it produces the results immediately. Twenty salesmen traveling widely and working industriously cannot accomplish in a year what a good advertising agent could bring about by the insertion of one week's advertising.

Mutual Friends.

Without the newspaper great advertisers cannot exist. Without the advertisers, great and small (but mainly the small advertisers), the newspaper of today would be, impossible.—James H. Beals, Jr.

More Reliable Than Matrimony.

Marriage and other things may prove failures—judicious advertising never does.—St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald.

The Missing Link.

Advertising is like a chain. It is bad to drop the links.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

She Is Dressing in a Costume Not Unlike a Country Bride's.

Fashion Writers Not Always the Best Dressed—What Gimp Can Do to Preserve the General Effect—A Dress Seen at a Recent Wedding.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Just fancy this dress appearing in the daytime on the streets of New York. It was worn, not by a country bride, but by a literary woman who affects much style and manner in dress, and who has good taste when she writes fashion articles for other people to follow.

The dress in question was all of gray, and the wearer was clad in that hue literally from tip to toe. Her gown was of pale gray cashmere with large puffed sleeves, a Louis Quatorze coat and a demitrain with a thick ruching around the bottom of it. The cuffs were covered with silver braid, laid on so closely that it looked like a deep band of silver. The collar was treated likewise. The vest was done in silver tracing and silver threads were at the head of the skirt ruching.

White kid gloves, long topped and stitched with black, were upon the hands; gray suede ties trimmed with narrow strips of gray ribbons were worn, and, for a hat, there was a large flat gray sailor with silver and gray pompoms. A tall handled parasol was carried and from the belt there hung a dozen or more silver ornaments, for use and beauty.

The whole get-up was very pretty and becoming to the brunette who wore it. And it was not in bad taste either, for one sees so many of these dresses that their lightness and brightness have come to receive the sanction of fashion.

Another gown that walked alongside this gay one was equally stylish and yet altogether different. It was of navy blue lady's cloth and, like the other, had full sleeves and a coat cut after the fashion of one of Louis Quatorze. The skirt was trained, and stiffened by a thick ruching. Over the sleeves, which were tight fitting at the wrist, was turned a pair of white corduroy cuffs, almost deep enough to reach the elbow. A medici collar stood upright almost to the top of the ears and a little of the corduroy was wrought in the top of the ruching of the skirt in a mysterious way which permitted it merely to peep forth.

This was very stylish and not open in the most remote way to the criticism of being loud.

At the Cannon-Thompson wedding, one of the family wore a most beautiful dress of heliotrope and gold. The gown was a cunning combination of heliotrope, satin and chiffon, with threads of gold run through the chiffon. Since every gown must have cuffs this wedding gown was supplied with them in outline.

Gold cord was used to trace flowers upon the sleeves and double tracing of the cord indicated the top of the cuff. There were gold epaulettes and collar and a conventional design in gold was wrought upon the front of the basque. The bonnet was entirely of pansies and gold butterflies. Pansy colored velvet strings were fastened closely under each ear by means of pansy blossoms with diamond centers.

Rubens collars have advanced in the march of fashion until they are used on nightgowns and dressing sacques. On the latter they are supplied with a narrow hem which is edged with lace, and on the former there is embroidery, lace or ruffling, as the wearer may choose. Fashions may be arbitrary in all else, except in the matter of sleeping garments. But when it comes to these a woman is going to wear that which pleases her best.

The ever-popular poplin has been, as women know, placed before us again as bengaline. Few who have not tried it have any conception of the great durability of this material. Being half woolen and half silk, it has a beautiful gloss, and, at the same time, it lies in soft folds, just as if it were the finest of silk. Unlike silk, however, it does not crack, and it has the quality of washing beautifully. A good poplin dress is an heirloom in a family, for it wears through several generations, and bears beautifully the honor of being made over for different members of the family.

It can also be colored without parting with its softness. And it has a most obliging way of drying without spotting when one is caught in a rainstorm. To use the expression of a woman who has tried one of these dresses and speaks from happy experience: "I wore that poplin dress forever, and then I had it made over into a petticoat."

The new poplins are appearing in dark colors, ornamented with a pattern of some description. Conventional designs, flowers and dots are found enriching the latest poplins or Bengalines that have appeared.

Special value is attached to simplicity. All the dancers wear short dresses, and no young woman who has not seen the glory of at least one season, and in some cases of two or more, suffers herself to wear anything more mature than the sweet, simple, spotless flowing white draperies.

Black and white, gold and purple, were the colors seen at Buckingham palace at the late reception given by Queen Victoria in the presence of the English court and Empress Frederick of Germany.

A gorgeous evening dress of black tulle was richly embroidered with turquoises. The dress was made over a slip of black surah, and the turquoises stood out in beautiful relief. The bodice was of velvet, with the sleeves and fronts of the turquoise embroidered tulle. The cuffs had a border studded with enormous turquoises, and a double row of very large stones came down the front of the bodice. The train was of black velvet and was square cut. The entire dress made one of the most elegant novelties yet seen.

Those flat sailor hats are still very stylish. Sailor hats have a way of holding their own, and these broad brimmed ones possess the advantage of being becoming to people who could not wear the narrow ones. On a pretty face they are very charming, and on a homely one they are still attractive. The trimming is literally "stuck" on it at one side, and stands upright about the hat to the height of eight inches.

These silk pompoms with a cock's tail are seen upon one of these sailors. Another has four or five bows wired and standing aggressively erect. A third has sharp spires of jet and feathers, with a lot of fluffy tulle at the base, and a twist of the same tulle going around the flat little apology of a crown.

Black and white make very pretty hat combinations and after the French style are becoming more and more popular.

Not many real blouses are seen, as we understood blouses last year. The blouse waist of this season is tight-fitting in the back and loose in front; or it is loose all the way round, sagging just a little over the belt to distinguish it from a round waist. To wear with the reefer jackets, blouse waists are made with sham backs. The backs are made of paper muslin or lining cambric, and the front is of any material one may select, embroidered and trimmed to suit one's fancy. The collar is a turnover and is likewise enriched.

The idea of this is conceived on the same principle as a man's vest, which is designed for show only from the front, and in the back, which is naturally covered by a coat, there is simply material enough to preserve the shape of the garment.

By this means the reefers may be worn all summer with comfort, and the woman who does not feel dressed in a simple blouse or a shirt-waist, may wear a reefer and preserve the effect which she desires without suffering the pangs of being baked.

Some genius of a woman who has struggled for seasons to keep her skirt and her waist under her belt, has thought of a way to make these two bands join each other in picturesque harmony. No more will one see that unhappy lapse which so often has marred the symmetry of a woman's toilet when she endeavored to keep the band of her skirt and the band of her waist under the belt which was supposed to conceal the point of juncture.

The new device is a simple one, and it is done by the means of that universal beautifier and magic ornamenter—gimp. A nice broad piece of gimp, preferably silver, but allowably black or any other color which harmonizes with the costume, is sewed upon the band of the dress skirt. This band is then hooked over the waist band and is grappled in place by means of jewel headed pins, which are placed both for ornament and for use at intervals of two inches around the skirt.

Thus the unities are preserved, a pretty effect is accomplished, and everyone is pleased. And all with the aid of gimp.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Would rather be without bread

Manor's Restaurant, Marquette, Mich., Nov. 7, 1890.

The Rev. J. Kunkel of above place writes: I have suffered a great deal with nervousness; now a spoonful suffices during 3 days to cure me entirely. I take a dose of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and feel relieved. I think a great deal of it and would rather be without bread than without the Tonic.

Cured entirely after 12 years!

Tonawanda, Erie Co., N. Y., Febr. 1890.

My daughter had fits from Digbi since 12 years, sometimes 3 to 4 attacks within 24 hours without any warning; during these spells her thumbs would be crumped toward the inside of her hands, her mouth be drawn sideways, her neck would swell up, and her face assumed a blueish color, this would last from 10 to 15 minutes after that she slept, was unwell for about 2 hours.—We tried many remedies without any improvement, but 3 bottles of Pastor Koenigs Nerve Tonic cured her at last; we therefore recommend this remedy to all sufferers.

JOHN EDIN.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

A RARE THING

When you don't find what you want in the shoe line at DOANE & VAN ARSDALE'S. This month there will be a greater demand than ever for Russet goods. We still have a good variety to select from. Store open evenings.

DOANE & VAN ARSDALE,

(The One Price Boot and Shoe House.) 22 W. Front Street.

Something New To-day.

Twelve cents buys a New Broom.

Every week brings something New, and for this week there are many new bargains THAT ARE BARGAINS, that we will offer.

We offer five cases (200 pieces) fine Dress Ginghams for 7c per yard; these are goods that the manufacturers have been asking 12c for, and an over-production compels them to sell.

25c buys an elegant Black Silk Jersey Mitt.

We open to-day the last three cases of those fine Satines, and they will be the last this year offered at that price; 10c buys them.

Have you seen our Summer Corsets that we sell so many of? Our price 75c.

Our assortment of Blouse and Shirt Waists, Ties and Belts is, without exception, the most complete in town, and prices the lowest.

Housekeepers will find our House Furnishing Goods Department the best in town. We have everything in White and Decorated Crockery, Glassware, Tinware, Wooden Ware, and Granite Ironware, &c., and our prices are right.

Japanese Porch Portieres, $1 69 and $1 98 each.

5,000 yards Fine India Linen, 12c per yard; worth 18c.

VAN EMBURGH & WHITE.

WORK OF A CYCLONE

Several Persons Killed at West Superior.

MANY BUILDINGS BLOWN DOWN

Fifty Workmen Buried in the Ruins of a Large Structure.

Five Dead Bodies Quickly Taken Out. Cries of Distress on All Sides—Men in All Professions of Life Stood Shoulder to Shoulder in the Work of Rescue. A Pitiful Scene.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., July 17.—A storm swept over this place last evening, and after it had been raining a half hour the wind increased in violence and soon a tornado was sweeping through the town.

Many buildings were blown down, and the large structure at the corner of Second and Lamborn streets was leveled to the ground.

Fifty men were in the building at work at the time, and so suddenly did the crash come that only one-half of them had a chance to escape, all being buried in the ruins.

The work of rescue was immediately commenced, and to those at work on the outside it seemed as if cries of distress came from under every timber and pile of brick.

Five dead bodies were quickly taken from the ruins and it is believed that other corpses will be recovered. Not a person liberated from the wreckage escaped without an injury of some description.

A scene of intense excitement reigned. Men worked with desperation, and many a good suit of clothing was gladly sacrificed to the work of rescue. It was pitiful, too. Women ran about regardless of the rain and mud, wringing their hands and crying, filled with the terrible fear that their husbands or brothers had been buried in the ruins.

FOREIGNERS MAY COME.

Exhibitors at the World's Fair May Bring Their Workmen.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Doubt having arisen among foreign governments as to the effect of the Contract Labor laws, as applied to the Chicago Exposition of 1893, the Secretary of State recently requested an official opinion from the Attorney-General on the subject.

The cases presented concern experts who come from foreign countries to aid foreign exhibitors in setting up and operating machinery to be brought to the United States and exhibited at the Columbian Exposition; also clerks, stall-keepers and other persons whose services may be required by foreign exhibitors at that exposition.

After fully discussing the legislation upon the subject, the Attorney-General has rendered an opinion that skilled employes of foreign exhibitors at the Chicago Exhibition, who come in good faith for the purpose of setting up and operating the machinery of such exhibitors, are not subject to the Contract Labor laws of the United States. The same opinion is expressed with reference to clerks, stallkeepers, etc.

Gay Times at Sea Girt.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 17.—Two thousand people attended the reception last night by the National Guard of the State to the Commander-in-Chief, Gov. Leon Abbett. The spacious dining room of the Monmouth House at Spring Lake was converted into a ballroom and beautifully decorated with flags of every nation, knapsacks, guns, drums and sabres, intermingled with lanterns of many hues. Gov. Abbett received under a handsome canopy, assisted by his daughter and the wives of his staff, and subsequently with Mrs. Major-General Plume lead the grand march.

Fishermen's Boats Seized.

EASTPORT, Me., July 17.—The Dominion cruiser Dream seized seven boats belonging to Eastport fishermen in Passamaquoddy waters, landed the occupants on Dog Island and towed the boats to St. Andrews, N. B., where they will be confiscated. Considerable excitement exists over the affair.

Shot While Defending His Sister.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 17.—Pasquale di Fonza quarreled with Lewis Smeldon, aged 18 years, and shot him twice. Smeldon warned di Fonzo to cease using obnoxious language to his sister, and di Fonza grew enraged and emptied his revolver at him. Smeldon will probably die.

Killed by the Cars.

PETERBORO, N. H., July 17.—A train on the Fitchburg Railroad ran into a horse and carriage at Little Moloney crossing near East Jaffrey at 1 p. m. and instantly killed Miss Florence T. Taft, of Greenville, and slightly injured Mrs. Asa S. Raymond, of East Jaffrey.

Indicted for Murder.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 17.—An indictment for murder has been found by the Grand Jury against Darwin J. Meserole, son of Gen. J. V. Meserole, for the shooting of Theodore Larbig in Mrs. Comstock's apartments in Sackett street on the 26th of last month.

No Indictment Against Historian Fyffe.

LONDON, July 17.—The Grand Jury today declared that no bill should be found against Mr. C. A. Fyffe, the historian of Modern Europe, who was held under arrest on an infamous accusation.

The Bark Sea Gull Wrecked.

BOSTON, July 17.—Mr. John L. Brooks of this city has received information that his 397 1-2-ton bark Sea Gull has been totally wrecked on the west coast of Africa, and that one of the crew was lost. She was an old vessel and was partially insured.

AN UNLUCKY HOUSE.

Remarkable Series of Fatalities in a Town Near Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 17.—There was a remarkable series of fatalities at Rankin, Station, on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, ten miles from Pittsburg.

A man committed suicide, the house he lived in burned down from a lamp explosion and two children were cremated, and later, as two men were searching among the ruins, a chimney fell, killing one and mortally injuring the other.

The dead are: David Bell, suicide; Robert McGratton, aged 7, burned; Charles McGratton, aged 10, burned; Henry Rowe, killed by falling chimney, and Peter Knee, mortally wounded by falling chimney.

David Bell was last seen alive yesterday morning. He had been drinking, and was very despondent when he went to his room. His body was found in the Monongahela River.

SHE HAD A REVOLVER.

Mrs. Logan Wanted to Shoot the Founder of Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 17.—Mrs. James Logan, a resident of West Asbury Park, purchased a revolver and set out to shoot James A. Bradley, the founder of Asbury Park. She went to Bradley's office, flourished her weapon, and said she would kill him on sight.

Bradley was at the beach at the time, and Mrs. Logan started to hunt him up.

An officer overtook her, and, after disarming her, placed her under arrest. Mrs. Logan says that Bradley has persecuted her son, James Logan, Jr., who is being sued by the township authorities as father of the unborn child of Lydia Humphrey.

Bradley refused to make a complaint against Mrs. Logan. He says she is demented from brooding over her son's disgrace.

SAM SMALL'S LIBEL SUIT.

Rev. Wesley Hill Gives Bonds for His Appearance in Court.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Rev. J. Wesley Hill, pastor of the First M. E. Church of Ogden, Utah, and financial agent of the Utah University, reached Philadelphia at noon to answer the criminal libel suit brought against him by Rev. Sam Small.

Rev. Mr. Hill came here from Utah of his own free will, no requisition having been issued for him. Upon arriving here he presented himself before the prosecuting attorney and gave bonds for his appearance in court in September. Mr. Hill says he has ample evidence in hand to confirm all he has said or written in reference to Samuel Small. He will remain here in the interest of the university until his case is called up.

HALL IS READY.

He Thinks He Will Whip Fitzsimmons in Fifteen Rounds.

MILWAUKEE, July 17.—Jim Hall has finished his active training and will rest for a day or two. He says that Eastern sporting men may depend on the fight being square, as far as he is concerned, and that he thinks he will win inside of fifteen rounds.

It is evident he means to rush the fighting from the start. It is noteworthy that he claims a longer reach than Fitzsimmons. Hall is two pounds below weight.

Elizabeth S. Newton's Will Filed.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 17.—The will of Elizabeth S. Newton, who was killed on board the steamship Scale en route to Europe, June 24 last, has just been filed for probate. The estate is valued at $200,000. The bulk of the property is given to the domestic and foreign missionary society of the Episcopal Church in the United States for its sole use forever. The rest of the estate is divided among local charities.

Jennie Cramer's Mother Commits Suicide

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—Mrs. Christine Cramer committed suicide at her residence in this city during the day by hanging. She was the mother of Jennie Cramer, whose mysterious death about ten years ago attracted so much public attention. It will be remembered that Walter and James Malloy of this city were tried for the murder of Jennie Cramer and acquitted.

Tin Mines Bought Up.

DENVER, Col., July 17.—A local syndicate has purchased all the leading mines of tin in Colorado. The price paid is half a million.

Death of a Veteran Boat-Builder.

BOSTON, July 17.—John Blakeley, the veteran boat-builder of Cambridge, is dead. Blakeley made himself famous by his skill in turning out racing shells.

Chili's New Cruiser.

LONDON, July 17.—The Chilian cruiser Errazuriz has steamed out of Havre. It is thought she will attempt to secure a crew of seamen in England.

DIED OF STARVATION

Terrible Story of Suffering from a Minnesota Town.

CHILDREN'S BODIES FOR FOOD.

A Mother and Daughter Forced to Become Cannibals.

They Are Discovered by a Fishing Party—The Woman a Raving Maniac—It Is Believed She Murdered the Children—Her Husband Eaten by Wolves—Great Excitement Over the Affair.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 17.—About 100 miles southwest of this city, on the outskirts of the thick pine forests of Snake River, lies the hamlet of Pine City. It is one of those indigenous farming communities so common to Minnesota and the Dakotas, where the people seldom set foot outside of the circle of the town from one year to another.

In fact, so sparsely inhabited is this region that the names of the few who have staked their claims therein are scarcely known. How people can be happy in this wild region, much less subsist, is a mystery. It is really a wonder that some do not become insane.

What was the horror of the people of Pine City on Wednesday when a fishing party of that village returned from the woods bringing with them a wild woman and her 16-year-old daughter.

The daughter tells a terrible story of suffering and privation. She says that the husband and father of the family, Hans Peterson, was eaten by wolves while in an intoxicated condition last March. Since that time they have had no food in their humble cabin.

The three younger children died of starvation, and they were cooked and eaten, one by one, by the mother and oldest daughter. The mother's mind finally gave way and she is now a raving maniac.

W. F. Glason, a merchant at Pine City, provided the mother and daughter with clothing and took them to his house and gave them shelter and food. Yesterday afternoon they were taken to the county jail, where they will be provided for pending an investigation, as it is thought that in all probability one or more of the children were murdered by the demented mother.

The affair has thrown the village in a state of intense excitement, and it has been proposed to send an expedition to the home of the family to investigate more fully the horrible story.

CARNEGIE'S STRIKERS.

They Return to Work at the Duquesne Steel Works.

PITTSBURG, July 17.—The 700 employes of Carnegie Bros. at the Duquesne Steel works, who went on strike for recognition of their organization, having been informed that the company intended to start the works with new men, 600 presented themselves at the gate in the morning ready to return to work. The report that new men were to take the strikers' places was untrue.

The company started the works, single turn, employing half of the applicants. The mill will go on double turn next week, when to all save the leaders in the strike will be given employment.

New Chief Postoffice Inspector.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The Postmaster-General has appointed Marvin D. Wheeler, of New York, to be Chief Postoffice Inspector, vice Major E. D. Rathbone, who was recently appointed Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General. Mr. Wheeler was born and has resided all his life at Hancock, Delaware County, New York.

Shot While Hunting Turtles.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 17.—Ralph Harris, of Fredonia, N. Y., and Joseph Godfrey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., went out rowing at 6 o'clock last evening, taking with them a 32-calibre revolver to shoot turtles. The weapon was accidentally discharged, the contents lodging in Godfrey's thigh. He may die.

The President is Busy.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 17.—Senator Allison called on the President this morning. The President was busy all day at his cottage. Secretary Halford has opened an additional office at the Shoreham, where he will be within two minutes walk of the President's cottage.

To Aid Colored People.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 17.—It was reported here this morning that Mrs. T. L. Johnson, a wealthy woman living near Rochester, gave Rev. J. J. Smallwood, the colored speaker, $12,000 with which to found an educational institution in Virgin for colored people.

Defaulter Moody Pleads Guilty.

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 17.—C. Mason Moody, the defaulting county treasurer, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with the embezzlement of $16,000. Sentence was deferred.

SYRACUSE DISBANDS.

The Manager Tired of Putting Up Money for the Baseball Team.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 17.—The Syracuse Baseball Club of the Eastern League is no more. George K. Frazer has tired of putting up for the team and seeing his money melt away without return.

Yesterday was pay day with the club. Mr. Frazer told the players that his baseball funds were exhausted and asked them to wait for their money until after the present home series. The players consulted together and finally told Mr. Frazer that they must have their money or leave the club. Accordingly he told them they were to do as they pleased, and last night the players packed their trunks.

It is believed that several of the Star team were anxious to leave Syracuse to accept better offers elsewhere. It is barely possible that some other enthusiast will take hold of the club and run it for the balance of the season.

The disbanding of Syracuse probably foreshadows the collapse of the Eastern League.

THE SAN DIEGO RIOT.

Five Deputy Marshals Identified by the Injured Sailors.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 17.—Deputy United States Marshals Breedlove, Coates, Greether, Gurrie and Mendenhall, arrested for the murder of Seaman Brown, were before the Coroner's Jury and fully identified as the men who committed the assault on the sailors from the Charleston. The evidence showed that the sailors were on their way to the ship at the time of the assault, and that they had hired a boat to ferry them over. The two other assaulting Deputies are supposed to have crossed the Mexican line.

The injured sailors are getting well, all of them being out of danger. The autopsy of the dead sailor, Joseph Brown, showed he died from concussion of the brain, caused by the blow of a club. Brown, who was 25 years of age, had been with the Charleston ever since she had been in commission.

Will Make a Test Case.

NEW YORK, July 17.—District-Attorney Nicoll says that he has considered the matter of the publication by the newspapers of the accounts of the recent executions at Sing Sing, and has decided to select some one paper and lay the case before the grand jury for action. What paper he would select, Mr. Nicoll said, he had not yet determined upon.

Cleveland and Lemons Cruising.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 17.—Dr. I. De Vere Warner started in his yacht for Bunzard's Bay with Col. Dan Lamont on board. There he will ship Grover Cleveland as one the crew for a short cruise.

Hattie Blaine Coming Home.

LONDON, July 17.—Miss Hattie Blaine left London last evening on her return home.

MAY CAUSE A CRISIS

The French Cabinet Beaten on the Passport Question.

EXCITEMENT OVER THE VOTE.

The Move Sprung on the Chamber of Deputies by a Boulangist.

A Coalition Against the Government—The Chamber Will be Asked to Adjourn Sine Die—Gladstone Enthusiastically Cheered by His Friends—Dillon and O'Brien's Programme When Released.

PARIS, July 17.—The Chamber of Deputies was the scene of considerable disorder and excitement during the day, when Deputy Laur (Boulangist) raised the question of the German passport regulations in Alsace-Loraine, and demanded to know what the government had done or intended to do in opposition thereto.

M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs, said that nothing had occurred to warrant an explanation on the part of the government, and he was, therefore, not disposed to make any reply to M. Laur's demand.

M. Laur made a violent speech in denunciation of the German regulations and demanded a vote on the question of discussing the subject he had raised.

A vote was taken with the result that the Chamber decided, 286 to 163, to discuss the question. The announcement of the vote created great excitement.

The majority against the government was due to the coalition of the Right, Boulangists and Radicals against the Cabinet.

A Cabinet council discussed the position resulting from the decision of the Chamber to discuss the passport question. It is reported that the Cabinet resolved to ask the Chamber to adjourn sine die. If this plan of shelving the question is proposed a Ministerial crisis will ensue.

CROWDS GREET GLADSTONE.

The Great Liberal's Admirers Cheer Him on His Way to Lowestoft.

LONDON, July 17.—The journey of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone to Lowestoft was a veritable march of triumph. Crowds besieged the railway stations at every place along the route and at the stopping places the cheering of the people was positively deafening.

At every halt the ex-Premier was urged to speak but invariably declined to say more than to express his thanks for the honor done him. It is learned, however, that his failure to respond to the repeated calls for a more extended address was not due wholly, or even in any great degree to his personal disinclination, but rather to the earnestly expressed desire of Mrs. Gladstone that her husband should refrain from exerting himself.

Upon his arrival at his destination Mr. Gladstone was compelled to force his way through a dense gathering of admirers, despite the fact that plans had been carefully laid to avoid the inevitable crowd at the station by alighting from the train at another than the usual stopping place.

Mr. Gladstone arrived at Lowestoft in excellent spirits and apparently in as vigorous health as he has enjoyed for many months past.

DILLON AND O'BRIEN.

They Will Keep Out of Irish Politics When Released from Jail.

LONDON, July 17.—Some friends of Mr. John Dillon, who have means of communicating with him in prison, state that he declines to take any active part in politics immediately upon his release from confinement. He hopes that before the beginning of the next session of Parliament the dissensions of the Irish party will have been healed.

He would not care, he says, to lead a portion of the party, in however great a majority, but if he should receive the support of all, including the Parnellites, he would willingly accept the leadership.

Mr. William O'Brien intends to retire from public life for a long time to come as soon as he is out of jail.

Poor Outlook for 800 Strikers.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 17.—The strike which began on July 2 at the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company's Works is still on, and 800 hands are out of work. The company gave the men until this week to return to work or the furnaces would be blown out. The men not having returned, the work of blowing out the furnaces proceeds. President Atkins announces his intention of going to Europe, and there is no prospect of the works being started until his return.

Escaped from the Indians.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A dispatch from Flagstaff, Arizona, says the party that left there with Sheriff Francis for the scene of the Navajo troubles have returned, having met the first party which had been surrounded by the Indians. The party escaped under cover of night. A band of Navajos is expected at Flagstaff to-day. All Indians will be disarmed before being permitted to enter the town.

The Niagara Falls Victim Found.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 17.—The body of the man who went over the falls on Monday afternoon has been found in the whirlpool and brought to land. It proves not to be that of Sharman of Clifton Springs, as was first supposed. It is that of a man apparently sixty years of age. The coat bore the trade mark of Max Amberg, a clothing merchant of this place. The neck was broken.

Spurgeon Still Lingers.

LONDON, July 17.—Mr. Spurgeon still lingers. He suffers too much and is too much under the influence of anodynes to be conscious of the efforts made to save him.

WORKING FOR THE FAIR.

The Columbian Commissioners to be Liberally Entertained in England.

LONDON, July 17.—The Foreign Commission of the Columbian Exposition, consisting of Major Moses P. Handy, ex-Congressman Butterworth, and Messrs. Peck and Bullock arrived at Southampton during the day.

Robert S. McCormick, the World's Fair Commissioner in England, and Jasper P. Bradley, United States Consul at Southampton, met the Commissioners upon their arrival. The Commission at once proceeded to this city.

The programme for the Commissioners' stay in London begins with a luncheon at Mr. McCormick's residence today, when the United States Commissioners will meet the active members of the Royal Commission and will consider the work to be done.

On Saturday, James Dredge, editor of "Engineering," and one of the members of the Royal Commission will give a dinner in honor of the United States Foreign Commission.

Sunday will be spent by the latter in visiting Kew Gardens and Hampton Court Palace.

On Monday Mr. McCormick will entertain the visitors at dinner, where they will meet the United States Minister, Mr. Robert T. Lincoln; Consul General John C. New, the Attorney-General, Sir Richard Webster, Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen, Sir George Chubb, director of the naval exhibition; Sir Henry Wood, secretary of the Society of Arts, and secretary of the Royal Commissioner for the World's Fair, Sir George Birdwood, Sir Francis Bell, Captain Douglas Dalton and others of the Royal Commission.

Sir Richard Webster on Tuesday next will entertain the party at dinner in the main dining room of the House of Commons.

On Wednesday the visitors will devote their attention to the German Exhibition, and on Thursday Sir George Chubb will give a dinner to the Commissioners at the Naval Exhibition.

The commissioners will spend Saturday and Sunday week in the country, where they will be the guests of Sir Henry Wood.

Sir Joseph Savory, Lord Mayor of London, on Monday, July 27, gives a luncheon at the Madison House in their honor, at which the Commissioners will meet the leading merchants of the city.

After July 27, the United States Commissioners will be accompanied on a tour of the larger manufacturing towns of Great Britain and Ireland by Mr. McCormick.

M'AULIFFE WILL FIGHT.

Ready to Meet Gibbons for a Fifteen-Round Battle.

NEW YORK, July 17.—L. Ridley, Lightweight Jack McAuliffe's representative, said that McAuliffe did not appear at the Police Gazette office to find a match with Austin Gibbons because he had never received any communication from Gibbons asking for a meeting.

Mr. Ridley said he was authorized by McAuliffe to say that he was ready to sign articles for a fight of 15 rounds, $5,000 a side, the match to come off before the club offering the largest purse, and the referee to have the power to order additional rounds. McAuliffe will be ready to fight in two months if a match is made.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

France has removed the prohibition on the importation of American hog products.

A sleepy telegraph operator was the cause of the collision of two freight trains at Danbury, Conn.

Henry Probost of East Stroudsburg, Pa., is in jail at Paterson, N. J., for trying to drown himself in the Morris Canal.

Maurice Hennessey, a Boston 9-year-old, secured possession of a pistol, and his 9-months-old brother was the victim.

Joseph Laundry, of Waterbury, Conn., is dead. He fired two shots into his brain on June 20, after trying to kill his sweetheart.

Tip, the big elephant in Central Park, New York, nearly broke loose and killed his keeper. The other animals were wildly excited.

The British steamer Coningsby, from Marseilles has been wrecked near the Island of Cheduba, in the Bay of Bengal. All on board were saved.

John Uhl, 35 years of age, was overcome by the heat yesterday in New York and died in an hour after he had been taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Edgar Marvin, United States Vice-Consul at Victoria, B. C., is dead, aged 67. He was a native of New York and went to Victoria in 1862.

George Hosmer has deposited $100 with Worcester, Mass., parties to cover Ten Eyck's deposit for a race. Hosmer will either row at Worcester or Springfield, but prefers the former city.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Fine white goods at Peck's.

—The fair recently held at Hotel Netherwood for the relief of a poor blind woman, netted $104.

—Installation of the new officers of Easter Lodge, Knights of Honor, will take place next Monday evening.

—The regular Friday evening prayer meeting at the Monroe Avenue chapel, to-night, will be led by James B. Martin.

—The men of Roselle do not keep the weeds and grasses out of the public streets. The women have taken hold of the matter and will see what can be done about it.

—William T. Kirk, representing Milliken Bros., has been awarded the contracts for the new bridge over Cedar brook on Prospect avenue, and the proposed alterations of the Park avenue bridge.

—The Union county court-house is to be thoroughly renovated before next Fall. In the main room a new floor is to be put in, and all the old windows and window frames are to be replaced with new material.

—The base-ball reporter of the Central Times credits Bonner of the Crescents with a double play in last Saturday's game. The Times didn't read anything of the sort in THE PRESS, consequently it is n't so.

—Being unable to arrange any games with the Crescent Leagues of this city, the Rahway Athletic Association has disbanded its semi-professional team and will hereafter play only a strictly amateur local nine.

—A paper says: "The story got out that there was a leak in the Water Supply Company's pumps." No such story got out. The paper in its ignorance, stated it as a fact. But it was n't in THE PRESS, so it was n't so.

—Owing to the inability of the St. George's Cricket club of this city, to get their grounds in condition for their return match with the Pioneers of Elizabeth, that game has been postponed for a week or two.

—The Potter Press works will remain closed until Monday. Taking warning from the bursting of one of the boiler tubes, yesterday, as told exclusively in THE PRESS, a thorough examination and test will be made before getting up steam again.

—The Union county board of registration as just appointed is composed of Edwin C. Woodruff and Mayor Chamberlain, of Rahway, Republicans, and ex-Senator Robert L. Livingston, of Plainfield, and Judge Wiley, of Elizabeth, Democrats.

—On the last page of the Fanwood Club's otherwise tasteful programme for to-morrow's lawn party, is printed this assertion: "There are more glove-fitting corsets sold than any other made." How did the Club learn that; and does its members wear them?

—Chief Grant received a dispatch from Bound Brook, this morning, requesting him to have Sergeant Lynch and the rest of his men keep their eyes open for three tramps with a lot of knives and revolvers for sale. Some Bound Brook hardware shop has probably been raided.

—That eminent optician, Prof. Frederick A. Jones, will be at Dickinson's, 13 Park avenue, next week again, during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Let him test those eyes of yours. It won't cost you anything to find out whether they are all right, and what should be done for them.

—The first vesper service ever held in St. Michael's Catholic church of Cranford will be held next Sunday evening, and will be attended by a number of Roman Catholics from this city. At this service the new statue of the Blessed Virgin, which was presented to the church by Mrs. Louis Boissevain, will be blessed.

—Messrs. Pope, Kingsland and Beck, of the Roselle Ramblers, have just returned from Lake Hopatcong on wheels. They report the roads in fine condition by way of Mount Freedom and Succasunna. They advise wheelmen to take that route in preference to the road running through Denville, Rockaway and Dover.

—The Rev. Edward Ransford, of Elizabeth, was secretly removed Wednesday night to the Morris Plains Lunatic Asylum on a complaint made out by Judge Wilcox, of the Union County Court. Every precaution was taken to prevent the removal becoming known. The charges against the clergyman will be dropped.

—A lot of men drawing $25,000 a year in salaries, stood around the Water Supply Company's works, Tuesday, guessing why they could n't get water. John Kean and his company would have been thousands of dollars in pocket, and would have had a stand-pipe full of water many weeks ago, if Contractor Moore had been retained to complete the job.

—As already announced in these columns, a grand promenade concert will be given at The Netherwood, Thursday evening, the 30th inst., for the benefit of Gremnop's excellent orchestra. The subscription list has already passed the hundred-dollar mark, and is rapidly reaching twice that. The orchestra will be enlarged for the occasion. The programme of choice selections to be rendered, will be issued in a few days. Dancing will conclude the festivities.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Charles Matthews and wife, of Grove street, left to-day for Hotel Kaaterskill in the Catskills.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bigelow and daughter, of Central avenue, are at "The Alpha", Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Herbert Welch, formerly Miss Addie McGee of North Plainfield, with her little daughter, is visiting her parents.

Mr and Mrs. Halstead Compton and daughters have closed their home at Evona and are boarding for the season at the "Magnolia", Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pound and children are enjoying their vacation at the "Edgemoor", Ocean Grove. S. D. V. Burr and family returned to-day from a short stay at the same cottage, kept by Miss S. Augusta Hart.

Mr. Fletcher, who was so badly injured by a runaway accident at Long Branch, July 4, is not yet out of danger, although it has been possible to remove him from the Monmouth hospital to the West End hotel, Asbury Park. His wife was not permitted to care for him at the former place.

John Habberton, the author of "Helen's Babies", has written and will soon publish a story book of Chautauqua life, with the prominent people of the Chautauqua movement pictured out in detail. Bishop Vincent, his son George, Miss Kate Kimball, and other Plainfielders and ex-Plainfielders will be among the characters portrayed.

Mr. and Mrs Adam Bardasch and daughter, of Galveston, are at 5 LaGrande avenue. Mr. Bardasch, who brings his family north every summer, is a great admirer of this part of the country and has naught but praise to say of Plainfield and the Central railroad except when the car window he offers to raise for a pretty widow, refuses to budge.

A Bad Circus Comes to Grief.

John Sullivan, of Detroit, and Thomas R. Capsthorn, of Michigan, have made an application to the Chancellor for an injunction and relief. They are agents of the Frank A. Robbins New Shows, Incorporated, Circus and Amusement Company, which gave such a swindle of a show in Plainfield last spring. The advertising car is in the yards of the Pennsylvania railway company, in Trenton. The other rolling stock and property of the company is at Huntingdon, Pa., and is advertised for sale, on Tuesday, July 21, on process of attachment by several of its actors, performers and employes. To the first-named complainant $20 is due, and to the second $30, and various sums to other employes now in Trenton, and various sums amounting to $7,500. The bill states that Robbins threatens to remove the car and sell it for his own use and benefit, and asks that the company be declared insolvent and a receiver appointed to wind up its affairs and pay the complainants the sums due them and also the sums due the other creditors. They also ask for an injunction enjoining and restricting the company from taking the car or any of its property out of the State, and also upon the railroad company from removing or permitting to be removed, the car in question. The Chancellor granted the injunction.

To-morrow's Lawn Party on South Avenue.

The members of the Fanwood Club will entertain themselves and their friends, to-morrow afternoon and evening, at their club-house and grounds, in the following way:

3 o'clock—Tennis. Preliminary rounds in gentlemen's singles. Preliminary rounds in ladies' singles.
Croquet—Preliminary rounds.
4:30 o'clock—Tennis. Ladies' finals. Gentlemen's final.
5:30 o'clock—Croquet, finals.
4 to 6 o'clock—Concert on the lawn.
5 to 8 o'clock—Supper.
8 to 9 o'clock—Dancing in new hall.
9 to 10 o'clock—Cotillion.
3 to 10 o'clock—Bowling.

He Has n't Lost a Game.

Hammill will pitch for the Crescents to-morrow against the West Ends. The Plainfield team has not lost a game this year with him in the box. He has pitched in six games, and they have been won by the following scores: Flushings, 15 to 6; Seton Hall, 9 to 5; Acmes, 7 to 4; Stars, 4 to 3; Ridgewoods, 11 to 2, and 8 to 2. The same day that the Crescents, with Hammill in the box, won against the Ridgewoods by the score of 11 to 2, they were defeated by the same Ridgewood nine by the score of 12 to 4. In that game, however, Gregg pitched instead of Hammill.

They Had Fine Fifers and Drummers.

Unity Division, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, of Elizabeth, under command of Sir Knight Captain John Farawell, Lieutenant Garrett Creamer and Sir Knight Herald Wm. Parks, visited this city, last evening, and were received and entertained by Crescent Division of Plainfield.

Unity Division was accompanied by its own drum and fife corps, and Plainfield will long remember the pleasure of listening to it play, "What is Love?"

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

BY WAY OF BELMAR.

Plainfield Excursionists Take a Roundabout Route to Asbury Park.

The first excursion that ever invaded the precincts of Belmar was that of the Plainfield Baptists and their friends yesterday. But Belmar did n't suffer much, for soon after arriving there many of the people shook the dust of the place from their feet and permitted the cottagers to go to sleep again. Those who stayed fell in with the spirit of the atmosphere and were very very quiet and had a very still and solemn prayer-meeting time of it.

Belmar is an eminently respectable place, and if one has a cottage there he and his family can survive the summer. But for an excursion even one day seems like a graveyard visit.

It is true that Shark River is at Belmar, and that tradition says that crabbing on that peculiar and sometimes enjoyable sheet of water is great sport. But to all appearances the number of crabbing parties is always far greater than the number of crabs.

When people go to the seashore, the seashore is what they want, but the seashore at Belmar is of an exclusive sort, and is to be enjoyed only after nightfall. After a long hot walk to the beach the Plainfielders found only two pavilions—and both were lilliputian in size, so that only a few were able to enjoy their sheltering shade. Those who like to sit and watch the breakers come roaring in over the sand, to sniff the saline breezes and to be drenched with the salty spray, and yet prefer not to be baked to death, were not long in deciding what course to take. Those who could get conveyances had a fine four-mile drive; those who could n't find horses waited impatiently till noon for a train; but by 12:30 many of the Plainfield excursionists had left Belmar behind them and had plunged into the galeties and delights of Asbury Park. Here were cool, inviting pavilions in abundance; merry-go-rounds and toboggan railroads for the little ones; everybody was familiar with the place and knew just where to go and what to do to extract the most enjoyment from the day.

The surf was too rough and the water too cold for fine bathing, but quite a number bravely waded up to their knees into the undertow and shivered and chattered and wished it were warmer so they could dare a plunge into the foaming waves. Two Plainfield dominies—the Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell and the Rev. Cornelius Schenck—sat in one of the pavilions and surprised the Plainfield bathers by greeting them as the walked shiveringly back towards the dressing-houses and asking them why they did n't go in and get wet all over. Had the laity known that the critical eyes of the clergy were on them all the time they stood moistening their ankles, what heroic swimming and tossing about among the incessant and furious breakers there would have been!

But if the water was too rough for bathing it was glorious for yachting, and a large and enthusiastic party of young men and young women gathered on the beach and persuaded the captain of a big sail-boat that was gracefully riding the waves off the shore to take them out to sea. It was a difficult feat either to launch or to land a boat in such a surf, but the prospect of golden dollars of profit changed the skipper's decision and he decided to take the party out. Only four or five were permitted to enter the small boat at one time, and even with this light load it was only with the nicest possible skill that the boat was successfully launched and moved to the side of the yacht. When all were aboard the anchor was weighed, and an exhilarating three-hours' sail was enjoyed. The motion of the boat was exquisite, and all greatly enjoyed the trip, even though most of the party were seasick. The only only ones who remained well were those who did n't dose themselves with lemon-juice and drugs to avoid the unpleasantness. A contributing cause to illness was the sight of one of the sailors, who was permitted to parade about the deck exhibiting feet which were a horrible mass of raw and bleeding flesh from sunburn, bruises and salt-water action. The captain could n't be persuaded to keep this pitiful sight below deck, and laughed and said that being seasick was the best thing that could happen to anyone. The yacht took the party far enough out to make the Jersey coast seem a blue line on the horizon. The breeze was a strong one, and with all sails set the craft bounded merrily over the billows. The trip was none too long, but by the time the people were landed again through the foaming breakers and drenching spray they had barely time to catch the homeward train. A thing they are still puzzling over is, What was the name of the yacht? The small boat said Emma B.; the yacht itself said Sunshine in one place and Kitty in another; the captain had the word Defiance on his breast, and Gay Bird on his belt.

Of those who had the courage and the loyalty to the Baptists' committee to stay through the day at Belmar it is best not to say too much. There was little to do but bake in the sand at the shadeless beach and roast in the boats on Shark River. There was n't much sport crabbing with parasol and fan. Yet the sufferers patiently endured the day and kept their grumblings behind their teeth. Those who could n't possibly stand it any longer went to Sea Girt to see the soldiers drill.

The railway company crowned the day's miseries. Besides insisting on boring the excursionists with the presence of an overgrown train boy who threw stale candies into people's laps till they felt like throwing the wares out of the window and would have been justifiable in so doing, who continually yelled vulgar witticisms into the people's ears, and who made himself as much of a nuisance in general as possible, the company had laid in a full stock of hot-boxes and had attached them to the excursionists' train. When the first section did n't have a hot-box the second one had one; and the nuisance of stopping to cool off the overheated axle and its box was repeated so often that one old lady who had a vague idea of what a hot-box was, remarked in disgust: "Another hot-box affair? Dear me, I should think they could keep the hot-boxes from burning so." It was very evident that the excursion train had not been properly prepared. Had the axle-boxes been stuffed with sufficient oil and waste there need have been no burning on such a short run. Hot-boxes caused delays going down, and more delays coming back. The disagreeable smudge and smell of the burning boxes was continually present, and finally, on the return trip, after frequent haltings, one car from each train had to be dropped altogether and the passengers crowded into the other cars, because the boxes were burning so. By these delays the train men succeeded in getting the train stalled behind a wreck at Elizabeth, where a passenger car on a colored excursion train had jumped the track and spread the rails. After the car had been restored to the track and the rails had been put back in place the Plainfield train got orders that did n't seem to suit and was kept waiting for better ones. Finally, after a trip of more than three hours, Plainfield was reached after 9 o'clock.

No one, by the way, was injured by the wreck. The main sufferers were on board the Plainfield train, where the water coolers had been so carelessly attended to that one could get a drink only after a searching expedition from one end of the train to the other, and then waiting for the un-watered ice to melt. And of course everybody was very thirsty after a day at the shore.

But whatever of unpleasantness there was, was not the Baptists' committee's fault. The only mistake they made was in selecting Belmar as the objective point. And that did no great harm, for it was very easy to get out of the place again, and it gave the people a chance to find out just what sort of a place Belmar was. The excursion proved one thing—that Plainfield people have a great attachment for Asbury Park, and think it the finest place along the Jersey coast.

Judgments Granted to Attorney Coddington's Clients.

In Justice Nodyne's court this morning, William A. Coddington, Esq., representing the firm of Smith & Rockwell, and their successor, J. A. Smith, obtained judgments for $241.64 for groceries furnished Phineas Lawrence, of Prospect avenue. Judgment was also granted Andrew Love, another of Mr. Coddington's clients, for another disputed grocery bill.

BY THE WAY.

—Proposals for furnishing coal to the public school houses, are asked for by the Board of Education in another column.

—The Muhlenberg Hospital physicians have not yet decided whether or not to send John R. Clark to the insane asylum.

—Ensign Parker will speak at the Salvation Army meeting to-night, and Captain Leyh and Lieut. Booth will say farewell.

—The High School building is to be painted, and the Board of Education advertises for proposals elsewhere in THE PRESS.

—The Reform Club held an interesting meeting last evening. There was good speaking, and a number signed the pledge.

—The Board of Freeholders has decided to macadamize the bridge which is now planked, on Broadway beyond Ninth street.

—One more bargain will be added to Rogers Brothers list for Saturday. It is a lady's russet oxford tie, reduced from $1 to 50 cents. Sizes 2½, 3, 3½, and 4. Don't miss it.

—Capt. Leyh and Lieut. Booth will give their farewell addresses at the Salvation Army meeting to-night. Both are good speakers, and good workers, and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

—Everybody on THE PRESS will be at the ball match to-morrow afternoon, and the paper will be run off early. So get in your advertisements, notices, or anything else you want inserted, before noon. It's a great day in Plainfield when the Somervilles come to town.

—That New Jersey paradise, Black River Falls Park, to which the Reform Club is going to take its friends July 22, promises to attract a large crowd of people. This is the first chance Plainfield has had to see this charming resort, though excursions from other places to the spot are frequent.

—Since the Council in the borough was instituted, the members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., have taken a new start and are trying to double their membership. They were visited last evening by Junior Past Councilor W. S. Hill, of Trenton, W. S. Claradon, of Newark, and other prominent officials, who complimented them on their vigor and success.

Imitation goods are gotten up for the ignorant and gullible. The person able to read and write are not so easily fooled. They will insist that Hires's Root Beer is handed them, and nothing else "just as good." The best imitation is no good, and you know it.

Attention! Attention!
A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!
Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as
The Royal Tooth Powder,
for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.
To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

THE AWAKENING OF "THE TIMES".

She Begins to See Some of the Great Good That Has Come Out of the Reign of the Big 6.

Probably the most conspicuous of the many benefits for which the Big 6 are to be thanked, are the results accomplished with the money they have voted for the streets, through the judicious and effective way Councilmen Gallup, Spangenberg and Roberts have apportioned and disbursed it. Street Commissioner Meeker—another product of the reign of the Big 6—has never been equalled in his position, and because of so fit a man being chosen and every dollar being placed where it would do the most good and do a dollar's worth every time, the people are to-day pointing with pride to Plainfield's streets.

Even that purblind old woman, the Central Times, sees this, and devotes a column to the praise of what the Big 6 in general and their Street Commissioner in particular, have done in this one respect. She says:

Fifteen thousand dollars are to be expended by the City of Plainfield this year, upon the thoroughfares within its limits. That the public should know just where this amount of money is to go is only right and proper, and a Times man found Street Commissioner Robert A. Meeker ready and willing to answer all questions pertaining to the roads. Therefore the two set out one afternoon last week and made a tour of the municipality on bicycles. Incidentally it may be said that there is no surer way of testing the excellence of a newly made or repaired street than to take a spin over it on a wheel.

The first piece of good workmanship the Street Commissioner displayed was the newly constructed Cemetery avenue. This thoroughfare extends from Park avenue to the gate of the beautiful Hillside Cemetery. Since the opening of the cemetery the approach to it has been simply a mud hole, and many unpleasant and vexatious delays have occurred to mourners following beloved ones to their last resting place. The officers of the Cemetery Association offered as their share of the work to grade the avenue and to place it in proper condition to receive the macadam. This they did, and on June 1 the Street Commissioner began his part of the work. Crushed stone to the depth of six inches was laid and rolled until now the roadbed is as hard as asphalt and as smooth as a billiard ball. The avenue is just 2,250 feet long, and cost the city but $940. It is said the cost to the Cemetery Association was about $2,000. The Association also macadamized Woodland avenue at its intersection with Cemetery avenue, for a distance of 270 feet.

Another good piece of work, and one of which the Street Commissioner is justly proud, is the grading of North avenue and the abolishment of the nuisance caused by the settling of water back of the Netherwood station of the Central Railroad. This nuisance has been one of long standing, and was a source of constant discomfort to the railroad people as well as Netherwood residents. There was but one way to remedy the evil effectually, and that was to cut down North avenue so that all of the water should be carried toward the brook. The cost of doing this was estimated at $3,500, and the estimate proved a correct one. By the ingenious work of the Street Commissioner, however, the city has been saved $2,000, and possibly $2,500 of this expense. He induced the officers of the Railroad Company to contribute $1,000 toward the work, and was finally successful in obtaining from the Central New Jersey Land and Improvement Company another round sum of $1,000. This latter amount was obtained because the fifteen hundred loads of dirt taken from North avenue to make the grade was distributed over a swamp owned by the Company, and lying between the railroad and the avenue. The making of this road necessitated the cutting down of a hill 2,000 feet long, and the slight filling in of the roadway for 900 feet. Beyond the depot, the Plainfield Water Supply Company, at its own expense, has continued the good work of cutting down a hill 800 feet long, and grading a continuous thoroughfare up to the new water-works stand-pipe.

Commissioner Meeker's attitude toward the Land Improvement Company and the Railroad in this matter was just. Both were in a position to be benefited greatly by the work the city contemplated doing, and it was but right that they should pay for whatever benefit they derived from the improvement. It is to their credit that both responded to his convincing arguments to that end. Superintendents Swackhammer and Peddle took occasion to visit the spot the morning after last week's heavy downpour of rain. Instead of seeing the pond that was formerly formed whenever it rained, they observed the water being carried off down the gutters of the newly graded avenue. It was Superintendent Swackhammer who said: "That is a perfect piece of work", while his companion gave voice to words to the same effect. The rolling of this street was finished on Saturday, and a good dirt road from the centre of town to the pumping station, a distance of one and a half miles, is the result. As soon as the city can afford the luxury, North avenue will doubtless be macadamized. It will be an attractive thoroughfare then, and one where handsome buildings may well be erected.

Plainfield avenue, from Eighth street to the city line, has been completed this year at a cost of $668. The rest of the thoroughfare has been dressed up until at the present time it is a well-formed and complete street, a credit to any city. Over 3,500 feet of it has been made perfect under Mr. Meeker's supervision.

West Front street, from Plainfield avenue to the city line near Dunellen, has been thoroughly repaired at a small cost, and the swamp near Mr. Hetti's place obliterated. East Front street, from Richmond street to the Terrill Road, has been placed in excellent condition, and all that remains to be done, in order that there may be a continuous, perfect thoroughfare from Scotch Plains, is to have Front street top dressed and touched up from Richmond street, East, to Central avenue, West. The Commissioner spent a few days in the Spring putting the City Park in a condition as attractive as possible with small expense. It was graded and sown in grass seed, and looks better than it ever did before.

Many other minor improvements have been made about the city. Among these is the grading of New street from Front to Second street; the cutting down of Second street so as to conform to the grade of Central avenue, and the filling in of West Front street near Liberty street.

The work being done at present includes the cutting down and repairing of Church street, the grading of East Third street from Peace to Church street, and the macadamizing of Arlington avenue.

Taking into consideration the fact that the centre of town has been kept clean during all of this year, it will readily be seen that the Street Commissioner of Plainfield is a busy man.

People who notice his athletic figure clad in Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, as he wheels about the city on his bicycle, stamp him as a man on business bent, with no time to lose.

MR. RUNKLE'S TANK SHOOK THE CITY.

Exploding Gas Drove it 200 Feet up in the Air, and Raised a Drowned Body.

The explosion of the Municipal Gas Company's gasometer—which is another of many like possessions of Mr. Runkle of Plainfield—at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night in Rochester, shook the whole city. The next day the body of Watchman Michael Stapleton was found under a mass of debris at the bottom of the vat. No other bodies have been recovered, although it is thought that several will eventually be found in the canal. The victim whose body was recovered soon after the explosion was identified as Philip Peterson, Captain of a canal boat. He was sitting on the edge of his boat, just ready to start, when the explosion occurred. The top of the tank, weighing more than five tons, was carried up 200 feet, and it struck Peterson's boat, which was 500 feet away.

It is almost certain that Stapleton took his lantern and climbed in the top of the tank to learn how much water was in it. The ground and tank were thoroughly saturated with oil, and the heat of the day before, added to the filling process, resulted in the generation of considerable quantities of gas. The lantern came in contact with a nut, and the explosion followed.

A peculiar result of the explosion was the raising of the body of an unknown man drowned in the canal. The point at which the body came to the surface was half a mile from the explosion.

Feminine Candor.

A PRESS man, rather young and very good looking, went on a still hunt for a new boarding house the other day. He explored two or three places that were well recommended but the mottoes and the hair furniture and the clammy smell made him homesick and he sought further. Like all reporters he is a temperate youth and the very next house he struck seemed congenial and pleased him immensely. The engravings in the parlor were not bad, the carpets looked modern, the furniture did not appear to have belonged to Noah, there was no prevailing smell and the landlady had a pretty daughter. The pretty daughter admitted him and they talked about the weather till her ma arrived. Ma was courteous without being obsequious and the young man had begun to wonder who he would get to move his trunk and incidentally mentioned board, when she said:

"Yes, we do take boarders, but, as you can see, we are all full now"—

The prohibition youth was dazed and shocked.

"Full!" he gasped. "Horrible! You don't mean to tell me you are full!"

The pretty daughter had turned away with a horrid smile puckering up the corners of her dainty mouth and was gone.

"I am very sorry, sir," ma returned, "but such is the case"——

The young man had heard enough. Paralyzed by this frank confession of intemperance, he fell through the doorway, slid down the front steps, and went his way sorrowing. He still does his eating and sleeping at the old stand.

—The Central Times says: "The Water Supply Company's big stand-pipe, is just one mile and one-half from the depot". As the depot is at Jersey City, and as Plainfield station is about a mile and a half the other side of the stand-pipe, then according to the Times—it is only three miles from this city to Communipaw.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, derived as well from my own experience as from the testimony of many who have tested their merits, I am satisfied that they well deserve the ample patronage they are receiving. The Rev. C. VAN SANTVOORD, Kingston, N. Y.

ROBBED HIS FRIEND.

A Printer Decamps With a Plainfielder's Valuables.

Mr. F. D. Whiting, formerly of Sixth street, Plainfield, but now in charge of the printing department of the Homestead Publishing Company, at 20 Albany street, New Brunswick, was robbed Wednesday night of a valuable watch and chain and $6 in money by a printer named James W. Colt, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Whiting obtained a job for the man at the Century Press Company establishment on Church street, and took him into his room at 27 Albany street until he could find suitable quarters for both Colt and wife, whom he said would be there in a few days.

Mr. Whiting retired at 11 o'clock but did not get to sleep until 12. He awoke about 4 o'clock, feeling a draught of air from a door which had been left open.

He found that Colt had disappeared and had taken with him the valuables mentioned. The watch was an American hunting case, worth about $80. The chain was a long double guard, intended to pass around the neck, and worth about $20. It was highly prized as a family heirloom.

Mr. Whiting is an earnest mission worker and attended the Florence Mission with Colt Tuesday evening. Colt represented himself as a Christian and joined in the service at the mission as well as in devotions in the bedroom before retiring.

On discovering his loss, Whiting dressed and made his way to police headquarters, where he told his story. Officer Clinton went with him to the railway station, but saw no one answering to Colt's description. Inquiry proved that he had not been around. Whiting and the officer boarded the 6:30 morning train and rode as far as Metuchen, where they searched and inquired for their man, but failed to secure any trace of his whereabouts. They returned about 9 o'clock.

Colt is a fine appearing young man with a glib tongue. His language is choice and his general deportment evinced the traits of a studied gentleman. He completely won over Whiting, whose kind heart prompted him to sacrifice himself for the stranger. Colt is about 26 years old, of dark complexion, with piercing black eyes and a gracefully curved black mustache. He is of slender build, five feet eight inches in height. He wore a light checked summer suit and black derby. He represented that his father was a preacher and showed recommendations from Philadelphia clergymen.

Whiting has sent out descriptions of the man over the State, and will thus try to recover his property. Colt will be prosecuted if found.

An Effective Advertisement.

The effect an advertisement has upon the reader is very well illustrated by the following, as related in the Mechanical News: A wealthy man who owns a country residence recently became dissatisfied with it, and determined to have another. So he instructed a real estate agent famous for his descriptive powers to advertise it in the papers for private sale, but to conceal the location, telling purchasers to apply at his office. In a few days the gentleman happened to see the advertisement, was pleased with the account of the place, showed it to his wife, and the two concluded it was just the place they wanted, and that they would secure it at once. So he went to the office of the agent, and told him that the place he had advertised was such a one as he desired, and he would purchase it. The agent burst into a laugh, and told him that it was a description of his own house where he was then living. He read the advertisement again, cogitated over the "grassy slopes," "beautiful vistas," "smooth lawns," etc., and broke out: "Is it possible? Well, make out my bill for advertising and expenses, for, by George! I wouldn't sell the place now for three times what it cost me."

The Merit of Persistence.

One of the secrets of successful advertising consists in keeping your establishment and the wares you have to sell before the eyes of the public continually. The great advertisers of the country never cease reminding you of their existence. Their names, the location and nature of their establishments are thrust before you continually in the great daily, weekly and monthly publications, and at the moment you are ready to buy anything they have to sell, at that same moment the names of these advertisers flash before your mind's eye, and, unconscious of the influence their advertisements have worked upon you, you find yourself going to their places for what you require.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Look for an Invitation.

Keep your eye on the newspaper, and see which of the merchants want your custom and are sufficiently courteous to invite you to call. There is much more in advertising than you may think. It is not only to tell of his goods that a man advertises, but is to invite the people who read—the thinking, the intelligent—to pay him a visit, and judge for themselves as to the quality and price of what he offers for sale. People read the advertisements. Don't make any mistake about that. They are just as much interested in knowing where to buy to an advantage as the advertiser is in selling his goods.

Qualifications for a Salesman.

John Wanamaker addressed the Travelers' club in Philadelphia recently. "You want to be successful and you can. I don't believe that God ever ordained that one man should be successful and another not, but it lies with the man himself. One comes stumbling into your store, does not shut the door, and his breath smells of whisky. You want nothing to do with him. Right after him comes another bright, smart fellow. He walks briskly, shuts the door behind him and is cleanly attired; a dirty man can't be a salesman. The fellow makes an impression and sells his goods."

The People You Don't Know.

There is a great deal in writing an attractive advertisement. Do you give your advertisements your best attention? If you expect to do a large business on the fact that you know so many people you will get left. The ones you don't know are greatly in the majority. How are you to reach them in the most favorable manner at the least expense? By placing an attractive advertisement in the newspaper.—Lincoln (Neb.) Courier.

Advertising as an Investment.

Advertising is a tax on him who so regards it. Only when he has learned to look upon it as an investment, and treat it as such, giving it his time and thought, will it develop into a thing that pays. Newspaper advertising space, like most other kinds of property, has two values; to wit, what it costs the advertiser and what it is worth to him. Therefore, in buying it, he should consider its character as well as its price.—The Roller Mill.

A Boon to Man.

The newspaper advertising columns are a boon to man. They help him out of his troubles and into the smiles of prosperity. If Truth is contemplating the erection of a new arch, she cannot do a more consistent thing than to choose for its keystone:

He who in this world would rise
Must read the papers and advertise.

—Chicago Herald.

A Striking Advertisement.

A certain advertisement, printed fully ten years ago, is still recalled as having been to this effect: "Two-thirds of your life is spent in your clothes. Why not have comfortable clothes?" It was a truism of course, but put in that form and with the "two-thirds" printed boldly as a fraction it was peculiarly striking.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cannot Afford to Stop.

There is a reason why a business that has been built up by advertising cannot afford to stop or change its tactics. The class of trade that has been secured is the kind that is influenced by advertising, and he who would hold it must continue using the same means.—Printers' Ink.

The Keystone of Success.

Because a man is doing a big business and making money is no reason why he should not make more, and many a millionaire has found that letting people know what he had to sell was the keystone of success.—Rome (N. Y.) Tribune.

Don't Encourage Peddlers.

Give peddlers the "go by" and deal with your home merchants, who show they desire your patronage by advertising in your home paper.—Exchange.

TWO PAIRS OF RED LEGS.

The Remarkable Escapade of Two Union Soldiers.

They Coolly Walked Into the City of Fredericksburg—Why They Were Not Arrested—Their Arrival Caused a Big Sensation.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

The flags of the "Fighting Fourteenth" fluttered over Falmouth heights, Fredericksburg, soon to be the prey of the northern dogs of war, was plainly visible in the distance. McDowell was in command of the army of the Rappahannock and the main body of the confederates had sullenly retired, leaving only a few straggling companies to harrass the advance of the union troops. Falmouth heights had been reached with little resistance. Dashing Lieut. Decker, with his sharpshooters, had hurried forward too precipitately. He was ambushed and three saddles, his own included, were emptied in an instant. This was, however, the only serious casuality which occurred on that glorious April morning in 1863. Below Falmouth heights bridges were burned and a little to the right Battery B was blazing away at the retiring foe. Beyond Fredericksburg, Anderson's division could be seen in motion. For the Fighting Fourteenth, christened "Red Legged Devils" by the confederates, the spectacle was one never to be forgotten. In a few moments McDowell and his staff were seen hurrying to the front. Then came a surprise. Much to the amazement of "Big Ned," the gallant colonel of the Fourteenth, two red legs were seen on the wrong side of the Rappahannock. They were coolly marching toward Fredericksburg. This strange spectacle had evidently attracted the attention of the general in command. He stopped, called for a field glass and focussed it on the red legs. Altogether unconscious of the scrutiny they continued in motion, every step taking them nearer to the place which it seemed sheer insanity to approach. The field glass was passed from one member of the staff to another, but it was evident that neither McDowell nor his aides could come to any satisfactory conclusion about the matter, so they apparently gave up the problem and rode on. A few moments later, however, one of McDowell's orderlies appeared on Falmouth heights with instructions to the effect that the roll of the fighting Fourteenth be called immediately. This, of course, would show not only whether any of the Red Legs were missing, but who were the delinquent and foolhardy men. So the roll was called. It is needless to say that the affair became more complicated than ever when it was found that every name had been responded to. Nobody knew what to make of it. For some time the mystery remained unsolved. The Red Legs seemed to have caused as much commotion in Fredericksburg as they did on their way there. Quite a crowd of people awaited their approach and when they disappeared from sight it was manifest that their arrival had caused something of a sensation. Before nightfall the Fourteenth had moved into camp and every member of the command was theorizing about the strange spectacle of the morning. The men who had least to say about it belonged to Company G. When they were asked for an opinion they theorized as readily as anyone, but professed to be as much mystified as the remainder of the regiment. The night was well advanced when John Shanley and Butt Riley, both members of Company G, strolled into camp, attracting, as they did so, as little attention as possible. They were soon surrounded by a group of exceedingly curious comrades. It was soon an open secret all over the camp that they were the owners of the red legs which had marched into Fredericksburg. A more reckless pair of Irishmen never breathed. When the roll was called friendly voices had answered and, if the sergeant who had the roll in his hand knew of the deception, he was good natured enough to keep his own counsel. Of course they were soon in the middle of a crowd of interested listeners. Riley was an uncommunicative man, but it took little to loosen the strings of Shanley's tongue. He readily told the story of the remarkable adventures of the day. In all the varied annals of war there is nothing like it. It was the private opinion of Mr. Riley that the army was moving a good deal too slowly, and he told Mr. Shanley so. Mr. Shanley submitted that, if he was in such a hurry, there was nothing to prevent him from making better time. As a matter of fact he could go to the city all by himself if he wanted to.

THEIR ARRIVAL HAD CAUSED SOMETHING OF A SENSATION.

HE READILY TOLD THE STORY OF THE REMARKABLE ADVENTURES OF THE DAY.

"I'll go if you will go with me," remarked Mr. Riley.

"I'm with you, Butt," said Mr. Shanley.

That was the beginning of as strange an escapade as was ever undertaken. It seemed like walking into the lion's mouth, but neither man "took water." What was suggested probably in jest was carried out in reality. They slipped off early in the morning, crossed the river and proceeded toward the city. Some idea of the reception which awaited them has already been given. Timid citizens seemed to be more than anxious to announce that Fredericksburg was willing to surrender. It was not long before they were in the presence of the mayor of the city. They had laughingly responded that they didn't want the city; that they simply wanted to see what it was like. The mayor proved to be a kindly, benevolent old gentleman. He seemed to be impressed with the idea that the visit of the two union soldiers might be attended with good results to Fredericksburg and was at first disposed to believe that they came in some official capacity. The fact that they were evidently privates of course made this improbable, but the only alternative was to believe that the men were lunatics and they did not seem to be deranged. When his honor discovered the true state of affairs, he became exceedingly angry and threatened to send Shanley and his friend to prison. This didn't disturb either of the red legs.

All right," said Riley, "go ahead. "If you do, our boys will shell the city for you."

This seemed to be just what the mayor was anxious to avoid, and the threat, empty boast as it was, produced the desired effect. Shanley and Riley saw a good deal of Fredericksburg during their brief stay there. They made friends with astonishing rapidity, and there seemed to be little or no feeling against them because they wore northern uniforms. There is no doubt, however, that they were treated good naturedly because somehow they managed to convey the idea that they were "privileged characters." They were not in a hurry to leave. As Shanley often said afterwards, they took their time about it because there was no necessity for undignified haste. If the story of their exploit seems to indicate that he was a man of limited intelligence, indications were never more misleading. Shanley served three on four terms in the legislature of the empire state, where he not only wielded much influence, but where he took rank as the most able of the lieutenants of his leader. When he was mustered out of earthly harness, an event which occurred not more than a year ago, he was Brooklyn's city clerk, and was regarded as one of the most astute men who ever held the office. He left quite a handsome fortune and his popularity was unbounded. Those who knew him in war days speak of him as a man who had the tenderness of a woman and the heart of a lion. Riley and he returned to camp feeling as though they had virtually had the refusal of a city, and the entire regiment was proud of its pair of adventurers. In the morning Shanley was sent out with a working party. This was all the punishment he received and it turned out to be a good thing for him. His developed qualifications which made his assistance particularly valuable to the officer in charge of the party, and later on he was transferred to the engineers. There he won the regard of the general who had surveyed his red legs through the field glass, and the result was that he became a lieutenant. Responsibility cured his partiality for escapades. Riley, who was also a Brooklynite, returned to the City of Churches after the war. He died some years before Shanley, and the city clerk held his hand as he passed away.

Consoling Reflection.

Fweddy was on his first sea voyage. Pale, limp and ready to die, he lay groaning in his bunk.

"Cholly," he said, feebly, after a paroxysm of unusual violence had spent itself and he had become comparatively calm, "a fellow ought to be doosid thankful he isn't a cow."

"Why?" asked Cholly.

"Because a cow—waugh!—has got four stomachs, don't y' know!"—Chicago Tribune.

"SORRY, BUT SHALL HAVE TO LET YOU GO."

Thousands of delicate young ladies are employed in fashionable Dry Goods, Millinery, and other stores, where through the long day they are constantly on their feet. Among this class, some of the worst cases of female diseases occur. There is no rest, and, when their ill-health becomes apparent, they are at once discharged. To such, the aid and sympathy of Mrs. Pinkham are always available.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the system.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

NINE MEN KILLED

Horrible Slaughter of Laborers Near Hepburn, Ohio.

TWO TRAINS IN COLLISION.

Both Locomotives and Several Cars Completely Wrecked.

Telegraph Wires Down and Impossible to Obtain Full Particulars—It is Reported that a Large Number of Men Were Injured—Swift's Fast Refrigerator Train for the East Caused the Wreck.

LIMA, Ohio, July 18.—Nine railroad laborers were killed and many others seriously injured in a railroad wreck at Hepburn, a small station near Kenton, on the Chicago & Erie Railroad.

Swift's refrigerator meat train, going East as a special, ran into a work train which was pulling into a side track.

Besides killing nine of the laborers and injuring others, the accident caused the complete wrecking of both locomotives and smashed twelve cars.

News of the wreck was received here by telephone. The telegraph wires along the Erie Road are down east of Kenton and west of Marion.

THE ELLIOTT MURDER TRIAL.

Col. Holmes Talks Eloquently for the Prosecution.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—Col. Holmes, after occupying the floor for five hours, closed his opening argument in the Elliott murder trial.

He ably set forth the case and closed with an eloquent peroration, the last clause of which, directed to the jury, is as follows:

"From the counsel on the other side you will hear appeals for the prisoner which will touch your hearts, and see manly tears meant to move you to mercy, but remember A. C. Osborn's lips are sealed forever, his throbbing heart is stilled for all eternity, and the green hillock hides from view in the bosom of Mother Earth his ghastly wounds. But his silent lips must speak to your attentive ears the dreadful word, 'Murder! Murder! Murder!' And remember that he who spares the guilty threatens the innocent."

SENATOR CARLISLE'S REPLY.

Says He Will Survive the Slanders of Certain Parties in Kentucky.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Hon. John G. Carlisle, who was in the city yesterday, said to a reporter:

"Some of the Kentucky papers have been throwing dirt at me by saying that I had been presented with a house and lot by the Frankfort Lottery people on account of my opposition to the adoption of a new constitution; but I will survive their slanders and attend to business at the old stand.

"Kentucky's future depends much on the material selected for the new legislature. If they elect enough Farmers' Alliance people the State will go backward 100 years or more. What they want is young, active, sensible Democrats at the helm, and then progression is sure."

WRECKED BY A CAVE-IN.

People Rushed Into the Street and Began to Pray.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 18.—A serious mine cave-in took place at Edwardsville at 1 a. m. A loud crackling noise was heard in the night, and many thought an earthquake had taken place. The people rushed out into the street and began to pray.

When daylight came it was found that the earth over No. 2 mine of the Kingston Coal Company had gone down six feet. Seven houses were badly wrecked. There were holes in the earth's surface large enough to admit the body of a man.

The damage to the mine is so great that there will be no employment for its 400 hands for weeks to come.

A Public Official Suspended.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 18.—L. C. Pareriea, Assistant Secretary of the Department of the Interior, has been suspended. He appeared before the Public Accounts Committee yesterday and acknowledged that he had drawn money for extra work performed by himself in his wife's maiden name and also in that of "Ellen Berry" a fictitious personage. He asserted, however, that he earned all of the money he drew in this way.

Alarm at the Vatican.

ROME, July 18.—The Pope was attacked by a sudden illness last evening. Dr. Ceccarelli was hastily summoned, and His Holiness was at once relieved. His only symptom now giving his attendants alarm is his liability to fall into a deep faint, even when taking an airing in the Vatican gardens, which has occurred several times of late.

Taken Away from the Indian Missions.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The contracts for educating Indian children in Catholic schools for the current year are made directly by the Indian Bureau with the schools instead of through the Bureau of Catholic Indian Missions as heretofore. The amount awarded to the Catholic Bureau for this purpose last year was $380,000.

Committed Suicide by Hanging.

VICTOR, N. Y., July 18.—Hart Boughton, a well known resident of Victor, committed suicide during the day by hanging himself in his brother's barn. He was 40 years old.

Attached for $12,000.

BOSTON, July 18.—The estate of the Bayley Hat Company, of Newburyport, has been attached for $12,000 by W. A. & A. M. White, of New York.

DECISIVE
Baking Powder Tests

The United States Official

Investigation of Baking Powders, made, by authority of Congress, in the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., furnishes the highest authoritative information as to which powder is the best. The Official Report Shows the ROYAL to be a cream of tartar baking powder, superior to all others in leavening power (U.S. Dept. Agricult'e Bulletin 13, p. 599).

QUAY ISSUES A CALL.

It May Mean a National Convention in May Next.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Chairman Matthew S. Quay, of the Republican National Committee, has called a meeting of the Executive Committee in this city for the 29th inst. It is understood that the full committee will soon be called together to fix an earlier than usual date for the national convention.

It is likely that the national committee will meet in New York or Washington in November and fix some time in May next for the national convention. Some say that Chairman Quay will offer his resignation at the meeting this month. His friends say he has no intention of resigning from the chairmanship absolutely, without giving reasons—as Gorman did the Democratic National Committee chairmanship after his successful work in 1884.

THE EASTPORT OUTRAGE.

American Fishing Boats Were Seized in American Waters.

BANGOR, Me., July 18.—The following telegram was sent to Secretary Foster, at Washington, by Congressman Boutelle:

"The Deputy Collector of Customs at Eastport, Me., sends me the following telegram in response to my inquiry:

"EASTPORT, Me., July 18, 1891.

"Dominion fishing cruiser Dream seized seven American fishing boats Thursday forenoon in this harbor. Crews were landed here. Boats were towed to St. Andrews, N. B. Occupants of the boats claim they were fishing in American waters, and ask the protection of our Government.

"F. E. NUTT, Deputy Collector."

"Will you please advise the State Department and take such measures as may be deemed requisite for official ascertainment of the facts and the protection of the rights of our people. It looks like an attempt to harrass and annoy Americans at a time when the Maine coast is most thronged with pleasure-seekers from all parts of the country.

"(Signed) C. A. BOUTELLE, M. C."

SUICIDE IN A CEMETERY.

A Young Man Rides on a Bicycle to His Mother's Grave.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 18.—Chas. Crysler, about 22 years old, the son of a dentist, A. C. Crysler, committed suicide at his mother's grave in Oakwood Cemetery last evening.

Crysler took a rifle from his father's room, rode out to the cemetery on a bicycle, and when he reached the grave placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and fired, the ball coming out of the back of his head. Despondency is supposed to have caused the act.

Arrested for Bigamy and Larceny.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 18.—Detectives have arrested John W. Lyman on a warrant charging him with bigamy and also with grand larceny. Eva Waring avers that Lyman was married to her on Sept. 29, 1890, in this city. He lived here a while and then took a trip to Boston, where he boarded in a house on Beach street. There he met Emma Chisholm and after a brief courtship married her on May 2 last. Mrs. Lyman No. 2 had a gold watch and chain, and she says that after living with Lyman for some time he suddenly came west, taking her jewelry with him.

Dr. McGlynn's Case at Rome.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A number of the faithful followers of Dr. McGlynn are confident that the excommunicated priest will be taken back into the fold ere long. Father O'Callahan, a warm friend of Dr. McGlynn, says that Dr. Colton, rector of St. Stephen's, is now in Europe and before he returns will go to Rome. The Pope will give the doctor a hearing, and it is thought that the conference will result in the reinstatement of Dr. McGlynn.

McKinley in West Virginia.

CLARKESBURG, July 18.—Congressman McKinley arrived about midnight, accompanied by Gen. Goff, who went to Grafton to meet him. A great crowd gathered to meet him, and both gentlemen were invited to speak, which they did, and were enthusiastically received.

Closing the Census Work.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Supt. Porter reports that with the exception of the gathering of fragments of information about manufactures, the field work of the eleventh census of the United States is finished.

LED INTO AMBUSH

Conspiracy to Assassinate Several Policemen.

THEY HAVE A DESPERATE FIGHT

Two Members of the Gang Captured by a Posse.

One Hundred Masked Men Take the Leader from Jail by Force—He is Suspended Over a Bridge and Shot Several Times—A Placard of Warning Tacked on His Body.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., July 18.—A desperate attempt was made to assassinate the Middlesboro police force yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. A lot of disreputable characters who frequent Gum Springs, a low drinking and gambling dive just outside the city limits, concocted the plot to murder the officers.

They accordingly stationed about 15 of their gang along the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and two of their number began firing their Winchesters. These two were Gillis Johnson and Frank Rossimus.

Chief Maples, with a posse of officers, went in pursuit of the pair and were led into the ambush. Over 100 shots were exchanged.

Special Officer Dorsey Williams was shot through both thighs, and Patrolman Tucker was shot in the leg. The police were forced to retire. They returned to the city.

A posse of about 100 citizens armed with rifles soon captured both desperadoes and lodged them in jail.

About 4 a. m. a crowd of masked men entered Jailer Bolliss's sleeping apartments at the jail and with pistols at his head demanded the keys to the jail. The jailer was forced to give up the keys.

The crowd then went into the jail, took Rossimus out and led him to the big bridge over Canal and 20th street, where he was shot several times.

A rope was then fastened about his neck, and he was swung over the side of the bridge until 7 o'clock, when he was cut down. A placard was tacked on the bridge rail, just above the body, bearing this inscription:

"WARNING—This is the fate of all would-be murderers."

FATAL RESULT OF A BON FIRE.

One Child Burned to Death and Another Dying.

ERIE, Pa., July 18.—Lena, the 6-year-old daughter of a baker named Charles Schwartz, while making a bon fire in the alley at the rear of her house last evening spilled some coal oil over her clothing and was soon ablaze.

The clothing of her baby sister, aged six months, also caught fire, and their mother, startled by the children's screams, rushed to the rescue. When neighbors discovered the situation all three were clinging to each other wrapped in flames.

They were speedily stripped of their clothing and everything done to relieve their sufferings, but, despite prompt medical assistance, Lena died a few hours later in horrible agony and the baby is dying. The mother may recover. Several persons who assisted in the rescue received serious burns.

The French Government Sustained.

PARIS, July 18.—The Government has achieved an overwhelming victory in the Chamber of Deputies. The motion of yesterday made by M. Laur (Boulangiste), with regard to German passport regulations in Alsace, Lorraine, has been tabled by a vote of 319 to 103. The announcement of the result was received with an outburst of cheering and repeated cries of "Vive la Republique." In the streets the people stand amazed at the magnificent rally of the deputies to the support of the Government.

End of Another Saving Society.

BOSTON, July 18.—President J. Hollis Kenny of the Order of the Reliable Fellowship, an association organized under New Hampshire laws on April 1 last, is said to have disappeared with the entire funds of the order, amounting to is estimated, to nearly $3,000. The losers are almost wholly a poor class of women and a few men, and will average about $40 for each.

SLAVIN'S NEW SCHEME.

He Will Run 200 Miles Against Charles Rowell for $1,000 a Side.

LONDON, July 18.—Frank P. Slavin, the Australian pugilist, finding no one ready to fight him, has entered into an agreement for a walking match with Charles Rowell, the champion English pedestrian, well known for his triumphs in the United States.

According to the agreement, the parties are to run or walk 200 miles for $1,000 a side. The match is to take place on Aug. 20. There will be great curiosity to see how the prize fighter acquits himself as a pedestrian. The singularity of the match is attracting widespread attention.

The Fitzsimmons-Hall Fight.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 18.—Boxes for the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight next Wednesday evening have been sold to parties from nearly all the principal cities, among them three for New York, five for Chicago, three for San Francisco, two for Tacoma and one for Portland. There is quite a demand for single seats, but as there are over 4,000 in the pavilion, there will be plenty left for visitors arriving next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Will Fight the Union.

STEELTON, Pa., July 18.—A scale of wages, demanding an increase of 20 to 25 per cent. over the reduction of last fall, was presented by the Amalgamated Association to the management of the Pennsylvania Steel Works yesterday. A notice was subsequently posted by the management stating that neither the scale nor the organization that issued it would be recognized.

Drag Hunt Hounds Attached.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 18.—J. J. Dwyer's pack of hounds, used for the drag hunts here last season, and also intended for sport this season have been attached for debt. The keeping of the pack here all the year around has been a losing game from the start. The cottagers have got tired of subscribing money for what was considered anything but sport last season and the prospects for the present season were no better.

Georgia's Last Alliance Rally.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 18.—The Alliance meeting in Athens was a repetition of the rallies in Americus and Atlanta. Gen. Weaver, Col. Polk and Congressman Simpson spoke. There were about 3,000 people present. Allusions to a third party were received with cheers. The last Alliance rally takes place in Rome.

The French Government Sustained.

PARIS, July 18.—The Government has achieved an overwhelming victory in the Chamber of Deputies. The motion of yesterday made by M. Laur (Boulangiste), with regard to German passport regulations in Alsace, Lorraine, has been tabled by a vote of 319 to 103. The announcement of the result was received with an outburst of cheering and repeated cries of "Vive la Republique." In the streets the people stand amazed at the magnificent rally of the deputies to the support of the Government.

A Priest Sent to Prison.

BERLIN, July 18.—In Wollstein, Hesse, the parish priest of the Roman Catholic Church of that place was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for four months for using insulting language toward the Emperor in his sermon last Sunday. His remarks had special references to the Kaiser's visit to England.

A Prominent Physician Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 18.—Dr. Frank Hamilton Potter, a prominent physician of this city, and well-known throughout the State in connection with the State Medical Society, died during the night, aged 39 years. Death resulted from an abscess in his side.

A Railroad Trackman Killed.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, N. Y., July 18.—Henry Smith, a trackman at the Erie depot, was killed by a passenger train at 10 a. m. while wheeling a truck across the tracks. He was 60 years old.

"Yes, madam, ladies who try Cleveland's Baking Powder will have nothing else. They say it goes farther and gives better results. Almost everyone uses it now."

SWEPT BY FLAMES

Severest Fire Ever Known in South America.

SANTIAGO'S LOSS OVER $2,000,000.

The British Minister's Office Was Completely Consumed.

All of the Archives and Personal Property Burned—Another Great Fire at Lynn, Mass.—The Section Burned Two Years Ago Again Visited—The Loss Estimated at Over $200,000.

SANTIAGO, Chili, July 18.—This city has been the scene of one of the severest fires ever down in South America, the loss being estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The British legation was completely consumed, including all of the archives and personal property of the Minister. The fire started in a restaurant.

BIG FIRE IN LYNN.

Two Buildings Destroyed and One Partly Burned—Loss, $200,000.

LYNN, Mass., July 18.—At 9:30 last night fire started in the third story of Blake's brick block, corner of Union and Mulberry street, and in 20 minutes had spread to the five-story brick block adjoining, owned by Strout Bros., and threatened the entire street for a distance of 200 feet. Aid was called from adjoining towns and cities.

At 10:10 it was seen that the five-story brick block owned by B. W. Currier could not be saved except by superhuman efforts. The Currier block was situated across a narrow street and only separated from the Strout block by 20 feet. It soon caught fire and the firemen poured four streams on the fire from the top of the building.

At this time the Strout five-story building was a mass of fire. Streams were being constantly poured on the new Fabens block on the opposite side of Union street and also on the Titus and Buckley four-story brick buildings adjoining.

The Strout and Blake blocks were in ruins at 10:30. The Currier Building, a magnificent five-story brick building, caught several times, but the blaze was quickly controlled. At 10:40 a large part of the Strout block fell on the the Almont street side, and the flames, darting up, caught once more, and in a moment the upper story of the Currier Block was in flames.

At 10:45 the fire was under control in the Currier Block and the building was only partially destroyed. It was occupied on the first floor by W. M. Currier & Co., clothiers, and on the upper floors by offices of lawyers, real estate dealers and others.

E. E. Strout, owner of the largest building totally destroyed, said the building cost $45,000; insured for $35,000. It is burned flat.

It is estimated that the loss on the two blocks destroyed and that of the Currier Building, partially burned, together with contents, will reach nearly $200,000.

WILL ATTACK FLAGSTAFF.

The Navajos Hold a Pow-Wow at Fort Defiance.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., July 18.—Word has been received by Sheriff Francis that the Navajo Indians held a big pow-wow at Fort Defiance, and a number of them started for Flagstaff with the intention of forcibly releasing the leader chief, Hostine, who is now in jail here.

If this report be true the Indians will arrive here to-day, and preparations have been made to withstand their attack. Chief Hostine states if he is not released to-morrow the warriors will raid the town. Hostine expresses strong enmity toward the whites and says he will kill every white man he sees after he is released. Preparations are being made here to guard against a Navajo outbreak.

Walked Across Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 18.—Samuel J. Dixon, of New York, a delegate to the photographers' convention at Buffalo, walked across Niagara Falls on a three-quarter inch wire cable. The trip was first made from the Canadian to the American shore, and after a short rest Dixon performed some difficult gymnastic feats. He afterward performed on the Canadian shore. More than 2,000 persons witnessed the feat. Dixon moved to New York from Toronto a short time ago.

COMPLAINT FROM SEALERS.

They Set Forth the Loss They Have Sustained.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 18.—A deputation of sealing men waited upon Sir George Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson on board the steamer Danube and presented a memorial, setting forth the loss sustained by the prohibition of sealing.

They stated to the commissioners that they had not received any official notice of the closing of Behring Sea, and consequently they had continued to prepare for the season.

Sir George states that his view of the case was that the men-of-war had not gone to Behring Sea for the purpose of making seizures, but to tell the sealing schooners that they were going to stop sealing in their (the sealers) interests.

In reply to a question as to powers of the commission Sir George said they had full power of inquiry into sealing through the whole course of the North Pacific Ocean.

Dr. Dawson said: "I do not think there is any fear of our fur sealing being exterminated, because I do not think that it is an animal that can be exterminated."

One of the delegation expressed the opinion that the agreement to kill 7,500 seals for the natives on the islands was a bit of jobbery. Dr. Dawson thought 7,500 barrels of flour would have been more to the point.

Sir George promised to take the question of compensation and other matters into consideration and include it in their report.

The Commissioners, however, had no power to promise anything. Their mission was simply to inquire and report.

Sir George and Dr. Dawson, subsequent to their conference with sealers, visited Collector Milne and had a long talk with him on the sealing question.

Mr. Milne, showed them he had no authority to refuse to clear vessels for Behring Sea, and therefore did not do so.

Mr. Milne also gave the visitors a list of the schooners cleared from Victoria, their tonnage and equipment. The Commissioners left last night on the steamer Danube.

BLOWN TO ATOMS.

A Can of Nitro-Glycerine Explodes in Washington, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Pa. July 18.—An explosion of 200 pounds of nitro-glycerine, which blew up S. J. Bigley, the driver, the wagon containing the explosive and a team of fine horses to atoms, occurred at this place early in the morning.

Bigley, the victim, was 40 years of age and leaves a widow and several children. He was taking the glycerine to Mt. Morris oil field to torpedo oil wells.

All that has been found of Bigley is a small piece of his head, 600 feet distant from the scene of the accident.

The house of Work Hughes, sr. and Lee Minton at the roadside were demolished.

Mrs. Hughes and three children were seriously hurt by falling walls.

E. D. Crumine's residence was also badly damaged and his wife severely hurt.

Within a radius of half a mile every window was shattered.

The shock was terrific and a hole in the ground large enough for a cellar is the only mark of the explosion.

It is supposed that one of the cans was leaking, permitting the glycerine to escape, the jar of the wagon exploding it.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Texas fever is raging among the cattle of the Cherokee Nation.

Judges Blodgett and Gresham are now on the sick list at Chicago.

Edward Gripper & Sons, corn factors, of Manchester Wharf, London, have failed.

Michael Pender, a 19-year-old brakeman, of Plattsburg, N. Y., fell from a train and was killed.

Everything is quiet in Hayti and the Government is fully prepared to suppress any outbreak.

A sensation is expected at Liverpool, owing to the resignation of several directors of the salt union.

Lord Salisbury's advocacy of woman suffrage meets strong opposition among the English Conservatives.

W. S. Capellar, of the Mansfield "News," was elected president of the National Editorial Association in session at St. Paul, Minn.

George Brown, who waylaid messenger boys and relieved them of their packages, was sentenced yesterday in New York to six years imprisonment.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A praise service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms this evening at 7:45 o'clock.

—Members of the Y. M. C. A. will take a run to Rahway next Tuesday evening, under command of Charles C. Dilts. They will leave Plainfield at 7:45.

—To-day's base-ball match between the Crescents of Plainfield and the West Ends of Somerville, is postponed until Wednesday afternoon of next week at 3:45, in this city.

—The three tramps with cutlery and pistols for sale, whom the Plainfield police were instructed to watch out for, as told exclusively in yesterday's PRESS, are wanted for a burglary committed in T. H. S. Cone's store at Bound Brook.

—A correspondent sends this: "What's the difference between Plainfield and Philadelphia? Why, Plainfield has one newspaper—THE PRESS—and Philadelphia has n't any." This calls to mind the statement that "To put a good newspaper man on a Philadelphia newspaper is like inviting a good musician to prove his skill on the jew's-harp."

—Lawyer Wm. A. Coddington, of this city, has been retained by Vittorio Perini, of Bound Brook, to bring suit against the Merchants and the Hartford insurance companies for $1,500, the amount claimed by Perini for loss by fire on June 1, last, of his entire stock contained in his grocery store at Bound Brook. Mr. Coddington has to-day taken several affidavits of reputable Bound Brook citizens, substantiating the claim.

—Boynton Beach, the old favorite of Plainfield picnic parties, now offers increased attractions. The weakfish are biting. An abundance of bait and tackle is provided. The bathing is unsurpassed. Naptha launches are running constantly to take out boating parties. These and many other pleasures of the place, together with information concerning the running of trains, are given in the advertisement in another column.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. H. T. Smith and son are staying at Seawanhaka Island.

I. C. Vannatta of Scotch Plains is at the Fenimore House, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCarthy are at Strasbourg Cottage, Atlantic Highlands.

Emma Florence Angleman, of 33 Madison avenue, is visiting friends in Hunterdon county.

Mrs. L. C. Sheppard and son, Luther, of Madison avenue, are visiting friends at Glen Gardner.

Robert R. Doherty, Ph. D., of Westfield, will preach at the Park Avenue church to-morrow morning.

The Misses Burr, of Kensington avenue, gave a yellow luncheon, Wednesday last, which was of course a great success.

Miss C. A. Bagot, of Brooklyn, accompanied by her nephew, Master Leslie Belcher, is a guest of relatives in North Plainfield.

The Rev. Mr. Richards viewed a beautiful sunset scene from the top of the Plainfield Water Supply Co's stand-pipe, last evening.

Dr. E. W. Hedges will preside at the organ of the Park Avenue Baptist church, during the absence of Miss Alice Coard who is at Ocean City, Md.

There will be a Seventh-day Baptist in the Freshman Class of Rutgers next year. His name is Howard S. Wilson, and he hails from Dunellen.

The Rev. J. H. Parks, a prominent D. D. of Scotch Plains is resting at Marine Villa. The good doctor is accompanied by his accomplished wife.—Asbury Park Spray.

Master Bertie Sofield, who has been visiting his uncle, T. A. Sofield, at 68 West Second street, for the past three weeks, returned to his home at Perth Amboy this afternoon, in company with his mother and sister.

The yacht Bluebeard dropped anchor yesterday morning south of the bridge at Atlantic Highlands. On board were Miss May Palmer and Bridie Stewart, of Plainfield; Major C. P. Strong, Miss Maude Ebling, of Trenton; Miss Carrie Sweeny and Miss Lucila Stellings, of Jersey City Heights.

The following Plainfielders are among those registered at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove during the past two days: E. Burr, Miss Burr, Coleman House; Frank P. Clawson, Ocean Hotel; the Rev. Cornelius Schenck and wife, West End; the Rev. C. B. Mitchell, Portland; A. F. Thompson, Hotel LaPierrre; F. H. Bigelow and wife, Alpha.

Daniel Bushnell, father of John Bushnell of Central avenue, and Frank Bushnell, of East Sixth street, died on Sunday last aged eighty-three years. He was born in New York and became a resident of Pittsburgh in 1813. His death occurred in that city where he was one of its best-known business men and had been a ruling elder of its Third Presbyterian church for forty-two years. He was one of the pioneers of the coal trade in that section, and as early as 1844 took the first tow of barges loaded with coal down the Ohio river. In 1861 he gave up the coal trade and went into the oil business. He leaves a large fortune. Five other children besides the Messrs. Bushnell of this city, survive him.

HIS BODY TORN TO PIECES.

Richard Hapenny Deliberately Steps in Front of a Flying Express.

Richard Hapenny, a resident of West Second street, met with a horrible death on the Jersey Central railway tracks near Plainfield avenue at 10:15 this morning. The old man was picking coal along the fourth track. He had his back to engineer Lutz's Easton express, which was drawing near on the third track. The train, which is due here at 10:04, was running at high speed to make up for lost time. When the train was but ten feet away Hapenny deliberately walked over to the third track, seemingly unconscious and at any rate heedless of the fact that a train was right at his back. The locomotive hurled him headlong through the air, killing him instantly. His skull was frightfully crushed, and his body was otherwise horribly mutilated, portions of the remains being scattered all along the track.

The deceased was father of Philip Hapenny and father-in-law of Edward Campbell of Park avenue. He leaves a wife. His age was about 65. He had for many years been in the foundry of the Potter Press Works.

The body was taken charge of by Undertaker Casey at the morgue. County Physician Westcott is notified but no inquest has yet been held. The funeral will probably take place on Monday.

THE SOUTH PLAINFIELD DAM.

Interesting Legal Contest Over the Liability of Repairs.

A long legal contest has been ended at New Brunswick, by which Middlesex county will save a large sum of money. The case is that of Albert S. Manning vs. the Board of Freeholders. It involved the question as to whether the county or the township of Piscataway was liable for the repair of certain highways.

In 1889, during the big freshets, the stream in Piscataway township known as Green Brook overflowed and washed out a large piece of the road at each end of the South Plainfield mill dam. The township committee asked the Freeholders to repair the damage; they refused, and a struggle in the law courts was begun. The township authorities claimed that the Freeholders were bound to repair the highway at each end of a county bridge to the distance of 300 feet. The County Solicitor took the position that under the law the Board of Freeholders was compelled to maintain only the highway or road bed at each end of the bridge, known as approaches, to such an extent if necessary as to give a gradual ascent or descent from the structure proper to the highway.

Judges Depue, VanSickle and Scudder, before whom the case was heard, sustained the latter view of the case, and set aside the township claims.

Had the township won, the result might have been that Middlesex and other rural counties would have to make a bridge appropriation each year of double the sum now appropriated.

Six Children Christened.

An impressive religious ceremony took place last evening at the home of Lewis H. Morgans, 341 West Front street in the christening of six children according to the rites of the Church of England. These were: three children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mundy, two children of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crook of Washington street, and the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgans. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, who fully explained the customs of the Church of England in regard to christenings, stating that it was the rule in that country to have all children baptized before they were ten days old. He explained that baptism alone was not sufficient, as if the children were not brought up according to the faith the baptism was of no avail. The custom of baptizing infants has been established in this church for the past fifteen hundred years. When the Apostles of Christ rebuked those which brought children to Christ, Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." Dr. Taylor also explained the responsibility of sponsors, stating that they were held accountable for the spiritual training of the children until they come to the age of reasoning for themselves and were confirmed in the church. After the ceremony, an enjoyable evening was spent.

Not So! Base-ball is Profitable in Plainfield.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

Rahway cannot afford a semi-professional base-ball team, and has disbanded the excellent club it had collected for the season. Reports have it that Westfield, Plainfield and Somerville are finding their expenses burdensome. Base-ball is a costly luxury, and unless some way is devised by which the public will pay to see games, managers cannot afford to keep teams, unless their pockets are of great length and capacity.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

WHILE HE DREAMT AT SLEEPY BELMAR

Twelve Widowmake Maidens Called and Left Their Cards.

A very nice young man who lives amicably with his parents up Seventh street way, went down to Belmar Thursday with the Baptists, and enjoyed himself, oh! so much in that sleepy place. About two o'clock, long after most of the company of gay excursionists had gone to Asbury Park, he, carelessly puffing a cigarette and sticking his hands in his trousers' pockets, wandered away up the beach in the same direction. The sea air was delightful, and, when he got afar off from the confusion and turmoil of Belmar and was all alone with himself and the great ocean stretching out at his feet and throbbing and heaving like the mighty pulse of nature, his mind naturally turned to the grand, the noble and the infinite. He had once belonged to a club that met and read Browning, Carlyle, Ruskin and Bill Nye, and he tried hard to think of a quotation that would suit the occasion. He sat down in the soft sea sand and then his pent-up emotions got away from him and his soul found voice in song. He tried to recall some grand symphony in which he might chant the glory of the scene but none such was handy and he sang "Comrades" instead. Gradually the subtle influence of his surroundings overcame his senses, the roar of the mighty waters quieted into a gentle lullaby and he fell asleep.

And while he slept he sweetly dreamed, and in the beautiful vision imagined that he was being waited upon by a dozen rapturously lovely mermaids, who held his hat and cane and cigarette, and fanned him and petted and worshiped him generally. Then he thought they lured him into the surf by their siren wiles and led him down, down, down to a gorgeous pearly palace at the bottom of the sea, and then he woke up and saw it was only a dream and he had n't moved an inch. But he also saw a party of lovely girls retreating toward Ocean Grove at a 2:10 pace, and perceived his cute little hat perched on the top of his nobby cane which was stuck up in the sand where the water was two feet deep.

He sprang up and rushed to the rescue; but there was the water. His shine was imperiled. He thought he would slip off his shoes and socks, pull up his trousers and wade out, but he happened to look around and saw that the girls had stopped not far away to see the fun, and were laughing themselves hoarse. He was a very unhappy young man for a few minutes as he looked first at his shipwrecked valuables out at sea, and then at the dear girls who had put them there, and wrung his helpless hands. Just then, however, a great big friendly wave came in, knocked over the hat and cane and washed them both ashore where he grabbed them and sat down to wipe off the salt water and sea weed.

When he reached the spot on which he had slept he saw what looked like a forsaken euchre deck lying in the sand and picking it up he found it to be a bunch of twelve visiting cards with twelve girls' names on them. "So kind", he muttered to himself as he glanced around toward the Grove where twelve girlish figures were slowly disappearing in the mist of distance.

A LIKE WELCOME AWAITS PLAINFIELD.

The Elizabeth Knights "Exceeding Pleased" With Their Generous Reception Here.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

Thursday evening Unity Division, No. 3, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, of Elizabeth, commanded by Col. John Farwell, left their headquarters, forty in number, and, marching to the port station, took the 7.35 train for Plainfield. They were accompanied by their drum and flute corps, under command of Major Thomas R. Trimble, and made a fine appearance. At Plainfield station they were met by Crescent Division, of that city, and escorted to their castle hall.

At the hall a large company had assembled to welcome the visiting Knights, and a drill was given by the two commands, which brought forth rounds of applause from the spectators.

After this a parade was made through a number of the streets of Plainfield, and hundreds of people gathered on the sidewalks and in doors and windows to witness the excellent marching.

After this the hall was again resorted to, and speeches were made by Col. Rhodes, of Elizabeth, Lieut.-Col. Polhemus, of Plainfield, and others. The entertainment would have been incomplete without something from the drum and flute corps, and after they had rendered choice selections Major Trimble improvised his musicians into a company of singers, and they gave "Johnny Schmoker" as it was never before heard in Plainfield. Their singing was roundly applauded.

By the time the gallant Knights were in humor for the feast which had been provided by Crescent Division a fine spread had been arranged, and the Elizabethans received such kind hospitality as they will be apt to remember in after years.

At about eleven o'clock the visitors took their departure for home, having had an exceeding pleasant time. Crescent Division will visit the Unity's in due season and a generous welcome awaits them.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it stopped the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

MANAGER WRIGHT'S BELL BOYS STRIKE.

But Peter Wasn't to be Frightened, and Took a Turn at Answering the Calls Himself.

The train that bore Governor Hill away from Hotel Normandie-by-the-Sea had hardly been gone two hours Thursday morning, when the bell boys walked in a body to the hotel desk and, calling the Manager, Peter Wright, of this city, demanded that their wages be raised $5 per month.

Mr. Wright told them he had no authority to raise their wages and that they must wait until Gen. Earle, the proprietor, came back from Sea Girt.

"If we don't get our wages raised immediately," said the spokesman, "we will leave right away." "All right," replied the manager, and the bell boys left their seats and went to their quarters.

Taking off their uniforms they put on their street clothing and lounged about in the rear of the hotel until Gen. Earle's return, when they expected the money due them would be paid.

In the meantime the bells from many of the rooms were ringing furiously and the guests on the piazzas were calling and knocking for boys in vain. Normandie is entirely a private resort and there was no help near at hand.

Manager Wright was in a quandary, and leaving the assistant clerk in charge of the desk started in to answer calls himself. Telegrams and telephone messages were sent to New York for boys.

Trouble began to brew among the bell boys about a week ago when the head boy, Phil Conway, accepted a position at the Gilsey House, in New York, with an increase of salary. His new duties are to begin Aug. 1.

The other boys became dissatisfied because their tips were not up to what they thought they should be. They talked the matter over among themselves and chose yesterday as the time to strike, thinking that the presence of Gov. Hill would insure a victory for them. But Mr. Wright was not to be frightened, and at 5 o'clock three boys came down from the Normandie in New York.

Consequently Gov. Hill was served with his evening bottle of seltzer, and when he leaves this morning one of the new boys will carry his grip to the train.

A Full Day's Pleasure, Yet Home in Time for Supper.

The eighth annual excursion of the Plainfield Reform club will be taken Wednesday of next week, to Black River Falls Park, which is one of the most beautiful spots in northern New Jersey.

The excursion train starts at 9 o'clock from Plainfield, and will be due there at 10:30 a. m. It will return at 5 o'clock and reach Plainfield about 6:30 p. m.,—comfortably home in time for supper. To enliven and sweeten the trip and while there, the Plainfield band has been secured for the day. Those who do not prefer to take their lunch, will be able to obtain it from the caterer at the Park, or they can secure a good dinner for 50 cents at the Temperance hotel, located in the Park.

Ample provisions for varied amusements have been made by the railroad company, which has undertaken to make Black River Falls Park an exceedingly popular resort for respectable people. The Falls are beautiful, and the scenery magnificent; the lake and river afford delightful facilities for boating and fishing; there are cool and pleasant walks in the grove extending along the shore; there are swings for the young folks, and fine ball-grounds for the boys, and pavilions and platforms or all sorts of rational amusements. In short, it can be said that Black River Falls Park is an ideal spot for genuine old-fashioned picnics, affording exceptional opportunities for happy days, and certain to become increasingly popular as a resort for the better people, where no intoxicating liquors or objectionable features will be tolerated.

One third of the proceeds of this excursion will be donated to the Children's Home, which is now in need of funds. The co-operation of philanthropic citizens is earnestly solicited. Tickets may be bought for distribution among those unable to purchase them because impoverished by the saloops where men become drunkards and paupers, leaving their families destitute. Adults, $1 each. Children under 12 years, 75 cents each.

Not Intoxicated, But Ill.

Mrs. Martin Stevens says that if is a falsehood that she slept a few hours in the station house, as was stated in the Somerset street sheet June 27. She says that she is in delicate health, and under the care of Dr. Hedges. She is subject to fainting spells, and that day she went to Dr. Hedges's office, to get a prescription for medicine. After leaving there she turned the corner of Peace street, intending to go to the drug store on North avenue, when she was suddenly taken ill, and fell fainting to the sidewalk. When picked up, by a policeman who did not know her, who thought that she was intoxicated, she was taken to the station house, where she remained about ten minutes, and after recovering was sent home by Mayor Gilbert, who saw that the woman was not intoxicated but ill. Mrs. Stevens has the reputation of being a respectable, sober, hard-working woman. She has been in Plainfield more than twenty years, and during that time has never been intoxicated, she says, and never arrested. She is described as rather comely, about 40 years of age, and the mother of 15 children, four of whom are living.

THE MYSTERIOUS DESERT LAKE.

A Borough-ite Recalls an Old Scheme for Flooding the Colorado Waste.

George P. Taggart, of Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, has in his possession stock in the Colorado Land Company, organized in California in 1860 for the purpose of flooding the Colorado Desert, part of which is now becoming lake-fed by water from an unknown source, presumably from the Colorado River. The projectors intended to flood the desert by digging canals from the Colorado River. The company had a capital stock of $100,000 and its officers were O. M. Wozencraft of New York, President, and S. V. Holliday, Secretary.

Wozencraft, who was not a young man at the time, devoted the last years of his life to pushing the scheme and trying to secure from Congress permission to begin the work. But the lobby was a hard road for him to travel, and after spending all the company's money and exhausting his private resources his health gave way and he died broken-hearted. The company died soon after. Now nature is doing for herself what might have been done for her thirty years ago.

THE JOB MALE WILL CASE.

Ex-Councilman Dunham's Testimony Confirms the Public Library Bequest as Intentional.

The testimony in the Male will case was closed yesterday with the exception of the evidence of a single witness, who is now in Europe, and will not return until the middle of August. Yesterday morning ex-councilman M. Marvin Dunham was put upon the stand and testified to Mr. Male's having told him that he proposed to provide for the Plainfield Public Library by his will.

The Secretary of the library, William M. Stillman, was also examined, and testified that the association had formally accepted the bequest of the real estate devised.

The next hearing was set down for Friday, Sept. 4, when it is probable the briefs of counsel will be ready.

LAKE HOPATCONG'S MYSTERY.

It is Reported the Water is Gradually Going Down, and the Steamboats Cannot Land.

A despatch to THE PRESS this morning says that for some mysterious reason the water in Lake Hopatcong has been gradually lowering during the past three weeks. The fall has averaged one and a half inches per day, making a total of three feet.

The steamboats are not able to make the landings and have been obliged to put their passengers ashore in small boats.

No one is able to account for the unusual waste of water, and it is feared that a subterranean passage has been broken through the rocky bottom of the lake, by which the water escapes. The heavy rains of the past week have had no effect in raising the level of the lake, the water of which is lower to-day than it has ever been in the memory of the oldest people there.

Gen. Boulanger Very Indignant.

BRUSSELS, July 18.—Gen. Boulanger is very indignant at the report, originating in Paris, that the famous black charger which he rode through the campaign in Algiers, and was later the General's favorite mount in Paris, is now doing duty as a cab horse in Paris. The General says that the horse is still in his possession, and will be as long as he lives. He rides the horse daily in Brussels, and will continue to do so until his career of usefulness is ended, when he will be tenderly cared for until the end of his days.

Trouble With the Indians.

MILBANK, S. D., July 18.—The "Review" of this city yesterday advised that serious trouble is apprehended at the Sisseton Indian Agency. Official orders have been received by Indian Agent McKusick from Washington to clear the reservation of all white men except General Sanborn, who is being backed up by Federal officials in his attempt to collect from the Indians 10 per cent. of the money due them. The Sissetons say they will not accept anything less than the full amount promised them.

Not Allowed to Land.

BOSTON, July 18.—Yesterday twenty-eight immigrants, mostly Russian Jews, were not allowed to land from the steamship Michigan on the ground that they were liable to become burdens on the public. They will be sent back by the steamer.

Drowned in Nantucket Harbor.

NANTUCKET, Mass., July 18.—Charles Liverpool, of Washington, D. C., one of the crew of the United States Survey steamer Endeavor, was drowned last evening in the harbor while bathing.

Sailed for Behring Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—The United States Behring Sea Commissioners, Professors Merriam, and Mendenhall sailed yesterday on the United States Steamer Albatross from Alaska.

A Case of Leprosy.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A Chinese leper named Chin Hop Sing has been discovered in a laundry at No. 403 Fifth street, where he has been washing linen for sea-faiders for the pasts even months.

CINCINNATI, July 18.—Gen. Thomas Brown, who for many years represented the "Burnt District" in Congress, died at Martinsville, Ind., during the morning.

Waiting for Parnell.

LONDON, July 18.—In connection with the statement yesterday made in Dublin that Mr. Parnell had paid the costs in the O'Shea divorce case, Captain O'Shea's solicitors write that such is not the case. They say that Mr. Parnell offered to pay one half of the costs in May last, and the balance within one month thereafter. This proposition, the solicitors say, was accepted by Captain O'Shea, but nothing has since been heard by Captain O'Shea or themselves from Mr. Parnell.

Mr. Blaine Improving.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 18.—Secretary Blaine took his drive as usual. Besides driving, he walks considerably of late every fair day. He is constantly improving in health. His physician says the improvement has been much more rapid lately than at first, and he is more hopeful and confident about himself. It is learned that Mr. Blaine was closeted for an hour with an attorney, thus showing that he attends to business when necessary.

A Police Justice Arrested.

LANCASTER, Cal., July 18.—N. A. Morris, a justice of the peace, has been arrested here by officers from Los Angeles, charged with assault with intent to kill M. H. Crain. Judge Morris, in arresting Crain for horse stealing some three weeks ago, was forced to shoot him before he would be taken. This, the judge thinks, is the cause of his arrest.

Bliss Declines.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Cornelius N. Bliss, the well known and wealthy merchant and member of the Union League Club, has concluded that under no circumstances can he accept the Republican nomination for Governor of this State.

Had a Baby.

There were just three families in the "future great city" of Dakota, and each had a shanty. On the one occupied by the founder of the town was painted in large letters: "One million dollars to loan on bond and mortgage." This struck me as rather odd and I asked the man for an explanation.

"Well, you see, it's for the looks of the thing, to help the town along," he replied.

"But suppose some one should ask for a loan?"

"Can't be done; only three of us here, you see. One of 'em couldn't put up a bond for three cents, and the other hasn't got a blamed thing to mortgage."—N. Y. World.

THAT'S OUR DOCTOR.

A Convivial Crowd.

Two young men who move in the very best of society went on a spree not long since. After they were pretty well under way, one of them said in an inebriated tone of voice:

"Let's bid each other good night, Bill."

"Why, you ain't going home already. It's right in the shank of the evening."

"Of course, I'm not going home now, but after awhile we won't know each ozzer from a shide of sole leather, sho let's shay 'good night' right now before itah too late."—Texas Siftings.

A Kind-Hearted Tramp.

"Madam," said the tramp, respectfully, "are you alone in the care of this house?"

"Well, sir, I'm almost alone. I have only the assistance of this dog and this double-barreled shotgun. Do you want anything?"

"Only to inform you, madam, that there may be suspicious characters about. Good evening, madam."—Del Monte Wave.

A Tale of the Impossible.

Yardlet had said that he had an awfully good story to tell, and the crowd grouped itself in picturesque indolence waiting for him to begin.

"There was once an honest politician," he began.

And the crowd arose as one man and filed hurriedly out, and the reproachful look in its eyes seemed to say that it no longer wondered at crime.—Light

It Puzzled Him.

"There is one thing I can't understand," remarked an intelligent Englishman, who had been studying the politics of this country.

"What is that?"

"That is, how a man born in the United States stands any chance of being elected president."—Puck.

The Difference.

"Well, Rastus," said Mr. Freshfield to the waiter, handing him a five-dollar bill to pay a fifty-cent check, "I understand you have discovered the difference between a gentleman and a gent."

"Yassir," returned Rastus. "De gentleman nebber waits for no change, sah."—Harper's Bazar.

Ox-Tail Soup.

Out of Sight.

Miss Ourl—Well, ain't this just lovely? I declare it's out of sight.

Miss Bawston—I should say that it was entirely beyond the range of vision.—Light.

How to Pronounce "Advertisement."

How shall we pronounce the word advertisement? One hears it pronounced advertisement and advertisement by persons whose uniform correctness of speech cannot be brought into question. The dictionaries give it both ways—generally with the preference to the first form. Stormonth, who is esteemed by some as high authority on pronunciation, gives only advertisement. There is an obvious need for uniformity. One dislikes to speak the word with the accent on the second syllable just after some friend has uttered it with the accent on the third. In consequence, he is perhaps driven into the use of that odious abbreviation, "ad." There is no right or wrong in the matter. Chauncey M. Depew says advertisement; Charles A. Dana says advertisement. Any number of eminent authorities could be quoted in defense of either. The word is in such common use that there ought to be an accepted pronunciation. The writer prefers advertisement, instead of the jump back to the anti-penult, because this style of accent is uniform with "advertiser," "advertising" and other derivatives from this root.—Printers' Ink.

What to Say.

Just what to put into and what to leave out of advertisements often puzzles those who have their composition in hand. A notice often errs on the side of saying too much. A person of average experience, on the other hand, frequently manifests the tendency of being too brief. He assumes that the public will take for granted certain groundwork of knowledge that makes it unnecessary for him to be very specific. Whoever succeeds in avoiding both of these extremes, and combines with other necessary qualifications the ability to say just the right thing in the right quantity, becomes a successful advertisement writer. Sometimes advertisements are made effective, however, by their frankness and manifest sincerity, all other questions out of the count. Again, the very quaintness of expression, which crops out of the writing of a beginner at the business, gives a charm to the composition which alone causes it to be read.—Exchange.

A Premium on Skillfulness.

Advertising space in a newspaper costs money. Just in proportion as the influence it exerts is great and widespread, the cost is augmented. When this fact is considered, the importance of expressing one's self tersely, and having the advertisement set conspicuously, becomes apparent. He that succeeds best in his efforts in this direction must use the facilities at hand to the best advantage and most economically. The bunglers in advertising pay great sums toward the support of newspapers and fail of acquiring success. Those who are skillful often reap great results from comparatively small expenditures.—Yonkers Statesman.

First Sow, Then Reap.

Too little advertising is like sowing too little seed. A farmer in planting corn puts a number of grains into each hill, and is satisfied if one good healthy stalk comes from each planting. It's the constant advertiser that is bound to attract attention. It's the succession of bright, catchy advertisements that refuse to be ignored. That the proper time must be allowed for the fruit to grow, ripen and be gathered is as true as that wheat cannot be prepared the day after it is sown.—Exchange.

Everybody Read His Red Ad.

A novelty in newspaper advertising is found in The Fishkill Standard, where an enterprising merchant, in order to be sure and attract attention to his announcement concerning holiday goods, had it printed in red ink. His space in the upper right hand corner of the second page was four columns in width and about a third of the page in length, and was occupied by a well written and tastefully displayed advertisement. The body of the paper is of course printed in black ink, and in order to make it possible for the advertiser "to paint his corner red" it was necessary to run every paper of the edition through the press twice—once to print the advertisement in red and again to print the rest of the paper in the usual black. Such work is quite expensive, but no doubt it paid the advertiser big returns, for certain it is that every reader of The Standard saw and read the showy announcement.

Merely an Introduction.

An advertisement is but an introduction. The goods once brought to notice must take care of themselves. Just in the same manner a social introduction is valuable, but not conclusive if the individual turns out to be worthless.—Printers' Ink.

The Three Graces.

Style, symmetry and beauty in an advertisement always attract attention.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Opportunities Close at Hand.

In what way can a man keep on doubling his business, year after year, except by advertising? The gold mines of California, the silver mines of Honduras, the diamond mines of the Cape, are all far away; advertising and all its possibilities close at hand.—Printers' Ink.

Advertise in THE PRESS.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

A BIRD OF PARADISE.

One of the Most Beautiful Members of the Bird Family.

The showiest and gayest birds on our globe live in the hot countries, in the tropics. I do not mean the sweetest singers; most of the sweetest songbirds live in the cool countries—even the canary birds came from islands in the north temperate zone.

I mean the birds of gorgeous feathers and strange, odd, showy forms; all these live quite near the equator.

There is one extremely beautiful race of birds in the hot countries; in fact they are so singularly beautiful that they are called birds of paradise. One kind of them is known as the black bird of paradise. He shines all over like a brilliant beetle. His long, graceful body is covered with black feathers which turn deep violet in the sunshine. In front his throat and breast feathers look as if they were plaited; they stand out and form a sort of broad breastplate, green and bronze. The feathers back of his head rise and stand up and look like a wide-open fan and they glitter with soft, rich, deep colors, like the breastplate. He would be perfect if he could sing.

He, like all the other paradise birds, lives only in Australia and New Guinea. —Sophie Scissors, in Our Little Men and Women.

THE EMPEROR'S SLEIGH.

The Gorgeous Equipage Recently Made for the Ruler of China.

Only the other day in a great public procession the president rode in a common "hired carriage." It was so common and the horses so ordinary that even the newspapers remarked the extreme republican plainness.

No greater contrast could be found, perhaps, than the gorgeous new sedan-

THE CHINESE EMPEROR'S NEW SLEIGH.

chair sleigh recently built in Germany for the boy emperor of China.

This imperial sledge is shaped much like the sedan chairs which were more common than carriages, even England, in the last century, only instead of being borne on two poles it rests on runners.

Sedan chairs are still used at the Chinese imperial court. At the emperor's wedding, two years ago, when he was seventeen, the bride was brought in a red sedan chair from her mother's house to the throneroom of the palace, where the emperor saw her for the first time.

The emperor's new sleigh is of wonderful workmanship, richly carved and painted and gilded. At the four corners of the roof are Chinese dragons, as if guarding the golden ball raised in the center, which is the symbol of the emperor. In front is another dragon, larger and more terrible to look upon than the four above.

The interior of the sleigh is beautifully fitted up. It contains a toilet case, a watch, a looking glass and perfume bottles.—C. P. Stuart, in Our Little Men and Women.

Honest Advice.

A gentleman in a French restaurant who desired to get the best that the place afforded, drew a silver coin out of his pocket and gave it to the waiter before he had ordered anything.

"Here is your fee," said the customer. "Now I want to know, in all confidence, what you can recommend."

The waiter pocketed the coin.

"You want my honest advice, eh?" he asked.

"Certainly."

"Well," said the waiter, in a confidential whisper, "I should recommend —another restaurant."

The Prolific Banana.

Of all the vegetables which furnish nourishment to man, the banana is the most prolific; a single cluster often contains from 160 to 180 pods and weighs from 60 to 80 pounds. Humboldt says that a piece of land 130 square yards will produce 4,000 pounds' weight of fruit, while the same area will rarely produce more than thirty pounds' weight of wheat or eighty pounds of potatoes.

The Spider's Body.

The body of every spider contains four little masses, pierced with a multitude of holes (imperceptible to the naked eye), each hole permitting the passage of a single thread; all the threads, to the amount of 1,000 to each mass, join together when they come out, and make the single thread with which the spider spins its web, so that what we call a spider's thread consists of more than 4,000 threads united.

No Caught Yet.

Jake Silverstone and Ike Goldsticker are two clerks in the employment of Mose Schaumburg, the Austin merchant prince. A few days ago Jake Silverstone remarked to a friend that he, Jake, had risen very much in the estimation of Mose Schaumburg.

"Vat makes Mister Schaumburg have a petter opinion of you den he had before?" asked the friend.

"Vell, dot odder clerk, Ike Goldsticker, was caught by Mihster Schaumburg stealing monies dot drawer out. Nopoddy has ever caught me at dose tricks." —Texas Siftings.

He Got It Off.

Mr. Saphead (to himself)—Here's a good thing. I'll read it again, so I can remember it. Let me see. Where is it? Ah, here it is. "Gen. Butler says he has often been called a rascal, but he thanks Heaven no one ever called him a fool." First rate. I'll get that off at the De Beautee's to-night.

Mr. Saphead (at dinner at the De Beautee's)—Aw, Miss De Beautee, do you know I'm like Gen. Butler in one thing?

Miss De Beautee—Yes, I've noticed you squint a little.—Good News.

Not the Kind Wanted.

Angelina Hamfatte (of the frivolity) Is there much likelihood of these diamonds being lost or stolen?

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Would rather be without bread

than without Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic.

BISHOP'S BOARDING HOUSE, Marquette, Mich., Nov. 7, 1890.

The Rev. J. Kendall of above place writes: I have suffered a great deal, and wherever I feel now a nervous attack coming I take a dose of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and feel relieved. I think a great deal of it and could rather be without bread than without the Tonic.

Cured entirely after 12 years!

TONAWANDA, ERIE CO., N. Y., Feb. 1889.

My daughter had fits from fright since 12 years, sometimes 3 to 4 attacks within 24 hours without any warning; then spells last with thumbs would be clamped toward the inside of her hands, her mouth be drawn sideways, her neck would swell up, and her face assume a bluish color; this would last from 30 to 15 minutes after that she slept, was drousy for about 3 hours. We tried many remedies without any improvement, but 6 bottles of Pastor Koenig Nerve Tonic cured her at last; we therefore recommend this remedy to all sufferers.

JOHN EDIN.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

THE HUNT FOR ALMY

Miss Warden's Murderer is Still at Large.

HUNDREDS JOIN IN THE SEARCH.

If the Assassin is Found He will Probably be Lynched.

The Murder Was Carefully Planned—He Dragged His Victim Into the Bushes and Shot Her to Death—The Girl's Father Determined to Run the Murderer Down—A Reward Offered.

HANOVER, N. H., July 20.—The quiet steady-going town of Hanover is in a fever of excitement over the cruel murder of pretty Christie Warden by her rejected admirer, Frank Almy, on Friday night.

The funeral of the murdered girl will be held this afternoon. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. S. H. Leeds, pastor of the College (Congregational) Church, of which Miss Warden was a member.

Scene of the Tragedy.

The tragedy occurred at a point known as Vale Tempe, a spot distinguished by the fact that it was there that Daniel Webster, when an under graduate at Dartmouth College, rehearsed his recitations. At the lowest point where the road crosses the valley, there is a small brook, which is dry except in the early spring and fall. As the short, level stretch across the valley is reached an open barway affords entrance to the pasture adjoining. From the bushes near this opening on Friday evening Almy sprang into the road and saluted the party with:

"I am Frank Almy. I know you, Mrs. Warden, and you, too, Fannie. I want nothing of either of you. Pass right along. I have come a thousand miles to see you, Christie."

As he uttered the words he seized Christie by the arm and began to pull her toward the barway. Fannie and her mother helped Christie to resist him, whereupon he drew a revolver and putting it within four inches of Fannie's head he said:

"Fanny, I hate you, and I will kill you if you interfere."

The frightened girl released her hold on Christie. The terrified mother told Miss Goodell to run to H. P. Flint's, a farmer living near, for assistance. She herself started back towards the village, to hurry forward those whom she supposed to be close behind her.

Almy in the mean time clung to Christie and in spite of her desperate struggles gradually drew her further in the field and towards a clump of willows which grew on the bank of the dried-up brook. In the struggle her hat and outer garments were stripped off and when nearing the willows Christie cried: Oh! Fannie, come and help me; he is tearing my clothes all off."

All this time Fannie had been following him up and pleading with him to release her sister. At this cry the courageous girl rushed forward, whereupon Almy fired at her, the bullet just missing her head.

Two Bullets in Her Body.

This cry of Christie's was the first she had uttered since Almy's attack, his grasp on the throat—as the autopsy has since revealed—having prevented an earlier outcry.

A moment more two more shots rang out from the bushes, and Fannie, supposing that the shots were fired at her, and hearing Almy jump the fence and run, supposed that her sister was not seriously harmed.

The help that had been summoned by her mother had arrived by this time, but when the new-comers went to the little clumb of weeping willows they found Christie lying on her back, with nearly every article of her clothing torn off, and two bullet holes in her body. One bullet had entered near the chin on the left side, ranging upward to the left eye, which it had torn out, and to the forehead, in which there was a hole two inches in diameter. The second bullet had entered low down in the back, severed the spinal column, and came out in the hip. Death must have been instantaneous.

Hunting for the Murderer.

Armed men are out in all directions looking for the murderer. Among the hunters are all of the Dartmouth College professors who were spending their vacations at home, they as well as all the others being well armed. One of the professors, touching his revolver significantly, said: "If we find this man we won't stop to argue long with him."

Attorney General Barnard believes that Almy had carefully laid all his plans for the crime and had prepared his route of escape in advance. Theories are abundant as to the direction taken, many believing that he made a detour to the south, and will endeavor to reach some large city to seek a hiding place.

There is a strong suspicion that Almy is not the murderer's true name. At one time he said that he had worked at Brown's mills, Wentworth, and after he left inquiry revealed the fact that a man who answered his description, but with a different name, had been there about the time stated by Almy.

Mr. Warden's Grief.

Mr. Warden's grief at the terrible fate of his daughter was piteous to behold, but he is now superintending the search for the murderer. He says:

"I have not got such a very great amount of money, but one thing is certain, I will spend every dollar that I have got to bring that accursed assassin to justice. He has been smart thus far in keeping away, but if he is on top of the earth I will run him down."

His offer of $500 has been supplemented with another of equal amount by the town authorities. The whole State has been aroused, and it the murderer is alive it seems as though it was impossible for him to escape.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

READY FOR THE BIG FIGHT.

Corbett Will Probably Referee the Hall-Fitzsimmons Fight.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 20.—Sporting men are arriving on every train to witness the Fitzsimmons-Hall fight Wednesday night for the world's middleweight championship.

The referee has not yet been selected, but it is stated by those in charge of the arrangements that it will be Jim Corbett of California, who has just arrived. There was some objection to Joe Manaix, who has been referee in most of the contests of the Twin City Athletic Club, but for what reason is not known. The probability is that it was thought he was not strong enough to separate the fighters in a clinch.

Betting is becoming lively around the hotels and pool rooms, most of it being in favor of Fitzsimmons, and ranging all the way from $100 to $80 down to $30 to $25.

Some large bets are also being made by sporting people who have seen Fitz training at White Bear Lake.

A horseman who is here to-day placed $1,500 to $1,000 on Fitz, and says he has more of the same kind of money.

John McDonald, a friend of Hall, is backing him strongly, but it is doubtful if he will stick up to it until the day of the fight.

To-morrow night Harris Martin, the "Black Pearl" of Minneapolis and Joe Ellingsworth of New York will fight to a finish at 154 pounds for $1,500 before the Twin City Club. The men are evenly matched and should furnish a great battle. The event takes place the evening before the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight and nearly all who intend making the trip to the big mill will be on hand to see the Martin-Ellingsworth go.

THE PARIS STRIKE.

It is Purely a Fight for the Life of Labor Unionism.

PARIS, July 20.—An immense meeting of railway employes, comprising those already on strike and a large number who will go out to-morrow, was held during the day, with the usual inflammatory speeches denouncing the railway officials and declaring that the strike would last until the smallest detail of the demands made by the men shall be conceded by the companies.

The issue in the contest is sharply drawn and admits of no compromise. It is purely a fight for the life of labor unionism on the part of the men and a fight for its death on the part of the companies.

The trouble grew out of the frequent and wholesale dismissals by the companies of employes, invariably members of the various labor unions. Whether the selecting of men for dismissal was made designedly from the ranks of the unionists, the officials would not say, though they were repeatedly pressed to do so.

Drowned Herself and Child.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—The body of Mrs. Sarah Kramer, aged 35 years, of 1339 Cres street, was found in the Delaware River at noon. Attached to her waist by means of a stout rope was the body of her five-months-old son, Willie. The child which was drowned with the mother, was born deformed, and this, which weighed heavily upon her mind, probably caused her to end the existence of both the child and herself. She was the mother of five other children.

Baseball in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., July 20.—There is still hope for baseball in Syracuse. The Eastern Association is unable to find a better city in which to "play" the old Star team and have returned to Syracuse. A public meeting has been called for to-night to organize a stock company to control the team. President White is here to help along the project. The Stars will play with the New Havens in this city according to schedule to-morrow.

His Mind Unbalanced.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Roland B. Hill, a Boston newspaper man, and the son of Ex-United States Senator Hill, of Georgia, has been taken in charge by the police of this city, who have fear that his mind is unbalanced. He visited the station house in East 35th street last evening and acted so queerly that he was taken to Bellevue Hospital. He will be all right in a day or two.

Taken From Jail and Lynched.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., July 20.—John Farmer, the negro charged with the murder of Dr. C. C. Buckner, was taken from jail at an early hour and lynched. Farmer is reported as having confessed to the crime and implicated his sweetheart, a servant employed by the doctor, and a man named Horace Wade. Wade and the woman were arrested and narrowly escaped Farmer's fate.

The Big Lumber Failure.

ATCHISON, Kas., July 20.—The Howell, Jewett & Co. failure is becoming more complicated. Sixteen lumber yards have been turned over to R. P. Waggoner to secure the claims of certain banks in the East, and he sent agents to take charge and dispose of them.

Jandorff Sent to Prison.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Henry Jandorff, convicted of blasting his child-wife in a house of ill-fame, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

QUAY IS NOT READY

He Says He Will Soon Decide About Resigning.

MR. CLARKSON HIS SUCCESSOR.

A Talk About the Coming Campaign and Candidates.

He Says Secretary Blaine Can Have the Presidential Nomination—Cleveland the Choice of the Democrats—Pattison Favorably Mentioned—The Campaign Will be an Educational One.

BEAVER, PA., July 20.—Senator Quay was interviewed at his home here by a reporter of a Pittsburg paper. The Senator was in a very talkative mood. He prefaced his interview with a statement that so many wild rumors had been in circulation recently regarding himself that he could fill a column with denials.

In talking about the rumor that he would retire from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, Senator Quay gave every reason to believe that such was his intention.

The following was written in Senator Quay's presence and approved by him:

"The time is approaching when the labors for the campaign of 1892 should be commenced. I do not care to take charge of that work. But still I do not wish to say positively that I will resign from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. That is a question that will be decided later on. It was my intention to retire immediately after President Harrison's election. But I was prevented from doing so by circumstances well known to my colleagues on the committee. That desire to get out of a place encumbered with so many duties has never abated and the time has come when I feel at liberty to step out.

"The coming campaign has the forecast of being an educational one. It will be conducted with vigor by both parties. The man who is to manage the preliminary work as chairman of the executive committee should be in position now, and should henceforth devote his time largely to its duties. As I said before I do not care to do the work, but still I do not positively say that I will resign."

His Health is Good.

"Would such a step be taken on account of your health?" was asked.

"No," replied the Senator, "notwithstanding newspaper assertions, my health is fairly good."

"Will you leave the committee entirely, or simply the chairmanship?"

"I have not stated that I would resign," was the evasive reply.

Continuing, he stated that the executive committee would meet in Philadelphia on July 29. "I cannot say," he continued, "when the National Convention will be. A great many favor holding it early in order to escape the torrid heat we have usually encountered. That will be decided by the entire committee at some future meeting."

Clarkson His Probable Successor.

"Who do you think will succeed you provided you resign?" It has been stated you know that letters were sent to the different committee members asking if they would consent to have J. S. Clarkson succeed you, and that they had all replied favorably."

"That is not true," replied Senator Quay, "no such letters have been sent with my knowledge. It is generally conceded, however, that Mr. Clarkson will be elected provided I resign and he is well fitted for the position; but there is no indication of what action will be taken by the national committee."

The Outlook for '92.

"What about the national outlook?"

"It is too far ahead to say much about it. I have no doubt that if Secretary Blaine is a candidate he will receive the Republican nomination. Mr. Cleveland seems to be in the lead on the Democratic side. Pattison, I am told, is being favorably discussed by eminent Democrats outside of Pennsylvania. He is popular, has a clean record and would be a strong candidate."

SPOTTERS AT ASBURY PARK.

The Law and Order League to Make Many Arrests To-day.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 20.—Drug stores and cigar stores were all doing business yesterday as usual. The Law and Order League had spotters out gathering evidence against the proprietors, which will be used when they are arrested to-day.

If forced to pay a fine they will insist upon Founder Bradley paying a fine for hiring bath houses and suits at his bathing grounds, and also for permitting the owners of the Excelsior Springs to sell water at stands upon ground leased of him. They are prepared to fight the cases when called up in court.

Drowned While Bathing.

SEA ISLE CITY, N. J., July 20.—Charles Kaulfers, aged 20, an excursionist from Wilmington, Del., was drowned here while bathing. He was a strong swimmer and is supposed to have been seized with cramps.

DETAINED IMMIGRANTS.

Pitiable Tales of Adventure and Suffering in Russia.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Thirty detained immigrants, all Russian Jews, are awaiting the decision of the Superintendent of Immigration. One of them, Mendel Rogalski, aged 20, a carpenter by trade, tells a pitiable tale of his adventures and sufferings in Russia.

He became a suspect while working at his trade in Riga, and to escape Siberia, which was inevitable in the event of his capture, he fled from city to city, but was constantly pursued. He was finally taken prisoner, beaten and in other ways treated most inhumanly, and prepared for Siberia.

He again escaped, and after much suffering and great hardships reached Hamburg, from whence he was assisted to this country. His savings of six years were taken from him by his captors in Russia, and he came here penniless, hence his detention. He is very much affected to find that he will be returned to Europe after all his sufferings and arduous efforts to reach America. He says if he is caught in Russia again he will surely be put to death. The other immigrants tell similar stories.

The Jewish societies have taken hold of these cases, and it is likely that they will succeed in getting permission for their landing.

TEN THOUSAND APIECE.

Damages Sought for Lives Lost at the Ravenna Accident.

CORNING, N. Y., July 20.—W. F. McNamara of this city is taking out letters of administration on the estates of eleven of the victims of the railroad disaster at Ravenna, Ohio, on July 3, preparatory to beginning suits against the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company to recover the statutory damages in each case, provided the company does not voluntarily pay the amount for which, under the laws of Ohio, they are liable—$10,000 in each case.

Seventeen of the twenty-one persons who were killed at Ravenna lived in Corning. The railroad company is paying promptly the claims of survivors who were injured in the wreck.

YOUNG WALLER HEARD FROM.

It is Denied That There is Anything Wrong With His Accounts.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Ex-Governor Waller came to New York last night by the 11 o'clock train and reached the Gilsey House at just midnight. He met his son Martin B. at the Grand Central station and the latter took the midnight train for New London, with his brother Tracy.

Martin B. Waller is the secretary and treasurer of the Long Island Brick Company of Greenport, and it was reported in yesterday's newspapers that he had disappeared from Greenport three weeks ago, that nothing was known of his whereabouts, that an expert accountant was going over the books, and that there were reports that a deficiency had been discovered.

Ex-Governor Waller had a long talk with Martin at the Grand Central Station before going to his hotel. He said afterward:

"As soon as my son awoke yesterday morning and found himself famous he telegraphed home denying the sensational story absolutely. There is not a word of truth in it. The most serious harm the publication effected was in the mention of the daughter of President Sage, an intelligent and sensitive young lady, who ought not to have been made to suffer."

Brick Kilns Destroyed By Fire.

ASBURY PARK, N. J. July 20.—Several new kilns together with a number of outbuildings at Lorillard's Brick works, at Lorillard, N. J., near this place were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire department saved the immense works from destruction. The works are still managed by Receiver Seidler, of Jersey City, in the interest of the creditors of Jacob Lorillard. The loss is not known.

Seven Persons Drowned.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—The schooner Ruby Belle, was wrecked on the Newfoundland coast Saturday. The following persons went down with the vessel: Mrs. Freeman, Miss Caroline Higgins, and five children: They were all taken on at St. Johns. The vessel was bound from Catalina to St. Johns. They all belong at St. Johns.

Only Woman Suffragists Present.

MONROE, N. Y., July 20.—The Orange County meeting to consider the proposed law enabling soldiers' widows, army nurses and all self-supporting women to vote at all elections was held here. Councilor Charles E. Davison presided. After several advocates of the bill had talked opponents were invited to speak. Nobody responded.

Bardsley Has Parents.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Two eminent specialists in mental diseases, Horatio C. Wood and C. Mill, have found a plausible explanation for the crimes of "Honest" John Bardsley, now beginning fifteen years term in prison. They say he has parents.

The President's Quiet Day.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 20.—The President did not attend religious services yesterday. Mrs. Harrison, Lieut. and Mrs. Parker occupied the President's pew at St. John's. William H. Crook, Disbursing Officer at the White House, has arrived.

Crushed to Death.

UTICA, N.Y., July 20.—An elevator boy was crushed to death at Hotel Earlington, Richfield Springs, last night. He has a mother living in Richmond, Va. His full name was not known, but he was known about the hotel as "Frank."

Fell Overboard and Drowned.

SARATOGA, N.Y., July 20.—Charles Vale, engineer of a pleasure steamer on Saratoga lake, fell overboard from the craft and was drowned. He came from Brooklyn a month ago.

TO STORM THE TOWN

Four Chilian Insurgent Ships Outside of Coquimbo.

SEEKING SAFETY IN FLIGHT.

The Women and Children are in a State of Terror.

Balmaceda's Officers Alive to the Seriousness of the Situation—The Streets Filled With Soldiers in Motion—Every Native Who Can Carry Firearms Pressed Into the Government's Service.

COQUIMBO, Chili, July 20.—Four of the insurgent fleet—viz., the formidable Esmeralda, the Cochrane, the Amazones and the Aconcogua—are outside Coquimbo Bay.

They had stolen down under cover of night from Huasco, a little over a hundred miles to the north of this port, where the land forces of the Congressional party have been massing for the past ten days or two weeks in the movement now being made upon Balmaceda's territory by the leaders of the Junta.

Intense excitement prevails here over the appearance of the four vessels of the enemy.

The women and children are in a state of terror; so, it may be added, are quite a number of the male residents.

A great many persons are seeking safety in flight. Everybody expects the town to be stormed with shot and shell in very short order.

The Balmaceda officers are alive to the seriousness of the situation. The streets are filled with soldiers in motion. Every native who can carry firearms is being pressed into the government service.

There will be no mimic warfare this time, or all appearances are deceitful.

The government authorities are awaiting with anxiety the arrival of Balmaceda's war ships from Valparaiso.

If they should show up in time they will be able to keep the insurgent vessels busy, and thus permit the troops of Balmaceda to go out and meet the approaching forces of the Congressional party to the north of this place.

CHRISTIAN WRANGLERS.

A Stronger Guard Stationed at the Grotto at Bethlehem.

LONDON, July 20.—The decision of the Sultan to station a larger guard at the Grotto at Bethlehem, owing to the large number of deaths which have occurred there through the frequent fights between Greeks and Catholics for possession or control of that sacred spot, has created a feeling of disgust in the more civilized countries.

The disputes which have in many cases ended so fatally, have horrified the Turkish authorities, who cannot understand the feeling which should actuate two Christian sects to deeds of violence for the possession of a sacred spot to which neither had any right that is recognized by any laws or treaties extant.

One of the strict observances of the holy place is the rigid requirement that any person who enters shall do so in his bare feet. Recently a Greek seeking entrance removed his shoes, but neglected to take off his stockings. This sacrilege so shocked a Catholic devotee that he drew a knife and attacked the Greek, who in the ensuing fight was killed.

There have since been a number of sanguinary encounters, and the warfare has grown so fierce that the Mohammedan Sultan has found himself at last compelled to station a guard at the Grotto sufficiently strong to keep the Christian wranglers from flying at each other's throats and further desecrating the place they both profess to hold sacred.

They Knew "Gentleman George."

ASBURY PARK, N. J. July 20.—George F. Parker, alias "Gentleman George," who committed suicide in London the other day, was well known here. In 1884 he conducted the Atalanta Hotel, and by claiming that Jay Gould was to advance the requisite funds with which to erect a mammoth hotel, he gained the confidence of the natives and bled them of considerable money. He finally skipped from town leaving a host of creditors. While conducting the hotel here he gave swell balls, and to make a showing had special trains bring leading politicians down from New York.

Lockjaw Caused Her Death.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 20.—Mrs. Josephine Wallace died at an hospital in this city from lockjaw superinduced by a fracture of the ankle which she received by being thrown from a carriage at Savin Rock a month ago. Mrs. Wallace charged Frank Dugan, a travelling salesman, with the assault. Dugan has been arrested.

Two Bodies in the Whirlpool.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. July 20.—Early in the morning two bodies were discovered in the Whirlpool floating around in the eddies. One is entirely nude, and is supposed to be the body of a woman. The other is partly clothed. A black and white straw hat answering to the one worn by Sharman, of Clifton Springs, was picked up below and close to the edge of the American falls last evening.

Will Boom the Town.

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 20.—President Mayer of the Baltimore & Ohio road, has executed a contract with the city of Cumberland by which the city is to be made the terminus of three divisions and all repair shops are to be located here. The city in return pays the interest of the 15 years on $150,000 bonds.

The Air Ship Company Dissolved.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, July 20.—The Burlington Air Ship Company, which was organized here two months ago with a capital stock of $10,000,000, for the purpose of building and operating the Flemington Air Ship, has been dissolved for lack of subscriptions to stock.

HOTEL MEN ANXIOUS.

Saratoga Landlords Striving to Secure President Harrison's Patronage.

SARATOGA, July 20.—Since it became known that the President would visit Saratoga there has been great rivalry between the two big hotels here to see which would have Mr. Harrison for a guest.

Proprietor James G. R. Woolworth has just returned from a visit to President Harrison at Cape May, and announces that the President has engaged apartments at the Grand Union during his sojourn here. Already the work of decorating the apartments that it is said the President will occupy has begun.

One of the proprietors of the United States Hotel has also been to Cape May to capture the President for his hotel during his Saratoga visit.

A friend of the President who has just arrived here from Cape May says that Mr. Harrison has not decided which hotel he will patronize, and that he has left the matter to his son Russell, who is expected here to-morrow.

In the meantime both hotels have enlisted the services of several influential politicians. Secretary Noble and Postmaster-General Wanamaker patronize the United States Hotel every summer, and they have promised to use their influence to have the President stop at that establishment. It is said that Mr. Noble is working particularly hard.

The proprietor of the Grand Union is a friend of Attorney-General Miller, the President's old law partner, and he thinks that with his influence he will surely secure the President's patronage for his hotel. Several other influences are at work.

The widow of Gen. Grant will be a guest at the Grand Union during August, and that fact may influence Mrs. Harrison, who will accompany the President here.

The Saratoga citizens have called a meeting to arrange for an elaborate reception to the President upon his arrival here.

"STONEWALL" JACKSON.

The Statue of the Dead Confederate to be Unveiled To-morrow.

LEXINGTON, Va., July 20.—Large delegations are arriving on every train to be present to-morrow at the unveiling of the statue of "Stonewall" Jackson. The Memorial Association are overwhelmed with notices from all over the south, indicating the purpose of many military organizations to be here to-morrow, and that the gathering will far exceed in point of numbers and prominence of attendants what was expected.

The town is being decorated profusely with bunting and with National, State and Confederate battle flags.

The Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States in the State of Maryland has perfected arrangements to attend the unveiling.

General H. Stuart will be Chief Marshal on the occasion.

Lieut.-Gen. Wade Hampton, the gallant cavalry leader, will preside over the memorial meeting, and Lieut.-Gen. Jubal A. Early, an able Corps Commander, will deliver the oration on the military achievements and character of General Jackson.

The day on which the monument will be unveiled will be the thirtieth anniversary of the Battle of Bull Run, where Gen. Lee gave Jackson his sobriquet of "Stonewall."

Hanlan Will Train Joe Donoghue.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 20.—On invitation of Edward Hanlan, the Canadian oarsman, Joe Donoghue, the champion skater, accompanied by his brother Jim, will leave to-day for Toronto. Nothing positive is known in regard to the move, but it is inferred that Hanlan will act as their trainer for the coming rowing regattas in all parts of the country. They are entered for the Canadian races at Barre, Toronto, at the four days' races at Detroit, and at Washington, Boston and other points. The boys have recently purchased a new boat, which they will take with them. They will row under the Cherry Diamond flag of the Manhattan Athletic Club.

Drunken Doctors to Be Disqualified.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 20.—The Legislature has passed a bill disqualifying drunken doctors from practising. A method of indictment has been framed, and upon conviction of drunkenness the accused is made subject to a heavy penalty if he should attempt to practice again.

An Electric Railroad in Trouble.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 20.—The Beverly & Danvers Electric Railway Company is financially embarrassed, and may be compelled to cease business. The lessees of the road are unable to meet their obligations to the stockholders, and the operating of the system was suspended to-day.

Death in the Gasoline Stove.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 20.—Mrs. John Glavebiack, of 176 Hickory street, received burns from the explosion of a gasoline stove yesterday which caused her death twelve hours later. She leaves a large family of children, including an infant of six weeks.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

There are fears in London that other failures will follow that of the English River Plate Bank.

Ex-Senator Ingalls will leave for Europe August 22, and will visit the Holy Land before his return.

Mr. Edwin Booth, the actor, is said to be the object of a blackmailing scheme on the part of a theatrical person and an ex-journalist.

The Revs. Sam Small and Joseph Cook were the attractions at the Prohibition Park camp meeting at Fort Richmond, S. I., yesterday.

King Kelly Will Not Desert.

CINCINNATI, O. July 20.—Tim Murnane telegraphs from Boston as follows: "Mike Kelly left last night for Washington. Kelly says he would not desert Cincinnati and his friends for all the money in the League."

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Y. M. C. A. bicyclists anticipate a fine run to Rahway to-morrow night.

—More of those summer ties that you wanted and were sold out, have been received at Peck's.

—The directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan association, will meet in Jackson & Codington's office, this evening, at 8 o'clock.

—The next Plainfield excursion to the shore is that of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, July 29. The train will leave at 8 a. m.

—Arthur the infant son of Thomas and Emma McGann, of 14 Linden avenue, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.

—Yesterday, at the New Market Baptist church, a platform on which several women were standing, fell. Everybody was frightened, but no one injured.

—Thomas F. Harding, a member of Warren Engine Co., No. 1, died Saturday, in the thirty-fourth year of his age. Funeral services will be held to-morrow morning from his late residence, 159 South Second street, at 9:30, and from St. Mary's church at 10.

—While on the New Market road last Saturday, Mr. Kuenlin's horse took fright, and suddenly jumped to one side. The king bolt of the wagon broke allowing the front wheels to pull out. Mr. Kuenlin was thrown violently to the ground but not badly hurt. He caught the horse himself.

—Three men on a fast-moving coal train wriggled their fingers derisively at officer Mattox yesterday, as they whizzed past him in this city. Mr. Mattox promptly boarded a passenger train, overhauled the trespassers at Roselle, and landed one of them in the jail at Elizabeth. The two others escaped.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. U. B. Crane and children are at the Bower Cottage, Ocean Grove.

Horace Huff, head salesman for Garret Q. Paker, is on a two weeks' vacation to Chicago and other western cities.

The Rev. L. C. Sheip, of Philadelphia, spent the Sabbath in Plainfield, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Templin, 49 North avenue.

The fair that THE PRESS has already told about, which was held at The Netherwood and netted $104 for the benefit of Miss Cecelia McNamara, a worthy young blind woman, was in charge of the following little Misses: Lucy Froment, Gracie Brewster, Georgie Crossman, Jennie Harvey, Amy Laidlaw and Daisy Jordan.

On the Asbury Park hotel registers appear the following names of Plainfielders recently registered: Grand Central—Geo. Homan, Mrs. J. P. and Miss Nettie B. Homan, Florence M., and Mary E. Bradshaw, Mrs. I. W. Pangborn, Miss Louise Pangborn, J. Hervey Doane, Eva C., M. B., and F. C. Doane, Chas. Lyman. Lenox—Mrs. Edwin M. Daniel, Leslie M. Daniel, Edwin M. Daniel, jr., Mrs. Albert B. Beers, Albert G. Beers, Miss Genevieve Daniel, Miss Ross, Miss Kittie Ross. Coleman—Jas. K. Osborne, Miss Fannie Franklin. Gramercy—Mrs. L. M. French. Columbia—The Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor.

Sojourners at Netherwood, the Beautiful.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Emery, Little Falls, N. Y.

SAVED THE HORSES AND WAGONS.

Only a Small Barn Burned by Saturday Night's Fire.

A barn situated on West Fourth street, near Liberty, owned by John Flynn of Scotch Plains, and rented by hackman John Kelly, was destroyed by fire at about half-past nine o'clock Saturday night.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The theory of incendiarism is suggested, but chief engineer Doane says that a fire-bug would have run great risk in starting the blaze, for he would have had to climb over two high board fence and up into the haymow and back again to the street. That the fire originated in the haymow the chief is certain.

The alarm was sounded from Box 34, after the blaze had gained headway enough to burn through the roof. The firemen worked under difficulties. The hook and ladder truck, broke down as usual, engine No. 2 was temporarily crippled by the breaking of two valves and had to be taken back to the house for repairs, one of the horses of the department was out without leave, and the horse drawing the new Alert hose wagon had a streak on and wouldn't do his work properly. Consequently some delay was caused in getting a stream of water, but this stream was used so effectively that the barn of Patrick Muldoon, only six feet from the hot blaze, was merely scorched a little, and the fire itself was drowned out in time to save a few upright timbers of the burned barn. The loss on the building is about $800; insured for half that amount. Grain and hay to the amount of $100, owned by Kelly, was consumed. All the harness, wagons and horses were saved, including the horse, harness and wagon of milkman Moore, who was joint tenant with Kelly.

SOMERVILLE BREAKS THE AGREEMENT.

The West End Managers Say They Can't Play Next Wednesday Because Their Battery is Engaged Elsewhere.

It was announced in these columns Saturday, that the game between the Crescent League's base-ball team and the West Ends of Somerville, which was postponed from that day on account of the rain, would take place on Wednesday next. This announcement was official. The managers of the teams had agreed to that date, as their contract made last winter specified. But later in the day, after THE PRESS was issued, the Somerville managers proceeded to squeal out of it.

The contract particularly states that if any of the games arranged should be prevented by reason of rain, then that game shall be played on the next following Wednesday. But the West End managers after agreeing to that, said that they found they could not have the services of their battery—Harkins and Kennedy—next Wednesday, and wanted the game postponed until Wednesday, Aug. 5. The Crescent League managers replied that they could not get their pitcher—Hammill—on that day. The result of all this was, that the game was fixed for next Saturday.

There is no doubt that the crowd will be big enough, but there are many who think the change from Wednesday is a mistake. Everybody who will go Saturday will go Wednesday, and besides those there are a lot of men in business in this city and their clerks who never get away on Saturday but can on Wednesday. There is a big crowd of Westfielders, too, who would come here on a Wednesday to see Plainfield and Somerville battle, whereas on Saturday they patronize their own club.

Plainfield People at the Shore.

(From the Asbury Park Daily Papers.)

The Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, of Plainfield, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, is a late arrival at Hotel Columbia.

James K. Osburne, one of Plainfield's most extensive dry goods merchants, is a popular guest at the Coleman.

George M. Fletcher and wife, the Plainfielders who had the serious runaway accident at Long Branch, are back at the West End for the balance of the season. They are almost entirely recovered from their injuries.

Prints Each Telegram Received.

An exhibition was given at the Park avenue office of the New Jersey Postal Telegraph Company in this city, Friday night, of the operation of the teleprint, an instrument which prints the letters of the alphabet, numerals, etc., in much the same way as the Morse alphabet is printed. The instrument has been operated at the rate of 100 words a minute. The company intends using it for transmitting a news service simultaneously to suburban towns. The circuit used Friday night included Orange, Plainfield, Summit, and one or two other places.

All on Account of a Grocery Bill.

Saturday evening Chris Huff and grocer VanHorn, of Dunellen, got into a heated discussion over a bill that, it was said, Huff owed the groceryman. Some remark was made by the former that rather cut the latter deep, and he started to wipe up the floor with Chris. Mr. Huff broke away and ran out of the store, slamming the wire doors with such force as to break a large pane of glass in the show window. Huff says he will have VanHorn arrested to-day for assault and battery.

Here's to your health and your family's. May you live long and prosper; if you drink Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

WHO FIRED THE PISTOL?

The Village of Westfield Startled by a Mysterious Shot.

A mysterious shooting occurred at Westfield Saturday night, in which a young man and a young woman, both strangers, figured, possibly to the injury of one of them, and certainly to the great bodily risk of a most estimable lady of the town.

At about 10 o'clock the attention of one of the constables was called to two young people who were attracting a good deal of attention on the street by their loud talking. The young woman was apparently greatly agitated. The constable requested them to be more orderly. The young people moved off, and as they did so the man was heard to say to the woman: "I'll fix you yet."

Mrs. Celia Condit lives in a pretty cottage on Union street, one block from the main street. At 11 o'clock Saturday night she and her daughter were in their sitting-room, which faces Union street. Mrs. Condit had just arisen from her chair when a pistol-shot was heard and a bullet crashed through a window-pane and struck the wall immediately back of the chair in which Mrs. Condit had been sitting.

The women were very much frightened. They had presence of mind, however, at once to extinguish the light, which had made them plainly visible from the outside.

An investigation showed that the bullet had chipped the blinds, which were partly closed, and made a round hole in the pane of glass. It was found on the floor back of the chair. It is not supposed that the shot was fired at Mrs. Condit, though the circumstances surrounding the shooting would seem to indicate that the shot was intentionally fired into the room.

Mrs. Condit is a very charitable woman and well liked by the village folk, and there could be no possible motive for an attempt to injure her.

The pistol-shot was accompanied by a piercing scream, apparently from a woman on the street. Then all was quiet.

Neighbors who heard the pistol-shot and the scream went upon the street to investigate, but nothing out of the usual order of things could be found.

The 11:30 p. m. train for New York Saturday night pulled up at the station on time. Just as the last "all aboard" was given a young man half dragged a woman to the train and assisted her aboard. A bystander remarked: "That looks like the fellow who was quarrelling with the woman in the village last night."

Nothing was thought of the matter until the shooting episode was reported to the authorities yesterday morning. Did the man attempt to murder the woman? If he did, what was his motive for so doing? The mysterious affair is the talk of the town.

IN JOHN KEAN'S GRIP.

Local Methods Repeated Elsewhere.

The same methods of controlling Cranford that were used in subjugating Plainfield are now charged against John Kean, jr., and his water-works minions. The World of to-days: "The stockholders of the Union Water Company, of Cranford, have selected directors and adopted by-laws and a corporate seal. The directors will hold office until the next annual meeting, which will be held the third Monday of next May. Appended are the names of the directors: B. F. Ham, ex-congressman John Kean, jr., Sylvester Cahill, Frank Bergen, Sylvester Cahill, jr., ex-assemblyman Foster M. Voorhees and James Maguire. The board, will meet in a few days and elect a president, secretary and treasurer. It is whispered that the opponents of the Water Company will fight the company in the courts on the ground of alleged illegality in the organization proceedings." This alleged illegality is the same over which the water-works fight was made in this city—that of resurrecting a concern supposed to be defunct just as soon as a live company sought to make improvements for the public good.

A Noble Woman Who Found Happiness in Charity, Gone to Rest.

Mrs. M. C. Rice, the wife of ex-Mayor M. C. Rice, of Jacksonville, Fla., one of the best known and most influential residents of that city, died between 5 and 6 o'clock last Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Rice has many warm friends in this city, who will learn of her death with sincere sorrow. Some of Plainfield's residents are also connections of hers by marriage, and Mrs. Theodore Hardy is a namesake of her daughter's.

Mrs. Rice has for a long time been a sufferer from heart disease, but her death, following soon after a quick change for the worse, was unexpected.

She was a native of New York city, and at that place was married to Captain Rice in 1876, since which period she has been a resident of Jacksonville. She was a noble woman, esteemed and beloved by a wide circle of friends; a consistent Christian of a generous disposition, finding happiness in alleviating suffering by tender ministrations and in lessening the pangs of poverty by gentle acts of true charity.

By her presence she made home all that that word implies and now, in the loneliness of her absence from it, her husband will find the sympathy of his many friends everywhere.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bailey, of 86 Duer street, received a morning call from a nine-pound cherub of boy yesterday. Mother and son are doing nicely.

MAN AGAINST MANY.

A Hero of Broadway Summons the Neighborhood to the Scene, and Bravely Bares a Throng of Busy Boozers Out of House and Home.

A well-known young man of Broadway, has recently immortalized his name and proved himself a hero in this way:

A residence on Ninth street had been selected by a number of sociable young hornets as a most desirable place in which to enjoy the gay festivities of a summer vacation. In consequence of this conclusion a commodious nest was erected over the bay window of the house, and to this home flocked a throng of busy buzzers. Now this young man burned with a desire to cover himself with glory by defeating the innocent hornets alone in a hand to hand conflict.

A few evenings ago he appeared at the rendesvous of the insects, armed with a long pole and attended by several diminutive followers who were brought along, no doubt to divert the attacks of the angry hornets from their leader and receive them themselves. After warning a few of the people in the neighborhood of the coming massacre, the gallant youth, with a calmness which indicated that he was prepared to die if necessary, secured some rags to the pole and saturated them with kerosene. Then applying a match he bravely rushed to the nest and before the unsuspecting hornets, wrapt in slumber, could escape, their dwelling was demolished and many of their dearest relatives had departed this life. The few who were left were treated to alternate immersions of fire and water. And finally, when nearly all had perished, the young man and his contingents departed for home with the thanks of the household and with happy hearts.

Was on His Mind.

"I want to ask you a question, Katy," he said, shortly before taking his departure. "It has been on my mind all the evening, but I—I—"

"Well, what, Mr. Dingdong?" asked Katy, encouragingly, her heart throbbing with expectancy. "Speak right out."

"Well, Katy, will you be—I wanted to ask if you would be kind enough to find out if the dog is chained to-night."—Boston Herald.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

BLACK BLOOD AND BAD BOOZE.

That Combination Makes Fiends of the Dunellen Negroes, and They Riot in the Borough Streets and Flash Knives and Pistols Through the Suburban Air.

At no time since Dunellen has been a borough has so disgraceful a fracas occurred, as did last Saturday night, and the great factor at the bottom of it all, was bad rum.

The day was showery, and that prevented the negroes from working at their usual outdoor occupations, so they began early in the afternoon to drink and carouse, going from place to place until the shades of darkness hid their shameful and intoxicated condition from public view. A little before eight o'clock they entered the Park Hotel. Here they caused such a disturbance that they were put out into the street, and the proprietor was obliged for good order's sake to close his doors for the night. This seemed to have a bad effect upon their quarrelsome dispositions and they fought among themselves until a large crowd of white as well as black people had gathered at the scene, and were mingled in the affair.

A white man by the name of Winfield DeMott walked in among the colored participants and inquired the cause of the disturbance. As an answer, he was knocked ten feet into the street by a colored man by the name of Stevens. This brutal assault rendered him unconscious and for nearly five minutes he lay as if dead. Upon recovering, however, he again went among the negroes to make peace, and was again knocked down for his pains. After this friends took care of him.

Next two colored men, by the names of Henry and Saunders, had a rough and tumble fight. In fact there was more or less knocking down, all around until constable Warden appeared and dispersed the crowd. Many disfigured faces still bear witness of the affray. It is rumored to-day that warrants are out for the arrest of Saunders, Stevens and Henry. While the disgraceful fracas was in progress it was unsafe for a person to pass through the street, as pistols and knives were flourished in all directions, and the negroes literally ran the town. This shameful occurrence should be a warning to the citizens of Dunellen. Something should be provided at once in the shape of a lock-up to house such people; and a sentence for each, to 10 days' work on the streets, would be a benefit to the town and at the same time serve as a lesson to loafers.

THE LOCAL POOL TOURNAMENT.

Green, VanWinkle and Teel the Favorites With Lyman Holding His Own Against Heavy Odds.

Fifty-five games had been played in the Crescent League pool tournament up to Saturday evening, and the record was at that time as given below. As not many more than one-quarter of the total games have been played, it is too early to pick the winner.

Lyman, the "scratch man," is holding his own wonderfully well against heavy odds. If he wins under the circumstances, it will be remarkable. He has to give 15 points to Green who has won every game he has played. Lyman also gives Teel and Charles VanWinkle each 10, and they are playing a very strong game. The record.

DR. VINCENT'S STUDENTS WILL FLIRT.

Even Doses of Browning Won't Dry up the Blood of Some Human Beings.

[From The New York Sun.]

It is grevious news that the professors at Chautauqua are constantly disturbed by the flirting of the young men and women who have gone there to study the higher branches of knowledge in the summer schools of learning, and that the course of thought is apt to be interrupted by match-making, or even at times by reports of runaway matches. The students of both sexes may be seen together playing lawn tennis, or paddling canoes on the lake, or straying in the woods and dells, or reading novels, or singing hymns, or otherwise enjoying the hours of student life that ought to be wholly devoted to scholastic pursuits. It is not surprising that the big squad of professors at Chautauqua are discouraged while striving to promote the intellectual development of these romancing students under this system of co-education of the sexes.

—It was amusing to see Shaw's clear weather flag all day long of Saturday, trying to impose upon the people.

Success is the envy of the weak brained. They seek to get there too. No wonder that they resort to counterfeiting. The reputable dealer should not encourage imitators. Be sure and ask for Hires's Root Beer Packages, and be especially sure you get them.

NEW PHYSICIANS IN JERSEY.

Two of Them Are Plainfielders, and Two Are Earnest Young Women.

Forty of the fifty-one candidates who were examined by the New Jersey Board of Medical Examiners at Trenton last week were successful and were granted licenses to practice in the State. Among the success applicants for licenses were Benjamin VanDoren Hedges, brother of Dr. E. W. Hedges of East Front street, and Edward C. Hancock, who for some time has been with Dr. C. M. Field of Broadway. Dr. Hancock is already an experienced physician, but owing to the strict regulations governing such matters in New Jersey his license, which was good in Pennsylvania and throughout Europe, was valueless here until he passed the State examination. The full list of the New Jersey doctors is as follows:

James W. Snowball, Bound Brook; David Friedman, William Neer and W. Irving VanReiper, Paterson; E. P. Shelby, Jr., George Sherrill, Jr., H. M. Halleck, J. P. Parsons, Ezra K. Sprague and F. P. K. Murphy, Jersey City; George C. Connett, Brookside; Benjamin VanDoren Hedges, Plainfield; A. H. Scofield, Paterson; F. O. Stem, Bayonne; J. P. O'Hanlon, Trenton; Samuel C. Tracey, Asbury Park; J. Howard Cooper, Camden; Philip Reilly, Elizabeth; Edward C. Hancock, Plainfield; J. B. W. Lancing, Tenafly; Dave Baird, Manalapan; Henry H. Clark, Woodbury; Edward C. Chew, Atlantic City; Edward E. Wore, Newark; W. Lasker, Fort Lee; Caroline H. Marsh, New Brunswick; R. L. Harris, Camden; W. Story Foster, Flatbushville; Francis W. Bennett, Atlantic City; Lewis T. Reed, Belmar; R. H. McNair, East Orange; R. J. Montfort, Elizabeth; Hamilton Maully, Bridgeton; H. N. Veinberg and Isador Polendorfer, Long Branch, and Elsie Osborn, Hackettstown.

The medical examiners were Dr. William Perry Watson, Dr. H. G. Wagoner, Dr. G. W. Brown, Dr. W. L. Newell, Dr. A. H. Worthington, Dr. A. K. Baldwin, Dr. Eugene Teisler, Dr. D. R. Atwell and Dr. A. Nebelacker.

Among the subjects on which the applicants were examined to see whether or not they were competent to prescribe for and operate on Jerseymen were:

First day—9 to 11 o'clock, Homeopathic Materia Medica and Therapeutics; 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., Obstetrics and Gynecology; 2 to 4, Practice of Medicine; 4 to 6, Surgery; 8 to 10, Anatomy.

Second day—9 to 11 a m., Physiology; 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., Chemistry; 2 to 4, Histology and Partrology; 4 to 6, Hygiene and Medical Jurisprudence.

Under the heading Practice of Medicine (William Perry Watson, M. D., examiner), the following questions were asked and answered:

1. Give the varieties of (1) bronchitis, (2) emphysema, (3) pleurisy, (4) pneumonia.

2. What is the percussion note over that portion of a lung affected with (1) bronchitis, (2) emphysema, (3) Cavity, (4) Consolidation.

3. Give the relative gravity of the valvular lesions, and the points at which their respective murmurs are heard with the greatest intensity.

Give causes, symptoms and duration of each: (4) Cholera infantum; (5) Œdema glottidis; (6) Retro-pharyngeal Abscess; (7) Tubercular meningitis.

8. Give the mechanism of "dropsy" and its varieties.

9. Locate (externally) the spleen and give the causes of its enlargement.

10. When and where does the eruption first appear in (1) scarlatina, (2) variola, (3) morbilli, (4) typhus, (5) typhoid?

Dr. Watson said that the above paper was a fair sample of the questions which the candidates are required to answer. The layman will therefore see that it is not so easy to become an accredited physician, after all.

A FIGHT IN THE OLD HOTEL.

Dwyer Gets the Best of Cassidy in a Prize-ring Contest.

The old, historic "Elm Park Hotel", just outside of Somerset county on the extreme edge of Middlesex, was the scene Saturday night of a sharply contested mill. The principals were James Dwyer, Bound Brook's noted heavy-weight, and Tom Cassidy, of Reading, Pa., a stone-cutter who is working in the neighborhood. The fight was witnessed by about one hundred persons. The stakes were $100 a side and the gate receipts.

The men stepped into the ring as the Bound Brook village clock was striking 12, and in less than half an hour the contest was ended. Three rounds were fought.

In the first round Dwyer forced the fighting and landed heavily on Cassidy, keeping it up till time was called. The second round was much the same as the first. The men had fought less than a minute when Dwyer drove Cassidy against the wall and was about to finish him when the referee called "time". The referee acknowledged his error, and Dwyer refused to fight. His seconds pushed him on the floor, however, and the round continued, Dwyer having the best of it.

Round Three—Cassidy attempted to force the fighting. His left eye was soon closed. Cassidy fought wildly, while Dwyer gave telling blows, one of which landed his opponent in the corner. Dwyer followed him, and as he fell struck him twice. Cassidy's friends yelled "Foul!"

The door was then burst in. Dwyer made a break, thinking the police were there, and rushed through the rear door.

On account of the referee's ruling in the second round, the money was divided.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. A New Manager for the Pittsburg Club.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20.—William McGunnigle, manager of the Providence Eastern League team, has received an offer to become manager of the Pittsburg National League Club. He will probably accept.

The Horsewhippers in Trouble.

WOODSTOCK, Va., July 19.—Francis B. Hayes, who was yesterday horsewhipped by his brothers-in-law, Blyde and Jarvis Hunt, has brought suit against them, claiming $10,000 damages.

Socialistic State Ticket.

BOSTON, July 20.—The Socialists of this State will place a State ticket in the field this year. It is as follows:—Governor, Harry W. Robinson, of Boston; Lieutenant-Governor, George R. Pierce, of Lynn; Secretary of State, G. W. Theinert, of Holyoke; treasurer and Receiver, Gen. Carl Friede, of Boston; Auditor, S. Putney, of Somerville; Attorney-General, James Waldock, of Boston.

Treasonable Clubs in Hanover.

HANOVER, July 20.—The police have made simultaneous domiciliary visits in a number of houses in Hanover, and seized a quantity of documents said to prove the existence of treasonable clubs and unions. The subsidized Cumberland and clerical newspapers denounce this action, which they characterize as merely a pretext to confiscate Guelph funds.

Fractured Both Their Skulls.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 20.—Dominick Paranda and his wife had their skulls fractured by Michael Barti last night during a quarrel. A baseball bat was the weapon used and such serious injuries were inflicted that the couple will probably die. Barti was arrested. All the parties involved are Italians.

Greatest Ball Game on Record.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., July 20.—Grand Forks and Fargo teams played a game of ball yesterday on the grounds adjoining the State military encampment at Devil's Lake, that breaks the world's record. Twenty-five innings were played without a score on either side.

Sold a Boy for $1.

NEVADA, Mo., July 20.—A warranty deed has just been filed here conveying a boy baby, Ruby Earl Sheppard, to E. S. Watt for the sum of $1. The deed was duly signed by the parties to the transfer, among whom was the mother of the child, and attested by a notary public.

His Vessel Run Into and Sunk.

LONDON, July 20.—The captain of the British brigantine Annie Harris landed at Plymouth last night. He reports that his vessel was run into and sunk by the German steamer Dresden, off Start Point, and four of his crew were drowned. The Dresden, which was on her way to Baltimore, proceeded.

The Quarrel Resulted in Murder.

CANTON, O., July 20.—Francis Machamer, section foreman of the Cleveland & Canton Railroad, quarreled with Lincoln E. Andreas yesterday afternoon. The latter hurled a rock at Machamer, striking him in the head. A surgeon dressed the wound, and last night Machamer died in great agony.

Anthracite Miners May Strike.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 20.—A big strike of miners is threatened in the anthracite region unless the coal companies pay their men every two weeks, in accordance with the law passed by the last Legislature.

Chief Justice Fuller in Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., July 20.—Chief Justice Fuller, accompanied by his family, have arrived here on a visit to Mrs. Hugh C. Wallace, daughter of the Chief Justice. They will not go to Alaska, but hope to remain here some time.

A Sailor Kills Himself.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Chas. P. Thompson, 42 years old, a Danish sailor, shot and killed himself yesterday. Despondency was the probable cause of the act.

Seventy millions of dollars in gold and any amount of valuable gold ornaments and precious stones have been found in an old castle in Rio Janeiro.

Edward Murray, serving a six months sentence in the Snake Hill, N. J., penitentiary, got homesick and walked out. He was found at his home in Jersey City and taken back.

A man named Eidlitz represents himself as a Harvard student is raising money in New York State on the strength thereof. He is supposed to be the same individual who "worked" Chicago in a similar manner last year.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—For New England and Eastern New York: fair, stationary temperature; west winds.

For Western New York: Fair till Tuesday, stationary temperature; variable winds.

BUILDING A SAILBOAT.

The Various Stages of Construction Described and Illustrated.

I have made some sketches showing the various stages of construction, so that a boy and his tool chest can build the boat with very little difficulty, if the human part of the combination will note the directions that follow. The tool chest will be very certain to do its part.

The first thing is to make a model of such a boat as one wishes to build. From such a model one can get the proportional width and depth of sections at various points, as at B C and D (Fig. 1), one being at the widest part and the other two midway from the center to either end. These section forms are to be cut out of pine board in the proper size and shape as determined from the model. Those at B C and D are simply to serve as a mold over which to build the boat, but the end piece A is permanent, and should be cut out of plank. These section boards should then be placed in position and firmly held, temporarily, by strips tacked to the ends of the sections X V and Z V (Fig 2), while one of the permanent strips, m n, is tacked to the bottom. The boat is now outlined in form, and the next step is to cover it with narrow pine strips, not more than two inches wide. The center strip having been securely fastened to the stern piece and to the upright post in the stem, which should be knee-shaped, as shown in Fig. 3, and tacked lightly to the section boards, the builder will proceed to fit a strip to either side of this, beveling the edges a trifle and tapering the strips a little toward the ends. These strips are nailed to the one already on in the center, where the keel will come, by driving wire nails through them edgewise into the middle strip. Succeeding strips are fitted and nailed in the same way until the boat is covered, each strip being nailed firmly to the one next to it already in its place. When the boat has been entirely covered the section boards can be removed, when a very stiffy-built boat will be presented to view. It is not complete yet, however, but must have a rail or finish around the top, a short deck forward through which to "step" the mast, and a keel added to the bottom. The latter is to be secured to the boarding, but for additional strength there may be a strip of iron extending down the front of the stem post along the bottom of the keel and up to the top of the stern, being secured to the wood at frequent points. The eye-pieces on which to hang the rudder can extend through this strip of iron into the wood.

FIG. 2.—THE BOAT IN OUTLINE.

If the strips that are used in covering the boat are well fitted when put on, the whole will be very tight when completed, a coat of thick paint being a sufficient protection against the entrance of water. If it is desired, a few ribs of flexible hardwood may be inserted after the boarding has been put on, but if the boat has been properly fitted and nailed they will hardly be necessary. A few of these hardwood pieces should be placed at intervals upon the bottom, however, and a light flooring of thin boards placed upon them to support the weight of those who comprise the crew or passengers.—American Agriculturist.

Hunting Adventure in India.

An odd hunting adventure recently befell a British officer in India. He was mounted on a fleet mule, and was running down a wild boar, intending to lance it, when the animal turned, bit the mule's leg and then fled again. The mule screamed savagely, and in a minute she had deposited the officer on the ground; then, kicking out vigorously five or six times, as if to see that her legs were all right, she started after the unfortunate pig at lightning speed, with fury in her eyes, and vengeance in the crook of her ears. The race was not long, and the wild boar soon realized that he had exasperated a relentless enemy. He was soon winded, and the mule, coming up with him, caught him by the backbone with his teeth, crunched it and then threw him to the ground, and then, before he could rise, kicked him so viciously that he was a dead boar in less than no time. Then the mule returned to his master and gave utterance to a "hee-haw" of triumph.

Why He Preferred the Horse.

A gentleman heard a young visitor in his house ask his own son, aged six:

"Which would you rather be—a walking policeman or a mounted policeman?"

"A mounted policeman, of course," said the boy.

"Why?" asked the other.

"'Cause, if the robbers came I could get away quicker."

Tell the Truth.

There is a large class of people who are easily "gulled," and who can be drawn into anything that promises something for nothing. They like to be humbugged. Those who are so disposed find ample use for their imagination writing advertisements that are intended to mislead. The only way in which houses that do business on a solvent basis and give value for value can compete with these lying tradesmen is to adhere to the straightforward, confidential style of advertising. It is the straight truth about straight goods or honest service that sets the people right on the question of patronage, and educates them to detect the difference between the fair dealer and the swindler by the tone of their advertisements.—Printers' Ink.

Successful Advertising.

The important effect of advertising is one of a direct nature. It conveys the impression that the party is anxious for business. One who is anxious for business is unavoidably supposed to be an industrious, attentive, civil person who keeps the best of articles at the cheapest rate, does everything in the neatest and most tradesmanlike manner, and in general uses every expedient to gratify and attach customers. People like to purchase under these circumstances, and the system of advertising assuring them that such circumstances exist at this particular shop, they select it accordingly.

During the Dull Season.

A prominent business man who advertised very little during the late spring season recently gave a large order to The Times to continue during the dull season, "because," as he said, "my experience is that advertising and success in trade are inseparable." He had plenty of trade during the business season; but the time has now come when he must stimulate and create trade, and he turns to the widely read newspaper as the only agency through which it can be done.—Philadelphia Times.

A Panacea for Bad Business.

Quoth an Albany merchant to a reporter for The Press: "When I hear merchants complain about bad business I make up my mind that they do not advertise. Some people have an idea that all that is necessary is to get a stock and hang out a sign, after which crowds will flock in. I often think that such people have an idea that Barnum could fill his immense canvas just as well by putting out a four by six dodger."

How to Draw Trade.

This age is too bustling and competition is too great for the merchant to allow himself any longer the luxury of waiting supinely behind his counter for trade. He must show in advance of purchases just what he has to sell and how he intends to sell it, and a persistent publication of his wares is the means by which such showing can be made.—York (Pa.) Gazette.

How to Grow Rich.

"If you want to grow rich," said an aged thinker to a business man who was about to start a factory, "make it a rule to give the largest possible amount of goods of the best possible quality for the least possible sum of money." The business man took the advice, and it worked so well that he soon bought out the factory of a rival whose rule had been to get the largest possible sum of money for the least possible amount of goods of the poorest possible quality.—New York Sun.

Sure to Catch Them.

Before the traveling man has left his hotel the newspaper advertisement has had an interview with the purchaser. The buyer may have been out of town that day, but somebody's newspaper advertisement was in his pocket. The country dealer may be located much "out of the way," but the newspaper gets there, and gets attention. The canvasser may ring in vain, but the housekeeper is always "at home" to her favorite newspaper.—Ayer.

Gives Character and Standing.

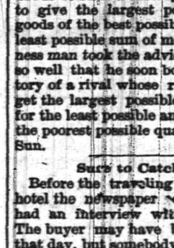
Advertising gives character and standing to a firm. Go into any community as an entire stranger, pick up the daily papers published there. Look for their largest advertisers and you can invariably depend upon the fact that you have found the most reliable and desirable firms in that community.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Don't Crowd.

No matter what space you have in the local papers, don't fill it so that it looks crowded. A handful of sand thrown at a wall will make no mark; a single small pebble will leave some impression. A lot of small type does not catch the eye nearly so quick as a single word in bold, black caps. Be careful to make that word strong and attractive. Two or three short, sharp, crisp sentences, each embodying some qualities or pointers about your leaders, and you have written quite enough. Don't say your goods are dirt cheap, or that you are selling at a loss, and don't decry the goods of your rivals. Intelligent people won't believe the first statements, and certainly won't approve of the latter.—Printers' Ink.

The Blind Don't Read.

Very large type is not necessary in advertising—blind folks don't read newspapers. Quitting advertising in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low. Either plan will prevent good times from ever coming.



A HERMIT, closely mewed up in the rocky fastnesses of Mount Keepaway from here is the only human being in this progressive age who can attain the object of his desires without advertising.

PUSSY'S MISFORTUNE.

How She Burned Her Paw on the Fender of the Fireplace.

This cat's name is Pansy. Do you think this an odd name for a cat?

Her mistress is a young girl called Anna. When Anna was a mite of a thing, just learning to use her feet, she was toddling in the garden paths with her mamma. Through a crack in the hard walk a flower had forced its way. Baby Anna saw it; she picked it with a crow of delight. It was a pansy, and ever since she has been fond of pansies, and she gives the name to what she likes very much. Her best doll was always Pansy; and when this cat came as a little round ball of a kitten she was Pansy, too. Anna says her cat's face looks like the flower, and maybe it is shaped a little that way.

Pansy has become a large cat, as you see.

Pansy has been taught to do many things. The master of the house is a grave lawyer, but he is not above playing with a cat. He has taught Pansy to stretch herself at full length on the carpet and then roll over at his word.

When the family sit around the evening lamp which stands on a big center-table Pansy sometimes jumps on the table and walks across, her warm fur shining in the light. Then perhaps she takes a leap and seats herself on the master's shoulder as he reads his paper.

Here let me tell you a joke which

THE BURNED PAW.

Anna likes to get off on older people. She fooled me with it:

"Aunty Helen," said she, "say 'the cat, the cat,' and not the kitten."

Of course I said "the cat, the cat, and not the kitten."

"That is not right," says my little lady.

Then I tried it "every which way," "the cat, the cat, and not the kitten," until I do believe I had put the emphasis on every one of the words. It took me a long time to find out that the right way was this: "The cat, the cat," and leave off the rest. Because you see Anna told me I must not say "and not the kitten."

In the house where Pansy lives there is a beautiful wood fireplace. Pansy likes to lie on the rug before the fire, or sit up and look at it. Just now as she rested her paw on the brass fender, a spark shot out and burned it. See her hold it up!—Pansy.

PRINCESS DIDO'S RING.

A Story Connected with the Founding of the City of Carthage.

You remember the story of Dido, the princess of Tyre who founded Carthage. After the death of her father and the murder of her husband she set sail for some foreign shore, and landed on the coast of Africa. There a grant was made to her of as much land as could be covered by a bull's hide, and by cutting the hide into very thin strips she made it surround a large area. On this territory she built the city of Carthage.

This tradition is probably founded upon a very small basis of fact, but that there is something in it any little girl can prove for herself by making of a small sheet of paper a ring large enough to go over her body. Take, for example, a piece of paper as large as the page on which this is printed, and cut it with two continuous cuts, as shown in the diagram above. You will be surprised to find how large a hole you can cut in so small a piece of paper. Of course you must use fine, sharp scissors, and cut with great care, or you will spoil the ring. After you have made the ring you will have some fun in trying to put it back again into the form of a sheet of paper.—Harper's Young People.

Not Expensive.

In China all the land belongs to the state, and a trifling sum per acre, never altered through long centuries, is paid as rent. This is the only tax in the country, and it amounts to but about twenty cents per head.

HE WAS INCLUDED.

Dora—I do adore dogs.

Van Wind—Aw, how lovely for me.

"Why, how so?"

"The chappies all say I'm such a duced clevah dog, don't you know."—Light.

Small Matters.

It is always well to make the best of small accidents. This was the opinion, at any rate, of a certain colored barber, who, in cutting a gentleman's hair, snipped off the tip of his ear.

The customer leaped out of the chair with a wild shriek.

"Ow!" he screamed, "you've cut off a piece of my ear!"

"Sho! Don't car'y on so, boss!" said the barber. "'Taint 'nough for to 'tract de hearin'!"

Matrimonial Item.

Jim Doolittle, a Texas man, has not been married very long, but there are already some rumors of an impending divorce. He complains that his wife has a very bad temper.

"When did you first get acquainted with your wife?" asked a friend.

"I have known her a good while, but I didn't really get acquainted with her until after we were married," replied Jim, with a sigh.—Texas Siftings.

A Faith Preserved.

Ethel—It's too bad it's cold. I prayed for a warm day. Does God always answer prayer?

Mamma—Yes, if you ask for a thing in the right way, and if you don't He reproves you by not giving it.

Ethel—Oh, I see now. The governess told me to try to say my prayers in French this month, and I guess I made mistakes.—Life.

Why She Was Angry.

He put his arm around her waist for the first time, but realizing his boldness, quickly withdrew it. "Are you angry with me, Katie?" he asked timidly.

"Of course I am, George," she answered. "What business had you to take away your arm?"—Boston Herald.

Sanitary Intelligence.

Teacher—You must not come to school any more, Tommy, until your mother has recovered from the smallpox.

Tommy—There ain't a bit of danger. She ain't going to give me the smallpox.

"Why, how is that?"

"She's my stepmother. She never gives me anything."—Texas Siftings.

In the Thieves' Quarter.

A.—What's going on over at your house? I hear music and dancing.

B.—Yes, we have got a little family celebration.

"What's the occasion?"

"One of the boys has just got home from the penitentiary."—Texas Siftings.

Grammar As She Is Taught.

Teacher—Tommy, can you give me a sentence in which "but" is a conjunction?

Tommy—See the goat butt the boy. Butt is a conjunction, and connects the boy with the goat.—Baltimore American.

To Be Sure.

Mrs. Peastraw—What do they call a student at Cornell?

Farmer Peastraw—A Cornellian.

Mrs. Peastraw—Well, what do they call a student at Vassar?

Farmer Peastraw—A Vassarline, of course.—Jury.

Not Yet Desperate.

Middle-aged Spinster (as tramp comes into the yard)—What do you want here, anything to eat?

Tramp—What else should I want, madam? Did you think I came to offer a proposal of marriage?—Boston Herald.

Bound Together.

Primus—You and Jackson are always together. Some strong bond of union between you, eh?

Secundus—Yes. He is too obtuse to take a hint and I am too gentlemanly to insult him.—Judge.

A Quiet Instrument.

"There!" said the toy man to Billie's father. "That drum's the finest in the market. It can't be beat."

"I'll take it. A drum that can't be beat is just the thing for my boy."—Harper's Bazar.

Coat-Shedding Time.

Little Dot—Mamma, please give me a whole lot of moth paper.

Mamma—What for?

Little Dot—To pack my kitty away. Her fur is all comin' off.—Good News.

Glad to Be Rid of Them.

"I have no friends," sighed the poor man.

"Humph!" said the millionaire grimly, "you can have as many as you want of mine."—Judge.

A Fressing Engagement.

Rose—What are you doing, Lily? Writing for the press?

Lily—Yes. I'm just telling Charlie I'll be alone this evening.—Light.

Invariably a Success.

"A marriage may sometimes be a failure," remarked old Mrs. Ely, "but a funeral is always bound to be a success."—Life.

Unexpected Honesty.

Shopper—What is the real difference between these two materials?

New Clerk—Fifty cents a yard. That's all.—Jury.

"I HATE TO ASK MY DOCTOR."

False modesty and procrastination are responsible for much female suffering. We can excuse the instinctive delicacy that suggests concealment to the young, but there is no excuse for those who reject the assistance of a woman.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is an entire and permanent cure for the worst forms of female disease, and instantly relieves all weaknesses and ailments peculiar to the sex. It is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

HONOVER'S TRAGEDY

The Man Who Killed Miss Warden Still at Large.

HUNDREDS JOIN IN THE SEARCH

Several Men Answering the Description of the Murderer Arrested.

The Officials Closely Follow Every Clue. Never Before Has New Hampshire Had Such a Sensation—Men Carrying Loaded Rifles Seen on All Sides—The People Are Very Nervous.

HANOVER, N. H., July 21.—Never before has New Hampshire had such a sensation as that caused by the murder of Christie Warden, who was killed by Frank Almy.

Hundreds of armed men are still hunting for him in this vicinity and threatening to shoot him on sight, and in all the adjacent counties armed parties are out after the murderer. Big placards are posted everywhere offering a reward for his capture.

A big meeting of students and citizens of Hanover was held in front of the Wheelock Hotel to organize a search of the neighboring woods. All were heavily armed. It is known that Almy carries the 44-calibre revolver with which he shot Miss Warden, and it is believed that in his desperation he would not hesitate to add another murder to his crime if necessary to prevent his arrest. Men carrying loaded rifles were therefore common sights in this usually peaceful village.

The Dartmouth College students hired a big tally-ho coach, stocked it with provisions and ammunition, and started out to patrol Blueberry Hill, several miles distant. They presented a curious spectacle in their tennis suits as they drove away, the top of the coach glistening with gun barrels.

NO TRACE OF ALMY.

The Murderer Has Succeeded in Evading the Searchers.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 21.—From all over this section of New Hampshire and adjoining portions of Vermont men answering the description of Almy, the murderer of Miss Warden, are reported to have been seen.

The officials of Grafton County closely follow every clew, but up to now have been disappointed every time.

There is another promising clue from West Burke. A dispatch from that border town says that a man had appeared there, weary and footsore as well as hungry, and that he was endeavoring to get across the Canadian border as quickly as possible. The man was so fatigued that he was seen to fall twice. He answered perfectly the description of Almy, and the police at west Burke think that he is the murderer. Sheriff Brigham and two of his deputies have gone to West Burke to follow up the clue.

WORCESTER, July 21.—A man answering to the description of Frank Almy, the Hanover murderer, was arrested at about 4 o'clock at South Worcester depot. He gave his name as Sullivan, but when asked to write his name signed it John Alfred Carpenter. He says he came to this city on Friday night from Nashua and told conflicting stories. His description is believed by the police to correspond with that given of Almy.

MR. BLAINE IMPROVING.

Dr. Taylor Says He is Simply Watching His Progress.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 21.—Secretary Blaine took his usual walk this morning. He was accompanied by his physician, Dr. Taylor, and together they walked to Emmons Blaine's cottage. Dr. Taylor says Mr. Blaine is continually improving, and that all he can do is to watch his progress and counsel him about exercise and food.

The Secretary spends his time here according to a programme he has followed in previous years. After breakfast he examines his mail, discusses with his secretary matters needing his attention, sees his friends who call, and about 11 o'clock walks or drives out. He returns about 1, and usually goes out a second time about 5 in the afternoon. The evenings are spent with his family.

Strike Expected on the Illinois Central

CHICAGO, July 21.—A dispatch from Sioux City, Iowa, says there is a strong prospect of a strike of conductors all over the Illinois Central system on account of the recent wholesale discharges. If the order of railway conductors is unable to get any satisfaction out of the officials of the road a resort to other than peaceful means will likely be taken. It is claimed the men were discharged because they had been active a year ago in securing a new schedule of wages which materially increased their salaries.

The Bagley Hat Failure.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., July 21.—The estimated liabilities of the Bagley hat factory are $170,000; assets $50,000. Among its creditors is the National bank of this place, which has from $10,000 to $25,000 of the company's paper. Among the directors are several wealthy citizens, and it is believed that the bank will not lose anything. A meeting of the directors has been called for to-morrow in Boston.

Not Ready for the Massachusetts Plan.

LONDON, July 21.—In the House of Commons Home Secretary Matthews, replying to a question by Mr. Octavius Morgan whether the government would follow the example of the Governor of Massachusetts and appoint women as factory inspectors, said that the system in vogue in England worked well and that there was nothing to show that a change was necessary.

BALL PLAYERS IN COLLISION.

An Accident that May Prove Fatal to Second Baseman Collins.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 21.—A shocking accident occurred during the baseball game between the Brooklyn and New York League teams, which will probably result in the death of Collins, the well known second baseman of the Brooklyns.

He and Burns, the right fielder, started for a short fly ball hit to right field. While running at full speed the men collided and both were rendered unconscious.

Both men were frightfully cut about the face, and blood spurted from Collins' mouth and ears. Physicians were soon in attendance, who, after an examination, announced that the men were suffering from concussion of the brain, and that Collins was likely to die.

ARKELL'S TEA PARTY.

He Will Entertain President Harrison and Prominent Politicians.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21.—Mr. William J. Arkell is to give a famous "tea party" to President Harrison at Saratoga about the middle of August.

All the leading Republicans of the State are to be present, interspersed with enough Democrats to take away the too dark political hue which so many prominent Republicans would otherwise give the gathering.

An endeavor will be made at the "tea party" to prevail upon some Republican to accept the nomination for Governor at the coming Republican State Convention.

RELIGIOUS SENSATION.

New Brunswick in a Ferment Over Rev. Mace's Attack on Priests.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 21.—Rev. Dr. J. R. Mace, pastor of St. James' M. E. Church, has created a sensation here among Catholics by denouncing celibacy.

The words used by the clergyman, and which have caused adverse criticism from the heads of the Catholic Church, were as follows: "I take little stock in the infamous doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church regarding the celibacy of their priests. What is more, I do not believe that the priests, as a class, practice this doctrine."

The Gibbons and McAuliffe Fight.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Austin Gibbons, accompanied by a score of Jersey sporting men, went to the Police Gazette office at noon to meet Jack McAuliffe and arrange for a match for the lightweight championship. McAuliffe did not show up until the others, after waiting an hour, had departed. Jack deposited $500 as a guarantee of his intentions, and it is likely that Gibbons will cover it.

Narrow Escape from Death.

WINSTED, Conn., July 21.—A hand car with five laborers on it was struck by the pay car on the Central New England Railroad on Still Water bridge. One laborer jumped into the river below, a distance of 30 feet, while the others dropped through the beams and hung by their hands until the train passed over them. A man named Connors was the only one injured, and that slightly.

Big Blaze in Roebling's Works.

TRENTON, N. J., July 21.—The submarine cable department of the John A. Roebling's Sons Company was destroyed by fire last night. The building covered an acre of ground. The fire was caused by the overheating of an oven in which a large cable was being baked. Some valuable machinery was damaged. The loss is about $50,000; party insured. This firm built the Brooklyn bridge.

Convicted of Stealing from His Wife.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The trial of S. W. Lewis, the Wall street broker, who is accused of stealing $53,000 from his wife, Mrs. Alice G. Bostwick Lewis, who was formerly the wife of a prominent resident of Bridgeport, Conn., was concluded by the jury bringing in a verdict of grand larceny in the first degree. Lewis was remanded for sentence.

To Investigate Chandler's Charges.

CONCORD, N. H., July 21.—Senator Chandler makes public a letter addressed by him to the Interstate Commerce Commission in reply to a communication from the latter in which they advise him that they have decided to investigate his charges against the Boston & Maine Railroad for issuing free passes.

A Yale Graduate Dies Abroad.

NEW HAVEN, July 21.—A cable from London announces the death of William N. Thatcher who, last month graduated with high honors from the academical department of Yale. He was a son of Judge Thatcher of the Colorado Supreme Court, and a nephew of Professor Thatcher of Yale. His home was at Pueblo, Col.

Goddard Defeats Chaynski.

MELBOURNE, July 21.—Joe Chaynski, the California pugilist, was defeated by Joe Goddard, the Australian, in a four-round contest here. Goddard had the best of the fight all the way through. The fight was for a purse of $10,000 and the championship of Australia.

TROOPS TERRORIZED

Armed Miners in Tennessee Drive Them Away.

A SERIOUS CONFLICT EXPECTED.

The Governor Orders Out the Entire Militia of the State.

The Miners Determined Not to Permit Convicts to Compete With Them—Intense Excitement in Knoxville—The Streets Crowded With People Discussing the Trouble.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—The crisis in the trouble between the ousted miners in this district and the convicts who were brought here from the State prison at Nashville has at last been reached.

When about 400 armed strikers attacked the guards who had charge of 50 felons at Briceville last Wednesday night and liberated their charges, it was confidently predicted that this would be but the beginning of a general movement throughout the entire mining district of the State. Gov. Buchanan was immediately notified and responded by ordering two companies from Chattanooga and one from Knoxville to the scene. Of the 50 convicts taken from the guards at Briceville, two escaped and the others were brought to this city. When the militia arrived they took the convicts along back with them and warned the mob that they would protect them at all hazards.

Gov. Buchanan at once proceeded to the seat of trouble, and in a neat speech explained his own position to the rebellious miners. He told them that it was his sworn duty to uphold the law, and if the convict lease system was wrong he was not to blame, and that the only recourse of the men was through the Legislature.

The miners announced that their families were starving, and that they were compelled to drive out the convicts if it cost the life of every man in the valley. They made all sorts of fun of the handful of beardless youths, but declared that they would not harm the "spider-legged, cigarette-smoking dudes," as they characterized the militia, but as soon as the militia were withdrawn they would release every convict in the region. Becoming impatient, however, at the delay in recalling the troops, they decided to overcome the troops by force of numbers and succeeded, only too well.

THERE MAY BE A CONFLICT.

The Tennessee Miners Force the State Troops to Surrender.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—Gov. Buchanan has ordered the entire State militia to Briceville to protect the convicts at work in the mines at that place.

A dispatch from Coal Creek says that 1,000 miners sent a committee to the soldiers now there and demanded immediate surrender.

The soldiers laid down their arms, and the miners are now in possession of the stockade.

They compelled the convicts, forty in number, and 100 soldiers, to get aboard the train, which took them away from the scene of the trouble.

Now that the miners are in control and are supplied with guns, taken from the soldiers, it is not thought likely that they will be driven out without a bloody battle. It is reported that 2,000 miners are marching to the seat of war.

The Convicts at Knoxville.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—After the release of the convicts at Briceville and after the troops and convicts had been put on the train, the mob went to the mines of the Knoxville Iron Company, surrounded the stockade and captured the 125 convicts there with the guards. They were shipped here. All the convicts are now in Knoxville in an old building under guard.

It is reported that the miners at Oliver Springs have released the 130 convicts.

The excitement here is intense. The streets are crowded and everybody is talking about the trouble.

It is reported that the special train will arrive here at 12 o'clock with the first lot of troops, and at 1 o'clock the second train will arrive. Troops are undoubtedly being hurried forward.

The troops who have arrived here say the statement made that they would not fight but wished the miners to capture the convicts is false. The Chattanooga boys show a brave front and are determined to go back. Many miners from Jellico and Newcomb were in the mob.

Cleveland to Stump Ohio.

CINCINNATI, July 21.—Ex-President Cleveland has promised Gov. Campbell to make six speeches in Ohio. One will be made in Dayton and one in Cincinnati, but the other four are not decided.

The Boy Sleeper Awakes.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 21.—Jesse Streits, the boy sleeper of Seymour, awoke yesterday, after a continuous sleep of 100 hours.

FISHERMEN EXCITED.

The Government to Investigate the Eastport Seizure.

EASTPORT, Me., July 21.—The excitement over the seizure of the American fishing boats by the Canadian steamer Dream has not yet subsided.

The men claim that they were fishing in American waters as defined by the charts used some years ago. The seized boats are now at St. Andrews, N. B., and will shortly be disposed of by the Dominion authorities.

The owners of the fishing boats have appealed to the United States government.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Department of State has telegraphed Consul Neill at St. Stephen, N. B., to investigate the seizure by the Canadian cruiser Dream, and a U. S. revenue cutter will also be sent to investigate.

His Accounts Short $3,000.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 21.—Benjamin R. Spellman, jr., recently cashier of the Twenty-sixth Ward Bank, this city, has disappeared, and an examination of his accounts show that on leaving the bank he was short at least $3,000. Spellman was discharged from his position at the bank on May 30, on account of his intemperate habits. He then went to Albany, his native place, but has now disappeared from that city. The bank will lose nothing, as it was protected by a $20,000 bond.

Reception to the Fair Commissioners.

LONDON, July 21.—The council of the Society of Arts gave a reception to the World's Fair delegates from the United States yesterday. After luncheon Sir Richard Webster proposed a toast to the health and success of the American commissioners and expressed hope that the fair would be a great success. Mr. Butterworth responded, thanking the society for the warmth of the reception to himself and associates.

An Old Clergyman Very Active.

NYACK, N. Y., July 21.—Rev. Thomas Mack, the oldest clergyman in Rockland County, celebrated his 90th birthday on Saturday, and Sunday evening preached the final sermon of his ministry to his congregation at West Hempstead, Rockland County. He is still hale and hearty and drove to Nyack, a distance of 12 miles, yesterday to open the big Masonic fair with prayer.

The White House Ladies in Vienna.

VIENNA, July 21.—Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison, who are the guests of Minister and Mrs. Fred Grant, will remain here until Thursday next, when the ladies will return to Paris for a few days and will then proceed to London, whence they will soon start on their return voyage to America.

Failure of a Millinery House.

CINCINNATI, July 21.—Thompson, Stewart & Co., wholesale millinery, 187 West Fourth street, have assigned. Liabilities, $70,000; assets, $50,000.

Mr. Spurgeon is Weaker.

LONDON, July 21.—Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon passed a restless night. He has grown weaker.

ST. PAUL'S PROTEST

Great Excitement Over To-Morrow's Prize Fight.

A MASS MEETING OF CITIZENS

They Invoke the Governor to Prevent the Battle.

A Warrant Issued for the Arrest of Fitzsimmons—He Escapes With His Trainer—The Mayor Says the Fight Will Take Place—Both Pugilists in the Pink of Condition—A Big Crowd in the City.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 21.—The mass meeting last night to protest against the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight to-morrow night was attended by over 5,000 people. Archbishop Ireland was the chief speaker of the evening, and he arraigned the prize ring and its "lawlessness and vulgar animalism" and the municipal authorities for permitting the exhibition.

Ex-United States Senator McMillan and the Rev. W. B. Butterick, of the First Baptist Church, were the other speakers, and were even more severe than was the Archbishop.

Toward the close of the meeting a memorial was presented, calling on the Governor to interfere and prevent the fight, in view of Mayor Smith's public refusal to do so. It was proposed to present the memorial to-day, but the crowd would have no delay. With shouts of "Present it now!" it was decided to carry the matter before Gov. Merriam at once, and the entire 5,000 people went to the State capitol for that purpose. A committee was sent to summon Gov. Merriam from his residence to receive the memorial. The Governor told the committee that he could not address such a great crowd, but would receive the memorial and act on it to-day.

A Warrant Out for Fitzsimmons.

A complaint has been filed and a warrant issued for the arrest of Fitzsimmons, one of the principals in the coming fight. It was sworn out by William Landon. The fact was at once telegraphed to White Bear, and Fitzsimmons and his trainer are now in hiding.

A host of people from all parts of the country are constantly arriving to witness the fight, and it is fully expected that the seating capacity of the big amphitheatre will be sold by to-night. The management have no fears that the fight will not take place.

THEY WILL FIGHT.

The Mayor of St. Paul Says It is Too Late to Stop the Mill.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 21.—The mayor says it is now too late to stop the Fitzsimmons-Hall fight to-morrow night, when the Twin City Athletic Club has prepared for it at an expense of $15,000 or more, and that it would be unfair and unjust to interfere at this late day.

Both Hall and Fitzsimmons are in the very pink of condition.

BESIEGED BY STRIKERS.

Serious Trouble Feared at Carnegie's Mills at Duquesne.

PITTSBURG, July 21.—Serious trouble is reported at Duquesne, where the employes of the Allegheny Bessemer Steel Company of Carnegie are on a strike.

It is stated that 400 steel workers from McKeesport, Braddock and other points arrived at Duquesne, and that they will not allow the workmen to enter or leave the mill.

Sheriff McCleary is on the ground with a number of deputies, but he is unable to disperse the crowd with the force at his command. Two men are reported to have been seriously injured.

Sir Charles Russell Coming.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Prominent members of the Bar of this city have inaugurated a movement looking to the tendering of a reception and banquet to ex-Attorney-General Sir Charles Russell, the eminent English lawyer, who was counsel for the defense in the Tranby Croft scandal. He is expected here shortly to visit his sister, Mary Baptiste, superior of the Carmelite order of nuns in this city. It will be the first meeting of the brother and sister for 34 years.

The Whole Town in Mourning.

MAZAWAN, N. J., July 21.—The whole town has gone into mourning for ex-Judge William Spader, who died at his home here. Fishing parties have been broken up and all parties for the time being put aside. Being a very rich man, ex-Judge Spader has lived in retirement since he left the bench of Monmouth County some years ago. He was 78 years old. He will be buried to-morrow afternoon in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sausages Stuffed With Dog Flesh.

MUNICH, July 21.—A butcher of this city was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, with a heavy fine for making and selling sausages stuffed with the flesh of dogs. A number of witnesses testified to the excellence of the sausages sold by the prisoner, but the culprit upset their testimony, and their stomachs as well, by admitting his guilt.

No Insurance for Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, July 21.—Judgment has been given in the action brought in the interest of Mrs. Maybrick against an insurance association to recover $10,000 insurance on her husband's life. The court decided that Mrs. Maybrick had murdered her husband, and that consequently she could not recover.

Dom Pedro Seriously Ill.

PARIS, July 21.—Dom Pedro, ex-Emperor of Brazil, is seriously ill at Vichy. He recently met with an accident, which injured one of his feet and gangrene has supervened. A consultation of doctors was held last night.

Hominy Gems.

BY MRS. D. A. LINCOLN,

Author Boston Cook Book.

Mix 2 table-sp. fine, uncooked hominy, ½ tea sp. salt, 1 table-sp. butter, and ½ cup boiling water. Place this over the tea kettle until the hominy absorbs all the water. Pour ½ cup boiling milk on 1 scant cup fine yellow corn meal; add 2 table-sp. sugar and the hominy. Let it cool slightly, then add the yolks of 2 eggs beaten to a light froth, then the whites beaten stiff. Stir in 1 level tea sp. Cleveland's baking powder and bake at once in hot buttered gem pans, about 20 minutes. A scant cup of cold boiled hominy may be used instead of the fresh hominy. It should be sifted through a squash strainer, to free it from lumps.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

"Cleveland's Baking Powder; the best in quality, highest in leavening power and perfectly wholesome." A. F. Underwood, U. S. Government Chemist, 1891.

GREAT GOLD FIND.

The People in Washington Wild With Excitement Over the Discovery.

ELLENSBURG, Wash., July 21.—There is great excitement here over magnificent gold finds in the Menastash Canyon, 15 miles from here. Fine nuggets and dust are found daily, and the gold is of high grade.

Several good silver ledges have also been discovered in this canyon. Gold has also been picked up in the hills north of this city. The whole country is wrought up to a high pitch, and many prospectors are fitting out and starting for the field.

Those who have returned are very enthusiastic over the prospects, and have dust or nuggets to back their stories. A great deal of iron is also being uncovered by the gold hunters.

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

The Citizens of Washington Subscribe Over $30,000 to the Guarantee Fund.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Grand Army men and the citizens generally are enthusiastic over the meeting of the national encampment here in 1892. More than $50,000 has already been subscribed to the guarantee fund. All advices from the different States indicate that there will be little, if any, opposition to it in the national encampment. Col. Charles F. Lincoln, who was commander of the Department of the Potomac in 1888, is the candidate of that department for the position of commander-in-chief at Detroit. He will be pushed by the comrades of Washington, as well as those of several States.

Manufacturers Assign.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 21.—The assignment of the Higganum Manufacturing Company, at Higganum, Conn., created a surprise in business circles here. The company manufactured farming implements. The president is State Senator George M. Clark, and Clinton B. Davis, chairman of the Democratic State Committee and a nephew of Joseph Davis, is secretary and treasurer. The following announcement has been made: "Owing to the failure of Joseph Davis of Lyme, and by advice of the large creditors, this firm has made an assignment to ex-Gov. P. C. Lounsbury of Bridgeport and Clement S. Hubbard of Haddam."

Party of Tourists Drowned.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 21.—A pleasure yacht, containing six English tourists capsized here, and all were drowned except Edward Mutch, who was lashed to the keel of the upturned yacht. He is now on board the steamer Marion and is not expected to recover. The names of the tourists are: J. H. Edwards and two sons, William Morrison, Edward Mutch and Miss McGuinness.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A. H. Silpath, mayor and leading merchant of Burlington, N. J., has failed.

The strike of railroad employes in Paris has resulted in a complete failure, the men having returned to work.

Rev. Charles S. St. John of the United Church, Northampton, Mass., has accepted a call to Pittsburg, Pa.

The Consuls of the United States, Great Britain and Germany have issued a proclamation sustaining King Malietoa of Samoa.

Susannah Porter, aged 28, committed suicide at Asbury Park, N. J., by swallowing a dose of laudanum. Her husband left her about a year ago, since which time she has been despondent.

The Journeymen plumbers, gas fitters and steam fitters of London, Ont., have gone on strike to enforce their demand for a nine hour day, 25 cents per hour and price and a half for overtime. The bosses are endeavoring to secure men from other cities.

Mrs. J. C. Carson, of Newburgh, N. Y., an aged widow, worth a million of dollars, has been induced to give large amounts to Mrs. Nannie Darling, a spiritualistic medium, of New York, who has since confessed to shoplifting.

Judge Ramsey has just handed down a decision in the case of the indicted clothing dealers at Rochester, N. Y., setting aside the indictment, on the ground that the evidence was illegally admitted by the grand jury, and that without this illegally admitted evidence no charge of conspiracy could be established.

Anxiety for an Overdue Vessel.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Anxiety is manifested as to the non-arrival of the Excelsior which is overdue. She was sighted on July 13 with her crank pin broken, but declined proffered assistance.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Thin, but not too thin—Peck's summer dress goods.

—Mr. Churchill, of Dunellen, who has taken several prizes at the fairs with his speedy horses, lost one of the best of his animals last night. The horse was seized with the colic early in the day and died before night.

—Thomas VanNest and Wm. B. Stewart are making a great team of hustlers on the Stewart farm at New Brooklyn, and have already brought fine, large, ripe tomatoes into market. The products of their land are always eagerly sought after, and they are always rushing the season with their crops.

—A disgraceful tongue fight took place Saturday night between two women living on Manson place, at the west end of town. It was caused by one of the combatants saying something about the other one's husband, which so enraged her that she called the other bad names and kept cursing her fully an hour, awakening the other neighbors out of their slumbers. Some of them tried to have the noise stopped, but their efforts were of no avail. Gradually the quarrel died out, and the disputants dispersed.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Bella Booth, of Newburgh, is visiting Miss DeForest, of West Second street.

Fred and George Smith, sons of Councilman Smith, are visiting their grandparents at Hartwick, N. Y.

Samuel Johnson, of Park avenue, was serenaded by the South Plainfield band, led by C. H. Soper, last evening, and was given a highly enjoyable birthday reception by his friends.

Assessor J. A. Hubbard was too ill yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the county board of assessors. His condition is serious, but under proper care there need be no cause for alarm.

Mrs. S. Fitzgerald, jr., and daughter, Anna, of 117th street, New York, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Fitzgerald, of Somerset place. They say they cannot speak too highly of Plainfield's beautiful homes.

The mother of John F. and Andrew E. Kenney and of Mrs. John Rafferty, of this city, died at the home of her son James in Bayonne, suddenly, of heart disease, Sunday. She was found dead in bed. Funeral services will be held at Bound Brook on Thursday morning.

William W. Warnock, formerly of this city, and Miss Mamie Furman were married yesterday at the home of the bride, Englewood, by the Rev. Mr. Godson of the Leonia M. E. church. Mr. and Mrs. Warnock will reside in Englewood, where the groom has purchased a long established business.

In many of the Sunday papers of July 26 will appear a charming sketch, "Wetumpka", written by George Percy Taggart, of North Plainfield, for the literary department of the United Press. Mr. Taggart is grouped among such stars as Joseph Howard, jr., John T. Arnold, Joe Kose, Margaret Hamm, Felix Orton, Alexander Duval and Ernest Delancey Pierson in the furnishing of first-class newspaper "specials" to the United Press.

Stop This Reckless Shooting in the Streets.

What shall be done with the young lads who so recklessly shoot their air guns in the public streets? And cannot something be done with the greater culprits—those parents who present their sons with such dangerous weapons?

Last evening a brother and sister were playing tennis in the court at their home on Broadway. Suddenly a rifle ball whizzed past his ear and struck the young woman. Fortunately it was a spent ball shot from the corner of La Grande avenue. She had her hand raised to the side of her face when the ball struck one of her finger nails and glanced off.

The shooter is known, and so are numbers of other mischievous and reckless boys in that neighborhood whose parents permit them to be a nuisance and a menace to their neighbors.

All His Late Fellow-Workmen Were Present.

All of the foundry men of the Potter Printing Press Works attended the funeral services, this morning, over the remains of the late Richard Hapenny, who was killed by the cars last Saturday. The pall-bearers were William Wyckoff, John Taylor, Edward Fluke, James Sullivan, Joseph Wahl and William Smith. The Rev. Cornelius Schenck conducted the services, and the remains were interred in the Methodist cemetery. The body presented a very natural and peaceful appearance as it lay in the coffin. A slight wound on the forehead was the only visible mark of the terrible accident which caused his death.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

GAY OLD BIRDS.

Though a Pauper on the Town, Jimmy Powers Squanders Money on Two Veteran Damsels and an Octogenarian Widow, Including the Erewhile Wife of the Man Whom He Robbed.

James Powers, who gets his living by drawing 75 cents a week from the city and other small sums from charitable people, was a prisoner in Judge Codington's court this morning, charged with having stolen $70 from his friend Peter Garrity.

Jimmy is a short, somewhat weazened old man, with a fringe of gray whiskers under his chin, a halt in his step, a cane in his hand, and an old-time wide-collared long coat buttoned stylishly about his form.

Peter has giddy side whiskers, bushy eyebrows, and a very bad spluttering stutter in his voice. As well as his stutter would let him, he told about the robbery.

It was this way: Garrity went to Powers's home, July 7, to get a pair of trousers mended, Powers being something of a tailor. While Powers was plying the needle, Garrity went out to buy a pint of rum. During that absence the sum of $70 was abstracted from the pocket of the trousers, and though Garrity searched the room, looked under the bed, and up the chimney flue, he could n't find the money, and Powers thumped him with his cane and drove him out.

The suspicion that Powers had the money was verified in Garrity's mind by the fact that though Powers was a town charge he took a number of "girls" out driving during the week following the robbery.

One of these "girls" was Katy Moncton, a big, strapping, Amazonian damsel of at least forty summers. Another was Mrs. Hannah Stiles, an eighty-eight-year-old widow, who lives up in the mountains in the hope that she will some day get a big pension for the loss of her son, who was killed in the war.

Powers had never visited Mrs. Stiles before, but that he had a soft eye cast on her was very evident. In company with Katy Moncton, and with Spencer Conway, a colored man, as coachman, he drove up to Mrs. Stiles's place and took her out for a lark. Powers was in an exuberant state of mind, and was very lavish with his newly-acquired wealth. He suggested to Mrs. Stiles that he would make a fine husband for her, but she evaded giving either direct consent or refusal to this gallant proposal. Powers asked her to fly with him to Washington, where he would get her pension money for her, and then they could go to Minnesota, a fairy-land which he had once visited, and live happy and content. Mrs. Stiles, who is a very spry, soft-voiced woman, for her age, and who has evidently been used to better days, simpered gushingly and said "Go 'way, Jimmie!" and snuggled up closer to his side in the carriage.

The quartette had a big day of it. They bought two dozen bottles of beer in North Plainfield, to take along with them. This was for the women to drink. At Somerville and Raritan they refilled and re-refilled the flasks of rum that Jimmie and Spencer had emptied on the way. At Dunellen and Somerville they indulged in such luxuries as ham "sandiges", and at the "city" hotel at Raritan they devoured a big dinner. For all of these things Jimmie paid. The court figured up that Powers spent about $40 altogether. Then after this there were other driving trips, on a smaller and more economical scale, when sarsaparilla and ginger ale were drunk. Besides these outlays, Powers had freely given money to Mrs. Stiles, Katy Moncton, and another giddy, gushing girl of sixty winters, Mary Luke, likewise a town charge. The sums of money he gave to the women ranged from $2 to $5. He gave Katy Moncton $5.50 to get her dress and shoes out of pawn, where she had put them to raise money to go on a high old spree with. When he last parted with Mrs. Stiles—"Hanner" he affectionately called her—he said: "Next time I see you I'll give you a big bunch of it"—meaning money. He said he had "lots" of greenbacks.

The last witness against Powers was policeman McCue, who had searched the premises and found two $5 bills wrapped up separately in bits of paper and hid under the carpet.

Powers insisted on being heard in his own defence, but he made a sorry mess of it, and contradicted himself over and over again. The main drift of his story was that the money which he had been so free in spending had been given to him—in small amounts which aggregated quite a total—by his sister in Albany, by his parish priest, by Councilman Gallup, who had said it was hard to live on only 75 cents a week from the city, by Mr. Bushmore, and by some mysterious individual whom he knew only as "the major". Powers said that he could n't tell one denomination of a bank bill from another, and did n't know how much he had had in a lump; it was, however, the savings of a long time. His knowledge of geography was limited. He had n't been out of the State since his visit to Minnesota, eleven years ago, yet he had made a trip to his sister's home in Albany early this month. He did n't know Albany was out of the State. He thought that like New York city it was in New Jersey.

Judge Codington deemed the evidence sufficient to hold Powers for the action of the grand jury. Jimmie said he could raise the $250 bail required.

Katy Moncton, it transpires, was originally the wife of Garrity, but after securing a separation from her husband she was married to Frank Moncton and now bears his name.

RESERVED SEATS FOR SATURDAY'S GAME

The Crescent League's Base-ball Managers Say They are Under Obligations to the Somerville Contract Breakers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The question having been asked quite frequently as to what seats are numbered and reserved on the Crescent League grounds, we would state that the only stand having such seats is the one directly in the rear of the catcher.

Some of these seats were sold for the whole season, but the balance (about 45 seats) are sold for each game at 45 cents, (25 cents admission and 20 cents for the seat). All other seats are sold, "first come, first served".

The management feel under great obligations to the West Ends for their courtesy in scheduling the postponed game on Saturday.

Cheerfully Paid the Fine.

Matthew Krept said that he had never before been arrested when presented before Judge Codington this morning on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

"You are accused of having been intoxicated"—said the court.—"How do you plead?"

"Yes, sir:"—responded Krept—"up on Second street."

When asked again how he pleaded, he insisted "Up on Second street." He finally understood what was wanted, and said he was guilty.

"Two dollars"—said the court. "All right"—he answered, and paid the money.

Bound Brook Wants a Carnival.

Emulating the example of Cranford, Bound Brook is anxious to hold a series of regattas and carnivals on the Raritan river. At that point the river is wide and deep, as well as picturesque. The Chronicle has taken the matter up and is endeavoring to carry the idea to a successful issue. It points out that some such river display would introduce the possibilities of the river as a means of healthful exercise and pleasure, and would prove an interesting diversion to those townpeople who cannot afford to go away from home for pleasure. It is proposed to get the means for a display by popular subscription.

Thought Burglars Were Around Again.

It transpires that the mysterious pistol shot that sent a bullet flying into Mrs. Celia Condit's house at Westfield, Saturday night, as told in yesterday's PRESS, was fired by Luther Whittaker. Mr. Whittaker had been robbed two weeks before, and thought he heard burglars around again. So he fired a shot from his revolver out of the window.

A Contemporary's Verdict.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The Plainfield Press says "base-ball is profitable in Plainfield." Very good. It also says that a correspondent says the difference between Plainfield and Philadelphia is "Plainfield has one newspaper, the Press, and Philadelphia has n't any." Verily, the Press is a great paper.

Too Many Doctors.

Jay Gould is reported to have four doctors as a part of his traveling outfit. One good doctor ought to be able to do all of Jay's repairing, just as one good mechanic can repair a watch or clock better than four tinkers. Work done at Collier's, 3 Park avenue, always gives satisfaction.

A Chinaman Arrested for Abduction.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Wing Lee, a Chinaman, who formerly kept a laundry in Philadelphia, is under arrest and locked up in the Tombs, charged with abducting Lizzie Sproul, the 15 year old daughter of David Sproul, of Camden, N. J. The Chinaman was arrested in Pell street, this city, where he and the girl were living together.

A Dog Bites Mrs. Parnell.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., July 21.—Mrs. Delia T. S. Parnell, mother of Charles Stewart Parnell, while fondling a strange dog at her home at Ironsides, was badly bitten on the left hand. The dog was at once killed and the wound cauterized by Dr. W. H. Shipps, of Bordentown.

Will Retain the Syracuse Team.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 21.—The movement to retain the Syracuse Club in the Eastern League took definite shape last night. A meeting of business men was held, at which it was decided to organize a stock company to carry on the baseball club.

Committed Suicide in a Hotel.

NEW YORK, July 21.—George W. Thompson, jr., aged 45 years, of Hartford, Conn., was found dead in his room at the United States Hotel last evening. He had committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. No cause is known for the act.

The Stanley Quarrel.

LONDON, July 21.—There are rumors afloat of repeated quarrels between Stanley, the explorer, and his wife, the origin of which is attributed to Stanley's suspicions.

Killed by a Fall of Coal.

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 21.—A miner name John Burkett, while at work was instantly killed by a fall of coal in the Piedmont and Cumberland Coal Company's mines at Frankits. He leaves a widow and six children.

Success is the envy of the weak brained. They seek to get there too. No wonder that they resort to counterfeiting. The reputable dealer should not encourage imitators. Be sure and ask for Hires's Root Beer Packages, and be especially sure you get them.

HER FIRST ARREST.

A Gray-haired Little Woman Overcome by Prosperity and Beer.

Ann Brown, a spry-stepping little mite of a poverty-stricken gray-haired woman, in a dingy black alpaca dress, and with rags and tatters of shoes on her feet, came forth from a cell in the police station this morning, in response to an officer's command, and stood before the court for judgment. "It's pretty tough"—she said, fanning herself with a grimy handkerchief—"to spend a night in the station-house."

She had never before been arrested, but she was so intoxicated last evening that when arrested she gave the name of Annie Wright, having forgotten her real title. Her native home—she said, in a shrill, piping voice—was in Newark, but she used to live here, and she used to live in Scotch Plains. She had been a widow seventeen years, and it was pretty hard to get along. Her only living son was in Texas. She had lost a son ten months ago of typhoid fever. He had worked in the Singer factory. Yesterday she went to a North Plainfield boarding house to do some ironing. She had been working a week in Scotch Plains. Yesterday was very hot, and she had drunk some beer for the first time in many months. It had gone to her head, and disorderly conduct and arrest followed.

As she promised to go to her Scotch Plains friends at once, if released, Judge Codington let her go.

"Thank you, Judge"—she said.—"I'm much obliged." Then she wrapped a faded red shawl about her and trotted quickly away.

Valuations and Taxes for Union County.

The Board of Assessors for Union county met at Elizabeth yesterday and fixed the county valuations for the cities and townships. The total county valuation is $30,990,000, an increase over last year of $1,228,965. Elizabeth's increase is $698,325.

The county tax rate was fixed at .64 and the State school tax at .32. The tax rate for Elizabeth was fixed at 2.98. The interest tax on the city debt adjustment bonds is .94, and for city expenses 1.08.

The committee who canvassed the county relative to the exactness of valuations imposed consisted of J. A. Hubbard of this city, J. M. C. Marsh of Westfield, E. H. Sayre, J. W. Hughes and J. A. Hoff.

A New Church Consecrated.

St. Paul's church, at Bound Brook, was formally consecrated by Bishop Scarborough last Thursday. It is a pretty little wooden structure, which cost when completed $9,600. The parish was organized in 1860. A Sunday-school was first organized by Miss Sarah VanDeWater Talmage. The first church services were conducted by the Rev. James Thompson, of Somerville.

The new edifice was begun in November, 1887. The corner-stone was laid on the 12th of that month. The first services were held in May, 1888. It was not until the past spring that the debt was paid and steps were taken towards the consecration exercises.

Turned Too Short.

Three young men of Dunellen started for a drive, yesterday, behind a mustang pony of not the kindest disposition. John Stryker, considering himself the best driver in the company, took possession of the reins and executed his work well until someone going in the same direction tried to pass him. The pony started on a run, but rather than be beaten Mr. Stryker made a short turn into another street. The wagon was upset, and its occupants were thrown out. Fortunately no one was hurt. The trio were obliged to lead the horse home and drag the wagon to the nearest repair shop.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

JOHN KEAN THE OCTOPUS.

Grasping for all the Townships Along the Line.

It is reported that the Plainfield Water Supply Company, in which ex-Congressman John Kean, jr., Lawyer Frank Bergen, E. R. Pope and J. W. Murray of this city, and other prominent Union county capitalists, are interested, will extend its mains to Fanwood in the fall. Arrangements have, it is said, been made with the Land Improvement Company for that purpose. The company expects ultimately to lay mains to Westfield, Cranford, and possibly to Roselle.

The officers of the company claim that their charter permits them thus to extend their mains. The charter, which was granted in 1869, permits them to operate "in Plainfield and adjoining towns". That was intended to take in Westfield township, which then included the territory now embraced in Fanwood and Westfield townships, and most of Cranford township.

The company claims that it will have a daily supply of 4,000,000 gallons, of which Plainfield will consume only 1,500,000, thus leaving a surplus of 2,500,000 gallons for the townships. The idea is to form local water companies in the townships.

SEES HIMSELF AS OTHERS SEE HIM.

How a "Journalist" Finds Fault With His Own "News" Columns.

The one who took his oath at Somerville that he was a "journalist" said last Thursday in his "journal" issued from Somerset street:

Mr. John I. Holly of Park avenue and Mrs. Oliver D. Bridgman of Netherwood left last night for a short stay at Washington, D. C.

In his issue of last night the journalist says:

Mr. John I. Holly did not accompany his friend, Lieut. Oliver D. Bridgeman to Washington, D. C., last week, as was announced.

In yesterday's news the scare head "Fire-Bugs at Work" topped a mixed-up story of Saturday evening's fire, which was not the work of incendiaries at all. And the same paper in the same issue said:

The correspondents of several New York papers are doing great injury to Plainfield, perhaps unintentionally, by their misleading and in some cases false and exaggerated accounts of fires. The reports thus circulated, enlarged by the writers to secure their insertion, are like a cold blanket to prospective and would-be citizens, or investors.

A CAMP-MEETING COLLECTION.

Three Times the Baskets Were Passed, and the Result Was $1.01.

The annual camp-meeting of the African Methodist church, of North Passaic, was begun in Heggeman's Woods, in the mountains just back of North Plainfield, yesterday. The Rev. Mr. King presided, and the attendance was large.

The Rev. Mr. King, after his sermon, called for a collection. Several baskets were handed around. When the deacons turned the collections over to Mr. King, he counted the money and found only 30 cents.

"Take up another collection"—said the minister. He supplemented his remark with the statement that the Lord loveth a good giver. This time 60 cents was the result.

Mr. King then looked full at the audience and said:

"This assemblage does n't bear outward indications of want. I see lots of good men who I know would give to the Lord if they had an opportunity. Pass the baskets once more, please, and do n't miss any one."

This effort was followed by a general hustling. When the baskets returned they contained eleven pennies. "Thank you, friends"—said Mr. King.—"I knew you would, all together, give a dollar."

The meeting broke up with a benediction.

Notes of Hotel Netherwood.

The second progressive euchre party of the season is announced for to-morrow evening. The subscription list is well filled, which means another display of beautiful prizes as in the recent initial game.

The Saturday evening hops are becoming noted events. Plainfield and Fanwood are always well represented by some of their fairest.

The promenade concert and ball for the benefit of Greenop's orchestra on the evening of the 30th inst., will be a prominent event of the season. The subscription list is rapidly approaching the two-hundred-dollar mark.

The hotel is well filled with prominent families from New York, Brooklyn and other points. Proprietor Miller is very earnest in his endeavors to please his guests, and so far has been most successful judging from the contented air reigning among his patrons. The jeunesse doree is well represented. The season of '91 promises to rank as high as in former seasons. J. A. H.

THE SINKING OF LAKE HOPATCONG.

Nothing Unusual in the Occurrence, and the Water Not So Low as it Has Often Been Before.

The New York daily papers, especially the World, having recently published some glaringly untruthful items about New Jersey's Lake George, sent to those journals undoubtedly by writers who think more of the lucre they receive for their writings than for the truth—a visitor of that beautiful and healthful resort sends to THE PRESS a few truthful lines about it.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

LAKE HOPATCONG, July 20.—The season at Lake Hopatcong thus far has not been up to the usual standard for gayety, in consequence of the scarcity of guests at the hotels and cottages; but better times are looked for in August and the fall months. Proprietors say their rooms are all engaged for next month.

There are but few camping parties here at present, where in past years there were dozens in the month of July. In fact, the season at the Lake thus far has been a dull one. Next month, however, the visitor may depend upon more life and enjoyment at this popular resort, which, with its magnificent sheet of water, beautiful drives, handsome residences and hotels, cool, bracing air, etc., has no rival in the State. A feature of enjoyment to the guests is the almost daily arrival of excursion parties from various parts of the State. It is in this connection that the Central railway management has done much to build up and make popular Lake Hopatcong. At Nolan's Point, which is at the centre of the Lake, the company have laid out elegant and commodious picnic grounds, which are placed at the disposal of excursion parties and the best of order maintained. The ride up the mountain from High Bridge, over the Central, is one of picturesque beauty; and the officials of the road are courteous and obliging. During the past week there were four excursion parties. On Friday that of the Morris and Essex railway employes brought 72 loaded cars, numbering some 3,500 excursionists, which is claimed to be the largest excursion party ever visiting the Lake before. When it is stated that all this vast amount of humanity was safely started homeward, after their day of unalloyed enjoyment, without an accident or unpleasant feature, it certainly reflects credit on the management of the railroad. The coming week will bring an excursion to the "Point" from various places every day.

Every year brings additional new steam and naptha launches and sailing vessels on the Lake, until now there are over twenty of the former and two side-wheel steamers, some of which make regular trips about the Lake. There are frequent sailing races between the yachts, and great interest is manifested in them by owners and guests. The last one was easily won by Commodore Moore's "Millie", of "The Moorings", against six competitors. On Saturday a number of members of the Trenton Canoe Club arrived and went into camp on Halsey Island, so we expect soon to see canoe racing.

The water in the Lake is low, as it usually is at this season of the year. The sensational writings of would-be "journalists" to New York papers about the waters being lower than ever before known, and that the bottom of the Lake has fallen out, because of a supposed subterranean passage, is all clear rot. The fact is, the canal company are obliged to draw off about an inch and a half of water each day for the purpose of filling the levels of the canal, and to keep up navigation. As there have been no heavy rains to fill up the springs which supply the water, the Lake has gradually gone down some three feet, and will go still farther down. It will have to be five feet lower than it is now to be as low as it "ever has been within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant". Why do people write such rot as has recently appeared in the World about Lake Hopatcong? The steamboats make their regular trips, land at their regular docks, and there is depth of water enough in the Lake to drown many regiments of such "journalists".

And now about fishing. I must confess the fishing is good, but the catches are scarce. The only explanation that can be given for this is the fact that the Lake abounds in small bait of the herring species, and where there is such a quantity of natural bait it would seem that the game fish have enough to eat without attacking a poor herring with a piece of barbed steel in its mouth. One thing is sure, there is a plenty of black bass, pickerel and perch in the Lake, and big ones, too, if we may judge by occasional phenomenal catches, when the wind is right and the fish are in a biting humor. Last Thursday Jim Decker landed an Oswego black bass, weighing eight and a half pounds. This is the largest caught this season, although others have been taken weighing from four to six and a half pounds. The fishing is liable to improve any day. It is only the patient angler who deserves success, and he is generally the one who gets it. There is less illegal fishing in the Lake than one would suppose. This is mostly due to the fear of arrest and prosecution at the hands of Fish Warden H. P. Frothingham, who watches the Lake pretty closely.

While lazily fishing one day last week, a beautiful and swift steam launch passed my boat. Glancing up, I saw the name of A. G. Canfield on a bright flag at the bow of the boat. The name brought to my recollection that honored citizen of Morris county and my life-long friend, in whose memory the launch has been named, and while thinking how sad was the sudden demise of Senator Canfield, the perpetuation of his name as above narrated evidenced that he still lived in the memory of his friends.

To all who desire recreation and health, we advise a visit to Lake Hopatcong.

GUESTS OF THE FANWOOD CLUB.

A Merry Supper and Jolly Dancing, But Bad Weather Postpones the Games.

The faithlessness of the weather clerk put something of a damper on the festivities of the Fanwood Club, Saturday. A delightful day's sport had been mapped out for the afternoon, to be followed by a dance in the evening. There was to have been a tennis tournament, for which numerous entries had been made, and croquet, but these of course had to be abandoned on account of the rain. The officers of the club, however, are no novices in providing amusement for their guests, and much indoor pleasure was furnished in the way of bowling, pool, billiards, fencing and whist.

From five to eight o'clock supper was served in the large lower room of the addition to the club-house, which was used Saturday for the first time. From eight until midnight dancing was enjoyed in the pretty ball room, music being furnished by a portion of the 23d Regiment band of Brooklyn.

The Fanwood Club is one of the most prosperous of the clubs along the line of the Jersey Central railway. Organized about four years ago, it has grown to large proportions. The club-house, as originally built, contained a parlor, card, billiard and wash rooms, and two very pretty bowling alleys. Last winter these quarters became too small for the increasing membership of the club, and it was decided to enlarge. The addition which has been built on the east side of the main building contains on the ground floor, which is some six or eight feet lower than the old one, a large room in which to keep the hook and ladder belonging to the fire company, of which all the Fanwood Club are members, the club kitchen and janitor's apartments.

On the second floor is a very pretty room, almost square, with a stage at one end, that can be used for assemblies of all kinds, balls, club meetings or theatricals. This room was handsomely decorated, Saturday, with flags of all kinds, and hung with lanterns. The floor was in good condition for dancing. The billiard room in the old building has been enlarged.

The grounds adjoining the club-house are large and very prettily laid out. They contain four first-class tennis courts, a croquet ground and an archery range.

The members of the Fanwood Club are especially fond of whist, and were prominent in getting up the tournament held in the spring between clubs on the line of the Central railway. They are also much interested in bowling and have had many contests with the Crescent League team.

A number of the club members are connected with the Twenty-third regiment of Brooklyn, which has tended to arouse an interest in marksmanship in the club.

The present officers of the club are: J. P. Stevens, President; Clarence W. Smith, Vice-president; Capt. Geo. F. Hamlin, Treasurer, and H. Robinson, Secretary.

Reading's Royal Route.

The Philadelphia and Reading railway, by means of its fine equipment, fast trains, luxurious parlor and sleeping cars, and the general foresight of its management, has succeeded in building up a great reputation as one of the most attractive routes to the various summer resorts. The prosperity of Atlantic City, particularly, is due in a great measure to the enterprise of this company. The Reading route affords unsurpassed facilities for reaching the sea, and a large majority of the travel to Atlantic City is over its line. The ride from Philadelphia to the sea coast is a delightful one. The road is double tracked, steel railed and stone ballasted, and as the engines use only hard coal there is no annoyance from dust, smoke or cinders. The company is running trains between Philadelphia and the sea shore in 73 minutes over its double track, which, by the way, is the only double track line to the coast. That this quick and absolutely safe service, together with the splendid equipment of the road, is appreciated by the public, is shown by the large proportion of the business which it does.

Westfield Pulpit Wit.

The Rev. W. W. Moffett, Superintendent of the American Bible Society for New Jersey and Delaware, and the Rev. J. K. Folwell, pastor of the Baptist church of Westfield, are both noted for their ever-ready wit in and out of the pulpit. The other day the gentlemen met on the platform of the Jersey Central at Elizabeth. A shower was passing, and Mr. Folwell came running in to escape it.

"Well, Brother Folwell,"—remarked Mr. Moffett to his Baptist brother—"I see that you have got sprinkled at last, and so fallen in with the popular way."

"Yes:"—responded Mr. Folwell, as he shook the rain-drops from his derby hat—"but it is not my way."

"Perhaps not, but it is the Lord's way"—was the quick rejoinder of the ever-ready Moffett. And then they locked arms and talked about the Bible cause until the train came to bear them to their homes in Westfield.

ROVER'S WISDOM.

How He Cooled His Dinner After a Great Deal of Thinking.

Rover's dinner was very hot. When Jane cooked it for him she poured it into his pan, and set it out on the grass to cool. Rover barked while she did it.

Rover had often thought it strange that his dinner should always be hot when it was poured into his pan. It did not stay hot. It got cool when it had been in the pan a bit, but it was always hot at first. He thought about it each day, while he dozed by the fire, and everybody said he was asleep, but he never could find out the reason.

He looked at the smoke coming out of the pan, and watched it blow away over the house. Then he lay down and barked at his dinner. He knew that so long as the smoke came out, the dinner would hurt his mouth if he tried to eat it. And sometimes he wondered what was the reason of that.

There was snow all over the grass. When Jane set out the pan, she put it upon the snow, so that it would cool faster. Rover knew that the snow was not pleasant to lie on, because it was cold.

When Rover had looked at his dinner, and at the smoke, and at the snow awhile, and thought how strange some things are, he got up and stood beside the pan.

First he tried to pull the scraps of meat out on the snow, but they hurt his mouth, and he barked again. Then he stooped, and, with his nose, pushed the snow over the edges of the pan until he had covered his dinner with snow, and cooled it so that he could eat it.

So his thoughts by the fire had done him some good. Was he not a wise dog?—Harper's Young People.

SLOW COACHES BEST.

Why Aunt Hannah Prefers Walking to a Railroad Excursion.

The great, roaring, hissing, steaming trains of engine and cars which pant and slip over the iron roads that net all lands, are still to the negroes who dwell deep in the black belt a source of constant wonderment. The swinging carriage, the almost silent stepping of bare feet along plantation paths is with them the approved method of locomotion.

But to the town-bred darky an excursion on the cars is a magnificent delight. Oftentimes some country negro or some old uncle or aunty who has not gotten out of old before-the-war ways is overpersuaded by curiosity to take passage for a short round trip on the train. Marvelous accounts on their return will these old people give. Aunt Hannah, for instance:

"I say: My soul! Ef I git off this thing and I never git on agin. I say: what's de voice dat can say 'Wo' or 'Gee!' loud enough fer ter make dis roarin' critter hear de words and turn ter de right or de lef! Other folks wuz laughin' an' talkin', Hannah wuz prayin'. Hannah can't laugh when she is in de arms er commotion, bein' swif' toted ter destruction! Hannah can't talk foolishness when she's in terrible danger drivin' towards de jaws of death."

Another negress—one who was prudent enough to have resisted the temptation to take her life in her hands by trusting herself to the steel-clasped steed of steam—congratulated herself on her constant prudence:

"No, sir! No, sir! I don't make use of no trains er cars, I don't. I is no ways given to ridin' high off de groun'! Time enough ter rise 'bove de good groun' when dese heah feet 'gin ter slip an' slide on de golden street. When I am on dese feet on dis heah groun', I know what's de pace an' motion I got ter count on, but when I mounts high I don't know how I am gwine move out, and dat's de reason I don't mount no cars, neither no carriage, an' mo'n dat neither horse nor yit goat. Give me walkin' an' no ridin'! Give me steppin' an' no slidin'!"—Martha Young, in Wide Awake.

An Elephant's Ideas.

Most of an elephant's skin is very callous, but some parts are exceedingly tender, and he is sensitive to the stings and bites of flies and other insects, which often cause him torture. Although he is so huge and powerful, he is not well adapted to fighting such enemies. His tail is too short to reach them, and his trunk not long enough to defend himself from the little pests. In his native forests he is said to snap branches off the trees, and with his trunk use them for brushes to drive off his tormentors. Sometimes he fans the air with this weapon to prevent the insects settling. A driver will use the branch of a tree to keep flies from his horse; but it is queer indeed to think that an elephant should have such a bright idea.—Harper's Young People.

It Would Be Large.

Six-year-old James, of Boston, and his New York cousin were disputing about the relative size of their respective cities, says the Boston Transcript.

Quotations from the census returns rather staggered the youthful Hubbite at first, but he soon brushed them aside with the remark:

"Well, I'll bet yer Boston's the biggest, if yer take in all the hubbubs."

Sassing His Employer.

Sampson was a clerk for one day only at the mammoth establishment of William Bobson, in Dallas, Tex. Bobson, although very wealthy, is also very illiterate. He was writing a letter, when he looked up and asked Sampson Jennings, who was at the next desk:

"How do you spell inducement—with a 'c' or an 's'?"

"Don't know," responded the new clerk.

"All the clerks I ever had except you knew how to spell."

"So did all the bosses I ever had," replied Jennings.

The contents verdicale was spilled over the floor; and a new man stands at the desk formerly occupied by Sampson Jennings.—Texas Siftings.

Chance to Save Money.

Agent—I am informed, sir, that you are about to build a new house, and I should like to sell you a book on architecture.

Mr. Suburb—Don't want it.

Agent—It may save you a lot of money, sir. May I inquire what sort of a house you intend to erect?

Mr. S.—I have accepted a plan for a $5,000 house.

Agent (triumphantly)—Well, sir, this book shows you how to build a $5,000 house for only $10,000.—N. Y. Weekly.

Benefits of Banking.

George—I say, Jack, change me a five, won't you?

Jack—I haven't more than enough for lunch and car fare in my pocket. Fact is, I don't carry money loose in my pockets any more. I put it in the bank and pay by check.

"I don't care to bother with checks. I always carry money in my pockets, and I never miss a cent."

"Y—e—s, but you are not married."—N. Y. Weekly.

Must Be Consistent.

"Gentlemen," remarked Jones to the seconds of a man whom he had unintentionally offended, and who had called to make arrangements for a duel, "I will fight your principal with swords, pistols or any other weapon he may select; but I must insist on one condition—on no account must a drop of blood be shed. I have just joined the anti-vivisection society."—Judge.

An Inference.

Little Fanny (to her twin sister)—Mr. Smith kissed Aunt Flora last night. I heard her say so.

Mamma (overhearing)—Come to me instantly, Fanny. What do you mean by telling such a story?

Fanny (stoutly)—Well, I heard auntie say she had something from Mr. Smith's own lips, and what else could it have been?—Harper's Bazar.

Rus in Urbe.

She—Your society refreshes me greatly.

He—Thank you. Then you won't mind if I stay another hour?

She—O dear, no! You have such a country air about you it's a perfect picnic to be in your presence.—Life.

Safety Assured.

Mr. Winks (solemnly)—A noted physician says that deadly bacteria lurk in bank notes, and many diseases, especially smallpox, are spread that way.

Mrs. Winks—Mercy on us! Give me all you have, right off. I've been vaccinated, you know.—Good News.

Losing a Grand Opportunity.

"Henderson has no sentiment," said Marie.

"Don't you think he has?"

"No. I refused to marry him and he hasn't plunged madly into dissipation, or done anything to show that he is a blighted being."—Judge.

Does the Heavy Emotional.

"Dr. Firstly isn't much of a preacher, yet all the women are in love with him."

"How do you account for it?"

"He is the best voice trembler in town."—Puck.

Been Out Over It.

Friend—How's real estate in the suburbs to-day?

Real Estate Agent (emptying the muddy water from his boots)—Out of sight, sir—simply out of sight!—Chicago Tribune.

Proof of Insanity.

Constable—This fellow is a burglar. I caught him trying to break into the residence of Mr. Gould, and—

Judge—Take the poor fellow to the lunatic asylum.—Munsey's Weekly.

The Worm Will Turn.

Talkative Man (on street car)—Fine weather for the gardens.

Sufferer (sitting next to him)—Yes. Raising anything besides onions in yours?—Chicago Tribune.

Fashion Note.

Mrs. Peterby—Do you think this hat matches my hair?

Mr. Peterby—Well, if it don't, it is easy enough for you to buy some other hair.—Texas Siftings.

Too Late.

"Remember, my son, it's never too late to mend."

"Yes, it is. Look at these pants."—Judge.

If Women, who complain of languor, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, and a weak, weary feeling, would throw "tonics," "bitters" and other patent medicines to the dogs and try before each meal a tablespoonful of TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey, they would find no need for patent trash. A FLIRTATION.

I've been flirting to-day with a baby
In the window right over the way,
And the neighbors are gossiping, maybe;
But I don't care a bit what they say.

He's a dear little curly-lashed fellow,
With eyes that are laughing and sweet;
His hair was like grain, golden yellow,
He'd blue shoes—for he showed me his feet.

He glanced at me, pleasantly smiling,
As though saying: "I wish you'd remain."
Then he tapped on the window beguiling
And flattened his nose 'gainst the pane.

He threw me a kiss for a greeting,
He showed me the lace on his dress;
But, ah! why are moments so fleeting?
The time came for luncheon, I guess.

Then I waved him good-by—oh, the saddest,
And smiled to him over the way,
And he looked, of all babies, the maddest,
When the nurse came and took him away.

But sometimes he will peep thro' the curtain
And hold the lace edges apart,
So I'll watch every day, for I'm certain
That baby has broken my heart!

—Kate Masterson, in Once a Week.

A NEEDY OUTSIDER.

And the Pathetic Story He Told the Reporters.

THERE was animation at the Nocturnal club at three o'clock in the morning. The city reporters who had been dropping in since midnight were now reinforced by telegraph editors—for the country editions of the big dailies were already being rushed in light wagons over the sounding stones to the railroad stations. The cheery and urbane African—naturally called Delmonico by the habitues of the Nocturnal club—found his time crowded in serving bottled beer, sandwiches or boiled eggs to the groups around the tables.

To a large group in the back room Fetterson related how he had once missed the last car at the distant extremity of West Philadelphia, and, failing to find a cab west of Broad street, had walked fifty blocks after midnight, and had still succeeded in getting his report in the second edition, and thus making a "beat on the town."

Then spoke up a needy outsider whom Fetterson had brought in at one o'clock.

I neglected to mention Fetterson's penchant for queer company. It is quite right that reporters know policemen, are on chaffing terms with nights cabmen, and have large acquaintance with pugilists and even with "crooks." But Fetterson picks up the most remarkable and out-of-the-way—not to speak of out-at-elbows—specimens of mankind, craft in distress on the sea of humanity. The needy outsider was his latest acquisition.

It is enough to say of this destitute acquaintance of Fetterson's that he was a ragged man needing a shave. In daylight, in the country, you would have termed him a tramp. Hitherto he had sat in our group in silence. When he opened his mouth to discourse, it was natural that he should have a prompt and somewhat curious hearing.

"Speaking of walking," he said, "I have walked a bit in my time. Mostly, though, I've rode—on freight cars. The longest straight tramp I ever made was from Harrisburg to Philadelphia once when the trains weren't running. The cold weather made walking pleasant. But what do you think of a woman—no tramp woman, either—starting from Pittsburgh to walk to Philadelphia?"

"Oh, there is a so-called actress who recently walked from San Francisco to New York," put in someone.

"Yes, but she took her time, and had all the necessaries of life on the way. She walked for an advertisement. The woman I speak of walked in order to get there. She walked because she hadn't the money to pay her fare. Her husband was with her to be sure. He was a pal o' mine. You see it was a hard winter, years ago, and work was so scarce in Pittsburgh that the husband had to remain idle until the two had begun to starve. He had some education, and had been an office clerk. At that time of his life he couldn't have stood manual labor. Still he tried to get it, for he was willing to do any thing to keep a lining to his skin. If you've never been in his predicament you can't realize how it is and you won't believe it possible. But I've known more than one man to starve because he couldn't get work and wouldn't take public charity. Starvation was the prospect of this young fellow and his wife. So they decided to leave Pittsburgh and come to Philadelphia, where they thought it would be easier for the husband to get work.

"'But how can we get there?' the husband asked.

"She was a plucky girl and had known hardship, although she was frail to look at.

"'Walk,' she replied.

"And two days later, they started."

The outsider paused, and lighted a forbidding-looking pipe.

When he resumed his narrative he spoke in a lower tone. The recollections that he called up seemed to stir him within, although he was calm enough of exterior.

"I won't describe the experiences of my pal on that trip. It was his first tramp. He knew nothing of the art of vagabondage. Of course they had to beg. That was tough, although he got used to it and to many tricks in the trade. They slept in barns and they ate when and where they could. It cut him to the heart to see his wife in such hunger and fatigue. But her spirits kept up better than his—or at least they seemed to. Often he repented of having started upon such a trip. But he kept that to himself.

"When the wife at last did give in to the cold, the hunger and the weariness, it was to collapse all at once. It happened in the mountain country. In the evening of a cold, dull day they were trudging along on the railroad ties, keeping on the westbound track so they could face approaching trains and get off the track in time to avoid being run down.

"'We'll stop in the town ahead,' the husband said, 'we can get warm in the station, and you shall have supper if we have to knock at every door in the town.'

"And the wife said:

"'Yes, we'll stop; for I feel, Harry, as if—as if I couldn't—go any further, Harry, where are you?'

"She fell forward on the track. When the man picked her up she was unconscious. Clasping her in his arms he set his teeth and fixed his eyes on the lights of the town ahead and hurried forward.

"But before he reached the town he found it was a dead body he was carrying.

"You see she had kept up till the very last moment in the hope of reaching the town before dark.

"What the man did, how he felt when he discovered that her heart had ceased to beat there in the solitude upon the mountains, with the town in sight at the foot of the slope in the gathering night, I can leave to the vivid imaginations of you newspaper men. For four hours he mourned over her body by the side of the track, and those in the trains that passed could not see him for the darkness.

"Then my pal took the body in his arms and started up the mountain, for the track at that point passed through what they call a cut, and the hills rise steep on each side of it. He had his prejudices against pauper burial, my pal had, and he shrunk from going to the town and begging a grave for her. He didn't need a doctor's certificate to tell him that life had gone forever from her fragile body. He knew that she had died of cold and exhaustion.

"WE'LL STOP IN THE TOWN AHEAD."

"As he turned the base of the hill to begin to ascend it, he saw in the clouded moonlight a deserted railroad toolhouse by the track. In front of it lay a broken, rusty spade. He shouldered this and proceeded up the mountain.

"It was a long walk and he had to stop more than once to rest, but he got to the top at last. There was a little clearing in the woods here, where some one had camped. The ruins of a shanty still remained.

"My pal laid down the body of her who had been his wife, with the dead face turned toward the sky, which was beginning to be cleared of its clouds. Then he began to dig.

"It was a longer job than he had expected it to be, for my pal was tired and numb. But the grave was made at last, upon the very summit of the mountain.

"He lifted the body of the brave girl, he kissed the cold lips, and, he took off his coat and wrapped it carefully about the head, so that the face would be protected from the earth. He stooped and laid the body in the shallow grave, and he knelt down there and prayed.

"He filled the grave up with earth with the broken spade that he had used in digging it. All these things required a long time. He didn't observe how the night was passing, nor that the sky became clear and the stars shone and the moon crossed the zenith and began to descend in the west. He didn't notice that the stars began to pale. But he worked on until he had finished. And then he stopped and prayed again.

"When he arose his face was toward the east; and over the distant hill-tops he saw the purple of the dawn."

The outsider ceased to speak.

"What then?"

"That's all. My pal walked down the mountain, jumped upon the first freight train that passed, and has been a wanderer on the face of the earth ever since."

There were various opinions expressed of this narrative. I quietly asked the needy outsider, as we left the club at sunrise:

"Will you tell me who your pal was—the man who buried his wife on the mountain top?"

There was contemptuous pity in the outsider's look as it dwelt for a moment upon me before he replied: "The man was myself."

And then he condescended to borrow a quarter from me.—E. N. Stephens, in Philadelphia Press.

A STARTLING STORY

Five Murders Confessed by a Woman on Her Deathbed.

AN OLD TRAGEDY RECALLED.

A Crime Credited to Frank Hancock Committed by His Wife.

With the Aid of Two Men She Chloroformed Her Husband and Killed Him—Being Discovered by Her Children She Seized a Butcher Knife and Stabbed Them to Death.

AUSTIN, Pa., July 22.—A startling story comes from one of the lumber camps at Kettle Creek, this county, the truth of which interested parties have started out to investigate. In April, 1889, the people of all this region were horrified by the news that Frank Hancock, a lumberman living at Blue run, near the Tioga and Potter county line, had murdered four of his children and then committed suicide by hanging himself in his house. The news was made known by Hancock's wife, who had been absent from home on the night of the tragedy.

Her story was that she had gone home and found the four children lying dead, some in the house and some in the yard. They had been stabbed and frightfully mutilated with a big butcher knife. The oldest child was 11 years old. A fifth child, a babe, was asleep and uninjured in a pool of blood at the side of one of its murdered sisters. A note, apparently in the handwriting of her husband, was found in the house, in which he confessed the terrible crime, giving as his reason his desire to rid himself of his wife and children because of her conduct.

A Startling Story.

A few days ago a messenger from the Kettle Creek camp went to Coudersport, the county seat of Potter County, with the startling story that Mrs. Hancock had died in the camp, and that before dying she had made a confession, which not only acquitted the husband of the murder of the children and himself, but which declares that she herself and two of her paramours, whom she named, but whose names are not made public, murdered her husband and the children.

The confession is to the effect that she had become alarmed at the threats her husband had made against her because of her persistent unfaithfulness to him, and, egged on by the two men, she resolved, with their aid, to put Hancock out of the way. The plan was to chloroform him while he was asleep, hang him to a rafter and place a note in his pocket, as if written by himself, stating that he had committed suicide and why.

Butchered the Children.

Mrs. Hancock succeeded in chloroforming her husband while he was asleep in bed, and the two men, who were waiting for the signal, entered the house, provided with a rope and were hanging Hancock when the oldest child awoke, rose up in bed, and, seeing the strange men, made an outcry. The mother herself seized a butcher knife and tried to frighten the child into silence, and failing, she stabbed it to death. The other four children, being wakened by the noise, were all butchered as the first had been, to silence them. The babe, being too young to be dangerous to the murderess, was not harmed.

A new note then had to be written to include the murder of the children, as well as the suicide, and Mrs. Hancock, according to the alleged confession, wrote it, surrounded by the victims of the horrible night's work. She and the two men then went away, and the next day she made the announcement of the frightful discovery she had made on coming home.

A man who lives in Austin came from Coudersport yesterday, and he says that the story, horrible as it is, is generally believed there. Further developments are expected in a few days.

SHUT DOWN THE WORKS.

The Pennsylvania Steel Company Will Not Sign the Scale.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22.—A committee of the Amalgamated Association called upon Major Bent, president of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, in relation to the signing of the new scale, but received no encouragement.

The company has ordered the entire works shut down and the furnaces are being banked. Nearly 4,000 men are thrown out of employment. It is probable that the struggle will be a long and bitter one.

Secretary Foster at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 22.—Secretary Foster arrived here this morning, where he will spend a couple of days with the President. Wednesday is Treasury day at the White House, and as the Secretary has missed a couple of these days since the President's vacation began, he has an accumulation of Treasury matters and appointments which require immediate attention. Secretary Foster expects to return to Washington Friday or Saturday.

Break in the Erie Canal.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 22.—There is a break in the Erie Canal near Montezuma. It is on the Montezuma level at the Crane Brook aqueduct. It will take the rest of the week to repair the break. Navigation is stopped.

Masons in Sessions.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—The General Grand Council of the United States of the Royal and Select Master Masons is now holding its fourth triennial assembly here.

Prince Alexander Better.

LONDON, July 22.—Prince Alexander, of Battenberg, formerly Prince of Bulgaria, who has been seriously ill, is now recovering.

SHOT BY AN INDIAN.

A Young Lady in Lynn, Mass., Wounded While Walking the Street.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 22.—Miss Mary Powers, of Lowell, Mass., was shot and seriously wounded last night by Dr. H. Hawkins, an Indian physician, who recently came here from the West.

Hawkins, who is a tall, powerfully built man, has been drinking very hard of late, and has become a terror to the people in the vicinity of Rodman street, where he lived.

He was in the habit of strapping a belt around his waist in which were thrust a couple of huge horse pistols, which he would draw and brandish in the air, occasionally firing a shot or so.

About 9 o'clock last night he ran into the road and fired two shots. Miss Powers, who is visiting here, was passing along the street and one of the bullets struck and entered her right foot. The doctors say the wound is serious, as there are chances of lockjaw setting in.

The news of the shooting spread and nearly 2,000 people gathered in the neighborhood of the house. A squad of policemen soon arrived and surrounded the place, but could not enter for a long time, as Hawkins threatened to shoot the first intruder. He is known to be a dead shot and the police hesitated for a long time before they summoned up courage enough to enter the place. Finally eight of them rushed into the place and succeded in disarming Hawkins, who was then taken to the station in irons.

COL. DUDLEY MAY RESIGN.

He Will Probably Retire from the Republican National Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—It is stated here on reliable authority that Col. W. W. Dudley will probably resign as treasurer of the Republican National Committee during the meeting in Philadelphia on the 29th inst.

It is said that for a long while past Col. Dudley has been unable to give his personal attention to his duties as treasurer, and as keeping the committee accounts involves considerable daily labor, he is anxious to be relieved of the task.

Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin is likely to be chosen treasurer, though some of the Eastern committeemen urge that, with Mr. Clarkson as chairman, the treasurership should not also go to the West.

Colonel A. L. Conger of Ohio would be more acceptable to them on these geographical grounds, and if Payne is not named Conger will probably get the place.

WILL RAISE ANOTHER FUND.

Johnstown Flood Sufferers to Bring Suit Against the Fishing Club.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 22.—The subscribers to the fund to bring suit against the South Fork Fishing Club for damages sustained on account of the flood, have decided to engage other lawyers than those retained some time ago.

This fund had been raised over a year ago, and several attorneys engaged to investigate and report on the prospect of winning a suit against the above-named club, but their report was not satisfactory.

Yesterday the Hon. A. H. Coffroth of Somerset was before the committee and submitted a proposition which it was decided to accept, and another fund is to be raised to bring suits. A prominent Pittsburg lawyer, not yet decided upon, will be engaged to assist Mr. Coffroth.

THEY FIGHT A DUEL.

Two New Jersey Swains Have Trouble Over a Love Affair.

PEMBERTON, N. J., July 22.—Early in the morning the residents of North Pemberton were thrown into a state of excitement by pistol shots.

A half hundred residents rushed out and found Jack Green and Fred Kuensler, two machinists employed at the Smithville machine shops, in deadly combat. Kuensler was badly beaten and almost unconscious.

The troubles of the young men resulted from a dispute about a girl named Foulkes, whom both visited. The previous night they met the girl, and both remained until a late hour. On their return to Smithville they quarreled, and Kuensler fired his pistol—whether at Green or into the air is not known. Green attacked Kuensler and beat him badly.

The affair creates a great scandal in this locality.

Suit Under the Civil Damage Act.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 22.—Suit for $10,000 damages under the Civil Damage act has been brought against a hotel keeper who sold liquor to Henry Fredenburgh at Stevensville, Sullivan county, on May 6, resulting in his death. Fredenburgh, who was 76 years old, was found frozen to death along the roadside near Livingston Manor from the effects of liquor and exposure.

All Quiet at Duquesne.

PITTSBURG, July 22.—There is no trouble at Duquesne. The non-union men went to work at the Allegheny Bessemer Steel Works, and all is quiet. Crowds of strikers are about the plant, but no attempt at interference has been made. Sheriff McCleary and his deputies are still on duty.

PATTISON'S ACTION

Pennsylvania's Governor After State Officials.

MANY ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED.

All Persons Connected with the Bardsley Rascality to Be Prosecuted.

An Effort to Be Made to Recover the Stolen State Funds—Robert Glendenning Has Skipped off Quietly to Europe—Powerful Influence Exerted to Save Prominent Philadelphians from Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—The general expectation that some decided action will be taken by the State officials in reference to the disclosures made by the experts authorized by Mayor Stuart to investigate Bardsley's accounts involving the State Treasurer's office and Auditor General McCammant's connection with the Bardsley frauds, is not likely to be disappointed.

Governor Pattison has referred the report of the experts to the Attorney-General to take civil action to recover the stolen State funds, and to prosecute those who have in any way made themselves amenable to the criminal laws of the State.

There is every reason to expect that information will be laid and that the arrest and vigorous prosecution of prominent State officers will follow.

The State authorities have found that Robert Glendenning, of Robert Glendenning & Co., the bankers and brokers who do heavy business for the Kemble-Widener-Elkins Traction Syndicate, and through whom Bardsley made investments of State money on which he lost over $100,000, slipped off quietly to Europe within the past two weeks. This will be interesting news to the investigators.

It is said that powerful influence is being exerted to save certain Philadelphians who see the possibility of prison cells opening for them.

ELLINGSWORTH WHIPPED.

Knocked Out in the Fifth Round by the "Black Pearl."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—The finish fight between Joe Ellingsworth, of New York, the ex-amateur middleweight champion of America, and Harris Martin, better known as the "Black Pearl," of this city, last night, attracted a throng that more than tested the capacity of the amphitheatre of the Twin City Athletic Club.

Time was called at 10:30. In the first round both men sparred for an opening, Ellingsworth doing the leading. He succeeded in getting in a couple of good body blows before time was called.

In the second round Ellingsworth led off with right and left, nearly sending the Pearl to the ground. The latter rushed and a half dozen smart blows were exchanged. The Pearl followed up an advantage, drawing first blood from Ellingsworth's nack, and sent him to ground as the bell sounded.

The Pearl started in to rush things in the third round, and a vigorous upper cut, followed with a left lunge, sent Ellingsworth on his back. He went down a second time from a blow behind the left ear. A general exchange of body and face blows followed, Ellingsworth being beaten onto the press table and his blood spattering the paper and lines of the reporters. A stomach blow sent him down once more.

The New Yorker was hardly able to stand on his feet when he came up for the fourth round. The audience yelled "Throw up the sponge," and "Don't murder the man," but Ellingsworth was game. The Pearl rained blow after blow upon his face and body, sending him down in his corner four times in almost as many seconds.

The fifth and last round was a repetition of the previous one, Ellingsworth making but an infant's resistance, while blood flowed from his face, an upper cut reeling him across the ring. He tried to rise, but fell back just as Quinn threw up the sponge, and one of the spectators tumbled over in a swoon. The Pearl was next door to untouched.

The Asbury Park Beer Bottler Convicted.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 22.—Wm. R. Jarmer, the beer bottler, who was arrested some days ago for violating the liquor law in selling beer without an order, was convicted before Judge Wickoff. The case has been pressed by the Law and Order League.

Pennsylvania Defeats Canada.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 22.—The cricket match between the Germantown, Pa., and the Hamilton teams resulted in a victory for Germantown by an inning and four runs. The score was: Germantown, 106 in one inning; Hamilton, 52 and 50.

Ex-Gov. Waller's Son Has Returned.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Martin R. Waller, son of ex-Gov. Waller, of Connecticut, has returned to Greenport, L. I., and resumed his duties as secretary and treasurer. He said the story about the defalcation was untrue.

TO-NIGHT'S BATTLE.

Fitzsimmons and Hall are in the Finest Condition.

ST. PAUL, July 22.—About 500 citizens called on Governor Merriam and asked him to enforce the law against prize fighting in the case of the announced sparring match for to-night between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Hall.

The Governor said he had no jurisdiction in the case; that it was the place of the municipal authorities to enforce the law.

A great crowd of sports are in the city. It is evident that the majority of them are Western men, as interest in the event seems to be not so great in the East.

The men are in the finest condition. Betting grows a little brisker and Hall gets a better show, Fitzsimmons latest odds being only about 10 to 8.

Hall and Fitzsimmons were arrested and gave bonds to "keep the peace." This, it is expected, will relieve them of all further trouble from the officials, and will enable them to fight to-night.

HIS TOES NEARLY GONE.

New York Authorities Finally Take the Leper in Charge.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Chin Hop, the leper laundryman, has been sent to Blackwell's Island by the health board.

When the wagon called for him the Chinaman looked as if he had fallen into a tub of smear case, having been plastered with fake cure-alls by medical cranks who had got hold of him.

The doctors will study his case closely from a distance.

His toes will soon drop off, and the dread malady has already made its appearance between his fingers.

Pitcher Tim Keefe Released.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Pitcher Tim Keefe has been released by the New York Baseball Club. Keefe said that he had asked for his release and it was given to him. He also said he was told early in the season that he had been hired simply as a "bench" player, and now he knows it is true. He has not yet made up his mind as to what he will do.

The Endymion Arrives Safely.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The overdue steamship Endymion, which was recently reported disabled, reached her dock here during the morning, and her crew are now busily engaged in unloading her cargo. On the night of July 9, the forward crank shaft of the Endymion broke and it took six days to repair it. The vessel again got under way and reached port without further incident.

An Old Lady Struck by a Train.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 22.—Mrs. Sarah Farrell, aged 50, was struck by the noon train from Haverhill on a street crossing here and received injuries from which she died half an hour later. She had been employed in the Monroe paper mill and was carrying them their dinner when the accident happened.

McHenry's Death Not Due to Poison.

LONDON, July 22.—The post mortem examination of the remains of the late James McHenry, the late Erie Railway litigant, whose life was said to be heavily insured, and who was supposed to have died from the effects of poisoning, has been concluded. The result shows that there is no ground for the suspicion that Mr. McHenry's death was caused by poisoning.

THE MINERS QUIET

READY TO MOVE ON BRICEVILLE.

The Telegraph Offices Seized by the Miners and Press Dispatches Watched.

A Meeting Held and Resolutions Passed to Protect the Company's Property—The Governor Confers With the Attorney-General—Matters Complicated by the Sheriff's Disappearance.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 25.—Thrilling scenes were enacted in this city during the day, and the excitement caused by the return of troops and convicts from Briceville is unabated.

The presence of the largest body of troops seen here since the war, and the fact that they may be momentarily called upon to go to battle with four times their number of determined men, each an adept in the use of firearms, has caused the streets to be crowded since daybreak. The decision of the Governor, who has been in consultation with the Attorney-General all day, has not yet been received, and the troops are taking much needed rest.

NO REGULAR TROOPS NEAR.

Tennessee's Governor May Appeal to Washington for Help.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—It is reported that the Governor of Tennessee is considering the advisability of appealing to President Harrison to send a regiment of United States Regulars to the scene of the mining troubles. The War Department has received no official information from the authorities of Tennessee concerning the reported labor troubles in that State, nor has any request for United States troops to suppress the miners been made. Should such a request be made, it would be some time before the department could get troops to the scene of the trouble, as there is no military post of importance nearer than St. Louis.

PEACE IF POSSIBLE.

The Miners Pledge Themselves to Guard the Company's Property.

KNOXVILLE, July 22.—A meeting of miners was held at Briceville at noon. When the men assembled there were a few hot heads who began to talk about fire, but they were outsiders and not miners. The miners' leaders took possession of the meeting and would not allow such talk.

A resolution was unanimously passed, each man pledging himself on his honor that not one dollar's worth of property would be destroyed and the company's property should be guarded. It was further determined that no one should offer violence except in self defense. There is a sense of relief and quiet since the meeting. The miners seem to feel that they are now taking the proper course. There was some talk of attacking troops coming to arrest the leaders. The meeting has resulted in good, for the men are now quiet.

THE MINERS CAREFUL.

They Control the Wires and Revise All Press Dispatches.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—Every military company in Tennessee was in this city this morning awaiting orders from the Governor to go to the seat of trouble at Briceville. There are 19 companies in all and contain nearly 600 men.

Careful estimates place the number of miners at Coal Creek and Briceville at 1,500, but the first signs of hostilities would doubtless call out 1,000 more.

The miners have appointed a committee to say what despatches shall be sent out and what not, but this committee or some of it are in the telegraph offices all the time and read all the matter sent out by the newspaper men.

The committee, whether self-appointed or under the miner's organization, told the operator on duty at the key that if he did not let them read the messages they would cut the wires.

A report has come from Coal Creek saying the miners declare that no troops can be landed there.

There are threats that they will wreck the trains or burn railroad bridges.

The mob celebrated its victory by cheering, carousing and shooting. A force of 500 men, properly equipped and led, could subdue the entire mob, for the rioters have no idea of openly facing a good force. They know from the statements made to them Monday that the troops would not fight, but every rioter feels that the mob has made a mistake, and that it now will be subdued.

Intense anxiety is felt as to the outcome of the trouble. Large quantities of ammunition and provisions have arrived at Knoxville for the troops. The stockade in the valley is deserted, but will be occupied by troops soon.

Sir Hector Says He Won't Resign.

OTTAWA, July 22.—A press correspondent asked Sir Hector Langevin during the evening what his intentions were in view of the demands for his resignation. He replied that the testimony he would offer in his defence before the investigating committee would put an entirely different face on the matter, and added that he had no intention of resigning, as he was confident the committee would exonerate him.

Senator W. H. Ross Dead.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., July 22.—Senator W. H. Ross died very suddenly from heart disease yesterday morning at his home in Fort Gibson. He was a half-breed about 68 years old; was educated at Princeton College by his uncle, Chief John Ross. He started public life at the age of 22 and has held almost every office in the gift of the Cherokee nation. All business here has been suspended by order of the Mayor.

CAHENSLY REBUKED.

The Pope is Pleased With President Harrison's Views.

BALTIMORE, July 22.—A dispatch from Rome says that President Harrison's views on the matter advocated by Herr Cahensly and the St. Raphael Societies, as outlined to Cardinal Gibbons at the accidental meeting which took place between the President and the Cardinal at Cape May on Wednesday, July 15, were cabled to Rome and communicated to the Vatican. The President's views, it is announced, proved an excellent impression upon the Pope, who declared that he has never favored the plan of appointing bishops of the nationalities of the Roman Catholic communities in the United States, as advocated by Herr Cahensly and the St. Raphael societies.

President Harrison told Cardinal Gibbons that while not disposed to interfere in church matters, he was glad to have the opportunity of expressing satisfaction at the subject, and at the rebuke administered at home and abroad to foreign interference in domestic affairs of the United States.

THE RAILS SPREAD.

A Passenger Train Bound to Gettysburg Jumped the Track.

CARLISLE, Pa., July 22.—A passenger train on the Philadelphia, Harrisburg & Pittsburg Railroad, bound from Harrisburg to Gettysburg, jumped the track near here while running at full speed.

Express Messenger Watson was probably fatally injured, while David Lewis, of Reading, solicitor of the Philadelphia Times, and Conductor Dumbaugh were severely cut and bruised.

The track was torn up for a great distance, totally suspending traffic. The spreading of the rails caused the accident.

MAY GIVE HER A NEW TRIAL.

Mrs. Maybrick Has a Chance to Secure Her Freedom.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A dispatch from London says that the Exchange Telegraph Co. claims to have the highest legal authority for making the assertion that in consequence of the action of the Life Insurance Association in refusing to pay the $1,000 insurance on the late Mr. Maybrick's life, as his death was caused by the person for whose benefit the action was brought, a re-trial will be necessary, as Mrs. Maybrick can compel the insurance company to prove that she murdered her husband.

The dispatch adds that, according to English law, a conviction is not proof between other parties, but only between the prosecution and prisoner.

MISS WARDEN'S ASSASSIN.

Still Hunting for Him in the Woods at Hanover.

HANOVER, N. H., July 22.—Despite the intelligence from Canada that a man who answers in all respects the description of Murderer Almy crossed the line on Monday morning and bought a railway ticket for Sherbrooke, the enraged citizens of this community continue their search of the woods in the hope of finding him in hiding.

The conviction, however, is getting pretty strong here that Almy is not in Hanover or vicinity. The evidence seems to multiply that he escaped immediately after committing the murder, and the great point seems to be to determine in what direction he went, in order that clues from abroad may be followed with greater intelligence.

The people of the village are thoroughly exhausted with their four days' search.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Congregational International Council at London has adjourned.

The Chinamen who were smuggled across the Canadian border at Franklin, Vt., have been sent back to Canada.

Miss Hattie Porter of Hartford becomes the richest woman in Connecticut through a bequest of $600,000 just received under the will of Solomon Porter.

The assets of the Higganum Manufacturing Company of Higganum, Conn., are about $200,000, while the liabilities are understood to be between $900,000 and $400,000.

Fire in the Dungin building at Haverhill, Mass., caused a damage of $30,000. The principal losers are J. H. Dungin & Sons, J. W. Greenlay & Son and Charles Griffin, all shoe manufacturers.

Rev. W. T. Chase of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church of Boston, Mass., has declined to reconsider the resignation and will accept the call to the Fifth Baptist Church of Philadelphia.

Hermann Normandoes of Chickies, Pa., while fooling with two companions in a boat on the Susquehanna river, capsized it, throwing all three into the water. Normandoes was drowned and his two companions were with difficulty rescued.

A STARTLING STORY

Five Murders Confessed by a Woman on Her Deathbed.

AN OLD TRAGEDY RECALLED.

A Crime Credited to Frank Hancock Committed by His Wife.

With the Aid of Two Men She Chloroformed Her Husband and Killed Him—Being Discovered by Her Children She Seized a Butcher Knife and Stabbed Them to Death.

AUSTIN, Pa., July 22.—A startling story comes from one of the lumber camps at Kettle Creek, this county, the truth of which interested parties have started out to investigate. In April, 1889, the people of all this region were horrified by the news that Frank Hancock, a lumberman living at Blue run, near the Tioga and Potter county line, had murdered four of his children and then committed suicide by hanging himself in his house. The news was made known by Hancock's wife, who had been absent from home on the night of the tragedy.

Her story was that she had gone home and found the four children lying dead, some in the house and some in the yard. They had been stabbed and frightfully mutilated with a big butcher knife. The oldest child was 11 years old. A fifth child, a babe, was asleep and uninjured in a pool of blood at the side of one of its murdered sisters. A note, apparently in the handwriting of her husband, was found in the house, in which he confessed the terrible crime, giving as his reason his desire to rid his wife of himself and children because of her conduct.

A Startling Story.

A few days ago a messenger from the Kettle Creek camp went to Coudersport, the county seat of Potter County, with the startling story that Mrs. Hancock had died in the camp, and that before dying she had made a confession, which not only acquitted the husband of the murder of the children and himself, but which declares that she herself and two of her paramours, whom she named, but whose names are not made public, murdered her husband and the children.

The confession is to the effect that she had become alarmed at the threats her husband had made against her because of her persistent unfaithfulness to him, and, egged on by the two men, she resolved, with their aid, to put Hancock out of the way. The plan was to chloroform him while he was asleep, hang him to a rafter and place a note in his pocket, as if written by himself, stating that he had committed suicide and why.

Butchered the Children.

Mrs. Hancock succeeded in chloroforming her husband while he was asleep in bed, and the two men, who were waiting for the signal, entered the house, provided with a rope and were hanging Hancock when the oldest child awoke, rose up in bed, and, seeing the strange men, made an outcry. The mother herself seized a butcher knife and tried to frighten the child into silence, and failing, she stabbed it to death. The other four children, being wakened by the noise, were all butchered as the first had been, to silence them. The babe, being too young to be dangerous to the murderess, was not harmed.

A new note then had to be written to include the murder of the children, as well as the suicide, and Mrs. Hancock, according to the alleged confession, wrote it, surrounded by the victims of the horrible night's work. She and the two men then went away, and the next day she made the announcement of the frightful discovery she had made on coming home.

A man who lives in Austin came from Coudersport yesterday, and he says that the story, horrible as it is, is generally believed there. Further developments are expected in a few days.

SHUT DOWN THE WORKS.

The Pennsylvania Steel Company Will Not Sign the Scale.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22.—A committee of the Amalgamated Association called upon Major Bent, president of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, in relation to the signing of the new scale, but received no encouragement.

The company has ordered the entire works shut down and the furnaces are being banked. Nearly 4,000 men are thrown out of employment. It is probable that the struggle will be a long and bitter one.

Secretary Foster at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 22.—Secretary Foster arrived here this morning, where he will spend a couple of days with the President. Wednesday is Treasury day at the White House, and as the Secretary has missed a couple of these days since the President's vacation began, he has an accumulation of Treasury matters and appointments which require immediate attention. Secretary Foster expects to return to Washington Friday or Saturday.

Break in the Erie Canal.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 22.—There is a break in the Erie Canal near Montezuma. It is on the Montezuma level at the Crane Brook aqueduct. It will take the rest of the week to repair the break. Navigation is stopped.

Masons in Sessions.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—The General Grand Council of the United States of the Royal and Select Master Masons is now holding its fourth triennial assembly here.

Prince Alexander Better.

LONDON, July 22.—Prince Alexander, of Battenberg, formerly Prince of Bulgaria, who has been seriously ill, is now recovering.

SHOT BY AN INDIAN.

A Young Lady in Lynn, Mass., Wounded While Walking the Street.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 22.—Miss Mary Powers, of Lowell, Mass., was shot and seriously wounded last night by Dr. H. Hawkins, an Indian physician, who recently came here from the West.

Hawkins, who is a tall, powerfully built man, has been drinking very hard of late, and has become a terror to the people in the vicinity of Rodman street, where he lived.

He was in the habit of strapping a belt around his waist in which were thrust a couple of huge horse pistols, which he would draw and brandish in the air, occasionally firing a shot or so.

About 9 o'clock last night he ran into the road and fired two shots. Miss Powers, who is visiting here, was passing along the street and one of the bullets struck and entered her right foot. The doctors say the wound is serious, as there are chances of lockjaw setting in.

The news of the shooting spread and nearly 2,000 people gathered in the neighborhood of the house. A squad of policemen soon arrived and surrounded the place, but could not enter for a long time, as Hawkins threatened to shoot the first intruder. He is known to be a dead shot and the police hesitated for a long time before they summoned up courage enough to enter the place. Finally eight of them rushed into the place and succeded in disarming Hawkins, who was then taken to the station in irons.

COL. DUDLEY MAY RESIGN.

He Will Probably Retire from the Republican National Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—It is stated here on reliable authority that Col. W. W. Dudley will probably resign as treasurer of the Republican National Committee during the meeting in Philadelphia on the 29th inst.

It is said that for a long while past Col. Dudley has been unable to give his personal attention to his duties as treasurer, and as keeping the committee accounts involves considerable daily labor, he is anxious to be relieved of the task.

Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin is likely to be chosen treasurer, though some of the Eastern committeemen urge that, with Mr. Clarkson as chairman, the treasurership should not also go to the West.

Colonel A. L. Conger of Ohio would be more acceptable to them on these geographical grounds, and if Payne is not named Conger will probably get the place.

WILL RAISE ANOTHER FUND.

Johnstown Flood Sufferers to Bring Suit Against the Fishing Club.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 22.—The subscribers to the fund to bring suit against the South Fork Fishing Club for damages sustained on account of the flood, have decided to engage other lawyers than those retained some time ago.

This fund had been raised over a year ago, and several attorneys engaged to investigate and report on the prospect of winning a suit against the above-named club, but their report was not satisfactory.

Yesterday the Hon. A. H. Coffroth of Somerset was before the committee and submitted a proposition which it was decided to accept, and another fund is to be raised to bring suits. A prominent Pittsburg lawyer, not yet decided upon, will be engaged to assist Mr. Coffroth.

THEY FIGHT A DUEL.

Two New Jersey Swains Have Trouble Over a Love Affair.

PEMBERTON, N. J., July 22.—Early in the morning the residents of North Pemberton were thrown into a state of excitement by pistol shots.

A half hundred residents rushed out and found Jack Green and Fred Kuensler, two machinists employed at the Smithville machine shops, in deadly combat. Kuensler was badly beaten and almost unconscious.

The troubles of the young men resulted from a dispute about a girl named Foulkes, whom both visited. The previous night they met the girl, and both remained until a late hour. On their return to Smithville they quarreled, and Kuensler fired his pistol—whether at Green or into the air is not known. Green attacked Kuensler and beat him badly.

The affair creates a great scandal in this locality.

Suit Under the Civil Damage Act.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 22.—Suit for $10,000 damages under the Civil Damage act has been brought against a hotel keeper who sold liquor to Henry Fredenburgh at Stevensville, Sullivan county, on May 6, resulting in his death. Fredenburgh, who was 73 years old, was found frozen to death along the roadside near Livingston Manor from the effects of liquor and exposure.

All Quiet at Duquesne.

PITTSBURG, July 22.—There is no trouble at Duquesne. The non-union men went to work at the Allegheny Bessemer Steel Works, and all is quiet. Crowds of strikers are about the plant, but no attempt at interference has been made. Sheriff McCleary and his deputies are still on duty.

PATTISON'S ACTION

Pennsylvania's Governor After State Officials.

MANY ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED.

All Persons Connected with the Bardsley Rascality to Be Prosecuted.

An Effort to Be Made to Recover the Stolen State Funds—Robert Glendenning Has Skipped off Quietly to Europe—Powerful Influence Exerted to Save Prominent Philadelphians from Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—The general expectation that some decided action will be taken by the State officials in reference to the disclosures made by the experts authorized by Mayor Stuart to investigate Bardsley's accounts involving the State Treasurer's office and Auditor General McCammant's connection with the Bardsley frauds, is not likely to be disappointed.

Governor Pattison has referred the report of the experts to the Attorney-General to take civil action to recover the stolen State funds, and to prosecute those who have in any way made themselves amenable to the criminal laws of the State.

There is every reason to expect that information will be laid and that the arrest and vigorous prosecution of prominent State officers will follow.

The State authorities have found that Robert Glendenning, of Robert Glendenning & Co., the bankers and brokers who do heavy business for the Kemble-Widener-Elkins Traction Syndicate, and through whom Bardsley made investments of State money on which he lost over $100,000, slipped off quietly to Europe within the past two weeks. This will be interesting news to the investigators.

It is said that powerful influence is being exerted to save certain Philadelphians who see the possibility of prison cells opening for them.

ELLINGSWORTH WHIPPED.

Knocked Out in the Fifth Round by the "Black Pearl."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—The finish fight between Joe Ellingsworth, of New York, the ex-amateur middleweight champion of America, and Harris Martin, better known as the "Black Pearl," of this city, last night, attracted a throng that more than tested the capacity of the amphitheatre of the Twin City Athletic Club.

Time was called at 10:30. In the first round both men sparred for an opening, Ellingsworth doing the leading. He succeeded in getting in a couple of good body blows before time was called.

In the second round Ellingsworth led off with right and left, nearly sending the Pearl to the ground. The latter rushed and a half dozen smart blows were exchanged. The Pearl followed up an advantage, drawing first blood from Ellingsworth's neck, and sent him to ground as the bell sounded.

The Pearl started in to rush things in the third round, and a vigorous upper cut, followed with a left lunge, sent Ellingsworth on his back. He went down a second time from a blow behind the left ear. A general exchange of body and face blows followed, Ellingsworth being beaten onto the press table and his blood spattering the paper and linen of the reporters. A stomach blow sent him down once more.

The New Yorker was hardly able to stand on his feet when he came up for the fourth round. The audience yelled "Throw up the sponge," and "Don't murder the man," but Ellingsworth was game. The Pearl rained blow after blow upon his face and body, sending him down in his corner four times in almost as many seconds.

The fifth and last round was a repetition of the previous one, Ellingsworth making but an infant's resistance, while blood flowed from his face, an upper cut reeling him across the ring. He tried to rise, but fell back just as Quinn threw up the sponge, and one of the spectators tumbled over in a swoon. The Pearl was next door to untouched.

The Asbury Park Beer Bottler Convicted.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 22.—Wm. R. Jarner, the beer bottler, who was arrested some days ago for violating the liquor law in selling beer without an order, was convicted before Judge Wickoff. The case has been pressed by the Law and Order League.

Pennsylvania Defeats Canada.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 22.—The cricket match between the Germantown, Pa., and the Hamilton teams resulted in a victory for Germantown by an inning and four runs. The score was: Germantown, 166 in one inning; Hamilton, 93 and 70.

Ex-Gov. Waller's Son Has Returned.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Martin R. Waller, son of ex-Gov. Waller, of Connecticut, has returned to Greenport, L. I., and resumed his duties as secretary and treasurer. He said the story about the defalcation was untrue.

TO-NIGHT'S BATTLE.

Fitzsimmons and Hall are in the Finest Condition.

ST. PAUL, July 22.—About 500 citizens called on Governor Merriam and asked him to enforce the law against prize fighting in the case of the announced sparring match for to-night between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Hall.

The Governor said he had no jurisdiction in the case; that it was the place of the municipal authorities to enforce the law.

A great crowd of sports are in the city. It is evident that the majority of them are Western men, as interest in the event seems to be not so great in the East.

The men are in the finest condition. Betting grows a little brisker and Hall gets a better show, Fitzsimmons latest odds being only about 10 to 8.

Hall and Fitzsimmons were arrested and gave bonds to "keep the peace." This, it is expected, will relieve them of all further trouble from the officials, and will enable them to fight to-night.

HIS TOES NEARLY GONE.

New York Authorities Finally Take the Leper in Charge.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Chin Hop, the leper laundryman, has been sent to Blackwell's Island by the health board.

When the wagon called for him the Chinaman looked as if he had fallen into a tub of smear case, having been plastered with fake cure-alls by medical cranks who had got hold of him.

The doctors will study his case closely from a distance.

His toes will soon drop off, and the dread malady has already made its appearance between his fingers.

Pitcher Tim Keefe Released.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Pitcher Tim Keefe has been released by the New York Baseball Club. Keefe said that he had asked for his release and it was given to him. He also said he was told early in the season that he had been hired simply as a "bench" player, and now he knows it is true. He has not yet made up his mind as to what he will do.

The Endymion Arrives Safely.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The overdue steamship Endymion, which was recently reported disabled, reached her dock here during the morning, and her crew are now busily engaged in unloading her cargo. On the night of July 9, the forward crank shaft of the Endymion broke and it took six days to repair it. The vessel again got under way and reached port without further incident.

An Old Lady Struck by a Train.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 22.—Mrs. Sarah Farrell, aged 80, was struck by the noon train from Haverhill on a street crossing here and received injuries from which she died half an hour later. She had sons employed in the Monroe paper mill and was carrying them their dinner when the accident happened.

McHenry's Death Not Due to Poison.

LONDON, July 22.—The post mortem examination of the remains of the late James McHenry, the late Erie Railway litigant, whose life was said to be heavily insured, and who was supposed to have died from the effects of poisoning, has been concluded. The result shows that there is no ground for the suspicion that Mr. McHenry's death was caused by poisoning.

THE MINERS QUIET

Militia Mobilized at Knoxville. Waiting for Orders.

READY TO MOVE ON BRICEVILLE.

The Telegraph Offices Seized by the Miners and Press Dispatches Watched.

A Meeting Held and Resolutions Passed to Protect the Company's Property—The Governor Confers With the Attorney-General—Matters Complicated by the Sheriff's Disappearance.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—Thrilling scenes were enacted in this city during the day, and the excitement caused by the return of troops and convicts from Briceville is unabated.

The presence of the largest body of troops seen here since the war, and the fact that they may be momentarily called upon to go to battle with four times their number of determined men, each an adept in the use of firearms, has caused the streets to be crowded since daybreak. The decision of the Governor, who has been in consultation with the Attorney-General all day, has not yet been received, and the troops are taking much needed rest.

NO REGULAR TROOPS NEAR.

Tennessee's Governor May Appeal to Washington for Help.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—It is reported that the Governor of Tennessee is considering the advisability of appealing to President Harrison to send a regiment of United States Regulars to the scene of the mining troubles. The War Department has received no official information from the authorities of Tennessee concerning the reported labor troubles in that State, nor has any request for United States troops to suppress the miners been made. Should such a request be made, it would be some time before the department could get troops to the scene of the trouble, as there is no military post of importance nearer than St. Louis.

PEACE IF POSSIBLE.

The Miners Pledge Themselves to Guard the Company's Property.

KNOXVILLE, July 22.—A meeting of miners was held at Briceville at noon. When the men assembled there were a few hot heads who began to talk about fire, but they were outsiders and not miners. The miners' leaders took possession of the meeting and would not allow such talk.

A resolution was unanimously passed, each man pledging himself on his honor that not one dollar's worth of property would be destroyed and the company's property should be guarded. It was further determined that no one should offer violence except in self defense. There is a sense of relief and quiet since the meeting. The miners seem to feel that they are now taking the proper course. There was some talk of attacking troops coming to arrest the leaders. The meeting has resulted in good, for the men are now quiet.

THE MINERS CAREFUL.

They Control the Wires and Revise All Press Dispatches.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—Every military company in Tennessee was in this city this morning awaiting orders from the Governor to go to the seat of trouble at Briceville. There are 19 companies in all and contain nearly 600 men.

Careful estimates place the number of miners at Coal Creek and Briceville at 1,500, but the first signs of hostilities would doubtless call out 1,000 more.

The miners have appointed a committee to say what despatches shall be sent out and what not, and this committee or some of it are in the telegraph offices all the time and read all the matter sent out by the newspaper men.

The committee, whether self-appointed or under the miner's organization, told the operator on duty at the key that if he did not let them read the messages they would cut the wires.

A report has come from Coal Creek saying the miners declare that no troops can be landed there.

There are threats that they will wreck the trains or burn railroad bridges.

The mob celebrated its victory by cheering, carousing and shooting. A force of 500 men, properly equipped and led, could subdue the entire mob, for the rioters have no idea of openly facing a good force. They know from the statements made to them Monday that the troops would not fight, but every rioter feels that the mob has made a mistake, and that it now will be subdued.

Intense anxiety is felt as to the outcome of the trouble. Large quantities of ammunition and provisions have arrived at Knoxville for the troops. The stockade in the valley is deserted, but will be occupied by troops soon.

Sir Hector Says He Won't Resign.

OTTAWA, July 22.—A press correspondent asked Sir Hector Langevin during the evening what his intentions were in view of the demands for his resignation. He replied that the testimony he would offer in his defence before the investigating committee would put an entirely different face on the matter, and added that he had no intention of resigning, as he was confident the committee would exonerate him.

Senator W. M. Ross Dead.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., July 22.—Senator W. M. Ross died very suddenly from heart disease yesterday morning at his home in Fort Gibson. He was a half-breed about 68 years old; was educated at Princeton College by his uncle, Chief John Ross. He started public life at the age of 23 and has held almost every office in the gift of the Cherokee nation. All business here has been suspended by order of the Mayor.

CAHINSLY REBUKED.

The Pope is Pleased With President Harrison's Views.

BALTIMORE, July 22.—A dispatch from Rome says that President Harrison's views on the matter advocated by Herr Cahensly and the St. Raphael Societies, as outlined to Cardinal Gibbons at the accidental meeting which took place between the President and the Cardinal at Cape May on Wednesday, July 15, were cabled to Rome and communicated to the Vatican. The President's views, it is announced, produced an excellent impression upon the Pope, who declared that he has never favored the plan of appointing bishops of the nationalities of the Roman Catholic communities in the United States, as advocated by Herr Cahensly and the St. Raphael societies.

President Harrison told Cardinal Gibbons that while not disposed to interfere in church matters, he was glad to have the opportunity of expressing satisfaction at the subject, and at the rebuke administered at home and abroad to foreign interference in domestic affairs of the United States.

THE RAILS SPREAD.

A Passenger Train Bound to Gettysburg Jumped the Track.

CARLISLE, Pa., July 22.—A passenger train on the Philadelphia, Harrisburg & Pittsburg Railroad, bound from Harrisburg to Gettysburg, jumped the track near here while running at full speed.

Express Messenger Watson was probably fatally injured, while David Lewis, of Reading, solicitor of the Philadelphia Times, and Conductor Dumbaugh were severely cut and bruised.

The track was torn up for a great distance, totally suspending traffic. The spreading of the rails caused the accident.

MAY GIVE HER A NEW TRIAL.

Mrs. Maybrick Has a Chance to Secure Her Freedom.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A dispatch from London says that the Exchange Telegraph Co. claims to have the highest legal authority for making the assertion that in consequence of the action of the Life Insurance Association in refusing to pay the $1,000 insurance on the late Mr. Maybrick's life, as his death was caused by the person for whose benefit the action was brought, a re-trial will be necessary, as Mrs. Maybrick can compel the insurance company to prove that she murdered her husband.

The dispatch adds that, according to English law, a conviction is not proof between other parties, but only between the prosecution and prisoner.

MISS WARDEN'S ASSASSIN.

Still Hunting for Him in the Woods at Hanover.

HANOVER, N. H., July 22.—Despite the intelligence from Canada that a man who answers in all respects the description of Murderer Almy crossed the line on Monday morning and bought a railway ticket for Sherbrooke, the enraged citizens of this community continue their search of the woods in the hope of finding him in hiding.

The conviction, however, is getting pretty strong here that Almy is not in Hanover or vicinity. The evidence seems to multiply that he escaped immediately after committing the murder, and the great point seems to be to determine in what direction he went, in order that clues from abroad may be followed with greater intelligence.

The people of the village are thoroughly exhausted with their four days' search.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Congregational International Council at London has adjourned.

The Chinamen who were smuggled across the Canadian border at Franklin, Vt., have been sent back to Canada.

Miss Hattie Porter of Hartford becomes the richest woman in Connecticut through a bequest of $600,000 just received under the will of Solomon Porter.

The assets of the Higganum Manufacturing Company of Higganum, Conn., are about $200,000, while the liabilities are understood to be between $300,000 and $400,000.

Fire in the Dungin building at Haverhill, Mass., caused a damage of $80,000. The principal losers are J. H. Dungin & Sons, J. W. Greenlay & Son and Charles Griffin, all shoe manufacturers.

Rev. W. T. Chase of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church of Boston, Mass., has declined to reconsider his resignation and will accept the call to the Fifth Baptist Church of Philadelphia.

Hermann Normanlioss of Chickies, Pa., while fooling with two companions in a boat on the Susquehanna river, capsized it, throwing all three into the water. Normandors was drowned and his two companions were with difficulty rescued.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—For New England: Fair; stationary temperature, except slightly cooler on the coast; easterly winds.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Fair; stationary temperature, except slightly cooler on the coast; northerly winds.

For Western New York: Generally fair; stationary temperature, except slightly cooler on the lakes; easterly winds becoming southeasterly.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Do you need a new corset? Peck has sixty styles to select from.

—About 300 people accompanied the Reform club's excursion to Black River Falls Park to-day.

—The Young People's League of the First Baptist church, contemplate taking an excursion to Boynton Beach in the near future.

—A train of coal jimmies off the track on the long bridge this afternoon, necessitated the running of all trains between Elizabeth and New York, by way of Newark.

—One coal train ran into the back of another between Cranford and Roselle, a few minutes after ten o'clock, last evening. No one was hurt and the only damage was the smashing of a half-dozen "empties".

—A local debating society is discussing the question of where the man who writes the Plainfield fire-bug stories for the New York papers will go when he dies. It ought to be a more congenial topic for winter time.

—The Ancient Order of Foresters of America, will establish a local Court in this city, Thursday evening. The meeting will be held in the Howell Division rooms on Park avenue. Everybody is invited to attend.

—The Elizabeth Wheelmen will take a run to Dunellen Saturday night. The run of the Plainfield Bicycle Club's, Saturday, will be to Westfield, Rahway and Elizabeth. The present beautiful moonlight nights insure a large attendance on all runs.

—The officers of Easter Lodge, Knights of Honor, were installed on Monday evening by Deputy Grand Dictator, S. E. Flower, and his staff. A very enjoyable time was experienced by all present at the services and the entertainment following.

—A wealthy widower of this city has become so fascinated with a handsome young colored woman that he cannot conceal his sentiments in public. The young woman, however, is modest and good, and the man's attentions are very distasteful to her.

—At the special meeting of the Common Council next Monday evening, the Corporation Counsel will probably be requested to take some steps towards compelling the Plainfield Water Supply company to put back in proper condition again the streets through which their pipes have been laid.

—The Young Men's Christian Association of Rahway, has invited Charles B. Brown to deliver an address on "Northfield" to the young men of Rahway, next Sunday afternoon. A large number of the Plainfield delegates to the recent Bible conference at Northfield, will accompany Mr. Brown, on this occasion.

—The next excursion for Plainfield to Asbury Park will be that of the Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school on Wednesday of next week. From present indications it will be a large one. The committee will do all in their power to make it pleasant for all who go. The return for home will be made in the cool of the evening, leaving the Park at 7 o'clock. Tickets only $1.25. Children, 90 cents.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

George P. Dupee and family, left today for Cascade Lake House, Cascadeville, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Day, of Madison avenue, have gone to North Edgecomb, Maine.

J. A. Hubbard is rapidly recovering from his recent illness and will be out in a day or two.

The Governor of Alabama dined with Col. John F. Wilson, of North Plainfield, last evening.

The Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of Somerset street, is at Woodvine cottage, Liberty, N. Y.

Miss May Thompson charmingly entertained a pleasant party of friends, last evening, at her home on Rockview Terrace.

Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Miss Yates will tell about her travels abroad.

Charles C. Burnet, of the Crescent League, accompanied by his family, are stopping for the sixth season at the Ocean House, Asbury Park.

The Rev. Hobart Clark of the Unitarian church, will be absent from his pulpit for the next four weeks. He will spend his vacation at Andover, Mass. Next Sunday W. J. Leonard will speak to the Unitarians.

Baptist Home for the Aged.

The Newark Baptist Home for the Aged, for which a number of Plainfield Baptists are actively working, has been opened for the reception of inmates. Five were admitted. The Home is at 179 Fairmount avenue, Newark, and is in charge of Mrs. Insley. There is room for only nine inmates at present, but steps have been taken to enlarge the institution. The Home will be supported by the Baptist churches of New Jersey.

Hello, Rip Van Winkle! What a pity that you don't drink Root Beer made with Knapp's Root Beer Extract; it doesn't intoxicate.

AT LAST! AT LAST!

Monday Evening is the Time Set for the Granting of the Franchises for Water and for Sewers in the City of Plainfield.

A special meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield will be called for next Monday evening.

That meeting will be solely for the purpose of granting franchises to the Plainfield Aqueduct company and the Plainfield Sewerage company, for the construction, maintenance and operation of a system of water supply and a system of sewers in this city.

The laws of New Jersey are such that the State Board of Health is omnipotent in the matter of sewerage systems in any town or city. No system but such as the Board thinks is proper for the location and perfect in its every detail, can be operated anywhere in this State.

The members of the New Jersey Board of Health, it is understood, entirely indorse the system proposed by the Plainfield Sewerage company, as just the thing for this city.

The Young Man Rescued, But the Crab Escaped.

Some very amusing mishaps frequently occur to parties engaged in the delightful pastime of catching the festive hard crab. This is notably true of an exquisite young man from North Plainfield, who visited Shark River the day of the Baptist excursion to Asbury Park by way of Belmar, and who, accompanied by some friends, engaged in crabbing near the north side of the river. A plenty of crabs could be seen from the boat, but at a little too great a distance to reach with a crab net. The young man thought that locomotion would be easier if he could but step out of the boat and wade to the crabs; so, measuring the depth of the water with the handle of his crab net, and applying the measure to his hip boots, he decided that the water was not deeper than the boots were high, and accordingly stepped overboard. But, oh, that deceptive mud into which his foot settled, led him to think that there was no bottom to the river. In making a hasty spring to return to the boat, the boat left him, taking one foot with it and leaving the other in the mud, seemed about to separate the young man in two parts. As his body could not follow both feet, he made a very dignified departure from the boat, settling down into the water on his back. It is needless to say that the crab escaped. The young man was rescued amid the shouts of the crabbers in surrounding boats, and strange to say, he persisted in saying that he had had a first-rate time.

Their Marriage Is a Resignation.

In Plainfield, as in other places, female public school teachers who get married are not expected to remain teachers. The following shows that the matter is viewed in other places just as it is here.

The Trenton school board struggled last week with a question which the Elizabeth board of education adopted about a year ago. It was to the effect that the committee on rules be requested to formulate and present to the board a rule to the effect that the marriage of a female teacher shall act as the resignation of such teacher from her position in the public schools. The board has an unwritten law to this effect, but thought it wise that it should regularly be incorporated in the rules of this board. The report was adopted. Later a member introduced an amendment to the rule for female teachers who marry, which was laid over under the rules. This does not include the present women teachers who are married.

The Great Metropolis Talking of It.

[From The New York Times.]

The Plainfield Music Hall, the only theatre in the place, has been losing money for its stockholders ever since it was built. This summer it is to be remodeled and its management is to be put in the hands of James Alfred Demarest, manging editor of The Daily Press and Frank Willetts Runyon, editor of The Weekly Times.

(From The New York Dramatic News.)

The new managers of Plainfield Music Hall, Demarest and Runyon, are renovating the place, booking only gilt-edged companies and hustling generally for next season. At a meeting of directors, recently, money was raised for helping on the boom.

A Use for the Water Tower.

A lively party of Plainfielders climbed to the top of the big water tower, the other evening, and spent several hours in singing, star-gazing and frightening the passing trains. Some one ought to get a lemonade and soda privilege and open a roof garden on the tower. Roof gardens are quite the thing now.

She Borrowed It for Evidence.

Katie Moncton says that she did not really borrow money of Jimmy Powers—who is accused of stealing it from her ex-husband, Mister Garrity—to get her clothes out of pawn. She says she only told him so in order to get the money as evidence that he had it to lend.

Success is the envy of the weak brained. They seek to get there too. No wonder that they resort to counterfeiting. The reputable dealer should not encourage imitators. Be sure and ask for Hires's Root Beer Packages, and be especially sure you get them.

THE BRUTE ESCAPED.

But the Girl Will Know Him When She Sees Him Again.

A young servant girl who has been but a few weeks in this country, last evening accompanied an older sister to Reform Hall where the Salvation Army meetings are being held. She would not go in, however, and wandered down Madison avenue after the other had entered the hall.

Near the electric light works, she says, a well dressed man accosted her, and upon her telling him that she lived on Warren street and did not know the way home, he offered to take her there.

Somewheres near Evona, whither he had misled her, she was handled so roughly in her attempts to escape him, that her clothes were torn. But her cries and struggles frightened him off and brought assistance.

He disappeared in the darkness, but the girl told the police that she will know him when she sees him again.

CLOAKED UNDER RELIGION.

Farmer Gray's Exemplary Farmhand Turned Out to Be a Thief.

Christopher Gray, a South Plainfield farmer, hired Luke Roberts, two weeks ago, as a general helper about his place. He seemed a very promising young fellow, good-tempered and ready to do anything cheerfully that he was told to do. Last week Wednesday night, he accompanied the family to prayer-meeting at the South Plainfield Baptist church, and before the services were concluded arose to his feet and led in a long stirring prayer. Mr. Gray was very much delighted at the piety of his new helper, and looked on him with much favor.

After accompanying the family to church Sunday, Roberts quietly slipped out and went back to the house. Then he stole every small article of value in the place, and succeeded in picking up considerable money and jewelry, winding up by appropriating all of Farmer Gray's clothing excepting the suit he had on and his work-a-day suit. When the family went home they found the doors wide open. In the meantime Roberts has disappeared, and there is no clue to his whereabouts.

"The Readiness Is All."

It was just like Brokaw to lose his life for one of his mother's servants—says Harper's Weekly, speaking of the brave young nephew of Mrs. George Smock and cousin of Mrs. Charles H. Penfield of this city.—Any other man than Brokaw would have died for the girl he loved, or for some feeble old man, or for a little child. But Brokaw was just such a chivalrous, unassuming, gentle soul as would be picked out, though he were twice the millionnaire's son, to save the life "of one of the least of these," and who would go out of life as he had lived in it—imposed on with good nature and bearing good or evil gently and in patience.

It seems almost impossible to believe that the body that was borne across the sands by the men of the life-saving station last Thursday was that of the boy who only three weeks ago was carried on the shoulders of a wild, howling, well-dressed mob across Manhattan baseball field, hot and tired and covered with dust and perspiration, but happy and victorious. Or that it can be the boy I have lain with on the grass of the campus in the still summer evenings at Princeton, while the seniors sang on the steps and the freshmen romped on the turf around us, while he bit at the blades of grass and planned for the future when he, too, would be out in the world, and told of the father, who, they say, took him down to Astor place when he was 8 years old, and pointing at the great building that stretched from corner to corner, said: "Fred, all this will be yours some day." But then "the readiness is all", and Brokaw was ready, I am sure, and the mother who saw him die must know that there are mothers whose sons are alive to-day who will perhaps outlive them, and who yet envy her seeing her son die, dying as her son did.

Elegant Fashion Books.

The new fashion journals, "LaMode", "LaMode deParis", and "Album des Modes", published by A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York, are the most elegant of their kind ever brought to notice. The styles are drawn by the best artists; and the books are produced by rival houses in Paris, each trying to excel the other in the character of its publications. Formerly they were printed only in French; but they are now published in English for the use of American readers. These journals furnish the styles one month in advance of any similar publications; and they have a practical department, in which lessons are given each month on how to make dresses, etc. The admirable fashions, the lessons in dressmaking, and the giving of the styles one month earlier than heretofore, are strong points in favor of these fashion books, causing them to be called "The Favorites." These excellent publications can be obtained from all newsdealers.

Nine Hours a Day's Work at Ripleyville.

The mechanics of Westfield have united in requesting the bosses of the town to recognize nine hours as a day's labor, with the same wages now paid for a day of ten hours, the new time to begin Sept. 1. The bosses who have agreed to the request are a majority of the bosses in town, and the mechanics are confident of having the nine hours recognized as a day's work.

HERE'S A LITTLE BLACK FIEND.

If His Description is True He Should be Sent to the Reform School.

The seven-year-old son of Richard Wortman, of 35 Cottage place, is said to be dying of brain fever caused by being struck in the head with a stone wilfully thrown by another colored boy. The latter is a vicious lad, said to be a son of Mrs. Silvis Gregory and John Green who live together at 25 Cottage place. The doctor has given young Wortman up.

The boy who struck him did it purposely. He is about seven years old and is considered a fiend by all the neighbors. Today he struck another boy with a stone and knocked him on his back in the road. James E. Doty, of Cottage place, has interested himself in the case and intends to have the young fiend locked up if possible.

THE GAS TANK EXPLODED.

One Man Fatally Burned, the Flesh Hanging in Shreds from His Body.

BUTLER, Pa., July 22.—While workmen were drawing rods at the well of Collins, Sheasley, Edgar & Co. on the Miller farm at Callery, the gas tank exploded and enveloped the rig in flames.

James Fitch, who was up fifty feet on the derrick, fell to the ground and amid the flames. He was terribly burned, but may recover.

D. T. Reeder, one of the owners of the well, who was standing in the derrick, received the full force of the explosion and was fatally burned, the flesh hanging in shreds from his body. He was removed to the Miller house. His death is momentarily expected.

Gen. Agnus Declines the Honor.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 22.—The Republican leaders of the State, who have been in conference here for the past two weeks, unanimously decided to offer the nomination for Governor to General Felix Agnus, editor of the American. General Agnus says, however, that he cannot accept the honor, though he highly appreciates it.

An Old Man Commits Suicide.

BROCKPORT, N. Y., July 22.—John Shell, an old and well known resident of Hamlin committed suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging himself in his barn. He had been in poor health for the last year. He was 90 years old and leaves a widow and three sons.

Death of Hon. W. H. Lamport.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 22.—The Hon. William H. Lamport died at Canandaigua last evening, aged 75 years. He was a member of Assembly in 1855 and of the 49d and 48d Congresses. Deceased was a prominent Republican leader in Ontario County.

Powderly Visits Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 22.—Grand Master Workman Powderly is in this city. He held a conference with labor leaders but the nature of their business cannot be ascertained. Powderly would not talk.

Arrested for Grand Larceny.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Josiah S. Brian, an architect or engineer of the Tubular Steel Railway Company, was arrested here on his arrival from Bradford at the request of Inspector Byrnes, of New York, where he is wanted for grand larceny. The amount involved is said to be away up in the thousands.

Duncan in an Asylum.

LONDON, July 22.—R. C. Duncan of Washington, D. C., who was recently acquitted, on the ground of insanity, of attempting to murder his wife, has been removed to Broadmoor Asylum. His health is excellent and he denies that he is insane.

Mountains Filled With Miners.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 22.—A dispatch from Coal Creek says the mountains in that vicinity are filled with miners armed with Winchesters. It is estimated that three thousand are in the brush awaiting the turn of affairs.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

The Royal Tooth Powder,

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

It will be seen by comparing these figures with those of last year that the total increase in the county valuation is $1,228,965, of which more than half is in the city of Elizabeth, $698,325. Plainfield shows a good increase, but Rahway seems at a standstill, as are New Providence and Springfield. In the remainder of the county, outside of Elizabeth, and including Plainfield, the increase is $530,640.

Summit comes up rather better this year than usual, probably the result of the tax-valuation agitation. Last year the assessor returned $1,107,700. This was considered so low that the board added $59,000 to the figures, making them $1,150,700. This year Summit caps these figures by $49,000, and returns a total valuation of $1,199,800.

The total number of voters throughout the county is 14,441. The county tax rate this year will be .64; State school tax, .32; total, .96.

Della Still Delights.

June, "the month of roses" has come and gone, and the mid-summer season is here, but despite its depressing presence, Della Fox and her jolly crew of fun-makers and singers, still continue their prosperous career at the Broadway Theatre, New York city, and the unctuous humor and admirable singing of the big comdian De Wolf Hopper, the splendid vocalism of the principals, the clever work of the large and well-drilled chorus, and the amusing antics of the mechanical elephant, are nightly enjoyed by large audiences, which would be phenomenal even in mid-winter.

The cause of this remarkable state of affairs, during the heated term is apparent to all who visit "Wang" for not only is Goodwin and Morse's bright and tuneful operetta a big success, but the admirable arrangements of the theatre are such, that even on the hottest night, the Broadway has been the coolest amusement resort in the city.

Somebody is Making a Fool of the New York Times Again.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 21.—The prompt and intelligent action of a brakemen averted tonight what might have been a serious wreck on the New Jersey Central Railroad. By a collision of two coal trains bound west on the freight track two cars were thrown across the west-bound passenger track. The accident occurred within five minutes of the time for the passenger train leaving New York at 9:15 p. m. to pass. The bright moonlight enabled the brakeman to discover the dangerous obstruction and flag the passenger train. The tracks were blocked for about an hour and a half.—New York Times.

This is the second time within a few weeks that the Times has been fooled into publishing an account of a railroad wreck in this vicinity, that never occurred. The item above, as far as Plainfield is concerned, is false in every word.

Young Birds Flown from Plainfield.

The members of the Greenville Homing Pigeon Club liberated a score of young birds in this city, Sunday morning. This was the longest young bird flight yet conducted by the club. The distance of almost twenty miles was covered in excellent time. C., and J. Boag's birds, led by "Brocado", were the first to strike their lofts, making the time in 29 minutes and 48 seconds. G. Wuestner's bird was second, one minute behind "Brocado", and G. Lutz's bird made the distance in 30 minutes and 23 seconds.

A Lawn Party to Their Granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, of Plainfield avenue, gave a lawn party at their home, yesterday, in honor of their granddaughter, Miss Lottie Pullin of Newark. A collation was served at two o'clock, after which the afternoon was spent in various ways of entertainment.

Among those present were: Mrs. J. Arthur Headly, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Pullin and family and F. J. Pullin of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Packer and daughter, Mrs. E. Winter, the Misses Winter, Miss Corbitt and the Messrs. C. S. and J. R. Johnson of Plainfield; Mrs. A. E. Johnson of Fanwood, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. E. Thompson and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Johnson and the Misses Johnson, of Plainfield avenue. The party was continued far into the evening, and fireworks were an additional feature of the night.

Speechless and Starving.

A poor tramp lay starving to death under a tree near the Grant avenue bridge last evening, and Officer Cooney was sent to care for him. The poor unfortunate could not speak nor eat because of a malignant cancer in his mouth that was almost pushing his tongue out and that distended his cheeks in a way that was horrible to look upon.

Dr. Gaston took the man to Muhlenberg hospital but he was not admitted. It is said that later a sum of money was raised sufficient to send him to New York.

AT A ROPE'S END.

How His Mamma Taught Charlie to Bathe Alone.

"May I go in bathing, mamma?" asked Charlie, as he and his mother walked down to the beach.

"Why, no, dear; not this afternoon. I do not care to bathe and you could not go in alone, you know."

So Charlie, who was a wise little boy and had learned to make the best of things, began to play in the sand.

Pretty soon, however, his attention was attracted by a little boy who was having a splendid time in the surf. He was not the regular bathing hour, so the little fellow had the whole ocean to himself and he was splashing about in grand style. Charlie could not understand it at all. Why would he be in danger, if another little boy could go in safety?

"Mamma," he said at last, "that little boy is lots littler than I am, and he is in all alone. See! there is a great big wave coming, and I should think his mamma would be afraid that he would be washed away."

But the little fellow's mother did not seem to be in the least worried. She sat quietly on the beach, and watched her boy tumbling about in the water, as though he was not in the slightest danger.

In a minute more, Charlie understood the reason. On came the big wave, tumbling and tossing; but before it reached the little bather, whom Charlie watched very anxiously, he saw him suddenly skip backward. In another instant, he was lying high up on the sand. Then Charlie noticed that there was a small rope tied to a belt about his waist, by which his mother had pulled him in.

"O, mamma!" he cried, "that is a very nice plan—oh, a very nice plan indeed! Don't you think that you would let me go in, in such a very safety way? Will you harness me to-morrow, mamma?"

Mamma was so much pleased with the "safety way" of bathing that the next day two little boys might have been seen, harnessed, as Charlie expressed it, and tumbling about in the surf together. Of course they made each other's acquaintance immediately, and soon became firm friends.

They both decided that bathing at the end of a rope was by far the most enjoyable way.—A. L. Hannah, in Our Little Ones.

School Blunders.

A teacher in a public school gave out a list of words to be defined and put in sentences. Among them was the word "chasm." A little girl looked in the dictionary and not being quite satisfied inquired if "chasm" meant "gap."

The teacher absently replied yes but was astonished when she presented her paper with this sentence: "When I am sleepy I always chasm."

But this is hardly equal to another teacher's experience in a little district school some years ago. She gave out words for analysis. "Bank-note" was one of them and the teacher's astonishment may be imagined when one young lady brought the following unique analysis:

"Bank-note is a compound, primitive word, composed of 'bank' and 'note.' 'Bank' is a simple word, meaning the side of a stream; 'note,' to set down. 'Bank-note,' to set down by the side of a stream."

A Tree with a Pedigree.

When Alexander Pope visited the orient nearly two centuries ago he obtained a slip of one of the willows beside the waters of the Babylon, where on the children of Israel hung their harps in the days of captivity. Planting the wand upon his return to England, he secured a thrifty tree in time. From this latter Martha Washington procured a twig, which she brought to Arlington Heights, with the same result. And now a tree, grown from a slip taken from hers, has just been planted in the Indiana state house grounds.

TO MAKE AN ACTRESS.

A Man of Experience Gives the Necessary Requirements.

Acting Does Not Come Naturally—It Must Be Taught—Society Women Not a Success Upon the Stage—Silent Action as an Art.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

ACTING is an art which must be learned by hard study both on and off the stage. It requires much and varied preparation. Of course natural gifts are a power in themselves, but it requires experience to ripen them, and it is only by study that even the simplest effects can be properly reached.

To be natural on the stage is not a matter of casual mood, but of a trained habit.

A young woman may be exceptionally well gifted. She may be pretty, have a good facial expression, a fine speaking voice, a commanding stature and have the necessary physical conditions, and yet be unable to portray the emotions of the human mind in such a manner as to be entertaining and intelligible to others.

Let anyone go upon the stage before an audience and say the same things and act the same deeds which ordinarily occur in everyday life, and he will appear wholly stupid and uninteresting. It will be no more entertaining to an onlooker than is any commonplace visit into any ordinary family, such as occurs every day. No one is particularly interested or entertained.

Long ago, nature might have been so lavish with her children that each man and woman said and did exactly the right thing at the right time, and with exactly the right expression. But all that has passed away. We are taught in etiquette books and in society to conceal our emotions. A ladylike monotone with smooth and even accent and a voice that never rises or falls beyond a certain pitch are things ordinarily to be cultivated. Never, in ordinary parlor conversation must the face express extreme emotion. Passion, rage, anger, disgust, contempt, pleasure and surprise, must all be veiled beneath an outward mask of serenity. The woman of breeding will never show by the lifting of an eyelid that she thinks a person is bad tempered, unkind or even cruel. At all times a beautiful calm overspreads her features; she walks slowly, speaks deliberately, and whatever effect she may wish to produce she does entirely by means of little ways and actions that are pretty, rather than effective. In a parlor this may be quite agreeable, but upon the stage the effect is lost and the woman would appear inane and lifeless.

It is because of this that theatrical managers dread the society woman who goes upon the stage. She may in th first place have prestige and name as a social leader, and if she is connected with fine family and has gone upon the stage because of domestic or other disturbances, this fact goes far to arouse curiosity in advance from an indulgent public who, having heard of her previously, are willing to go once to see her behind the footlights.

"SUPPOSE THAT OPPOSITE YOU STANDS YOUR LOVER."

All this is very well as long as the newness and freshness and novelty last, but there comes a time when the society woman, having been seen once by all the world, must sink into oblivion in the minds of the fair-minded public. They see that, actuated by motives other than those which should impel anyone choosing a vocation, the actress is either frivolous, vain, indolent or incompetent. They notice that she does not improve and that having seen her once, and gratified their curiosity, they have seen all that there is to be seen.

One of the first tests in examining candidates for our school of acting is to put them upon the stage and after picturing a dramatic scene and locating the characters, ask them to say certain lines. I say to a young woman: "Suppose that opposite you stands your lover, between you and him is your father, who objects to your attachment for your lover and seeks to estrange you. A woman who is the heavy villain of the play stands in the background, scowling and lowering upon you. Your lover says: 'I was wrong. Forgive—forgive. Show this woman that you can forgive.' How would you reply and where would you locate these characters?"

Now, a young woman with the true dramatic instinct will locate all these characters, put them in their right positions upon the stage, and, keeping each one in her own mind, will say her lines so vividly that you can see in your mind's eye each and every character. She may not, being untaught, say the lines with proper inflection, but you can plainly see that she realizes how many people are upon the stage, where they are, and to whom she should look when making an appeal.

Another girl, with a good voice, and apparently the same dramatic properties as the other, will have a vague look in her eyes, and will say the lines looking here and there and yet nowhere in particular, thus robbing them of all interest.

What kind of a girl do we like best to train for an actress?

Well! It is hard to tell exactly, because the subtle element enters into the composition so largely that given all the qualities which I am about to enumerate, a young woman might yet come to us and be refused admission. We first consider her nationality. The French and Irish are the best, as they are the most adaptable and susceptible. The Germans are next, if we except Americans, who, being a mixture of all nationalities, are brightest of all. There are roles upon the variety stage which make Americans invaluable, and their ready wit makes quick to learn a part and notice those points which upon a first night take best with an audience. The English, especially English men, are good in society plays.

"IT IS NOT SO."

Among the Americans the down-easters are the hardest to train. They are brainy and smart and have a natural business faculty, but they do not do well in roles of sentiment. It is the Southern girl, with her sensitive temperament, emotional nature and dreamy eyes, who can move her audience and carry her hearers with her through all the varying lights and shades of domestic life inwrought with unhappiness and tragedy.

Vocal quality, vocal expression and pantomimic action must all be taken in account in examining the qualifications of aspirants. Some people have naturally a good voice, a good walk and an expressive face. Others have to acquire these. The former are fortunate, while the latter are not, but these things are wholly aside from the dramatic instinct. Without this last an actress is never a success, beautifully gifted though she may be. But give her this instinct and she is a success from the beginning, because she had that which cannot be acquired and to which all other things are subservient.

Ordinarily, with people who lack training, or stage experience, expression is conveyed by the face. At best the hands are brought into use, but rarely is the rest of the body called upon to perform any office other than that of a vehicle to hold the head and arms. Now, this is entirely wrong. The body must talk, and one should be able to show by the movements of the body whether one is pleased or unhappy, and whether one is agreeing with the speaker or disagreeing.

Take the simple sentence: "It is not so." Think of how many ways there are of saying that without uttering a sound. Let us leave out all except the one sequence that comes with emphasis. To begin with, suppose you wish to say simply and as quietly as possible: "It is not so." Without speaking a word, a closing of the eyelids and a slight drooping of the mouth expresses this sentence. We repeat the thought more emphatically. This time the eyes are closed, the mouth droops, the nose contracts slightly, very slightly, and the head is turned a little to one side. There is a slight closing of the hand.

Again: "It is not so." The right hand sweeps across the body with a negative gesture toward the right, the back of the hand is uppermost and the head moves toward the left with a negative turn that is almost a shake. Once more: "It is not so." And now the whole body moves. The hips, shoulders and head seem to be turning violently away as if in utter abhorrence of the idea, while the hand sweeps away as if it were brushing all thought of the object from the mind.

But one more way remains, without actual speech, and that is, to rise with all these negative gestures, to rush from the room with the long stride that indicates grief, disgust, denial and despair.

Lifting the shoulders and lifting the chin are both strong expressions. They are rare and should only be used when abandonment and intense emotion are indicated.

An actor should possess many accomplishments. He should be able to sing, dance and fence, have an eye for color and form, as in costuming, an ear for every shade of dialect, much business faculty, and a mind well stored by observation, study and experience. The larger the knowledge of other arts, the better.

I would say to everyone who wishes to go upon the stage: Abandon all hopes of sudden success and devote yourself honestly, earnestly and thoughtfully to systematic drill and training.

Director of the American Academy of the Dramatic Arts.

BELLE-AND-BEAU-KNOTS

With Curious Crimps, by One Who Has Tied Them.

The Queer People Who Come to Clergymen to Be Married—Their Sayings and Doings Correctly Presented for Philosophic Generalization.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

MATRIMONY, regarded by one branch of the church as a sacrament, and by another as the solemnization of a civil contract, has, nevertheless, in cases not a few, humorous phases that, when they occur, not only relieve the rite of dullness, but put even the reverence of the celebrant and witnesses under somewhat rigid strain. In the case of ministerial friends, and occasionally in my own experience, incidents have happened that tested the powers of self-constraint and ludicrously revealed the cold, business-like severely practical spirit of one or both the contracting parties. The sentimentalist who enshrines the altar of Hymen in the prismatic glow of romance would have his or her poetic notions rudely dispelled, I fear, could he or she follow the city minister in the round of his duties, were it never so short a time, for among those duties, perhaps as often as once a week, he is called upon to marry some couple from the ground floor of the social edifice, and is thus familiarized with the prosaic notions of life that prevail there.

It is 7 p. m. and the clergyman has just dined and resumed his place in his study. The bell rings. The servant admits a visitor, and presently there is a knock at the study door. "Come in!"

"NOW, CHARLOTTE, HERE'S THE MINISTER."

He, she or it comes; for the gender is hardly predicable of the head that is thrust through the partially opened door, with a felt hat that might be man's or woman's and a face that would be characteristically becoming above the bust of a hod carrier or a female vegetable vender.

"Er you the minister?" This with a smile that lays bare a prodigious set of teeth in an expansive area of raw-looking gums.

"Yes; come in."

It turns out to be a woman, with somewhat abbreviated skirts, short, straight black hair and a mannishness in dress and demeanor characteristic of the female race.

"Can you marry a couple right erway?"

"Yes; if everything is all right. Do you wish to be married?"

"I do. I've got the feller out here on the sidewalk, and a couple of witnesses. Can I fetch 'em erlong?"

"Yes; bring them in."

They are presented—the groom red-haired, multitudinously freckled, consumptive, inclined to be wheezy, nervous, pallid and with the woe-begone look of a victim; bridesmaid and groomsman, father and mother of the bride. The questions all being answered satisfactorily, he and she are made one, and as the newly-made benedict signs the register, the groomsman remarks:

"He was a-goin' to act like a blamed fool, dominie, but we all told him this was a heap sight better nor goin' to jail."

"Well, you jist bet!" was the tart and confident addendum of the unblushing bride. "Tom," she continued, "hev you got any money to pay for this?" Tom's capital was limited to a few pennies; and among the quartette fifty cents was at length got together which the clergyman presented to the bride as his contribution to the start in housekeeping.

Were I asked whom I hold in my thoughts as an ideal clergyman of the old school, I should unhesitatingly name the late Dr. Stroebel of Rhinebeck, N. Y., whose memory is revered by Lutherans throughout the country. A scholar of saintly life; cheerful, indeed blythe, in conversation, but never for a moment forgetful of his dignity and the reverence due to the religion of which, for fifty years, he was an exemplary minister, he deservedly held high place among his brethren. So venerable was his appearance that the rudest would have found it difficult to be irreverent in his presence. Among his parishioners were a jovial, good-natured livery stable keeper, whom I shall call Matt. Van, and his wife. Matt was short, broad, round—giving you the idea that he might once have been a tall man who had been squeezed into himself and become abnormally distended in the process. He was an inveterate stammerer. His wife was a small, delicate woman who died before she reached middle life; and Dr. Stroebel, who respected her, spoke feelingly at her funeral. Just a month after that event Matt appeared at the doctor's residence and requested him to call that evening at his home.

"No one ill, I hope, Matthias," said the doctor.

"N-n-o!" said Matt. "Th-th-tain't that le-kind of a job, dominie. Fit-fact is I w-want to get m-m-married."

"Why, Matthias, you astound me!" said the aged clergyman. "Your wife has not been dead more than a month."

"W-w-well, she's dead, isn't she?"

"O yes, Matthias, that is sorrowfully true."

"Then she c-c-can't be any d-d-deader, can she?"

Lacking as the argument was in feeling it was impossible to gainsay its force, and Matt set sail that evening upon another voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Rev. Dr. O. Eddy, D. D., the distinguished Baptist pastor of Brooklyn and Worcester, of the Long Island Baptist association, held his first pastorate in Lowell, Mass. As an instance of a bridegroom's haste to be generous—exhibiting, as far as it goes, the nobler side of the benedict nature—the doctor once told me that when marrying a couple in Lowell he was much confused throughout the ceremony by the groom's extreme agitation. He was a little man and kept hopping from foot to foot as if practicing for an Indian dance. After the words had been said that made him and his bride one, the doctor proceeded to pronounce the benediction, assuming an attitude more customary then than now—the hands outstretched with upraised palms. Judge of his surprise when the solemn words were half uttered to hear the chink and feel the descent of two silver half dollars which the groom had dropped in the hollow of his hand.

"Amen!" said the minister in conclusion.

"Everything all right now, pa'son?" inquired the groom.

Assured that he was irrevocably married, he nervously twitched his little body from side to side, threw his arms around the bride and began kissing her in the most exuberant style.

"Pa'son," he said, when apparently exhausted by his osculatory exercise, "that's the best dollar's worth in the old Bay state!"

On another occasion in the same city Dr. Eddy was waited upon by a man who was in great haste to secure his services; why, the clergyman could not find out. Following his guide the doctor at length came to a tenement house, in the upper apartment of which a woman was on her knees busily scrubbing the floor. Approaching her and seizing her by the arm, the man said, hurriedly but kindly: "Now, Charlotte, here's the minister. Hurry up and let's get married." Charlotte put aside her scrubbing brush and pail, and, drying her arms, submitted to the ceremony without attempt at change of dress or toilet.

"Now, Charlotte," said the bridegroom when the ceremony was ended, "give the minister something for his trouble."

Charlotte had precisely sixty-two cents. It was the first marriage at which the young clergyman officiated, and he gave the fee to the bride.

When one considers the hasty and inconsiderate manner in which so many enter upon the marriage relation, it is not astonishing that the calendars of the divorce courts are disgracefully burdened. The writer has always steadily refused to marry persons of immature years without special permission and request of their parents. But he has frequently questioned whether immaturity of judgment should not also be a bar to the ceremony, for the vacillating and irresolute are not always young. A couple, middle-aged, plain, but apparently well to do, came to a minister recently and after fifteen minutes talk on the weather, the gentleman expressed a desire to see him alone. Upon being shown to an adjoining apartment, he said: "We came to be married, but I do not know whether it is best. I wish you would advise me."

JUDGE OF HIS SURPRISE TO HEAR THE CLINK OF TWO SILVER HALF-DOLLARS.

"That is a much too delicate matter, especially for one who is ignorant of the circumstances," said the clergyman.

"Well, the fact is, there is another girl expecting to have me, and if I marry this one there's a chance of a row."

"Which one do you love?"

"O, 'bout that, there ain't a sight of difference. But the other girl will feel terrible cut up. Mebbe it'll kill her."

"And what do you think will be the effect on this one?"

"O, she'll be very mad, but I guess she'll get over it."

The minister positively declined to give any advice, and the gentleman returned to the lady in the next room, with whom he held a conversation, subdued in tone, but remarkably animated in spirit. At the expiration of twenty minutes a knock at the door of the room in which the clergyman awaited the decision summoned him to perform the ceremony. He did so evidently to the bride's satisfaction. What the other girl thought of it has not been reported.

In affairs matrimonial, as in many other circumstances of life, I have observed that the young, especially among a minister's friends and parishioners, are anxious to have his advice upon the expediency of getting married when they are reasonably certain it will harmonize with their own determinations. I have not infrequently had persons wait on me to "consult" me upon the delicate step they were about to take, who concluded the conversation by asking me to perform the ceremony on a given day.

GUIFARD NELSON.

"I HATE TO ASK MY DOCTOR."

False modesty and procrastination are responsible for much female suffering. We can excuse the instinctive delicacy that suggests concealment to the young, but there is no excuse for those who reject the assistance of a woman.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY

First Address from the National Committee.

THE COUNTRY BOUND IN CHAINS

British Capitalists Sucking the Blood of the Poor.

A Blow at the Western Union Telegraph Company—Remarkable Story About the United States Treasury—Details About the Country's Debts—An Appeal to the People to Join the Party.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 23.—The address of the National Executive Committee of the People's Party has been sent out by Secretary Schilling.

It starts out with the information that times which try men's souls are here once more. The descendants of British Tories of 1776 and other European and American capitalists have bound the country in chains. The declaration of independence from British arrogance needs to be supplemented by a declaration of independence from the powers of concentrated wealth; the political independence gained by the revolution is but a shallow sham unless our country can secure industrial independence.

The address enlarges on the subtle power of money to oppress the poor, and then declares the railroads of the country are capitalized at $9,000,000,000 and the great majority of their stock is held by people in England and other foreign countries, who have no more interest in the United States than the vampire has in its victim.

The statement is made that the Western Union Telegraph Company is capitalized at $90,000,000, and makes 5 per cent.; but that its plant could be duplicated with $15,000,000, showing that the actual rate of interest is 30 per cent, and that the same applies to numerous other corporations, thus making a source of great national danger.

The policy of the Government in paying high premiums for so many years to take up bonds not due so as to dispose of the accumulation of the treasury is denounced as idiotic, and reference is made to the professed inability of the Treasury Department to redeem the $50,000,000 of 4 per cents about to fall due.

$750,000,000 in the Treasury.

The address makes the remarkable statement that the Treasury contains $750,000,000 of money, but that the bankers who control the department fear that the release of $50,000,000 of ready money would break down the money market and ease the grip that unproductive capital has upon the people of the country. The burden of debt resting on the people, as shown by farm mortgage statistics, is discussed, and the following remedy proposed: "If the billions of dollars of bank and corporation paper, mortgages and other paper evidences of debt issued by individuals are good enough for the extortioners and the usurers, paper notes issued by all the people jointly, in the form of government notes, are better."

Debts of the Country.

The address then goes into details over the debts of the country, and refutes the charge that it would be improper for the government to loan money to individuals. It calls for the control of telegraph lines by the people, the same as the postal system, and says that the People's Party does not propose to stop at the reform proposed in its platform, as it is a progressive organization and cannot stand still.

An earnest appeal to the people to join the organization closes the address.

COW ON THE TRACK.

Serious Accident in Which an Engineer Lost His Life.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., July 23.—An engine drawing a passenger train on the Bald Eagle Railroad ran over a cow near Howard Station, throwing the engine from the track and killing Engineer Frank Wood of Tyrone.

Fireman Tom Spiker, of this city, and C. E. Walt, who was riding on the engine, were seriously hurt. The passengers were not injured.

Sensation in the Elliott Murder Trial.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 23.—There was another exciting scene in the Elliott murder trial during the morning. W. J. Elliott created a sensation by calling Prosecutor Hulling a liar, when in his argument he referred to charges against a female member of Elliott's family. Elliott's lawyer tried to stop him, but he wildly gesticulated and continued: "If I hang, I want to hang like a gentleman." The sheriff seized him at this juncture and forced him into a chair.

Left His Estate to His Housekeeper.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 23.—The will of Leonard B. Field, late of Dansville, in which he left an estate of $15,000 to his housekeeper and ignored his nephews and nieces, is contested by the latter on the ground that the deceased was a spiritualist, and believed that spirits give advice in temporal affairs and was in the habit of consulting them.

Tomato Canners Forming a Trust.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—It has just been learned that a movement is on foot to organize a trust in canned tomatoes. Agents are at work all over the country trying to induce the canners to enter into an agreement not to sell for less than 85 cents a dozen at the canneries. Already a large number of canners have signed the contract.

Six Sailors Desert.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Commander G. W. Wiltse, of the cruiser Boston of the white squadron, sent a communication to police headquarters giving the names and descriptions of six sailors who have deserted from his ship. He offers a reward of $10 each for the arrest and return of the [illegible]

BRUTAL MURDER.

A Young Girl Found With Her Throat Cut from Ear to Ear.

HARLETON, Pa., July 23.—Lattimer, a small mining town four miles from here, was the scene of a most brutal and cowardly murder during the forenoon.

Mrs. Garoyer went huckleberrying at an early hour and left her daughter Mary, aged 13, at home to attend the baby.

Upon her return shortly after noon time she found the doors bolted, and upon forcing them found the dead body of her daughter lying on the floor in a pool of blood, with her throat cut from ear to ear. At her side lay a big butcher knife.

At first it was thought that an assault had been attempted, as the clothes were badly torn and deranged, showing signs of a fierce struggle, and that the murderer killed the girl to cover the crime. But this is not sustained upon further examination.

It is supposed that a man entered the house to rob the family of their savings, which were very large. The box containing the savings of years is gone, and it is supposed the robber was caught in the act by the girl, whom he murdered to conceal his identity. There is no clue to the robber.

ALMY PROBABLY DEAD.

A Theory that the Hanover Assassin Committed Suicide.

HANOVER, N. H., July 23.—Though the feeling against the murderer of Christie Warden is as deep to-day as it was yesterday the pursuit is being gradually relaxed in so far as it has been kept by volunteers.

Clue after clue has been run down, only to find that there was no basis for the supposition that the murderer had been seen as reported. So, as nothing promised to come of their efforts, men engaged in the search have begun to return to their own business affairs.

As disappointment after disappointment has come to the marchers, a theory at first thrown aside has been taken up again and grows in strength.

This theory is that Almy has committed suicide.

In support of this is quoted Almy's expression when Miss Warden rejected his suit: "I haven't anything to live for now."

The Connecticut River is near the scene of the tragedy, and many believe that after committing the terrible crime Almy drowned himself.

MORE DISCOVERIES.

Nine Police Magistrates Said to be Implicated in the Bardsley Matter.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—It is rumored that discoveries have been made which will implicate nine of the police magistrates in this city in the Bardsley matter.

The charge is made that they bought their appointments as mercantile tax collectors, and each paid for his appointment the sum of $350. Furthermore, upon making the returns each was compelled to put up $200 additional to Bardsley.

If the charges are true the magistrates will have to resign.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

Desperate Attack of an Organized Gang of Highwaymen.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 23.—The body of Charles Fox, station agent at Dallas, was found in the woods in the mountains yesterday. He left the station with a large sum of money in his pocket Tuesday night and started to walk to his father's home in an adjoining town. A bullet hole was found in his head and his pockets had been turned inside out.

The murder is believed to be the work of an organized gang of desperadoes, who have committed at least a dozen highway robberies within a week and have shot at several persons who escaped them.

Founder Bradley's Scheme.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 23.—Founder James A. Bradley, of Asbury Park, has started another raid on the Sunday observance question. His latest sensation is threatening to start opposition drug stores, and to sell cigars and soda water at cost prices. This he says he will do if the regular drug store keepers do not join the Sunday closing movement. Founder Bradley says that if this will not have any effect he will sell the articles at less than cost.

How Mr. Blaine Passed the Day.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 23.—The weather was fine in Bar Harbor to-day and Mr. Blaine enjoyed the beautiful morning by taking a drive in a buckboard accompanied by Mrs. Blaine and his daughter. They passed up and down the village streets and then along the shore, returning home at noon.

Prominent Arrivals from Europe.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Miss Blaine, daughter of Secretary of State Blaine, arrived on the steamship Teutonic from Europe. Among other arrivals by the Teutonic were Ogden Mills, Colonel Howard Vincent, M. P. and wife, J. A. Logan, jr., Mrs. J. A. Logan. The time of the vessels run from Queenstown was five days twenty-one hours. One of the passengers Walker Hartwell, a lawyer of this city, died on board. Death was due to heart disease.

PEACE OR CONFLICT

The Tennessee Miners Will Decide To-Day.

GOV. BUCHANAN'S PROPOSITION

He Favors a Repeal of the Convict Lease System.

A Special Session of the Legislature to Settle the Question—The Mountain Men Asked to Yield Until the Law is Repealed—An Answer Expected Soon—No Trouble at Briceville To-day.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—Whatever may be the ultimate result of the trouble between the miners and the convicts, and incidentally the militia, there is certainly no danger of bloodshed to-day.

The question at issue is now in abeyance and will probably be decided definitely to-day at a miners' meeting.

After hearing arguments from both operators and miners and consulting many leading citizens of Knoxville, Gov. Buchanan decided to call an extra session of the Legislature for the purpose of modifying, if not abolishing the convict lease system.

He stated, however, that in the meantime the miners must allow the return of the convicts to Briceville and Coal Creek. Should they agree to this the militia would be withdrawn, but refusal would necessitate an order that the troops carry the convicts back at any cost.

Late word from Coal Creek is that the miners say that they will consent cheerfully to the return of the convicts pending action by the Legislature. A mass meeting of the citizens of Knoxville passed resolutions of sympathy with the miners.

No Danger at Briceville.

The sensational matter sent out by special correspondents of Northern and Western newspapers about a threatened riot to-day at Briceville is all bosh. There is nobody in Briceville for the miners to fight. The militia and the convicts and the guards are all in Knoxville. There is not a man in Briceville, nor has there been since Monday, who is not a miner or a friend of the miners.

Soldiers Distressed.

A more distressed and disgusted set of militia than those of the State of Tennessee, now assembled in force on the university grounds, has never been seen. These young men are sighing for battle. Colonel Sevier sighs loudest of all. And the worst pill they have been called upon to swallow is the "poor child" way in which the miners speak of them.

From reliable information it can be stated positively that the troops will not move before night. The miners, from reports received, are not sleeping. There has been a big demand for rifles here in the city, and to-morrow may bring forth a terrible conflict. If the miners decide to fight their available force will reach 5,000, and if they attack the troops it will probably be begun when the troops reach Clinton. The Gatling guns of the militia are to be mounted on flat cars.

Labor Commissioner Ford has just returned here from Coal Creek. Mr. Ford says the miners are more than ever determined that the convicts shall not work the mines; that they may submit to the military carrying the convicts back to the mines, but that as soon as one of the soldiers leave, the convicts will be released. Mr. Ford is the only State official who could be induced to talk, and he did not say much.

QUIET AT COAL CREEK.

There Will be No Trouble if the Convicts Are Kept Away.

COAL CREEK, Tenn., July 23.—The miners are much elated at their success so far without resistance, and say that no troops can be found who will come here and protect convicts. The leaders of the miners say the attack would not have been made but for the fact that many of the militia had told them they would not fight for convicts.

Conservative leaders here are decidedly against destroying property, but there are many who strongly favor burning the stockade. It is not likely that any mine machinery will be destroyed, as the men are convinced that they will eventually triumph and take charge of all the mines. Once let them think they cannot keep the convicts out, and they will tear down the machinery and set fire to every mine.

No one here has as yet any idea of what the State troops will do, or whether they will be ordered to come on from Knoxville or not. The delay has increased the hilarity of the men here at what they term the perishable goods boxed and shipped away. It increases, too, the hope that they have that the convicts will not be sent back.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

A Pennsylvania Sheriff Says He is the Victim of Spiteful Parties.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23.—George Randolph Woodward, the Sheriff of Elk County, Pa., was brought here during the morning and lodged in the police station charged with bigamy.

Woodward was married in 1872 to Miss Martha Early, of Elk County, and settled in Ridgeway, the county seat. Some months ago domestic troubles arose and they separated. About the same time rumor coupled the Sheriff's name with that of Mrs. May Taylor, or Miss May Foster, as she called herself, a fascinating blonde.

A month ago a couple presented themselves at the Methodist parsonage on Delaware avenue in this city and were married. They signed their names as George W. Randolph and Mary Foster. Charles Early, a brother of Woodward's wife, came here and, it is alleged, found that the couple married were the Sheriff and Miss Foster. A warrant was sworn out and extradition papers secured and the Sheriff was brought here to answer the charge.

In the police court he pleaded not guilty and was released in $500 bail. Woodward declares that he is innocent and that his arrest is the result of spite.

Another Revolt of English Troops.

LONDON, July 23.—Official circles are annoyed over the sensational article in Truth about a mutiny of the Second Battalion of the Coldstream Guards that occurred a week ago. The paper says that a day off duty, which the men had expected after their exacting duties in attending upon the Kaiser, was not granted, but that, instead, the guardsmen were ordered out in full marching order. Thereupon the first and third companies of the Battalion refused to obey the order, and persisted in such refusal until they finally yielded to the persistent pleadings of their officers and marched to Hyde Park for the usual drill.

Balmaceda's Cruelty.

LONDON, July 23.—Latest advices from Chili are to the effect that President Balmaceda has had shot at Valparaiso Richard Comming, the son of an Englishman, who was born in Chili. The prisons are filled with sufferers, without respect to age, class or sex. Two hundred persons are imprisoned in Valparaiso. No security is offered to foreigners. Judges are removed unless they are friendly to Balmaceda.

Arrested for a Brutal Crime.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Charles T. Tatro, aged 28, a locomotive engineer, of Hartford, Conn., was arrested in Brooklyn by New York detectives, charged with committing a brutal outrage on Augusta Usinger, a young German immigrant, whom he decoyed into a lonely spot in Connecticut on June 18 last. Tatro, who is unmarried, admits his guilt.

DEATH ON THE RAIL

A Lehigh Valley Express Train in a Crash.

RAN INTO A FREIGHT AT ELMIRA

An Engineer Killed and Two Others Badly Injured.

Freight Cars Piled Thirty Feet in the Air—The Locomotive Stripped and Thrown Down an Embankment—Trucks Torn Up for a Considerable Distance—None of the Passengers Injured.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 23.—One of the worst railroad wrecks seen in this vicinity for a long time occurred about 1 o'clock this morning.

A Lehigh Valley passenger train while crossing a switch opposite the tower on Pennsylvania avenue struck a Northern Central freight train with frightful force.

The freight cars were piled thirty feet in the air, the locomotive stripped and thrown down an embankment and the tracks torn up for considerable distance.

The engineer, James Hopkins, of the Lehigh train was killed, his fireman, M. W. Tillman of Waverly, and Baggagemaster John Daniels of Wilkesbarre were fatally injured.

Hopkins lived in Waverly and leaves a widow and several children.

It was miraculous that none of the passengers were injured.

THE FIGHT OFF.

Fitzsimmons and Hall May Go to New Orleans to Battle.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 23.—For the present the Fitzsimmons-Hall prize fight is off. So much pressure was brought against it that the authorities finally agreed to stop it.

It may take place to-morrow beyond the city limits, but in all probability the "mill" will come off in New Orleans.

It is said that arrangements have been made by which they will fight at Hudson just over the line in Wisconsin. Hall and his friends are now at the Metropolitan Hotel here and Fitzsimmons and Carroll are at the Ryan.

Visiting sportsmen are moving about waiting for the tip, but no authoritative statement regarding the battle ground has yet been made.

THE EASTPORT SEIZURE.

A Careful Investigation Is Being Made by the State Department.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The State Department is quite busy learning the details of the seizure of the Eastport fishermen, so as to be able to act intelligently when the time for action arrives.

The United States consul at the Canadian town next to Eastport is investigating things, and when he makes his report it will be quite competent for the department to take some very interesting steps towards obtaining an explanation of the case from Great Britain.

There is no danger of a repetition of the "outrage," as it is being called in lieu of a more definite term, and the department feels that haste in such an event would be unwise.

RIOT IN THE COAL REGION.

Strikers Make an Attack on Hungarian Miners.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., July 23.—A strike and a serious riot occurred last evening at Nottingham colliery, Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company.

On Monday last the coal company brought here a carload of foreign laborers and yesterday two more carloads came in. The new men were all recently imported Hungarians.

As fifty men, who enter the mine every night to clear the gangways and breasts of rock, were about to descend the shaft they were informed that the rate of wages would henceforth be reduced from $1.68 to $1.25 per day. The men held a consultation and refused to accept the reduction.

A large crowd of men and boys who were just leaving the breaker and mines, congregated around the gang and indorsed their decision.

As soon as it was definitely known that the rock men would not go into the mine Foreman Connor dispatched a messenger to the barracks, where the company had installed their recent importations, and in a few minutes a body of the Huns were entering the colliery yard, every man in new working outfit, which had been provided by the company.

Their appearance was the signal for an outburst of hooting and groans from the men who were waiting to see the outcome of the affair. As the new men under the leadership of Superintendent Leckie and Foreman Connor walked in the direction of the shaft a volley of stones and pieces of coal fell upon them. The throwing of missiles continued until several of the Huns dropped.

The Huns, who were entirely unacquainted with the cause for this display of hostility, cowered and shivered with fear, and despite urging from Connor, seemed unable to take part in their own defense. At this time a leader among the sympathizers suggested that the men be driven to their barracks, and a rush was made and the Huns were routed.

The Huns have barred themselves in their barracks and, as they are entirely friendless, it is probable that the company will take them in the mines under strong guards.

Pot Pie Dumplings

BY MRS. DEARBORN,
Principal Boston Cooking School.

Mix and sift together 1 pint pastry flour, 2 heaping tea sp. Cleveland's Baking Powder and ½ tea sp. salt. Beat 1 egg until thick and light, add ¾ cup cold water, stir this into the dry mixture, and enough more water to make a dough stiff enough to hold its shape when dropped from the spoon.

Drop the dumplings on a plate a little distance apart and cook in a closely covered steamer for fifteen minutes; or, drop them on top of the boiling stew and cook for the same length of time.

The secret of having them light and tender lies in their not being disturbed while cooking, and in not having much liquid around them, if cooked on top of the stew.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

DESERTED THE COUNT.

His Bride's Relatives Preferred Bread to a Mysterious Title.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Count H. F. Blucher, whose romantic wedding at Milwaukee to Miss Alma Loeb of Brooklyn, has been heralded all over the world, is registered at the Richelieu.

The "Countess" has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

A dispatch from Milwaukee says the Countess' parents were summoned by telegraph, but before they arrived the bride's sister had stolen the bride, and Moritz Fitchenberg, husband of the Countess' sister, had drawn up a document which Count Blucher had signed pledging himself to place no obstacles in the way of his wife's procuring a divorce if she so desired.

The secret of the bitter denouement to the Count's romance was the impertinent inquiry: "How are you going to buy bread for the Countess?"

The Count was sent over to America by his father to trade his title for 4 million in cash. He was not to listen to smaller offers.

While looking around for bargains he lost his heart. His wife has but a small income

MASONS IN SESSION.

The Convocation of the General Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons Begun.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 23.—The General Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons of the United States of America began its twenty-eight triennial session here at high noon.

This body is the largest Masonic body in the world, having a membership of 141,901. It is also the oldest body in the United States, and it will celebrate its centennial in 1892. The address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Winston and the response by General Grand High Priest D. T. Day of Buffalo.

The report of the General Grand Secretary showed that in two years the net growth of the order has been 18,949. The total membership now is 141,901. Since 1889 $186,796 were collected and $168,097 expended. There are 3,069 enrolled chapters.

Steel Works Shut Down.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 23.—The Pennsylvania Steel Works at Steelton have been shut down, owing to the trouble over the scale of wages presented by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers. During the night meetings were held at Steelton, and at 6 in the morning there was a parade, headed by a band of music. Sheriff Keller, in a brief speech, counseled good order, and was received with cheers. All the saloons are closed and so far there has been no disturbance.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Gas for Ripleyville.

Several capitalists connected with a New York gas company have been in Westfield to look over the field with the idea of establishing gas works there to supply Westfield, Cranford and possibly Fanwood. Several attempts have been made to put an electric-light plant there, but the town is still lighted by oil lamps. The town is now spending about $1,000 for street lighting, and the Town Committee claims to be willing to grant a charter o any reliable company that will immediately introduce gas or electricity as an illuminating power.

THE BIG 6 ALONE CAN SAVE US.

A Law Said to be Already Drafted Providing for the Bonding of Plainfield.

As exclusively told in yesterday's PRESS, a special meeting of the Common Council will be held next Monday evening. It is the purpose of the Big 6 at that meeting to grant franchises to the Plainfield Aqueduct Co. and the Plainfield Sewerage Co. for the construction, maintenance and operation of a system of water supply and a system of sewerage in this city.

The day will come when even the enemies of the Big 6 will thank them for such action. Already the scheme of the bosses opposed to the Big 6 is showing itself. They propose to bond the city to build the sewers. Of this THE PRESS has already warned the people, and they are aroused and vigilant. It will be "the issue" at the next city election.

Meantime read the following, inspired by one who thinks as do the opponents of the Big 6 and the opponents of their plan to have the sewers built without taxing the people. The article is from the New York World:

It is proposed to dispose of the sewage of Plainfield and neighboring townships by gravitation to tide-water. The townships to which it is proposed to extend this sewage system are Fanwood (Scotch Plains), Westfield, Cranford and possibly Roselle and Linden.

The project involves the scheme of building a grand trunk sewer through Union county to Staten Island Sound.

Many of the citizens of Plainfield consider it imperative that some adequate system of drainage should be adopted in the near future. The subject has been discussed ever since the city was incorporated, in 1869, but the barriers in the way of the several projects from time to time discussed seem to have been insurmountable.

Plainfield lies in what may be called a dish-like tract of land at the foot of a range of the Orange Mountains. The only water course within its borders is a little stream called Green Brook.

Sesspools and vaults are the only means of disposing of the sewage of the city, as well as of the surrounding villages. In these villages the need of a sewage system is not so keenly felt. But in Plainfield, with a population of about 15,000 and thousands of driven and dug wells yielding the only water supply, the need is apparent.

The proposed sewage distribution by gravity to tide water would of course, so its projectors say, be practical only through the united and harmonious action of the authorities of Plainfield and of the townships benefited. The scheme could not be carried on without an enactment by the Legislature of a law to cover the case.

The principal expense would, probably, have to be borne by the city of Plainfield, for that town would receive the most benefit; but the projectors of the idea say that they recognize that fact, and that the city will be ready to do its part. The idea is to issue bonds for the work, the city and towns interested becoming responsible according to the share of the expense apportioned.

The system, it is asserted, would be a comparatively inexpensive one, considering the great benefit to be derived.

From Plainfield to Westfield there is a slight rise to the grade, and a pumping station would probably have to be established at Westfield, but from that point to the Sound there is sufficient gravity to carry the sewage to tide-water. These facts have been ascertained by those who have had surveys made in the interest of this gravity system.

Some of the citizens of Plainfield advocate the erection of disposal works as the best solution of the perplexing question. But others point to the great cost of the plant and running expenses. They say that East Orange, with a population about equal to that of Plainfield, spent $95,847.80 for a disposal works plant alone, while all other constructions, including $30,000 for real estate, cost $322,000, or a grand total of about $418,000, and the cost of maintenance is about $900 a month. The system is said to work admirably. But a committee appointed to investigate the whole matter reported that in their opinion it would "ultimately be found economical to dispose of the sewage by gravity to tide-water".

It is understood that a lawyer is now engaged in drafting a bill making it lawful for the building of the proposed sewer. The bill will be presented to the Legislature next winter.

TRYING TO STEAL A RIVER NOW.

Cranford and Rahway Citizens Will Organize to Fight John Kean the Grasper.

Such a brazen effort is being made in Union County to steal the Rahway River that residents on the Orange Mountains begin to tremble for the safety of their foundations. An Elizabeth company, having forced a system of water-works upon Plainfield after a bitter struggle with the inhabitants of that city, has fixed its eye and is trying to fix its clutches upon the Rahway River at Cranford, where a valuable water-works charter exists. It is this charter that the Elizabeth company is after. A mass meeting of the citizens of Cranford and Rahway is to be held in the Cranford Town Hall this evening to protect the rights of those two towns, and to demonstrate the fact that a few scheming citizens of the somewhat effete county town cannot ride roughshod over the entire county. To-night's meeting promises to be an extremely lively one.

The Stand-Pipe Overflowing.

The pumping engines of the Plainfield Water Supply Company are now working to perfection, the 20 wells are delivering all the water that is called for, and the half-a-million gallon stand-pipe was filled to overflowing, yesterday.

A PRESS reporter was sent for by one of the company, to see the test. When the engines had been run a little while at the start, the wells lowered seven inches, but after that they never dropped a particle.

One pump filled 90 feet of the big stand-pipe in four-and-a-half hours. After the pipe had been filled, the water was run over its top. The sight of the fall (140 feet) was beautiful. The sun shining on the spray made a fine rainbow. Yesterday's test of the pumping engines and of the wells was thoroughly satisfactory.

MILLIONS DUE THE MORRISES.

And a Big Portion of the Plum Belongs to a Plainfield Man.

Edward L. Morris, formerly a resident of Putnam avenue, and whose wife is a daughter of Seymour Marsh of this city, is one of a number of heirs who are to share in a big fortune due to them from the United States government, as detailed in the following interesting story:

History is likely to suffer from a most important contradiction, and active measures are now being taken to prove that statements which have come down from generation to generation, and which have been copied into every cyclopædia extant are wrong in a very important historical respect. The statement which is now in a way to be proved incorrect, if not absolutely false in every particular, is that Robert Morris, the Revolutionary patriot and financier, of whom Edward L. Morris is a grandson, died in a debtor's prison and lies buried in Christ churchyard, Philadelphia.

What was known up to a very recent period of Robert Morris, and what is published in all the cyclopædias, is that he was born in Lancashire, England, in 1736, received a common school education only and was brought to this country by his father when about fifteen years of age. He entered the counting house of Charles Willing, a Philadelphia merchant, and continued in the firm for many years, gradually rising, by his integrity and ability, until, in 1754, he became a partner. When the Revolution broke out he had acquired a very large fortune and the firm was second to none in the State in the extent of its business. He at once ardently sided with the patriot party, and by assenting to the non-importation act of 1765 sacrificed great trade advantages for the sake of principle.

In 1775 he was a delegate to the Continental Congress and was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, though he had opposed its adoption as ill-timed. He served for several years on the Committee on Ways and Means, and in that way was of great and important assistance to the cause of freedom, not only on the score of his sagacity as a financier, but by his personal credit. More than once, history goes on to state, he rescued Congress from a seemingly fatal crisis by borrowing money on his own name and that of his firm. The $1,500,000 which enabled Washington to carry out his last campaign against Cornwallis was raised by Morris's exertions and on his own notes. From 1781 to 1784 Robert Morris was Superintendent of Finance, and was vested with complete control over the monetary affairs of the country. Here again he several times used his reputation as a man of great wealth to rescue the Treasury from embarrassment.

Robert Morris was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and was afterward United States Senator from Pennsylvania. He was more than once offered the office of Secretary of the Treasury, but refused and suggested the name of Alexander Hamilton. Unfortunate land speculations proved disastrous to his wealth, and on May 7, 1806, the man who had controlled the finances of a rising nation and by his personal exertions saved it from bankruptcy died in a debtors' prison.

Thus runs history. It has been accepted as truth. Four years ago, or about that time, a law was passed by Congress to reimburse the heirs of Robert Morris the $1,500,000 which was due to him, with interest now amounting to in the neighborhood of $8,000,000.

The heirs have been active in consequence, and some interesting discoveries have been made in the tracing of relationship, and among the facts which are established beyond controversy are the following:

Robert Morris was born in England in 1734, but he did not die, as related by history, in a debtors' prison in Philadelphia, but on a small farm in the neighborhood of Farmingdale, N. J., in 1826, twenty years later than recorded in history. During his last years of life he was cared for and devotedly nursed by a granddaughter named Mary Hurley, now living at Toms River, N. J. Robert Morris had three children, Samuel, James and Joseph. Samuel resided until his death in the vicinity of Farmingdale, James went to Eatontown, and Joseph went to parts unknown. The nearest relatives to the historic Robert are three living granddaughters, Mrs. Hurley of Toms River, N. J., age ninety-two years; Mrs. Content Sutphen, living at Colts Neck, five miles from Freehold, N. J., and Mrs. Adaline Woolley, age seventy-four years, living at Long Branch, N. J., and one living grandson, Edward L. Morris, the Plainfielder, who is a son of James Morris. These four cousins are therefore the direct claimants of the $8,000,000 due from the United States.

All of the heirs, however, speak more proudly and with apparently a deeper sense of satisfaction at the prospect of being proved so closely related to the great financier of the Revolution, Robert Morris, than of coming into possession of the wealth which that proof will bring. During his residence in this city Edward Morris was a Councilman and Fire Commissioner, and once ran for Mayor.

A TERRIBLE SCARE.

Almost a Frightful Accident on the Jersey Central.

A number of Plainfielders on the express train leaving Plainfield at 10:04, yesterday morning, had, in common with the other passengers on the train, a terrible scare.

At Bergen Point the tracks were being repaired, and all trains were shifted around the point of repairs by a very abrupt switch and very sudden "cut-out" curve from the main track.

The crew of the express had not been notified of the change, and the train was not signaled as it drew nigh.

The engineer was making up for lost time, and the train struck the switch at lightning speed.

In an instant it was careening over on the side, and the passengers, thrown promiscuously to that side of the cars that was uppermost, expected every second that the train would be over on its side and that they would be dashed headlong and ground to pieces.

The entire train, locomotive and all, was on the verge of toppling over, when the engineer succeeded in stopping it, and it then righted itself.

The stop was made just as the abrupt switch at the other end of the "cut-out" curve was reached. Had the train struck this, all ready to topple over as it was, a fearful wreck must have have resulted.

The trainmen and the old travelers on the train said they had never had a greater fright in their lives. The engineer displayed much righteous indignation in reporting the matter to headquarters, and the issuing of orders calculated to renew vigilance among signal men all along the line was the result.

ORGANIZED SNEAK THIEVES.

The Police Get a Clue Concerning Their Identity.

A band of sneak thieves who use boys as their tools is said to be operating in this city.

Yesterday a lad who was pumping water for the family of W. W. Knickerbocker, at 108 West Front street, stole a pocket-book full of money from the room of a servant girl, while he was supposed to be up in the tank room seeing if the tank was full.

A warrant was issued for his arrest, but meanwhile, not thinking that the theft had been discovered, he returned to Mr. Knickerbocker's home and when charged with his guilt confessed.

He was promised immunity from punishment if he would return the stolen property, which he did.

The police regret that such a promise was made, as through the lad they hoped to secure the conviction of the gang which they believe is operating through boys in just the way that succeeded at Mr. Knickerbocker's. They think, however, that they have struck clues that will lead to the arrest of the gang.

A DASTARD'S DEED.

Whoever Put Pepper on the Ball Room Floor Will Get Harsh Punishment When Caught.

At the recent hop at the Casino, some dastardly miscreant sprinkled a quantity of red pepper in the ball room of the Union County Country Club. The officers of the club are investigating all clues likely to disclose the identity of the person responsible for the trick, and will deal harshly with him. The casino had been prettily decorated for the occasion, and prominent society people from Plainfield, Netherwood, New York and Brooklyn were present. When the dancing began no one noticed the presence of the cayenne pepper, but the tripping of feet and the swaying of skirts soon raised a dust that was simply overpowering in the heated and crowded ball room. Coughing and sneezing soon became so general and so violent that a hasty adjournment of those present was taken to another room, while servants with damp sawdust and brushes swept out the ball room.

THE PRESS a Friend of All Alike.

Under the heading "A Good Daily Paper" The Union Motor, an excellent religious and temperance periodical published and edited by the Rev. F. G. Warnick and wife, of this city, says:

THE DAILY PRESS, of this city, has manifested itself as a friend of the Negro. We should lay aside Political distinctions, and support only those who favor us.

The editor of The Press opens his paper to our best interest—seems to show partiality to none; and also papers to colored pastors, as well as to white.

We recommend, to the many readers of The Motor, The Daily Press, as a paper full worthy their perusal and support.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. A NEW DEPARTURE at the 5 and 10c Store!

Having long felt the need of a reliable TOOTH POWDER in which we had perfect confidence, and being able to secure the co-operation of parties familiar with and capable of the manufacture of a first-class article, we are now ready to present to the public a Powder equal to any and superior to many of the high price Powders now on the market, we having gone in the manufacture on a large scale to supply dealers throughout the country, and being desirous of introducing it to our friends in Plainfield and vicinity, we have determined to offer this superior article known as

for a limited period, at the low price of 10c. Each bottle put up in handsome style, full weight, and guaranteed strictly pure and unsurpassed in quality.

To satisfy any doubt we mention the fact that Mr. W. A. Campbell, with a long experience as a pharmacist, and for some time employed in a prominent drug store in our city, has entire charge of the manufacturing department.

NEW JERSEY NATIVES HAVE A PICNIC.

The Pottersville Tribe Catch a Glimpse of Civilized People From Plainfield.

The denizens of northern New Jersey had a fine time yesterday, when three hundred people from Plainfield contributed a dollar apiece in order that the countrymen who had never before seen anything of the kind might spend a day gazing at them in undisguised wonder and admiration.

Had the Reform Club excursion gone to Washington Rock, Wetumpka Falls, or Tier's Lake, the excursionists would have had this chance—they might have left and come back home at any moment. But from Black River Glen Park—the stupendous title by which the outskirts of Pottersville is known—one had no chance to escape, unless he walked, before 5 p. m., which was the hour set for the departure of the one train.

"A nice quiet day" was what the people got—just such a day as they might have had at Chimney Rock—only the glen of Black River is n't nearly as romantic or interesting as that back of Bound Brook, and the falls are not by any means so beautiful or graceful as those in the gorge back of Chimney Rock known as Buttermilk. The highest fall on the Black River is possibly three feet—or maybe four. And this is what the worthy patriarch who got up the excursion called the Yosemite of New Jersey. Only he said "Yoz-em-ight".

Let it not be understood that the Plainfield people did not have a good time. The place was a dead one—very dead; but everybody good-naturedly accepted things as they came, and passed the day pleasantly. The pure country air was above criticism—and when there was nothing else to praise one could very conscientiously say a good word for the wholesome country dinner given at the village hotel. But as most of the excursionists took their luncheons with them; few enjoyed the novelty of having the regular guests at the hotel turn waiters, in a larksome mood, and dish out milk and apple pie and fresh meats and new vegetables to the visitors.

But the river—and the falls—and the glen! Those who had anticipated a sheet of water measured by miles were sadly disappointed. Two clumsy mud scows that by courtesy were called boats made trips—at five cents a head—as far as the stream was navigable, which was a distance of perhaps three hundred feet, and back. The fact that each boat was grounded three or four times on each voyage added spice and novelty to the trip. A number of the disciples of Isaak Walton had great faith in the assurances of the patriarch that the fishing in the river was great, and they took their rods along. After some search they found a pool—the one cool, shaded, lovely spot of the section—where the water had a decent depth, and cast their lines. The water here was eight feet deep. Elsewhere it did well to reach one's ankles—and where it touched the knee the depth was amazing. Lounging on the rocks surrounding this pool, the fishermen patiently angled the day away, and when they had landed a total catch of four eels and a sucker they had caught every fish larger than a minnow in the stream. Toward evening it was suggested that three miles up there was excellent bass fishing. One adventurous young man walked—he said—forty minutes, when he came to the head of the river. He reported that one old man pumping continually from a well up on the hillside furnished all the water and kept the river from running dry. The pumper stopped at noon—the young man added—for fifteen minutes' rest and luncheon, and that caused the fluctuation in the height of the water which the fishermen thought was the tide.

The most noticeable feature of Black River Glen Park is the abundance of signs stuck prominently about. One of them announces that everybody is welcome; another invites them to come again. Several, strewn promiscuously about, caution visitors not to break the ferns. "Enjoy yourselves,"—says one—"but do n't pull up the trees by the roots, or trample on the plants and flowers"—or words to that effect. Before one sign one is expected to pause impressed and reverent, for "Here the Indians crossed". One is left to divine what they crossed, or when, for the only evidence of their passage are a number of crosses and arrow heads, rudely carved by jackknives, in the bark of adjacent trees, and the inscription on one of them: "James Barlow, 1876".

The three-foot fall—the Yosemite itself—is the dividing corner of three counties and four townships, and might afford a very secure, if uncomfortable, retreat, for a fugitive from the local constables.

"Hi, there!"—shouted some one, yesterday—"get out of the river, or you 'll wash it over the banks and drown out the picnic grounds." The person addressed looked down, and sure enough there was quite a gathering of dew on the ground, and the soles of his shoes were damp. This, however, was not in the moistest part of the stream. That was found by a Park avenue hatter, who fell overboard from one of the scows, while racing against the other, and got wet up to his ankles, feet first.

The biggest of the four eels caught was by a Plainfield magistrate, but as his line subsequently got tangled among the rocks and he lost a one-cent sinker and two three-cent hooks, besides two fat, healthy earthworms, he was considerably out of pocket despite the mammoth haul.

To get to Pottersville—from the station of which the excursionists walked a good mile to the Park—the train switched off from the Jersey Central at White House, and took a run 'cross lots, over what is called the Rockaway Valley railway, but which might appropriately be styled the Rock-a-bye Baby railway, instead. The road was built by the farmers of the region to develop their land and give them a chance to get their goods to market, and it is now run in an earnest but amateur way by their sons. It is doing a great deal for that section of the country, but as a passenger line it is something to be experienced not more than once in a lifetime. Doubtless it will be improved; in time, but now each train plunges up and down hill, through hollows, corn fields and orchards, climbs over rail fences, jumps brooks and frog-ponds, and winds and curves and twists around and about, in a very bewildering and uncertain fashion. The only thing that saved the excursionists from wholesale seasickness was the fact that the train paused every once in awhile, in its race over the billows of land, to take breath to climb up the next hill and tumble down the other side. On the return trip two locomotives had to be manipulated in very primitive fashion, pulling, pushing and hauling first one section and then the other, for nearly two hours, before the trip back to White House was successfully made.

It transpired during one of several halts by the wayside, on the return trip, why the patriarch was so proud of the Black River section, and so eager to get a crowd of people together to whom he could show it off. While a number of the young men of the excursion were having a game of ball in a meadow, waiting for the train to start up again, the patriarch pointed to three buildings which constituted the hamlet of Farmersville. There—he said—he used to keep store when he was a young fellow. He 'd go out in the fields and fly a kite two or three days, till a customer went into the store, then he 'd haul in the kite, go in and sell a spool of thread, a pound of sugar, or a gimlet, and resume his kite flying. He pointed out an ancient dame picking blackberries. She was a little girl when I was here—he said.

For the natives of the wilds which the Plainfielders invaded, the Reform Club excursion was a great big picnic. They enjoyed immensely the glimpse of civilized people that they got, and the brass band that the visitors took with them was a revelation and a joy forever. The village maidens had never seen a rarer or more beautiful sight than the shining horns and the spick and span uniforms the gay and giddy musicians wore.

It was a great day for the country people—but they'll never again see such a crowd from this city.

The Charges Against Mr. Yatman to be Investigated.

The executive committee of the Children's Aid and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children met at the Boys' Lodging House, on Market street, Newark, Tuesday afternoon. There were present President S. H. Blain, E. F. Dorrance, Frank Bartlett, A. VanArsdale; Horace Alling, Mr. Woodruff and Frank E. Wilcox, the counsel of the society.

It was decided to hold a thorough and searching investigation of the charges against superintendent Yatman, and arrangements were made to have the board of directors begin an investigation at an early date. Mr. Yatman solicits the fullest investigation. He has a host of friends in this city, where he has held revival services in the past with great success, and they extend to him their sympathy and best hopes.

THE BOOM STILL ON.

What Chief of Police John M. C. Marsh Says About Ripley Hill, Westfield—He is in It, and Has Been From the Beginning.

Inquiries are made daily about the sale of lots on Ripley Hill, Westfield. That formidable, peripatetic, John M. C. Marsh, who knows everything about Westfield worth knowing, surveys all lots, assesses all the property, writes most of the fire policies, and jugs most of the rogues of adjoining townships, was inquired of the other day by a PRESS reporter, about Ripley Hill. "Are there any sales there now? Is the boom still on? Are you in it?"

That busy man, who was rushing to the town rooms with his Assessment Book under his arm, delivered himself thus: "Yes: there are sales, and lots of them. The boom is still on. I am in it, and have been from the beginning. Heretofore I have reported sales as conveyancer of $20,000 or $30,000 worth of lots on Ripley Hill. Since then, and within a few weeks, I have prepared descriptions of ten lots on Ripley Hill in addition to those previously reported. The lots now being sold are on Park street, where the horse racing is exhibited. The latest purchasers are the Rev. Wesley Martin, the Rev. Robert R. Doherty, Ph. D., William Campbell, (3 lots), William S, and Littleton Welch, J. Wallace Cox, (3 lots).

"For the last few weeks, in fact for the last few months, I have surveyed more lots on Ripley Hill for actual transfer than for all the rest of Westfield; and Westfield is growing rapidly and in all directions. Let every man decide for himself the question of Ripley Hill boom. Are these lots purchased by those who intend building?' Every lot, so far as I know, and, as I believe, is purchased with the bona fide intention to build, and at once. 'Why do lots sell on The Hill so rapidly?' There are many reasons. To my mind, the lots themselves are superior in location, on the highest and most desirable ground to be found on the Central Railroad. The roads are good, excellent. The street trees are regular, uniform in size, well grown. The lots are sold very low because the owner has a great deal of land and so can afford it, when one having a few acres only could not."

Prize Fights Risky, Even in Bound Brook.

Sporting circles in Bound Brook were much excited yesterday by the report that Supt. Smith, of the American Engine Company, in which Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, is interested, had gathered the names of fifty persons who were present at the prize fight Saturday night, both as spectators and interested parties. It was said that he would procure warrants for their arrest on the charge of trespassing on and injuring the property of the Engine Company. The fight took place in a barn, on property which the company recently purchased. On their arrival the crowd found the barn locked. They at once proceeded to effect not only one, but several entrances.

The Peach Crop.

Peach growers would seem always to want a chance to wail. With the first cold spring storm that moaned that untimely frosts had killed the fruit buds; now that it is proved that the fruit is found in Delaware this season in greater quantities than almost ever before, they complain of the mass of fruit being too great for the trees and breaking them down; that there are too many peaches, more than can be handled, and that prices will be ruinously low. The fact is that peaches will be very plentiful, and prices will range within the reach of every one.

The King's Daughters to Meet.

The order of the King's Daughters, including a number from this city, will hold a general meeting at Ocean Grove on Thursday, Aug. 6. A special train on the Pennsylvania railroad will leave Elizabeth at 8:40 a. m., returning from Ocean Grove at 6:20 p. m. Tickets for the round trip have been placed at $1. It is expected that the meeting this year will surpass all previous efforts.

The Fighting Coons Fined $3 Each.

DeWitt Henry, William Saunders and Winfield DeMott, who were prominent in Saturday night's fracas, as told exclusively in THE PRESS, were arrested yesterday and taken before Judge Coles. They were fined three dollars each. Henry Stevens, who lives in Plainfield, is also wanted, and will be treated likewise when caught within the limits of the borough.

Tickled by One of Judge Rice's Sentences.

Patrick Dooley, who stole $60 worth of brass hose-couplings from Mrs. Burke of this city, six months ago, was sentenced by Judge Rice at Elizabeth, yesterday morning, to one year in State prison. Dooley said: "I'm as pleased as though I'd found a hundred dollars."

Paralyzed By the Fall.

Mary Wagner, who injured her spine in falling from a cherry tree, last week, was taken to the Plainfield Hospital, Saturday. The fall, although only ten feet in distance, proved very serious, causing paralysis from her arms down. Her friends have little hope of her recovery.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

DOLLY'S TEA PARTY.

Everyone Present Had Lots of Fun, Except Poor Zip.

Zip was a crow with a coat as black and glossy as coat could be. He was not hatched in the top of a tall hemlock tree, as he should have been, but under a big Brahma hen. The egg, which Ben had found in a nest in the woods, had been given to little Dolly for a keepsake. But Dolly had slyly tucked it under the old hen's wing to hatch. And it did.

The mother hen knew that the little, black, scrawny thing, with such a big head, did not belong to her family of dainty chicks. She pecked Zip so sorely that Dolly took him away and brought him up by hand. And Zip grew very fast.

He liked the best food to eat, and the warmest corner in the kitchen. He used to watch Towser's bowl, and when any meat was set down for him he would pounce upon the little dog's back. Seizing his ears in his big, sharp beak, he pinched them so hard that Towser would run howling away. Then naughty Zip would eat the meat.

Dolly had no brothers or sisters small enough to play dolls with her, so Zip was made to do duty for both. He would sit, very solemn, upon the top of the old spinning wheel in the attic, with a red cravat tied about his black throat. With a critical eye he watched Dolly dress and undress her children, all the while chattering and asking Zip's advice, to which he would respond very promptly in crow language.

One day Dolly made a tea party. She only invited Towser and Zip and the dolls. She put on bits of bread and cake for Towser, herself and the dolls, but for Zip—what do you think? Corn—just bright yellow corn! And to tease him a little Dolly put it in a wide-mouthed bottle.

Zip could see it, but Dolly thought his head too big to go in. Zip danced about the bottle, pecking at it with ruffled feathers, and croaking angrily. Then, to Dolly's dismay, he plunged his head deep into the corn.

But it would not come out, and in a moment Zip was hopping about the attic with the bottle on his head.

Dolly tried to catch him, but he was too spry for her, and slid off the side of the attic stairway, breaking the bottle and scattering the corn all over the stairs.

Zip did not stop to preen his tumbled plumage, but with feathers all awry he made haste to swallow every kernel of the corn before any more tricks could be played upon him.—Christine Stephens, in Our Little Ones.

STORY OF A WOLF.

When a Cub He Was Tame But Later On Left His Benefactor.

You wouldn't suppose that a wolf could be trained to obey a master, would you? But patience can do almost anything, and the little boy in the picture made a playmate and a friend of the animal which sits so quietly before him.

But that is because he found the wolf when it was very, very young—the tiniest sort of a cub, in fact.

The mother had been killed, and the boy discovered the helpless little creature all alone in the forest. He took it home with him and watched it and fed it, and even petted it. The baby wolf grew larger every day, and the boy began to teach it little tricks, which it learned as naturally as a dog would have done.

It carried a basket in its mouth, it learned to push up the latch with its paw, it "died" and "came to life" upon command.

But behind the little mountain house where the boy lived there was a great, dark forest. One day the tame wolf stole away into the wilderness and shade, and although the boy called it and hunted it day after day, it never came back.

Nature was strongest, after all.—N. Y. World.

His Hopes Were Crushed.

A new pupil came into a Cincinnati school the other day, and there being no desk for him, the teacher told him to "sit on the front seat for the present." He was given some slight attention during the day, but, when school was dismissed, still clung to his seat. "Well, Harry," said the teacher, "are you not going home?" "Yes, ma'am," the boy replied, "but I'm waiting for the present. I want to take it home." The teacher laughed, but attempted no explanation, and Harry walked sadly out, realizing that life is full of delusive hopes, and things are seldom what they seem.

One of Thousands.

Theorizer—I can't understand it. I really can't. Here you left a comfortable home in Europe and came to this country because you wanted to be your own landlord, yet you settle right down here in a big city and pay more rent for a dingy slum cellar than you paid in Europe for your whole farm. Why don't you go west, where you can get land for nothing, or else go back to your pastoral home in Europe?

New Arrival—The west is too far to walk, and Europe is too far to swim.—Good News.

A Satisfactory Criterion.

Brer Rosch—Who dat man I pass yonder lookin' so mad, Brer Simyun?

Brer Simyun—Hit's a feller named Dodgyness, which he's mad 'cause I would'n' len' him fi' cents. When de sheriff sole ole marster out, 'fo' de wah, dat niggah did'n' fetch but seven hundred dollars, an' dat's my opinion of um now."—Harper's Bazar.

A Guilty Conscience.

Tiff Johnson went out fishing again one day last week. He had a nice lunch fixed up, but upon arriving at the creek he discovered that he had lost it, so he retraced his steps. Meeting a large, satisfied-looking negro who was picking his teeth, Tiff asked:

"Did you pick up anything in the road?"

"No, sah, I didn't pick up nuffin'. Couldn't a dog hab found it, and eat it up?"—Texas Siftings.

Accommodating.

"They tell me you and your wife have separated. How came it to pass?"

"To please others."

"Please others?"

"Yes, I married just to please others, and in a month or two everybody said we wouldn't live together very long. So I left her. I knew it would please the folks to fulfill their prophecies."—Boston Transcript.

Things That Take Time.

Bunce—Bowser, you've had that newspaper two hours; aren't you nearly through with it?

Bowser—Yes; I've read the Cadsly divorce case, the Bowery double murder, the St. John's choir scandal and the Jamaica Plains ghost story. I've only to read the foreign news, the domestic politics and the market reports. Give it to you in five minutes.—Puck.

"The Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Primus—Briggs has been courting an heiress, who, by the way, was old enough to be his mother, but she married his rival.

Secundus—Yes, I know; and yet Briggs sent them an epithalamium he wrote and set to music.

Primus—Very generous. Was it sung at the wedding?

Secundus—No. The tune was "Old Hundred."—Life.

Doing Time for Time.

Prison-Visitor—And what brought you here, my poor man?

Convict—Havin' too much time on me hands.

Visitor—Ah! idleness is indeed the parent of crime.

Convict—That ain't it, boss. I was caught with three watches in me pocket that I couldn't account for.—Judge.

A Delay in the Proceedings.

Mrs. Slimson (to little Willie Slimson, who has been taking in the ball game)—So that's where you have been, is it? You just wait until your father gets home, young man, and he will give you a good trouncing!

Willie (confidingly)—He won't be home yet awhile. He staid for the last inning.—Harper's Bazar.

Ecclesiastical Item.

Teacher—What are the names of the seven days of the week?

Boy—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

"That's only six days. You have missed one. When does your mother go to church?"

"When pa buys her a new hat."—Texas Siftings.

Positive Proof.

Returned Explorer—Don't you believe my statement that I reached the north pole?

Scientist—Not without further proof.

Explorer—Well, here is positive proof. This block of wood is a part of the pole which I cut off with my own hand and brought home.—Munsey's Weekly.

An Offset.

He—Geraldine, you do not love me.

She—Have I broken our engagement?

He—No; but you wore Capt. Farrar's flowers to-night instead of mine.

She—But yesterday I ate your bonbons first.—Judge.

Best They Could Do.

Mr. De Quaker—So the Westends have gone to New York. They move in the best society, I presume.

Miss Dibble (of Philadelphia)—Well, y-e-s, that is—the best society in New York.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Correct Bill.

Showman—Look here. Your bill says: "Forty-nine days' board for camel." You've only had him seven days.

Keeper—That's all right; that camel has seven stomachs. See?—Puck.

On Her Face.

Miss Spry—Jane hates the smell of powder.

Miss Envious—And yet she has it near her all the time.—Judge.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

The Very Latest Styles in Hats, Gowns, Etc.

Hats to Be Worn at the Seashore—A Pretty Dress That Dampness Won't Spoil—The Proper "Get Up" for an Afternoon's Stroll.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

You are going to the seashore this summer, and you want a hat that will not be spoiled just as soon as the sea air touches it. So you must provide yourself with one without feathers upon it, for as everyone who has been to the seashore knows feathers become very dismal looking affairs after a little exposure to sea air, fog and mist.

A very useful style of hat is beige straw, or indeed any fancy straw, because it is already partly trimmed and requires but little to make it become really a thing of beauty. The open work straws are the same, requiring only a fancy bow or a gay wreath of flowers to make them as ornamental as a heavily-trimmed, plain straw hat.

For your seashore hat, you will find that one of the fancy straws with a broad brim, looped up at the back, is becoming, serviceable and dressy. Catch the brim at the back with a bow of cornflower blue ribbon. Plant a large bow of wide blue ribbon right on the front of the crown, letting the loops and ends stand upright in a nice smart fashion, wire them a little to be sure that they stay in shape, and stick a gold-headed pin somewhere in the bow. Around the edge of the brim run a light wreath of corn flowers in various shades of blue. This furnishes a pretty finish to the brim, and there is nothing about the hat, flowers, or trimmings that can be affected by salt air. Moreover the hat is stylish and sufficiently out of the common to make one feel dressy in wearing it.

Another way to trim a hat for the seashore is to catch it up at the back with a great bow of white ribbon. Underneath the bow put sprays of lilies-of-the-valley with their foliage. Let the lilies-of-the-valley fall down over the top of the crown on the brim and let them also droop at the back so that they fall down over the hair. This is an extremely simple way of trimming a hat; and yet, upon an open work or a lace straw, it is found to be all sufficient.

Neither of the hats described have required any facing, but if so desired, the brim may be lined with velvet.

Striped gauze folded in small plaits around the crown and arranged in a huge bow in front, makes a becoming trimming for broad faces. By the side of the bow, a smart bunch of wide satin ribbon arranged in the form of a rosette makes a pretty additional trimming.

JUST FOR EVENING.

Seaside clothing while not more expensive than other dress material, requires a little more attention, because the sea mists are so destructive to the welfare of feathers and laces, that one may look very shabby and badly dressed, even with a really elegant summer outfit, if one has not taken the precaution to choose the outfit with special reference to seashore climate and atmosphere.

A pretty dress which is braving the mists of Long Branch and which holds its own in spite of the dampness and the showers is made of white flannel. The skirt is perfectly plain and is gathered in a bunch of fan pleats at the back. The skirt is permitted to train only very slightly because the wearer evidently has an appreciative sense of the dirt which would accumulate in one wearing upon the train of a white gown.

The waist of the gown is cut blazer fashion, with a vest of white china silk, shirred in. It is made rounding in the front of the neck and blouse shaped at the belt. This china silk front is hooked in under the blazer, which fastens closely over it on each side of the front. Thus the waist appears to be all one garment. Three rows of pale yellow silk braid extend around the cuffs, down the lapels on the front of the reefer and on the coat tails. The back of the jacket is laid in close fine plaits.

With this costume is worn a yellow straw hat, sailor shaped, caught up at the back with a bow of striped gauze and white chiffon. Chiffon loops and ends are upon the front of the hat, and another bow of white gauze ribbon completes the headgear.

The cunning dressmakers have found a way to obviate this difficulty. And it is done thus: The skirt of a dress is made entirely without gores or seams, except for one at the back, where the goods is sewed together. The width of the goods is used for the length of the skirt. This can only be done in materials of very wide width, such as cloth, tweed and woolens. And again, the style is only possible for slender, well molded figures. For those who have large hips and are stout, it is out of the question. But, for at least half of the women who wear the demi-train, this style of skirt making is possible. And the most casual observer can see how it simplifies the making of the skirt.

The modiste has only to cut off the material the length she desires it—which is the width around of the skirt—and then, when she has lined it and sewed up the one seam, it is all ready to be draped plain in front and fan shaped at the back. An ordinary seamstress can easily make such a skirt in the afternoon. And a modiste who has been charging ten dollars upward to make a skirt can now do one for half her regular price.

The cape is the only thing one sees as a shoulder covering for a woman. The reefers, coats, jackets, etc., may be used for tennis, yachting, boating or mountain expeditions. But on all occasions, when a woman wants to "look nice," she must wear her cape, with its Medici collar, bordered with jets, and its long sleeves, puffed shoulders and tight-fitting back.

Lace is greatly used. It is almost a lace season, because so many people are wearing lace upon all their garments. The styles in real lace never change, and those who have a quantity of the real article in the family have the foundation, or at least ornamentation for a dress which shall be as modish as the passion in lace can make it.

If the lace is narrow the woman of taste can use it to edge some chiffon which she makes into a jabot, or it can be gathered around the edge of the overskirts, which are beginning to come in style again, or it may be used down each side of the front draperies, which form such a graceful finish to teh gowns and house dresses.

A flounce of lace looks very pretty sewed around the neck at the base of the high standing collar. If so desired, the edge of the lace may be sewed in where the sleeves are fastened on to the shoulders, making the lace seem like a part of the dress, and giving the gown a much more elegant appearance than it would otherwise have. The lace flounces which are used around the lower edge of the bodices are just as long as the wearer can obtain lace to make them. Eight, ten, twelve, and even twice the number of inches, are seen in the depth of the lace flounces which border the bottom of basques.

If a woman is possessed of very superior tastes she can take a deep fall of lace, stiffen it with beads and jets, and gather it handsomely upon a jet Medici collar which may be bought for the purpose. This makes a beautiful cape, and is the summer girl's ideal for an afternoon wrap to be taken on, or off, at will, without being sufficiently burdensome in weight to be oppressive, nor yet light enough to look like an affectation.

Care must be taken in beading the lace to see that it is not rendered too stiff, or it will fail to fall in the graceful folds which are the beauty and the glory of these lace capes. A great amount of beads upon them also renders the lace cape liable to tear because of their weight, and, altogether, the general effect is not as pretty as when the gauzy figures are simply indicated by dots here and there of shining jets or a few jewels.

What was the origin of long skirts is a question that one hears so frequently asked. Only a year ago, or at best, two years ago, skirts were worn rather short, being permitted scarcely to reach the ground. And now they sweep it to a foot in length. How did it happen? How did it come about?

Well, it happened in just this way. Dame Fashion is not such an unconsequential dame as is popularly supposed. And when she decides upon a change she generally has some very real and very logical reason for it. When the short skirts were worn the basques, it will be remembered, were extremely abbreviated. They were cut off almost at the hips, and the short skirts looked very well with them. But just as soon as the basques began to lengthen the skirts began to lengthen also, because the effect of a long basque and a short skirt was most unbecoming, making a woman look stout, short and dumpy, depriving her of every atom of grace and style which she might ever have possessed. So, as the basques grew longer, it became more and more imperative to make the skirts longer also, and that is the way they came to their present fashion of extreme length.

FOILED THE DOCTOR

Rev. Mr. Ballard's Attempt to Abduct His Child.

SEVERAL WOMEN INTERFERE.

All Ocean Grove Aflame With Indignation Over the Affair.

A Stormy Scene Over the Scandal—The Clergyman Charged With Cruelty to His Wife—He is President of the Camp Meeting Association and Postmaster of Ocean Grove.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., July 24.—All Ocean Grove is aflame with indignation on account of the attempt of Dr. A. E. Ballard to abduct his infant child from his young wife and convey it to Philadelphia. His attempt was frustrated by a number of women here in sympathy with the wife of Ballard, who, they say, has been cruelly treated by her husband.

Yesterday Dr. Ballard secured the child during its mother's absence and was heading for the railroad station when Mrs. Ballard interrupted him and compelled him to take the girl home. When the husband and wife reached their domicile, it is alleged, a stormy scene ensued, and the dominie made another futile attempt to carry off his daughter.

The Rev. Dr. A. E. Ballard is nearly 70 years old. He is vice-president and postmaster of Ocean Grove, and is president of the camp meeting association at Pitman Grove. He is also the temperance agent for the New Jersey Annual Conference. He married a second time three years ago, his wife being nearly 30 years his junior. Their child is a girl 30 years old.

Two weeks ago his wife left Dr. Ballard, claiming that she was harshly treated. She rented a cottage here from her uncle, J. D. McKee, of Philadelphia, and continues to live in it. By command of President Stokes, Dr. Ballard recently joined his wife and the trouble was supposed to have been over. His real intent, it is now alleged, was to capture the child and take her to his sister's home in Philadelphia.

All the people here acquainted with the facts are in sympathy with the young wife.

LADIES CHEER PARNELL.

Only One or Two Lively Incidents in the Dublin Convention.

DUBLIN, July 24.—The feature of the Parnell convention, which opened in this city, was the large attendance of ladies, who crowded the galleries, and the exuberance of their enthusiasm. Every utterance of Mr. Parnell was cheered by them, and the running fire of comment kept up by them attested the efficacy of his marriage as a factor in re-establishing his popularity, at least with the women.

The day's session was devoid of especial interest, and with the exception of a few desultory verbal battles and one or two quickly suppressed disturbances it would have been positively tame. One of the delegates in the heat of discussion called Mr. Harrington a "Pasha," in resentment of his arbitrary tactics, whereupon the delegate was grabbed and incontinently hustled into the street.

Several other disturbers later essayed to inject an element of liveliness into the proceedings, but they, too, were cast out amid the applause of the occupants of the galleries.

MONEY UP FOR SULLIVAN.

Slavin Will Now Have a Chance to Fight the Champion.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Charley Johnson of Brooklyn, on behalf of John L. Sullivan, called at the Herald office and deposited $1,000 to bind a match with Frank P. Slavin, to fight for the championship of the world.

The money is to be held until September 1 for Slavin or his backers to cover. Johnson insists that the fight take place in America.

The news that Sullivan had posted money was cabled at once to England.

School Directors Arrested.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 24.—Edward N. Sterner, John Tobin, Michael E. Dormer, Thomas Cullen, Patrick Dowling and Michael Battersby, school directors of East Norwegian Township, have been arrested on the charge of stealing the funds of the district. It is alleged that they issued fraudulent orders to the amount of $500 and appropriated the cash; that they also levied on the teachers, making them pay from $5 to $15 for their appointments, besides a portion of their monthly salaries. They gave bail in the sum of $300 each for trial.

Captain Schmidt Banished to Siberia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24.—It is officially announced that Captain Schmidt, of the Russian Navy, who was reported as having been executed secretly last April for selling the plans of the Cronstadt fortifications, has just been sentenced to banishment to Siberia. It was proved in his examination that he fell into the hands of usurers and was induced by them to sell the plans to a Jew, who betrayed him.

Dr. Brooks' Consecration.

BOSTON, July 24.—The consecration of Rev. Phillips Brooks, D. D., as bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, will take place in Trinity Church, Boston, on Wednesday, October 14. Bishop Williams of Connecticut will be the consecrator. Bishop Clark of Rhode Island will be one of the presbyters.

A LONG STRUGGLE.

The Last Flickering Flame Put Out in the Hill Farm Mine.

DUNBAR, Pa., July 24.—The workmen who have been laboring almost incessantly for a year since the dreadful Hill Farm Mine disaster have at last put out the last flickering flame, and have pushed themselves to the edge of the great dam of water that stands in the lower heading of the mine.

The struggle has been a long and laborious one for the company and those who have charge of the work of reclaiming the mine and possibly the dead bodies of the unfortunate miners who gave up their lives on that dark day of June 16, 1890.

Whether anything is concealed by the water that as yet fills the depth of the mine can only be determined when it is all pumped out. The work will be done as soon as possible, and the mysteries that have lain hidden for the past year as to the place and condition of the 91 ill-fated miners will in the quickest time possible be given to the relatives and the world at large.

A MESSIAH CRAZE.

Colored People in Maryland in a State Bordering on Frenzy.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., July 24.—The storm which played such havoc in the lower part of this county has caused much excitement among a few illiterate whites and the black people.

Several ex-preachers among the colored class have held meetings in the open air, stirring the people up to a high pitch. A kind of a Messiah craze has struck them.

The colored people in many sections of the country have been holding prayer meetings, and work themselves up into a state bordering on frenzy.

KILLED IN A FIGHT.

Two Young Miners Settle a Love Dispute in the Prize Ring.

PITTSBURG, July 24.—Henry Boyd killed John Myford in a prize fight near Monongahela City.

The men had quarreled over a girl and decided to settle their dispute in the prize ring. Three rounds were fought, neither man having any decided advantage.

In the fourth round Boyd landed heavily with his left on Myford's jugular. Myford fell heavily to the ground and died a few minutes later.

Boyd surrendered himself to the authorities. Both men were young coal miners.

BLOWN INTO FRAGMENTS.

Three Men Killed and a Mill Wrecked by an Explosion.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 24.—The boiler of Lee's steam saw mill at Nineveh exploded last evening, killing James Shaw, Frederick Wheeler and another man whose name could not be learned.

The building was blown to atoms and the bodies of all the men were torn to pieces.

The cause of the accident is not known.

Suffering from Hydrophobia.

RAHWAY, N.J., July 24.—Charles Frank of Newton street, who was bitten by a small dog about a month ago, is suffering terribly from hydrophobia, to such an extent that force is necessary to keep him from doing injury to those around him. He growls, barks and bites like a dog at everything within his reach. The doctors have pronounced his case serious, and have said that he will die.

Kate Kirby Arrested.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Kate Kirby, alias Nettie Hamburger, alias De Ford, alias Howe, the woman said to have been associated with Howe, the diamond thief, was arrested in Baltimore last evening. Her folks live in Baltimore and are well-to-do and well connected. Her father Capt. Kirby, owns a number of tugboats, and is a wealthy man and universally respected in the Monumental City.

Big Suit Against a Grain Firm.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—The Third National Bank of this city has entered suit against the recently suspended grain firm of William W. Alcorn & Co., of this city, to recover $64,395.96, being the aggregate amount of fifty-eight promissory notes, and also for an overdrawn bank account for which the defendants are responsible.

Crushed by the Cars.

RONDOUT, N. Y., July 24.—Joseph Grouse, in the employ of the Lawrence Cement Company at Binnewater, was crushed between two freight cars on the Wallkill Valley Railroad, and received internal injuries from which he died last evening. He was young married man.

Prohibition State Convention.

BOSTON, July 24.—The Prohibition State convention will be held at Worcester, Sept. 9. Augustus B. Smith of Lee will be the presiding officer.

Dropped Dead in the Street.

OSWEGO, N. Y., July 24.—Jesse C. Jenkins, a prominent citizen here, dropped dead in the street from apoplexy.

COL. DUDLEY'S TALK

He Gives His Views on the Presidential Outlook.

BLAINE WILL BE NOMINATED.

He Predicts that Gorman Will Be the Opposing Candidate.

In the Event of Blaine Refusing to Run the Question Will be Doubtful—He is Sure that Quay's Resignation Will Not be Accepted—What He Thinks of the Farmers' Alliance.

BOSTON, July 24.—Col. W. W. Dudley of Indiana gave Bostonians some political pointers in an interview. He names Blaine and Gorman as the Presidential candidates, and makes a lot of other predictions that are interesting to politicians. With regard to Senator Quay's proposed resignation as chairman of the Republican National Committee, he said: "I have seen no such letter, but I suppose that Mr. Quay will send in his resignation to the meeting of the committee to be held in Washington on the 29th. It is one thing, however, to resign and another to have the resignation accepted. Mr. Quay has resigned before and the committee refused to accept his resignation."

"Will the Farmer's Alliance movement cut any figure in the next Presidential campaign?"

"In my opinion it will fall of its own weight. It's a sporadic movement which had its origin in the dissatisfaction of the agricultural interests growing out of crop failures. As soon as the causes which brought it into being are removed it will disappear."

"Whom will the Democrats nominate for President?"

"Gorman," came the reply, sharp and quick. "If I were a betting man, I would n't be afraid to wager a pretty good sum on his nomination."

"Why do you think he will be nominated?"

"Because he is satisfactory to the South. The delegates from that section are not going to support Northern men who are opposed to what they suppose to be their best interests."

"Do you object to stating whom you think the Republicans will nominate?"

"Not in the least. They'll nominate James G. Blaine if he's alive. There isn't any doubt about that in my mind. In the event of Blaine's refusing to be a candidate the question simply becomes a doubtful one. I can say for President Harrison that his administration has been a clean and honest one of public affairs. If he failed in any respect, that failure must be attributed to a want of political tact in dealing with the people. During the past sixty years only two Presidents have been re-elected, namely, Lincoln and Grant. Outside those two the incumbents have been renominated at the expense of unity in the party."

BLAINE WILL ACCEPT.

So Says Mr. Joseph Manley, Ex-Postmaster of Augusta.

DETROIT, Mich., July 24.—Joseph Manley, ex-postmaster of Augusta, Me., and a warm friend of Secretary Blaine, said in an interview here that Mr. Blaine's health has almost fully recovered, and that he will accept the Presidential nomination if it is tendered to him in 1892.

THE ALLIANCE ISSUE.

President Polk Says the Entire Financial System Must be Reformed.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President Polk of the Farmers' Alliance has just returned from his Southern tour. Mr. Polk said he had been quoted incorrectly as saying that the great issue was the tariff and free coinage, and that with these issues the Alliance would all rally around the Sub-Treasury bill.

"Now," said he, "the issue is not the tariff the free coinage of silver nor the Sub-Treasury bill. The issue is the reform of our entire financial system. Neither the issuance of more money nor the collection of less taxes will alone do the people any good. The entire financial system of the government must be changed before anything else that may be done can correct the existing evils."

Street Railways Sold.

DETROIT, Mich., July 24.—The whole system of the Detroit street railways, over eighty miles in length, has been purchased by Walker, Cook & Wagner, corporation lawyers of Wall street, representatives of a New York and Boston syndicate, for about five millions of dollars. This will probably end the raging street railway war in Detroit.

May Reopen the Maybrick Case.

LONDON, July 24.—Mrs. Maybrick's solicitor says that he has been advised by Sir Charles Russel that her case can be reopened and a new trial had, grounded upon the refusal of the insurance company to pay the policy. Much new evidence has been collected in America. Mrs. Maybrick is in Woking Jail, and suffers much from the effects of her sentence.

LOW LIFE IN PARIS.

Noisy Crowds Assemble Where Criminals Are to be Executed.

PARIS, July 24.—Crowds of men and women, the lowest of the low, have assembled every evening for the past week about the Place de la Roquette, the place where criminals are executed by the Guillotine, to witness the execution of the murderess Berland and her accomplice, Dore. Yesterday the crowds about the place were more riotous and otherwise offensive than usual, and the police were compelled to charge the throng, making many arrests and somewhat clearing the air of the neighborhood.

The execution was postponed on account of the marriage of Executioner Deibler's son and assistant to the daughter of a provincial executioner.

ENFORCING THE SUNDAY LAW.

All Cigar Stores in Hartford Must be Kept Closed.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—The proprietors of all cigar stores in this city have been notified by the Chief of Police that they must close their shops on Sunday, and the drug stores were notified that they must discontinue selling cigars and confectionery. Eating saloons will not be allowed to sell cigars to their customers.

It is said that the Italians who had been ordered to close their stands on Sunday were instrumental in having the new order issued.

A Girl Arrested for Criminal Libel.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 24.—State's Attorney Mason has caused the arrest of Bridget Malone on a charge of criminal libel. This is the girl who some days ago caused a sensation at Troy, N. Y., by accusing a Bennington clergyman of a serious crime.

More Trouble on the Erie Canal.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 24.—The damage to the Erie Canal, near Schenectady, consists of the carrying away of the two center piers and stone arch over the towpath and wooden trunk of Van Slyck aqueduct, and that it will take ten days or two weeks to repair it.

Earliest Arrival on Record.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 24.—The schooner Senator Saulsbury has arrived here from Iceland with a fare of 200,000 pounds of fletched halibut. This is the earliest arrival on record of a fishing schooner from that part of the fishing grounds.

Petitioned Into Insolvency.

BOSTON, July 24.—Francis F. Emery boot and shoe manufacturer, No. 105 Bedford street, who recently assigned, subsequently making an offer of 45 cents on the dollar, has been petitioned into insolvency by the Hudson Bank of Hudson.

Spurgeon Slightly Improved.

LONDON, July 24.—Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon is very slightly improved this morning.

THE MINERS' TERMS

Withdraw the Troops and Repeal the Labor Law.

TROUBLE IS NOW EXPECTED.

Tennessee's Convicts and State Militia May Go to Coal Creek To-day.

The Labor Leaders Claim They Will Maintain Peace—Governor Buchanan in an Unpleasant Situation—Federal Aid Not Available Under the Circumstances—The Excitement Renewed.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—At this moment it seems probable that both the State militia and the convicts will soon be en route to Coal Creek. This may precipitate the conflict which has been delayed by parleying for two days.

In the last few hours the situation has so changed that no one has any idea what will happen. The miners may give in completely. They may permit the militia to establish the convicts in the mines, and then wait until they are gone and turn the convicts loose. Again, they may defend their fastness in their own desperate way.

Governor Buchanan has just been seen and asked if he would order the militia to Coal Creek to-day. He replied by saying that the law would be carried out. This is construed, in the face of all foregoing statements, that the troops will move in the morning.

If the militia is returned with the convicts it is believed that their presence will inflame the passions of the already excited community, and a conflict with perhaps terrible results may follow. This is the situation now.

THE MINERS' DEMANDS.

Withdraw the Troops and Repeal the Convict Lease System.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—The miners' meeting at Coal Creek to hear the committee's plan of compromise was attended by about every man in the valley. Speeches were made by J. C. J. Williams, of this city, a candidate before the Democratic Convention for Congress nomination, and one or two miners. General Williams urged a compromise.

The meeting lasted some time, and it was difficult for the miners to agree upon a conclusion. It should be remembered that the Governor says there had been no proposition made by him but that of sustaining the law. He was willing, however, for citizens to see what could be done to settle the difficulty, as he is a warm supporter of labor, but at the same time the Executive.

Finally the miners agreed on a course of action and drew up resolutions containing a proposition to the Governor. This proposition is that the troops must be taken home from Knoxville. The convicts can be returned to Coal Creek for 60 days only, and the Legislature to meet and repeal the convict lease system. This, briefly, is the position of the miners.

The Governor's reply to the miners' ultimatum was as follows:

"Tell your people," said he, in a kindly but emphatic tone, "that they must obey the laws of the State. They must submit quietly and behave themselves. The convicts will be put to work again in the mines and everything will be as before. Your people may be well assured of that."

The Demand for United States Troops.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—In view of the possibility of a demand being made by Gov. Buchanan of Tennessee upon the President for United States troops to aid the State militia in suppressing the miners' outbreak, officers of the War Department have been looking into the legal aspect of the case. The result of the inquiry up to this point, while not conclusive, is sufficient to cast grave doubt upon the successful issue of such a demand by the Governor.

Gov. Buchanan Scored.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24.—A mass meeting was held here last night by workingmen to take some action to assist the miners at Coal Creek. Several speeches were made condemning the Governor's course in ordering out the militia and the contract lease system was scored.

THE HANOVER MURDERER.

A Theory that He Escaped from Montreal on a Vessel.

HANOVER, N. H., July 24.—Sheriff Corning returned from Montreal last night and says that some one who bears a striking resemblance to Frank C. Almy, the Hanover murderer who was tracked to Montreal, escaped on the cattle steamer Mongolian. The sheriff says that the Canadian authorities refused to make a search of the steamer at Quebec or Rimiouski.

The authorities at Liverpool will be asked to make a careful examination of the vessel when she reaches that port.

Detective Hanscome of Pinkerton's Boston agency has arrived here and will go to work at once on the case.

Debarred from the Mails.

BOSTON, July 24.—A notice has been issued by Postmaster Hart, that the pamphlet entitled, "Full and revised report of the State Supreme Court on the Lottery Revenue case" cannot pass through the mails, as it is virtually an advertisement of the Louisiana State Lottery Company.

Democrats Sued for $8,000.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 24.—The members of the Democratic City Committee have been sued for $8,000 by John Niefagan, who had his hand shattered by a premature explosion at a Democratic jubilee.

DISGUSTED SPORTS.

The Feeling Against Fugilist Hall is Very Bitter.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 24.—Local sporting men say there was no good reason why Hall and Fitzsimmons should not have been brought together either in Minneapolis or across the border line. The feeling against Hall increases in intensity and the epithets applied to him by many of his former admirers have been the reverse of complimentary.

Fitzsimmons is just as sore as ever, while Parson Davies, who could have gotten the men together and had the fight over by midnight had, he been so inclined, makes a bluff by saying that he will keep Hall in condition for a few days in the hope that there may yet be a meeting.

The money received from the sale of tickets has been refunded, and during the day Fitzsimmons and Hall each received a check for $1,500 from the Minnesota Athletic Club as an honorarium in part recompense of their outlay in training. The total loss to the club will not be less than $10,000. In is given out that all the officers will resign in short order and that the organization will, in all probability, be disbanded.

The Granite Club of Hoboken, N. J., and the California Athletic Club have both telegraphed their willingness to put up a purse for Fitzsimmons and Hall.

SCHEME TO CORNER WHEAT.

The Farmers' Alliance Trying to Organize a Gigantic Trust.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The Board of Trade has received information that St. Paul has been made the headquarters of a movement by the United Farmers' Alliance to corner the entire wheat crop of the United States.

For several days a large force of employes at No 317 Wabash street has been sending out circulars requesting all classes of farmers to keep back the wheat crop.

It estimates the wheat crop of 1891 in the United States at 500,000,000 bushels.

The promoters believe that four-fifths of this wheat can be held back for from 4 to 9 weeks, by which time, it is thought, prices will have gone skyward.

The Alliance Press Bureau, the Reform Press Bureau and the State Press Bureau are working together, endeavoring to unite the farmers in the gigantic wheat trust in which the producers shall be the stockholders.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Pope, it is reported, will lend his influence to support the Republic in France.

The National Glassblowers, in session at St. Louis, voted to hold the next annual convention in Rochester, N. Y.

There is a cattle disease scare at Hainesville, N. J. The State Inspector pronounces it tuberculosis and has killed ten cows.

Thirteen skeletons, in addition to the nine previously found, have been found on board the hull of the steamer Utopia, recently beached at Gibraltar.

William O'Brien, a prominent merchant of Troy, N. Y., while walking in his sleep fell out of a window in the third story of his residence and was instantly killed.

The General Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons of America, in session at Minneapolis, decided to hold the next convocation in Topeka, Kansas in July, 1894.

Judge Sherman, in the Superior Court at Greenfield, Mass., sentenced C. Mason Moody, the defaulting County Treasurer, to five years in State Prison at hard labor.

Lieut.-Col. J. E. Tourtelotte, formerly Gen. Sherman's Chief of Staff, is dead at his home in Lacrosse, Wis. He was born in Massachusetts and was graduated from Brown University in 1856.

Governor Hill of New York has appointed Mr. Leonard Burritt of Spencerport, Monroe county, as one of the managers of the Rochester State Hospital to succeed the late James W. Craig.

The directors of the Shoe & Leather Bank of Auburn, Me., announce that they will bring suit against the bondsmen of defaulting Cashier Percival, who refuses to pay all or any part of the amount for which they are liable.

Floods prevail in Silesia, Saxony, and North Germany, inundating villages and doing immense damage to crops. The suburbs of Hamburg are submerged and the water is rising. A large amount of dock property has been destroyed at Hamburg by fire caused by lightning.

An agent of the Chilian Government has traversed the whole coast of New England, from Cape Cod to Eastport, for the purpose of hiring sailors to make up crews for two men-of-war. The ships have been fitted out in France, but the necessary officers and crews could not be secured in Europe. The agent offered large bounties and big wages. How far he has succeeded is not known.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—For New England and Eastern New York: Showers; stationary temperature, slightly cooler at Boston; southerly winds.

For New Jersey: Showers; stationary temperature; southeast winds.

For Western New York: Frequent showers; slightly cooler, except stationary temperature at Oswego; winds becoming westerly.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Have you seen the new nainsook and Swiss edgings at Peck's?

—A delightful day at the seashore is the anticipation of all who are going on the Trinity excursion next week.

—The Westfield Leader says: "Plainfield's fire alarm is heard in Westfield with alarming frequency now-a-days, or rather nights."

—James Powers, who is accused of having stolen $70 from Peter Garrity was removed from the local lock-up to the county jail yesterday.

—United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association quote special prices on certain goods to-day, and warn you to look out for their new advertisement of July 31, '91. It's to be a big affair.

—Staff captain Walsh, the reformed minstrel and banjo player, will be at the Salvation Army meetings Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, to assist adjutant Leyh and lieutenant Watkins.

—The organizers of the proposed local court of the Order of Foresters met last evening and made preparations to have the court instituted next Thursday evening. The place of meeting will be the rooms of Howell Division, Sons of Temperance.

—An Italian sat on the curb on Front street, near Peace, yesterday, crying pitifully. A fellow workman had stolen his pick and shovel, and when he accused him of the theft the fellow had struck him in the face, almost destroying his sight. No arrest was made.

—Three members of the Westfield Bicycle Club visited the Elizabeth Wheelmen's club-house Wednesday evening. Later in the evening seven members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, under command of First Lieutenant George Mahon, dropped in and paid quite a visit.

—To-morrow will be a great day at the store of Rogers Bros. They will close out ladies' oxford ties in russet at 50 cents each; ladies' russet patent-leather trimmed ties, at 80 cents; and ladies' kid button shoes, at 85 cents; and the same great cut in prices will prevail until August 1.

—A young lad of West Fifth street, on two recent occasions has fired a bullet through the windows of a house in his neighborhood. Once a lady happened to be in the room where the bullet struck, and she narrowly escaped injury. It does seem as if it was time for the law to treat the boy with a gun.

—The handling of coal by steam power at the new stocking ground of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at South Plainfield has just been begun. A thirty-ton car was discharged in eight minutes by green hands. The storage capacity of the grounds is 310,000 tons, which will probably be increased to 1,000,000.

—The Young People's League of the First Baptist church will hold its regular meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the Sunday-school rooms. A very enjoyable time is expected, and it is hoped that all the members with their friends will be present. Everybody is cordially invited to participate in the services. The leader will be Robert Love, and the topic "Christ the Only Way".

PARTICULAR MENTION.

R. F. R. Huntsman, of Bay street, has gone to Boynton Beach, on a weakfishing trip.

Mrs. Thomas E. Warman and Miss Bertha Warman, of Grove street, are at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

An enjoyable social was held at the home of Miss Lizzie Hoffman, West Front street, last evening.

John R. Clark is dying at the Muhlenberg Hospital. He is failing rapidly, and cannot last long.

The family of C. E. Brooks are summering at Maplewood Cottage, Maplewood, New Hampshire.

At Chautauqua, yesterday, Miss Kate Kimball, of this city, spoke on "Chautauqua Work in the West", mentioning prison work especially.

The Revs. E. M. Rodman and Edmund Embury of this city participated in the recent consecration of the new St. Paul's church at Bound Brook.

Joseph Alexander, infant son of Joseph A. and Sarah Neill, of 84 East Fifth street, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3.

Everybody on THE PRESS will be at the ball match to-morrow afternoon, and the paper will be run off early. So get in your advertisements, notices, or anything else you want inserted, before noon. It's a holiday in Plainfield when the Somervilles come to town.

In a recent issue of the Bar Harbor Tourist appears a poem entitled "Bar Harbor", written by the Hon. Wm. M. Marine and dedicated to his friend Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley of Westfield. Both gentlemen have been distinguished guests at the famous resort.

W. R. Codington, Wm. M. Stillman and S. R. Struthers, of this city, were delegates to the first semi-annual meeting of the Building and Loan Association League of New Jersey at Trenton yesterday. Sixty out of the eighty associations in the League were represented. Judge Codington was appointed a member of the executive committee.

WHAT DOES THIS MEETING MEAN?

Information reaches THE PRESS that the Big 6—Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith and Spangenberg—have accepted an invitation to a private dinner with Col. Charles K. Moore, this evening.

The host, it will be remembered, is the one to whom the Republican Councilmen of last year—Newhall, Erickson, Marsh and others—voted a franchise for the construction of water-works in this city.

Col. Moore was prevented from completing the contract by John Kean, his minions and his methods. But he is one of the half-dozen men in New Jersey who are not afraid of Mr. Kean, and he never sleeps.

In view of all this, to-night's dinner to the Big 6 at Col. Moore's house, may be portentous.

THE CRESCENTS WIN TO-MORROW

If None of Their Gilt-Edged Team is Absent and If They Can Hit Harkins.

Weather permitting the following players will meet on the Crescent League's ball grounds, to-morrow afternoon at 3:45, and there'll be a great fight:

CRESCENT LEAGUES.	WEST END ATHLETICS.
Jones, catcher,	Carbonell, centre field,
Luthery, second base,	Farrell, second base,
McIndoe, first base,	Moorehead, short stop,
Bonner, left field,	Harkins, pitcher,
Holly, centre field,	Kennedy, catcher,
Lee, third base,	Roberts, first base,
Hammill, pitcher.	Lisdy, left field,
Corey, short stop.	Heiser, third base,
Taylor, right field.	Davenport, right field.

Harkins is said to be in better shape than ever, but the Crescents say that if the pony, Bergen-Pointers and the plough-horse Westfielders can hit him, they can.

One thing is sure, the Somervilles will be welcomed by a great crowd. Carby, the beautiful, will be especially well received. The ladies will greet him with open arms—at a distance.

It will seem like the good old times of last season. The grand stands full again; Moorehead's rough and ready wit floating across the diamond; Harkins restlessly pacing in and out of the box; Jones cutting them off at second; McIndoe flying over the fence; Luthery doubling up the outs; score — to — in favor of the Crescents; etc.

ARRESTED BY HIS PARTNER.

Marshal Becker Says Professor Dickerson Obtained $100 From Him Under False Pretenses.

Attorney Charles B. VanWinkle won an interesting case that was tried before Justice Crosley last night. The case was this:

Ex-Marshal George Becker gave Prof. Robert Dickerson $100 in cash for an interest in the latter's business of exploding nitro-glycerine torpedoes in artesian wells, and thus increasing the supply of water. The partnership to all appearances was an agreeable one. They solicited orders together and enjoyed many a large day and night in one another's company.

Some weeks ago the Professor, who personally superintends all explosions, went to Linden to explode a well there for the Pennsylvania railway company. The job was a thorough success and he got the money for it. Prosperity induced over-indulgence, it is said, and the Professor was laid up in Metuchen for repairs.

Because of his long continued absence, partner Becker began proceedings against him. The Professor was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, and was arraigned before Justice Crosley, last evening, for a hearing.

Counsel for the plaintiff pleaded hard to have Dickerson held to await the action of the Grand Jury, but Attorney VanWinkle was successful in securing the acquittal of his client.

A Dollar a Pound for Toad Fish.

They fished all day long in the hot sun, at Sewaren, Wednesday, and this is what they got: E. P. Thorn and J. H. Tier collectively, one little weak fish and two small kings; W. F. Truss, a sand porgie and a toad fish; John Beerbower, two weakfish just large enough to be out alone; M. Higgins, nothing. Counting the railroad fare, cost of luncheon and bait for both hooks and breath, the toad fish cost about a dollar a pound and the weakfish 95 cents.

Another Base-Ball Struggle Between Plainfield and Somerville.

Messrs. White of this city and Carbonell of Somerville are arranging a series of games between colored ball teams of the two places. The first game will be played on August 8, in this city, on the Crescent League grounds, while that team is in Somerville playing the third game with the West Ends. The Plainfield battery is to be Kline and Nelson.

Still Catching Coal Car Commuters.

Officer W. R. Mattox saw eight coal car commuters on the train which engine 335 drew through Plainfield at 6 o'clock last evening. Mr. Mattox telegraphed to Elizabeth, to John Morris, for assistance, boarded the 6:07 train, and got to Elizabeth ahead of the coaler. He then waited with the other officers and after a long chase they landed five of the eight in the station house.

It's a dandy drink of this modern time, is Root Beer made from Knapp's Root Beer Extract.

AS YOU SEE IT IN THE PRESS, IT'S SO.

Papers Ran By Journalists, However, Publish Stolen Falsehoods Days After the Truth Has Been Read in These Columns.

Here is the truth of the matter as published in THE PRESS of last Monday:

—Yesterday, at the New Market Baptist church, a platform on which several women were standing, fell. Everybody was frightened, but no one injured.

Here is the falsehood of it as published in the Newark News and copied word for word by the Plainfield "news", three days afterward:

—A panic was caused at the New Market Baptist church on Sunday by the collapse of a scaffold platform on which a large choir was standing. Twenty-five of the singers were pinned down by the timbers. Henry Gilbert and Fred. Huff had their ribs crushed, Miss Genevieve Ross fractured a leg and Estelle Blackford had her scalp torn open and may lose the sight of an eye. The others suffered minor injuries. The platform was a high one, extended from gallery to gallery and across the pulpit at the front of the church. The pastor escaped harm by leaping from the pulpit when the crash came.

The whole state of the case as certified by one of the trustees:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The ridiculously false story about an alleged accident in the New Market Baptist church—the falling of a high "skeleton platform"—on Sunday last, has been copied by at least one of the papers in Plainfield. Will you not be kind enough to stamp the whole article as a silly canard? It reminds me of the yarn about the boy with the iron mask, who was reported to have lived at a village not far from your city, and who was said to have been kicked to death by a vicious horse, whose hoofs drove a portion of the terrible mask into the boy's skull. You know the rest. The item now going the rounds about the New Market church must have emanated from the same brain as that which evolved the iron-mask story.

As a matter of fact, a "platform" did "fall" at the New Market church last Sunday, just as THE PRESS stated, but no one was hurt. Outside the church there are two platforms about the height of a carriage step, where people alight from and enter their conveyances. Several boards in one of these platforms gave way while a number of ladies were waiting there, after the morning service, for their carriages. There was no panic, no screaming, no leaping from the pulpit, no ribs broken, no one trampled upon—not even a call for arnica or court-plaster at the doctor's house so near at hand! Our galleries are still intact, and the health of our chorus singers quite well I thank you. Come up next Sunday morning and see for yourself. E. H. GRAVES, Trustee.

LADIES DAY ON THE ROAD.

Nineteen Young Women of This City Give the Town of Westfield a Great Treat.

Yesterday was the first of a proposed series of ladies' days on the road. Under command of Captain Lillie Fritts, eighteen young women cyclers of Plainfield swung into line and after wheeling to Westfield, delighted its inhabitants—young and old, male and female—with a graceful parade through the streets.

One old inhabitant, who rushed forward to work the pump when the ladies stopped for water, said: "Youse just look splendid ma'am! The men don't look like nothing side of what youse does." And the ladies all agreed among themselves afterwards, that he was a perfect gentleman.

Those who were in the ride yesterday are given below. When a regular day for each week is fixed upon, no doubt the number who participate will be greatly increased.

Lillie Fritts.

Jessie Utter,	Eleanor Demarest,
Mary Fritts,	Florence Abbott,
May Kirkner,	Miss Maltby,
Ethel Holmes,	Sue Emerson,
Jennie VanWinkle,	Miss Smith,
Lou Patton,	Lizzie Allis,
Lou French,	Mamie French,
Mabel Maxson,	Annie Bolce,
Maud Lowrie,	Laura Baker.

Young Lead Pipe Thieves.

James Hickey and Michael Barry, two young lads arrested for stealing lead pipe from the Water Supply Company, were arraigned before Justice Nash this morning. Hickey pleaded guilty and said Barry was guilty too. Barry said he was innocent. Hickey was taken to jail to await sentence, and Barry furnished bail for trial. Hickey was fined $1 by Judge Codington for throwing stones at a stage full of passengers.

Guilty, and Run Did It.

Henry Southard, who was arrested yesterday for stealing a suit of clothes from a poor workman on the road and selling it to a Hebrew peddler, pleaded guilty before Justice Nash this morning. "Rum made me do it"—he said. He was taken to Elizabeth to be sentenced by Judge Rice in a few days.

Myer and Carroll Matched.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 24.—Billy Myer and Jimmy Carroll have signed a contract to meet before the Olympic Club of New Orleans within three months for $4,000 a side.

Another Parnell Envoy Goes Home.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Hon. John O'Connor, member of Parliament for Tipperary, sailed for home on the steamship Augusta Victoria. He was one of the Parnell envoys in this country.

Success is the envy of the weak brained. They seek to get there too. No wonder that they resort to counterfeiting. The reputable dealer should not encourage imitators. Be sure and ask for Hires's Root Beer Packages, and be especially sure you get them.

A TRIP TO THE HOLY LAND.

Conducted by Miss Yates, a Plainfield Party Visit Palestine.

In a delightful talk, yesterday afternoon, Miss Yates took the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and their friends with her across the ocean, and through Alexandria, Cairo, Goshen, Joppa and Jericho.

From Joppa to Jerusalem the trip was particularly interesting: traveling in a vehicle similar to the "Jersey country wagon", the canvas covering of which were white instead of black, the audience passed, in Miss Yates's company, large fields of lilies and the rose of sharon spoken of in the Bible—the latter flower resembling our red poppy and emitting fragrance only when crushed or trodden upon. Cactus hedges lined the roadside, and proved a very effective foil for the trespassing boy; while in Palestine high fences with broken pieces of glass cemented in the top acted as proof against thieving intruders.

Obliged to take shelter from a shower at what is termed by the guides of that country the "Home of the Penitent Thief", lepers, though not of the contagious character, crowded around, begging for money. Pitiable and repulsive as they were, it required a great deal of Christian charity to tolerate the presence of these street beggars, whose faces and hands were partially eaten away, and whose skin showed the leprous pallor save where it had been exposed to the burning rays of the sun.

Reaching Jerusalem just at sunset, the travelers had a charming glimpse of the "Blue Hills of Judea" round about, and of the deep blue of the sky as the stars came out; and reverently the Holy City and the Mount of Olives were mentioned by the speaker. Leaving Jerusalem for Jericho, friendly Bedouins met the party, and invited them to visit and examine their tents. At these krans or resting-places no charge was made, and if the traveler had his own blanket he might spread it in welcome and make himself comfortable.

On their way the party passed Elijah's cave, Elisha's fountain, with its bubbling waters, sycamore trees, henna (from which a dye is made to stain the finger-nails red as a mark of position in life), and thorn bushes of the same kind that was used for the crown the Saviour wore.

Returning from Jericho (now no longer the proud "City of Palms", but one laid waste and desolate), after a three days' absence, the party went reverently, on foot and in single file back to the Holy City. And here the narrator told of a lost lamb, and compared its bleating cry and its final recovery by the shepherd, to the poor, lost, wandering souls of this earth rescued by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Miss Yates's talk was natural and easy throughout, and listened to with pleasure and profit by all present, and interrupted (womanlike) by many questions on the part of the auditors, which were all good naturedly answered by the speaker.

A visit to Jerusalem has been promised by Miss Yates in the near future.

His Mind Unbalanced by a Sunstroke.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—Arthur W. Hall, of Malden, Mass., was found wandering in the streets here during the day in a demented state. He had walked to this city from White Plains, N. Y., and had been robbed on the way of all his valuables and money. He is a bookkeeper for the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture. He disappeared from Malden two weeks ago. His mind was unbalanced by a sunstroke which he suffered recently. He is held for the arrival of friends.

Dr. Koch Resigns His Offices.

BERLIN, July 24.—Dr. Koch has resigned his public offices. This step is understood to be due to his disappointment at the negative results of his medical discovery. The Academic Senate will bestow an honorary office upon him.

Ex-Speaker Reed Coming Home.

LONDON, July 24.—Mr. T. B. Reed, ex-Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, has left London on his way home.

May Pay Thirty Cents on the Dollar.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 24.—The Fox Slate Mantel Company, of Fair Haven, have failed. Its liabilities are mainly due to local creditors. The assets will probably realize thirty cents on the dollar.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

Where Plainfield People Go Wading Every Day.

Plainfield commuters know to their sorrow that the streets of New York, especially those in the lower part of the city, are now in a superlative degree of filth and disorder. There has never been a time,—remarks the Evening Post—not even in the days when Arcularius wielded the municipal broom, when the streets and sidewalks presented so hideous an aspect. There is nothing so bad in any part of Constantinople, or of Smyrna, or of Salonica, as the condition of West street was this morning—its reeking pools, its open ditches, its heaps of garbage exposed to the eyes of tens of thousands of people crossing the ferries and soiling their feet and their garments as they crossed. Not only are the streets where the teams go spattering along dreadful to contemplate, but the sidewalks, those of lower Broadway especially, are grimy and offensive in the last degree. Not the least of the nuisances are the great excavations opened here and there, from some of which clouds of steam are escaping. These excavations are chargeable in part with the shocking condition of filth that prevails in the lower part of the city, but only in part. The mud-puddles and garbage heaps and general griminess are as conspicuous and as pronounced in places where no excavations have been made. These digging operations seem to have been taken as an excuse and condonation of all manner of sin by the Street-Cleaning Department, whereas the existence of such nuisances ought to serve as an additional spur and incentive to cleanliness in the immediate vicinity. If dirt is made in unusual quantity and offensiveness in a particular place, that is the place for unusual effort in keeping the street and side walk tidy. But in New York it is the accepted signal for abandoning that particular section to the goddess Cloacina, if any one part can be said to be more abandoned than another. The condition of things on West street to-day (and that is only a shade worse than the average) would cause a riot in any European city and an overthrow of the local government.

At the corner of West and Cortlandt streets, where the truck traffic is greatest, and thousands of people have to make their way to the ferry, there is a regular dumping-ground for the refuse of stores and street gatherings. A big broken barrel, filled with cabbage-leaves which have seen yognger days, rests on the curb at the southern corner, and gives forth its noxious exhalations to pedestrians. It is flanked by mud which, from its appearance and general characteristics, might have been imported from a New Jersey swamp.

Of course, the street crossing to the ferry is filthy. It always is. Everybody expects to get his shoes soiled there; but just now the condition is aggravated by the addition of vegetable matter to the usual ingredients of the mud. In West street at the corner of Liberty street, through which passengers on the Central Railroad of New Jersey pass, is a great open space filled with sewer water and adorned on all sides by heaps of bricks, stones and mud.

Among the general public the greatest sufferers are those unfortunate persons who have to go to the New Jersey ferries. They may succeed in crossing West street without loss of life or limb, but they cannot escape to New Jersey without carrying with them reminders of the condition of New York's streets. The evil is a great one, and Plainfield people will be greatly rejoiced to see it abated.

Forget Herself and Husband.

A New York paper says that there is a nervous, fussy, but delightful little woman out in Plainfield, who, a few days ago, invited a party of friends out to dine in the country. When the table was laid in the dining-room she went in to look at it. There were nine covers. "But there are only seven guests"—she said to herself. Just then the sound of carriage wheels on the drive told her the guests had come. "Empty places at table are perfect death's heads"—she said to herself, and whipped everything at two places away and spaced things properly in an instant. Then she went, smiling and cordial, out to her guests. In a few minutes dinner was served. "But where am I to sit, my dear?"—asked her husband, as they took their places.—"And you?"—he added, as he looked at the table a second time.

"There, now!"—she exclaimed, as a relieved look came into her eyes—"I've been trying to think all this time whom those two blessed places were set for, and I could n't for my life remember. I knew they must be for somebody."

He Wants a $100,000 From James L. Anthony.

Lawyer Charles J. Peshall, of Jersey City, who was recently a defendant in a libel suit brought in New York by Alfred Purdy Vredenburgh, Secretary of the American Kennel Club, and was acquitted, has assumed the aggressive. He wants damages for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. His suit is against James Louis Anthony of Netherwood, August Belmont, and five others, and he asks from each the sum of $100,000.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. A Smart Plainfield Darkey.

A Plainfield gentleman recently hired a colored coachman who was born and brought up in Georgia. The coachman is a typical Southern darkey of the better class and is a Chesterfield in manners. A week ago the colored gentleman's employer took his family to his summer place on Lake Champlain, and left word with his coachman that when he telegraphed him to start immediately with the family horses and carriages. The coachman got everything in readiness, and yesterday the telegraph came. The coachman opened it. He read it over several times and examined it critically. It bore the telegraphed signature of his employer. But the darkey was not satisfied. Finally he blurted out to the messenger: "No, sar; I will not take master's horses and carriages on that telegraph, sar. That is not master's writing, sar. You can't deceive dis colored person, sar." It took the messenger several minto satisfactorily explain the manner of sending a message.—New York World.

A Little too Previous.

(From The Somerville Unionist-Gazette.)

Three comely maidens of Somerville, who are all base-ball enthusiasts took the train Wednesday afternoon for Plainfield with joyous hearts. They were so anxious to see the Crescents humbled that they could not wait until Saturday. At the Plainfield station they gracefully stepped into a hack and told the driver to go to the ball grounds. The hackman looked at them in astonishment but said nothing. He drove around several blocks until the girls began to wonder why he did not hurry them to the scene of the base-ball game. One of them made bold to inquire why he did not drive direct to the grounds. Then the hackman recovered sufficiently from his surprise and told them there was no game of ball that he knew of until next Saturday. The young ladies took the joke good naturedly and agreed to keep mum—which, of course, they have done.

An Example for the Jersey Central to Follow.

The New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company officials are setting an example to the whole railway world. A despatch from Paterson announces that they have sent an order all along the line that when information is sked for by representatives of the press concerning accidents and other railroad affairs all details asked for must be given to the reporters. The order is mandatory and was issued by the president. The directors say that they are satisfied that the old policy of suppressing information about happenings along the line is inane and that it leads to false statements being made, exaggeration, etc. They say that they are convinced that the road can be made much more popular in the public eye if the public is permitted to know all about it.

Mayor Rankin's Dose of His Own Medicine.

Mayor Rankin of Elizabeth has started a vigorous crusade against unmuzzled dogs, and has ordered the police to shoot them indiscriminately. Wednesday the Mayor's favorite dog, a valuable English pug, got out in the street, and a bullet from a policeman's revolver finished him. The Mayor was very angry when he learned of the occurrence, but those who have lost valuable dogs by the crusade say the Mayor only got a dose of his own medicine.

Lime Works Burned.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 24.—Jones & Co.'s lime works, situated at Chazy, this county, consisting of kilns, storehouses and cooper shop, together with 3,000 barrels of lime, were burned to the ground during the morning. Loss estimated at $10,000; insurance small.

Want the Duty Removed.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—A petition signed by 14,000 members of the order of Patrons of Industry has been presented to Parliament, praying for the removal of the import duty on binding twine, salt and sugar.

A Minister Found Guilty.

ERIE, Pa., July 24.—In the United States District Court a verdict of guilty was rendered in the case of Rev. H. E. Sutherland of Hazleton, Pa., charged with sending obscene literature through the mails vilifying Rev. John Donahue, presiding elder of the district. The case has attracted widespread attention.

An Italian Murderer Going to Italy.

BALTIMORE, July 24.—Dominco Melchiauda, the Italian recently arrested for a murder committed in Italy, has been turned over to the Italian Consul-General at New York. He will be taken to Italy at once.

Sheehan Wins His Fight.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 24.—Speaker Sheehan won his fight in the joint meeting of the Erie County Democratic Committees amid a scene of wild disorder. Cleveland's friends feel sore over their defeat.

Panic on an Excursion Boat.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 24.—The People's line steamer Drew crashed into a crowded excursion boat near Castleton last night. Fortunately no one was injured, although a temporary panic ensued.

HALIFAX, July 24.—The American warships Philadelphia and Petrel have arrived in port from New London, Conn. They exchanged salutes with the British warships.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

Almost Bursting with Talent.

Great Architect—Good morning, Mr. Suburb. Think of building another house?

Mr. Suburb—No; I called to inquire if you wouldn't take my son as a student in your office. With the right training he'll be a fine architect some day.

"Has he shown any marked talent for architecture?"

"Talent? He's overflowing with architectural talent. I wish you could see the hencoop he put up for me last week."

"Humph! What is there remarkable about it?"

"He designed it for a $10 hencoop and it's cost $150."—Good News.

What They Gave Him.

"Well, didn't they give you a chance for defense?" asked the judge, when Uncle Jeff was explaining how he had been once wrongfully accused, tarred and feathered and driven out of a neighboring state.

Uncle Jeff (with painful recollection)—Chance fo' de fence? No, sah. Dey cotch me in de back yard 'fore I got to de fence, and what dey gib me was er solitary rail wid an aidge onter it lak de ridge bone ob a razor-back hog.—Texas Siftings.

Woman—Friends, is it? I'll have ye understand, sir, me husband owns half a dozen big brick buildin's and—

Proprietor (to the policeman)—What are you hanging round here for? Don't you know a case of kleptomania when you see it?—Chicago Tribune.

Saw the New Bonnet.

Mrs. Billson—So you met Mrs. de Fashion on the street? I'm so glad. They say she is wearing a new bonnet just imported. Did you see it?

Mr. B.—Y-e-s, I noticed it.

Mrs. B.—That's splendid. How was it trimmed?

Mr. B.—Well, it had a cowcatcher in front, a tailboard behind, a flower garden on top, and a job-lot of assorted ribbons all round. You can easily make one like it.—N. Y. Weekly.

Economy.

Cousin Jack (of New York)—I understand, cousin, you intend moving to New York; is there any truth in it?

Cousin Maud (of Chicago)—Well, you see, nearly all our relatives live in New York and mean to come to the world's fair, and papa thought it would be much better to live in New York and visit Chicago during the fair year.—Judge.

Mr. Si Low—Sho! Never would have thought it from the cut of his clothes. He looks like a dude.—Puck.

Cateyes.

Her Sister's Steady (playing the agreeable)—I am told that your cat has added her quota to the feline race, Mabel. How is it?

Little Mabel—No; she hasn't, either; but she's got kittens. She hasn't put eyes in them yet, but she will just as soon as she gets well.—Puck.

Helped Over the Hard Place.

"Soggins is engaged to Maude Pottleton. I am glad of it, too, because I think she is the kind of a girl to help a man along."

"She is indeed. They say he never would have proposed if she hadn't helped him over the hard part of it."—Harper's Bazar.

Wanted to Give Him Dyspepsia.

"Polly, I don't think this apple dumpling is quite done, is it?"

"No, John, dear," sighed the little wife. "But I cooked it that way on purpose. You've been going out so much of late that I thought that might keep you in."—Munsey's Weekly.

The Retort Courteous.

Fair Patient—But, doctor, I suffer so much with my eyes.

Doctor (who is becoming testy at this, his fifteenth call)—You'd suffer much more without them, madam.—Harvard Lampoon.

ONLY A TRAMP.

But He Had Seen Many Joys and Sorrows in Life.

THE Southern Pacific express was puffing through the hot atmosphere of the Arizona desert, between Yuma and Benson. The heat was intense. Even the talkative San Francisco drummer had collapsed in a sweltering heap on the end seat. To the tired passengers the hot hours seemed endlessly long. Suddenly the brakeman entered, bringing with him a cloud of black smoke and alkali dust. With one hand he shut the door, while with the other he dragged a heap of rags into the car.

"So you were sneaking a ride, were you. Wall, you be a tough nut, sure enough. Got anything ter say fer yerself?"

The figure within the tatters straightened itself up, wiped the alkali dust from its eyes, essayed to speak, then pointed to the icewater tank and sank back to the floor exhausted.

"The poor critter's 'bout done up," said the man from Texas; "where's my flask?"

"Where'd you get the poor cuss?" asked the Francisco drummer, wiping his perspiring brow.

"Found him on the brake-beam, when we stopped at the water tank," said the brakeman.

"Great heavens! you don't mean to say that man's been riding under this car," ejaculated the drummer. "Oh, Lord! and I've been sitting here grumbling about the heat, and the mean decrees of fate. Poor cuss."

The tramp at last regained his breath, and the tender-hearted Texan assisted him to a seat.

He was a man of middle-age, with a stubble beard and a great scar running diagonally across his forehead, from the scalp to the right cheek. His clothes, or tatters, denoted him a tramp—a Western tramp at that.

"Hungry?" asked the Texan.

"Hed nothin' fer thirty-six hours."

"Gentlemen," remarked the Texan, "a stranger's at yer door."

"Yer all white," said the tramp a half-hour later, as he pulled a match out of his pocket and used it for a toothpick.

"Gentlemen, you'd hardly think I owned a name by my looks, would yer? But I do—and a good one at that. George Calvert es my title. Thirty years ago I used to say that handle came to me from Lord Baltimore, the Jamestown Puritan, but I never says it now."

"That's a pretty tough wipe you've got thar, partner," remarked the Texan, respectfully eyeing the scar across the tramp's forehead. "Be thar an Injun story thar?"

"Naw."

"That scrape never come from an Injun; et come from a Greaser, and his bones hev been picked long ago by the coyotes out thar.

"Tain't often I tells my woes, 'cause nobody b'lieves my story. Would you like to know why I'm wearing rags and ridin' on car trucks?

"In the year '60 I was a young man studyin' law in Boston, with ez good prospects ahead ez any man ever hed afore him. I hed just come in fer five thousand by the death of an uncle, the last of kin. One evening, at a social hop, I met Mary—don't matter about her other name—and—wall, 'twas a case of love from the word go. She was a rich man's daughter; my wealth didn't go fer much 'gainst the governor's but then I hed prospects.

"Things went on ez slick ez possible fer a time, when my health failed, and the doctors ordered rest and change. The gold fever struck me, and I made up my mind one day to dig for a fortune in Californey, and get my health in the bargain. 'Course Mary cried, and I give up the trip twice, but finally got started.

"THE POOR CRITTER'S 'BOUT DONE UP."

"Wall, I reached the diggings, finally, and located a claim et Gold Hill, and in six months laid away quite a pile. I wasn't much on drink then, and I didn't hev the red nose I ha' now.

"One day a letter come tellin' me the governor hed dropped all he owned in the loss of three ships. This didn't bother me much. 'Bout three months skipped by, and another come which made me wild. The letter was all full of love and tear stains, and said that the man who had saved the governor from complete ruin wanted to marry her. She objected, o' course, and the old man coaxed and stormed, and the new lover waited, wistful like.

"I was fer goin' home, but Mary said no, et 'd spoil my chances.

"Wall, the end come at last. She married him. The news dazed et first, fer I couldn't get et through my head. Then I left the diggings fer nowhere, and ended up—well, I finally joined a party of scouts, and wandered over the western country fightin' Injuns.

"Two years later I was one of a party of ten prospectin' in the Wahsatch mountains, in Utah. We hed settled fer camp one evening in a natural cave not far from a precipice, from whar we could look in the valley and over about two miles to the stage-coach trail, windin' in an' out 'tween the mountains.

"I was standin' on a rock lookin' at the valley underneath, when I saw the stagecoach way up on the trail, roundin' the bluff. I called the boys to come and see et, fer et was somethin' to see in them days. We squinted through our glasses at the coach, and waved our hats, though we knew they couldn't see. Suddenly one of the boys said in an excited way: 'Boys, they're goin' to be attacked; see them forms dodgin' in an' out round thet bluff?' 'Sure enough,' said the whole crowd, 'but how are we goin' to warn them?' We stood thar hesitatin' until we saw the coach stop; then we all made a rush together for the trail.

"Took us over an hour to get thar, and we found the women huddled against the cliff, the driver and two men shot, and one woman gone. They'd been attacked by Molva, a Mexican half-breed, and his gang of cutthroats. The men, headed by the husband of the woman Molva had stolen, had followed the band in pursuit. The husband of the woman, the women said, was about crazy wi' grief, and said he'd find her if he hed to blow the mountain sky high to do it.

"Capt. Watson headed our party, and he knew every nook in the range.

"'I'll bet my boots,' said the captain, 'thet they've gone over to Boar's head canyon; ef we can't find them thar, we'll look in et the cave on the western slope.'

"We didn't see nothin' suspicious et the canyon, and, after a hard pull, reached the cave. We were climbin' along the top o' the bluff when the capt'n suddenly whispered a halt, and we all laid low. 'Twas a starry night, and the capt'n had run across a hole in the turf where smoke was comin' out in clouds. This was the chimney of the cave, fifty feet below in the bluff.

"The women said thar was fifty in the party, we 'lowed they were mistaken. After some parley the capt'n hit on a plan which might work. Thar were ten 'o us, nine war to stay on the bluff while the chimney was being choked, while one, which war me, was to crawl down to the entrance 'o the cave, and when the crowd rushed out, I was to skip in and grab the woman.

"I TRIED TO HIT HIM WITH MY REVOLVER."

"The plan worked. I was all safe behind a rock at the entrance when four or five of the gang came out wi' thar hands to thar eyes, coughin'. The boys on top began firin', and soon the whole crowd come out in a hurry. Took me about two seconds to get inside the cave. The smoke near stifled me, but I crawled to whar I could hear a woman coughin'. Didn't take me long to get her out. The woman was hangin' on me, half dead, and I was follin' up the side of the bluff, when all o' a sudden we run right agin the big Mexican. He grunted somethin' in Mexican and felt fer us. His hand touched the woman; then we closed. I tried to hit him with the butt end of my revolver, but a downward stroke of his arm knocked it flyin'! Then I reached fer my bowie, and, while doing so, got this wipe across the face. I was about blinded, but I got in a lunge on him, which fixed him. I lost my head then, and the boys found me lying right on the Greaser. The woman was gone; no one had seen her. The boys found her the next day lyin' et the foot o' the bluff—dead. She'd run off thar in the dark. I was lying in camp when the boys brought her in, an' I must ha' been perty weak, fer the minet I caught sight o' that face, all bruised and cut, I fainted dead away. It was Mary. I never told the boys. Her husband carried her away; but not 'fore I touched my sin-stained lips to hers. He didn't suffer more'n I did, fer I hed to hide my feelin'. Her husband was a wealthy mine owner, they told me, and hed taken his wife with him on one of his business trips.

"All the money I hed hoarded up went like mist arter that. Sometimes I've been on my feet since, but not fer long at a time. Luck's agin me. I like the life, though. I've been in many a scrape, but allus come out o. k. Perhaps I hevn't had enough trouble to please fate."

"Mind telling me the name of the mine owner?" asked the drummer.

"No; Silas Larkin," answered the tramp raising his head from his hands.

"Of Boston?"

"Yes."

"One of the richest men of Boston know him well," remarked the drummer. "By George! I'll write to him; he'll put you on your feet in good shape."

The tramp raised himself proudly to his full height.

"Partner, you may be a white man; so be I, and I don't want help from thet quarter. I'll starve furst."

"El Paso," called the brakeman.

"Whar ye be going' to?" asked the Texan.

"I'm makin' for Orleans."

"Boys, chip in."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

AN OLD STORY.

O you are fair and young, my love.
But I am growing old,
And in good sooth you do me wrong
To ask a story or a song,
For all my songs are sung, my love,
And all my tales are told.

My voice has gone this many a year,
My wit has grown so small
I'm even forced to speak the truth;
But somewhere lives a lucky youth
Who'll tell you—lies, I think, my dear,
But you'll believe them all.

He'll have a noble scorn of pelf,
He'll sing, and sigh, and sue,
He'll say his love will last for aye—
And heaven knows what he will not say—
I've done this sort of thing myself,
It is not hard to do.

He'll talk of dying, if you doubt
The ardor of his flame;
You'll save his precious life, my dear,
And in a quarter of a year—
But there, you'd better find it out—
It's always much the same.

Ah, then, forgive my foolish tongue,
Or tender, frown and scold.
'Tis certain that I cannot know;
These things are changed since long ago
I said that all my songs were sung,
And all my tales were told.
—Herbert E. Clarke, in Black and White.

"OLD BLINKEY'S" SCARS.

They Were Received in a Desperate Encounter with Bears.

HERE is a queer character called "Old Blinkey," who visits this section occasionally, and on his last visit here an opportunity to do him a very decided favor came in my way, and I won his eternal friendship, says a Fayetteville (Ark.) correspondent of the Globe-Democrat. He lives over in the lower edge of Marion county, it is said, but is so suspicious of every one that very little is known regarding him except that he is a remarkably skillful and enthusiastic hunter, a faultless shot with the rifle and an expert with a knife. Whenever he comes to this section, as he does about once in a year, the old residents tell some startling stories about his early exploits, but no one has ever been able to get "Old Blinkey" to indorse any of them till to-day. The opportunity mentioned above secured "Old Blinkey's" friendship, and he gave the following history of some deep and numerous scars running down his face, and the rapid shutting and opening of his eyes which have given him his name.

Throwing open his rough shirt he showed a chest that appeared to have been literally seamed with some sharp instrument, and far worse than the two sides of his face, each of which had perhaps a dozen straight scars.

"These were all received in one fight," said he, "and it occurred up in the Ozark hills in the edge of Marion county back in the 50's. There used to be mighty good hunting there in those days, and I have stood in my cabin door many a time and shot a deer. But the sneaking and thieving black bears I always did hate, and never lost a chance to thin them out. One evening I saw the trace of one when I came home to supper, and next morning I saw that both he and his mate had come back to the cabin during the night. This was too impudent, so I took down my rifle and started out after them.

"I had no trouble in tracking them to a bluff on the creek, and there I lost them for a minute, though the tracks were so fresh that I knew they must be near. Suddenly seeing a bush move and the little round eyes of a bear peer through at me, I put a bullet in it at once, and found to my disgust that I had wasted my load on a contemptible little cub. Another little cub rushed out of a small cave in the hillside followed by its mother, and not knowing how close the head of the family might be, and also wishing to load again, I sprang to a grapevine overhanging the bluff and swung myself over. The vine reached to within ten feet of the bank of the creek down a straight wall of thirty feet, so I went down sliding, and when I came to the end I dropped to the gravel bank and found myself face to face with the old bear himself. There was no time to load now, and there was no way out. It meant fight, and it meant death to delay.

"Realizing my position, I rushed at the bear, gave him my left arm while I cut him as deep and as often as I could with my knife. He tried to hug me, but I avoided that, and his claws tore off more of my clothing with each effort till I was stark naked above the belt. After that, every time he tried to get a hug and I would dodge his claws would take the flesh in strips. I knew I had to work fast, for I heard the old she bear and her cub coming around the bluff on the other side, and so I couldn't protect myself as I might. The next lunge I made at him I caught his claws on the side of my face and they went down to my neck, taking the flesh to the bone. I saw the old she bear now about fifty yards off and coming toward us, so I rushed into the arms of my enemy for a final struggle. As I had hoped, he was too weak now to avail himself of the opportunity I gave him, and I soon had him lying at my feet dead.

"By this time his mate was almost on me, and I saw no chance of escape. I knew I was too weak to take to the water, and, clearing my eyes of the blood which was flowing from my forehead and all over my face, I hurriedly glanced at the bluff and saw I was shut off in the rear and the only break at all in its smooth side was a little crevice about a foot wide or a foot and a half, and about two to three feet deep. Just as my new enemy had almost reached me I had made up my mind and sprang into this little depression. When the bear reached me she appeared to be beside herself with rage. She tried to rush in where I was, but the place was too small. She could not get at me, and I was safe from her hug; but while my knife did some execution on her, her claws did fearful execution on me. I had been fighting with the sun blazing into my face till I was almost blinded, and every time she struck at me I would dodge and bat my eyes; and finally she and the sun and the blood from my face contained to make me dodge and wink my eyes continuously till I thought I could never stop.

"I had kept hoping the cub would come up close to her and take her attention from me, if only for a minute, but it was walking around out by the edge of the water. I was growing weaker and she seemed to know it, and I began to vaguely wonder how long this could last. After what seemed to be hours the little cub came whining around her, but could not take her attention from me in the slightest degree.

"Seeing my last chance about to leave me, I became desperate, sprang out under the arms of the old bear, grasped the cub and started back to my place of refuge. She saw me and tried to get me, but my desperation lent me wings, and with the exception of a handful or pawful of flesh from this other side of my face I got back without her interference. I now felt renewed courage and was satisfied it would be simply a question of endurance between us, and although I was very weak, it still gave me a chance. My holding the cub enraged her the more, but it protected me, for I made it receive her attack once or twice and that stopped her.

"I GRASPED THE CUB."

"The hours dragged slowly by and finally the sun went down, yet still we stood there. The cub was nearly choked to death, and seemed famishing for water, and I wondered what I would do if it should die, for its only value as a weapon was its keeping alive. At last I heard the welcome shot of some hunter's rifle, and by almost superhuman efforts at calling, finally brought him to the bluff. Here I explained the situation, and the man, who was a stranger, but, I must admit, a splendid marksman, killed the bear the first shot.

"My eyes have never gotten over that trying time, and they call me 'Old Blinkey' now. It was the closest call I ever had, and I've had a good many."

Electrical Power for Ocean Steamers.

An exchange suggests the use of electricity as a motive power for propelling ocean steamers. This idea is by no means as chimerical as might be imagined. The marvelous advances that have been made in the electrical world in the last decade furnish abundant reason for believing that the uses to which this subtle force may be and will be applied have only begun to be discovered. It would be nothing unexpected should a method be discovered for utilizing it as a power in ocean navigation. The great difficulty in modern war cruisers is the inability to secure sufficient coal capacity together with the lines of model essential to the highest speed. The Charleston has just furnished the country with a striking illustration of this. She burns one hundred and seventy-five tons of coal per day when running at full speed and her storage capacity is only eight hundred tons. As a result she could only run a little over four days in her chase of the Itata without securing a fresh supply of fuel. Of course naval authorities fully realize the disadvantages of this condition of things, but it is hard to see how it can be avoided unless, as has been suggested, a way be found to make use of electricity as the propelling power.—Kennebec Journal.

—The following presidents were born at regular intervening periods of eight years and retired from office at same regular periods: John Adams, born 1735, retired 1801; Jefferson, born 1743, retired 1809; Madison, born 1751, retired 1817; Monroe, born 1759, retired 1825; J. Q. Adams, born 1767, but served only four years.

—Tired Traveler (alighting from train)—"Which do you consider the best hotel here?" Drummer—"You see that building over there? That is the worst." Tired Traveler—"But I don't want the worst; I want the best." Drummer—"Then I don't know what you're going to do. There is only one."

HORRIBLE BARBECUE

Fifty Human Beings Eaten by African Natives.

A BATTLE WITH THE CANNIBALS

Attacked by an Armed Expedition and Hundreds Killed and Wounded.

Their Villages Occupied by Friendly Europeans and Arabs—The Bakuwas Around Stanley Falls Are Again Returning to Cannibalism—Several Have Been Court-Marshalled and Executed.

LONDON, July 25.—Advices just received from Stanley Falls, in the Congo Free State, tell of cannibalism among natives and of an armed expedition against them. Natives along the Lomani River, who had blocked the stream with hundreds of armed canoes, killed and ate fifty natives friendly to Europeans.

An expedition composed of fifty Arabs and ten Europeans soon after left Stanley Falls to punish the cannibals, and after a day's battle succeeded in routing them and occupying their villages. Hundreds of the rebellious natives were killed and wounded.

The same advices also state that the Bakuwas around Stanley Falls are returning to cannibalism and that several of them have been court-martialled and executed.

CAPT. VERNEY'S CRIME.

The Member of Parliament Loses an Estate Valued at $300,000.

LONDON, July 25.—The death of an uncle of Capt. Edmund Verney, the member of Parliament for North Bucks, who in May last was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for conspiracy to procure a young governess for immoral purposes, discloses the fact that Verney received other punishment for his crime than public disgrace and penal confinement.

The will of the deceased shows that he had bequeathed to Captain Verney one-third of his estate, after the payment of a few small legacies, the value of the bequest being something like $300,000. A codicil bearing the date of Verney's sentence, May 6, cancels this bequest and states the testator's reasons for cutting Verney off, the latter having by his outrageous conduct forfeited all claims to recognition by any member of the family, upon which he had brought disgrace and humiliation.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Revolutionists at Work in the State of Cordova, Argentine Republic.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Advices from Rosario, in the State of Cordova, Argentine Republic, state that all is excitement and over 600 revolutionists are in prison. A plot has also been discovered to blow up the Capitol and police headquarters.

Gaston Fouteynes was the principal conspirator. He had a tunnel partially constructed, in which were found powder and dynamite bombs. All the officers and men connected with the regular army are now constantly on guard and the people are in a state of terror, expecting something dreadful to happen.

Some of the Passengers Drowned.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Passengers on the steamer Drew, which collided with an excursion barge in the Hudson River, near Albany, say they believe at least two persons were drowned. They claim that when the boats came together, three people were thrown by the force of the shock into the water. One of these was a woman, the other two were men. One man was saved by the steamer's deckhands, but the other man and woman, according to the passengers, sank beneath the waves. The captain of the Drew admits that it was a peculiar accident and that possibly some lives were lost.

White House Decorations.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The White House is completely in the hands of the decorators, and scaffolding so encumbers the great vestibule that it even prevents the great front door from being opened. The basement is in the hands of bricklayers and plasterers, for the entire ground floor is being remodeled. The state dining room is further advanced toward completion than any other part of the house, but it will be weeks before the decorations in the vestibule receive their finishing touches.

Conservatives Badly Defeated.

LONDON, July 25.—The election which was held yesterday in the North Wisbech division of Cambridgeshire for a Member of Parliament to fill the seat made vacant by the resignation of Captain Selwyn, Conservative, resulted in a most pronounced victory for the Liberal party. The Tory majority of 200 was swept away and the Liberals made a gain of 1,847 votes in the division.

President Harrison's Gifts.

BERLIN, July 25.—Minister Phelps has handed into the Foreign Office officials the gold watch and chain sent by President Harrison to Capt. Schols, of the German ship Gorg, for rescuing the crew of the American ship Gipsy Queen, in April, 1889; also a gold medal for Mate Schelling.

Le Caron, the Informer, Dying.

LONDON, July 25.—Le Caron, the informer who testified against Mr. Parnell and the Irish patriots before the Parnell Commission, is expected to die from a tumor in his stomach.

PHILADELPHIA'S BIG FIRE.

Cotton and Woollen Mills Burned—Loss, About $700,000.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—The cotton and woollen mill of Campbell & Elliott, at Washington avenue and 12th street, was burned last night. The loss is estimated at $700,000, and is believed to be covered by insurance.

The fire was one of the fiercest ever seen in this city. The building extended about 200 feet on Washington avenue and the same distance on 12th street and was filled with inflammable material. When the flames got a good headway but little effort was made to check them, the efforts of the firemen being directed to the saving of surrounding property.

Over 450 men, women and children were thrown out of employment by the destruction of the mill.

A CLUE TO BANK THIEVES.

The Facts Given by Girls Who Had Been on a Picnic.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., July 25.—The police of Easton and Phillipsburg have what they they think is a positive clue to the Easton Bank thieves. The facts were given by some girls who had been on a picnic to Carpentersville, a few miles below here.

At half past 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the robbery three men crossed the ferry at Carpentersville. They acted very suspiciously, and entering a tavern ordered drinks, paying for them in a new one-dollar bill. The barkeeper noticed that the money they had was in one and two dollar bills.

The officers are following up the clue, and feel very hopeful of getting the thieves in a short time.

HAS EIGHT LIVING WIVES.

They Range in Age from 23 to 50 Years—The Bigamist Arrested.

ROUSDOUT, N. Y., July 25.—Augustus Lewis, 47 years old, was arrested in Ellenville, and placed in jail here to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of bigamy.

He is said to have no less than eight living wives in this State. Three of them residents of Ellenville.

By the assistance of friends he escaped to Pennsylvania when the warrant for his arrest was issued, two months ago, but he was decoyed across the border to this State and captured. His wives range in age from 22 to 50 years.

Trouble Over a Factory Inspector.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 25.—The State Treasurer has declined to pay any more money on Chief Factory Inspector Watchorn's order until he has been advised regarding the latter's title to the office. This is the result of the court's opinion in the Waller case, in which it was decided that rejection by the Senate made an appointment impossible. Watchorn was reappointed after having been rejected by the Senate.

Tenny and Longstreet to Race.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Col. Pulsifer's Tenny and M. F. Dwyer's Longstreet have been matched to race one mile and a quarter over the Morris Park race course on July 30, for a purse of $5,000 a side. The association is to add $2,500. The match is a certainty, as the owners have signed a contract. Both horses are to carry 126 pounds.

Is Almy in Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 25.—Detectives here say they are positive that Frank Almy, the New Hampshire murderer, is in the city, and has not left by any of the ocean steamships. The gold ring identified as his by the American detectives was sold in a second-hand shop long after the departure of the steamer Mongolian, in which he is said to have escaped.

Prohibition Laws Not Enforced.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 25.—The sheriff of Aroostook County has received a communication from Gov. Burleigh calling attention to complaints that have been made that the prohibitory laws are not being properly enforced. The Governor says that if more efficiency is not shown special constables will be appointed.

Mrs. Grant at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 25.—Mrs. General Grant and Mrs. Dent arrived here last evening. They were met by Colonel Woolworth, of the Grand Union Hotel, where the ladies occupy what are known as the President's apartments. They will remain here three weeks.

Great Depression in the Steel Trade.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 25.—The two steel mills of this city have notified their men that next week half time will begin because of the great depression in the steel rail trade. About 8,000 men are employed in the mills. General Manager Moffat says that the future looks very black.

Hanged for Fifty-four Cents.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 25.—Charles M. Osburn, a commission merchants of this city, was hanged here at noon for the murder of John M. Bradley on May 5, 1890. The murder was the result of an overcharge of 54 cents on a barrel of potatoes.

THE WAR IS OVER

Tennessee's Miners Will Trust Gov. Buchanan.

THE CONVICTS GO BACK TO WORK

General Rejoicing in Knoxville Over the Peaceful Settlement.

The Troops Leave for Home To-day—They Celebrated the Return of Peace—The Terms of Settlement Signed by the Miners' Committee—They Expect Relief When the Legislature Meets.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 25.—The war is over and the miners have unconditionally surrendered.

Governor Buchanan has won a great victory, and without bloodshed. This satisfactory result was reached last night. Up to a few minutes before the settlement citizens believed the troops would go to Coal Creek. It soon became known, however, that the troops would not be ordered to move, though they were ready to go at a moment's notice.

When they did not go the citizens became nervous and matters seemed to be in a very bad condition, and there were rumors upon rumors that the Governor would surrender to a mob of lawless men. It was learned that the sheriff of Anderson county would not act and ask for a posse. It was said the Governor was powerless, but the result has shown that Governor Buchanan knew what he was about.

It was true that when the committee of miners left him the previous night the men were angry. Several of the committee said that they would not have anything more to do with the Governor, but they were hot-headed men, for during the day the committee came to see the position of the Governor like loyal citizens and knew he could not, as the Governor of a great State, and sworn to do his duty, compromise the law. So they agreed among themselves that the Governor was right in not acceding to a violation of the law.

They got together about 4 o'clock and were in session some time. When they broke up they went to Gov. Buchanan with the proposition to abide by the law.

The Miners' Agreement.

The following is a copy of the agreement which the miners have agreed to, and which is considered a settlement of the mining trouble.

"First—Status quo to be restored and the guards and convicts not to be molested on their return to the mines, and we will use all ordinary caution and honorable means to prevent any interference with them.

"Second—Reposing confidence in our Governor, and believing the General Assembly, when it meets in extra session, will give us the necessary relief from the oppression that now hangs over us, we will endeavor to conduct ourselves as law-abiding people, so as to maintain the confidence and sympathy of the public in the future, as well as in the past.

"Third—And we do hereby express our thanks to Gov. Buchanan for the kind consideration in holding the militia in this city and thereby preventing a conflict that might have resulted in bloodshed.

"Fourth—And to the committee of citizens we also express our thanks for the interest they have shown by their counsel and advice in their efforts to adjust the existing difficulties."

When it was known in the city that the trouble had been settled there was great rejoicing. Everybody was happy and the streets were filled with smiling faces. Soon after dark the soldiers were released from their camp, and last night they celebrated the return of peace.

UP IN A BALLOON.

A Connecticut Man Will Marry the Girl Who Ascends With Him.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., July 25.—Chief Engineer Joseph Colwell, widower, undertaker and furniture dealer of Birmingham, has announced that he will marry the young lady who will go up in a balloon with him on the field day of the Foresters in that vicinity.

He has more than 60 letters from women who are anxious to "take him up." They send photographs and give their weight, height, etc. Colwell refuses to disclose the contents of any of the letters, but promises to perform his part of the bargain faithfully.

Houses Unroofed by a Storm.

SALEM, Ind., July 25.—A terrible wind storm and cloudburst passed over Salem during the afternoon. Several buildings were unroofed, store fronts were blown in and shade trees uprooted. No one was seriously injured. The country wheat stacks were blown down and much damage done to growing crops.

Pilot Commissioner Harding Dead.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Word was received at the Maritime Exchange of the death of Pilot Commissioner Samuel Harding, of this port, at Poland, Me. The funeral services will take place at the Rockingham House, in Portsmouth, N. H., on Sunday at 11 a. m.

BUFFALO'S FIGHT.

The Cleveland Democracy Has Issued a Call for a Meeting.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 25.—The Cleveland Democracy, which numbers 2,100 members, has issued a call for a meeting on Wednesday next, to take action upon the refusal of the conference Thursday to give a hearing to the club's committee.

The Cleveland Democracy is vehement in its denunciations of the autocratic methods of the Sheehan faction. It is learned that Mr. Sheehan went to Wilson S. Bissell's office yesterday evening to endeavor to patch up a truce, but failed to do so.

August Scheu, who is the leading opponent of Sheehan for State Committeeman, says he is still on deck, notwithstanding the victory gained by Sheehan.

The result of the Cleveland Democracy meeting will be awaited with much anxiety by both factions, as on it will depend the attitude to be taken by the anti-Sheehan faction, and it will determine whether it is harmony or war to the knife. The latter seems to be probable just now.

Disturbed About Foreign Vessels.

BATH, Me., July 25.—Captain Whitmore was sent yesterday as a delegate to interview Senator Frye and Congressman Dingley at Squirrel Island regarding the report that two foreign built steamers have been admitted to American registry and to the California trade of this port. Senator Frye ridiculed the idea, and was emphatic in his denial of the accuracy of the report and Mr. Dingley endorsed Mr. Frye's views, saying that Bath builders need have no fear of such competition. This city has been greatly disturbed over the report.

California's World's Fair Appropriation.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 25.—State Controller Colgan doubts the constitutionality of the legislative act appropriating $300,000 for California's exhibit at the World's Fair, and has in consequence refused to draw his warrant for the amount due as office rent for the California World's Fair Commission. The controller wishes the Supreme Court to decide the question before he pays out any money.

The Knights Templar Pilgrims.

QUEENSTOWN, July 25.—Over 200 Knights Templar from all parts of the United States arrived here during the morning on the steamer City of Berlin. They are making a pilgrimage of Europe and will at once proceed to Killarney and Glengariff. After making a tour of Ireland the pilgrims will visit England and other parts of Europe. All the members of the party are well.

For the Middleweight Battle.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 25.—A Grand Rapids (Minn.) dispatch says that the Pokegama Athletic Association of Grand Rapids has decided to offer $10,000 for the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight, with or without gloves. The club will furnish a guarantee that a fight in Itaska County will not be interfered with.

The Cabinet Out of Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Attorney-General Miller is representing the government in Washington to-day, for the President and his entire Cabinet, save the representative of Justice, are out of town.

IS Your Baking Powder Pure?

It may masquerade as "absolutely pure;" perhaps you think it is; but you may know whether it is adulterated with ammonia or not if you

Test it. Mix one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder with one spoonful of water in a tin cup; boil thoroughly for a few moments, stir to prevent burning, and if ammonia is present you can smell it in the rising steam. As baking powder, when thrown into water, will effervesce, do not mistake bubbling for boiling.

There is no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration whatever in Cleveland's baking powder, and in the laboratory and in the kitchen

WILL HAVE REVENGE

Pennsylvania Woodsmen After an Italian Murderer.

HE BOASTFULLY DEFIES ARREST

Protected by His Countrymen in a Camp in the Woods.

The Leader of the Band Served With a Notice to Surrender the Assassin Within Five Days—A Conflict Between the Foreigners and Lumbermen Inevitable. The Italian Consul Interested.

PITTSBURG, July 25.—Glen Hazel, a lumbering hamlet, 14 miles from Ridgway, Elk County, may soon be the scene of a race war that will create as great a furor in diplomatic circles as the famous Italian episode at New Orleans.

During a drunken row between lumbermen and Italians employed in grading an extension of the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad, Horace Fisher, a jobber, was fatally stabbed in the abdomen by Paolo Passuzzi. The latter then made his escape to the Italian camp, and has not yet been captured, although the County Commissioners have offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the murderer.

The Murderer's Friends Defiant.

Soon after the murder the Italians at Glen Hazel flung the national flag of Italy to the breeze and boastfully defied arrest. The woodsmen then began to talk of shooting every Italian in the town. Their blood is at fever heat, and they are determined that the brutal murder of their companion shall be avenged. They have consulted among themselves what they will do in retaliation, and the result of their councils has been conveyed to the leader of the Italian band.

Must Surrender the Murderer.

They have served a notice on him giving him five days to deliver the body of Passuzzi, the murderer of Fisher. If he shall not be placed behind the bars of the County Jail at Ridgeway at the expiration of that time every Italian is to be driven out of the county at the point of Winchester rifles. The Italians are terribly frightened at the way things are looking, and have notified the Italian Consul at Philadelphia of their danger. The Consul opened communication with District Attorney Ernest J. Wimmer demanding protection for Italy's subjects.

5,000 Woodsmen Demand Reparation.

In answer to the Consul's letter the district attorney wrote him that he had better advise Italy's subjects to deliver up the murderer. The Consul sent two men here to quietly look into the matter, and they were in this city to-day. There are at least 5,000 woodsmen in Elk County, and they are a unit in demanding reparation for this horrible crime. It now looks as though a conflict between the Italians and the woodsmen is inevitable.

ANOTHER LEPER.

He is a Chinese Laundryman and Has Caused a Big Scare.

KEARNY, N. J., July 25.—The people of this place who hate to have their wearing clothes washed by Laundryman Sam Sing are suffering from nervous dread to-day.

Inspector Saltonstall, of the Hudson County Board of Health, yesterday compelled Sam Sing to submit to an examination, as a result of which the Chinaman has been declared a leper.

The fact that leprosy is a contagious disease is what is causing so much uneasiness among Sam Sing's patrons.

The people in the neighborhood of Sam's residence are now clamoring for his removal, and the board of health is puzzled what to do with him.

There is no county pest house to which he can be sent, and the Snake Hill hospital is filled with patients.

Unless some steps are promptly taken to quarantine the leper, it is quite probable that the residents of Kearny will arise en masse to drive the unfortunate Chinaman out of town.

Died in Camp at Mount Gretna.

LEBANON, Pa., July 25.—Private Carey Baylor, Company F, Twelfth Regiment, P. N. G., died at Camp Gregg, Mount Gretna, at noon. He was ailing the previous day and was placed in the hospital, but was thought to be much improved during the morning. When his company returned from drill Baylor was found dead in his bed. Baylor's home was at [illegible], Pa.

SEVEN CHILDREN DROWNED.

They Were Playing in a Boat When It Capsized.

MONTREAL, July 25.—Seven children were drowned at Maisic during the day. The children of two families named Montigny and Pauras and the little daughter of a Quebec visitor were playing in an old boat on the shore. The oldest was a girl of 15, the youngest an infant of 3. No one seemed to notice the rising tide until a shout of terror from the children showed the old boat afloat a couple of hundred yards from the shore and rapidly sinking.

The children's screams brought all the women to the shore, and the ensuing scene was maddening.

There was no other boat at hand and no men were near. In less than ten minutes the crazy boat filled and capsized, living the children struggling in the water.

For the majority the struggle was brief as one by one the little heads were seen to disappear.

Tancred Pauras, aged 7, clung to the boat and some 20 yards from him was seen, still struggling, the only other remaining child.

The boy left his refuge and swam to the child, brought her back to the boat and held on for an hour until the boat drifted in so that the women could wade out and bring in the children.

The names of the drowned are Alfred, Joseph, Marie, Louise and Cecile Montigny and Marmed and Marguerite Pauras.

OPPOSED BY DONNELLY.

He Says the Wheat Corner Would Injure the Farmers.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 25.—Ignatius Donnelly, president of the Minnesota State Farmers' Alliance, has just published an open letter to members in opposition to the scheme proposed for withholding their present wheat crop for the double purpose of obtaining higher prices and crushing the wheat speculators' combination. Mr. Donnelly bases his opposition to the combination of farmers on the ground that if the farmers held their wheat any length of time it would only lead to the market being eventually glutted with it.

Every farmer would be attempting to sell at the same time. Prices would quickly drop to ruinous figures and the last condition of the agriculturists would be worse than the first.

He argues that the movement is not in the right direction.

He is strongly opposed to the speculators' combine, but thinks it can be more effectually dealt with by law.

Frederick Havemeyer Dying.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The condition of Frederick Havemeyer is alarming, and his friends fear he will not survive to-day. He is at his country residence, Throgg's Neck, Westchester County.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

John W. Lanning of Mount Holly, N. J., was held for trial in Bordentown for assaulting Mrs. Ira Rogers of that town.

A census Office bulletin shows that the United States in 1889 produced more copper than the rest of the world combined.

Frank Bowzer aged 24 of Haverstraw N. Y., was drowned in the Hudson river during the evening while bathing. He was unmarried.

The hay crop in New Hampshire is reported to be the best in years. The oat and barley crop is also very good, while potatoes are very promising.

George Reppert, who was convicted in New York city of an atrocious assault on his 16-year-old daughter, was sentenced to State Prison for 19 years and 10 months.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of America is holding its annual session at Ocean Grove, N. J., Mrs. R. W. Goff presiding. The consecration meeting was conducted by Mrs. Clara Rosch of Washington.

William A. Brickell of New Jersey has sued the City of New Haven for $80,000, because of an alleged infringement by the city fire department on an improvement in feed-water heaters patented by Brickell. A similar suit has been brought against the city of Hartford.

Had Enough of Prize Fighting.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 25.—The President of the Minnesota Athletic Club has issued a statement that the club will have nothing more to do with the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight; that no pugilistic entertainments will hereafter be given by the club, and that no arrangements for one would have been made had it been known that the law prohibited such exhibitions.

—There will be a number of converts baptized into the First Church of Christ, in the brook near the Sandford avenue bridge, to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

—The shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will meet in Mr. Liefke's rear room Monday evening next, for the payment of monthly dues, etc.

—The delegates to the recent Northfield students' conference, who expect to accompany Charles B. Brown, to Rahway, to-morrow afternoon, and participate in the young men's meeting to be held there, will leave the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 2:30 p. m.

—J. H. Doane, the jeweler, has made electrical connections between a clock and the fire-alarm gong, so that every day at 12 noon and 5 p. m. the gong will give a blow. This new method of sounding the horn will be put into force next Tuesday.

THE BIG 6 AGAINST JOHN KEAN.

"The Public Awaits the Result With Great Interest."

The following, dated yesterday, is from the New York Times:

A secret meeting of the "Big Six" of the Plainfield Common Council that may result in important public measures, is to be held at the home of Charles K. Moore this evening. Mr. Moore is the contractor to whom was voted, by the Plainfield Common Council of last year, a franchise for the construction and operation of water works in Plainfield. He was prevented by John Kean, Jr., of Elizabeth, from completing his contract, and Mr. Kean himself got control of the works and is pushing them to completion.

Now that Mr. Kean, who openly boasts of his control of the city of Elizabeth, is seeking to secure a similar monopolistic grip on Plainfield, Fanwood, Westfield and Cranford through wholesale water works, sewerage, and other enterprises which have for their foundation the bonding of the townships affected, Mr. Moore and the "Big Six" have determined, it is said, on a plan to fight and defeat his machinations. At to-night's secret meeting their scheme to thwart Kean is to be put into practical shape. The public awaits the result with great interest.

FROM PLAINFIELD TO NORWICH.

A Large Delegation Will Undoubtedly Go With the Crescent League's Team.

The Crescent League base-ball team from Plainfield, N. J., who played against the local team last season, will probably play here on August 4 and 6. The Crescents are one of the best of the semi-professional clubs about New York and are putting up a great game this season. If they come to Norwich they will bring a large delegation of admirers and a fine game may be expected.

The above from the Norwich, Conn., Record, forecasts an enjoyable excursion for the Crescent League members, their team and their friends, and there is every reason for the assertion that "a large delegation of admirers" will go from here.

Rare Tom Keller has the project in charge, and that is full assurance of its success in every detail. There'll be the fine sail up the Sound, the pleasant trips to Norwich and Mystic, the exciting struggle of the Connecticut professionals against Captain Lufbery's young giants, and a hundred other near scenes and enjoyments.

All this, Mr. Keller tells THE PRESS, he will be able to place within the reach of everybody at a cost of $12. This amount will cover all expenses of the three days—fare and stateroom down and back on the boat, meals, car fares and hotel bills. Certainly there will be a large delegation.

Success is the envy of the weak brained. They seek to get there too. No wonder that they resort to counterfeiting. The reputable dealer should not encourage imitators. Be sure and ask for Hires's Root Beer Packages, and be especially sure you get them.

—The fellow who red-peppered the ball-room floor of Plainfield's Casino can't be credited even with originality in ruffianism. He ought to be punished with a dose of his own medicine.—Joe Howard, jr., in New York Recorder.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A. W. Sperry is registered among the new arrivals at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Dunn and family are guests at Force's Hotel. Mrs. Dunn is a sister of Mrs. Force.

Miss J. Louise Pangborn of this city is among those recently registered at the St. Cloud House, Asbury Park.

Recent arrivals at the Gramercy House, Asbury Park, include E. R. Pope and wife and J. F. Hubbard and wife.

News comes from the west of the death of Abbie Sutton, who once lived in Plainfield, and who is known by many old residents.

Miss Sadie E. Conners, of West Third street, accompanied by little Aggie Deady, left town to-day to seek recreation and pleasure at Centralia, Pa. They expect to remain until September.

Noah T. Pike, of Savannah, now on a visit here, was a guest of Lieut. Aliens of the U. S. steamer Chester A. Arthur, for a two days' trip this week to Newport and the government supply stations on the Sound.

The Hon. Wm. C. Kelly, of Plainfield, was among the one-day visitors on Wednesday. Mr. Kelly has given up the lumber trade for oranges in Florida, and says there will be a big crop.—Asbury Park Daily Journal.

John R. Clark, whose low condition was noted in these columns yesterday, died at the Muhlenberg Hospital at 9 o'clock last evening. The Knights of Pythias, of which he was a member, will have charge of the funeral.

Dr. Wm. R. Harper, President of the University of Chicago and for many years Principal of the Chautauqua College of Liberal Arts, has been appointed Principal of the entire Chautauqua system by Bishop Vincent, whose relation as Chancellor continues the same as heretofore.

Two night blooming cereus plants were in full bloom last evening at the homes of Mrs. Mattis, corner of Arlington avenue and West Third street, and Mrs. Angleman, corner of Madison avenue and West Third street. The flowers were exceedingly beautiful, and a large number of friends were present to see them.

—To-morrow we shall meet our friends, the enemy, and it goes without saying that the game is already won. Let us again urge the supporters of the West Ends to go to Plainfield in force and cheer the boys on to victory. To-morrow evening we will own both the towns of Plainfield and Somerville.—Somerville Democrat.

Adjutant Leyh, of the Salvation Army, will celebrate the fourth anniversary of her work as an Army officer, to-morrow. During that period she has spoken to an audience every evening, with the exception of the recent two weeks' vacation she had to take on account of illness, besides working hard and constantly among the people.

The Rev. L. C. Rogers and wife, of Alfred Centre, N. Y., and parents of Charles Potter Rogers of Plainfield, are visiting friends in the vicinity of New Market this week. Some will remember Mr. Rogers as the pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist church at New Market during the war. He was a classmate of the lamented President Garfield at Williams College.

The Rev. Charles B. Mitchell, after an absence from his pulpit for two Sabbaths on account of illness, will preach to-morrow morning and evening for the last time this summer. Monday morning he will go west to fill some lecture engagements. Mrs. Mitchell will accompany him as far as Pittsburgh, her old home, where she will spend the summer. Arrangements have been completed for filling Mr. Mitchell's pulpit during his vacation with the best pulpit talent in the country.

Miss Eliza Blackford, of New Market, is ill at the advanced age of 86 years. Her recovery is not probable. The farm on which she lives, that of Mrs. Augusta Blackford, has been in the possession of the same family for many generations. Upon the place are several relics of olden times, among which is a sleigh which was in use during the Revolutionary war and which, according to family tradition, was frequently appropriated and used by the British during their occupation of this section at that time.

The Death of Mrs. Kenney.

Further particulars of the death of Mrs. Mary Kenney—mother of John J., and Andrew E. Kenney and of Mrs. John Rafferty, of this city—which was mentioned in these columns at the time of the sad occurrence, are as follows:

Sunday evening at 5 o'clock she went from her home in Bound Brook to Pamrapo, accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss Mamie Moynihan, to visit her son, David. She retired Sunday night in good spirits. The little girl awoke Monday morning about 6:30 and saw some flies on her grandmother's face. She brushed them off so as not to disturb her slumber, when she touched her face and found it cold in death, the woman having died from heart trouble during the night.

Mrs. Kenney was a native of Ireland, but for the past two years has resided with her son-in-law, Michael Moynihan, in Bound Brook. Previous to living there her home was for 40 years at White House, where she lost her husband. She was 71 years of age, and leaves four sons and two daughters.

Funeral services were held in St. Joseph's church Thursday morning, the Rev. B. T. O'Connell officiating. Interment was made in Plainfield.

AFTER THE REV. ROBERTSON.

A New York Paper Still Assailing Plainfield's Missionary.

Under the double heading "Robertson Is At It Again—He Is Out With an Appeal for Funds for His Alleged Society", the New York Times of to-day gives the Rev. David F. Robertson, the missionary, whose home is at 76 East Second street, this city, another of its severe and periodical scorings. It says:

After a long hibernation, the "Rev." D. F. Robertson shows up smiling again with his notorious "society" for the guarding of New York's juveniles, and a new pink circular announces to a long-suffering public that he is doing business again at the old stand. Thanks to the exposures in THE TIMES last fall, this business is very insignificant, and there is reason to think that Mr. Robertson's charter will soon be withdrawn after some proceedings are terminated which are now pending in the courts. His latest effort, the manifesto in pink, is important only in that it shows again why the Attorney General should wind up the crazy concern, and illustrates the truth of the adage about the futility of trying to teach old dogs new tricks.

The deceiving circular is headed in bold type: "Fresh Air Fund, Under the Management of the Committee on Excursions of the New York Juvenile Guardian Society. Dr. Egbert Guernsey, 528 Fifth avenue; William L. Bostwick, Treasurer of Custom House; A. B. Bright, Esq., 120 Broadway." Accompanying the circular is a letter from Robertson's faithful bookkeeper and scribe, Miss Gallagher, not unknown to fame herself, claiming that on Wednesday several hundred mothers and children were taken down to Coney Island "in charge of the Rev. D. F. Robertson", and that they "fully enjoyed 'the long summer day' in the health-giving breeze of Old Ocean". It is stated that a notable feature of this excursion was the "presence of 112 infants in arms".

Since the notice was carefully sent after the excursion had been given, a TIMES reporter could not be sent along to see how the affair was conducted; so, instead, a call was made on lawyer Bright, who is one of the prominent members of the "Committee on Excursions", according to the circular, to obtain some account of what was really done. Mr. Bright did not know either that he was on any such committee or that any excursion had been given. He said that he had not attended a meeting of the "society" since last January, and did not know that the "society" had any money to give excursions with.

Dr. Guernsey and Mr. Bostwick, the other members of the committee, were out of town, as also was the new "Treasurer", whom Robertson has secured in some manner, J. K. VanNess, a lawyer at 196 Broadway. The reporter saw a big safe in the office of the last named, and, connecting it with the "treasurership", asked if the Juvenile Guardian Society's funds were kept there.

"Oh, no!"—answered Mr. VanNess's clerk.

"Does n't Mr. VanNess handle the society's money?"

"No. You see the society has a post-office box, and an old man named Robertson gets the checks out of the box and brings them down here to be signed, and then takes them away again. That's all Mr. VanNess has to do with it."

Murdered His Brother.

LEXINGTON, Tenn., July 25.—Major and Henry Graves, brothers, left town during the forenoon together somewhat intoxicated. On the way home they got in a quarrel, which resulted in Henry, the youngest, being shot to death by his brother.

Several Mines Flooded.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 25.—The following mines were flooded last evening by heavy rain: The Henry Clay, Big Mountain, Buck Ridge, Stirling, Peerless and Burnside collieries. The damage will reach $35,000.

Prince Ferdinand's Visit to England.

VIENNA, July 25.—The Neue Frie Presse says that Crown Prince Ferdinand, of Roumania, will shortly visit England, when he will be formally betrothed to a daughter of the Prince of Wales.

Progress of the Education Bill.

LONDON, July 25.—The Education bill has passed its third reading in the House of Lords.

Lightning in a Shoe Factory.

CARLISLE, Pa., July 25.—A heavy storm passed over this city last evening and lightning struck the Carlisle Shoe Factory, followed the electric wire into the fitting room, shattered some electric lamps and stunned Miss Celia Spangler. Medical aid was summoned and she soon recovered.

Struck by an Engine and Killed.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 25.—William Scheckler, a fireman on a Lehigh Valley Coal Company engine, was struck by an engine at Delano and instantly killed.

Killed a Priest and Physician.

BERLIN, July 25.—At Posen a drunken soldier ran amuck through the streets, sword in hand, and killed a priest and physician before he could be overpowered.

A Freight Train Jumped the Track.

PORTLAND, Me., July 25.—A freight train, heavily loaded with lumber, left the track of the Upper Stillwater branch of the Maine Central railroad and crashed into the house of Mrs. Mudgett, pushing the building from its foundation. One of the cars went into the canal.

Captain Fisher's Strange Disappearance.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., July 25.—Captain Alexander Fisher, a well-known mariner, sailed away Monday, July 13, in his yacht Full Moon, and has not been seen or heard of since. One of his children has died since he disappeared. It is feared he has been drowned.

Large Crops in Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 25.—A bulletin has been issued by the Board of Agriculture showing the condition and prospects of the season's crop. There will be the largest crop of wheat harvested in a number of years, and it may be safely estimated at 22,500,000 bushels. It is too early to make a safe prediction regarding oats, but it is thought it will be an average crop. There will be a fair average crop of hay, but the potato crop will prove an excellent one; 11,000,000 bushels is the estimate of this latter crop. The crop of fruits of all kinds will be very large.

Hardsley's High Commissions.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—Testimony of a very startling nature was given during the inquiry into the affairs of ex-Treasurer Bardsley. Editors testified that they had to pay a commission of 40 per cent. to get advertisements.

Lewis Gets a Heavy Sentence.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Samuel W. Lewis, the broker convicted of stealing $53,000 from Mrs. Alice G. Bostwick, whom he afterward married, was sentenced to seven years and six months imprisonment at hard labor.

Russia's Welcome to the French.

PARIS, July 25.—The Temps says the welcome extended to the French squadron is without precedent in its cordiality. France, it says, is profoundly impressed with the extreme friendliness displayed.

Shot a Ten-Year-Old Girl.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 25.—Winnie Thompson, a ten-year-old negro girl, quarrelled with a boy about the same age at Colbert Reserve, Landerdale County. She sent another boy for a gun, and when it came she told him to shoot the boy with whom she was quarrelling. The boy fired, but missed the intended victim and hit the girl, killing her on the spot.

Matches Caused Her Death.

NYACK, N. Y., July 25.—At Northvale a girl named Ralfo Northcall while attempting to light a lamp, dropped the burning match upon her dress, immediately enveloping herself in flames and burning her body in such a horrible manner that she died in great agony soon after the flames were extinguished.

Steelton Strikers Orderly.

PITTSBURG, July 25.—There are no new developments in connection with the strike at the Pennsylvania Steel Works at Steelton. The strikers are orderly.

Meeting of the Eastern Association.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 25.—A meeting of the Eastern Baseball Association will be held here to-night. President White said the jig was up at Syracuse and that Toronto may take its place, but in case it should not the club will be placed somewhere else.

All Took a Hand.

The Bavarian peasants are in many respects similar to the Irish. They drink a great deal, are quite witty, and are never so happy as when they are fighting with each other. A story is told of two Bavarian peasants meeting on the road and holding the following conversation:

"Were you at the wedding last night?"

"Indeed I was. It was the nicest wedding we have had this season. Why, even the bride took a hand in the fight."—Texas Siftings.

A DISCOUNT FOR QUANTITY.

Mr. Du Poy (at Asbury park)—What do you ask for your bath houses by the hour?

Owner (sizing his customer)—Two for a quarter, sir.—Judge.

At the Wrong House.

Tramp—Please mum, I'm starving. Won't you let me have a postage-stamp to lick?

Experienced Housekeeper—Why, certainly. My husband is just finishing a letter to John L. Sullivan, offering to fight him anywhere, at any time, for $10,000 a side, Marquis of Queensbury rules. Wait until he is through, and perhaps he'll let you put the stamp on.

Tramp (hastily departing)—Thankee, kindly, mum; but maybe I can git a stamp at the next house without waiting.—Good News.

A Good Memory.

"Excuse me, sir, but haven't we met before? Your face is strangely familiar."

"Yes, madam, our host introduced us to each other just before dinner."

"Ah, I was positive I had seen you somewhere. I never forget a face."—Jury.

DO YOU WANT A PIANO?

If so, send us your name and address, and we will promptly mail catalogue prices, terms, etc., of our popular "CABLE" Pianos, new or second hand; cash, or easy monthly payments. Owing to our new system of installments we are enabled to offer better inducements than any other first-class house.

NOT GOING TO STEAL CRANFORD RIVER.

John Kean Will Deliver Plainfield Water to the Township.

The Elizabeth Herald says in an article written or dictated by one of the John Kean highwaymen, that it is not the object of the Kean scheme in Cranford to steal its river, and that it is not the purpose of the water company there that has dug up an old charter, to use the river at all.

The article continues: "It is intended to build mains and distributing pipes from the works of the Plainfield Water Supply company, through Fanwood and Westfield, and also in the township of Cranford, and not touch the Rahway river.

"The supply of the Plainfield Water company is obtained by means of driven wells, located along the line of the Central railroad, about one-quarter of a mile east of the Netherwood station. The supply is sufficient for the city of Plainfield, and the capacity of the works is such that it is claimed more than 400,000 gallons of water can be pumped daily from the wells.

"An analysis of this water has shown it to be of remarkable purity, and the supply, competent experts have determined, to be almost inexhaustable. It is a part of this surplus supply that the new company proposes to furnish to the people who patronize them."

THE ROCKAWAY VALLEY BOOM.

Now Morristown is Eager to Connect With Mendham.

An enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Morristown and Mendham was held in the Morristown Court-House Thursday afternoon to discuss the subject of extending the Rockaway Valley railway from Mendham to Morristown, seven miles.

There is no subject in any of the towns along the line of the route already built from White House, in Somerset county, to Mendham, in Morris county, and in the district between Mendham and Morristown, that is causing such widespread interest.

Among those present at the meeting were merchants, shippers, farmers, and two officials of the projected Hopatcong and New York road, which is virtually a continuation of the Rockaway Valley road, with its outlet to New York via the Greenwood Lake railway.

Augustus W. Cutler, Vice President of the Hopatcong road, was chosen Chairman of the meeting. Supt. Melick, of the Rockaway Valley road, was present to represent his company and to give any information that might be desired in connection with the present condition of the line and the outlook for the future.

Mr. Melick entered into full details when he addressed the meeting. He told how he came to think of building the road, and then, with the co-operation of the people, went about it by degrees, until three weeks ago he had the satisfaction of seeing his scheme working successfully through to Mendham and the price of coal reduced from the exorbitant rate of $6 a ton to $4.75. He said he had no fears for the future, as the road ran through a garden spot in the State and through the northern section of Hunterdon county, which statistics show to be the wealthiest agricultural section in this country.

Property has increased wonderfully in value all along the line, and in Mendham one fine farm that heretofore could not be sold at any price recently brought $50 an acre at auction. The owner will transform it into a paying peach farm.

In Germantown, where a house has not been built for twenty years, the click of the hammer and rasp of the saw is now heard, while Peapack is in the midst of a great building boom. At Pottersville the company has opened a picnic grove for respectable parties only, and the applications for dates are far ahead of expectations. The ticket sales have been greater than was contemplated this month, and many are sold from Mendham to Somerville, where the people prefer to trade rather than ride fourteen miles to Morristown and back. With railroad facilities many of them would go to Morristown.

The prospects of a large peach crop are good, and preparations are being made to haul all the fruit that is offered. It will take just ninety days to build the road from Mendham to Morristown when the subscriptions are assured.

A question was asked Mr. Melick in regard to a guarantee being given that the Lackawanna would not step in when the road was built and gobble it up, thereby swamping the subscribers to stock.

Mr. Melick replied that the road, undoubtedly would be gobbled up, but certainly by either the Central Railroad of New Jersey or Lehigh Valley Company, who are the formidable opponents of the Lackawanna in the coal traffic.

The Difference.

The "Ocean Greyhounds" are still competing for fastest time on record. So are a good many watches sold by unreliable dealers, but the watches sold at Collier's, 3 Park avenue, are designed to keep the best time on record and they do it.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

GOT THINGS AS THEY WANTED THEM.

The Contract Breakers of Somerville Are Proud of the Way They Beat Plainfield Out of a Game and Get Paid for Playing.

[From The Somerset Democrat.]

It seems impossible for the good and kindly feeling which has dominated between the Crescents and West Ends during the past year to continue, and it is all owing to that kicking journal known as the Plainfield Press. We had thought they had enough sarcasm last year and had hoped that the Press would see the evil of such a course, as was shown in the wind-up of the third game last year. An article which was printed in last Monday's issue of the Press, and which from the style we imagine is from Mr. Demarest's facile pen, says a great many things which are untrue.

The contract distinctly says the next available Wednesday, and is construed to mean the next Wednesday on which both clubs can play. As we were unable to secure Harkins and Kennedy we could not play that day, therefore July 22d was not available for us. As it was, to break the deadlock we agreed to play in Plainfield to-morrow, and at a heavy loss to ourselves, because we were to play a good game here and the receipts would have been large, as we have had no base-ball here in two weeks, and the people who do not go out of town are getting impatient. True it is, the Crescents are to pay us a guarantee.

The Press also says, "The Somerville managers proceeded to squeal out of it." Let us quietly inform the Press that this is all wrong. If you want to print news why don't you try and get it right, and your saying that this is official causes a smile to broaden our face. In what you say you show either a complete ignorance of affairs as they are or else a desire to stretch the truth, and from our own knowledge of things we are inclined to believe in the former.

No, friends, we did not squeal. That is not our nature. We may kick, but squeal never, and on Saturday the grand kick we made resulted in our having things just the way we wanted them.

With what little life the above has left in THE PRESS, it will make reply. Concerning the "kicking" to which the Somerville papers claim they object, it need only be said that this paper has been requested by members of the West End club for weeks and weeks past, to call Harkins a "big stuff" and the denizens of Somerville a lot of "robbers," so as to, they said, "arouse that antagonism which last year swelled the crowds and brought us all big gate receipts."

As to the statement above that it was not possible to secure Harkins and Kennedy, July 22, nobody believes that for a moment. Engagements are just what semi-professional ball players are looking for.

The Somerville managers at the start struck for a big guarantee for playing a postponed game here. It didn't work—at first—and it was settled that the game should be played July 22. Then came the lame excuse that Harkins and Kennedy couldn't be hired, and the outcome of it all was that the Somerville managers got more money for playing here today than they could possibly have taken in at their own gates.

The last clause of the article quoted above, tells the tale: "On Saturday the grand kick we made resulted in our having things just the way we wanted them."

The Jail is too Full of Them, Now.

Five strangers, named Farrell, Peterson, Ryan, Gorridge and Reed, were arraigned at the Elizabeth police court yesterday morning, on complaint of special officer J. M. Morris of the Central railroad company, who charged them with disorderly conduct.

The five men were arrested near El Mora by Sergeant Walsh and Officer Eckert. The men were detected by officer Mattox, riding on a coal train as it was passing through this city. Mattox sent word to Elizabeth and the men were captured as told in yesterday's PRESS.

The only excuse they could give the court for disobeying the laws was that they did not know that any law was in existence forbidding a person to ride on a cooler.

As Officer Morris had no especial desire to have the culprits sent to jail he refused to press the charge upon their promising to desist in the future. They were thereupon discharged.

A Prosperous Season Looked For.

[From The New York World.]

Music Hall, the only theatre in Plainfield, has been losing for its stockholders since it was opened in 1884. At a recent meeting of directors $2,500 was voted for improvements, and two newspaper men were made managers. Many changes in the house will be completed before Sept. 8, when the regular season opens. The bookings for next season are particularly well chosen, and a more prosperous season is looked for.

There Been Enough of That.

THE PRESS felt called upon Thursday to doubt the robbery reported by the proprietor of 43 North avenue. The place is robbed too often. The tenant this time said a diamond pin and a watch were stolen. He'll find the watch at the pawnbroker's—but that's no news to him. The place was n't robbed at all. Give that story a rest.

—Baby carriages and piazza rockers are now cheaper than ever at Packer's.

Duplex Uses of Bound Brook Water.

Every summer the report is started that some evil-disposed persons use the reservoirs of the Bound Brook Water Company at Chimney Rock for bathing purposes. A marshal has been employed to watch the reservoirs, but as yet he has been unable to find any trace of such misconduct, and the reports are believed to be untrue.

However, the water company has offered a reward for the arrest and conviction of any persons caught defiling the water in any way. It may not be generally known that the penalty for such an offence is two years in State prison, or $200 fine, or both.

Bound Brook is always bragging about the excellence of its water supply—and especially crows over Plainfield. But bad little boys can't go swimming in Plainfield's supply.

Foolish Drunken Men.

[From The Bound Brook Chronicle.]

About 5 o'clock last Sunday morning residents of South Bound Brook were disturbed by the howling and yelling of four young men in an open wagon from Plainfield, who were on their way home after spreeing it all night. They stopped at the canal in front of Randolph's bottling establishment to water their horse. Three of them got out of the wagon, while the driver held the lines in his seat. After the animal had quenched its thirst the three young men thought it a good opportunity to perpetuate a joke on their friend in the wagon, and immediately proceeded to push horse, wagon and driver into the canal. The driver sat there up to his neck in water, drunk enough not to feel the least alarm at his awkward position.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

MAKE ONE YOURSELF.

How Ingenious Boys Can Produce a Serviceable Magic Lantern.

Amateur photography has brought the magic lantern into prominence, as the making of slides has been much facilitated by the improvements in dry plates.

Anybody can make one at home at a little expense that will answer for all ordinary purposes, says the New York Herald.

The lantern to be described is shown in Fig. 1, the side being removed. The body is made of ordinary white wood with a sheet iron top, and an ordinary kerosene lamp is used. The only thing necessary for the amateur photographer to purchase will be a pair of condensing lenses, as the lens from the camera will do for a projecting lens. Condensers are very reasonable in price and a pair of very good 4-inch lenses can be obtained for from $4 to $5, unmounted. They can be mounted at home as follows:

Place the convex sides of the lenses nearly together, allowing only a small space, say one-eighth of an inch, and measure the distance between the edges of them. Then have the tinsmith cut a strip of tin long enough to encircle them and about half an inch wider than the distance measured. Then make a couple of grooves along the edges of these strips for the edge of the lenses to fit into.

These grooves can be made by running the tin through a tinsmith's beading machine. Set the condensers in the grooves, wrap the tin tightly around them and wind a piece of wire around the outside to hold the tin in place.

Fig. 2 is a cross section of the condensers as they appear when mounted. Before the body of the lantern is made the lamp to be used should be selected. In the illustration (Fig. 1) an ordinary house lamp is shown. Take a piece of board about a foot wide and stand it up in front of the lamp and cut it off about three inches more than the height of the lamp and chimney. Mark a spot on the board opposite where the flame of the lamp comes and make this spot the center of a hole large enough to hold the condensers in their box. Make side pieces of the same length and about the same width as the front and nail them to the latter. The back should be made open. Bore a row of half-inch ventilating holes across the bottom of the back.

Now fasten the mounted condensers into the hole in the front, having one side flush or nearly so with the outside and extending back into the body. Have a cover of sheet iron for the top of the box, with a hole over the lamp chimney. Cover this hole with a cupola of sheet iron, so arranged that the light will be kept in and still allow the air to circulate.

On the front of the box fasten an arm at right angles with it for holding the lens. This can be done with a small bracket. A slot is cut in this strip to allow the screw which holds the block carrying the lens to move to and from the condensers. Cut a hole in the center of a piece of thin wood large enough to screw the lens into and make it hold securely. Fasten this at right angles with a small block having a hole in it. Put a small carriage bolt through this hole and the slot in the horizontal strip and a small thumb screw or nut on the under side will hold the lens stationary.

When focussed the bracket holding the horizontal strip should not be fastened to the front of the body until the arrangement for holding the lens is completed. Then fasten it at a height so that the light from the condensers will be focussed on the lens.

To complete the lantern fasten cleats on the front to hold the slide. These should be arranged 3¼ inches apart, as the standard slide is 3¼ by 4 inches. The cleats should hold the slide directly over the condensers and as near them as possible.

Place the lantern on a table in front of a white wall or screen and set the lighted lamp inside the box, moving it back and forth until a clear disk of light is thrown on the screen. The distance from the screen will regulate the size of the disk. If a single flat wick burner is on the lamp the flame should be at right angles with the condensers, in order to give the best light. The round wick burners are also good.

OUR MODERN AMAZON.

I'm trying on my armor, dear,
With which my battles are won,
I shall count some brilliant conquests before
The summer sun has gone.

Here's a white dress and a lily-trimmed hat,
And a parasol like foam;
They'll make my eyes look darker yet,
As I fetch my prisoners home.

You would not think this simple silk,
As light as a sea-gull's wing,
Could bring down many a knightly heart
In the lists of "summering!"

And here's a fan—it is not smoke,
But lace and ostrich feather;
It will be watched by eyes that ask
My fancy's wind and weather.

And here's a yachting suit that says,
Upon life's merry wave
I, like an admiral, shall win
Engagements brisk and brave!

And at this shoe, all tipped with gold,
A trembling slave shall stoop—
A vassal whom a rival queen
Lost in some waltzing group.

In short, when autumn once more hangs
The land with gorgeous hue,
I shall come riding back to town
In triumph. Wouldn't you?

A JOKE THAT KICKED.

It Explains the Coolness Between Jones and Smith.

PERHAPS if you have been down to the Metropolitan club, on Fleet street, lately, you may have noticed that there is a coolness between Smith and Jones, who were once very intimate friends. This is all on account of one of Jones' jokes which kicked. It isn't pleasant to have a joke kick, and this one kicked badly indeed.

Jones is a jocular sort of a fellow, while Smith is rather sad and has never been suspected of being a humorist. This is what makes his conduct on the Jones joke all the more inexplicable. People had got to look on Smith as a sober-minded person, upon whom a joke might be played with impunity. Jones is now of a different opinion.

It all fell out in this way. Smith and Jones and Brown and Robinson were walking together up Fleet street in the dusk of the evening. It was the day of a great race or a big prize fight or some large sporting event of national importance, and Fleet street was crowded. People were standing in front of the sporting newspaper offices eager to see the latest bulletins, and Fleet street was a kind of a jam from Ludgate circus up to the Law courts.

Jones and Brown were walking on ahead and Smith and Robinson came up behind. Now Smith knew that Jones and Brown were ahead of him. So did Robinson, for that matter, but neither Robinson nor Brown has very much to do with this story. As Jones and Brown walked on ahead together, Jones said:

"Do you know what Smith's great terror is?"

"No," said Brown.

"He is afraid of being garroted."

"Nonsense," said the other; "nobody has been garroted in London for years."

"Oh, I know that, but he was a boy at the time of the great garroting excitement in London and ever since he has been afraid he will be garroted some night and robbed."

"It seems to me," replied Brown, "that I do remember hearing him speak of that;" although, to tell the truth, Brown remembered nothing of the sort, but he was a diplomatic man who liked to say the right thing to anybody he was talking with.

"Now," said Jones, as if struck suddenly with a brilliant idea, "I am going to garrote him. I am going to garrote him right here on Fleet street."

"I wouldn't try it," replied the other, "not in a crowded street like this."

"Just the place for it," said Jones. "It'll escape through the crowd in less than half a second, and the very fact that there is a crowd will make Smith think that he has been taken in and done for."

"I wouldn't do anything like that if I were you," said Brown, cautiously, but Jones took him by the arm and drew him into one of the courts that enter Fleet street, where they waited until Smith and Robinson had passed them. Then he stepped out, and going quickly and quietly up behind Smith threw his left arm suddenly around his neck, choked poor Smith until his eyes began to bulge out and then gave a quick tug at his coat to make him think his watch was gone. All this occupied but a second and Jones bolted down Fleet street. The thing was over so suddenly that even Robinson did not recognize who had done it nor did he realize quite what had been done. He only saw that Smith was ghastly pale and gasping and when he recovered breath he said to Robinson:

"My God! I have been garroted. I knew it would come some day." Then he looked down at the dangling watch chain, and, seeing the guinea which he always wears there still in its place, he added: "Thank goodness, he has left me the watch chain, anyhow."

"Well," said Robinson, "let's lose no time in getting on the fellow's track."

"Oh, it's no use," replied Smith, dolefully; "he has bolted."

So far the joke was a tremendous success, and even then Smith did not realize that his watch was not gone. The joke would have probably been a success all through if it had not been for a tall, stalwart man who stood head and shoulders above the crowd and who was coming up Fleet street some little distance from where the occurrence took place. He saw it all, recognized the act and braced himself up.

When Jones came dashing down the street to escape up a court the tall man sprang directly in his way and seized him by both lapels of his coat.

"You scoundrel!" he cried, "I've got you. You needn't struggle. I'll throw you on your back on the pavement in a moment if you try to escape."

"Escape, nonsense!" cried Jones; "it was only a joke."

"Yes, it's a joke you'll explain to the judge, my fine fellow. Here, somebody call a policeman."

"Hang your policeman," cried Jones, struggling to free himself from the iron grasp of the other, who merely shook him for his pains as a big Newfoundland dog would shake a rat terrier.

When Smith and Robinson turned back and saw Jones in the hands of the tall fellow, Smith at the first moment thought Jones had captured the garroter.

"You've got him," said Smith.

"Yes, I have," answered the tall man. "I saw him do it. Just go through his pockets before some of his pals get away with your watch."

Then Smith, although he is not very quick at noticing the point, saw how things stood. He put his hand into his own pocket and felt that his watch was still there. While his hand was in his pocket he slipped the watch from the chain, left the chain in its place and put the watch in his trousers pocket. By this time a policeman had arrived on the scene, and pushing the crowd aside, said:

"What's all this?"

"It's garroting," said the tall man.

The policeman looked rather amazed. It seemed to him a remarkable thing that garroting should be attempted in crowded Fleet street. The very dishevelled appearance of Jones and his frantic efforts to escape, however, convinced the policeman that something was indeed wrong.

"Here, Smith," cried Jones, impatiently, "you know very well that this was only a joke. Tell this overgrown fool that that was the case. Tell the policeman so."

Smith did not answer, but those who have always thought there was no humor in his corpulent body were surprised when they knew what he did. He quietly pulled the watch chain out of his pocket and looked sadly in a woebegone manner at its empty end.

"I suppose," he said quietly to the policeman, "there is no use in going through the fellow's pockets to see if my watch is there."

"I'll see, sir," said the policeman, and at once he went through the pockets of Jones in a manner which showed that he knew his business.

"It isn't on him, sir," said the policeman.

"Oh, I say, Smith," appealed Jones, "don't let this go any further. Can't you satisfy him? Good gracious, just look at the crowd."

"He seems to know my name," said Smith sadly to the policeman; "it is Smith."

"And your address, sir?" asked the policeman.

"The Metropolitan club, Fleet street."

"Thank you," said the policeman as he noted it down, and then Smith turned and walked with Robinson back to the club, while Jones and the policeman, followed by a tremendous crowd, went along Fleet street.

Some of Jones' friends think that Smith carried the kicking of the joke just a little too far, but most of the members who have heretofore suffered from Jones' humor thought it served him just about right. Of course it all came right and that in a couple of hours, for a deputation went from the club to the police station and explained everything satisfactorily, especially as the deputation was headed by Smith himself who apologized profusely to Jones because, in the excitement of the moment, he had not recognized him.

This explains the coolness between Smith and Jones, which seems to indicate that Jones did not take Smith's apology in the spirit in which it was tendered.—Luke Sharp, in Detroit Free Press.

MANY WERE KILLED

An Ohio Excursion Train Struck by a Fast Freight.

THREE DEAD, SEVERAL INJURED.

Paris Excursionists Mangled in an Awful Railroad Wreck.

Over Thirty Killed and Fifty Wounded—Most of the Bodies Recovered Are Without Legs—Twenty Thousand People at the Scene of the Accident—A Station Master's Oversight Caused the Collision.

DAYTON, O., July 27.—The accident to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad excursion train at Middletown caused the death outright of the following named persons, all of Dayton:

Miss Lydia Freyer, aged 22 years.
William Matthews, aged 13 years.
Frank Simoger, aged 17 years.

Four persons are in a critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Joseph B. Cleval, mechanical draughtsman, left arm crushed off at shoulder; Frank Patterson, aged 21, left arm amputated above the elbow; Joseph H. Sweeverly, aged 25, of Pottsville, Pa., spinal injury, and James Murphy, aged 50, terribly injured in small of the back. Miss Mary Reese of Osborn, O., was badly injured. There are 17 more with bruises and other slight injuries.

It has been learned that after leaving Woodsdale the couplers of some of the cars became damaged and the train was delayed in order to patch this up. Again at Middletown the train was stopped to further repair the damage. There is a curve at Middletown which hides a train standing at the depot from the view of a train approaching from the south.

A flagman was sent back to stop the oncoming freight, which was moving at a high rate of speed and was heavily loaded. The engineer of the freight saw the flagman. He put on brakes, reversed his engine and apparently did all in his power to stop his train, but the impetus was too great, and a moment later the awful crash sounded.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

Both Were Loaded With People Out For a Holiday.

PARIS, July 27.—A terrible railway accident occurred during the day near the village of St. Mande, in the Department of the Seine.

Two excursion trains collided, owing to some error on the part of the driver of one of the trains.

Both were loaded with people out for a holiday. The collision was followed by a scene of frightful confusion.

Three carriages were entirely wrecked, and many persons were crushed and injured. In the ruins. About fifty were rescued more or less hurt, and owing to the greatness of the confusion, the extent of the calamity is not known.

Fifteen Men Killed.

Later advices show that of the sixty injured in the collision fifteen are dead, including two children mangled beyond recognition.

Most of the bodies recovered are without legs, through the seats being jammed together and cutting off the limbs.

Twenty thousand people assembled at the scene, including many relatives of the injured and dead. The scenes were most heartrending as the victims were extricated. The driver and fireman of the second train were burned alive.

The station master, on whose oversight the blame is now placed, has, it is reported, gone mad and disappeared.

Later—Thirty Bodies Recovered.

PARIS, July 27.—Thirty bodies have been recovered from the scene of the St. Mande disaster, and the search continues.

Five Reported Killed.

CINCINNATI, July 27.—A brief bulletin from Galion, Ohio, says another rear collision occurred near there, and that five people are reported killed.

WRECKED BY A COW.

An Engine Turned Completely Over on Its Side.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 27.—The suburban train on the Chattanooga, Rome & Columbus Railroad, which left here last evening, met with a terrible accident beyond Mission Ridge.

The engine was ahead of the train, but running backward when it struck a cow, which turned the engine completely over on its side. The fireman, Lewis Potts, was buried beneath the engine. Engineer Thomas Burchell was injured about the head and shoulders.

A wrecking train left here for the scene, and it took several hours to clear the wreck.

A Prominent Odd Fellow Arrested.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 27.—Frederick Conley, a prominent merchant of Farmingdale, N. J., was arrested at Ocean Grove on a charge of begging on the beach. The officer brought Conley before Chief of Police Patterson, who instantly released him. Conley, who is Noble Grand of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Counsellor Junior of the Order of American Mechanics and clerk of the Judiciary Committee of the New Jersey House of Assembly, is very indignant and declares he will sue the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association for false arrest. He believes that a fellow member of one of his lodges caused his arrest as a joke.

Changes in the Washington Club.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Catcher Lohman and First Baseman McQuery have been released by the Washington Club and Manager Snyder will be released Thursday. McAuley, who covered first base for Omaha, will replace McQuery, and Shannon will succeed Snyder in addition to acting as captain and playing shortstop.

SUIT FOR A MILLION.

Curious Manner in Which a Big New York Case Was Overheard.

OWASSO, Mich., July 27.—Depositions in a case involving over $1,000,000 have been taken at the National Hotel here during the past four days. Over forty witnesses have been examined, but as no reporter was allowed to enter the room no inkling of the nature of the case could be secured. A stovepipe becoming disconnected in the room above the following details were ascertained:

Sidney Smith died in an asylum for the insane in New York city in 1886. He never realized that he was worth a cent, but at his death left his heirs over $1,000,000 in real and personal property. Adon Smith was appointed administrator, and, as the contestants allege, formed a copartnership with his brothers and co-heirs, J. E. D. and Harlan P. Smith, and bought up all the other claimants, alleging that they were not heirs in full, and that the personal property only amounted to $225,000. Believing this the others settled for $50,000 per family.

The defendants claim that they bought on speculation. They all live in New York city, and are represented here by William Manna of that city. The Western heirs are represented by S. D. White, of Hamilton, N. Y., and Judge Daboll, of St. Johns, Mich.

DEFIED BRADLEY'S ORDER.

Cigar Stores and Soda Water Stands Open at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 27.—The hotels here kept open house all day yesterday and sold cigars and soda water as usual. The clerks in charge of the cigar and candy stores of the hotels also sold to all comers. The boys in charge of the Saratoga water stands on one of the lots owned by James A. Bradley, the founder of the town, were busily engaged all day in serving their customers.

Mr. Bradley's employes rented bathing suits to all that applied for them, and among their patrons were many young men and women from Ocean Grove. The proprietors of the various livery stables did a big business the entire day and newspapers were sold.

The beach is owned exclusively by Mr. Bradley. The only persons who seemed to be frightened by Bradley's claim that he would stop Sunday selling were a number of the village storekeepers.

THINK THEY HAVE ALMY.

The Man Arrested in Alton Held for Identification.

HANOVER, N. H., July 27.—The police have received a startling story regarding the murderer of Miss Christie Warden, which is claiming all their attention. A woman, whose home is in Springfield, Mass., has written that her daughter was murdered a few years ago by a man who answers exactly Almy's description. The man made his escape and was never apprehended, and the mother desires to know whether Christie Warden's slayer is the same man who murdered her own child.

From Laconia comes the news that a body of armed men had recaptured the man who was arrested at Alton and then released. They were so convinced that the man was Almy that they followed him into the mountains and held him up at the muzzles of their rifles and shotguns.

Mr. Blaine Takes a Long Drive.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 27.—Secretary Blaine drove out in an open carriage with his son Emmons at 10 a. m., the Secretary holding the reins. They returned to Stanwood in about two hours. The recent reports of Mr. Blaine's serious illness and likelihood to retire from public life were flatly denied by a member of the family to-day. Mr. Blaine expects to remain here until the cool weather sets in, when he will return to Washington and resume his duties.

Excitement in a Church.

GREENVILLE, Pa., July 27.—During a heavy thunder storm here yesterday the tall steeple of the United Presbyterian Church was demolished by lightning. Rev. Scoulier was just finishing his sermon and about 200 people were in the building. The greatest excitement prevailed for a while, and a panic was only averted by the most strenuous exertions. No one was injured, and the congregation dispersed after offering a prayer of thanksgiving.

Murdered by an Italian.

BALTIMORE, July 27.—Frederick Buchner, a cigarmaker, was shot and killed in the fruit store of Cannatella Somella at noon. It is alleged, and probably true, that Somella shot Buchner in the heat of a dispute over the shortage of five cents in Buchner's change, but Mrs. Somella, who had the revolver in her hand when the police arrived, declares that Buchner assaulted her and she fired in self-defense. Somella and his wife were locked up.

Englishmen After Chicago Concerns.

CHICAGO, July 27.—English capitalists are negotiating for the purchase of three of the leading stationery concerns of Chicago—the Rand-McNally Company, Morris & Co., and J. W. M. Jones & Co. The price offered for the three plants is said to be $3,000,000.

LOST IN THE SOUND

The Catamaran Typhon Goes to Pieces.

PROMINENT PEOPLE DROWNED

District-Attorney Dailey of New Haven One of the Party.

His Little Niece Rescued by Captain Austin—After Rowing Five Miles He Was Sighted by a Steamer—The Occupants of the Wrecked Boat Made a Terrible Fight For Life.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 27.—The catamaran Typhon, having on board Judge Hugh Dailey, his little niece, Captain George Austin, Clarence Beebe and Banker Rufus Shepard, went to pieces about four miles off Branford Beacon about 7 o'clock last night. The sea was very heavy and the catamaran was unable to stand the strain.

Captain Austin and the little girl took to the skiff, and after rowing desperately for five miles, while the little girl bailed the boat, he was sighted by the steamer Margaret and rescued. It is supposed that all the others are lost.

When last seen by Captain Austin, Dailey, Beebe and Shepard were clinging to the wreck, with the water up to their necks and the waves threatening to carry them under every minute. The Typhon was entered in the New Haven Yacht Club two years ago by Commodore Beecher as a crack yacht.

District Attorney Dailey was a leading Republican politician of the State.

HACKED TO DEATH.

An Escaped Murderer Attacks a Family With a Scythe.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 27.—George Craig, a negro, who was confined in the Cynthiana Jail for killing a negro, made his escape by bullying the jailer's wife. He appeared at the residence of Nathan Conway, in Bourbon county, near Paris, and asked for a drink of water. William Conway, the oldest son, aged thirty-three years, got him a dipper of water, and when in the act of handing it to him the negro held up an old rusty scythe blade and exclaimed:—

"That's a pretty thing for a man to carry, ain't it?"

Conway looked at the blade a moment and replied:

"Yes. Where did you get it?"

For answer the negro struck him a terrific blow on the head, laying open the scalp and fracturing the skull. He followed this up with other blows until he had cut the young man all to pieces and he fell to the floor of the porch almost dead.

His father at this juncture came to his assistance, but the black brute turned on him, and with the first blow split the old man's skull open. He fell dead beside his bleeding boy.

Old Mrs. Conway then came up, only to be slaughtered by having her throat cut from ear to ear with the negro's scythe. She died last night.

Charles Conway, another son, aged 38 years, arrived upon the scene and attempted to disarm the murderer. He also was attacked and nearly killed.

The other members of the family, all women, ran to a neighbor's house and got two men, armed with guns and corn knives. They rushed to the scene of the murders, to find Charley running and the negro after him. A shot was fired at the negro from a rifle, but the bullet, although striking his skull, glanced off. Two loads of buckshot were then fired into his body.

He turned on his pursuers and showed fight, saying that he had already killed seven persons and that he was going to kill seven more before he died.

The two men drew their corn knives and the negro fled. He ran half a mile to a haystack, where he dropped dead.

Her Body Found in the River.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 27.—The body of Jennie Kurtz, the pretty 16-year-old daughter of Charles W. Kurtz of this city, was found in the Wabash River yesterday afternoon. Mr. Kurtz objected to his daughter receiving the attentions of Ellwood Good, and last Monday evening severely chastised her with a strap for disobeying him. Tuesday morning she started for the factory where she had been employed, and that was the last her family saw of her alive. She had removed her shoes and stockings and sprang into the water.

Dr. Munson Had to Go.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 27.—James N. Coe, commander of Admiral Foote Post, G. A. R., was appointed superintendent of the Soldiers' Home at Norton, vice Dr. Munson, who has been discharged on account of the scandals lately ventilated.

Taken With a Fit and Drowned.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—While Edward Dwyer was walking near Washington Park Lake he was taken with a fit and rolled in the water. Before assistance could reach him he drowned. His body was recovered later.

STRANGLED THE WARDEN.

Terrible Crime in a German Prison By a Murderer Waiting Execution.

LONDON, July 27.—From Dortmund, Germany, comes the news of a horrible event. A native of Silesia named Michalski, having been convicted of a brutal murder and sentenced to death, had vainly petitioned for a commutation.

He was in the Dortmund prison awaiting the arrival of the executioner to carry out the sentence. He behaved in a moody manner, but nobody suspected the terrible design which he had evidently formed.

The warden treated the man with the consideration usually shown to those about to die and paid for his leniency with his life. The prisoner suddenly seized the warden unawares, and, notwithstanding the struggles of the latter, succeeded before assistance could arrive, in strangling him to death. When the other keepers got to the scene the warden was beyond help. One of the officials was with difficulty restrained from killing Michalski on the spot. He will be executed as soon as possible.

RAILROAD WAR.

A Gang of Workmen Armed With Repeating Rifles.

DENVER, Col., July 27.—The Denver, Golden & Lakewood Railway officials last night sent an armed force of twenty men to Netdale, eight miles from this city, to prevent the Denver & Western people from building a line over two and a half miles of its right of way on the side of Table Mountain, which is now about the only remaining pass through the mountains which a railroad can use. The men are armed with repeating rifles.

The Denver & Western people have four hundred laborers on the ground awaiting the arrival of teams with ties and rails. The Lakewood officials declare that they will shoot down the first man who rises a pick or a shovel. A hard fight is looked for before night.

TRAGEDY AT A PICNIC.

A Young Woman Shot Dead and a Man Terribly Wounded.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 27.—There was a picnic yesterday at Woods Run, ten miles from here. Andy Hite came along with a gun and stopped to see the sport. Barney Fahey took the gun, asking if it was loaded, and being told no, fired directly toward where Sarah McGowan, George Weitsell and Annie Kinney were sitting.

Miss McGowan screamed and fell dead, and Weitsell put his hands to his face and sank down. The second girl was not hurt. Weitsell is dreadfully mangled about the face and may lose both eyes. Fahey gave himself up. He is distracted.

DENIED BY QUAY.

He Has no Intention of Resigning His Seat in the Senate.

PITTSBURG, July 27.—Senator Quay, at his house in Beaver, was shown the dispatch from Philadelphia which stated that intimate political friends of the Senator's throughout the State said he was determined to resign his seat in the United States Senate upon the meeting of Congress in December next.

When asked if the statement was true, Senator Quay replied: "It's a fake pure and simple. I have not so much as thought of it, and really I don't see why the story was started, for there is no foundation for it whatever."

Judge Hiram C. Clark Dead.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 27.—Judge Hiram C. Clark a well-known lawyer of Jamestown, N. Y., died at the Pilgrim House in this place last night in his 76th year. For many years during the rule of the Vigilance Committee he was a judge in California. He also practiced law in Virginia City, Utica, Lockport and Toledo. Years ago he was Washington correspondent for California papers and for six years was London correspondent of the New York Express and the Alta Californian of San Francisco. His father was Lot C. Clark, of Niagara Falls bridge fame.

Shot His Wife and Himself.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 27.—Last evening J. W. Saultry, a merchant, shot his wife three times, and thinking he had killed her blew out his brains. Mrs. Saultry will probably recover, only one of her wounds being serious. The couple have not been living together for some time on account of Saultry's jealous disposition.

Seized by the Cruiser Rush.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 27.—The sailing schooner E. D. Marvin arrived last night, having been seized by the American cruiser Rush in attempting to enter Behring Sea after she had been warned by the Rush at Sand Point not to do so. The Rush pursued her into Onalaska, seized her and turned her over to the British warship Nymphe, which ordered her home.

Jumped in Front of an Engine.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., July 27.—In the Erie yard a man jumped in front of a moving engine and was instantly killed. It is thought from several pawn tickets found in his pockets, one from William Simpson, 181 Bowery, New York, dated July 13, that he was M. O'Brien, of New York city. He was evidently insane.

Will Move Their Plant.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 27.—The Fostoria Glass Company, of Fostoria, Ohio, has decided to move their plant to Moundsville, W. Va., on account of the Fostoria people refusing to furnish them free gas, according to contract. The plant employs about 300 men, and the company will invest about $50,000.

Dropped Dead on the Street.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 27.—Jacob F. Leishman, a prominent merchant, dropped dead in the street here of heart disease.

TROUBLE IS FEARED

A General Strike on the Big Four System Threatened.

MANY OF THE YARDS BLOCKED.

Police Officers Asked to Be in Readiness in Case of a Riot.

General Complaint All Along the Line of the Road—Great Excitement Among the Strikers at Steelton, Pa.—The Company's Furnaces Started with Colored Men—Organizing for a Big Strike in Boston.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, July 27.—A general strike of the entire Big Four system is threatened. The trouble originated here in the striking of forty yardmen for Cincinnati wages. They went out two days before on strike because the alleged labor agitators, Knox and Greery, were discharged. The yards are blocked here so as to be almost impassable, and side tracks for forty miles out are filled. It will be impossible for trains to get through by to-morrow.

Matters have become so serious that General Superintendent Peck is on the scene. He will remain until the trouble ends. A carload of Cleveland scabs arrived here to-day in addition to special officers appointed by Governor Campbell. The chief of police and Sheriff Baker have been asked to be in readiness to assist in case of a riot.

Railroaders say that a general strike is imminent. Peoria and Cincinnati division men are hot because of lengthened schedules which almost prevent overtime. Sandusky men are growling because of not getting the Big Four standard wages. Delaware employes are recalcitrant because they are required to haul fifty loads with but two brakeman.

EXCITEMENT AT STEELTON.

Strikers Angry Because Colored Men Have Been Put to Work.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 27.—Word has been received here that there is great excitement among the Hungarian and Polander strikers at Steelton, and trouble is feared. The company started up No. 2 furnace with colored men. This angered the strikers and they threatened to raid the furnace.

The company's officials say that 1,400 men will be at work in the mills to-morrow!

The men at the Lochiel works are still out.

Organizing For a Strike.

BOSTON, July 27.—The employes of the West End Street Railway are organizing a Union against the company's new schedule, which the men claim reduces their wages by requiring extra trips for the old pay. Over 2,000 employes have signed the membership role of the Federal Labor Union within the last 48 hours, and it is expected that eventually all the railway employes in the city will join.

BIG BANK FAILURE.

Business in Buenos Ayres Paralyzed and Millions of Dollars Involved.

BUENOS AYRES via GALVESTON, July 27.—English bank checks are quoted on the Bourse at 30 per cent discount.

It is believed that all of the depositors will eventually be paid. Millions of dollars are involved in the failure. The run on the other banks is insignificant. Business in this city, and, for that matter, throughout the country, is paralyzed.

Several well known firms have already suspended.

Gold has advanced to $3.90. A currency issue of $100,000,000 is expected.

The Boston Club's Position.

BOSTON, July 27.—The two games which the New Yorks are to play here to-day and to-morrow will be very important, for if Boston takes second place they will not be content until they jump to the top of the ladder. Unlike the Giants, the Bean Eaters are strong all around. Clarkson is pitching in better form than for several years, and Nichol never made a finer record. As for Staley, he has already demonstrated that his arm is as strong as ever. Behind these pitchers are Bennett and Ganzel, as backstops and a capable in and outfield.

Died Suddenly of Heart Failure.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27.—John T. Stevens, Associated Press operator in the office of the Evening Reporter at Woonsocket, and one of the best known telegraphers in the country, died suddenly at his home there of heart failure. He was for a time, during the administration of President Arthur, doorkeeper of the press gallery in the National House of Representatives.

No Accident at Callao.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Navy Department officials are inclined to believe that the reported killing of five of the crew of the U. S. S. Pensacola by a torpedo fired by the Chilian vessel at Arica, Chili, is not true, and Assistant Secretary Soley, who has made an investigation, makes the positive assertion that he believes the report has no foundation in fact.

Found the Missing Man's Watch.

GLEN HOUSE, N. H., July 27.—Two young men walking on the southeast slope of Mount John Quincy Adams found the watch which belonged to Ewald Weiss, the Mount Washington violinist who was lost last summer while on his way from Glen House to Mount Washington. A party has started from the Glen House in the hope of finding the remains of the unfortunate man.

Twenty Buildings Burned.

FORT MONROE, July 27.—Fire at Newport News destroyed more than twenty buildings, consisting of stores and dwellings. The estimated loss is $50,000.

NETTLETON MAY RESIGN.

The Assistant Secretary Has Trouble with Superintendent Owen.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A disagreement is reported between Mr. Owen, superintendent of the Immigration Bureau, and Assistant Secretary Nettleton of the Treasury Department, under whose supervision the Immigration Bureau has been placed, and which may result in General Nettleton's resignation.

The report says that some time ago General Nettleton and Commissioner Owen locked horns over the manner in which the bureau should be run. Mr. Owen is a personal friend of President Harrison and author of the bill in which the Immigration Bureau was created. Naturally Mr. Owen thought he knew how the bureau should be run and how the law should be administered; and it is said he resented the attempted interference of Assistant Secretary Nettleton.

The latter is supposed to have gone to Secretary Foster about the matter, and receiving no support from the official, appealed to the President. Here again Mr. Nettleton failed to get consolation, and naturally felt chagrined.

Another matter which made Mr. Nettleton uncomfortable was the refusal of his superiors to allow him to appoint his son as his private secretary. The scandal in the Pension Office growing out of the doings of Mr. Green B. Raum, Jr., is said to have disgusted the President with nepotism in the Departments.

BLOOD ON THE BILL.

Dick Frames Convicted of Manslaughter After a Week's Trial.

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 27.—A few minute red spots which the tell-tale microscope said were blood had much to do with convicting Dick Frames, a Springfield tough, of the crime of manslaughter here.

The trial had been in progress for a week, and attracted widespread attention from the mysterious nature of the crime. The murdered man, William Hambright, was a night watchman and his skull was crushed in like an eggshell just as he was in the act of turning in his record on the alarm box. The murdered man's pockets had been rifled.

It was found that the murderer had changed a $10 bill soon after the crime. This bill was examined by a microscope and minute spots of blood found on it. It was alleged that Frames once said that it would be easy to perform a Jesse James act on the watchman some night.

On this slender basis and the bloody bill the jury found for manslaughter.

CRUELTY TO SEAMEN.

Put in Irons by Chili's President When They Asked for Wages.

LONDON, July 27.—Captain Armit, recently an officer on board the Chilian warship Presidente Plate, writes to the press warning Englishmen not to accept the offers made by the agents of Balmaceda.

Captain Armit says that he served for three months in the Chilian Navy under Admiral Latorre, and that he was unable to get payment for his services. He adds that sailors who asked for their pay were put in irons.

Liberals Will Oppose Home Rule.

LONDON, July 27.—A prominent Liberal M. P. created something of a surprise in Irish circles, by his opinion openly expressed to the effect that the recent Liberal success boded no good to the cause of Irish Home Rule, and that notwithstanding Mr. Gladstone, the Liberals in the next Parliament would not show a majority for any bill giving Ireland a separate government. He said substantially that the English Liberals were resolved to prevent the Roman hierarchy in Ireland from ruling that country, and that only deference to Mr. Gladstone prevented a formal declaration on the subject.

Post Trader Finlay Dismissed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—Ex-Alderman James Finlay of this city, for a long time post trader at Pine Ridge and one of the whites there during the ghost dance troubles, has been dismissed by the government. This is the culmination of the recent charges of immorality against Finlay brought about by the death of pretty Tracy Kirtzberger at the Leland Hotel, Chicago, after having given birth to an illegitimate child.

The Fugitive Wasn't Almy.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt.—The man who was followed so closely from West Burke to Montreal because he was supposed to be Almy, the murderer, proves to be a Frenchman named Edward La Pree, who was arrested here for an assault upon some women and who escaped from jail on Thursday night preceding the murder. The description of the fugitive, and especially as to his speaking broken English, leaves no doubt of his identity.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Yellow fever is raging in Vera Cruz.

Mrs. Annie Scofield, the oldest resident of Stamford, Conn., is dead, aged 98 years.

Police statistics show that 120,000 persons are dependant upon charity subsistence in Naples.

The New York State political campaign has opened in Washington and Erie counties. The Cleveland Democrats are making strenuous efforts to defeat the Hill contingent.

Divers from the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., have discovered in the outer harbor the remains of an ancient sunken vessel, supposed to be at least 100 years old, from which they have taken a couple of guns. They have buoyed the vessel for further search.

Maxime Jean, a prominent contractor of Fall River, Mass., has been missing for the past few days and it is said he has left a number of debts behind him, besides the wages of a number of men who have been working for him remaining unpaid.

The Accident to Stanley.

LONDON, July 27.—The latest telegrams state that Henry M. Stanley is suffering with a fracture of the left ankle joint. The pain has ceased, but he is progressing favorably.

—Edsall advertises his stock of outing shirts at cost to close them out.

—Wetumpka Commandery, Knights of Honor, meets this evening in Wetumpka Lodge rooms.

—The lady who doesn't say "Is this hot enough for you?" is the lady who wears goods bought at Peck's.

—The First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist, and Congregational Sunday-schools will unite in an excursion to Asbury Park next week Friday. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 a. m.

—Another bargain this week at Sherwin's. Ladies' d ngola button shoes at $1.19, good value at $2. Sale closes Friday night. Read the advertisement. Call around and look at the shoes.

—On account of the excursion of the Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, this week Wednesday, the regular prayer meeting for that night will be omitted, and a union prayer meeting with the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, instead.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Mantz and Joseph Pike are among the Plainfielders at Asbury Park.

The Rev. W. R. Richards will spend his vacation at Litchfield, Conn.

Miss Jennie Abbott, of this city, is stopping at the Alpha Hotel, Ocean Grove.

F. W. Quereau, wife and child, of this city, are registered at Hotel LaPierre, Ocean Grove.

Miss Charlotte Burnett, of New York, is the guest of Miss Helen Warman of Grove street.

The Rev. William R. Earle, of Westfield, conducted the services at Holy Cross church, yesterday.

Miss Julia Acly, of New York, spent Sunday with Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street.

Mrs. Wm. White, of North Plainfield, has been stopping for a few days at the National, Ocean Grove.

Miss Julia Finley, of East Third street, is spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Maggie Connelly, of Bayonne.

Miss Emma Hart and Mrs. Wm. Nelson, of Central avenue, are at the Edge Moor, Ocean Grove, and Miss S. L. Wood and Miss Rocap, are also there for the summer.

Mrs. Abraham Hooley and children, of Central avenue, are spending a few weeks at North Asbury. Mrs. Hooley is accompanied by her sister, Miss Lu. Balen, of Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Swalm and daughter, of Brooklyn, spent Saturday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Swalm, of West Front street. Mr. Swalm has charge of the music in the Ross Street Presbyterian church, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Sarah Bradshaw, of 82 Duer street, is the owner of a large and thrifty night-blooming cereus plant. Saturday evening three flowers were in bloom, and last night it contained seven. Many friends and neighbors viewed the beautiful sight.

Plainfielders at Rahway.

The Y. M. C A meeting for young men at Rahway, yesterday afternoon, was a great success and one long to be remembered. Ten young men from this city accompanied Chas. B. Brown, who presided at the meeting.

After Mr. Brown's stirring address, the different delegates to the recent Student's Conference at Northfield gave short talks, followed by responses from some of the Rahway young men. A spirit of enthusiasm was awakened, and all present seemed thoroughly aroused.

It is safe to say that Rahway will send a large delegation to Northfield next summer. The Plainfielders returned home well pleased with the reception accorded them by their neighbors of Rahway.

The Police Hunting for Sunday Liquor Sellers.

Captain Grant made a raid on some of the saloons, yesterday morning, with the intention of satisfying himself as to the truth of the reports that Sunday liquor selling in Plainfield is generally practiced. He discovered the proprietors cleaning up their barrooms, as is their practice after Saturday night's extra business. In one saloon he found two or three men near the bar and the owner behind it. There were some suspicious looking empty glasses on the bar, but no evidence of drinking or selling. The Captain is bound to do his duty, and will arrest the illegal sellers if there are any and if he can catch them.

Badly Bitten by a Bulldog.

Erich Moraller, a thirteen-year-old son of J. Moraller of West Second street, was attacked by a savage bulldog while delivering papers at the home of Amos Jackson, 26 Plainfield avenue, yesterday morning, and his right arm was terribly bitten in three places. The teeth of the brute met through the lad's hand, and the flesh was torn in other places. The dog was owned by Mr Jackson.

ANOTHER SHAMEFUL DEFEAT.

THIS TIME PARTLY BECAUSE OF BAD MANAGEMENT.

With Taylor and Bonner at the Battery, Jones at Short Stop, Hammill in Left Field and Cory on the Beach, the Game Might Have Been Reversed.

Past record is all forgot when a ball player has an off day. Consequently the general verdict regarding short stop Cory, last Saturday, was that he never could play and had n't hit a ball as long as he lived. There 's no doubt that he gave the yellowest exhibition of ball playing ever seen on any ground. He muffed a dead easy fly, let a lot of slow grounders go by and when he did stop one ball he threw it way over McIndoe's head. There were other chrome-colored players on the Crescent team, Saturday. Holley made a pair of very costly errors; Jones let in a run at the plate in the first inning, as usual; and Hammill was away and away off.

It is said that the management have released Cory, have decided that Jones shall not catch any more, and are sorry they did n't take Hammill out of the box after the first inning. But all such good judgment comes too late. The second game with Somerville is lost and by another most disgraceful score. The West Ends won again in one inning, and without an earned run.

It is always the case when the ball teams of Somerville and Plainfield meet, that the former plays the very finest game of its history while the latter plays its worst. The playing of the West Ends on Saturday was almost faultless. Farrell, especially, put up a gilt-edged game, while Harkins's pitching was literally out of sight and Kennedy backed him up superbly. At the bat also the West Ends were in it while the Crescents were out. Lady got four beauty hits off Hammill, but strange to say was left on base every time. Moorehead and Harkins also had their air-tight bats with them, and did some heavy hitting. The only three-bagger, however, was by Captain Lufbery and it brought in the only earned run of the whole game. Hammill got a two-base hit, Jones opened the game with a single and Keeler, the new man, also got a safe one. That, however, was the total for Plainfield, whereas Somerville seemed to pound Hammill at will.

The latter should have been taken out of the box when it was plainly apparent to even the kids that he would help lose the game. Everybody—except the mangement—also knew that Bonner should have been put in as short stop before the fourth inning. There was a chance then to save the game. Four runs after that were entirely the fault of the management for keeping Cory in the position.

THE PRESS has been requested to say something about what some people choose to call rowdy playing. Harkins is accused of purposely knocking Hammill down, but that is probably untrue. Harkins had to get to the plate and the rules will not permit him to turn out and avoid another player. Consequently as Hammill was in the way he got pushed over. Another time, when Lufbery stood just back of the base line waiting to take a high fly, Harkins who was running from first to second stood still until just as the ball was dropping into Lufbery's hands, then he suddenly rushed past in front of him. Had Lufbery dropped the fly there would have been a riot, but the catch closed the inning and the incident was not heeded. As to Carbonell's methods at the bat, they are worthy of adoption by the majority of the Crescents. He can't hit a balloon yet in the first game between Plainfield and Somerville, he made twice as many runs as the whole Crescent team, and on Saturday last he tied their score. To hear the Plainfield cranks yell when Jones makes his base on a bunt, is proof enough that if one of the Crescents who can't hit would stand up like Carby, fool the pitcher, steal bases and pile up runs, they would fall down in fits with delight. The score:

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years. Previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hall, Biddeford, Me.

If Only—The Men Were All Good Masons.

There's never a tear would fall,
But some kind heart would catch it;
There's never a sigh would swell,
But some kind heart would feel it,
There's never an orphan sad,
And never a widow lonely,
But some one would make glad
With smiles of joy—if only,
The good men all were Masons.

There's never a word profane,
By heedless mortal spoken,
And never a cruel blow,
And never a statute broken;
There's never a man could die
Away from loved ones, lonely,
And never a hopeless sigh
Be heard on earth, if only
The good men all were Masons.

But every heart would smile,
And tongue break forth with singing;
And stores of corn and wine and oil,
The generous would be bringing.
All men would strive to make
The path of life less lonely—
A green and flowery way—
An Eden walk, if only
The good men all were Masons.

PLAINFIELD'S QUIET INVADED.

Concert Saloons Springing Up in Every Direction.

(From The New York Times.)

After wrestling with the liquor question for three or four years, in which anti-license and high license have been given a trial, the law-abiding citizens of Plainfield are now in as bad a fix as ever. Last year the high-license rule was adopted, and the saloon keepers have paid into the Treasury $15,000 as a result. But, in order to secure increased trade to cover the tax upon them of $750 a year, the saloon men have taken to adding concert gardens to the saloons, and bringing in questionable female characters from New York to sing and dance.

Joseph B. Miller has such a saloon next to the Trinity Reformed church. He calls it the "Elkwood." The noise in the saloon interferes with prayer meetings, and despite appeals to the police and the Corporation Counsel a band of "lady" singers hold out at the place every night. Others have copied Mr. Miller's "improvements", and there are now several concert halls in the place.

The city authorities are taking no action in the matter, but the temperance sentiment is rising, and next fall it is probable that an attempt to secure an anti-license law will again be tried.

RUTLEDGE ARRESTS PANGBORN.

Ill Feeling Crops Out Again: Between Borough Enemies.

The ill feeling existing between Thomas Rutledge, Borough Marshal, and William N. Pangborn, both of North Plainfield, came to the front again Saturday night.

At about 12 o'clock Rutledge ran across his enemy on Harmony street. He told him it was time he was in bed. Pangborn said he'd go home when he got good and ready. After more words in the same strain, Rutledge made Pangborn a prisoner. When they got in front of the lock-up Rutledge said "I'll release you if you'll go home", and repeated the offer after Pangborn was locked up. Pangborn refused to acknowledge Rutledge's right to set his bedtime, and hence spent the night in a cell. A hearing of the affair will take place before Justice Crosley at 7:30 this evening.

A Young Girl Badly Stung.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Anderson, of West Front street, caused a commotion among the neighbors in that vicinity last evening. She was roaming about the low-lands near the Harberger residence when she was attacked by a number of bees and was badly stung. Her cries were quickly answered by her parents and the neighbors, and the terrible pain of the stings was alleviated.

Two Big Games Next Week.

A feature of the Emancipation Day celebration in this city, August 6, will be two good base-ball games—one at 10:30 a. m., another at 3:45 p. m.—between the Stars (colored) of this city and the colored team of Washington, Warren county. The pitcher, catcher and short stop of the Stars will be from the celebrated Gorham team.

Bright Blaze in the Mountain.

A large barn filled with hay on what was formerly the Patten estate, over in Passaic valley, took fire from the overheating of green hay last Thursday evening, and was totally destroyed. The blaze could be seen for miles along the valley, as the barn stood out prominently on the side of a hill.

Gov. Pattison Ready as a Witness.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 27.—Governor Pattison has written a letter to Council's Investigating Committee at Philadelphia in which he says he has been informed that the chairman of the committee mailed him a letter on the 22d instant requesting his appearance at a meeting of the committee on the 24th. The Governor says he has not yet received the letter. He says that it will give him great pleasure to be present at any meeting of the committee if given reasonable notice as to the time and place of such meeting.

Killed His Wife With an Axe.

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa., July 27.—Charles Wall, aged about 36 years, killed his wife Julia, aged about 30 years, by braining her with an axe at his home in Wyoming County. Wall gave himself up to the constable. Wall a few days ago caught his wife and David Berlew in bed together, and the murder resulted from a quarrel with his wife in relation to the affair.

LADY KITTY'S WEDDING.

TO-DAY THE ANNIVERSARY OF A NOTABLE REVOLUTIONARY EVENT.

Leaving for a Time His Post of Vigilance on the Mountain Summit Back of Plainfield, Washington Greeted the Assembled Throng at the Splendid Estate at Stirling, and Gave Away the Bride Under the Spreading Boughs on the Grand Lawn—Something About the Bride and Groom and the People Who Were Present.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE PRESS.]

STIRLING, N. J., July 27.—At this pretty little village among the hills of Morris county, a century and a score of years ago to-day, took place one of the most charming social events of Revolutionary days—the famous wedding of Lady Kitty Alexander, daughter of Lord Stirling, to Colonel William Duer of New York.

The visitor to this beautiful garden-spot, on this lovely anniversary-day of that great occasion, cannot dislodge from his mind the details of the history of those days of old. In that history he finds many and varied things that possess a thrilling interest, but arising above all others the wedding of Lady Kitty is the most conspicuous feature.

As one turns over the story of the Revolution's dark days, he can hardly fancy that the picture is not complete in its sombre coloring alone. It seems difficult to believe that bright tints of sweet joys and glittering gayeties can consistently be added. To the truly American heart which glows with the thought that our forefathers were actuated only by the best motives, by high patriotism, by purity of purpose and sterling integrity, it is almost sacrilegious to think that in those days men were not always heroically enduring hardships, and that the women were not always spinning cloths and toiling for the soldiery. In the eyes of such it would detract from the Revolutionary character to suppose that while some men were making bloody footprints in the snow others were smirking and smiling in brilliant assemblages and were acting the courtier in well-decorated halls and among pleasant company while their brothers were shuddering in rags in the face of the enemy.

However that may be, it was not all sternness or unwearying devotion to liberty in those days. The men who fought most valiantly, if the whole story must be told, did not lose their taste for pleasure, and thought it no sin to laugh upon occasion, or pay a compliment to a pretty woman, and they could do it with the grace and polish of Old World courtiers. There was a softer side to this gloomy life. These brighter chapters of the Revolutionary story are not to be found in the dry records of history, which treat only of the business of the period. They must be dug out of musty private documents, letters, a few newspaper chronicilings and almost forgotten memories.

Of the social side of those years none of the events have a greater interest for the people of this vicinity than the fetes, balls and pageants at the Stirling mansion, which culminated in the great wedding. This conspicuous event in the social life of the Colonies took place when the Revolution was four years old.

The Stirling manor-house, up among the hills of Basking Ridge, near the present hamlet of Stirling, was the most imposing home in the province of New Jersey. A description of the mansion comes down to us from the pen of Mrs. Eliza Morton Quincy, wife of the celebrated Josiah Quincy, of Harvard University, who in her early youth had her home near it. She says: "The seat of Lord Stirling, called by the country people 'The Buildings', was two miles distant. Designed to imitate the residence of an English nobleman, it was unfinished when the war began. The stables, coach-houses, and other offices, ornamented with cupolas and gilded vanes, were built round a large paved court behind the mansion. The front, with piazzas, opened on a fine lawn descending to a considerable stream, called the Black River. A large hall extended through the cellar of the house. On one side was a drawing-room, with painted walls and stuccoed ceilings. Being taken there as a child, my imagination was struck with a style and splendor so different from all around."

It was the summer residence, and since war times the permanent home—already famous as the seat of hospitality, refinement, and luxury—of Major-General William Alexander, known to history as the Earl of Stirling, the trusted friend and fellow-campaigner of Washington. He improved the large estate bequeathed him by his father, with great expense and magnificent taste, laying out the grounds in the manner of an English park, with an enclosure for deer, and all the accessories of a nobleman's seat in the old country.

This was the home of dainty Lady Kitty. But the mansion in those war times was also the headquarters of General Green, while Washington, the commander-in-chief, was but eight miles away, at Morristown, or on the heights back of Plainfield, with his army encamped in the valley at his back and the enemy spread out in the distance on the plain below. It was the centre of sociability and the scene of many festive gatherings, where bright-eyed girls and gay young officers danced amid warlike surroundings, and visited their friends when a ride through the country had a spice of danger and adventure truly exciting. The cheery attempts at diversion of the "court circle" about Mrs. Washington make a bright spot in the dreary records of a suffering army in New Jersey, and the figure of Lady Kitty is a prominent one in most of the merry-makings. She was one of two daughters of the brave soldier, her sister, Lady Mary Watts, being the wife of a loyalist of New York, and therefore almost a stranger to her Jersey home.

Lady Stirling was the sister of New Jersey's patriotic Governor, William Livingston, and his daughters, driven by the raiding British from the family home, old "Liberty Hall", of Elizabeth Town, were often the guests of their aunt. They were Susan, Kitty and Mary Livingston, sisters of Mrs. John Jay, of New York and Continental fame. The eldest, Susan, had already turned the heads of some of the young officers, British as well as patriot, and many are the stories told of her wit and courage. Then there were the daughters of Peter Van Brugh Livingston, of New York, doubly related to the Stirlings. One of them was another charming Susan, and a lively houseful of cousins they must have been! Altogether it may well be imagined that General Green and the young men of his staff discovered that their lines had fallen in very pleasant places when they found themselves in such a family of intelligent and charming women.

There were fetes and military reviews, balls and pageants, such as General Knox in his letters lets the light in upon. Of one, in the winter before Lady Kitty's wedding, he writes with great enthusiasm. It was the celebration in honor of the first anniversary of the French alliance, and a great event, to which Mrs. Washington came in state. To it came also one who was still more interesting to Lady Kitty, a fine gentleman from New York, and her loyal knight. This was William Duer, an ardent adherent of the cause of American liberty and a member of Congress.

Lady Kitty's lover came of a noble English family, his father having been a planter at the West Indies, descended from Edward de Vere, an officer of rank in the army of Charles I, who had taken refuge in the Island of Antigua, changing his name from De Vere to Duer. The grandson of the first of the name, the Hon. John Duer, was born at the paternal seat, "Sand Hills", near Christ church, Devonshire, England, and married Frances Frye, daughter of Major-General Frye, president of the Island of Antigua. William Duer was one of their younger sons.

His brother was Dean of Manchester; one of his sisters married in the English nobility; and two others lived as maiden ladies at the English home, "Sand Hills", where, after the Revolution, their American relatives visited them. Business relations brought William Duer in contact with General Schuyler at Albany, and his own address and learning made him a favorite in society. The wooing covered some eventful months of the campaign in New Jersey, and the suitor's visits could not have been more numerous. Lady Kitty and her mother spent a little time in New York some months before the marriage, when doubtless the trousseau was in preparation, but probably the lover was no more accessible even there.

Shopping had its risks in those days; but if the bride's trousseau was in proportion to her father's wardrobe, which Lossing enumerates as comprising 412 garments, she was well dowered with bridal clothes.

At midsummer, the twenty-seventh of July, the eventful day had arrived, and the spacious mansion was filled with guests. Governor Livingston must have granted many passes from the seaboard to the hills, for there were prominent men and women from New York to grace the occasion, great ones in civil and social life in New Jersey and neighboring States, and many officers of the army. There were the Boudinots and Hetfields, exiles from Elizabeth Town, living at Basking Ridge; the Kennedy's, and Southards, and Mortons, of the neighborhood, well known in Revolutionary history; the Lotts from Morristown, the Stocktons from Princeton, Ogdens and Clarks from Elizabeth Town; scores from within driving distance, and scores more who had first to cross the ferry to Elizabeth Town, and then to climb the hills beyond, from which the British could never dislodge Washington. All came to do honor to two staunch patriots, General Stirling and Colonel Duer, and to the daughter and bride, the popular Lady Kitty. Nor did the occasion lack the benignant presence of the commander-in-chief, for he himself it was who gave the bride away, either because the exigencies of war kept Lord Stirling at his command in another part of the State, or, if he were present, because of his desire to compliment his superior officer and esteemed friend. Certain it is that the family history points confidently to the ceremony out under the spreading trees of the lawn, with the figure of the great General of the American forces beside the fair bride—Lady Kitty's own daughter, who lived to be ninety-one years old, being the authority for the story.

The family records have recently brought to light the fact that the name of the officiating clergyman was Armstrong. No doubt the elaborateness and stately decorum that attended those eighteenth century festivities marked this occasion also. It must have been picturesque; the ladies in towering head-dresses, the bride herself with her hair puffed over a cushion and adorned with a string of pearls: stiff brocades and satin petticoats for ceremonious dames; striped waistcoats, velvet and satin small clothes powdered wigs, ribboned queues and lace ruffles for the men; while the brilliant uniforms of the officers added to the picturesqueness of the scene. A charming incident is related of the occasion which goes to show the close relations of all classes in those trying times. When the festivites were at their height a clamor was heard outside the house. The lawn was full of soldiers from a neighboring camp; they called for a view of the bride, the daughter of their commanding General. Lady Kitty, now the wife of another esteemed patriot, stepped out again upon the grass in her white satin slippers and showed herself in bridal array to her father's fellow-campaigners, who paid her their hearty congratulations, and then filed off with great satisfaction. It is a pretty incident, more significant and worthy than any detail of the splendor of the occasion, and it makes the wedding a memorable one in Jersey annals.

Lady Kitty Duer went from her father's house to a home of wealth and luxury. Manasseh Cutler, in his journal of 1784, tells of a dinner with Colonel Duer at his home in New York; of his style of living like a nobleman; of the fourteen different kinds of wine on his board; of the liveried servants and numerous guests. He speaks of his hostess, Lady Kitty, as an accomplished woman who did the honors most gracefully. She shone in New York society when that city was the national capital, and her name was one of the most frequent on the dinner lists of President Washington.

MAY LOSE HIS EYESIGHT.

Peculiar Accident to a Young Man Watching Water-Works Workmen.

Wm. Wright, a young man from over the mountain, a machinist by trade, met with a peculiar accident that may cost him his eyesight, last Friday. While watching some of the men cutting one of the large water mains being laid on Front street, he felt a sharp sting in one of his eyes, but as he could not find anything in it by feeling he concluded he had been hit by an iron chip and that it had fallen out. As it did not trouble him further, he paid no attention to it.

In the evening his eye became inflamed and caused him so much pain that he could not sleep. Next morning he went to a surgeon, who discovered a small piece of steel, evidently off one of the tools used in cutting the pipes, lodged in the ball of the eye. After taking the piece of metal out of the injured member, and applying a lotion, the surgeon told him he must remain in a dark room until it was discovered whether or not the sight was destroyed.

Miss Imogene Smith is enjoying the ocean breezes with friends at Asbury Park.

Miss Lila Care is visiting Miss Nancy Thomas at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine's friends will be glad to hear she is improving. It is hoped that she may fully recover her health and that she may enjoy her summer recreation before returning home.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church will hold a "lawn rally" Aug. 4.

Notes from Washingtonville.

The many friends of John Bicknell will be pleased to know that he has recovered from his recent illness.

Frank Bodine, of Brooklyn, is making a pleasant visit to his friends, the Milligans.

Fred Tompkins, of Brooklyn, is spending his vacation with his cousin, George Beeching. He has made many friends in this section, who welcome his coming each summer.

The engagement of one of the belles of Washingtonville to a former resident of this place, but now of a neighboring city, is announced. The wedding is to take place in the near future.

The peach crop of this section will be a good one. The fruit is large and of a fine appearance, and the trees are well loaded.

Now that the harvest is most gathered, the farmers now being in the midst of oat harvest, they find that it is one of the best of years for cereal crops in a long time. The different crops have been saved without the damage by rain that has partly spoiled them in former years. The farmers now look forward to better times. Not in years have such large crops of everything been planted and grown.

JACK AND THE CIRCUS.

Old Katy Was Not Quite as Patient as She Might Have Been.

Little Jack Johnson went to the big circus when it came to the city nearest his town, and like all little boys enjoyed it very much.

When Jack got back to his farm he wished very much indeed that he could ride on a horse while standing up. The more he thought of it the more anxious he became to try it on old white Katy, his father's horse.

One afternoon while his father was away Jack took old Katy out of the barn, climbed from a fence to her back and stood there looking very much like a circus rider, as he thought.

Old Katy was more used to drawing a farm wagon than she was to playing circus, so when she felt Jack's shoes on her back she felt a little uneasy and away she trotted with the young circus man holding on for dear life.

Jack was very much frightened, so was Katy and so was every one else who saw them. Away went the old horse down the street, the dust flying in a cloud behind her. Jack held the reins and kept very cool indeed, and finally drove Katy around the square and into her own stable again.

Jack did not fall off during his first ride but he told his father that night that he thought it wasn't so very much fun to ride horses like the circus man after all.

All his father said was that if Jack tried to ride a horse like that again there would be a real circus when he caught him.—N. Y. Advertiser.

"THE OLD WOMAN."

Here Is a Simple Device with Which to Amuse the Children.

One of the most convenient accomplishments is to know how to amuse children easily. Whether we be bachelors or benedicts the occasion always comes, and sometimes pretty often, when we are taxed to our wits' ends to keep the little tots "good."

Here is a simple little device that I have many times found efficacious. It is to make an old woman's face, and so grotesquely comical is the likeness that it never fails to amuse. I have even known children of a larger growth to be startled at it when the wee-zen, monkey-like looking face is suddenly shown them.

HOW THE OLD WOMAN IS MADE.

A handkerchief, two black braided hat pins, such as ladies use, and your hand are all the materials that are needed to juggle with.

Double up the hand with the middle joints of the fingers protruding. Between the second and third fingers on either side of the joint place a hat pin, with just the black head protruding, for eyes. Shoe buttons will do quite as well if you can hold them between your fingers. Let the tip of the thumb be thrust through the angle between the first and second fingers, which forms the mouth. It will appear like a tongue.

And there you have the whole face. The first finger forms the chin, the second the nose and the third the forehead. Now fold a handkerchief and draw it over and around the hand, thus arranged to resemble a cap, and the transformation is complete.

By moving the finger and thumb a very ludicrous expression like a mumbling pantomime is obtained.

Try it on baby and see if the little one does not crow with delight and insist on its frequent repetition.—N. Y. Herald.

Almost Long Enough.

The prince of Wales is a direct descendant of King Alfred, being the thirty-third great-grandson; thus the English throne has remained in the same family for over one thousand years.

HIS DIAGNOSIS.

Doctor Mixwell (who has asked Mrs. Whiffet to put out her tongue)—You say your husband is very nervous and irritable?

Mrs. Whiffet—Yes; terribly so. But I'm not ill.

Doctor Mixwell (calmly)—I think I'll prescribe a long sea voyage.

Mrs. Whiffet—For John?

Doctor Mixwell—No; for you.—Judge.

Complete Seclusion.

"Quite a charming girl, that Miss Tillson," remarked the young man who has written a book, in a patronizing tone. "She asked me if I wouldn't put her into my next novel."

"Yes," replied his hated rival, "that is quite like her."

"How do you mean?"

"She never did care much for society; always seemed to prefer complete seclusion to anything else."—Washington Post.

Ignorance of the Law.

The prisoner at the bar was doing his best to make his case.

"I didn't know," he said, "that there was any—"

"I beg your pardon," interrupted the prosecutor. "Ignorance of the law excuses no man."

"Oh, doesn't it?" responded the prisoner, with fine sarcasm. "Then what are you asking me to excuse you for?"—Detroit Free Press.

The Parlst.

Publisher—How many words has your story?

Author—About three thousand.

Publisher—But, my dear fellow, we can't make a book out of three thousand words. It wouldn't fill fifteen pages.

Author—Yes; but I've used the words over and over again, you know.—Puck.

Not the Same Kind.

"Marie, what are those things on that tree?"

"They're blossoms."

"Oh, does the tree drink?"

"No, of course not. What put that in your head?"

"Why, I heard grandma tell mamma that drinking was putting a beautiful blossom on papa."—Judge.

Sunday Observances.

Wife—I'd like to know what you go to the club for on Sundays. Are the card-rooms and billiard-rooms open on Sunday?

Husband—Oh, no, my dear—no, indeed. We wouldn't think of such desecration. Everything is closed but the bar.—N. Y. Weekly.

No Details Needed.

Mrs. Blank—The paper tells of a postmaster who was appointed by John Quincy Adams, and has held the position ever since. Was he an unusually good man, do you think?

Mr. Blank (an experienced citizen)—Oh, not at all, not at all. It was an unusually poor office.—N. Y. Weekly.

Very True.

"I'm sorry I left the old country. It is harder to make one's mark in America than in Germany."

"That's so. You can make a mark in Germany where you wouldn't get more than a quarter here."—Munsey's Weekly.

Potter Did.

Miss McFadd—Palmistry is all the rage now. Do you understand it, Mrs. Potter?

Mrs. Potter—No; but I think Jack does. Last night I heard him cry in his sleep: "Show your hands, boys!"—Puck.

Stuffed with It.

Contributor (handing in a batch of manuscript)—I think there's some stuff in this lot, Mr. Sheers.

Editor (glancing over it hastily)—It looks as if it was all stuff, Mr. Quille. Good morning.—Munsey's Weekly.

Sure to Say It Then.

Arthur—I wish I could get my girl to say "yes." Can't you tell me how to go about it?

Fred—Certainly, old fellow. The next time you see her ask her if she wouldn't like to have some ice cream.—Jury.

A Rich Old Fraud.

Old Bullion—What's the matter now?

Young Wife (pouting)—You have not kept your word. You said, before marriage, you'd do anything in the world to please me.

"Yes."

"You said you would gladly die for me."

"Y-e-s."

"Well, but you don't."—N. Y. Weekly.

THE LONG-HANDLED GOURD.

Oh! well I remember the spring 'neath the beeches,
How, bubbling with coolness, its waters it pour'd,
Adown by the spring-house, where hung that blest treasure,
That friend of my childhood, the long-handled gourd.

That gourd was the best of a dozen my mother
Had raised on a vine, at the back of the yard,
And she soaked it, and boiled it, and scraped it, and sunned it,
'Till 'twas smooth as a filbert, and almost as hard.

And, when it was cleaned, she went down to the spring-house,
And there driving up a large nail in the wall,
She hung the gourd on it, and for years it remained there,
A joy to the thirsty and a blessing to all.

Ah! well I remember how I'd eagerly seize it,
When, burning with thirst, I would rush to the spring,
And, dipping it full of cold water, would drink it,
With a pleasure that no other bev'rage can bring.

The nectar the gods used to sip was not bitter,
And no cordial or wine, by a sybarite pour'd
Into goblets of silver, could equal in sweetness
The water I drank from that long-handled gourd.

And the poet who wrote of "The Old Oaken Bucket,"
And the pleasure a drink from its depths used to bring,
Would have written a much nicer piece to its memory,
Had he drank from the long-handled gourd at the spring.

The Spirited Steed of a Chicago Man in Arkansas.

He Starts in the Chase Only Under Protest, and Never Wakes Up Till the Old Hounds Tell Their Story—Then He Leads the Field.

THEODORE WINDE, a Chicago young man who has made a good deal of money on the board of trade without being known as a regular member, used to go down into Arkansas every fall for a few weeks' hunting. He had quite a circle of friends among the people in the Ozark country, and whatever they could do for his entertainment was done with a promptness and freedom that made the gift doubly welcome. They were great fellows to hunt foxes, and chose clear, moonlight nights for the choicest of the sport. He had gone with them on a good many other chases, but had never yet followed the hounds after night, and expressed a wish to do so. The family at which he had been stopping had a good horse that had given him an excellent mount on the daylight runs, but it was so spirited he did not care to ride it on a night chase. So a neighbor offered to exchange with him, giving a mule instead. All the young men in the country told him the mule was a famous hunter, and that it would follow the hounds through fire and water, and all he had to do was to hang on. But on the evening of the meet, when they gathered at the edge of the wood, he concluded that mule affair was their way of playing a joke on the city young man.

"That mule stood there by the fence with his head down, his halter loose and nothing to keep him from running away in the excitement of that time of preparation," says Mr. Winde. "I thought it was a joke, but got down from the spirited horse and got ready to mount the mule, thinking if they wanted a little fun with me they might have it. They had earned it.

"'Now you can ride, can't you?' asked the mule owner.

"'Well, I guess I can ride that mule,' I answered.

"'When he gets ready to run, don't you try to hold him—just let him go, and you hang on.'

"I said: 'All right,' and got up on the beast, and he never stirred a muscle. There were about twenty of us, and there must have been a hundred hounds whi e ranging. Not a sign from the mule. But all of a sudden there was that eager, short, agonized yelp of the old hounds as they pulled away from the pack and cut out the pace on a perfectly fresh trail. And if that old mule didn't know what was the matter I hope to die. He unlimbered himself and picked up first one and then the other of those awfully long ears; he changed his trot to a gallop, and pushed and pushed right up through the band of well-mounted hunters, going straight to the front and just simply stabbing the earth with his little hoofs in an effort to overtake the hounds.

"'Don't try to hold him—just hang on,' cried my friend, as I shot past him; and I gave myself up to that task as well as I could, for he had me pretty well frightened. On he went through the woods, just missing a great sycamore on one side and a rock on the other, crashing into and over a heap of brush or the top of a fallen tree, plunging into wide creeks and leaping over narrow ones, till I thought my end was come. But I couldn't let go. My only hope was that he would let up after awhile and give me a chance to get away. One-half of my shoe was ripped from my foot and the half of my coat had gone to keep it company. My hands and face were scratched and bleeding, but I led the chase, and led it easily.

"Finally we came to a high rail fence—ten rail high—and I said to myself: 'Now I have got him.' But I hadn't. He just kept on galloping right at that fence, but he seemed to be studying it, and feeling the bits as if they didn't set just right. I pulled away harder than ever, for I felt if he undertook to jump that fence he would kill himself and me, too. But he didn't try to go over it; he just went through it. He went right at it with a rush, threw his fore legs high enough to get them over the top—and that settled the fence. Down it came—mule, man and all—and he clambered out and went on without losing a minute.

"That was a cotton field. It was rank and tall, and the bolls whipped me in the face, and the strong stalks grasped my clothes and tore them, but I couldn't get away, and just sawed at the bits and prayed for a dead wall or a pitfall or a stroke of lightning. Out on the farther side of the field the fence was down, and we went out all right. There was the creek, and the hounds were just creeping up the farther bank. It was high and steep. I thought this would end it, but it didn't. That mule went at it frantically. He leaped from the high bank as if he was a sort of winged steed, and landed right in the middle of the water. But he didn't waste a minute. He clambered up the farther bank and shot away again after them—and the nearest horsemen were twenty rods away looking for a ford.

"HE WENT AT THE FENCE WITH A RUSH."

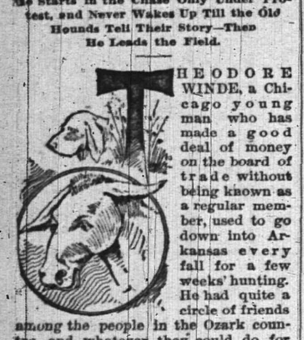
"There were the hounds, just over a little hill not forty rods away, and they had the fox. If that mule had been frantic before, he was mad now. He fairly flew, and uttered that unearthly cry—the only one permitted to the hybrid brute. Up over the knoll, through a little patch of timber called the grape field, down—

"But that was the end of my ride. One of the grapevines hung low between two trees, and the mule darted under it. It caught me about the body, and away went that animal, right up to the hounds. I shot high up into the air on that vine, then swung away back and finally managed to get to the ground without injury. The other fellows galloped past and around me and leaped from their horses about the fox. I stumbled down there as well as I could, and there stood that mule, his head down, his ears drooping, his eyes closed and the whole attitude that of eternal repose."—Chicago Herald.



"I WORE MYSELF OUT THUMPING THAT MULE."

He Wanted a Hard Drink.

He wanted to be a real b-a-d young man, but he wasn't except in his own estimation, and when he went into a Woodward avenue maison de booze the barkeeper took his size in half a second.

"Here," he called, knocking impatiently on the counter, "give me a hard drink, will you?"

The barkeeper looked at him with ineffable scorn and turning away sung out to the boy in the back room:

"Hello there, Johnnie, bring in a bucketful of limestone water for the gent."

The "gent" didn't stay to get it, though he knew there wasn't anything soft about limestone water.

"Some people are queer in their habits," mused the barkeeper as the doors flapped in the vacancy the last customer left between them.—Detroit Free Press.

Fashion and Finance.

Wife—It is the fashion now for ladies to wear crowns instead of hats at the opera.

Husband—Could human idiocy go further? Crowns! Crowns in free America! Cost a fortune, too, I suppose?

Wife—Very pretty little trinkets for opera wear can be got for fifty cents.

Husband—Um—one might as well be out of the world as out of the fashion. Get one, of course.—Chicago Freeman.

"LIKE A FROST-BLIGHTED FLOWER,"

The fair young sufferer perishes, and often from causes unknown to the world, but superficial judgment, founded on appearances, takes this form of expression, "died of quick consumption," while in nine cases out of ten it should be, "died from carelessness." Mothers, look to your daughters. Daughters, look to yourselves.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound will restore you to health and happiness. It is a positive cure for all those weaknesses and ailments incident to women. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

FOUR WERE KILLED

A Carriage-Load of People Struck By a Train.

NO SIGNAL AT THE CROSSING

The Terrible Accident Created Intense Excitement at Elmira.

Rev. Mr. White, a Missionary in China, and His Family the Victims—One Girl's Arm Torn Out of the Socket—Of the Party of Seven Only One is Likely to Survive—An Inquest to be Held.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 28.—An accident occurred about 9 o'clock last night at an Erie Railroad crossing near Eldredge Park, in which four persons were killed and two so seriously injured that the doctors say they are likely to die at any moment.

The accident occurred while the Rev. Wellington White was out driving with his wife and three children, Hattie Hastings, a daughter of a neighbor, and Susie McCarty, a nurse girl.

Approaching the crossing of the railroad a freight train which had been cut in two to allow vehicles to drive in the park occupied the near track. Mr. White, believing that everything was clear and not being warned by the signalman, drove between the halves of the freight train upon the other track just in time to be struck by Erie passenger train No. 24 from the West.

Mr. White, his daughter Lillian, aged 9; Hattie Hastings, aged 9, and Susie McCarty, aged 9, were instantly killed.

Mrs. White and a child two years old each received fractures of the skull and have been unconscious since the accident.

Mabel White, aged 7 years, escaped with serious injuries, but will recover.

Hattie Hastings and Lillie White were caught on the pilot of the engine and carried until the train was stopped. The White girl was terribly mangled, one arm being torn out of the socket. The terrible accident created most intense excitement, and the Erie depot was black with crowds. The coroner will hold an inquest.

The Rev. Wellington White was a clergyman well-known throughout the State. He graduated at Amherst College and the New York Theological Seminary with high honors, and had spent ten years in missionary work in China. He was at home on leave of absence. Mrs. White was a lady whom he met and married during his college term in New York.

BOOTH'S HEALTH BROKEN.

It is Rumored that He is Dying from Excessive Smoking.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., July 28.—There is a well authenticated rumor floating about this town that Edwin Booth is dying from the effects of too much smoking. He is such a slave to the weed that he cannot stop smoking even though he knows it is killing him. Its effect upon his health is just as fatal, though not of the same character, as that which shut out the life of General Grant.

Joe Jefferson and ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland have been striving to reform Mr. Booth in this respect, and for a while they partly succeeded, but the habit had too strong a hold upon him and his indulgences became more unrestrained than ever. It is because of this relapse and because he knows that he can get no better in health that he left here suddenly. He has gone to Narragansett Pier.

Duped By Prof. Campbell.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 27.—Prof. Campbell, the air shipman proposed to give an exhibition here yesterday and a crowd of 3,000 people gathered, who paid 25 cents each to witness the performance. When the money had been taken in the Professor disappeared and the 3,000 dupes sneaked home. It is said he has played the same game before. The performance had been prohibited by the Mayor but the Professor took in the money notwithstanding.

Suspended from the Commons.

LONDON, July 28.—H. J. Atkinson, Conservative M. P. for Bolton, has been suspended from the House of Commons for a week for charging the Speaker with abuse of authority in having placed on the records the statement that he, Mr. Atkinson, had challenged the declared result of divisions frivolously. Atkinson is a noted leader of the Nonconformists, and a wealthy shipper.

Work of a Tornado.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., July 28.—A small sized tornado passed along the southeast side of town last evening. A house occupied by J. T. Lee was torn to pieces. Lee, his wife and brother-in-law, J. W. Rodgers, and two children were seriously injured. Several other houses were moved from their foundations, but no one else was hurt.

Cardinal Gibbons Going to Bar Harbor.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 28.—This evening Cardinal Gibbons will arrive home from Cape May. His stay will be a short one, as he has accepted an invitation to go to Bar Harbor. Shortly after his return from Bar Harbor he will go to Milwaukee, and during his visit Archbishop Katzner will be invested with the pallium.

EXCURSIONISTS KILLED.

Terrible Fight Between Drunken Men on a Train.

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 28.—An excursion train from Johnstown, Pa., brought about 1,200 people to this city on a pleasure trip. They left at 6:30 p. m. on the return trip.

When near Rockwood, Pa., a fight took place between some drunken men on the platform of one of the cars, to quell which James Kelly, a policeman from Johnstown, drew a revolver.

This action angered the crowd and they made a rush for him and forced him between the cars while the train was running at the rate of 40 miles an hour.

The conductor signalled the train to stop, the coupling broke, and Kelly dropped under the wheels and was crushed to death. Lucius Myers, of Latrobe, was thrown from the platform under the wheels and killed. Milton Pyle, of Somerset, was thrown against some rocks in a ditch, and had his skull fractured and leg broken, from the effects of which he died soon after at Somerset.

HE TALKED IN HIS SLEEP.

David Newton Charged With Murdering William Riser.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., July 28.—David Newton, aged 25, of Shenango Township, was arrested during the morning, charged with murdering William Riser of Shenango Township, a farmer, on April 3, 1889, near Wampum.

Newton, Riser and James Pooher were all drinking in Wampum on April 2. The next morning the mangled body of Riser was found on the railroad track. It was supposed he had fallen on the track and had been killed while in a drunken stupor.

Newton has been talking in his sleep lately and had said that he murdered and robbed Riser. Newton claims the charge is false and the result of spite work.

RESCUED IN TIME.

The New Haven Men Clung to the Wrecked Catamaran.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 28.—City Attorney Hugh Dailey, Rufus Shepard and Clarence Beebe, who it was supposed were surely drowned on the catamaran Typhon when she went to pieces off Branford Beacon, were rescued off the Cow and Calf Rest near Brunder Point. They had hung on the remnant of the boat for eight hours.

The steamer Margaret which picked up Captain Austin and the little niece of Judge Dailey from the skiff was spoken by Judge Dailey and his companions, but she did not come within hailing distance. The suffering and anxiety of the three men as they clung to the wreckage all night, battling with the waves, was terrible.

BATTLE OF BANTAMS.

Dixon and Willis in Fine Condition for To-night's Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The interest in the fistic encounter to-night at the California Club, between George Dixon, the colored lad from Boston, and Abe Willis, of Australia, increases with every passing hour.

Willis weighs just 113 pounds. He is being carefully watched by Martin Murphy and Billy Smith. He is being kept very quiet until the fight begins.

Dixon looks quick and bright and apparently in splendid form. He is below the limit in weight and bears his training well. Tom O'Rourke, Dixon's trainer and backer, is placing all the bets he can at $100 to $80.

Willis has plenty of friends and they are backing the Australian.

A Missing Heiress Found.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 28.—Mrs. Martha Mortimer, of Baltimore, who has been advertised for in the Southern papers as niece and heiress of Gen. Francis B. Spinola, has arrived here from Maine and has just learned of her good fortune. After her husband died she came East and after working in various capacities took care of an invalid lady in Hollowell, Maine.

A Conductor Shot and Killed.

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 28.—Andy Ferrell, a well known saloon keeper and sport, shot and instantly killed Chris Harris, a Big Four Railroad conductor, at noon. There had been bad feeling between the two men for some time. It is said that Harris has been unduly intimate with Mrs. Ferrell.

Expired While Sitting in Her Cottage.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 28.—While sitting in her cottage at Chelsea Mrs. Henry Moseback, wife of the prominent Philadelphia restauranter, suddenly expired. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Appointed by Gov. Pattison.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 28.—Capt. Wm. W. Bair of Clarion has been appointed by the Governor president judge of Clarion County to succeed the late Theophilus Wilson.

Killed by the Bursting of a Wheel.

SING SING, N. Y., July 28.—Frank Wolff, aged 23, was killed by the bursting of an emery wheel in the grinding shop of the Monitor Iron Works.

WORK OF WRECKERS

The St. Mande Collision a Miscreant's Deed.

DETAILS OF THE SLAUGHTER.

Many of the Unfortunate People Drowned by the Firemen.

Scores of Persons Pinioned Down and Helpless—The Town Hall Presents a Fearful Spectacle—Blackened Bodies of the Dead Lie in Rows Upon the Floor—Prominent People Victims.

PARIS, July 28.—Fully fifty persons are dead and one hundred are known to have been wounded in the railroad accident at St. Mande. After the fearful crash the train caught fire, and those unfortunates who were hopelessly wedged and pinned in the debris were slowly roasted. Many of the poor creatures were so placed that for many agonizing minutes they were forced to look upon death remorselessly burning its way to them.

All that humanity could do to extricate them from a situation not to be described by language was done, but in most instances to no avail. The awe-stricken multitude were compelled to stand helplessly by and listen to the awful din made by the crackling flames, the falling ironwork of the burning cars, and the shrieks, moans and prayers of the doomed.

It now appears that in addition to the other horrors of the collision, the death by drowning of many of the imprisoned passengers elapsed before the pompiers were able to obtain water. When, however, they did so, they poured torrents upon the wreck, and seemed to be utterly unaware that they were drowning the half-roasted people whom they were trying to rescue.

A Miscreant's Deed.

An investigation which has been made into the St. Mande disaster discloses the startling fact that the accident was caused by some unknown miscreant, who deliberately altered the signals so as to bring the two trains into collision.

This announcement has caused the most intense indignation among the relatives and friends of the victims and has aroused popular feeling generally to a state of great excitement.

The town hall of St. Mande presents a fearful spectacle. The blackened bodies of the dead lie in rows upon the floor and upon the tables. In some cases the remains are little more than heaps of cinders.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Montferrat were among the victims.

DREW'S DEFENSE.

His Statement Forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—An evening paper prints the following article: "For two weeks, at least, it has been understood that William P. Drew, the late bank examiner, was about to prepare a statement concerning his supervision of the affairs of the Keystone National Bank, which would enable him to clear himself of all suspicion and fully establish the fact that he had not been remiss in the discharge of his duties.

"This statement, it is said, has been prepared and forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury, and it is understood that it shows that Drew kept the Comptroller of the Currency fully advised of the condition of the bank, calling his attention to its weakness long before the run in December."

The Big Peach Crop Fades Away.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Despatches from the Delaware peninsula state that the anticipated great peach crop has faded to very moderate proportions by reason of the ravages of the mysterious "yellows," and the unusually large June crop has dwindled down from the estimate of 6,000,000 baskets made in May to less than 1,000,000 baskets in July, and there is every indication that it will be less than this before August.

Fraudulent Bank Stock.

LEWISTON, Me., July 28.—The 10 per cent. assessment upon the shareholders of the Shoe and Leather National Bank, of Auburn, has developed the fact that the Bethel Savings Bank holds 20 shares of stock fraudulently issued by Percival, the defaulting cashier. These the bank will redeem at a cost of $2,000. When the irregularities were first discovered Percival denied that there had been any over-issue of stock.

Louisville's Baseball Meddle.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 28.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Louisville Baseball Club next Thursday the present and directors will resign in a body. The purpose is to give the stockholders a chance to vote approval or disapproval of the management.

Two Boys Drowned.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 28.—Two boys, William Peacock, aged 8, and George Brophy, aged 6, were drowned in the Lehigh at Catasauqua during the noontime

PARADE OF STRIKERS.

Two Thousand Men Listen to Addresses Near the Steelton Works.

PITTSBURG, July 28.—The Steelton strikers to the number of 2,000 paraded the principal streets and halting near the works addresses were made by J. M. Kreiter and L. F. Kast, of Harrisburg, and J. W. Jones, district organizer. The speakers counseled quietness and patience and prophesied victory for the men.

Blast furnace No. 2 and No. 3 open hearth furnace are in operation. Sixteen men were ready to go to work in the frog, switch and signal department, but they were turned away until the force is large enough to make a night and day turn. The Billet Mill No. 4 will be started to-morrow.

Both sides are confident of victory.

FROM CAPE MAY POINT.

Secretary Tracy and Warner Miller the Latest Arrivals.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 28.—Secretary Tracy, ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York, and S. D. Horner of Ohio, the bi-etallist advocates, arrived last evening. The Secretary will be the President's guest while here.

Executive clemency was extended to John O'Donnell of Philadelphia and John H. Milburne of Mississippi.

The President received the Philadelphia naval veterans at his cottage, and will receive the Delaware Odd Fellows at the Shoreham Hotel.

The White House family took their usual surf bath at noon.

Cardinal Gibbons leaves for Baltimore this afternoon.

Litigation Over $127,000.

WESTBORO, Mass., July 28.—A serious controversy has arisen between the recently suspended Livingstone Cycle Manufacturing Company and their officers. The matter has been placed in the hands of attorneys and litigation concerning the $127,000 assets will follow. The officers claim the trustees have failed to fulfil their agreement and that they have no authority to dispose of property to protect the money they put in, but must take their chances with the rest of the creditors.

Another Anarchist Scare.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 28.—The police here have been much excited over a report that Anarchists disguised as sailors of the French fleet intended an attack on the life of the Czar. The consequence has been that Frenchmen are watched more closely than Nihilists, and while to outward appearance all is harmony and fraternity, the best police agents of St. Petersburg are keeping surveillance over the visitors.

Renewed Work With Non-Union Men.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 28.—The Catasauqua Rolling Mill, which has been shut down since July 1, owing to the refusal of the managers to sign the Amalgamated scale, started up to-day with non-union hands, shutting out the 900 former employes. The fires were started last night and the town authorities have guaranteed the new hands ample police protection.

WILL QUAY RESIGN?

Politicians Puzzled Over the Question.

TO BE SETTLED TO-MORROW.

The National Executive Committee to Meet in Philadelphia.

Ex-President Cleveland Will Not Stump Ohio—He Says He Has Not Been Invited and Will Not take Part in the Campaign There or in Any Other State—An Anti-Catholic Ticket Reported.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Senator Quay is expected to arrive in town to-day to arrange for the meeting of the National Republican Executive Committee, which meets here to-morrow, and enough of the other members will be on hand, it is said, to make a quorum.

Vice-Chairman Clarkson will arrive to-night and Col. Dudley is already on the way. There is little business to come before this meeting, the most important matter being the probable resignation of Quay as chairman and the selection of Clarkson as his successor.

It is a fact that as yet none of the politicians know whether Quay really intends to drop out, and every one figures it that his chances of doing so are just even.

It is known that Fassett, the New York member; Dudley, New and Conger favor his retention, and it may be that the committee will refuse his resignation if it is offered.

A Republican very close to Senator Quay says that if certain things happen at the meeting he will retire, and if these certain things do not happen he will stick. What these "certain things" are no one seems to know.

CLEVELAND'S POSITION.

He Has Valid Reasons for Not Taking the Stump in Ohio.

BOSTON, July 28.—A morning paper prints an interview with ex-President Cleveland, in which he says: "I have been requested by the Ohio Democrats to make speeches in their State during the pending canvass. I do not expect to take part in the campaign there, nor in any State, and I have never given the slightest intimation of an intention to do so.

"I am convinced that Governor Campbell and all other fair-minded political leaders in Ohio will agree that it is not wise for me to go upon the stump there as patently good and valid reasons for my action entirely consistent with a most earnest desire for the success of all Democratic candidates in Ohio, or elsewhere.

"Of course, I anticipate the cry will be raised in certain quarters if such a request is made and declined that I am selfish and indifferent to the success of the nomine of my party, but such ill-natured accusations I do not expect to escape in any event.

AN ANTI-CATHOLIC TICKET.

Nominations Made by the Patriotic Sons of America.

BOSTON, July 28.—It is reported that Lieut.-Gov. Hale was put in nomination for Governor at a secret meeting of the Patriotic Sons of America held in this city. Councilor Arthur W. Tufts was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor.

It is understood that A. E. Pillsbury was favorably mentioned in connection with the Attorney-Generalship, but only the nominations mentioned above were determined upon. The organization is anti-Catholic.

Gen. Draper's Narragansett Dinner.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 28.—General Draper, on his arrival here from Narragansett Pier, was asked about the sensational reports in reference to the Narragansett dinner. He did not consider them worth discussing. "You may say, however, that the dinner was not given to any one in particular, being simply an informal gathering of my personal friends. Miss Winnie Davis was one of the guests, and I took in Mrs. Carlisle, wife of the Senator. There was nothing unusual about it in any way."

Three Months for "Shoeny Al."

LONDON, July 28.—At the general session of the criminal court held at the Old Bailey, Edward Pinter, alias "Shoeny Al," the American "alchemist," who is charged with having attempted to obtain $40,000 from Edwin Streeter, the Bond street jeweler, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Pinter claimed that he had discovered the "Philosopher's Stone," and could convert a sovereign into a piece of gold three times its weight.

Cut in Two by a Train.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 28.—Theodore Jazzard, aged 24 years, a brakeman on the New York Central, residing at Savannah, N. Y., was thrown from the top of a caboose on Byron grade last night while his train was being pushed up the hill. He was cut in two and horribly mangled.

Mrs. Searles' Funeral To-morrow.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 28.—The late Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searles' funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Searles was a member. The interment will be in the family vaults recently erected in the small graveyard opposite the Searles residence in Methuen.

Civil Rights Suits.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 28.—Annie M. Lee and Mattie J. Lee, colored, have brought suit against H. A. Gray and J. A. Deland for being ejected from a public ball given at Beacon Villa, Fair Haven, on account of their color. The case will come up to-morrow for a hearing.

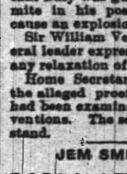
Luncheon Muffins.

BY MARIA PARLOA.

For one dozen muffins use one pint of flour, a generous half pint of milk, two teaspoonfuls of Cleveland's Baking Powder, half a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of butter and two eggs. Mix the dry ingredients together and rub through a sieve. Melt the butter. Beat the eggs till light and add the milk to them. Add this mixture to the dry ingredients; then stir in the melted butter. Beat the batter vigorously for a few seconds and then put in buttered muffin pans and bake for about twenty minutes in a quick oven.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.



Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder is perfectly wholesome. It leavens most and leavens best. Try a can.

THEIR HEADS CUT OFF.

Berland Struggled Desperately With His Executioners in Paris.

PARIS, July 28.—The double execution of young Berland and Dore was a most exciting and horrible scene. When Berland was being taken to the guillotine he fought the prison guards like an incarnate demon, pounding, tearing and scratching them every foot of the way from the condemned cell to where the shadow of the great knife fell upon the still struggling group.

Even after the miserable wretch had been forced into a recumbent position he made furious efforts to break away. The united efforts of three assistants were necessary to hold the young murderer still long enough to permit of the executioner doing his duty.

When the blade finally rushed downward it did so to send out of the world one who left it shrieking, cursing and struggling to the last.

Dore submitted quietly to his fate.

Three hundred policemen on foot, 250 infantry and 100 mounted officers surrounded the guillotine.

No sooner had the heads of the murderers rolled into the baskets than the crowd surged forward and with a mighty rush broke through the cordon of soldiers and policemen surrounding the guillotine.

An American who was anxious to see an execution by the guillotine paid $400 for the use of a window commanding a good view of the place.

PARNELL SPOKE FOR DALY.

He Said the Life Prisoner Ought to be Pardoned.

LONDON, July 28.—In the House of Commons, upon the vote for the support of the prisons, Mr. Parnell argued that certain convicts under life sentence, and especially John Daly, ought to be pardoned, or treated as political prisoners. He said there was every reason to believe that Daly was guiltless of having dynamite in his possession with intent to cause an explosion.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader expressed himself opposed to any relaxation of Daly's punishment.

Home Secretary Matthews said that the alleged proofs of Daly's innocence had been examined, and found to be inventions. The sentence, therefore, must stand.

JEM SMITH'S DEFEAT.

Ted Pritchard Wins the Contest in Ten Minutes.

LONDON, July 28.—The boxing match last night between Jem Smith and Ted Pritchard for $5,000 was easily won by Pritchard in ten minutes, Smith behaving in a cowardly manner.

No surprise was shown at the result, which had been anticipated, Smith's backers having done all they could to put the fight off.

It was not thought, however, that Smith would be beaten so easily.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Russia is again sending gold to London.

Surplus in the Treasury this morning, $54,276,901.

George Friz, aged 42, was attacked by a bull in a pasture near Cortland, N. Y., and gored to death.

They are accompanied by their charming young friend, Miss Imogene Smith.—Asbury Park Daily Spray.

A PROWLER FROM BOUND BROOK.

Officers With Good Records Capture a Supposed Burglar.

While patroling on Orchard street, Newark, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, officer Moffett and special officer McCabe heard noises in the rear of Henry Ruck's butcher shop at 33 East Kinney street. McCabe ran to the front of the place, while Moffett jumped the fence. The latter found a man prying at Ruck's rear door. The officer seized the prowler, and a fight ensued. McCabe took a hand, and the prisoner was subdued and taken to police headquarters, where he gave his name as Thomas Crastone, aged 40 years, of Bound Brook. Justice Hayes committed the prisoner on a charge of attempted burglary.

Within two months McCabe has captured two burglars and assisted in the arrest of three others, and within ten days Moffett has made an enviable record in the capture of three burglars, two of whom were housebreakers.

A Dunellen Man Seeing the Elephant.

William Robertson, of Dunellen, was held for trial at the Tombs Court in New York city to-day for striking Policeman Coughlin with a bottle when the latter told him to move on.

TO PAINT THE TOWN BLACK.

Great Preparations for the Coming Emancipation Day.

The town will be given over to the colored people next week Thursday, and in the words of one of their own number "Plainfield will be painted black". The Emancipation Day celebration will attract a large number of visitors. These will begin to arrive the day before. The orator of the day, the Rev. W. C. Jason, of Orange, N. J., will come to town Wednesday evening and will be entertained at the home of Wm. E. Johnson, the president of the managing committee and the originator of the idea, 54 Manning avenue. The first attraction of Thursday will be a ball game between two colored teams—one from Washington, Warren county, the other made up of players from Plainfield and from the celebrated Gorhams—on the Crescent League grounds, at 10:30 in the morning. The game will be managed by Mr. Johnson.

At noon dinner will be served, and at 2 p. m. the parade will start. At the head of the procession will be Governor Abbett, Senator McPherson, Mayor Gilbert, the Common Councilmen, the president of the day, Mr. Johnson, and the orator of the day, the Rev. Mr. Jason, all in carriages, the Grand Marshall, Wm. Douglass, and his aides, the visiting colored organizations, all citizens desirous of falling into line, either in carriages or afoot, and two or three brass bands. The parade will be about an hour and a half long. At its conclusion a mass meeting will be held at the Crescent, where Mayor Gilbert will give an address of welcome and the Rev. Mr. Jason will deliver an oration. At 3:45 p. m. another base-ball game between the Washington and Plainfield colored clubs will be played. In the evening at 8 o'clock, at the Crescent, the Rev. Mr. Jason will again deliver an oration, and at the close of his address a colored ball will be held. The costumes will be gorgeous, and the affair a brilliant one. There will be a band of music at the ball games. The public is requested to decorate the houses along the line of march, which will be announced later. The committee need $150 to complete the funds. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. Johnson.

WATER-WORKS AND SEWERAGE.

Mr. Low Gets One Franchise, and Will Get the Other.

At a conference of the Plainfield Councilmen held just previous to the special meeting, last night, it was decided to kill the sewerage ordinance pending, because of [illegible] existing flaws. When the meeting was held the water-works ordinance was first called up, but some confusion arose, and those who had intended to vote for it voted against it, thinking it was the sewerage ordinance. The vote was reconsidered, however, and the ordinance was adopted by the vote of 6 to 5.

The vote was:

Ayes—Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith and Spangenberg.

Noes—Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnston, Rushmore and See.

The ordinance grants a franchise to J. M. Low and his associates to construct and operate water-works in Plainfield. The concern is to be known as the Plainfield Aqueduct Company.

The sewerage ordinance, granting to Mr. Low and company a franchise to construct and operate sewers, was unanimously killed. A substitute ordinance, being the original one in a perfected form, will be introduced later.

TO SUPPRESS CONCERT SALOONS.

City Councilmen Promise to Divorce Bar Rooms from Musical Performances and Other Recent Innovations.

At the special meeting of the Plainfield Common Council, last night, a motion made by Councilman Hetfield was carried, that the Corporation Counsel be instructed to draft an ordinance for the Council having for its object the suppression of concert saloons in Plainfield. Under the terms of the proposed ordinance musical performances in bar rooms, or in apartments adjoining places where liquor is sold, will be prohibited.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh denied that he had ever refused to listen to appeals against the evil.

AFTER THE WATER SUPPLY PEOPLE.

They Must Put Torn-up Streets Into Their Original Condition.

On motion of Councilman Hetfield, last night, the City Council unanimously instructed Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to draw up an ordinance compelling parties who tear up the streets to lay water or other pipes to restore the thoroughfares to a condition as good as they were originally, under penalty of arrest and fine. The proposed ordinance has special reference to the doings of the Water Supply Company.

The Last Show in the Old Hall.

Cleveland's "Big City Show", as his Consolidated Minstrels are called, will entertain the Plainfield public at Music Hall, next week Monday evening. The house will then be closed for probably a month, during which time it is to be overhauled, its acoustics will be improved, and the interior renovated in many particulars. The new management is booking a list of attractions for next season that includes most of New York's greatest successes.

COULD HAVE SAVED A LIFE.

A Western Newspaper Man Teaches THE PRESS Staff a Lesson.

A man dropped in THE PRESS office the other day, from away out west, where he has been doing newspaper work for a great many years. He had no more than found a seat when the seediest, wretchedest looking tramp that ever struck Plainfield blew in and asked for the price of a drink. The young man whose duty it is to call the attention of poets and others to our handsome and costly front door and the vista beyond, arose and was about to get in his work on the stranger when the man from the west interfered and, giving the tramp a nice, crisp dollar bill, told him to get. The tramp was thunderstruck, of course, but he got. THE PRESS staff were almost as much amazed as he. They asked the reasons for such a display of lavishness.

"Gentlemen,"—said the man from the west—"I never pass a bit of hard luck like that without giving him a bill, and I never shall till I'm so poor I can't. I'll tell how it was. About ten years ago I was reporting on a St. Louis paper. One cold, wicked November night a poor, half-clad beggar came up to me as I was on my way home and asked for help. I looked at him crossly, said something ugly and passed on.

"'Just a dime, boss'—he said, following me a pace.—'Just a dime.'

"'No: not a dime'—I answered curtly.—'I'm not buying your drink for you.' And I went on to my warm, cheery home and sat down to the good dinner my little wife had made ready, and forgot all about the wanderer. Next morning the city editor said:

"'Oh, Tom, I wish you'd stroll down to the morgue and see if you can't get a story. Some poor devil was found frozen to death in the street last night, and it ought to be worth an inch or two.'

"Down I went to the morgue, just as contented as could be, and there on the bare, marble slab, pale and still in death, lay my beggar of the night before. The eyes were closed, and the lips were mute, but with what a voice of reproach that stiff corpse seemed eloquent! And I might have saved that life, if I had cared to. 'Just a dime, boss; just a dime' seemed to fill my ears, and I felt faint. It's a tough looking tramp that finds me empty-handed now-a-days, I tell you."

NEW YORK'S VIEW OF IT.

Young John Kean Wants Not Only Elizabeth and Crawford, but Plainfield.

[From The New York Recorder.]

Through the agency of the Democrats in the Republican City Common Council, J. W. Low of Kingston, N. Y., was awarded last night a franchise to build and operate in Plainfield a system of water-works. The fight for a water franchise in that city is a factional one. Charles K. Moore and a company of capitalists were given a franchise only a year ago, but they failed to complete the works owing to the fact that John Kean, jr., of Elizabeth, who was backing Moore financially, deserted him at the last moment and left the young engineer to shift for himself. Moore made a brave struggle to stem the tide of financial difficulties that beset him, but he was at length forced to sell his franchise to the Plainfield Water Supply Company, an old corporation holding a water franchise granted before Plainfield's charter was given in 1872. With Moore's franchise in its possession and its own franchise of 1869 at its back, the Water Supply Company began to construct its works in that city.

They are now nearly completed, and the company claims an exclusive privilege to the field. The Democrats, who have a majority in the Common Council, have questioned this exclusive privilege claimed, and last night they bade defiance to the courts and awarded another franchise to Low. The Republicans, in their endeavors to protect Moore's old company, bitterly contested the Democrats' action, but they were overpowered. The matter will be taken into the courts for a final adjustment, beyond doubt.

He Can Guide White Wings as Well as Souls.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham has been spending a few days at Ocean Grove. A few days ago he, with Dr. A. H. Lewis and the Rev. C. B. Mitchell, enjoyed a fine yachting trip at Bay Head. Dr. Ketcham is an experienced yachtsman, so much so that the captain of the yacht "Emma B", lying off Ocean Grove, gave him the helm the other day and the reverend gentleman guided the white wings as successfully as the captain himself.

Central Railway Improvements.

The Central railway intends making some much needed improvements between Elizabeth and New York, and has already begun the erection of a new stone station on the north side of the tracks at Communipaw, and a wooden one near the Point of Rocks at Greenville. A temporary station has been built at Bergen Point, and the old one will soon be torn down and a pretty building of stone will then take its place.

—A regular meeting of the Plainfield Camera Club will be held this evening.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

It's a Pretty Village Now.

Feltville, as a deserted village, is a thing of the past. It will be remembered that for years strangers in this section of the country drove eagerly to view the ruin of what was once a prosperous hamlet. A big paper mill gave employment to hundreds, and the owner of the mill, who also owned the surrounding country, built homes for his employes. There came a financial crash, the mill stopped work, and the people employed in it sought employment elsewhere. In a short time there was hardly a living soul in the village. The houses and mills went to decay, and the place became one of the curiosities of this section. Recently a syndicate secured the property, made many changes and improvements, and named the place Glenside. It is one of the prettiest and most picturesque spots in the State. The property is enclosed, just as Llewellyn Park is in Orange.—Madison Eagle.

Shot a Window Instead of the Dog.

A resident of West Front street was aroused Saturday night by the strange barking of a dog, and found the animal running excitedly about and snapping and frothing at the mouth. He took alm with his gun, but instead of the bullet striking the dog it entered the window of a neighbor's house. This so frightened the man that he has been in hiding ever since, to evade expected arrest.

Is it not to some extent your own fault that your children seek recreation outside of the family circle? Why not furnish them amus-ment at home? Why not treat them at home to a safe, delightful and whole-some beverage, such as you can easily have made from Hires's Root Beer Packages?

NETHERWOOD NOTES.

Donkey Parties, Euchre Parties, and Dancing Dolls.

The past week has been crowded with pleasing events. The hotel is well filled, and everything is lovely in this charming resort. I note the following events during the week:

On July 20, Miss Jennie C. Hancy gave a little party to celebrate her birthday. The following little darlings constituted the party: The Misses Daisy Jordan, Amy Laidlaw, Amelia Robins, Lulu Freeman, Gracie Brewster, Georgie Crossman and Gladys Balch. Master Weston Williams was the only young prince present.

The donkey party was thoroughly enjoyed by the little maidens. Miss Amelia Robins won the first prize, after which a gorgeous birthday cake was placed upon the table, containing a ring. The excitement at this point of the festivities was immense. Miss Gracie Brewster carried off the magic ring amid the happy acclamations of her young friends. It was a joyous event, and marked another golden year in the sweet life of the fair young recipient.

The second progressive euchre party of the season was held in the grand parlor of the hotel Wednesday evening. A generous subscription list afforded Mrs. F. F. Robins and Mrs. H. D. Brewster an opportunity to display their exquisite taste in purchasing a number of beautiful prizes for the occasion. Sixteen tables were placed in the parlor, and at 9 o'clock the players assembled around them, when the game was opened under the direction of H. D. Brewster. It was a gay and happy throng, and a marked success; "so say we all of us!" The winners were: Mrs. Col. Martin, first prize, gold-lined silver salad spoon and fork; second prize, Mrs. O. B. Bridgman, white leather card case, silver mounted; third prize, Mrs. W. E. McCredy, bonboniere Dresden china; fourth prize, cut glass celery dish. Mrs. M. C. Ogden. Harry Martin, first prize, Gladstone bag; second, H. D. Brewster, order for Dunlap silk hat; third, W. J. Eaton, seal leather silver mounted wallet; fourth, Dr. Kalesch, silver filagree flask. The consolation prizes, two handsome gift traveling clocks, were won by Messrs. Williams and Gondran. At 10:30 the affair closed, after which Mr. Ogden, in a neat little speech, thanked Mrs. Robins and Mrs. Brewster on behalf of the guests.

On Thursday evening one of our fair young lady guests, Miss Macy, transformed handkerchiefs into fantastic dolls, and with thread attachments from the chandelier in the parlor caused them to execute dances that brought forth peals of laughter and applause from the guests present. J. A. H.

A Comparison of Taylor and Hammill.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS: How can you say that Taylor should have been substituted for Hammill in last Saturday's game? Look what Taylor did at Somerville, June 13.

CRANK.

Let's "look what" Hammill did at Somerville, too.

During the game referred to, although Jones tried hard to hold him, Taylor was compelled to let up on his speed whenever his catcher was behind the bat. In the five innings that Taylor pitched, he had two strikes on each of nine other men besides the six he struck out. When Jones played way back, Harkins, Kennedy, Heiser, Lilady, Roberts and Davenport had strike after strike called on them. During the five innings pitched by Taylor there were 36 strikes called on the West Ends, while during the same five innings pitched by Harkins the Crescents had only 17 called on them.

The lack of support given Taylor and the impossibility of his pitching his game without an old and heavier catcher, kept him in the box from five to ten minutes almost every inning. The glaring sun and the strain he was under, told on him, and Hammill was substituted. The first inning the latter pitched, the Somervilles made two hits, two bases on balls, stole second twice and third once, and netted three runs. In the whole five innings Taylor pitched there were only four hits made off him, while there were five hits off Hammill in four innings. Taylor gave only four bases on balls in the whole five innings he pitched, while Hammill gave four in the first two innings he was in the box. Taylor struck out 5; Hammill, 2.

Now, Mr. Crank, don't you agree with THE PRESS that there would have been a chance to rescue last Saturday's game if Taylor had been put in the box?

BISHOP VINCENT'S RANKS INVADED.

The Latest Dress-Reform Scheme Hails from Plainfield, and the Idea Is to Make All Women Look Like Actresses and Keep the Men from the Theatre.

The dress-reform movement has invaded the ranks of Bishop Vincent's multitude of students at Chautauqua with a vengeance. A big meeting was held Friday, and so great was the interest manifested that the president, Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller, decided to have a "secret conference" Saturday, still further to look into the matter. Men were to be excluded from this meeting, but several of them managed to get in, "on the quiet", and were enjoying the fun when they were discovered. It is needless to say thay were promptly "bounced".

Mrs. Frank Stuart Parker, of Chicago, was the principal speaker. She had a plentiful supply of dresses and tights, the latest and most radical styles adopted by the reformers, and showed the Chautauqua girls how to use the garments. Then every woman became much interested, and many were converted to the new order of things. One woman—said to be one of the visitors from Plainfield—said that if this new style of dress were adopted women would have forms and figures as beautiful as actresses, and that perhaps the husbands would then stay at home from variety theatre or ballet performances.

The radical wing of the reformers prevailed, and it was decided to do away with nigh collars, low-necked dresses, corsets, garters of all kinds—in fact, everything that would mar or disfigure the female form. The crusade has been fairly started, and there is no telling where it will end. The girls at the gymnasium wear big zouave trousers all wool and five yards wide.

Dress reform has struck Chautauqua with a vengeance. Mrs. Parker is a member of the Chicago Dress Reform Club, which numbers 300 prominent ladies who dress in harmony with the laws of health, comfort, and grace, and stand pledged to utilize all opportunities to advocate common-sense attire and to explain the scientific principles of dressing as set forth by Jenness-Miller and others. Mrs. Parker stated that the failure of the dress-reform movement in Boston fifteen years ago was due to the fact that utility only was considered and beauty totally ignored. Women are awakening to the fact that they have a work in the world, and time and strength must not be wasted by cumbersome and superfluous dressing. It failed because it did not make a study of the human body or the conditions which must be considered in attempting so vital a reform.

The Chicago Society, organized May 11, 1888, strives not alone for utility, but for beauty and comfort as well. It has on its rolls society women, physicians, ministers, wives, teachers, and many others of intelligence and prominence. In their meetings all phases of the reform are discussed, including physical development. This society educates the dressmakers, and from six to ten are employed who study sensible dressing. Artists of reputation are employing their energies in making patterns, manufacturers are being educated to make the goods which are necessary, and permanent dress reform is now a reality.

Mrs. Parker was scathing in her rebuke of the deformities of fashionable dressing, and talked—so writes an enthusiast to a Plainfield friend—in a most delightful way of the beauty, comfort and health which judicious reform in dress is sure to bring.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

The Central railway company is building a two-story watchman's switch-house at the Prospect avenue crossing.

Miss Alice Klinge, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elston Lowrie.

The boys are practicing every evening for Saturday's ball game, and although Dunellen's sporting men are scarce, considerable of the article that talks has been staked on next Saturday's result.

The temperance meeting was held on the lawn of the church park last Sunday, and a large company was in attendance.

The Rev. Mr. Klosey, of the M. E. church, proposes to deliver a series of illustrated sermons on the "Pilgrim's Progress", beginning next Sunday evening. This course contains thirty-three illustrations, of which three will be exhibited with each discourse. This method of preaching has been a decided success the past few Sunday nights, and filled the church, whereas previous to this very few attended the evening services.

A number of Dunellen men joined the Wetumpka Lodge of the Knights of Honor at the meeting last Thursday night.

Among the number of Dunellen's boarders, this summer, is a little donkey which is seen on the streets every day. He is the property of Mrs. Totten, of New York, and is stabled at Maier's Hotel.

Dunellenites wishing to advertise in THE PRESS may leave their advertisements with G. E. Lowrie, and the same will have prompt attention. The "cent a word" column is a great advantage to those wishing to make announcements.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

IT IS AN ENTICING SPORT.

Plainfield Men of All Professions Own to the Delight of Fishing.

"Why do you fish?" is a question often asked by friends of the angler, and frequently the person of whom it is asked is puzzled to make a reasonable answer. Of course, the pleasures of getting out on the river or rambling through the forest and among the wild hills are mentioned, and the angler will dwell on the healthfulness of the recreation, and will not hesitate to say that his love of nature is the secret that sends him forth in search of the wily trout or vigorous black bass. To breathe the fresh air of the hills and to wander among the forests of the rugged mountains, through which invariably the trout rivers make their way, is undoubtedly no small factor in calling out the angler, but it cannot be denied by any thoughtful and truth-telling fisherman that there is something in playing a lively fish upon the end of a pliant whip-like rod that would lead him to the trout stream whether nature had blessed its surroundings or not.

To sympathetic women the idea of the quivering fish when brought to gaff is one of cruelty. They do not believe the statement that the fish suffers nothing, and that his lively actions are due simply to the larger quantity of oxygen that he gets in the open air. They say the sport is cruel, but they don't mind eating the fruits of the alleged cruelty, and nowadays are becoming quite reconciled to the fun of fishing, so that they deign to handle a rod themselves, and are becoming so expert in the management of fish that the men expert in the art will have to look well to save their laurels.

There is undoubtedly a certain charm about angling that cannot well be expressed in words, and at all events the love of fishing grows rapidly upon the novice. Once having started out on the road to piscatorial conquest, the fisherman rarely turns back, and the deeper the woods are penetrated and the larger the trout and bass, the more anxious is the angler to get after them.

Representatives of professional and business life who have made an honorable record in their callings are numbered by scores on the list of those who delight to fish and hunt. Plainfielders who love the sport are many. The watchmaker, the drygoods clerk, the machinist, the dentist, the physician, the learned counselor at law, even the staid City Judge himself, are all fond disciples of rare old Isaak Walton. Many a Plainfielder can call to mind at once a score of friends who spend their vacations in angling for the finny denizens of the deep. Even the busy newspaper man, when he gets a chance, takes his rod and flies him to the fishing banks or to the mountains in whose streams lurk the gamy beauties.

A Man Who Palms Things.

Two gentlemen shook hands in the street a day or two ago, and as they unclasped their hands a small wad of paper fell to the sidewalk. "What is this?"—said one of the men, stooping to pick up the wad. "Oh, that is my five-dollar bill"—said the other man.—"I made a ball of it, and palmed it when I left the house in order that I would not forget to stop in at my grocer's and pay a bill. But I forgot all about the confounded thing."

"Do you mean to say that you have carried that wad in the palm of your hand for an hour or two without realizing that it was there?"

"Certainly; I frequently carry small articles in the palm of my hand for several hours. They never fall out, and they don't bother me. I learned the trick of palming when I was a boy, and I have practiced it ever since. I can palm half a dozen coins at the same time and retain them concealed in my hand all day if I want to. I can eat my dinner, smoke a cigar, read a paper, and do almost everything, except shake hands, without disturbing the palmed coins. I find the palming knack very useful sometimes, particularly when I want to conceal any small article temporarily."

The Mt. Tabor Camp-Meeting.

Camp-meeting at Mt. Tabor, this year, is to begin Wednesday, August 12. The 15th volume of the Mt. Tabor Daily Record will be published during the ten days of camp-meeting as usual. It becomes more and more valuable each year of its publication, and will contain this year even more entertaining matter than heretofore, it being entirely original, besides presenting able papers upon subjects that relate directly to the Newark Conference, Epworth League, etc. In addition to the other matter its synopses of sermons, reports of all religious services, superior pen sketches of ministers and laymen, personal notes, and other features render it in all respects a most desirable visitor to all Methodists in the conference. The Rev. Jesse S. Gilbert will edit the paper. Subscription for the volume, 40 cents. To clubs of five, 30 cents each. Send in your subscriptions now. Address all communications to Vogt Bros., Morristown, N. J.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

A Plainfield Pastor's Point Well Taken.

Unity, a Chicago journal devoted to freedom, fellowship and character in religion, says:

The Plainfield Daily Press publishes a discourse by the Rev. Hobart Clark, of that city, on "The Heretics in the Pews", in which he pleads from a new point of view for absolute religious sincerity, both clerical and lay. "All men"—says Mr. Clark—"are talking of the heretic who stands in the pulpit; of him who sits in the pew but little has been said. He is a good man and he means to be honest, but is he not in a false position? * * * He delights in charity, in tolerance, and in liberalism—so long as it can be made to pass for orthodoxy—but as a Christian has he no duty regarding honesty and truth?" The point is well urged. It is difficult to say which class in the religious and secular world, is the most responsible for the world's mental advancement—the professed leaders of opinion or the contented followers. Certainly the mere follower, the man who makes it his business only to read and listen, is not so unaccountable as he seems. It is as much the duty of the pews to spur and encourage the pulpit as it is that of the pulpit to direct and instruct the pews.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hall, Biddeford, Me.

Did Merchant Bailey Run Away?

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 28.—Albert H. Bailey, a well-to-do merchant of No. 4 Grove street, left this city nine days ago on a business trip to New York, to last two days. His family or friends have not since heard of him. He sold out his stock before he left, and it is rumored that he did not live happily at home.

Wanted to Fight With the Kaiser.

BERLIN, July 28.—A man named Guertler recently arrived in this city from New York with the avowed intention of challenging the Emperor to fight a duel. Guertler's relatives, who are people in a very influential position, caused him to be closely watched by detectives. They have finally had him placed in an insane asylum.

A Bargain's a Bargain.

An excited man rushed into a livery and sale stable on the South side near Thirty-fourth street the other day and hunted up the proprietor. His hat was gone, his coat was split up the back, and he was covered with mud from head to foot.

"You said those horses you sold me an hour ago were not afraid of the steam roller!" he exclaimed, choking with wrath.

"My friend," replied the owner of the stable, "you are mistaken. I said they didn't care anything for it. They don't. They hate it. They always run like the dickens whenever they see it. Please stand to one side. You're in the way of this gentleman here that's trying to drive out."—Chicago Tribune.

MIDSUMMER STYLES.

This Is a Season When Women Look Interesting.

They Wear Shot Silks and Flower Brocades and Blossom-Covered Hats and Hip Flounces and Paniers—Costumes at the Races.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

I like to go about this summer because people look so interesting. That is a very different thing, as you know, from saying they look beautiful. In fact, they don't look beautiful, because hip flounces and mud ruffles are not commonly becoming; but the flower brocades, and the shot silks and the blossom-covered hats and the paniers and the parasols are certainly interesting.

May I say I went to the races yesterday? I didn't bet and I really behaved very well. When I didn't look at the horses I looked at the women, and they seemed to be wearing either peach-blossom or yellow muslins with pale blue velvet trimmings. Their hats were circled with rich ruchings of lace or satin or ribbons with high aigrettes and tufts of feathers.

Near me there sat a slim, dark individual, who smiled and exerted herself to be pleasant to everybody who spoke to her. Her dress was a silvery gray trimmed with wild roses cut out in velvet and with garlands of embroidered foliage. The bodice was rather a curious one, with suspenders of artificial flowers, forming a V in front and behind. The sleeves and the broad flounces about the skirt were of black lace, and the hat which completed a very pretty toilet was of gray straw, with rose wreaths and green leaves. I have told you about the toilet, and yet it was not the toilet that especially interested me. The dark, slim woman lost and she preserved her amiability in spite of it, but when a business-like blonde who won took out her handkerchief and waved it and stood on her feet and got excited, the little brunette in gray and rose color turned about in her place just ten seconds, and said something that sounded suspiciously like "I hate you." The blonde smiled.

The frock the artist has sketched for you was worn by a woman with eyes like a Jersey calf's; that is to say, handsomer than the average run of eyes. Its fabric was a shot silk in dull yellow, with a hint of green. Larch twigs with small brown cones were printed upon it, but the feature of the dress was its lavish use of velvet ribbon to trim the bodice; the ribbons were wide, and they were of a deep brown; they crossed upon the back, coming over the shoulders and under the arms and joining company between the shoulder blades in a great bow. There was more velvet at the waist, and it, too, tied behind, matching the upper knots and ends. This flowered dress opened behind over an under dress of brown muslin, laid in fine plaitings. It was worn with wrinkled muslin sleeves and with a brown muslin hat trimmed with larch twigs, brown velvet and yellow feathers.

It makes one feel as if midsummer were really approaching to see what an amount there is of maize yellow. It flaunts everywhere in flowers and in ribbons. I noted it, even in the excitement of a finish, upon a large lot of horsehair lace. The hat was white but its ribbons were of corn yellow and very wide; they were edged with gold embroidery.

I noted it again in a dress of soft maize-colored muslin, made up over a foundation of silk of the same tone. The muslin had pale yellow and deep crimson nasturtiums printed upon it, their flaming hues toned down by their round shield-like leaves. The hem was tucked, and between the tucks ran rows of yellow moire ribbon, of lighter tint than the gown. The front of the corsage had a broad flounce of the pale coffee-yellow lace that is the latest lace out and is called Marie-Amelie; this war shirred over fine plaitings of yellow muslin, and drooped almost to the narrow watered ribbons that gathered the front and tied in small bows, in imitation of a peasant bodice, in the middle of the corsage. The wearer of this muslin wore also a deep, corn-yellow straw hat, turned up behind with corn-yellow feathers. A twisted garland of nasturtiums was set about the crown, and hid itself from the ecru rays under a parasol of corn-yellow muslin, shirred and edged with a flounce of the coffee-colored lace and rejoicing in a handle of gold and enamel.

This morning I have been watching the Park tennis players; not for the tennis, for the practice games are not thrilling, but for the joy of the light young figures and the pretty faces and the gay colors and fluttering ribbons. Some of the girls wore flowered cambrics cut on the cross and literally folded about the figure over a deep yoke of lace. Others wore bodices gathered from neck to waist with the flimsy fabric frilling out around the hips, and with wide ribbons fastened under each arm to cross in front and at the back and to lie in a big bow with long ends that fluttered in the breeze and were tremendously in the way.

One slim brown girl wore pink holland, laid in narrow plaits from waist to feet, and having a soft, unstarched holland shirt with pink and white striped frills.

Dresses of state and ceremony are wonderfully tabbed and laced and embroidered. Let me tell you of half a dozen that passed me within as many minutes on Twenty-third street one bright, breezy afternoon. There came a green and white muslin, trimmed with pale green velvet ribbons. There followed it a pink canvas frock striped with pale blue velvet ribbons and worn with a hat in gold lace straw with blue velvet bows.

After this approached a simple gown of gray diagonal cloth with smart coat fastening with three buttons over a waistcoat of white drill. The small straw hat was trimmed with gray ribbons and white wings.

Hard after it walked a pearl-colored foulard dress striped with peacock blue, and this was accompanied by a black grenadine embroidered with small pink and green flowers and worn over a slip of apple-green silk. The corsage was laced behind and finished with straps of jets on the shoulders.

Midsummer dresses remain plain, flat and long. If you take your umbrella, cut it round at the end and fix the top of the stuff about your waist you have the pattern of the umbrella skirt, which is at the moment the most fashionable skirt worn. It is supposed to be particularly well suited to the striped gauzes and tissues. There are eight seams in the width, one just in front and one just behind. The material is biased and very narrow at the top; it widens at the edge of the skirt, while the bias waves at the lower part, so that the skirt requires a very considerable quantity of material. Such a skirt is worn without an underskirt, but as a rule will have a light silk lining. About the hem is placed a little shirred flounce, with a double plaited row on top.

The new bodice is very hard to cut and fit properly. It has only one seam in the back and the two side pieces are cut in bias so as to cling to the waist snugly.

Some of the new dress bonnets are brilliant with gold thistles, rearing their prickly heads amid clouds of tulle or spangled gauze. For garden parties, little caplike bonnets are worn well back upon the head with, when the state of the atmosphere permits, a fluffy mass of front hair. Snow-white spirea trimmed a pretty example noticed yesterday. Wild honeysuckle with pale green leaves was the adornment of another. A blonde woman wore a twist of brown velvet about her yellow hair with a sprig or two of heliotrope for garniture.

The hats shown in the illustration are quiet but attractive bits of summer headgear. One is in lace straw, with bows of chiffon and wings, another in hedgehog straw, trimmed with rosebuds; bonnets in black and gold lace are among the most popular things of the season. Gold osprey aigrettes decorate them.

The summer colors are bright and varied. From my window I have but to look out to see mauve, pale tan, blue and rose color go by. Mignonette, raspberry red, silver blue, Argentine gray, peach color shot with gold, amber brown and daffodil yellow; foulards printed with cactus blossoms and pomegranates, muslins tinted with blush rose, golden willow, gray and gold and magnolia white; Spanish-looking dresses of yellow organdie, scattered all over with brilliant blossoms, and frocks of the soft ecru of undyed linen present themselves every hour to catch my eye.

Mignonette green pleased me as much as any tint in the pretty pageant. The woman who wore it most effectively was in a simple frock of chambray, printed with mignonette sprigs tied up with very narrow gold ribbons. Her parasol repeated the dress materials, and she wore mignonette at her buttonhole.

Bold Attempt to Rob a Business Office in Newark.

THE DESPERADO WELL ARMED.

He Ordered the Cashier to Give Him All the Money in the Place.

It Was Shortly After Noon and the Safe Was Locked—Failing to Secure Any Booty the Highwayman Made a Desperate Break for Liberty—Chased by a Crowd but He Manages to Escape.

NEWARK, N. J., July 29.—One of the most daring robberies ever attempted in Newark in broad daylight was frustrated by the coolness of two employes of the New Jersey Oil Company at its office, 70 Liberty street.

While Bookkeepers Charles Chichester, of Brooklyn, and William Parsons were in the office at 1:30 o'clock a young man wearing a check suit, tall, well built, and with a broad-brimmed sombrero on the back of his head, walked up to the desk. Parsons arose from a low chair in which he was sitting and walked to where the stranger stood. Suddenly the latter whipped out a pair of revolvers and levelled one at Chichester and the other at Parsons. At the same time he made known his mission by saying in a commanding tone:

"Give Me All Your Money."

Neither Chichester nor Parsons was badly frightened by this unlooked for demand of the bold highwayman—in fact they were uncommonly cool, but after it was over they could not tell just how they kept so. The fellow moved cautiously along the desk until he reached a wire door leading into the private office. The door closed behind him with a spring latch, but he seemed not to notice this. Walking up to Chichester, with the revolvers still elevated, he demanded in gruff tones:

"Where's the money?"

There was, fortunately, but little in the office, and Chichester replied, "Help yourself," as he moved away from the desk. The man opened several drawers, and, finding nothing, turned again to Chichester and asked:

"How much have you in your pockets?"

Chichester drew some small change from his pockets, but the robber was not satisfied and searched Chichester's pockets himself, but took nothing.

The Robber Escapes.

While this was going on the bookkeepers talked as loud as possible, in order to attract the attention of President O. W. Young, who was in a private apartment on the floor above. He heard the unusual noise and conversation and started down stairs. The robber heard him and made a break for the door. The spring latch made him a prisoner. Suddenly turning backward he cleared the desk counter and sprang through an open window into the street just as Mr. Young got down stairs. Mr. Young, Parsons and several passers-by started in pursuit of the fleeing highwayman, but he escaped.

Meanwhile the Third Precinct police had been notified, and six men went out with Capt. Daly. They found the place where the robber had taken to the swamps, and several times thought they had him surrounded, but each time were mistaken. Superintendent of Police Brown at once telephoned a description of the fugitive to Elizabeth, New Brunswick, New York and other places, calling for his arrest in case he escapes across the Newark meadows.

PROBABLY THIS IS ALMY.

A Man Arrested at Montpelier Supposed to be the Murderer.

MONTPELIER, Vt., July 29.—County Sheriff E. W. Howe last night arrested a man fully answering the description of Frank C. Almy, the Hanover murderer, at a secluded farm house at the head of Mirror Lake, Berlin. He was placed in jail at this place.

The Hanover authorities have been telegraphed to come and identify him.

The Guards Still in Exile.

LONDON, July 29.—The Grenadier Guards complain bitterly about being quartered at Dover, which they regard as a continuation of their exile. The leave of absence of officers is to be greatly curtailed, compared with what is usually granted to those returning from a foreign station.

Wives for Wealthy Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 29.—The startling allegation is made that girls, often of good character, are induced to leave their homes in London and Paris, and brought to the East, to live as the wives of wealthy Turks, immured in harems for a lifetime. As long as no complaint reaches the outer world, the authorities are powerless to interfere.

Parnell and the Divorce Case.

LONDON, July 29.—Mr. Parnell's objection to Captain O'Shea serving the order of bankruptcy on him upon the ground of his (Parnell's) non-domicile in England is held as untenable by the Registrar in Bankruptcy. It is still open to Parnell to appeal the case. Otherwise he must pay the costs of the divorce proceedings or be declared bankrupt.

Two Girls Drowned.

ST. JOHNS, N. B., July 29.—Lizzie Allen, aged 14, and Mary Caples, aged 13, were drowned while bathing near Main Bridge last evening. Their bodies were recovered later.

HIGH-LIFE SCANDAL.

Philadelphia's Social Circles Agitated Over a Reported Elopement.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Society circles in this city have been set in a flutter by the rumor that Mrs. John C. Bowman has eloped with Dr. Ellsworth Hewitt. Mrs. Bowman is the wife of Capt. Bowman, a prominent and wealthy lawyer. Dr. Hewitt is said to be the nephew of ex-Mayor Hewitt of New York. It is said that they have fled to Brazil.

Mrs. Bowman is very pretty and not over 25 years of age. All accounts agree that Mr. Bowman literally idolized his wife. She is a blonde of fascinating charms and was married eight years ago, at the age of 17. Her husband gave her everything that it was in his power to give. At their home in the city he kept five servants and otherwise maintained a splendid household.

In addition to this he had under contract a very attractive residence at Devon, which is now building. The Bowmans have three children, one of them a baby. The children are very interesting. Altogether, there appeared to be nothing in the wide world to disturb the serenity of the Bowman household.

THEY MET IN WASHINGTON.

The Republican National Committee in Session To-day.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Republican National Executive Committee is in session at the Arlington Hotel in this city to-day. The meeting was to have been in Philadelphia, but a change of plan was decided on and several members of the committee did not know until last night that they were to meet here.

If Mr. Quay insists upon retiring it is supposed that Clarkson will be chosen chairman, and that either Fessenden or Mr. Payne will succeed Clarkson as vice-chairman.

Omaha is early to the front with a bid for the National convention. Col. C. F. Scott is on hand with authority to present the claims of that city. He says that Omaha is going to do all she can to get the convention.

BURYING THE VICTIMS.

Thousands Attend the Funerals at St. Mande To-day.

PARIS, July 29.—The victims of the railway disaster will be interred this afternoon in the cemetery of St. Mande, the Commune meeting the burial expenses.

There is no doubt that the ceremonies will be witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever gathered in the neighborhood of this city.

The assistant station master at Vincennes and the driver of the second engine have been arrested on the charge of having contributed by carelessness to the collision.

The lady announced as being among the victims of the disaster was not the Marquise de Monteferata. She was a Madame Blanchey or Blanchet of New York.

Factory Closed by a Strike.

QUINCY, Mass., July 29.—The treers in John F. Drake's boot and shoe factory went out on strike and the factory was shut down, throwing 200 hands out of work. One of the treers was requested to instruct a boy in the creasing of vamps. This he refused to do and left the shop, the other treers following him out. Mr. Drake says he will not employ union men hereafter.

Success With a Sand Mould.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—There has just been cast at the armor plate mill of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., at Homestead, an armor ingot 80 inches wide and 23 inches thick, weighing 32,000 pounds—the largest armor plate ingot rolled in this country. The ingot was cast in a sand mould for a test, and the material proved much superior to that test in a metal mould.

Arrested for an Assault.

NEWARK, N. J., July 29.—Sophia Fredericks, aged 19, of Lyons Farms, was assaulted on Badger avenue last night, by Henry Warner, who struck her on the head with a monkey wrench and attempted to outrage her. Four men attracted by her screams rescued the girl and overpowered Warner and took him to the lockup. The girl's head is badly injured.

Tried Suicide by Hari-Kari.

ROME, July 29.—Col. Leybourne, well-known in New York in connection with the Catholic banking scheme, attempted suicide here yesterday in the Japanese style of hari-kari by disemboweling himself with a razor. He now lies in a very precarious state, with little hopes of recovery. Monetary losses are said to be the cause of the act.

The Sugar King is Dead.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Frederick C. Havemeyer, the last of the older generation of the celebrated sugar refining family of the Havemeyers, died last evening at his home at Throgg's Neck, Westchester County, where he had lived for years in comparative seclusion and in dual style.

Chili's New President.

LONDON, July 29.—A dispatch from Santiago, Chili, says that Claudio Vicuna has been elected President. He will assume the office on Sept. 18.

THEY ARE FOR WAR

Russia's Welcome to France Now Explained.

OPEN HOSTILITY TO GERMANY.

The Demonstrations at St. Petersburg of a Warlike Character.

Russian Officers Anxious for a Fight—Outspoken Utterances Against England—The Queen's State Dinner to the Kaiser Excelled in Splendor by the Czar's Banquet to the French Officers.

LONDON, July 29.—To-day's dispatches from St. Petersburg say that the enthusiasm of the French reception cannot be exaggerated. A significant feature of the day's festivities was the effusive fraternity of the Russian army officers for the officers of the French fleet.

The opinion of the army is practically the only public opinion of any influence in Russia, and when the officers of the army talk war and are impatient of peace even the Czar is obliged to listen, if not to yield.

Warlike Demonstrations.

All the correspondents agree that the demonstrations were of a warlike character. No sentiment was breathed that did not signify an alliance of Russia and France for war, and while no reflections were uttered on Germany in any of the formal speeches or addresses, the utmost hostility, mixed with contempt, was expressed, more especially by the Russians, for Germany and the Kaiser.

The French officers and men had been cautioned in advance not to utter any reflections upon England, owing to the relationship of the Czarina and the Prince of Wales, and this command was carefully obeyed. It is said, however, that the Russians themselves were outspoken in utterances against the English.

The general impression given to the correspondents was of a brilliant assemblage who looked upon each other, and acted and talked as allies in a grand struggle soon to come.

Surpassed the Queen's Display.

The grandeur of the dinner given by the Czar to the French officers may be judged from the fact that 650 pieces of gold plate figured on the imperial table. Both Moscow and St. Petersburg were drawn on for the means to make a display barbaric in its magnificence, and far excelling in splendor the Queen's dinner to the German Kaiser.

The scene was Oriental rather than European, and gave significant proof of the vast treasures accumulated by the Romanoff family in the course of centuries of empire.

ELLIOTT FOUND GUILTY.

The Jury Bring in a Verdict of Murder in the Second Degree.

COLUMBUS, O., July 29.—After being out five days the jury in the Elliott murder trial rendered a verdict that William J. Elliott had been found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of Albert C. Osborn, on the 23d of February last.

When the verdict was announced the prisoner pulled his Grand Army button from the buttonhole in the lapel of his coat, and threw it at the jury. Instead of weakening, Elliott grew more revengeful and his face took on a look of wildest anger.

Notice of motion for a new trial was made, and no sentence was not passed. The Court fixed Saturday as the time for hearing arguments on the motion for a new trial.

By the laws of Ohio murder in the second degree is punishable by life imprisonment, the court having no alternative in the matter.

The verdict is no surprise as the long wait of the twelve men in their room had given out the impression that there was some doubt as to the grade of the crime, and if there was not some disagreement the verdict would be as rendered.

A Child's Face Gashed by a Dog.

MATAWAN, N. J., July 29.—While the little daughter of Mike Gorman was playing she was attacked by a dog belonging to John Malcolm. The brute threw the child upon the ground and bit her savagely. Again and again the dog sunk his fangs into the child's face and arm. There seems to be no doubt that the dog was mad. It was killed soon afterward. The child's wounds were cauterized.

Minister Grubb's Return.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 29.—Gen. E. Burd Grubb, Minister to Spain, will sail for this country August 29. The Phil Kearney brigade will have a reunion at his residence, Edgewater Park, Sept. 14, at which he will be present.

Collector Erhardt Resigns.

NEW YORK, July 29.—It was reported among Republican politicians this morning that Collector Joel B. Erhardt had sent his resignation as Collector of the Port to President Harrison.

WALL STREET RUMORS.

Heavy Operators in Richmond Terminal Said to be Embarrassed.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The "street" has been full of rumors that heavy operators in Richmond Terminal and other Southern securities had become embarrassed, and it is now reported that one of them has failed to make his accounts good and an assignment is looked for.

An effort is being made, however, to have a syndicate take up the accounts, and if this is done no formal announcement of embarrassment will be made.

It was reported that a loan had been called yesterday on the Richmond Terminal Company, but the officers say that the loan had matured and was paid.

Maryland Democrats in Consultation.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 29.—Senator Gorman is registered at the Carrolton. Hon. Murray Vandiver, secretary of the Democratic Central Committee, and a number of prominent local managers were closeted with him during the day. Hon. Robert F. Brattan and Marion D. Smith, rival candidates for the Comptrollership, were also registered at the Carrolton. It is probable that Frank Brown for Governor and John P. Poe for Attorney-General will be nominated by acclamation. Hon. L. Victor Baughman will probably be chairman of the State Convention and Hon. Murray Vandiver secretary.

The Wire Trust Will Advance Prices.

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—All details for a combine of the barbed wire manufacturers of the United States have been arranged and the result is the formation of a wire trust that will eclipse all other combines. The trust or combine, will in future be known as the Columbus Patent Company, and their first move will be to advance the royalty on the manufacturer of wire from $1 to $3 per ton, an advance of 200 per cent. on present rates.

Affairs Quiet in Hayti.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The Atlas Line steamer Alvo from Haytian ports is in port here. Her captain reports affairs quiet in Hayti. A few of her passengers informed a reporter that they regarded the present lull as the calm before the storm. The rebel leaders have their headquarters at Jamaica, and reports from there are that these leaders are continually active.

Deputy Sheriffs Still on Guard.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 29.—The Billet mill at the Pennsylvania Steel Works at Steelton has been started with sufficient men to make a day and night turn. There are a large number of applications for work, and other departments will be started this week. Although everything is quiet, 50 more deputy sheriffs have been sworn in.

Two Indian Bucks Fight a Duel.

WELLS, Nev., July 29.—Two Shoshone bucks, Spruce Alcck and Laughing Charley, fought a bloody duel at an Indian camp near here yesterday. The trouble was about a squaw. The bucks were hobbled together and fought with knives. They were horribly mangled, and Alcck will die.

Disgusted With Jem Smith.

LONDON, July 29.—Abington Baird, the rich lover of Mrs. Langtry, and backer of Jem Smith, was so disgusted with Smith's exhibition of cowardice that he cursed him, and declared that he would not back him again.

DIXON THE WINNER

He Knocks Out the Australian in Five Rounds.

A SHORT AND SHARP BATTLE.

Willis Was Not in the Fight After the First Round.

The Colored Lad Merely Toyed With the Imported Pugilist—Rounds of Applause for the Featherweight Champion—He is Regarded as the Wonder of the Age—A Large Crowd See the Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—The prize fight between George Dixon of Boston and Abe Willis of Australia took place at the gymnasium of the California Athletic Club last night for a purse of $5,000 and the bantam-weight championship of the world.

Willis was practically unknown here and the betting before the fight began was in Dixon's favor, ranging from 100 to 70 and 100 to 90. Great interest was taken in the fight and the club room was well filled.

The contestants appeared in the ring soon after 8:40 o'clock. Both men were in perfect condition. Dixon's seconds were Tom O'Rourke, Mitchell and Billy Akers. Willis was seconded by Martin Murphy and Billy Smith. Hiram Cook was referee. Time was called at 8:45.

The Battle.

First round—The men sparred carefully for fully a minute, Dixon showing to greater advantage in reach. Then Dixon led and caught Willis on the jaw, sending him down. When he rose there was the liveliest kind of a rally, she men slugging each other at close quarters. Dixon plainly had the best of it. Willis hugged as much as possible.

Second round.—After fighting cautiously for a minute Dixon planted a swinging left on the Australian's jaw. Several sharp rallies and much clinching followed. Then they kept up a see-saw on each other's jaws at the closest possible range. The round closed with cheers for both.

Third round—Both men were very wary at first, Dixon then landing his left on Willis' eye and his right on the jaw. Neither blow did much damage.

Fourth round—After two minutes of sparring Dixon landed on Willis' jaw and body several times, receiving two sharp raps in return. Both were very quiet and saved themselves by dodging.

Fifth round—It was opened like the others, neither seeming disposed at first to rush and force matters. Towards the close there was a sharp rally near the ropes, in which it was give and take for a moment, though Dixon was plainly landing harder and oftener. Presently Dixon caught the Australian on the jaw with his left and sent him down. Willis rose to his hands and knees and took his 10 seconds on the floor. He rose a little weak, but when Dixon rushed him he stood prepared to receive the attack. He could not do much, however, in the rally that followed, and Dixon's right soon came into contact with Willis' jaw and the latter went down flat on his back. He fell heavily and lay like a log. When the 10 seconds had expired Willis' seconds had to lift him from the floor, and Dixon was declared the winner.

The colored boy seemed as strong as when the fight commenced.

The Boston boy was cheered to the echo as he left the ring. He is regarded here now as the wonder of the age.

TWO GREAT RACES TO-DAY.

Tenny and Longstreet to Meet for a Prize of $12,000.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Great crowds are expected at Morris Park and Brighton Beach this afternoon, as it is the greatest day of the year for racing enthusiasts.

Everyone has heard of the proposed matches to-day, and everyone has talked of them. Tenny, the popular idol, and Longstreet, a horse that his owner believes is the peer of any ever foaled in this country, will meet at even weights over a mile and a quarter at Morris Park for a prize of $12,000, while at Brighton Beach Kingston, the best son Spendthrift ever had, and Tulla Blackburn, a mare that has suffered but three defeats this year, will fight for a $3,000 purse over a mile and a furlong.

Custom House Employes Discharged.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The letters sent to Collector Erhardt by Secretary Foster regarding the discharge of Custom House employes have been made public. Ninety employes are ordered discharged, and numerous reductions in salaries are authorized in various departments. The movement is for the reduction of expenses. Many of the offices are abolished.

Two Trains Collide.

ALLIANCE, O., July 29.—The second section of freight train No. 83, west-bound, and local freight No. 70, east-bound, on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad collided with a terrible crash near Salem, O., last evening. Two engines and 11 cars of freight were demolished. Several members of the crews were severely injured but none fatally.

Consul William E. Sims Dead.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A private cable dispatch received here from Colon, on the Isthmus of Panama, announces the death of William E. Sims, of Virginia, United States Consul at that port. He was a leading Republican politician of his State, and figured as the central target in the Danville riot of 1883.

An Unknown Man Fatally Injured.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 29.—An unknown man, about 29 years old, was found with his skull fractured on the Central track at Churchville during the morning. He is at the city hospital and will die. It is thought that he jumped EXPOSING A FRAUD.

Startling Disclosures Regarding a Pennsylvania Insurance Company.

READING, Pa., July 29.—In the Court of Common Pleas of Berks County a bill in equity has been filed signed by a number of policy holders of the Standard Mutual Live Stock Insurance Company of this city.

The startling charge is made that the company was organized for fraud.

The company got into trouble about two years ago, and as a result of the filing of a bill in equity by Aaron B. Wood, the Court of Common Pleas of Berks County appointed Peter W. Fisher receiver.

Wm. Righter Fisher was retained as attorney by the petitioners and other policy holders about a month ago. He says that during his investigation one of the reasons that made him suspect fraud was the discovery that one of the managers of the company had been dipping into graveyard insurance.

The Mutual Company was started in 1886, and is now said to have outstanding policy holders, who reside principally in Philadelphia and neighboring portions of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, to the amount of $600,000.

DEATH OF AN OLD PRINTER.

The First Man to Put "The Star Spangled Banner" Into Type.

BALTIMORE, July 29.—Samuel Sands, one of the oldest citizens of this city is dead, aged 92 years. For a long period he had probably been the oldest living printer, being in uninterrupted service as printer, editor or publisher since his apprenticeship in 1811. Half a century ago he published the American Farmer, the first agricultural paper in this country.

When an apprentice boy in 1814 in the office of the American in this city he put into type fresh from the author's hands, the song of "The Star Spangled Banner." Left alone in the office on account of his youth when the other hands went into the trenches on the attack by the British on the city, he put the stirring poem into print in the shape of a broadside, which he distributed throughout the city.

CANADA IS SLOW.

No Report Yet on the Seizure of American Fishing Boats.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A dispatch from Ottawa says that the Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Fisheries, has referred to the Department of Justice for consideration the official report on the recent seizure of seven American fishing boats in British waters near Eastport, Me.

The captain of the cruiser Dream has forwarded to Ottawa an American chart from which he traces the conclusion that the Americans were trespassing at the time he pounced upon them.

The United States cruiser Woodbury is patrolling the waters at Campobello, where the fishing boats were seized.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—They're very fast—the colors in Peck's summer hosiery.

—The Trinity excursion date is now fixed at next week Tuesday.

—Auction sale at No. 32 East Front street to-morrow at 3 p. m.

—A devotional meeting will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

—A flag that was loaned to the recent fair of the O. A. F., has just been found by Mrs. John Gable. The owner can have it by calling on her.

—Mrs. John Fillmore was arrested at Netherwood last evening for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. This morning Judge Codington fined her $5.

—An impressionable man who has seen the pictures of the Prince of Wales with which a Tory clothier has decorated our fences, has started a subscription to get H. R. H. a hair-cut and shave.

—As had already been announced in these columns, the striking of the hours 12 noon and 5 p. m. on the fire gong was begun yesterday by the agency of a clock-work attachment.

—Thursday and Friday are the last days that one can buy those ladies' shoes that Sherwin is selling at $1.19. Sherwin says: "Be sure and stop in and look at them. You have often paid $2 for no better ones."

—Plainfield excursions seem fated to suffer postponements, this season. That of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school found the weather frowning on its hopes this morning, and it had to be postponed till Tuesday of next week.

—A number of Plainfielders are going on an excursion to Chautauqua Lake in connection with the opening of the Chautauqua assembly, Aug. 3. They will have the privilege of returning by way of Niagara Falls, without extra charge.

—The New York Telegram says that pitcher O'Neil, formerly of the Westfield team, will likely sign a contract to play with the New Yorks. O'Neil is now pitching for the Corinthians who play here against the Crescents, next Saturday.

—The Unions of Grant avenue will play a game of base-ball against the Chathams, at 2:30 next Saturday afternoon, on the Chathams' grounds in North Plainfield. On August 8 the Unions will play the Juniors, of the Pond Machine Tool Works, and on August 15 will play the Junior Cuban Giants.

—A chance that may only come once in a lifetime to any of the good women of Plainfield, is offered at Gavett's for a few days. Odds and ends of regular stock in glass ware and porcelain, table and bedroom sets in fine china with a piece or two missing, and choice bric-a-brac so slightly damaged as not to be noticeable, will be sold at most any price you name.

—Marshal Rutledge has been doing some more high-handed things in the borough—if all reports are true. The latest is that because a man whom he had arrested for fast driving was released with a reprimand by Justice Crosley, he censured the court and said to the released prisoner: "You ought to been fined; hereafter you can drive as fast as you please; you can drive to hell and gone, and I won't interfere"—or words to that effect.

—Louis Sprigg, of Howard street, North Plainfield, who has been appointed special marshal, has been well recommend as a faithful watchman. He has already received considerable encouragement and patronage, and intends to begin patrolling through a portion of Washington Park this week Saturday night. Mr. Sprigg has been in the employ of Christian Schepflin as a packer for a period of seventeen years, and is well recommended by that firm for honesty, sobriety and faithfulness to his duty. He is a veteran of the late war.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. T. Logan Murphy is in Florence, Italy, to-day.

Miss Lizzie Laing, who was injured in a runaway accident at Long Branch, three weeks ago, has fully recovered, and is home again in this city.

Recent arrivals at Asbury Park include the following from this city: The Windsor House—N. Varrier, Madame Gettl, Emma Gettl; the Leroy—J. E. Fucel; the Gramercy—L. M. French; the Portland—Mrs. Sarah Laing.

Miss C. E. Clarke of this city, will deliver a lecture on "The True Genius of Fiction", at the chapel, Cornwall, Conn., Tuesday evening of next week, for the benefit of the Street Improvement association of that beautiful little town where she spends her summers.

A base-ball game between teams from Scotch Plains and Hotel Netherwood, yesterday, resulted in the following score:

Scotch Plains..1 0 0 0 4 0 2 1 0—8

Batteries—Mattis and Connelly for Hotel Netherwood; Miller and Ericksen for Scotch Plains.

Is it not to some extent your own fault that your children seek recreation outside of the family circle? Why not furnish them amusement at home? Why not treat them at home to a safe, delightful and whole-some beverage, such as you can easily have made from Hires's Root Beer Packages?

PAPER HANGER AGAINST MILLIONAIRE.

The Chancellor Stops Work on the Sandford Avenue Bridge Upon the Application of Mr. VanSciver, but Countermands That Order After Listening to the Argument of Mr. Hyde's Counsel.

A. D. VanSciver, who is by occupation a paper hanger, and Charles Hyde, who is by profession a "President of Banks," are quietly having a suit in Chancery which may ultimately involve several other parties, besides the city of Plainfield, and the counties of Union and Somerset. Just now, VanSciver and Hyde have the floor all to themselves.

Mr. Hyde started a gang of workmen building the abutments for a bridge to span Green Brook at its intersection with Sandford avenue. Mr. VanSciver, claiming that Sandford avenue where it turns northerly through a lot bought by him, was never properly made a public street and that he owns the land under the abutment in question, went before the Chancellor, and upon his statement of the case, the Chancellor signed an order stopping Mr. Hyde from doing any more work or using the portion of the street referred to, and directing him to appear on Monday last and show cause why an injunction should not issue.

Mr. Hyde claimed that the street had been dedicated to the public before Van Sciver got his deed, and that Van Sciver had consented to the dedication and induced him (Hyde) to expend a large sum of money in grading, etc. He also showed that the bridge was to be built by Union and Somerset counties.

The Chancellor heard the arguments of counsel on Monday, and decided in Mr. Hyde's favor by discharging the rule and setting aside the first order with costs. The preliminary injunction is therefore denied, but the main case will go on perhaps for years to come. W. V. Steele represents Mr. Van Sciver, and Craig A. Marsh represents Mr. Hyde.

THE BROWNS IN JERSEY AGAIN.

A PRESS Reporter is the First Plainfielder to Set Eyes on Them Since They Stole Away From the City.

During Christmas eve, Dec. 24, 1889, the firm of "I. Brown & Bro.," moved out through the back door of the premises they occupied on North avenue as clothing merchants. With them also disappeared all the stock in the place with the exception of a few hats and a stuffed Santa Claus left in the show windows to divert suspicion.

Among the creditors left behind were Samuel Dreier for $1,600, the gaslight company, $40, and Joseph Stolmak, $84 borrowed money. The store the Browns occupied was that where is now the barroom of Force's Hotel. They boxed the goods and shipped them out of the city during Christmas eve. They thus had two nights and a whole day to travel away, before their flight was discovered. They were never caught and their creditors are still out.

The latter will be surprised to hear that the Browns are back in the State again. A PRESS reporter saw one of them get on a Central railroad train at Elizabeth, recently, and traveled with him to New York. When addressed as "Mr. Brown", he turned white as a sheet, but smiled. He was addressed with, "I guess you don't know me." He nodded his head affirmatively and smiled more sickly. Probably he had supposed that himself and the circumstances of his departure from Plainfield had been long since forgotten, and he therefore ventured into the State again.

LIVELY CHASE AFTER A BURGLAR.

Mr. Tidman, His Dog and a Revolver Fail to Stop a Thief.

Superintendent F. C. Tidman, of the Schuyler Electric Light Company at Elizabeth, and formerly an electrician in this city, had an exciting adventure, Monday night, with a burglar, whom he caught trying to enter through a window in the kitchen of his residence.

Mr. Tidman set the dog on the intruder, while he ran back to his bedroom for a revolver. The thief struck the dog a blow with a stick, and then fled across the garden, pursued by Tidman clad only in his nightshirt. He fired three shots at the fleeing burglar, but none of them seemed to take effect. The fellow scaled the fence in the rear of the yard and disappeared in the darkness. The firing aroused the whole neighborhood.

The people living in the vicinity are now investing in shotguns, as this is the third attempted burglary on that street within a week.

Dowd Escapes Conviction.

The old charges that have been hanging fire over Thomas Dodd, several weeks past, reached a hearing before Judge Codington and a jury yesterday afternoon. The first charge was of using profane, vile and indecent language. The jury promptly acquitted him. The other charge was of intoxication. The city had three witnesses; the defendant seven or eight. After hearing the evidence, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh said that he would not insist on a conviction, and Dowd was released.

The Flower Thief Captured.

Marshal Rutledge has for some time been on the watch for the thief who made a habit of pulling blossoming plants up by the roots from borough gardens, and this morning he captured him in the act. He proved to be Charles Williams, and he will be given a hearing probably to-night.

CONVICTED AND FINED.

But Pangborn Is n't Satisfied, and Will Carry the Case Higher.

The case of Thomas Rutledge, borough marshal, against Wm. N. Pangborn, reached a hearing before Justice Crosley last evening, and the result was that Pangborn was convicted of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and was fined $10.

Pangborn insists that he was n't intoxicated, but was peaceably talking to a friend on Harmony street when Rutledge approached and ordered him to go home and to bed. He still claims that the reason Rutledge arrested him was because he refused to permit the officer to set his bedtime.

Rutledge asserts that Pangborn was under the influence of liquor and was behaving in a very improper manner. He says further that he merely told him he'd have to behave himself and that he'd better go home and sober up when Pangborn began to revile him, dared him to arrest him, and defied his authority.

Pangborn says he will get a writ of certiorari and carry the case into the Supreme Court.

Judge Crosley told a PRESS reporter this morning that he felt that he had only done his duty in the matter. Several witnesses appeared—he said—for both sides. The evidence was conflicting, but I weighed it very carefully, and the preponderance seemed to be in favor of Rutledge and the borough; so under the evidence conviction was the only possible result. Some have claimed that Pangborn's arrest was a piece of spite work on Rutledge's part because Pangborn ran against him at the last election, but there was nothing in the evidence to prove such spite.

ATTACKED BY A STATE BUREAU.

New Jersey Building and Loan Associations Called Usurious.

The advance sheets of the State Bureau of Statistics, which have been sent out within the last few days, contain an assault upon the underlying principle of building and loan associations that will probably stir up the promoters of organizations of that class in this city and elsewhere. The argument is that the manner of selling money pursued by them is usurious and that the only attraction they present is the opportunity they afford to men of limited means to secure homes on the installment plan. Building and loan associations have become a considerable factor—probably the most considerable factor—is building up the waste places in New Jersey. They number 254 in the State, and their growth in Hudson, Essex, Passaic, and Bergen counties has been phenomenal. The bureau had at the time it began preparing its annual book reports from 242 of the 254 associations. Their net assets reached $22,466,890, an average of nearly $100,000 for each. The total resources foot up $23,404 236. Of the number 126 associations borrowed $1,556,962 in the year and repaid $1,278,689. The average annual receipts of 199 associations that reported the figures were $39.376. The average current expenses were $384, of which $294 went for payment of salaried officials.

Of the total resources the associations have $21,320,044 on bond and mortgage, while over $500,000 of cash was left on hand at the close of their respective fiscal years. From a calculation based on the returns from 90 per cent. of the associations it is estimated that not less than 2,000 houses have been erected within the past year with their aid.

George S. Duryee, the State Commissioner of Banks and Insurances, has sent out a report showing the condition of the New Jersey State banks at the close of business July 6. There are 22 of them. Their total resources are $9,279,873.87. The Trenton Banking Company makes the largest showing with $2,251,723.27; the State Banking Company, with $1,139,014, comes next. There are only two other State banks in the State with resources of over $500,000—the Long Branch Banking Company, $635,196, and the Middlesex County Bank, $510,495. The People's Bank of Sea Isle City, with $19,678.70 of resources, is the smallest in the list.

A $3,500 Improvement at a Cost of $1,000.

Councilman Spangenberg of the Big 6, yesterday succeeded in getting another contribution of $500 from the Land Improvement company of the Central railroad, towards the cost of the fine road improvement of North avenue from Netherwood station west; that has been so thoroughly and faultlessly carried out by Street Commissioner Meeker.

This road is one of the many to which the Plainfield people can now point with pride, and for which the Big 6 alone are to be thanked. It cost $3,500, but through the efforts of Councilman Spangenberg and Commissioner Meeker, the Central railroad was persuaded to subscribe $1,000, and the Land Improvement company $1,500.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

Good Luck Does n't Always Follow the Horse Shoe.

Councilman Hetfield's little mare has been branded on the side with a horse shoe, and the legal member of the Big 6 thinks she will go through life hereafter without a drop of ill luck falling on her. But the wife of a prominent government official residing in this city picked up a horse shoe the day she arrived in Asbury Park this summer, and before night she had lost a set of valuable diamond buttons out of her baby's dress. No more horse shoes for her.

The way the Councilman's pretty mare was branded is unusual. She was being shod and stood with one of her front feet in the blacksmith's lap. Something startled her and as she jumped she fell. There was a hot horse shoe on the floor of the shop and as the mare's side pressed it the shape of it was seared in the skin forever.

A Big Real Estate Trade.

Charles H. Hand, the owner of the "Elkwood" building on West Second street, exchanged it to-day for the Crescent rink property on Broadway and Fourth street. The appraised value of the "Elkwood" building was $40,000. The Crescent property cost about the same.

Mr. Hand intends to put the rink building in thorough repair and offer it for rent at reasonable rates by the day or week. This is the only building in Plainfield where large balls, fairs, reunions, etc., can be held. Every entertainment given therein has made money. It is to be hoped that Mr. Hand will be encouraged by the public to maintain the building for such purposes, or the city must go without the pleasures of such large gatherings.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

A Colored Dog Case.

John Scudder, colored, claims that Henry Peterson, likewise colored, has killed two of his dogs, valued ot $25 apiece. He says that one of the dogs was in his own, Scudder's, cellar, when Peterson went into the cellar and shot it. He sues for $50 damages. The case will be reached in justice Nash's court in about two weeks.

LAYS OF NETHERWOOD.

I—THE POET.

At midnight hour a poet sat
With long, dishevelled hair,
That hung in ringlets 'neath his hat,
A picture of despair!

For Mr. Greenop, heartless man,
Had asked him if he could
Compose an ode for his programme,
A "Lay of Netherwood".

Perhaps 'twas due to selfconceit,
But still the youth unkempt
Would try to emulate the feat,
Or perish in th' attempt!

But, strange, so full of thought just now,
He wavered, scratched his head,
In vain the pucker on his brow—
His notions all had fled.

Night turned to morn, but yet he thought—
His paper still a blank,
While with despair his mind was fraught,
His spirits sank and sank.

Cluck, cluck, cluck-oh! the gameyard rang
With multifarious cries;
And as the work of day began,
The poet closed his eyes.

Cluck, cluck, cluck-oh! in slumber deep
His fancies far away,
The poet has gone fast asleep—
A hen will do the lay!

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE PRESS.]

HOTEL DEL CORONADO,
CORONADO BEACH, July 18, 1891.

It was in the breakfast room of the Coronado. Those of my Plainfield friends who have ever been in this lovely section know the spot—a bit of enchantment out of a new Arabian Nights. Never since Kubla Khan "a pleasure palace did decree" was there such a building as the Coronado in its entirety, and this piece of it—the breakfast room—is one of its many-sided perfections. I was watching the morning sun glinting through the spray of a palm-circled fountain while the waiter was absent on the affair of my matutinal meal. I make a business of breakfasting as one can well do at the Coronado. Withdrawing my eyes from the magic of the fountain [what is there in fountain, waterfall and stream that always compels the gaze?], I saw, only a few feet from me, Mrs. Harry Cone. Many persons who were at West Point on a June day not so very long ago, will remember Nathalie Fiske. We thought then the Paradise had opened and a Peri had come down. She was perfect physically, and "true womanly" besides, but the first years of her married life at a distant western outpost made her one of the inglorious army of invalids. After her return to New York she was so constantly under the care of the old family physician, so forbidden to do this, to eat that, to go thither, that it became a kind of merry greeting with her intimate friends to accost her with "Where is the Doctor?" I actually said these words in my surprise at seeing her in the breakfast room of the Coronado.

"He is not here;"—said she, laughing joyously—"nor are any of his rules, precepts, obligations or commands. Poor old gentleman! I hope that he has lost a patient, though never a friend, for he advised me to come here. There is self-sacrifice for you! A physician advising Coronado! Who says that self rules the present day!"

She has been here since April, when she came completely broken down, unable to bear mountain air or that of the Atlantic Coast, fearing that confinement to one room and helpless invalidism was her lot. She is almost well, now, with a new interest in life. It would seem miraculous, yet such are the miracles of this equable temperature, of this grand, pure Pacific, unspoiled by the sewage of great cities.

"Do newly married come here on the wedding tours?"—I asked of one of the people about the house. I asked the question because, being an observer, I had looked about for the very "off-hand young man", struggling in a perplexed way with small bags, shawls and parcels, and the young lady, painfully new in attire, watching him with blushing face and admiring eyes.

"They do"—he replied. "They come by tens, by scores. There has been a regiment of them here since January. It is, so to speak, their favorite stamping ground." "Why don't I see them?" "Well, the Coronado is the best place in the world for brides and grooms, because it is so large, so cosmopolitan, as it were. They get lost in the crowd, and as what distinguishes them from other people—their self-consciousness—gets lost in the crowd too, they pass unnoticed. We can tell them, generally. The way they register is a test, but they mingle among the guests very often without detection."

I thought that I would like to look for the brides. They are interesting as children are interesting—or as the man who has just struck oil: but Mr. Zander was right; I found them not. They were lost in the parties of bright, well dressed women to be seen on every side, and though my informant pointed to several names of suspected parties on the register I can't of my own knowledge say that I have seen a single bride—not one, at any rate, of the good old-fashioned conscious sort.

Speaking of striking oil reminds me that though the hills about SanDiego should pour forth rivers of oil there is coming to the SanDiego Bay region a flood of prosperity far excelling in permanent advantage the richest petroleum deposit that was ever unearthed. The work of grading the new railway which is to connect SanDiego with SanQuintin and Yuma has already been begun. The San-Diego Union, quoting Mr. Graham, who recently went to London to complete arrangements for the road, says: "The survey between these two points (SanQuintin and Colnett) is completed, and the corps of engineers are working this way. We shall send another corps from SanDiego south to meet them as soon as they can arrive. I have the contract for constructing the line between SanQuintin and Colnett, and also for $150,000 worth of work in SanQuintin bay. The English stockholders are enthusiastic over the road, and will push the work as rapidly as possible. There are no dudes among the board of directors; they are all practical, conservative, business men, two of them being members of Parliament. Mr. Henderson, who has the financial management of the line, and controls almost unlimited capital, has had charge of the Manchester Ship Canal, a work which cost $75,000,000. A steamer sailed from England the 16th of May having on board eighteen miles of iron and fastenings, one locomotive, ten flat-car steam derricks, etc. She will soon arrive in SanQuintin. That is the last rolling stock to be purchased in England; the rest is to be bought in America. I cannot tell just where the junction point to Yuma will be situated; that is a matter to be decided on. The next thing to be done is to secure the right of way from the head of the bay to TiaJuana. This, of course, cannot be done until the surveyors locate the line, but the moment that is done the work of construction will be begun. There is no enterprise in the country that has stronger financial backing, and the work will be completed as soon as men and money can do it."

Mr. Graham, who of late has been working on large contracts in Oregon, is with his wife a resident of Coronado.

The John D. Spreckels yacht, the sprightly and elegant Lurline, comes gliding into the bay now and again. The crew is always a merry one. As one of the owners of the Coronado and as vice president of the Coronado Beach Company, Mr. Spreckels has a proprietary pride and pleasure in visiting this place. Holidays such as Christmas and the ever glorious Fourth seldom pass without his presence and whenever he comes there is sure to be "something going on."

John D. Spreckels and E. S. Babcock [Mr. Babcock is president of the Coronado Beach Company] are names one often hears in this part of the country. They represent the energy, push, capital, and foresight that took this sandy peninsula, lying under the sun idle and unprofitable, with its sage brush and jack-rabbits, and made of it a garden of delights, and reared this costly pile for health-seekers, pleasure-seekers and business-opportunity-seekers. No wonder you hear their names frequently, and that there is reliance on what Babcock has done and speculation about what Spreckels is going to do. Whatever he may be going to do, he has recently done some very good bowling. He scored the largest number of points in a contest with the splendid team led by Chris Smith, of San Francisco, a few days ago in the Coronado alleys. He would be an an acquisition even to the Crescent League's crack team.

You have heard of the Texan who invited a friend whom he met on a train to "stop hyar in Texas an tear 'roun' a little". Just now the Texans seem to be "tearin' roun'" on the Coronado Mineral water. A large shipment has just been started for their hospitable State, and I am told that there is a steady demand for the water in nearly all the Gulf States. I don't wonder at it. This water is one of the great health agencies of the place—clear, sparkling, and a decided foe to liver and kidney diseases, best des being one of the most delicious table waters. The spring-house has lately been decorated from the abundant resources of the botanical gardens, and the sparkling water now flashes from a bower of encircling palms. When the new railway is built and freights come within sight in consequence, the water will be the fashion in New York, Plainfield and other eastern cities. Just now the freight ($4 or $5 a barrel) is rather too much to make a run on the spring from far eastern sources.

Gen. Greely, the chief of the signal service, took the weather a little by surprise on his recent visit. To tell the truth, it was raining quite smartly when he arrived. But we wiped our eyes, blued our skies, and put in our usual climatic repose; and I'm told, he expressed the wish that weather everywhere could be as reasonable and well-disposed. He could find little fault with the gentle even temperature here, 67 degrees at mid-day, while the east was baking with the thermometer anywhere from 85 degrees to 96 degrees. And every day is alike—so alike that when nature does pout a little and indulge in a cloud-wrinkle or so every one cries "Out upon her"—an unfair thing, but the way of the world. In any case, General Greely should have thought well of Coronado, for SanDiego gave him a wife, Miss Nesmith, daughter of a pioneer resident.

There is no "boom" in real estate at present, but frequent sales at good prices show the market to be in a healthy condition. All are agreed that prices will advance to stay. The tide of emigration from the east and northeast has set in and there is a steady increase in population from this source.

Since Warner called the panoramic view from Point Loma "the third grandest scene in the world", it has had no lack of pilgrims. Everyone goes, looks with more or less appreciation, and reiterates "the third grandest view!" A sailing party of nine ladies and gentlemen made the trip and returned in a little more than an hour. This was doing scenery with most notable economy of time. Perhaps it was praiseworthy, but the persons who boast of it might be expecting to be proud of eating dinner in five minutes. The scenery compels attention and requires time. The third most sacred place in the world for the feet of the pilgrim of the picturesque ought not to be visited with watch in hand. Fancy "Five minutes for this grand unrolling of sea and sky and land; five minutes for what you have come hundreds of miles to see. Just get your breath and back again, for the thing of most consequence is to be able to say that we did Point Loma in the shortest time known. Who will break the record?"

Deep-sea fishing from the Coronado Islands is as popular as ever. Some of my Plainfield piscatorial friends would go wild over the place. Parties go out almost daily. The luck, here as elsewhere, depends much on the angler. There is no "royal road" to catching fish, but there is the great blue sea, the wild, the free; its salt foam blows in your face; the beautiful, strange shells lie abandoned of their marine life on the shore; the hours fly swiftly; and one brings back to the hotel an appetite on which digestion waits, and sound sleep, too, as surely as night follows day.

I think that I never found July so enjoyable as this month has been at Coronado Beach, where every morning, at about 9 o'clock, there comes sweeping in from the ocean the most refreshing breezes, which last until nightfall, when they become cool winds from off the range of mountains to the eastward.

One of the best plans for advertising this unique climate is that adopted by Mr. Babcock in having the mid-day record of the thermometer placarded at the various stations of the Santa Fe and other railways. This record has been not far from "74 at noon" for some time.

The iron and steel plant, about which we have heard so much during the last month, will be built. The subsidy of $200,000 has been raised, and the work of construction will be begun within thirty days. This is another "sign of the times" in the San Diego Bay region. Together with the new railway, it marks a new era in the progress of San Diego. Dr. Eames, the father of the project, has declined subsidies of larger amounts from other places, preferring to locate his plant here, where he finds facility for his work.

While the Government has not yet begun the construction of the military post, its location has been practically decided on, and this will be, without doubt, on North Island, not very far from the Hotel del Coronado—not so far, at least, that the handsome young officers cannot spend seven evenings of the week in the society of the captivating young women who now, more than ever, will be attracted to the hotel.

PLAINFIELD TOURIST.

The Dillville Ball Team Defeats the "Actives" of Berkley Heights.

An interesting game of base-ball was played at Stirling, the former pasturage of the Rev. Arthur Cushing Dill, Saturday afternoon. A PRESS correspondent writes that the game was stolen from the "Actives" of Berkley Heights, by the Stirling team, through the successful efforts of a man named John Kelly who claimed he could umpire.

"When the Berkley Heights' boys saw how they were being robbed, they started in to bat out a victory in spite of the umpire. They would have succeeded had not the Dillville team refused to play any longer because of a little ten-minute shower."

The batteries were: Actives—Crane, R. Rogers, D. Rogers; Stirlings—Hamerlin, Goodwin. Rogers and Hamerlin each struck out 7. The score by innings:

Stirlings	5	1	0	0	2	0	0	0—8
Actives	0	2	1	1	1	0	0	0—5

Gettysburg.

The Passenger Department of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company has issued an attractive little book on "Gettysburg: Its Battlefields, Its Heroes and Its Monuments", which is an illustrated guide to that Mecca of patriotic Americans, and gives full information as to how it may be reached over the new and direct route by way of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. The book gives a clear and succinct account of the great battle, contains portraits of some of the commanders on either side, with views of many interesting points of the Battlefield and illustrations of a number of the handsome monuments which have been erected to commemorate the heroism of the troops engaged in the noted struggle. The book is neatly printed and bound in illuminated covers, and is issued free at the various ticket offices of the company.

Wreck on the Lehigh at Bound Brook.

At about 4 o'clock this morning, at Bound Brook, locomotive 412, on the Lehigh Valley railway, drawing a train of empty coal cars, ran into a loaded freight train, piling about a dozen cars up in a heap, and making splinters of them, besides doing considerable damage to the locomotive.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Ruff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Rebuilding the Big Bridge.

The Jersey Central railway company is engaged on the work of rebuilding the big bridge which crosses Newark Bay. Over five thousand piles are to be driven. The work necessitates the use of one track on a portion of the bridge, and the exercise of great care. The company has a large force of special watchmen and signal men employed.

The Fisher's Island Drills.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 29.—The naval drills off Fisher's Island are attracting a good deal of attention in that locality, and large numbers of people frequent the vicinity daily. Everything in the shape of water conveyance is monopolized.

The Davis Will Case.

BUTTE, Mont., July 29.—The Davis will case was up again to-day, and most of the time was taken up with arguing on procedure. The court decided to give the opening and closing to the proponents, giving the contestants the burden of proof.

A Stay for McElvaine and Trezza.

SING SING, N. Y., July 29.—The cases of Murderers McElvaine and Trezza have been taken to the United States Supreme Court on appeal. They were to have been executed this week. Arguments will not be heard until October.

Secretary Proctor Expected To-Night.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—It is expected that Secretary Proctor will return to the city for a few days to-night. There are several important matters awaiting his action in the War Department, including the appointment to second lieutenancies to the army of the civilians and non-commissioned army officers who may have passed their examination.

The Brokaws Leave Long Branch

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac V. Brokaw, parents of Frederick Brokaw, the Princeton College athlete, who was drowned here about a month ago while attempting to save the lives of three servant girls, have left for Moosehead Lake, Me., with their surviving children.

Thomas L. James for Governor.

TRENTON, N. J., July 29.—It is said that the Republicans of New Jersey are seriously considering the advisability of nominating ex-Postmaster-General Thos. L. James for Governor. Gen. James, since his retirement from the Cabinet of Gen. Garfield, has been a resident of New Jersey.

Dosed Him With Rum.

PITTSBURG, July 29.—Tommy Fay, aged 5 years, is dying at the St. Francis Hospital from the effects of liquor alleged to have been poured down his throat by his parents. The little fellow has been unconscious since Sunday. His parents were arrested and sent to the workhouse.

Arrested as Foreign Spies.

ROME, July 29.—Two Italians and one German were arrested at Como, Lombardy, for sketching and securing plans of the forts of that city. It is supposed that the men arrested were employed by foreign governments to obtain the plans of a number of important Italian fortifications.

Want Their Share of the Estate.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 29.—Andrew Miller died 28 years ago and left $150,000 to be divided among his two sons' children at their majority. James Miller's children, whom the defendants claim are illegitimate, have brought suit to recover their share of the property.

W. K. Vanderbilt Seized With Vertigo.

NEWPORT, July 28.—Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt was seized with something like vertigo while bathing at Bailey's Beach, and had to be assisted home in the carriage of a lady passing by.

Secretary Rusk for President.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 29.—Uncle Jerry Rusk is the latest candidate for the Presidency. He will in all probability go to the next national convention with Wisconsin's solid delegation at his back. Messrs. Spooner and Payne look favorably upon Mr. Rusk's candidacy.

Two Men Killed by Lightning.

WARREN, Pa., July 29.—John Lumason and Edward Caldwell were seated under a tree watching a ball game. Lightning struck the tree and both men were killed.

Not Much of a Reception.

A Texas merchant sent his clerk for the twentieth time to the residence of a prominent citizen to collect a bill.

"Did you get anything?" asked the merchant on the return of the clerk.

"Nothing at all. They told me to come into the reception room, as usual, but I didn't receive anything."—Texas Siftings.

A Remarkable Exploit.

Plain Citizen (to editor of Dinkeyville Clarion)—Why do you call Wahoo a prominent and influential citizen? He has never done anything worth noticing.

Editor—Hasn't hey? Gosh Almighty, man! He has just paid me two years' subscription in advance!—Brooklyn Life.

Has Advantages.

"I tell you, Bill," said Smoky Mike, the burglar, "we hard-workin' thieves don't make half as much money out o' the business as them dude bank presidents and Pennsylvania officials."

"That's so, Smoky," returned Bill. "An' that just shows the value of eddication, which I has frequently remarked."—Puck.

Summer Outers.

Average Woman—How am I know which is poison ivy and which isn't?

Average Man—By looking at it, of course. How else would you know? One has three leaves and the other five. Every man of sense knows that, and I don't see why women shouldn't.

"Yes, I know, my dear, but which kind is the poison kind?"

"Why, you goosey, the three-leaf, of course, or the five-leaf, I forget which."—N. Y. Weekly.

Letting Him Down Easier.

Proprietor Ink Works—Mr. Shearer, that last bill of fifty dollars has been running for nearly a year. Now, I'll tell you what I propose to do. I'm going to receipt the bill and make you a present of it.

Editor "County Trumpet"—Oh, thanks; thanks! I couldn't think of accepting such a large present. Just give me ten dollars and I'll owe you the bill.—Judge.

His Little Joke.

"I feel like a woodpile after a hard winter, your honor," he murmured, as he rose from the bench and faced his accusers.

"How's that?" kindly inquired the judge.

"All used up, your honor."

"Sixty days to recuperate," smiled the court, and it came to pass.—Detroit Free Press.

A Check of Another Sort.

Chinner—I hear that Miss Roxy's papa gave a check for ten thousand dollars when she was married last week.

Codling—Speaking of wedding-checks, I received one myself last night.

Chinner—Indeed?

Codling—Yes; I asked Miss Scadds to marry me, and she said no.—Judge.

Too Bad.

A Jovial Spirit.

Mrs. Dix—Your husband was a great joker, wasn't he, Mrs. Whittaker?

Mrs. Whittaker—Awful, and such slang; when I meet him beyond the grave I expect him to push his crown on the back of his head, slap me on the back and yell: "Ah, there, White Wings."—Jury.

In Danger of His Life.

Chappie—Mawn, Cholly. How's Pelham to-day?

Cholly—Vewy low, deah boy. He was attacked by a second and more seveah idea lawst night, and he's dweadful weak to-day.—Life.

Not Worth Hearing.

He—Now, remember, Miss Kitty; what I am going to tell you is a secret, and you must keep it.

She—Then you had better let it go. What is a secret to me if I can't tell it?—Jury.

Nautical.

Thirsty Acquaintance—What! Another glass? You drink like—like a leaky ship.

Thirsty Physician—No, sir. I drink like a dry dock.—Chicago Tribune.

Fully Explained.

City Boarder—I notice you keep a big bar of soap outside by the pump. Is it for the farm hands, I presume?

Rural Hostess—Yes, farm hands and faces.—N. Y. Weekly

IT IS NOT

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1886.

READY FOR NEWPORT.

Polo Players in Readiness for the Next Meeting.

The Newport Games to Come Off Next Month—Something About the Personality of the Players—"Foxy" Keene at the Head.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Now that the preliminary bouts are settled at Rockaway, Westbury, Morristown and other country club centers, the polo players of the entire country are looking forward to the great series of games to be played in Newport on the grounds of the Westchester Polo club between the 17th and the 19th of next month. One of these contests will decide the possession of the Newport cups for teams of four, an event of special interest, as it is played without handicap and will be won by the strongest team in America.

If there is any misinformed individual who really thinks that the rich young men of the country are going to the dogs for lack of courage and physical vigor he ought to see a few polo games. It would do him good. Polo is the rich man's game. A poor man can't stand the expense of the ponies and the traveling. The heirs of many millions meet and cavort and wheel and plunge and scuffle on the spongy turf of the polo ground. Now and again one of them is thrown in the heat of the turmoil, but nobody minds that in the least. If a pony steps on him the others console themselves by reflecting that the little beast doesn't weigh much and press on for the coveted goal. The quick swinging of mallets in a scrimmage, the smashing of their long and slender handles, the shock of men and ponies and hurry of hoofs make a spectacle rather more interesting than a baseball match.

Everybody knows that Theodore Roosevelt, civil service commissioner and ex-polo player and fox hunter, broke his arm at a Long Island fence following the anise seed trail, and that Stanley Mortimer, a more recent participant, has only just recovered from a broken leg at the same rough sport. Perhaps polo is less provocative of serious fractures than hunting, though Dallett, of the Essex county club, has just been laid up for a month, but more ignoble knocks and bruises must certainly be received. Take the long season from July 8 to October 18—more than four months—and in the almost continuous games of the different series a very large number of minor accidents are expected as a matter of course. I remember very well a furious rally in the games at the Meadow Brook club's grounds when two out of the eight players, Mr. Cowden and Mr. Beeckman, were down almost at the same moment. But, however much these accidents might frighten the timid, the polo players will probably live longer than dry goods clerks, besides enjoying themselves much better while they do live.

Polo playing is a very exclusive sport. The onlookers are always comparatively few and altogether select. The American Polo association includes 15 clubs, probably all that exist in the country. How many individual members this may represent is hard to say, some of the clubs being much larger than others; but it is certain that the number of active players is far below 500. They are much less than the fox hunters. Fat and elderly gentlemen can follow the hounds with a reasonable degree of circumspection, but they have no business in the polo field. So the number of players is few, but they make up for that fact by the display of a surprising amount of energy.

Of all the players Foxhall Keene, or "Foxy," as he is better known, is the most daring and fertile of resource, as well as the best known to the public. Young Keene has made a fine record as a "gentleman jockey" in steeple chases, and is known on the race track as the owner of Tournament and other crack horses. Keene is light and athletic in build, a perfect devil on horseback for daring, and can dispute the decision of the umpire—"referee" they call him in polo—with as much vigor as big Capt. Anson, of the Chicagos. He is handicapped at ten goals in playing match games.

Keene belongs to the Rockaway polo club, which is perhaps as strong an organization as any in the country. He is ably seconded in it by John E. Cowden, handicapped at eight goals, Jack Cheever and William Rutherford, with L. J. Franke, J. S. Stevens, A. C. Tower and W. La Montague as clever and aspiring seconds.

The Winchester club is distinctly inferior to the Rockaways. Its crack player is R. L. Beeckman, of the old Knickerbocker stock. A young player of the Winchesters who is showing in surprisingly good form this year is Mr. C. F. Bates. Theodore A. Havemeyer, Jr., son of the great sugar trust magnate, is another crack player, and R. C. Potter usually makes with these a team of four who play well together.

August Belmont, of the Meadowbrooks, is another crack, officially handicapped at six goals. Old August Belmont had two sons—one went in for politics, and the other for sport. Both were cases of inheritance, as Mr. Belmont, Sr., was active both in political campaigns and on the turf. T. Hitchcock, handicapped at eight goals, is another of the Meadowbrook team. O. W. Bird, a director, of the national association, handicapped at six goals, is the third, and R. D. Winthrop the fourth. Playing without handicaps the Rockaway team, headed by Keene and Cowden, is probably the best in the country. Two other experts about New York are S. P. Farr, of the Essex club, and L. Furnure, Jr., of Rockaway. Philadelphia looks with pride upon H. C. Groom and H. P. McKean among others.

The geographical distribution of polo is not very wide. The New York vicinity has, besides the three which have been named, the Oyster Bay polo club, the Essex County (N. J.) polo club, the Morris County (N. J.) Country club and the Tuxedo club, all of which were founded by New York men at their different summer homes. Philadelphia has a country club named by its honorable name, with a suburban retreat; Boston has the Hingham and Harvard clubs, and the incredibly-named Myopia—that really is its title, though it is usually hard to convince people of the fact. They always think it is a poor joke on the Bostonian spectacles.

These are the clubs which will contest here at Newport for the Westchester polo club cups, handicap, and the Newport cups, without handicap. If preponderance of numbers goes for anything, some of the New Yorkers ought to win the honors of the coming meet. After the Newport games the polo players will go to the Myopia grounds, near Boston, in early September, and to the Hingham grounds in the middle of the month. The Philadelphia Country club will have its games the last ten days of September. The last series of matches will be played on the Morris county grounds in early October, but the Meadowbrook club's autumn cup will be fought for and awarded even later, at a date not yet definitely fixed. Play began in June, practice much earlier. The country season in America is certainly extending in length. It is not known that there was any such thing in colonial times, but of late it has extended very rapidly from two months to six with those who can afford it.

The business of breeding and selling polo ponies has developed with the game. The points of a polo pony are so different from those required of any other species of animal that he is a kind apart. Speed is not required, but the pony must be quick at turning. Size is a disadvantage, as it puts the rider farther from the ball. Besides, almost any man would rather have a little horse fall on his leg than a big one. The pony must be sagacious, perfectly docile, capable of enjoying the game on his own account. All these qualifications are combined in the best ponies, who readily sell at from $300 to $700. A crack player must have more than one to be sure of a mount always.

Polo is in no great danger of becoming the national game for reasons obvious. But for the development and exhibition of pluck there is no sport which surpasses it. I have a very high appreciation of the pluck of the young men who engage in it, and quite agree with the lovers of the game in the belief that is better for young men of leisure to chase each other about a polo field whacking a ball with a long-handled mallet than to pursue the more usual amusements of dudes and "Johnnies" when in town. Of course polo came to us from England, but England sends us nothing but blessings when we borrow from her thousand years of leisure an out-game or two. Indeed, if one considers baseball a direct descendant of the English "rounders," America has had time, so far, to develop no original athletic exercise whatever except chewing tobacco, and that might well be dispensed with.

Insect Bites.

Most of us will soon be wishing for some effectual remedy for mosquito bites. The Medical Review states that one of the very best applications for the bites of mosquitoes and flies, also for other eruptions attended with intense itchings, is Menthol in alcohol, one part to ten. This is very cooling and immediately effectual. It is also an excellent lotion for application to the forehead and temples in headache, often at once subduing the same.

Getting a Library.

"I think, too, sir," said the salesman, "that you ought to have a complete set of Thackeray's works."

"All right, put 'em in," returned Nubuddy. "Let's see. That reduces the space how much? What's Thackry's width?"—Puck.

"LIKE A FROST-BLIGHTED FLOWER,"

The fair young sufferer perishes, and often from causes unknown to the world, but superficial judgment, founded on appearances, takes this form of expression, "died of quick consumption," while in nine cases out of ten it should be, "died from carelessness." Mothers, look to your daughters. Daughters, look to yourselves.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound will restore you to health and happiness. It is a positive cure for all those weaknesses and ailments incident to women. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

QUAY HAS RETIRED

No Longer a Member of the National Committee.

COL. DUDLEY ALSO RESIGNS.

Gen. J. S. Clarkson Selected for the National Chairmanship.

Garret A. Hobart of New Jersey Made Vice-Chairman—A November Meeting to Determine the Time of the National Convention—Senator Faulets Appointed Collector of New York.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Behind the closed doors of the room in the Arlington House where the executive committee of the Republican National Committee held its session last night, Matthew Stanley Quay tendered his resignation as a member and chairman of both the executive committee and the National Committee in a note containing the information that he had sent to the Pennsylvania State Committee his resignation as the representative of that State in the National organization.

W. W. Dudley, the treasurer of the National Committee also tendered his resignation of that office and the executive committee adopted eulogistic resolutions setting forth the service of Senator Quay and Col. Dudley and expressing regret at their action.

The resignations of Chairman Quay and Treasurer Dudley were then formally laid on the table and accepted, subject to the approval of the full Republican National Committee at its next meeting.

Mr. Clarkson was elected chairman of the executive committee, and Mr. Hobart was elected vice-chairman in the place of Mr. Clarkson, the chairman being authorized to select a treasurer to succeed Mr. Dudley.

Mr. Clarkson will act, as chairman of the national committee until a meeting of that body can be held to elect a successor to Senator Quay.

The most important business of the session was the action of the committee in authorizing its chairman and secretary to call a meeting of the entire national committee, at such place and time in November as they may select, for the purpose of deciding on the place where the next national convention shall be held.

WHY ERHARDT RESIGNED.

He Sets at Rest All Rumors by Making a Statement.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Speculation as to Collector Erhardt's reasons for his abrupt resignation was set at rest to-day by Col. Erhardt himself, who made the following statement:

"I have resigned because the Collector is reduced to a position where he is no longer an independent officer with authority commensurate with his responsibility. I have given bonds for $200,000. I have received for the government during the 20 months last past $322,691.95. 135.40 and am all the time personally responsible for enormous values in money and in merchandise. My duties are necessarily performed through about 1,500 employes. I am not willing to continue to be responsible for their conduct unless I have proper authority over them.

"The recent policy of the Treasury Department has been to control the details of the customs administration of the port of New York from Washington at the dictation of a private individual, having no official responsibility. The Collector is practically deprived of power and control, while he is left subject to all responsibility. The office is no longer independent, and I am. Therefore we have separated."

As soon as he is relieved from the Collectorship, he will join his family in the New Hampshire hills.

Senator Fassett Appointed Collector.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 30.—The President has accepted the resignation of Collector of the Port of New York Joel B. Erhardt, to take effect Aug. 1, and has appointed as his successor Senator J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y.

PEFFER'S PLAIN TALK.

The Great Red Dragon in Wall Street Wants Its Teeth Pulled.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex., July 30.—Senator Peffer was the orator of the Farmers' encampment here. More than 4,000 people were present to hear the Kansas Senator.

He wanted the government to loan the people money at 2 per cent to lift 9,000,000 mortgages, and he pull the teeth and close the mouth of the great red dragon in Wall street. He proposed to do this with fiat money, issued directly to the people who had mortgaged their homes.

His speech lasted two hours, and he closed by saying that the People's party would finally elect the President, House and Senate, and if the Supreme Court was not with them they would make another.

An Old Counterfeiter Sentenced.

ERIE, Pa., July 30.—When Judge Reed opened Circuit Court here Chauncey Marble, the aged and wealthy lumberman, whose escape was attempted by Columbus friends, came into court and pleaded guilty to the indictment charging him with having counterfeit money in his possession. Marble is 65 years old. Judge Reed sentenced him to pay a fine of $50 and undergo a term of two years in the Allegheny penitentiary.

Want $12,000 for a Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—A telegram was sent to Jimmy Carroll by the Pacific Athletic Club last night offering a purse of $6,000 for Hall and Fitzsimmons to fight here. Carroll refused the offer, demanding $12,000. The California Club had offered $6,000. The clubs announce that they will not give $12,000.

WANT TO LYNCH HIM.

Katie Gorgano's Murderer in Danger of Being Hanged.

HAZLETON, Pa., July 30.—When Giuseppe De Comali, accused of the murder of Katie Gorgano, stepped off the train at the depot he saw a crowd of excited people that blocked up the platform and extended across the street.

When the crowd caught sight of him they made a rush and cries of "Lynch him!" were heard.

The officers who had him in charge were pushed against the car with their prisoner, and all the crowd wanted to carry out their purpose was a leader.

The police after considerable difficulty succeeded in pushing their way through and hurried Comali into one of the upper rooms of the depot, where he was given a hearing. The evidence against him is mainly circumstantial. He was held in $1,000 bail.

When the news of Comali's capture reached Latimer, the home of the murdered girl, the Italians threatened to come to Hazleton and hack him to pieces. The mine officials succeeded in quieting them.

William Dennis and Salvatore D. Sandola, two prominent Italians, asked the police to surrender Comali to a society composed of Italians, of which they are the principal officers. They said that the society was determined to hang Comali as a warning to other lawless Italians, and if necessary they would go the Williamsbarre and take him out of court and do it.

CAPT. ARMES PARDONED.

He Insulted Gov. Beaver During the Inauguration of President Harrison.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 30.—The President has pardoned Capt. George J. Armes, U. S. A., under sentence of court-martial for conduct unbecoming an officer and general. The offense was committed during the inauguration of President Harrison.

Capt. Armes had some difficulty with the Pennsylvania troops. He afterwards met Gov. Beaver in his hotel and publicly insulted him. Court-martial sentenced him to be dismissed from the service. The President commuted the sentence so far as to require Armes to confine himself within an area of 50 miles of Washington, D. C.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN COURT.

Col. Ingersoll Makes Charges of Forgery in the Davis Will Contest.

HELENA, Mont., July 30.—Col. Robert G. Ingersoll concluded his great opening speech in behalf of the New York heirs in the Davis will contest. He made out a great case, and boldly charges the forgery on James R. Eddy, of Iowa.

He pointed out where scores of words were misspelt in the alleged spurious will, while Davis himself always wrote the same words correctly. He will prove that the phraseology of the contested will came from a legal book, issued since the date of the will, and which contain an error copied into the will.

The speech and charges were extremely dramatic, and produced a great sensation.

Rich Coal Strike.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., July 30.—In Dodson Colliery, operated by John J. Haddock & Co., of New York city, the Ross vein was struck last evening after 12 months' driving through solid rock. Eight feet of clear coal is in sight, and the colliery could be worked for 20 years before searching for other veins.

Mother Di Pazzi Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 30.—Mother Di Pazzi died at the Convent of Mercy last evening. Deceased was born in County Clare, Ireland, and entered the Convent of Mercy at Providence, R. I., in 1885. She was sent to Rochester in 1887. Mother Di Pazzi was one of the oldest nuns in the city.

Union Men Receive Warning.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 30.—General Manager Milliken gives notice in the daily papers that unless the 800 striking hands of the Pottsville Iron and Steel Company's mill return to work within two weeks the mill will be closed to them forever, and non-union men will fill their places under police protection.

Killed by Swallowing a Pin.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—While in Paris with her parents four years ago, Martha Frick, then aged two years, swallowed a pin. Yesterday she died at Cresson Springs as the result. She was the daughter of Henry C. Frick the millionaire coke operator and steel manufacturer.

Accepts Under Protest.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The Western Union Telegraph Company has accepted $166,000 on approved bills at the rates fixed by the Postmaster-General, entering a protest until the legal questions are settled.

Bank Robbery at Sag Harbor.

NEW YORK, July 30.—During the morning while the employes of the Peconic Bank at Sag Harbor were watching the passing of a procession, a thief entered the bank and grabbed a package containing $3,500 with which he escaped.

DUEL WITH RAZORS

Colored Farm Hands Carve Each Other Like Demons.

ONE OF THE MEN WAS KILLED

The Survivor Tells His Story of the Awful Battle.

They Fought in a Room Eight Feet Square—The Dead Man Mangled Almost Beyond Recognition—Thirty Wounds On His Slayer's Body—An Inquest Held by the Coroner and a Verdict Rendered.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Doud Boucon and Thomas Channel, negro farm hands ant Glen Head, L. I., fought a duel with razors in their sleeping room in an old farm house about midnight.

Channel was killed and Boucon was desperately wounded and just alive when found in the morning.

The two men occupied a room about eight feet square. They went to bed at the usual time. Just exactly what happened nobody knows.

Boucon's version of the affair is that they quarreled before going to bed. Subsequently he was awakened to find Channel sitting on him, and, though it was dark in the room, he could see that Channel was brandishing a razor. He grappled with Channel and the two fell on the floor, Boucon on top.

Fought Like Demons.

Both men fought like demons, each receiving terrible wounds. Boucon remembers nothing after that except that he regained his senses sufficiently to crawl back into bed, where he was found.

Boucon has over 30 gashes on his head and neck, one within an eighth of an inch of the jugular vein. He also received a gash a foot long across the abdomen, nearly disemboweling him.

Terribly Mangled.

But Boucon's injuries are nothing compared to Channel's. The dead man is mangled almost beyond recognition from his head to his waist. Everything in the room was covered with blood, streams of which ran through the floor to the room below.

Boucon's wounds were dressed, and it is thought that there is a chance of his recovery.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Channel was killed in self defense. Two razors, a big knife and a club were found in the room where the fight took place.

WORKMEN IN AN ACCIDENT.

A Big Mill in Course of Erection Collapses at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—The new puddling mill of the Pittsburg Oil Well Supply Company, on Second avenue, collapsed during the morning, killing B. Corkin and an unknown Hungarian laborer and seriously injuring J. Parker, Geo. Baker, George Lemon, F. Schmidt and J. Cobra. Several other workmen were painfully injured.

Forty-two men were working at the time of the accident. About thirty employes of the Elba Iron Mills were standing below watching the progress of the work.

Without any warning the massive structure came down with a frightful crash, carrying with it several furnace stacks, heavy iron stringers and beams. A falling beam snapped a large steam pipe, and in less than a second a tremendous volume of steam was pouring out upon the men imprisoned in the wreck.

The workmen in the mills rushed to the rescue of their companions. When the steam was shut off the dead and injured were quickly recovered.

The building was 193 feet long and 106 wide. The upright frame was just finished and the workmen were placing the roof stringers in position.

The plant was formerly owned by the Elba Iron and Bolt Company. The loss will be heavy.

Trying to Smuggle a Crew.

LISBON, July 30.—The Spanish Consul here has been informed that there are Spaniards imprisoned on board the Chilian cruiser Errazuriz. It is also known that several Portuguese were smuggled abroad the cruiser during the night. It is believed the Government will order that the cruiser be searched before she departs.

Two Thrown from a Buggy.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 30.—While Wm. Nesbitt and wife were driving on the road near South Kortright, Delaware County, during the morning, the horse took fright and ran away, overturning the buggy and throwing the occupants on the hard road. Both are internally injured, and little hope is entertained of their recovery.

Damage by High Surf.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 30.—The heavy surf has eaten into the bluff here, and fully three feet of the roadway has caved in directly in front of the Howland Hotel, where recent encroachments of the sea had already made it very narrow.

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

The Nuptial Knot Tied by a Justice on the Suspension Bridge.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 30.—Henry Bird of Newark, N. J., aged about 50 years, and Miss Carrie Scudder, who cannot be more than half that, were the contracting parties in a romantic marriage last night.

As the sun was sinking the couple, together with Justice Russell and a curious crowd, repaired to the center of the Suspension Bridge where, amid the falling spray and the thunder of the cataract, the justice tied the nuptial knot.

A banquet at the Casino followed, where everyone who called was made welcome.

YELLOW FEVER IN CANADA.

Two Deaths on the Norwegian Bark Neptune, from Rio Janeiro.

MONTREAL, July 30.—The Norwegian bark Neptune, from Rio Janeiro for Quebec, was picked up in the Gulf of St. Lawrence short handed, with yellow fever on board, and was at once towed to Grosse Island Quarantine. There were two deaths on the passage, yet Capt. Sorenson went into Sydney, C. B., without reporting having had sickness on board.

There he received orders to proceed to Quebec, and was allowed to depart uninspected by the health officers. An investigation will be held by the Dominion government.

Culvert Washed Out and Train Wrecked.

CHARLESTOWN, Md., July 30.—Great damage was done to crops in this section by the washing out of the culvert on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad. South-bound freight train No. 177 ran into the washout and was wrecked. Wm. Setterfield, of Philadelphia, head brakeman was thrown from the top of a car and his skull was fractured. He will die. The washout was caused by a cloudburst.

Death of Rev. Dr. Kidder.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 30.—Rev. Dr. Daniel P. Kidder, formerly of this place, died at his home at Evanston, Ill., yesterday, aged 76 years. He was a member of the New Jersey annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was also editor of Sunday School publications of that church, and for many years was a missionary to Brazil.

Grand Lodge Election.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., July 30.—The Grand Lodge Good Templars of Pennsylvania elected the following officers: Grand Chief Templar, W. H. Morgan; Vice-Templar, Laura Rudy; Grand Secretary, C. E. Steele; Grand Treasurer, Annie J. Weichman; Grand Counselor, Hon. T. K. Stubbs. The next meeting of the Grand Lodge will be held in Pittsburg.

Will Favor Senator Gorman.

BALTIMORE, July 30.—It is generally stated here that the Democratic State convention in session this afternoon will adopt resolutions pledging the support of the party in the State Legislature to the re-election of United States Senator Gorman.

Left a Fortune of $9,000,000.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 30.—Hon. Henry G. Hubbard, president of the Russell Manufacturing Company and the Middletown National Bank, died last evening, aged 77 years. He leaves a fortune estimated at $9,000,000.

Hundreds Dying from Cholera.

LONDON, July 30.—Advices received from Mecca state that the death rate from cholera is 140 a day at that place and at Djeddah 80 daily.

A Wealthy Citizen Found Perishing in a Cave.

SENSATION IN JEANNETTE, PA.

Two of the Gang Implicated in the Kidnapping Arrested.

They Are Captured After a Shooting Conflict Behind Trees—A Belief that Other Missing Persons Will be Found Dead or Alive in the Den—A Thorough Search to be Made in the Morning.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 30.—Joel Moore, a wealthy citizen of Jeannette, who mysteriously disappeared several days ago, was discovered during the morning lying half famished and nearly perished in a damp cave in a lonely ravine some distance south of that place. He was tenderly carried home, but suffering severely from starvation and the exposure from which he had undergone.

The whereabouts of the old gentleman was disclosed by the arrest of Joseph and Madison Johnston, the two notorious speak-easy proprietors, who were captured through the extraordinary efforts of five officers after a shooting conflict from behind trees.

The Johnston brothers had been terrorizing the community for over a year, and their headquarters south of Jeannette had been a loafing place for toughs of a most desperate character. On the evening of the disappearance of Mr. Moore he was seen in the company of one of the Johnstons. He was known to have a large some of money with him, and when he failed to return home that night his friends became greatly alarmed and at once instituted a search.

All sorts of dark rumors began to be circulated. The officials finally made a descent upon the Johnston place, and the two brothers were captured, together with several of their associates. One of the men taken became frightened at the threats of the officers and revealed the place where the old man was hidden. His money was gone and he had been roughly treated. If he had not been discovered death would have soon occurred.

These revelations have caused an astonishing sensation. During the last six months there have been several mysterious disappearances from Jeannette and vicinity. A searching party, accompanied by officers, is to make a thorough search of the cave and ravine in the morning in the hope of making additional discoveries.

In the effort to arrest the Johnston brothers Constable Watshon's officers, Pitts and Fritz of Jeannette, and County Detective Alcorn, had lively work. Madison was arrested without any trouble, but Joe resisted and fled behind a big tree. Drawing a revolver he compelled Watshon and Alcorn to get behind trees. About a dozen shots were exchanged before Joe's ammunition ran out. He and Madison were then brought here and placed in jail, Joe being held in $1,200 and Madison in $500 bail.

DILLON AND O'BRIEN FREE.

The Irish Leaders Released from Prison This Morning.

DUBLIN, July 30.—Messrs. John Dillon and William O'Brien are out of prison. Their term expired this morning.

The National Federation has arranged for the presentation of addresses to the patriots from the evicted tenants in whose interests they incurred the animosity of Mr. Balfour at Tipperary, and from other bodies of the people in all parts of the country.

Popular rejoicings will occur everywhere, with illuminations and bonfires and all sorts of demonstrations.

Both the imprisoned members of Parliament are to enjoy an interval of quiet before entering the lists once more for Ireland, and the present lull in the political fighting offers them a good opportunity of doing so. They will take no prominent part in politics for some time to come, and they prefer to leave the thorny problem of the future leadership of the Irish party to simmer awhile, until the people come to some definite idea concerning it.

SEVEN NIHILISTS KILLED.

Desperate Resistance of Two Hours With St. Petersburg Police.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 30.—The police have arrested 28 officers and 26 Nihilists connected with a conspiracy to kill the Czar and force the young Czarewitch to establish a constitutional monarchy.

The Nihilists were arrested only after a desperate resistance of two hours, in which they used revolvers freely. The military assisted the police.

Seven Nihilists were killed in the struggle, and seven escaped.

Weavers on Strike Again.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 30.—The officials of the Dobson mill insisted on discharging some of the hands engaged in the late strike and the remainder resented. The strike has been resumed. With the exception of thirty-five old hands and twenty-two imported weavers all the hands have struck. Matters are in as bad a state as when the first strike was inaugurated.

Water Didn't Agree With Him.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30.—A drummer for a New York champagne house, while under the influence of liquor, fell asleep in a bath tub of cold water in the Plankinton House. He was found by a chambermaid eight hours later, unconscious and half dead. The water had shrivelled up his hands and feet and stiffened his joints until he was quite helpless. He was revived with difficulty.

Ex-Speaker Reed Back from Europe.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed was among the passengers arriving on the steamer City of New York from Liverpool.

Pure is one thing; wholesome, another. Pure arsenic is not wholesome. Pure ammonia, pure white clay, or pure alum cannot make a wholesome baking powder, even if it is called "absolutely pure."

Every housekeeper knows that pure cream of tartar, pure soda, pure flour, are wholesome. These three ingredients, and these three only, are used in Cleveland's Baking Powder. Cleveland's is pure and wholesome; it leavens most, and leavens best, but its special excellence is that it is perfectly wholesome.

THE CZAR'S MESSAGE.

He Tells President Carnot that He is Delighted With the French Fleet.

PARIS, July 30.—The newspapers are teeming with praise of the Czar and his generous hospitality to the French officers now visiting St. Petersburg. The following is the text of the telegram which was sent from the banquet held at the Peterhof Palace by the Czar to President Carnot: "The presence in my harbor of Cronstadt of a French fleet is fresh testimony to the profound sympathy uniting France and Russia. I have at heart, and express to you, my warm satisfaction on this account."

A Berlin dispatch to Le Petit Journal says that the enthusiastic reception of the French fleet at Cronstadt is almost the sole topic of discussion in that city, and the occasion is viewed with seriousness very different from the ridicule which used to be heaped on the efforts of France to win the goodwill of Russia. The decidedly warlike aspect of everything connected with the affair has aroused no little anxiety, it is stated, in the highest quarters.

EXCITING RACE ISSUE.

Colored Children Will be Sent to the White Schools.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 30.—For the past 24 years this borough has supported separate colored schools, and for the last 15 years only a hard fight from time to time has prevented the blacks from attending the white public schools.

The action of the borough school board last night in refusing to elect a teacher favored by the colored people has led them to decide on entering the white schools when they open on Oct. 1. They now declare that nothing will stop them, as the law permits them to go.

A large portion of the white population of the town is much excited over the matter, and declare that if the blacks are to go to the white schools they will not send their children. The colored population of this place is fully 1,500.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Gold yesterday at Buenos Ayres was quoted at 317 per cent. premium.

The marriage of Mr. Lincoln's daughter to Mr. Isham will occur in September.

William Vernkamp, of Hoboken, N. J., was found dead on the railroad track at Vincennes, Ind.

Maj.-Gen. John M. Schofield and wife left Chicago last evening for the East. They are in the best of health.

Some Danzig officials have discovered that bacillary infection can be communicated by the "membranes" of telephones.

The Canadian House of Commons at Ottawa rejected Sir Richard Cartwright's reciprocity amendment to the proposed tariff changes.

Governor Hill's reprieve of murderer Wayman, in jail at Geneseo, N. Y., is thought to indicate a final commutation to life imprisonment.

The New York "Herald" has been indicted by the New York Grand Jury for publishing an account of the quadruple electrocution at Sing Sing.

Louis Robinowitz, a Russian Jew aged 16 years, committed suicide at New Haven, Conn., yesterday. Despondent over failure to procure work.

The reciprocity treaty between the United States and San Domingo has been signed and will be proclaimed by the President in the early part of next month.

At the Lord Mayor's banquet in London Lord Salisbury complimented Mr. Balfour and congratulated the Conservative party on the condition of affairs in Great Britain and throughout Europe.

The Big Four Railroad strike among the union switchmen at Springfield, O., has been settled by the men going to work at the old wages. The blockade of the freight, which had assumed serious proportions, has been raised.

The City Hotel at Portland, Me., owned by Mr. E. C. Sweet, is financially embarrassed. A meeting of the creditors has been called. The cause of the trouble, Mr. Sweet says, is the liquor law which is driving away trade from the house.

Captain William J. Saunders of the new American "whale back" steamer, Charles Wetmore, died suddenly at Liverpool during the morning. He was found lying dead in his berth when the officers of the steamer entered his stateroom at an early hour.

The business men of Johnstown, Pa., held a meeting and voted unanimously to institute proceedings at once against the South Fork Club for damages sustained by the great flood. Another meeting will be held to-morrow when funds will be subscribed to defray the legal expenses.

THE DAILY PRESS.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—What you require you will find at Peck's store.

—This wet weather stops labor on the water-works system.

—"The best seat in the house for 75 cents," is one of the new features of Music Hall.

—The Merits of this city will play the Scotch Plains base-ball team next Saturday afternoon at 2:30, on the Scotch Plains grounds.

—Serg't Dunn of the weather bureau promises the Netherwood guests a fair evening, this evening, for their annual promenade concert and dance.

—The Water Supply Company have now more than ten miles of pipe laid and in perfect condition, ready to have the water from their big stand-pipe turned on.

—Reserved seats for Cleveland's minstrel show at Music Hall, next Monday evening, are on sale at the Central pharmacy, corner of Front street and Park avenue.

—The reason it rained so hard this morning was because the Immanuel Baptist church people had planned to go to Boynton Beach. The excursion was postponed to August 13.

—The Methodist Zion camp-meeting is to be held Sunday at Boynton Beach. Eloquent preachers and a fine choir are some of the attractive accompaniments. Old-fashioned camp-meeting hymns are to be sung.

—The Harkinstown Messenger's scorer is almost as stupid as some in this city. He credits Hammill with only two strike-out in last Saturday's game, when Roberts struck out twice himself, and Carbonell once.

—A number of West Seventh street residents have taken time by the forelock and have made all connections and plumbing arrangements ready to have water from the Water Supply Company's pipes turned into their houses.

—The Westfield Leader says that for the town of Mt. Ararat to be called Ripleyville is an "unworthy insinuation", and it thinks that McLaughlinville is a "derogatory appellation". So it is going to invent a name for Plainfield!

—The trial of Michael Lee, the tramp, who stabbed W. J. Winges, of Dunellen, on June 5, is to take place at New Brunswick, to-morrow. A number of Dunellen men, who aided in the capture of the tramp, have been subpenaed to appear as witnesses.

—A rock the size of a goose-egg was hurled through a window of Reform Hall last evening, during the progress of the Salvation Army meeting. It smashed Charles Raybert's hat. Raybert ran out and saw two men running down the street, but did not identify them.

—A public meeting will be held in Sons of Temperance Hall, this evening, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a court of the Ancient Order of Foresters in this city. Prominent members of the order will address the meeting and explain the objects and purposes of this old established organization.

—It was reported to police captain Grant, yesterday, that two Italians had been seen burying something, in a very mysterious manner, at dead of night, along the Central railway embankment. The captain unearthed the buried object and found it to be a dead dog—evidently somebody's pet that had been killed.

—The "Juniors" of the Pond Machine Tool company, went to Bound Brook, last Saturday, and contested a game of base-ball with a nine of that town, defeating them by a score of 29 to 16. The features of the game were the fine catching of Foose and the heavy batting by McComas and Pugh, of the Plainfield team.

The Crescent Ball Players' Trip to Connecticut.

The series of games that the Crescent League ball team is to play in Connecticut, next week, under the management of T. H. Keller, are finally arranged and advertised through that State. They will be on Tuesday, August 4, at Norwich, Wednesday at Willimantic, and Thursday at Norwich.

Manager Keller will take as the team: Jones, Lufbery, McIndoe, Hammill, Holly, Lee, Bonner, Keelar and possibly Cadmus and Demarest. A number of Crescent League members and friends will accompany the team. The entire cost of the trip will be but twelve dollars which will pay for everything—boat and car fares, meals and hotel bills for the three days. Further particulars can be obtained of Mr. Keller.

To-night's Music Programme at The Netherwood.

The annual reception and promenade concert at The Netherwood, will take place this evening. Greenop's fine orchestra will be increased for the occasion, and the following programme will precede the dance:

1. Overture—"Der Freischutz,".....Weber
2. Scenes—{(a) "Loin du Bal,".....Gillet {(b) "Pizzicato,".....Strauss FOR STRINGS.
3. Caprice Heroique—"Awakening of the Lion,".....Kontski
4. Characteristic Piece—"The Guardmount," .....Ellenberg
5. 'Cello Solo—{(a) "Andante,"....Goltermann {(b) "Berceuse,".....Gounod MR. R. HILDENBRANDT.
6. Grand Selection—"Il Puritani,".....Bellini
8. Finale—Overture to "Wm. Tell,".....Rossini

IS THE MAN INSANE?

PRESIDENT SMITH THINKS HE MAY BE, BUT IS SURE HE LIES.

What Mayor Hale Said of the "news" Editor, and How the Latter Tried With Threats to Secure the City Printing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I wish to state to the public through the medium of your valuable paper, that the articles appearing in the "news" purporting to be conversations had by me with Chief Grant, are absolute lies in every case. The editor tries to shield himself by saying, "a story current", but most people who are acquainted with the man are well aware that every word emanated from his evidently demented brain. People often ask, is the man insane? It is a well established fact that insanity is hereditary. I would like to ask the "news" editor if his family history would bear a close inspection on insanity?

Our late lamented Mayor once said to me: "What a pity it is that that man Morrison ever came to Plainfield for he has injured me fully fifty thousand dollars and other property owners in proportion. The man is surely crazy to write such articles".

In his issue of July 29, he seems to express the fear that I desire further political honors. I will here state for his satisfaction that within the last month I have been repeatedly requested by a large number of Republicans in Plainfield to run again. No later than this morning a prominent Republican living on Broadway, asked me if I was not going to run again, and was very much surprised when I told him that I was not. He said, "You should by all means stay in." My answer to all of them is, positively, No!

To show the public the reason for this attempted persecution of me by Morrison, I will state that during the pendency in the Council of the question as to who should have the city printing, he came to my house twice and entreated me to change my vote in his favor. On both occasions I positively declined. On the morning of the day that the Council was to meet, Morrison followed me to the steps of the cars, still entreating. I again positively declined to squander the city's money in that way. His last words to me were these: "Smith you will regret it!"

The only official action that I heartily regret is the vote that I cast giving this man Morrison sixty-odd dollars of the people's money that the former Council had declined to pay, for I learned later that they knew the character of the man much better than I did at the time.

SEYMOUR G. SMITH.

"No Old Favorites."

Before closing Music Hall for a month's reconstruction, renovation and redecoration, the management offers a night of minstrelsy at the new prices to see if the people are going to show their appreciation.

The night will be next Monday, the prices will be from 35 to 75 cents, and the company will be W. S. Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels, an organization called by its proprietor "The Big City Show," "The Eiffel Tower of Minstrelsy," etc. In organizing this company Manager Cleveland has borne constantly in mind his new motto, "No Old Favorites." The result is an aggregation of talent that will be a revelation to the amusement-patronizing public of this country. The comedians, while new enough, are not too new, and the European novelties have never been seen or imitated on this side of the globe, so that those much overworked and very tiresome "old favorites" are given an opportunity to rest and study up new business. Among the principal members of this organization are John Queen, who is rapidly becoming famous as a comedian and producer, Arthur Rigby, whose drollery is said to be irresistably entertaining, The Four Emperors of Music, (Howard, Russell, Blackford and Talbert), Girard Leon and his singing donkeys, Deceptive Lyons, Reto, Edgar Wilson, Geo. E. Collins, J. Henry Belden, B. S. Carnes, Ed. Francis, Thomas Delahanty, Geo. Barlow and numerous others. Mr. Cleveland considers this the strongest company he has ever yet placed before the public, and local admirers of minstrelsy may confidently expect an entertainment of marked excellence.

Through McLaughlinville Glasses.

(From The Westfield Leader.)

The game between the Crescents and West Ends on Saturday was won in the first inning, when the West Ends placed five runs to their credit. After that, interest in the game dwindled, although the West Ends put up a long game throughout. Carbonell got in some more of his monkey shines, and was roundly hissed by the spectators. He made it a point to get hit by the ball every time. Hammill and Jones were the Crescent's battery.

The Thief Whom Women Captured.

Frank Utter, a notorious sneak thief, whom two plucky women captured at Elizabeth, was arraigned in the Union county court at Elizabeth, yesterday, and pleaded guilty to all the charges against him. Judge Rice sentenced him to five years in State prison.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

HIS SOBS SAVED HIM.

Hank Southard Shows Affection and Remorse, and Gets a Light Sentence.

In the Union county court, at Elizabeth, yesterday, Henry Southard, of this city, charged with stealing a coat and vest from a poor laborer and selling the same to a peddler, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Southard informed the court that he committed the offense while crazed by drink. He had not drunk anything before for over eight years. This was the second time he had been arrested on a like charge, and drink was the cause both times.

On Judge Rice asking him if he had a family, the prisoner broke completely down, and for a moment could say nothing, the tears choking all utterance. He finally said, between his sobs, that he had a wife and four children—two girls and two boys.

The court said that it was fully satisfied that he was a man whose downfall was caused by drink alone, and that if he let rum alone he would become a good citizen. The court sentenced him to 30 days in jail.

TO REFORM JIM HICKEY.

A Plainfield Youth Sent from Jail to the School at Jamesburg.

James Hickey a Plainfield youth of fourteen, pleaded guilty in the court at Elizabeth, yesterday, to stealing lead pipe from the Water Supply company.

Prosecutor Marsh said that from what he had been enabled to learn, the boy was incorrigible, his parents being unable to do anything with him.

Calling the little fellow to him, Judge Rice asked him why he did not stay at home and behave himself. The boy replied that his step-mother had driven him away.

"Would n't you like to be sent somewhere where you can be taken care of?" —asked Judge Rice.

"Yes, sir"—said Hickey.

Turning to Prosecutor Marsh, Judge Rice directed that the boy be sent to the Reform school as quick as possible, saying that he did not like to see so youthful a prisoner kept in jail.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Judge Codington is out of town for a week.

Miss Rocap and Miss Coward are at Lake Hopatcong.

Messrs. Maltby and Heinrichs rode to Lake Hopatcong, Monday, on their wheels.

The Rev. C. L. Goodrich is at Waterville, N. H., where he will spend the month of August.

Mrs. Amelia L. Sandford and family will spend the balance of the season at Watch Hill, R. I.

C. B. Corwin and family are spending the summer at Wilberton-by-the-Sea, Spring Lake beach.

Samuel Townsend and wife of Rockview avenue, returned yesterday from an extended trip to the northward.

Mrs. George R. K. Smith, her son Stanton, and her daughter, are at the Van Over Cottage, Lake Hopatcong.

W. S. Preston, formerly of West Seventh street, now United States consul at Cognac, France, was in the city to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Steele are taking a carriage trip through the State. They stopped over at relatives in Lebanon the other day.

Miss Belle Bradshaw has returned to Plainfield after a two weeks' vacation at Asbury Park, where she has been staying at the Grand Central Hotel.

Ex-Postmaster Wallace Vail has been confined to his home for several days on account of illness. His many friends will be glad to hear he is now convalescent.

Lewis H. Brown, assistant cashier of the Scott Printing Machine company, will spend his vacation beginning next Monday, at the Hotel Imperial, Atlantic City.

Fred Nicholas Hand, the infant son of Fred W. and Maggie M. Hand, died at the home of his parents, on Leland avenue, yesterday. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

F. A. Dunham has gone to Dunkirk, N. Y., of which city he is road engineer, to attend a special meeting of the Common Council for the purpose of awarding the contracts to the successful bidders on the building of the new roads and sewers.

In The Century Magazine for August George Wharton Edwards of this city gives an illustrated humorous character-study, "Moglashen", which is the first of a short series of "thumb-nail sketches". In St. Nicholas for August Mr. Edwards publishes a frontispiece, "Puck and Fairies", which is an excellent example of dainty work for old and young alike.

The Misses Sarah and Harriet Manning of this city have returned from Maine, where they have just fulfilled a number of concert engagements that were very successful. So satisfactory were they that re-engagements were made to come again in October and give seven concerts in the principal cities of the State, including Portland, Augusta and Lewiston. The largest buildings have been secured for them—the building in Portland alone seating three thousand people at an admission price of $1.50. The Misses Manning will be paid large salaries for each of the concerts, by the societies who have engaged them.

She Did n't See it in THE PRESS.

A prominent physician of this city who is too busy to take a vacation, is much annoyed because the Central Times copied from the "news" the statement that he was having a month's "outing" in the White Mountains. The physician referred to is not only kept here by the large practice he has, but also because of two prospective patients who are "expected any day."

One of these was about sending for another doctor but remembered: "If you don't see it in THE PRESS, it isn't so."

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

II—THE WATCHMAN.

Night. Clerk. Log.

Watchman, with the forehead massive,
Heavy eyebrows, threatening mien,
Comrade mine, so calm and passive,
You have troubles sore, I ween.

You were born to rule, for surely
With that cowlick on your pate,
Though you strive to act demurely,
Chanticleer you emulate!

Like the rooster in the morning,
Your alarms you daily sound,
Loud and pitiless your warning,
As you go your ordered round.

You have but one consolation,
As you strive to keep awake,
You can have a cold collation,
Sandwiches and tasty cake.

Are you drowsy? Read the papers!
Walk the cold piazza round!
Watch the cats, their screaming capers,
As from chair to chair they bound!

Must you go? I crave a favour,
'Ere you leave me for awhile,
Pardon, please, my strange behaviour—
Clear your brow for once, and—smile!

Watchman.

Fain would I meet your suggestion,
Change my moody, gloomy style,
But I've got the indigestion,
And I really cannot smile!

E. LaTOUCHE HANCOCK.

HOW SOMERVILLE SAW IT.

Pitcher John Made Monkeys of the Crescent Nine.

[From The Harkinstown Messenger.]

The Central Times said last week that, to win the game in Plainfield, we would have to play better ball than they did. Well, well, well! I guess we won it, and I "kinder" guess we played better than they did. From the time that Hammill sent Carby to first on balls until that big stuff Holly struck out in the ninth (after boasting he would hit John for a two-bagger) they scarcely gave people the idea they were playing ball. By and by the players on the Crescent team will refuse to play the West Ends at all. For a long time they have labored under the delusion that a Jonah as big as the car of Juggernaut lives somewhere in the vicinity of Somerville, and is set free every time the Crescents and West Ends play together.

After Saturday's battle they were more firmly convinced than ever that they were absolutely right. It was the sort of game that every base-ball crank delights in witnessing. Such magnificent batting has not been seen in a game in a long while. The beauty of it was that it was all done by the West Enders. While the Crescent men hit the ball hard at times, still they could not seem to get them past our stonewall infield; and some of the circus stops and throws made by Farrell, Moorehead and Heiser were wonderful. Considering that the batting on both sides was of the catapult order, the fielding was remarkable.

The Crescent management, for the first time in two years, played their own team—that is, I mean to say, let their regular pitcher occupy the whitewashed square. They put Hammill in the box, and he acted as though he was tired at times. But any one, with half an eye, could see he was working hard. The perspiration from his manly chest came well nigh lading all the letters of his blouse. He was hit as hard if not harder than Carmencita Taylor in the initial game of the series, while John (our John), with his gentle and expansive smile, kept their mighty batters down to five scattering hits, and made monkeys out of seven of them. The way he shot them in and out, up and down, first away under the batter's chin, then the next one put so he could not reach it, bewildered these poor ball-tossers; and then, to have them stand there with their bat on their shoulder, while Umpire Berriman's deep voice pierced their soul with "one strike", "two strikes", "three strikes", "batter out". Then would they fling down their wooden staves in rage, and be replaced by a man who would either send an easy one to the fielders, or would follow suit and fan the air.

It was only one inning that the Plainfield rooter had any chance to yell—that was the third, when they scored their two runs, and the way they whooped things up was really pleasing. You can imagine how their pent-up feelings were given vent, and how they howled and hooted and yelled. It was a base-ball Babel, where every man did his own unvarnished babbling.

Nobody, not even the players, thought the Crescents had a ghost of a show after the first inning, when the West Ends scored five runs; so the Plainfield contingent occupied their time in swearing at Harkins because he pitched such great ball, and at Carby because he had the misfortune to be struck twice. A great many of them thought he did it on purpose; and let me tell them, right here, no man will stand up and be hit with the ball on purpose. It hurts too much, no matter where the ball strikes, and Carby is not made of cast-iron, although many perhaps think he is. The way he slides to second surely gives one the idea that he is largely made up of India-rubber, and, from the way he cavorts around in the field, he must have wings. So the combination, cast-iron, India-rubber and wings, makes little Carby mighty, and that's the reason the Plainfield gang are down on him. They know what an acquisition he is to our team, and that makes them sore—or, as Bog Conkling (who was extremely vexed at their unkind treatment of Carby), rising in his seat, said: "There's not enough money in Plainfield to hire Carbonell to play with your club, but he plays with us because he loves us."

Hooray for Bogart! You're right, old man. Carby does love us, and I verily believe he would go through fire and water for the West End boys.

There were many pretty plays in the game on both sides, and although we alone played winning ball, still I could not but admire a running catch by Bonner, and another by Holly. As to Cory, of whom so much was expected, I can say that he gave one of the worst exhibitions of ball-playing it has been my misfortune to see. He seemed not to know what to do with the ball when he did get it, which was seldom, and in three instances, with a man on third, a ball which was hit to him he threw to first instead of home, allowing the runner to score, and giving the batter credit for a sacrifice. What his object was in playing safety I am unable to say, as he could have easily shut off each of those three runs. When a team has a lead, it is then sometimes well to play safe, but in their position on Saturday last Cory ought to have taken every desperate chance. That's ball playing.

I scarcely imagine that there will be any use for shortstop Cory after his exhibition of Saturday, and if he still plays on the team, the managers of the Crescent League are made of different stuff than what I think they are. As for Freddy Jones, I am sure he tries hard enough and in ordinary games is an exceedingly good catcher, but on Saturday, he repeated for the third time, the very unsatisfactory feat of dropping the ball thrown to him to catch the runner coming home. At such a time he gets rattled, and, I tell you, it does try a man's nerve.

Carby, the first man at the bat, made the first run in the first inning, and then, going down the coaching line, let out with his No. 6 treble voice with "Here's where we make four runs right in der first inning. We can beat 'em 'fore they come to the bat. Whoop, Jack, stretch your legs, or you'll get caught." But he did n't, and instead of four runs we made five, and, as Carby said, won the game before they came to the bat. Well, it rained, and I imagine that put a damper on their ardor, but our men can play in any kind of weather, rain, snow, hail, or when Old Sol is blazing forth at 110 degrees in the shade. They say Harkins has a glass arm in damp weather; but I guess he must have swapped it off for a new and cast-iron one, and it could not possibly have come from Pond's either, because if it had Bonner, Holly and Cory would have moulded it, and therefore would have known how it worked; but they did n't: it fooled them every time. I guess if that was made at Pond's, McCardle and Laidy worked twixt sunset and dawn to do the job, as McCardle wore a broad grin all through the game, and Count Laidy was the happiest man on the grounds. The Count was five times at the bat, and the first four times he hit safely.

In the first inning, after we had made 5 runs, the stillness was something appalling. Oh, how they wished the rain would stop the game! And many so expressed themselves. Large drops of cold perspiration and gloom stood out all over the countenances of the Crescent players. The collar on Charley Reed's white shirt wilted under the pressure and hung around his musical thorax in limp folds. "Still," said he to himself, reflectively, "I've seen 'em do it before, and I suppose they can again."

A Pleasant Drive from Plainfield.

Have you "done" Glenside this summer?—inquires the Westfield Leader.—If you have not, you have missed a very pleasant and romantic drive. This mountain hamlet, no longer a "Deserted Village", is now at its best; and the well kept streets, the trim lawns, and the nicely-arranged flower-beds make it an attractive and inviting spot. In three of these last, on well-constructed backgrounds, you are informed, in letters of living green, of three facts which it is as well to bear in mind; viz., that you are "Among the Hills," this is flanked on either side by a floral representation of the cross and anchor, that it is "1891," and that you are in the sacred precincts of "Glenside Park." The cottages seem to be all occupied, and so do the residents, too, for that matter—occupied in resting peacefully in one of the most charming and secluded spots that it is possible to conceive of within so easy a distance of the roaring metropolis. A solitary butcher wagon, going the rounds, seemed almost to be an intrusion, but it served to bring the mind down to the realization of the fact that beef and potatoes were necessities there (probably great ones, too, from the character of the atmosphere), and that man must eat even though he live on the hills of the gods. Good roads lead to it from all directions, and it is but a few miles from Westfield, Plainfield or Summit. The proprietor is Warren Ackerman, whose own beautiful place near Scotch Plains commands the involuntary attention of every passer-by.

Plainfield Trotters on the Track.

Philip Jenner's Blanche Warwick, M. Quinn's Kitty Pilot, and Fosher's Dynamite trotted a race on the Park avenue driving track Saturday. In the first heat Blanche Warwick came in first, in 2:41. Kitty Pilot was second, and Dynamite third. In the second heat Kitty Pilot won in 2:38¼, with Blanche Warwick second and Dynamite third.

There was some good colt trotting.

FANCHON'S ADVENTURE.

How an Elephant Went Upstairs and How She Came Down.

Mrs. Marvin lived in East Fifty-seventh street, New York, a rather quiet part of the city, and one not accustomed to getting itself into the papers. Opposite her house was a queer-looking building which was the cause of considerable comment in the neighborhood. Downstairs appeared to be a stable with wide doors. Above the hall door was a small room, used as a kitchen, and over the stable a large room in which lived Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their six children.

They knew the secret of that stable, and were paid for not letting the cat out of the bag. But there is a saying that "Murder will out," and little did the Browns surmise what a trick Fanchon was to play on them.

Fanchon? Yes, the baby elephant which was owned by Mr. Reiche, the importer of foreign birds and animals, and was taken care of by Mr. Brown, and kept in safety and seclusion until the time arrived for her to appear in public. But Fanchon grew impatient; she wished to see a little more of the strange new world into which she had been brought. So one day when her keeper was absent she took it into her head to go on an exploring expedition.

She marched quietly out into the hall, and climbing up a narrow stairway—how she did it no one knows—found herself on an upper landing whence she easily made her way into the kitchen where Mrs. Brown was preparing dinner. This good woman, hearing a step behind her, turned and saw a sight that almost froze the blood in her veins. For a moment she stood as one paralyzed, then, recovering herself, threw open the window and screamed for dear life.

It was a February afternoon, and Mrs. Marvin sat busily sewing, when she heard a most unearthly shriek that made her spring to the window in great haste; and all her neighbors did likewise. There stood Mrs. Brown at her own window, screaming and wringing her hands in an agony of despair, while over her head was stretched out—what? Could it be possible? Was it really the trunk of an elephant? Yes, unmistakably so, and Fanchon appeared to enjoy the situation, and to take great delight in breathing the fresh outdoor air.

The newspapers and the small boy kept alive the excitement in the street, but that was nothing to the excitement in Mrs. Brown's rooms where an elephant had taken up its quarters and was making itself decidedly at home.

Fanchon was as contented as she could be, and seemed bent on having a good time; but she was an elephant, and her pranks were naturally on a large scale. Now and then she would go to the kitchen sink and help herself to a drink in the cleverest and neatest way. Occasionally she would come to the window with the youngest pickaninny in her trunk, and poor Mrs. Brown could be seen following, and wringing her hands in an agony of fear.

Presently, carpenters with lumber made their appearance, and five men worked like beavers to make a toboggan slide for Mistress Fanchon. It was finished at the end of three days. It went from the upper window to the top of the stone wall—not a very steep slope—then took a turn and a gradual descent into the open space below, leading directly to the stable.

Well, the day came when everything was in readiness for Fanchon's removal, and long before noon the street was packed with people gathered there to see the circus. The crowd were prepared to give Fanchon a tremendous cheering, but after they had been requested to be as silent as possible you could have heard a pin drop. It was a most remarkable situation. Out of the window stepped Fanchon, preceded by young Mr. Reichie, who patted her on the trunk and quietly urged her along, and all went well until they came to the end of the platform resting on top of the stone wall. Here Fanchon was at a loss to know what she was to do. What was expected of her? She stretched out her hind leg in search of some support, and, finding none, swayed her body against Mr. Reiche, and threw him violently down upon the grass plot, a distance of at least twelve feet. A thrill of horror went through the crowd! It seemed to Mrs. Marvin that the poor young man stood on his head with his feet in the air for fully five minutes! It was a wonder his neck as not broken.

Fanchon turned, made a misstep and fell partly on the wall and partly on the lower platform. Up to this time she had behaved exceedingly well and was as gentle as a kitten, but, scared at the accident, she trumpeted forth a blast that must have been heard several blocks away. The carpenters came at once to her rescue, placing timbers and boards under her, so that she would fall no further. Then they rolled out five bales of hay and on these Fanchon got a foothold and was easily led down into the stable.—St. Nicholas.

Doing and Saying.

From an old bishop comes this bit of wisdom, which, with good effect, could be pondered by old and young:

"He that sayeth well and doeth well is to be commended; but better yet is he who doeth well and sayeth nothing."—Harper's Young People.

Not in Higher Mathematics.

Old Gentleman (in the park)—So you go to school, my little dear?

Wee Miss—Yeth, thir.

"What do you study?"

"Weading an' withmetic an' playin' tag at wecess."

"You study arithmetic, do you? Well, let me see how much of a mathematician you are. Do you live near the park?"

"Yeth, thir, I live in a flat."

"Live in a flat, eh? On which floor?"

"I don't know, thir."

"I should think you would count the floors as you go up and find out."

"I can't count that far."—Good News.

Lots of Fun Ahead.

"Papa, you were in consultation with your lawyer this morning, were you not?"

"Yes, little one; I made my will, and I have amply provided for you and your mother with a thousand or two each. The rest of my property goes to the poor and needy colleges—Yale and Harvard."

(Hugging him)—"Oh, you darling old maniac—what fun there will be breaking it!"—Life.

He Liked It.

"Ah!" said the editor, as the young author came in, "that last thing was good. We were much pleased with it."

"Well, in that case," said the author, "I will take back what I said in my letter, about not liking the way you treated me, and declaring that I should send you no more of my work."

"Oh, that's all right!" replied the editor, with heartless cruelty. "That letter is what I referred to."—Judge.

Slight Objection.

Mike—Sure, Mrs. Dooley, ye wouldn't be after takin' a ticket fur me clock? It's ter be raffled ter help ould Mrs. Donnigan.

Mrs. Dooley—But that ould clock doesn't go any more now, does it?

Mike—It does not, Mrs. Dooley. But then, you know, you moightn't draw it.—Puck.

Merely a Hint.

"I merely throw that out as a hint," remarked the old gent, going into the parlor after a slight scuffle in the hall.

"What, papa?" inquired the daughter waiting in the parlor.

"That young man who has been coming here every night for three months," snapped the father, and the girl understood all.—Washington Star.

Childish Diplomacy.

Mother—Here is your medicine, my dear.

Julia—Is it nice?

"What are you doing for a living these days, Goslin?" said Dolley.

"I sweathe," replied Goslin, with a weary sigh.—Judge.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

TURNED OUT TO GRASS.

Howard Fielding Introduces Tennis Among the Rustics.

He Holds a Tournament and Awards a Remarkable Prize—Mr. Sydney Drew Buys Some Hair Dye and Tries It on a Dog.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

After the nervousness inspired by the sepulchral quiet of Grimesville had passed away from me a dead stupidity took its place. At first I couldn't sleep at all; later I couldn't stay awake. My wife said that I was utterly dull, and for once I agreed with her, which made life all the more uninteresting for us.

"What you need is exercise," said she to me. "Where are those ten-mile walks you were going to take before breakfast? How about that plan for mowing a few acres every forenoon in order to enjoy the scent of the hay? And, speaking of mowing, why don't you cut the grass in our front yard and lay out a tennis court? You know that when Cousin Nina comes the first thing she'll think of will be tennis."

"I'll fix the court right up, this forenoon," said I. Somehow, with all the debilitating influence of rusticity I haven't yet lost the alacrity with which I can promise to do things. This was at breakfast, and when I emerged from the house I saw my red-haired neighbor, Sydney Drew, sitting on the bottom of a pail, in the shade of his barn, whittling a stick.

"Good morning, Mr. Drew," I said, approaching him. "How do you feel to-day?"

"Poorly, very poorly, thank you," replied the robust young man.

"I'm afraid you don't take enough exercise," said I. "It's a great mistake for a young man to let his muscles get flabby."

"I thought o' goin' a-fishin' up to Black brook," he said, "but it's a durned long walk. Want to go?"

"I shouldn't advise it for you," I replied, thoughtfully; "you need something different. What do you say to helping me lay out a tennis court in my front yard? You might bring over your lawn mower, and while you're trimming off the grass a bit I'll look up the measurement of the court in a book, and show Tommy how to stake 'em off."

Tommy is Sydney's nephew and he is the traditional country boy, even down to the little yellow dog which is his constant companion.

"Goin' to play tennis?" asked Sydney, listlessly. "There's a party of summer boarders at Jerry Norton's up the road that play a good deal. I've seen 'em, and I thought I'd like to play some time, perhaps, when it wasn't very hot. Tain't very hot work, is it?"

"Oh, no; you'll like it," said I, "especially when my wife's cousin, Miss May, comes up to see us. She's an awfully pretty girl, and of course she'll be glad to teach you the game."

"Say," said Sydney, blushing, "I'll go and get that lawn mower right away."

By one o'clock, when Maude came out to see how the work progressed, and to ask if I was ready for dinner, I was able to report that the court was satisfactorily laid out. She asked me if I didn't feel better for the exercise, and I replied without a blush that it had been very beneficial.

On the morning of the day when Nina was to arrive, I found Sydney in his favorite place in the shadow of the barn. He appeared to be somewhat embarrassed at seeing me. Nuisance was with him, and I noticed at once that a wonderful and unlovely change had come over that wretched animal's appearance. His coat, which had been of a uniform dull yellow, was now striped after the manner of the zebra, but this decoration did not become him so well as it does the wild horse of the desert.

"What's come over Nuisance?" I inquired.

"Mr. Fielding," said he, earnestly, "you won't laugh at me if I tell you the whole truth?"

I promised.

"Well," he went on, "it's all about this hair of mine. You don't know what a burden it's been to me. You can't imagine what it is to be red-headed. I was always a laughing stock when I was a boy; and, if anything, I feel worse about it now than I did then. I can't bear to meet new people. I dreaded to have you folks move in because I knew that the first thing you'd notice in this town would be my red head. I caught you looking at it forty times that first morning that we met, and I'll bet it was the first thing you mentioned to Mrs. Fielding afterwards. I'm not supersensitive about most things, but I'll leave it to you if this isn't more than any man is called upon to bear with resignation."

"My dear sir," said I, "you've got the handsomest—"

He interrupted me with a gesture.

"Don't stain your soul with falsehood for the sake of my feelings," said he. "You've told me about your wife's cousin, Miss May, who's coming to visit you to-day. You've told me what a jolly girl she is; always full of spirits and ready to have a good laugh. Now, I've pictured the way she'll be affected by my hair, and it's more than I can stand. She'll find enough to laugh at in a great awkward countryman like me, anyway, without the red hair. So I just ran over to the village and bought a bottle of indelible hair dye. I've had it for two days trying to get up the nerve to put it on. I was afraid it might be poison, you know. They say that some of these things will make a man bald as a jag in forty-eight hours. I thought it might, perhaps, be safer to try it, somehow, first; and so I put a little on Nuisance. Nothing can hurt that dog's personal appearance, nor make him sadder than he is by nature. I've been watching him since I put the stuff on him, and it seems to be a good, reliable, fast color. By jingo, I believe it's good enough for me."

Some hours later Sydney called me up to the fence which separates our property.

"Do you know, Nuisance has disappeared?" said he. "Gone off in the woods and died, I suppose. I've hunted everywhere for him, and Tommy's nearly crazy. I've had a narrow escape, but I'm sorry for the pup. Heaven knows it wasn't my intention to do him any harm."

THE CONTENTS PROVED TO BE THE LONG MISSING NUISANCE.

Nina arrived on time. A genuine triumph awaited her. Accustomed as Nina is to admiration, the effect which she produced upon Sydney could not have failed to please her, though it was evidently produced by herself and not by her clothes.

We got talking tennis at once, and before the evening was over we had determined to get up a tournament with the help of the two score or more summer boarders who were scattered about Grimesville. Sydney was to take his first lesson in the game on the morrow. Tommy was present, and was tormenting Sydney with remarks of a desperately sarcastic nature. Since the affair of the yellow pup I have noticed that Tommy has cherished a bitter malice toward his uncle.

But once before the net, Sydney's embarrassment was swallowed up in his enthusiasm for the game. He played with a wild abandon, which kept the boy chasing balls into all the adjacent yards and pastures. Remembering that Sydney posed as an invalid, I cautioned him against too violent exertion, but he scornfully replied that a man who had pitched as much hay as he had need not fear a baby game like that.

When I made my customary call upon him next morning, he had changed his opinion about tennis as an exercise.

"It's more of a game than I thought it was," said he, with difficulty raising his right arm to shake hands with me. "I've got porous plasters all over me this morning. Talk about pitching hay. I'd rather get in the whole crop in one afternoon than take another dose of tennis like that I took yesterday."

Within the next week we made our preparations for the tournament; issued the invitations, and sent to the city for our prizes. Sydney was to be host jointly with us and two of the nets were to be on his lawn. When the question of prizes was discussed he drew me aside and said if I didn't mind he'd like to contribute the high prize for the ladies himself.

"Do you think Miss May's likely to win?" he asked in a tone which tried to be indifferent.

"Never saw any woman who could beat her," I replied.

I don't propose to describe this tournament in detail. It was a very ordinary affair; and I won the booby prize without emotion. Nina was easily first among the ladies, and I could see that Sydney's simple heart was inflated with joy. Tommy, too, appeared to be deeply interested. He had asked me on the day before if Nina was sure to win, and I had replied that there was no doubt about it.

"Durn Syd," was Tommy's somewhat irrelevant reply; "I'll get even with him yet."

Sydney had kept the nature of his gift, the ladies' high prize, a secret. It was concealed in a great pasteboard box, and stood with the others on our veranda while the playing went on. I had been appointed to distribute these rewards, and I own that it was with a feeling of lively curiosity that I opened the big box. This feeling gave place to an overwhelming surprise when the contents proved to be the long missing Nuisance.

I looked at Sydney. He was fairly speechless with amazement. Tommy was rolling over and over on the grass in convulsions of laughter. It didn't take much penetration to perceive that while our attention had been fixed upon the genius this malicious youth had substituted his painted scarecrow of a dog for the prize which Sydney had prepared.

I looked at Nuisance where he lay with that calmness which distinguished him above all other animals. There was a piece of paper tucked under his collar and I had the presence of mind to seize and hastily conceal it.

Nina meanwhile had sprung forward and gathered the unresisting Nuisance in her arms.

"Oh, isn't he just too lovely!" she exclaimed. "Mr. Drew, how can I ever thank you?"

Sydney's face worked like that of a corpse subjected to a galvanic current, but he couldn't speak. The ladies all came forward to congratulate Nina; and, then, after awhile the party broke up so that I had a chance to examine the paper which Tommy had tucked under the dog's collar. It contained this impertinent inquiry: "Do you think you could love Syd if his head looked like this?"

BALLS OF FIRE FELL

Lightning Derails a Train of Cars Near New York.

PASSENGERS PANIC STRICKEN.

Women Screamed and Men Lost Their Presence of Mind.

Guests at Manhattan Beach and Coney Island Frightened—Terrible Rainfall in Williamsport, Pa.—Thirty-five Houses Blown from Their Base—The Roof of One Dwelling Collapses on the Inmates.

NEW YORK, July 31.—During the progress of last night's thunder storm a stroke of lightning in the shape of a ball of fire, followed by heavy thunder, fell within a few feet of the railway station at Sheepshead Bay just as a passenger train was pulling into the depot.

The shock threw the train, which comprised three cars and an engine, completely off the track. Intense excitement prevailed for a few moments. Women screamed and men lost their presence of mind in the face of what they considered inevitable death. They were finally composed and sent home on another train.

Almost simultaneously with the Sheepshead Bay freak a ball of fire fell in the rear of the Manhattan Beach Hotel at Coney Island and created consternation among the guests and employes. It struck the telegraph wires with a report like that of a cannon. No serious damage was done excepting to the wires.

WILLIAMSPORT FLOODED.

One of the Heaviest Rainfalls Ever Known in that City.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 31.—One of the heaviest rainfalls the city has ever known occurred last evening. The sewers were unable to carry off the water, and the streets in the lower portions were flooded three feet deep.

A span of the new Maynard street bridge, an iron structure, was blown down, several mills were damaged, and 30 fine houses on the south side of the river were wholly or partly blown from their foundations.

One house collapsed over the heads of the inmates, and Mrs. Fredersey, one of the occupants, was badly hurt and is still unconscious. The aggregate damage was very heavy. The area of the storm was fortunately narrow.

STRIKERS ORDERED BACK.

The Steelton Workmen Violated the Rules of Their Organization.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 31.—President Weihe, of the Amalgamated Association, has decided, after conferring with the Steelton strikers, that the men had violated the laws of the association by striking without the sanction of that body and must return to work.

The men appointed a committee at once to wait upon the president of the Pennsylvania Steel Company to arrange for a speedy settlement of the affair.

IN TERRIBLE AGONY.

A New Jersey Woman May Die from the Bite of a Pet Cat.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., July 31.—Mrs. Emeline Thompson, wife of Captain H. A. Thompson, inspector of hulls at the port of Philadelphia, was bitten by a pet cat two weeks ago on the arm. About two hours after she began to suffer great pain and the arm had swollen to almost twice its normal size. It became greatly discolored, and a physician was immediately called in. She got no relief and suffered great pain.

The doctor has been in almost constant attendance, but Mrs. Thompson has gradually grown worse, and her sufferings are terrible. For the past four days the swelling has been receding, but the arm is almost black and the pain is great. The cat which bit Mrs. Thompson was a small Maltese cat of which she was very fond, and which she had always petted and taken great care of.

The attending physician, Dr. H. C. James, has hopes of the case, but is watching it closely. The cat has not been killed, but is closely watched. In many ways Mrs. Thompson's symptoms are not unlike those of Lawyer Bartine's of Asbury Park, who was bitten by a cat and died from the effects of the bite.

At the time she was bitten she was carrying the cat in her arms, when it became frightened and tried to run from her. In her attempts to hold it the cat both bit and scratched her several times, when she was compelled to drop it. The pain set in at once, and in two hours' time she was nearly frantic.

A prominent Philadelphia physician has been called to examine the arm.

Fought With Iron in His Glove.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 31.—Billy Pool, of St. Paul, and Jack Bane, an unknown, fought 11 rounds with gloves yesterday in a 24-foot ring just across the Oregon line. At the end of the 11th round the fight was awarded to Pool, the referee having discovered that Bane had been using a piece of iron in his right glove.

Attacked With a Baseball Bat.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., July 31.—A miner named Wilkins, living near Phillipsburg, beat Mrs. Joseph Wilson into insensibility with a baseball bat. Thinking that she was dead he went to his room and cut his throat with a pocket knife. Both will probably die. She had refused to listen to his advances.

Still Fighting the Colliery Fire.

ASHLAND, Pa., July 31.—The fire in the Lehigh Company's Packer No. 5 Colliery at Lost Creek is still burning. The tower on the surface is destroyed, and the men are now fighting the flames in the slope. They expect to have it under control by to-night.

WILL TURN CONVICTS LOOSE.

The Situation at Coal Creek, Tenn., is Very Uncertain.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 31.—Capt. Ingraham, who led the miners in their advance upon the military at Briceville, is in the city, and says:

"The situation at Coal Creek is very uncertain. The people, acting under our advice, have been quiet, but it is hard to say how long they will remain so. The 60 convicts who came to Coal Creek Monday created some little excitement, and some of the boys wanted to hold another meeting, but we persuaded them not to do so.

"The people did not understand why these convicts should be sent in, as we all understood that our agreement with the Governor was to let the convicts come back just as they were and not bring in any extra ones. The people feel pretty sore over the matter and it may cause trouble.

"In the event of the Legislature not repealing the Convict Lease law we will turn loose every convict in the State and tell them to skip. The people will keep quiet until their leaders tell them to move."

PRETTY MRS. FAGAN GONE.

They Say She Has Eloped With a Member of the Salvation Army.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 31.—Mrs. Fred N. Fagan has left town. She is about 30 years old, quite pretty, and the mother of three children. Her father-in-law, N. V. Fagan, says that she has eloped with a member of the Salvation Army. The elder Fagan says that she has been receiving the fellow's attentions for some time. Their conduct became so scandalous that her husband had threatened to throw him downstairs if he ever caught him in his home again.

Mrs. Fagan was one of the finest contraltos in this part of the State, and has been a member of the choirs of the North Baptist and Universalist churches.

THE OLD MAN ESCAPED.

He Was 75 and Eloped With a 14-Year-Old Girl.

MEDINA, N. Y., July 31.—Stephen L. White of Shelby, who is 75 years of age, and little Ella Bissell, who is 14, are the characters in a little romance interesting in this vicinity, and they are now man and wife.

The Bissell girl's parents claim that White persuaded the little girl to elope with him, and driving to a neighboring village had the knot tied by claiming that the girl was over 17 years of age.

White was promptly arrested on the charge of abduction, but was released on his own recognizance and escaped. No trace of him can be found.

WORK OF A FIEND.

He Plunges a Carpenter's Chisel Into a Young Girl's Back.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—Thirteen-year-old Gertrude White was probably fatally assaulted in Johnson street about 2 p. m. by an unknown man, who plunged a carpenter's chisel into her back just below the left shoulder blade, striking the ribs and glancing downward. He then took to the woods, and has eluded all efforts to capture him.

A search is being made for the man, who tallies with the description of one who during the day attempted to criminally assault a little girl in this city.

The Turkish Minister's Luncheon Party.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 31.—A luncheon party was given by the Turkish Minister, Mavroyeni Bey, at the Canoe Club House on Roanoke Island last evening. About 100 guests were present, among them Mrs. J. G. Blaine, the Misses Blaine, Emmons Blaine, J. G. Blaine, Jr., Marquis Imperiali, A. Grip, the Swedish Minister, and others prominent in society and politics.

A Young Woman Sentenced for Slander.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 31.—The woman Bridget Malone, who was found walking around the streets of Troy, N. Y., last week, and who falsely accused a certain clergyman of this town with taking improper liberties with her, was sentenced for slander to one year in the workhouse and to pay a fine of $100 and costs. An appeal was taken and the prisoner released on $1,000 bail.

Died Suddenly of Apoplexy.

BOSTON, July 31.—The Hon. Charles Robinson, a brother of ex-Gov. Robinson, died suddenly during the morning of apoplexy at his home in West Newton, aged nearly 70. He served with distinction as a lawyer. He was mayor of Charlestown in 1855 and 1856, and served two terms in the State Legislature. A widow and three children survive.

Wrestler Roeber's Challenge.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Ernest C. Roeber, champion wrestler of America, has challenged Tom Cannon and Carl Abs, the German champion, offering to wrestle either for $1,000 a side and the world's championship, the match to take place in Hamburg or New York.

Stoned by Coal Thieves.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 31.—James Meers, an Erie watchman, is dying at No. 20 Clifford street, in consequence of being stoned by several coal thieves.

MR. NOBLE RESIGNS

The Head of the Interior Department to Withdraw.

FRIENDLY WITH THE PRESIDENT

He May Become a Judge or be Appointed to a Foreign Mission.

The Secretary is Now at Richfield Springs, His Effects in Washington Have Been Packed Ready for Removal—Neither the President Nor Secretary Halford Will Talk About the Resignation.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Secretary Noble's resignation is in the hands of the President. Gen. Noble is not here to confirm this announcement—he is at Richfield Springs, N. Y.—but the information comes from such a source that its truth is accepted.

It can be said that the Secretary retires from the Cabinet with the best of feeling between the President and himself. The step is taken after due consideration, and the resignation was accepted with regret.

What Gen. Noble's future will be cannot be stated positively. He may go abroad to fill a mission, or he may be appointed to fill the new judgeship in the Eighth Circuit.

Will be Minister or Judge.

It is possible that Gen. Noble's mind is not yet made up as to what will suit him best. There is one story current that he will not return to Washington, but will go to Europe for three or four months' travel, returning here after the judicial appointments are made. There seems to be no doubt that he can have this judicial appointment if he will take it. His personal inclinations are said to be in favor of the bench. The ladies of his family, however, are said to look on official residence at one of the European capitals as desirable.

One thing which seems to point to the European appointment is the manner in which Gen. Noble's effects have been packed. Strong cases have been made, such as would be used for removal abroad. In these have been placed the General's books and such belongings as would naturally be shipped if the family was going to Europe for an extended stay.

As against the idea of the acceptance of the foreign mission is held out the fact that the bench appointment is for life and that it ranks next to the Supreme Court.

The President Will Not Talk.

CAPE MAY, N. J., July 31.—Neither the President nor Secretary Halford will talk concerning the reported resignation of Secretary Noble.

SENATOR QUAY EXPLAINS.

He Had Previously Made Several Attempts to Resign.

BEAVER, Pa., July 31.—Senator Quay arrived at his home here to-day from Washington. In an interview on his resignation from the National Republican Committee, he said: "I was mainly desirous of relinquishing the chairmanship, and in order to do that it was necessary that I should retired entirely from the committee.

"I had previously made several attempts to resign. I first made up my mind to withdraw on the Saturday night following the Presidential election of 1888. I was persuaded not to carry out my intention at that time. In March, 1890, while in Florida, I wrote Mr. Clarkson asking him to call the committee together to consider my resignation. Shortly after this the attacks began on me and of course I could not resign under fire. Recently I concluded that the time had arrived when I could properly sever my connection with the committee, and I did so."

COMMONERS UP ALL NIGHT.

Lively Discussion Over the Amendments to the Education Bill.

LONDON, July 31.—The House of Commons sat until 4:30 this morning.

There was a prolonged discussion over the Lords' amendments to the Education bill, which the government supported, and acrid opposition to a proposed grant of money for training colleges in Ireland, the Irish Conservatives and English Radicals accusing Chief Secretary Balfour of bolstering up Popery.

Balfour declared his firm intention to adhere to the original form of the bill.

Fast Time for a New Yacht.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—Mr. W. H. Hearst's new yacht is a wonder. In a trial with only 150 pounds of steam on—just half of which she is to carry—she made nine miles in 27 minutes, and her builder, as well as the engineer's guests on board say that she is good for 30 or more miles an hour.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

If the Assassin is Caught He Will be Summarily Dealt With.

PETERSBURG, Va., July 31.—A most cowardly and brutal murder was committed some time last night just outside of Suffolk, a town on the Norfolk & Western Railroad, the victim being John Eppest, manager of the Western Union telegraph office at that place, whose body was found early in the morning where he was shot.

The murderer who fired the fatal shot was concealed in a cluster of bushes, but who the guilty party was is not known. Two negro women have been arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the murder.

The murdered man was about 25 years of age, and quite handsome. He was very popular and it is not known that he had an enemy in the world. There is great excitement at Suffolk over the murder; but little else is talked of. If the murderer is caught he will be summarily dealt with.

They Drank Wood Alcohol.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., July 31.—Several of the workmen in the paint shop of the chair manufacturing department at the State Farm at Bridgewater, just over the line, have been drinking wood alcohol, used in the shop, on the sly, and as a consequence, it is said, one of the men died last Tuesday and another on Wednesday, and a third now lies in the hospital in a critical condition. The officials of the institution have been very quiet about the matter.

Organizing for a Big Strike.

BOSTON, July 31.—A big strike is expected soon on the surface roads in this city. This week over 1,400 conductors and drivers of the West End Street Railway have enrolled themselves as members of the Federation of Labor and it is claimed that within the week 90 per cent. of the men in these departments will have joined the Federation. The men say they have many grievances which must be listened to.

Ballot Box Stuffers Go to Prison.

JERSEY CITY, July 31.—Judge Lippincott sentenced the the three convicted Jersey City election officers as follows: Oscar E. Stringham and William J. Flynn were sentenced to nine months each in the Penitentiary and will begin serving their time at once. John Stumpf was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment. His case will be appealed.

Salvation Army Wedding.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Adjt. William Wallace Winchell and Adjt. Ida May, of the Salvation Army, were married last night by Mrs. Ballington Booth, wife of the commander-general of the army in America, who acted in the absence of her husband. The wedding was a notable one from the fact that it is the first time that the marriage ceremony has been performed by a woman.

Naval Reserve in Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 31.—The New Haven Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to agitate the formation of a State naval militia on lines identical with the organizations already existing in New York and Massachusetts.

The "Black Pearl" Sent to Prison.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 31.—Judge Mahoney in the Municipal Court awarded "Black Pearl," the pugilist, 30 days in the workhouse for endeavoring to force an entrance into Ida Dorsey's abode last night.

Chicago Wants No Laborers.

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Labor Assembly of this city has decided to issue a warning to the workmen of the world not to come to Chicago in expectation of getting work in connection with the World's

SHE LEFT MILLIONS

Final Disposition of Mrs. Mark Hopkins' Estate.

THE WIDOWER GETS IT ALL.

Her Adopted Son Disinherited and the Fact Referred to in the Will.

The Biggest Estate Ever Disposed of in Massachusetts—The Manor at Great Barrington Said to be Worth $1,000,000. No Bonds Required from the Executors, Who Were Her Partners.

SALEM, Mass., July 31.—A short legal document has just been filed at the Essex County Probate Court, which disposed of property with a present value of $20,000,000, but with a prospective value of nearly double that immense sum. It was the will of Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searls, and it carried with it the biggest estate that was ever disposed of in this section of the country.

A peculiar interest also attaches to this will from the romance in the coming of Mrs. Hopkins to Massachusetts, her establishment of a magnificent manor at Great Barrington, said to represent, with its grounds, more than a round $1,000,000 in expenditures, her love for her husband, who was her architect, and their removal to Methuen.

The home at Methuen, so jealously guarded from the public eye by its tight board fence, has already been described. After the customary amount of legal red tape the will states.

"After the payment of my just debts and funeral expenses, I give, devise and bequeath all my property, real, personal and mixed, of whatever kind and wherever situated, to my said husband, Edward F. Searles, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever. The omission to provide in this will for my adopted son, Timothy Hopkins, is intentional and not occasioned by accident or mistake. I appoint as the executors of this will my said husband, Edward F. Searles, and my partners, Thomas E. Stillman and Thomas H. Hubbard; and I request that my said executors be exempted from giving surety or sureties upon their official bond."

WILL DUCK PARNELL.

Threats Freely Made if He Speaks at Thurles on Sunday.

DUBLIN, July 31.—The latest talk of the anti-Parnellites is that they will duck Parnell in a house-pond if he dares to speak at Thurles next Sunday, according to his announced intention. Archbishop Croke has invited Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien to be his guests at Thurles.

The house-pond programme may not be carried out, especially as it is declared to be contingent on the consent of Archbishop Croke, who is not likely to agree to such a disposition, even temporarily, of Parnell.

That there will be disorder in Thurles next Sunday there is little doubt. The people there almost to a man are devoted to the Archbishop, and will probably resent any allusion of an unfavorable kind to the clergy.

O'Brien Refuses to Meet Parnell.

DUBLIN, July 31.—William O'Brien received a message from Parnell inviting him to a personal interview. To this O'Brien refuses to consent, fearing, it is said, that a distorted account of the conference might afterward be given to the public. It is stated that Dillon, while uttering his repudiation of Parnell's leadership, also spoke in strong condemnation of the foul allusions of one of the Irish M. P.s to Mrs. Parnell, and declared that such language was unworthy of any decent Irishman.

FAITH CURE VICTIM.

The Young Woman Died After a Long and Painful Illness.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 31.—Miss Lydia Keeth, a young woman who resided at Sidney, is the latest victim of the faith cure craze.

Her parents are steadfast believers in the efficacy of the faith cure, and after Miss Lydia was taken with a severe illness they would not allow a doctor to be summoned to attend her.

The young woman suffered a long and painful illness, during which she wasted to a mere skeleton, and finally died.

Arrested for a Murderous Assault.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., July 31.—John Winder, colored, is under arrest at Atlantic City for committing a murderous assault upon Joseph McRae. McRae, was talking with Winder's wife in the Mansion House alley, when Winder suddenly appeared and struck him on the head with a blunt instrument, knocking him senseless. McRae remained unconscious for several hours and is in a precarious condition.

Blew Himself to Pieces.

ROBBINSTON, Me., July 31.—George Harlon flew into a terrible passion because his father chided him for being too hasty in storing a lot of hay. After threatening his father's life he retired to a clump of trees near the house and blew himself to pieces with a shotgun loaded with buckshot. He was 21 years of age and thought himself too old to be reproved.

New York's Republican Convention.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Rochester was selected by the Republican State Committee as the place for holding the State Convention by the following vote: Rochester, 20; Saratoga, 6; Albany, 1; Utica, 1. The convention will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 9. John Quackenbush was elected chairman.

The Missing Contractor Returns.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 31.—John S. Hinman, who disappeared last Sunday, has returned home. Hinman is a contractor for J. B. Sargent & Co. He re-

STARVING IN RUSSIA.

Peasants Terribly Punished by the Czar's Officers.

LONDON, July 31.—Correspondents at St. Petersburg telegraph that the greatest misery exists in Bessarabia, owing to the failure of the harvest and the scarcity of food.

At Kisheneu, the chief place of the province, it is said that not less than twelve persons have died of starvation and penury this month. Not Jews alone, but many Russians have hurried across the frontier into Roumania in order to escape the severe measures instituted since the outbreak.

In the village of Koushany the people broke out in a riot, and plundered shops of provisions. The local police tried to restrain them and were badly beaten, and one of their number was killed. Re-enforcements arriving from the town of Bender, the rioters were at length dispersed, and a large number were made prisoners. Two of the prisoners were knouted to death in the public streets as a warning to their late companions, and six were selected for immediate deportation to Siberia. The wives and children of the exiles were not permitted to speak to them before departing, and nothing was spared that would be likely to strike terror into the unhappy peasants.

Typhus fever is raging in Volhynia, owing to the want of food and the terrible condition of the starving people, who are too weak to attend to the offices of cleanliness, so necessary at this time of year. In some places, so many have died that the living are unable to bury them, and the Provincial Government has had to detail prisoners from the jails to perform the duties of interment. The Russian authorities spare no effort to prevent the truth from being known across the frontier in Austria.

HUNDREDS DROWNED.

Terrible Results of the Heavy Rainfall in India.

BOMBAY, July 31.—Fifteen inches of rain has fallen within the past 24 hours.

The towns of Mahooda and Bhownugger, in the province of Gujerat, are flooded with water, which rises breast high in the streets.

Three hundred people and a countless number of live stock have been drowned.

Steamers in Collision.

LONDON, July 31.—The British steamer Hallamshire, Capt. Allayne, from London for Bermuda, collided during the night below Gravesend, with the steamer Cassell bound for Dunkirk. The port bow of the Hallamshire was cut to the waters edge. The Cassel proceeded on her voyage. What damage, if any, she received is not known.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Jessie Fothergill, the English novelist, is dead.

The naval reserves and blue jackets of the white squadron captured Fisher's Island after a desperate fight.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a consecration meeting at 8 o'clock this evening. Everybody will be welcome.

—Seven per cent. a year is what City National Bank stock is paying. The Board of Directors yesterday declared another dividend of 3½ per cent., out of the earnings of the past six months.

—The Plainfield Seminary for young ladies is to be reopened Thursday, September 17. The kindergarten will be reopened Oct. 1. Particulars may be obtained by addressing the Principal, Miss E. E. Kenyon.

—One of the fire-alarm wires, on Broadway, near Seventh street, was broken by the strong wind at 3:25 this morning, and a blow from the gong resounded. The second blow, some time later, was caused by Chief Doane testing the system to find the break.

—Two excursions will take place next week—that of the Trinity Sunday-school Tuesday, and that of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist and Congregational Sunday-schools Friday. Asbury Park will be the objective point in each case. A good time awaits all who go.

—One of the Italians digging a water works trench at the corner of Sixth street and Central avenue this morning was struck in the back by the pick of the workman back of him, and an ugly wound was caused. The man who struck the blow was arrested, but he insists that it was an accident.

—Yesterday's rain-storm proved again to the people of the neighborhood of Liberty and South Second streets the need of a better sewer system. The small sewers they have are by far inadequate to carry off the water, and cellars yesterday were badly flooded. The sufferers would appreciate aid from the City Council.

—Alex Warnock and son have opened the bakery formerly occupied by John Tibbits, at Englewood, N. J. After a score of years in the business here, the elder Mr. Warnock has gained an enviable name for uprightness of character and of all honest dealing. Success to him and his son are the wishes of their many friends in Plainfield.

—The first of a series of ball games between colored teams of Plainfield and Somerville—as already told of in these columns—will be played at the latter place to-morrow. Kline and Nelson will be Plainfield's battery. The next game will be in this city, Saturday of next week, on the Crescent League's grounds, when that club's team is absent at Somerville.

—Edgar Wilson, the English descriptive balladist whose baritone voices famous all over Europe, has been imported for W. S. Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels. Manager Cleveland was determined to have everything new, and the success of his endeavors in that direction will be demonstrated at Music Hall next Monday evening, when his newest and best company will appear.

—A new advertisement appears to-day from the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association, in which they cordially invite everybody to call and get their special price list of groceries for to-day and to-morrow only. Silverware is to be given away, and they ask you to examine their large stock of teas, coffees, groceries, etc., which are being disposed of at very low figures for cash.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Chauncey Colahar, of North Plainfield, has gone to visit friends at Martinsville.

Walter Scott of this city has been granted a patent on an oscillating cylinder press.

A charming little daughter has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Debele, 33 Vine street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cadmus left town to-day for Mt. Tabor, Morris county, to spend the month of August.

The Rev. Dr. Ketcham will preach in the Seventh-day Baptist church, to-morrow morning, at 10:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck, wife, and boy left to-day for Ocean Grove. They will stay at the Sheldon House for the month of August.

Mrs. Wilson Fisk, assisted by Miss Martine, Mrs. C. F. Sullivan, and Miss Southard, will serve tea, Saturday afternoon, at the Hillside Tennis Club.

Mrs. Edward Ayers, of North Plainfield, and her sister, Miss Cannon, of Netherwood, left to-day for a month's sojourn in Hunterdon and Warren counties.

Mrs. James Field, of Liberty street, left to-day for Greenwood Lake, where she will spend the month of August. Her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Luscie, of New York, accompanied her.

The Wheel, a weekly paper devoted to the interests of cycling, will soon publish a map of the Union county road system, prepared by County Engineer F. A. Dunham, of this city.

Mrs. Sarah Doane, mother of Chief Engineer T. O. Doane, her sister Mrs. Elizabeth Sargeant of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Craig of West Fourth street, all returned home yesterday from Hightstown, N. J. Mrs. Doane, although quite ill, stood the journey well.

A NIGHT OF SONG AND GAIETY.

BRILLIANT SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT AT HOTEL NETHERWOOD.

Three Hundred Guests Enjoy the Festivities—Charming Costumes of the Ladies—People Who Were Present—Helping a Worthy Charity—An August Musicale and Other Coming Events.

HOTEL NETHERWOOD,
NETHERWOOD, N. J.,
July 30, 1891.

WITH the dazzle of it all still fresh before one's eyes, one cannot repress a burst of great enthusiasm as he writes that the grand subscription promenade concert and ball at The Netherwood, tendered to W. H. Greenop's orchestra, this evening, was pronounced by the large assemblage present one of the most brilliant events of the season. Fully three hundred were present at the festivities. Plainfield and adjoining hamlets were well represented. The excellent orchestra was largely augmented, and the charming selections were rendered with that verve and delicate execution for which this admirable orchestra is justly noted. The following selections opened the fete:

Overture—"Der Freischutz,".....Weber
Scenes—{(a) "Loin du Bal".....Gillet
{(b) "Pizzicato,".....Strauss
FOR STRINGS.
Caprice Heroique — "Awakening of the Lion,".....Kontski
Characteristic Piece — "The Guardmount,".....Eilenberg
'Cello Solo—{(a) "Andante".....Goltermann
{(b) "Berceuse".....Gounod
MR. R. HILDERBRANDT.
Grand Selection—"Il Puritani,".....Bellini
Finale—Overture to "Wm. Tell,".....Rossini

The order of dancing was as follows:

Waltz,	Quadrille Waltz,
Lanciers,	Polka,
Polka,	Schottische Militaire,
Schottische,	Lanciers,
Lanciers,	Waltz,
Waltz,	Berlin,
Caprice,	Lanciers.

The evening's entertainment was opened by the reading of the following prologue by Ernest La Touche Hancock:

Calmest summer evening,
Drifting in a boat,
Pretty fancies weaving,
As we gently float,
Sounds of music stealing
Sweetly soft, and low,
Paradise revealing,
As we idly row!
Lightly go the fingers
O'er the tuneful lyre,
Now the music lingers,
Can the music tire?
No! again it rises,
Here is welcome free,
Tune in all its guises,
Enter in and see!

It has been my pleasure in past seasons to chronicle the events happening at this favorite summer resort on the Heights, but I must confess that the fete of this evening can be safely marked as one among the most delightful events ever occurring here. The grand parlor presented an array of beauty that could not be surpassed at any summer resort in this country. What shall I say to give your readers an idea of the elegant costumes worn by the fair participants? I will simply state that they were dreams of loveliness, and evidenced the exquisite taste of the fair owners.

ON THE WAY TO SUPPER.

The sweet strains of "Home, Sweet Home" at about 10 o'clock announced the close of the fete, which was unanimously pronounced a grand success.

The following were present during the evening:

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ogden, Miss Ogden, W. Ogden, jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Robins, Mr. and Mrs. H. Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Miss Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Scott, Mr and Mrs. S. H. Tobey, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. VanZandt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Logan Murphy; Miss Bowers, Miss VanDeventer, Miss Miller, Miss Holmes, and Miss Blackwell, chaperoned by Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer.

Miss Frances Margarette Graves and Miss Daisy Shepard, of Fanwood.

From Plainfield—Messrs. T. VanBoskerck, C. Murphy, F. Cokefair, L. Van Buren, A. Streuli, H. Foster, E. Foster, E. Bloodgood, I. West, R. Cox, J. Erickson, E. Erickson, E. Raymond, H. Huntington, G. Cooley, P. Sandford, J. Sandford, F. Clawson, and A. Holmes.

Many interesting events will be duly bulletined for the midsummer season. For next Thursday, August 6, a musicale is announced, to be given under the supervision of Mr. F. E. Miller. It is therefore safe to predict a brilliant affair.

It gives me great pleasure to chronicle an event of last evening which evidences the generosity of the guests of The Netherwood. George W. Crossman started a subscription list for the benefit of the Fresh-Air Fund, and within an hour more than $150 was subscribed for that worthy cause.

A large number of guests are sojourning here, and the booking for August is exceptionally good. Peace and contentment reign at fair Netherwood under the able management of Proprietor Miller, and I venture to state that the season of '91 will recall many pleasant memories to the dwellers herein. A HARD FIGHT AGAIN TO-MORROW.

The Crescent Team Will Meet the Clever Corinthians.

The Crescent management announce that the Corinthians will play ball in this city next Saturday. As the local managers have engaged this club to come here it might be well now for them to tell the public who the Corinthians are.—Central Times.

That's a very bad break for a sporting editor to make. There is no need for the Crescent managers to tell base-ball lovers who the Corinthians are.

They are the club that paid such a big price to get pitcher O'Neill from the Westfields, and now the New York league team are going to try that young man themselves. It is probable, however, that O'Neill will pitch here to-morrow; and if he do—the treatment the Crescent batters receive from Harkins will be no circumstance.

Everybody—excepting the Central Times—knows that the Corinthian ball team is one of the strongest aggregations of semi-professional ball players in the whole United States. The Crescents will deserve great praise if they win to-morrow.

THROUGH SOMERVILLE SPECTACLES.

Pitcher John's Supporters Demand Him Respect from Plainfield.

(From The Harkinstown Unionist-Gazette.)

Well, well, well! Who would have thought it! and after all the talk that Plainfield had made about their team! After all the bluster and bombast in which they have indulged, to be beaten, and beaten by the score of 10 to 2, on their own grounds. Oh, how have the mighty fallen! The "dull sickening thud" of the dime novelist is not expressive enough for this case, unless it were added that the thud was so dull, so very sickening, that a coroner's jury would have been in order, for the West Ends killed their opponents outright.

The good people of Plainfield treated the Somerville players with the same kind courtesy which they have shown them for the past five years, a liberal round of hisses from beginning to end. It does seem strange that John Harkins should get this treatment from any Plainfielder who pretends to be an admirer of base-ball. One would naturally think that after Harkins had pitched in twelve of the fourteen games won from Plainfield, even the most rabid Crescent rooter would treat him with some show of respect. But they don't, and that's the Plainfield of it. It's strange that a nice set of fellows such as the Crescent Club are off the field should undergo the Jeykll-Hyde process and emerge on the diamond a crowd of hoodlums, bereft of their senses, acting like idiots, yelling like Comanches, and hissing like snakes.

"And lo!
Abou Ben Adams—no, Charley Reed—led all the rest."

As for batting—well, you should have seen Count Laidy with his sweet and child-like countenance, remembering that Plainfield had claimed that he was not good enough for them, smite the ball on four successive occasions for safe hits.

The umpiring of Mr. Berriman was as satisfactory a piece of work as was ever given on the ball field. His judgment at all times was excellent, and his decisions were given in a clear and decided manner.

"Our George" to be Vice-Principal.

A telegram just received at Chautauqua from Dr. William R. Harper, who sailed yesterday for Europe, announces that he accepts the Principalship of the entire Chautauqua system of study. Chancellor Bishop Vincent, however, still remains at the head. George E. Vincent, his son, will be Vice-Principal and the Chancellor's assistant.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it, and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical.—Clarence L. Hall, Biddeford, Me.

Damage Done by the Rain.

The removal of the big cupola from the Stelle building at the corner of Park avenue and Front street left quite a large portion of the roof unprotected. The tinners were to have been on hand yesterday to tin the bare spot over, but the rain got ahead of them, and though heavy canvas was spread over the gap the torrents of rain that fell found their way into the interior of the building and caused considerable damage. The lodge rooms of the Jr. O. U. A. M., and other societies in the building, and the law offices and library of Judge Nelson Runyon, were more or less drenched. Trifling damage was done in the Central Pharmacy on the first floor. The contractors who were engaged in the work of removing the cupola have volunteered to cover the entire loss, though the deluge was not through any fault of theirs.

Dyspepsia.

CATSKILL, June 11, 1888.

I have found in Dr. Deane's Pills a remarkable remedy for Dyspepsia. Speaking from an experience of four months in their use, I have found them to meet in my own case all that I dared to hope for in the way of relief. I most heartily recommend them to any sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia.

LONGFELLOW UP TO DATE.

(Written for THE PRESS.)

He stood on the street at midnight,
As the clocks were striking the hour,
And the moon rose o'er the borough,
Beyond the water-tower;
And there in the gloom and shadow
Of that night in fair July,
He stood enrapt, nor heeded
The moments flying by.
How often, oh, how often,
In the days and years before,
He had stood on that street at midnight;
But he will not do it more.
* * * * *
For the marshal was hot and restless,
And his soul was full of woe,
And he felt his own importance,
That so few others know;
And he thought how many hundreds
Of careless, reckless men,
Might be on that street at midnight,
And not revere him then.
* * * * *
He stood on the street at midnight!
Horrible, ghastly crime!!
That will echo through annals of scandal
Till the ending of life and time!
He stood on the street at midnight!!
Heaven forgive him the sin!
And glory and hail to the country cop,
With the nerve to run him in!

DUNELLEN'S OPPORTUNITY.

THE PRESS Will Lend the Neighbors a Hand in Securing Funds for a Fire Department and a Lock-up.

Although Dunellen is most beautifully situated, and is bountifully endowed with natural advantages, there is a circumstance that has a tendency to retard her growth.

The sandy soil not only affords a natural sewerage, but when cultivated produces the largest crops in the country. A never failing water supply can be secured by the simplest means, and the lofty hills of the Blue Ridge shade her from the cold northern winds and at the same time present a landscape scarcely excelled for miles around.

The vision from a passing train is superb. The level roads, lined with shade trees, and the beautiful background, present a charming picture to the traveler.

A score of years ago the little town was scarcely known, and the site where it now stands could have been bought for a song. But to-day it is a thriving borough, and its valuation runs far into the thousands.

Before the borough movement was carried into effect, many of the inhabitants were greatly opposed to it, but now all can see the benefits which have been derived from the change. Real estate has advanced 25 per cent, and still continues to increase. Scarcely a house is vacant, and there has been such a demand for homes that more than a score have been built during the past two years.

Some may say the borough did not do this; but indirectly it did. The borough brought about the macadamizing and lighting of the streets, the laying of stone sidewalks, and various other improvements.

These improvements are just what build up a town and cause the demand for houses.

The great drawback to country towns is the dilatory manner in which property holders contribute to these improvements. Dunellen has made a great step forward in the past few years and deserves much credit, but she, like all other towns, contains the tardy element, who don't see the need of improvements, but are the first to notice the increased valuation, and anxious to take advantage of it.

There are two things which Dunellen needs very badly, and which have been "talked-over" by the town people for several years. One is a lock-up, and the other, a fire department. Both are within her reach!

If every citizen who feels the "crying need" of these great advantages would do his share towards securing them, the project would be accomplished.

THE PRESS now proposes to take a hand in the undertaking, and see if, by giving all an opportunity of pulling together, something can't be done.

Its Dunellen correspondent will take the matter in hand, and will endeavor to secure a list of those willing to subscribe, providing the full amount is secured. The names of the contributors will be published from time to time in these columns.

What is the Plainfield Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Doing?

The use of the overhead check-rein on horses is causing much discussion in the newspapers, and it is generally condemned as an unnecessary cruelty to this patient and useful animal. It is asserted by those who have made the anatomy of the horse a study that it cannot pull with any degree of comfort unless it is free to use the muscles of its neck and shoulders naturally, and it is also claimed, on the same authority, that the overhead check-rein not only prevents this but causes pain to the animal wearing it. They are sometimes kept standing for hours with the rein unloosed and, it is said, exhibit their suffering by the movements of their head and their pained expression. The only excuse for the custom is that persons fancy their horses present a little more style in their appearance. It is a cruel fashion, and ought to be denounced by all humane persons.

The Proper Caper.

The newest thing in the way of an outdoor display is the daily parade by Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels. It is called "The Outing of the Swells", and the Plainfield people will have an opportunity to witness it next Monday.

It's so easy to make it, there's really no excuse for not using Knapp's Root Beer Extract. A glass of delicious Root Beer in five minutes.

THAT MEADOW CROSSING.

The Court of Chancery Authorizes the Lehigh Valley to Cross the Central's Line.

The Court of Chancery has rendered a decision in the case of the Lehigh Valley railway company against the New Jersey Central railway company, involving the right of the former to cross at grade the track of the Elizabeth branch of the Jersey Central company, on the Newark meadows, in favor of the Lehigh Valley company, and unless further legal complications are introduced the Lehigh company will resume the construction of its road between the lower end of Newark and Jersey City within one week.

The case just decided by the Court of Chancery was brought up on the question of the right of the Central company further to obstruct the extension of the Lehigh Valley tracks across those of the Central company, after the jury had awarded damages in the premises. When the Lehigh company first attempted to make the crossing, the progress of the work was stopped by the Central company. Obstructions were placed in the way, and the Lehigh Valley company was forced to suspend operations. Application was made for the appointment of commissioners to assess damages, and after taking a vast amount of testimony the damages were fixed at $12,000, this sum to be paid to the Central company in consideration of its permitting the frogs to be laid.

An appeal was taken from this award, and a jury in Judge Depue's court increased the amount to $35,000, the Central company to go ahead and complete the work in accordance with the requirements. The money was paid into the court by the Lehigh Valley company, but the Central company did nothing. To secure some action so that the attitude of the Central company could be known, the Lehigh Valley company made a demonstration about a month ago, signifying their wish to go ahead with the work unless the Central company wished to comply with the order of the court and complete the work itself. As soon as the force employed by the Lehigh Valley company appeared on the ground, the Central company put itself in a hostile attitude, prepared to prevent the making of the crossing.

A bill was then filed in the Court of Chancery by McCarter, Williamson & McCarter, attorneys for the Lehigh Valley company, asking that the Central company be enjoined from further obstruction of the work.

The order of the Court is that the Central company file within five days its election whether or not the money now on deposit in the court will be taken and applied to the proper completion of the work. If not, the Court enjoins the Central company from further interference, and empowers the Lehigh Valley company to go ahead with the work, which is to be done under a manager to be appointed by the Court.

COMMANDS THAT MEAN NOTHING.

Chancery Subpœnas that Work Hardships on New Jersey People.

The law as it is evolved in the Court of Chancery is working a hardship on a large number of people because the old law forms are still observed on the subpœnas. Every day it is possible to encounter in the corridors of the State House some unfortunate people who have been actually defrauded by the State by this old custom. Subpœnas are issued daily out of chancery, which command the defendant or a witness to appear personally before the Chancellor, under penalty of $500 fine. People not familiar with forms of law, as soon as they receive this command, hasten to Trenton so as to avoid the fine, and when they reach there, and seek the High Chancellor, they are informed that he is holding court up in Jersey City and is not a bit anxious to see them. Then they complain of the trouble and expense, and the clerks of the office mildly call their attention to a small foot-note, which informs the holder that it is not necessary for them to appear in person, but they can make answer by mail if necessary. The foot-note tempers the severity of the law and removes the $500 penalty, but no one ever sees it, and as a result the complaints go on.

Recently a woman and her son went all the way from Plainfield to Trenton, with subpœna in hand, and found that they had wasted a day and several dollars for nothing. A group of farmers from Somerset county arrived early in the week, and asked for the Chancellor. He was at that time presiding over the Court of Errors and Appeals, so they sat among the lawyers until the Chancellor was through, and then they presented themselves. He rewarded them with a smile, and explained the situation to them. Then they put a clincher to the Chancellor, by demanding their expenses, and started out to argue the matter with him, and one of them waxed so warm that he tore his subpœna up and threw it on the court-room floor, and created much merriment by declaring that the Court would whistle a long time before they would journey so far again on the authority of a piece of paper that meant nothing.

Is it not to some extent your own fault that your children seek recreation outside of the family circle? Why not furnish them amusement at home? Why not treat them at home to a safe, delightful and wholesome beverage, such as you can easily have made from Hires's Root Beer Packages?

THE REV. ELOPEK CORNERED.

His Elder Asks Him Questions He Cannot Evade or Answer.

The Rev. G. W. Comer, of whom the public has heard so much because of his recent elopement with the wife of George Tappen, who resides on Park avenue, near Campbell's club-house, had a hearing before Elder Brice, of Elizabeth, Tuesday. Mr. Comer made a general denial of all the charges preferred against him, and declared that he was an innocent and persecuted man.

He pleaded and protested, and might have convinced his interrogator of his innocence but for that fateful letter mailed to Mrs. Tappen from Amwell, N. J., April 20, which he began with "Dear Pet", and in which he earnestly urged the said "Dear Pet" (Mrs. George Tappen) to meet him at the residence of Mr. Breese, at Metuchen, April 27. When asked why he sent this letter, he replied that it was intended for his wife.

The Elder then asked him this crushing question: "If it were intended for your wife, why did she not get it, and why do these words occur in it: 'The people here want me to bring my wife, but I have told them I can not do that. Oh, how happy we could be here. * * * Your loving friend, George'?"

This was the question that he feared, and it fell on him like a thunderbolt—it was unanswerable.

The hearing was but preliminary, but it was sufficiently important, in the Elder's estimation, to hold the Rev. George for trial. Will he remain or skip? Time will tell.

NON-COMMITTAL TO THE WOMEN.

Plainfield's Bishop Makes a Cautious Speech of Welcome to Female Suffragists.

Bishop Vincent's big school grounds at Chautauqua were painted yellow, a few days ago, by the woman suffragists. They gathered there from all over the country, each one wearing a yellow ribbon and a smile of the blandest kind. The Chautauqua management devotes one day in the year to the discussion of political equality, and the advocates of the doctrine send their leading representatives there. Hence it was that Miss Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, the mother of Gen. Lew Wallace, and Mrs. Anna Shaw, arrived to address the big crowd. The amphitheatre was gayly decorated, the yellow everywhere predominating, while back of the platform the Stars and Stripes were formed in all sorts of designs and devices. Every polit'cal equality club brought its silk banner, and these were all placed in front of the speakers' desk. Around the big building were various mottoes, all advocating woman suffrage.

Chancellor Vincent welcomed the ladies in a carefully-worded speech. He said that he was glad to extend the use of the Chautauqua platform to every movement that had for its object the promotion of the welfare of humanity. Mrs. Wallace spoke first and argued for woman suffrage from Scriptural texts. She said that Paul was a widower, and explained that that was the why of his declamation against marriage. The audience was very enthusiastic and applauded her frequently.

The other speakers were Mrs. Shaw and Miss Anthony, both of whom gave the history of the movement to the present time, and urged that the audience work unceasingly until women should everywhere be accorded the right to vote.

Learning to Put on a Front.

A young married man from this city who had never before experienced the delights of summer life at the seashore, but who had heard a great deal about Ocean Grove, went down to that pious pilgrims' resort, a few days ago, on a vacation, to please his wife, who of course accompanied him. He anticipated having a good time frolicking in the waves and watching the sportive maidens in Old Neptune's arms, but a letter received by a Plainfield friend yesterday indicates that there is not so much fun in that sedate and highly moral summer resort as he thought there was. It had been cracked up to him as a cheap place to spend a vacation, but he has changed his mind in that respect, as well as in many others.

"I am here trying to put on a front;"—he writes—"but I'm not in it. The men of my own age who are here travel about in white flannel suits with big pockets, and they blow in their dust in a manner that leads me to believe that their governors run pool rooms or fake banks. The ladies: you should see them! They have turned my wife's head; and unless she soon realizes that she is the wife of a poor, miserable fellow, without money or brains, the Chancellor will be appealed to.

"The man that keeps this place says it's the cheapest and best ranch within 4,712 miles of New York. He is a purveyor of perversion. Send me $250. The man or his negro will want it before I get away from here. My wife says I don't know much because I can't tell her why the surges don't cease to roll. I never was so sick of being anywhere in all my life. Inclosed find a picture of my lodging house. The fellow who made the drawing was an artist. My room is about as big as it looks."

—The White Caps of this city will play the Stars of Westfield, to-morrow at 3:30 p. m., on the grounds of the bicycle club, Park avenue.

—Those interested in the extension of Peace street are requested to meet at Spencer's hall, Somerset street, this evening at 8 o'clock. The petition will be ready for signing.

Putting in Fire Hydrants.

Though the Plainfield Water Supply Company has not yet been given a contract to supply fire hydrants for the city, the work of putting hydrants in was begun to-day. By nightfall ten will have been placed in position. Most of them will be double. Those in the heart of the city will be quadruple, offering opportunity for four steamers to procure water from the same spot at once.

—The Union county board of freeholders go to-day over the Springfield county road, to inspect it. It is now finished. Freeholders Vanderbeck and Hubbard go from Plainfield.

—The next regular meeting of Easter Lodge, No. 3542, Knights of Honor, will be held in Wetumpka Lodge rooms, over Music Hall, West Front street, next Monday evening. This will be Easter's first meeting in the new lodge rooms.

If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

Archbishop Ireland Satisfied.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul had a long interview with Commissioner Morgan during the day in regard to the late controversy between the Commissioner and the Bureau of Catholic Indian missions. The Archbishop expressed himself as satisfied with the Commissioner's plan of contracting direct with the Catholic schools for the education of the Indians. The Commissioner assured the Archbishop that no discrimination would be made against the Catholic schools during his administration, and that they would receive a large increase in the appropriation for these institutions.

Kate Dudley Arrested.

BOSTON, July 31.—Kate Dudley, alias Fitch, was arrested here last night for obtaining goods on false pretenses from various dry goods stores in this city. Miss Jones and the Synecdoche.

A professor of rhetoric after dilating fully upon the synecdoche as a figure in which things are associated by us, as part to whole or whole to part, read the following example:

"The sanctity of the lawn should be kept unsullied."

"Miss Jones will repeat the sentence, using plain language," said the professor.

Miss Jones, who had not been paying interested attention, and whose thoughts did not suggest to her the robe of a bishop as the sentence was read, replied.

"I—don't—know—unless," (here a bright idea dawned upon her) "it means 'Keep off the grass.'"—Lillian Mayne, in Wide Awake.

He Drew the Line.

"Well, Penn," said Hannibal, surveying the room critically, "you have mighty snug quarters here for a bachelor, I must say—books, papers photographs of pretty girls—stunners, too—Hello! here's a scrap book. (Examines, and turns to Penn with a look of disgust.) Oh, I say, it can't be possible that you laugh at these so-called humorous paragraphs?"

"Excuse me," replied Penn, coldly. "You are unjust. I write them; I do not read them."—Harper's Bazar.

THE CHINAMAN DOLL.

It Is Made of Peanuts and Funny Enough to Make Everybody Smile.

Did you ever see a Chinaman doll made of peanuts? No! Well, it is the funniest-looking doll you could wish to see, and I am going to tell you how to make one. It is not a difficult task, as you will soon discover.

FIG. 1.

At figures Nos. 1 and 2 is shown a veritable John Chinaman clad in rich attire, all ready to go to the Joss house, as the Chinese place of worship is called; while the other illustrations show him and his dress in the different stages of construction. If the pictures are studied carefully, they will help you very much in making the doll. Select eight peanuts: two that are very much bent for the feet, one gracefully bent for the head, and five that are as straight as possible. Thread a needle with strong silk or thread; run it through the top of the peanut that is to form one foot and through the lower part of one of the straight peanuts, and tie the thread so that the peanuts will hang slightly apart. Now connect two peanuts corresponding with these in the same way. Then run the needle through the upper part of the upper peanut for one side and through the lower part of another straight peanut, and tie the thread in the same way; then run the needle through the top of the upper peanut for the other side and through the lower part of the fifth peanut in the same way, and tie it. Now run the needle through the top of a sixth peanut, draw it through the top of the uppermost joined peanut, and tie the thread, leaving it long enough to allow this peanut to hang nearly to the bottom of the two peanuts joining the feet; this last peanut is to form one arm, and the seventh peanut is fastened to the opposite side in the same way. Then the last peanut, which forms the head, is put on. Draw the needle through the top of the peanut forming the body and then through the peanut for the head, and tie the thread. The appearance of the peanuts when properly strung is shown at figure No. 3. Now with a pen and black ink mark the eyes, nose, mouth and eyebrows on the head peanut, and tint the feet for the shoes.

FIG. 2.

Take six strands of black Saxony wool and braid them carefully to make a queue. Sew one end of the queue to the center of a circular piece of black court-plaster, and stick the plaster on the back of the head peanut. Now our Chinaman doll is ready to dress, and we will put him in georgeous colors and silken goods, because he belongs to the nobility.

FIG. 3.

Take two pieces of black silk, each about three inches wide and long enough to extend up to the middle of the peanut next the head; these are to form the trousers. Join the long edges of each section more than half-way to the top and then join the front edges of the two sections together; join the back edges together in the same way and gather the top. Make a narrow hem at each lower edge. Now arrange the trousers on the doll, drawing the gathering thread up closely; and sew them at the gathering to the body. Take a narrow strip of the same kind of silk, and draw it tightly over the gathers, allowing it to extend nearly up to the middle of the head peanut, as shown at figure No. 4. Next cut a section of the same kind of silk and draw it closely about the peanut of one arm, leaving only the end of the peanut exposed, and making the section long enough to extend nearly to the top of the band at the neck; sew the section firmly in place. Cover the other arm in the same way.

The tunic is made of bright yellow plaid ribbon about four inches wide, and requires about half a yard. Cut two sections, each five inches wide, for the body, and two other sections, each about three inches and a half wide, for the sleeves. Join the edges of each sleeve, and in the top at each side of the seam make two tiny plaits turning toward the seam. Join the side edges of the body for about half an inch from the neck; then sew the sleeves to the edges, with the seams of the sleeves directly underneath; gathering in a little fullness in the sleeves on top. Now join the side edges of the body section for about half an inch below the sleeves, and finish the edges below with narrow hems.

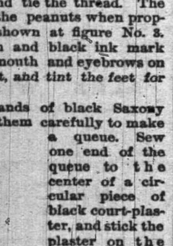

FIG. 4.

At this point of its construction the tunic will look like figure No. 5, where, if you look carefully, you will see a dotted line near the neck edge. Make a gathering all round the neck in exactly the same position as the dotted line. Put the tunic on, and draw the gathering up closely, fastening it securely.

Now our Chinaman doll is all made and dressed, and don't you think him "allee samee likn Chinaman?" He can both sit and stand, as illustrated at figures Nos. 1 and 2. You can dress him in any colors and materials you like, and can have all classes of Chinamen, from our well-known Wing-Lee, the laundryman, to his Celestial highness, the Chinese emperor Hwang.—Delineator.

HOW TO DRIVE A HORSE.

Any Little Girl Can Learn to Hold the Reins If She Will Only Try.

Let me tell you how any little girl or boy can drive a horse. It is the easiest thing in the world to do, and I will give you the points as they were told to me by little Ivah Marcounier, who can control a horse like a jockey.

Ivah is a sweet-faced cherub of six. She lives with her aunt, Mrs. Schwenk, on a big stock farm not many miles from the city.

Of course you must not try a vicious animal for that requires all the strength of a full-grown man. Begin with a gentle horse; and right here let me say that eight out of every ten horses you see are more or less gentle providing you treat them right.

But let me tell you Ivah's story. She had come down to the depot in a dear little phaeton, driving a black mare, to meet me as I got off the train. At first I thought she had prevailed upon her aunt to let her ride along with the child-like desire of being the first to greet me, but I soon saw that I was mistaken. I had hardly taken my seat beside her when she flicked the reins she held in her tiny hands and the black mare started off.

The turn to the main road was very short, but Ivah skillfully drew in her left rein and turned about without a break. It was so gracefully done that I could not for a time find words to express my admiration. I was completely dumfounded. But Ivah didn't seem to expect a compliment. She just gave the softest kind of a cluck and the black mare broke into a jog towards home.

Ivah kept her eyes ahead, and she also kept the middle of the road, which, by the way, are two very important things to do when you are driving a horse. In a few minutes we reached the house and Ivah—oh, I can't tell you how she did it—but she drove into the gateway, up to the dismounting platform and handed the reins to the groom. I lifted her out in my arms and gently stood her on the porch.

After dinner I talked with Ivah about horses. They had been to her what dolls and toys are to other children.

"Oh, I love horses," said Ivah, "and like Gracie, the black mare, best. I am not afraid of her a bit. I go into her stall and speak to her and she lets me play with her. I play with uncle's other horses, but I don't like them as well as Gracie."

Here was the secret of Ivah's command over horses. She had confidence in the animals and went up to them without fear.

"Gracie knows me and she nods her black head whenever I speak to her," continued the child. "I never say cross things to her. Uncle Sam told me to say 'Gee up' when I want Gracie to go, and she minds me like I mind auntie. When I want Gracie to stop I say 'Whoa,' and she stands still right away. If I want her to go one way I pull the rein and she goes, and when I want her to go the other way I pull the other rein."

This was Ivah's way of explaining the uses of the right and left reins, and I am sure you will understand her without any assistance from me.

In the first place, children, in order to command an animal you must show it that you have more intelligence than it has. This will soon give you the confidence of the animal. To do this you must walk boldly up to a horse and speak kindly to it. Don't be afraid, for if you are, the horse will always be timid and nervous when you approach it. If you put your full confidence in a horse it will return your trust and readily come to mind you. It will feel safe when you are about, and you can make it do just as you please, because it will think you will protect it from harm.

This is the only hard thing to learn about driving a horse; the rest is easy. All you will have to do is to follow the advice Uncle Sam gave to Ivah and you will have no trouble in managing a horse just as well as she does. I won't tell you who I am, because I am afraid that Ivah will call me a tattle-tale and let me walk from the station the next time I call on her Aunt Mal and her Uncle Sam.—N. Y. World.

A Good Way to Go.

A certain farmer had an orchard of very choice apple trees, which was often visited by youthful raiders, who were fonder of apples than of honesty. On one night, when the farmer was watching in a secluded spot for some of the suspected thieves, he was astonished to see, proceeding cautiously in the direction of his favorite apple trees, the well-known son of a neighbor.

"Hey, Jack," cried the farmer, in surprise, "where are ye goin' to, my lad?"

Jack stopped abruptly, in utter dismay. Then he turned and started for the gate. "Going back, sir," he shouted.—Harper's Young People.

"LIKE A FROST-BLIGHTED FLOWER,"

The fair young sufferer perishes, and often from causes unknown to the world, but superficial judgment, founded on appearances, takes this form of expression, "died of quick consumption," while in nine cases out of ten it should be, "died from carelessness." Mothers, look to your daughters. Daughters, look to yourselves.
